Testimonial dinner to honor Ed Ruby

EDWARD J. RUBY

Edward J. Ruby, who is retiring as director of the Springfield Recreation Department, will be honored at a testimonial dinner Oct. 27 at 7 p.m. at the Mountside Inn, it was announced this week.

Ruby is retiring after completing 22 years of service to the township of Springfield; the last 10 years spent as director of the Recreation Department.

Ruby was appointed to the post of director when the department was first established. Prior to that time, he served as superintendent of the Springfield Recreation Commission. During the past seven years, Ruby was also instrumental in the development of the Springfield municipal swimming pool.

Ruby is a veteran of World War I. He was an outstanding athlete at Batin High School in Elizabeth and at Syracuse University. He later played football for the Elizabeth Collegians, and became interested in coaching. He became affiliated with Jonathan Dayton Regional High School as an assistant coach from 1936 to 1937.

In 1937 Ruby was honored by the township when the new recreation facility on Caldwell place was named the Edward J. Ruby Park.

Preparations are being made to develop a perpetual scholarship fund in the name of Edward J. Ruby, the income from which will be presented annually to a graduating student at Jonathan Dayton Regional High School. Contributions are being accepted to inaugurate the fund.

Tickets for the testimonial dinner are available at $12.50 each and may be purchased at the offices of the Springfield Recreation Department at Sarah Ballew Civic Center, or through any of the following persons:

Township committee members: Arthur Eakin, master of ceremonies; ticket committee members: Walter Kozub, Jack Welner, Bob Halsey, Del Tompkins, Joe DiPalma, Frank LaMotta; publicity committee members: Vincent Piana, Ed Hoffert, Phil Kurnos; dinner committee members: Laura Roskams, Lillian Johnson, Vincent Piana; scholarship committee members: Scott Durlington, Phil Kurnos, Jack Williams, William Koons, Henry King, Herb Palmer and treasurer, Dave Brown.

Table reservations may be made through Mrs. Rosenbath, dinner committee chairman, of 35 Shirley rd., Springfield, 979-9997. Tickets have been purchased. Reservations must be made by Oct. 15.

Auction sponsored by local Republicans

An auction sponsored by the Springfield GOP County Committee will be held tomorrow evening at 8:30 at the Anderson Legion home.

There is no admission charge to the auction. Refreshments will be served. The hall is located on the north side of the township Municipal Building.

Fugitive sought after taking car from policeman

The search spread to Iowa this week for a gunman who took part in an attempted holdup last Thursday in Springfield, seized a police car at gunpoint for its escape and later abandoned the car in Union.

According to Springfield police, two armed men forced their way into the home of Alton Margules of 18 Avon rd., Springfield, last Thursday morning. They tied up Mrs. Margules and a cleaning woman.

Mrs. Margules had been talking on the phone with a neighbor, who became suspicious when the call was suddenly interrupted, and who reported the facts to police.

Lt. Thomas Kennedy was among the first to respond. He ran into the kitchen, where one man pointed an automatic at him and pulled the trigger, but the gun misfired. Kennedy then chased the man into the yard, where the bandit's gun again misfired, the report added. The man then entered when Kennedy fired over his head.

He was identified as Floren D. Foglia, 43, of Des Moines, Iowa, who told police he was a

Del Vecchio details program to deal with causes of floods

Mayor Philip Del Vecchio, Republican candidate for reelection to the Springfield Township Committee, in a statement this week said: "One of the few remaining major problems facing the township is a solution to its recurring flooding in the north end of town."

Springfield is not alone in this problem, either, said the mayor. "Flooding has created havoc in many North Jersey towns, and I'm pleased to see Springfield taking care of the few towns who are doing something to control this problem."

The mayor continued by stating, "Under prior Democratic administrations, it was the practice to allow large developers to discharge the increased storm water runoff directly into the nearest stream or existing storm sewer, whether they were adequate or not. This runoff, of course, ran ultimately into the Rahway River which was already in peak flood stages, causing back-ups into Springfield streets.

"Starting in 1960, the Republican administration changed this policy by demanding that large developers install adequate storm sewers on their own property, thus to carry the heavy storm water runoff into the Rahway River, until such time as the flood-

Parade to mark 20th birthday for Aid Squad

The Springfield First Aid Squad will celebrate the 20th anniversary of its service to the town on Saturday.

Joining in the celebration will be squads and ambulances from Avon, Berkeley Heights, Union, Clark, Cranford, Danellen, Flemington, Garwood, Hillside, Ironbound (Newark), Lakeside, Elizabeth, Metuchen Township, Rahway, St. John's (Ford's), Vailsburg (Newark) and Winfield. Those marching will be accompanied by the music of the Bonton Harmony Band.

The parade will start at 1 p.m. from the Squad House and then proceed via Center street east on Morris avenue, then south on Noland avenue, west on Milltown road, crossing on Stumpick road to Mountain avenue, then north on Mountain avenue ending back at the Squad house, where the townspeople have been invited to attend ceremonies which will begin at 3. Refreshments will follow.

The squad originated in March, 1949 and started actual service in October of that year with 13 members. The roster now lists 43 members.

They had headquarters in the Town Hall, until their own building was built and dedicated in November, 1956. The Ladies Auxiliary originated in September, 1954, to raise money and help the squad where needed.

The first year of service they totaled 175 calls, and in 1966 the squad answered 667 calls. The total of calls answered from October, 1949, to the end of 1966 was 9,134, of which 5,730 were emergencies.

The squad now operated with two air-conditioned Cadillac ambulances, a 1965 white model and a 1968 two-tone brown model.

Field officers are: Robert Voorhes, captain; Dan Klein, first lieutenant; Rudy Force, second lieutenant; Martin Bremer, supply sergeant.

Concerned citizens ask about action on flooding

The need for action to combat the town's recurring floods was the major item of discussion, as it has been many times through the summer, at the Township Committee meeting Tuesday night at Town Hall.

Several housewives from Garden oval, comprising perhaps half of the audience of a citizens' meeting, expressed their concern over delays in obtaining specific action.

One of them, Mrs. Mary Sklar, said that she had been promised the town's detailed plan for remedial action would be ready by Sept. 15. "It has been a year in the works," she said. "I'm afraid the town is getting too relaxed about this. It's not at all relaxed every time it starts to rain."

Mayor Philip Del Vecchio replied that the report by the town's engineering consultant would be completed in another few days, as soon as some technical drawings are completed, as soon as they are done, he said, "we will get the cost of our portion of the job and draw up an ordinance to appropriate the money."

He disclosed that a meeting is planned with the local property owners concerned on Oct. 8 so that the township can begin acquiring land on the right of way of both branches of Bryant Creek. This step is needed before work can start in dredging widening the creekbed.

"The flood problem," Del Vecchio added, "is definitely the number one priority for the township administration."

"We are all interested in your progress," Mrs. Sklar said. "We hope you are moving as fast as possible. Pressure must be brought to bear, all the way up."

AGREING WITH her comment, the committee members urged that all concerned citizens write personal letters to state and federal officials who might be able to expedite road work.

They particularly mentioned George W. Shanklin, director and chief engineer, Division of Water, Pottery and Supply.

Stokes: Recreation program needs guidance, organization

Nat Stokes, Democratic candidate for Township Committee, this week called for a reorganization of Springfield's recreational facilities. He proposed coordination between the school system's physical education department personnel and the township's recreation department.

At present Springfield has a "paper program" in recreation, Stokes claimed. He laid the blame on the lack of coordinated use of all the facilities available in town. He asked why the recreation department does not fully use high school varsity coaches to offer instruction in coaching to the parents who serve as Little League coaches, for example. Particularly singled out for criticism was what he termed a failure of the recreation department to properly organize and publicize its programs.

The statement follows: "Springfield has a marvelous recreational program on paper. In actual practice, it is under-staffed, under-organized and woefully under the standards our town should have. Being a former recreation teacher and having a degree in the area, I know what a recreation program can be, and I know what ours is. While it is most impressive when written out, it is quite ineffective in practice."

"The major ingredient missing from the program is direct participation and supervision on the part of the recreation department."

ON-SITE INSPECTION - Mayor Philip Del Vecchio, left, Republican candidate for reelection to the Township Committee, joins Congressman Henry J. Bulman in examining one of the culverts which have led to local flood problems.

Town's new voters must be registered by 9 this evening

The League of Women Voters of Springfield this week reminded residents that today is the final day to register or record a change of address - in time to vote in the upcoming general election.

The place to register is the office of the township clerk in the Municipal Building and the hours for registration are from 9 a.m. until 9 p.m.

"Call the telephone information service of the League of Women Voters of New Jersey if you want an explanation of the bond proposal on the ballot this November or if you do not understand the other two ballot questions," Mrs. Herbert Forman, president of the Springfield league, declared.

"The League will also be happy to provide nonpartisan information about the gubernatorial election," she continued. "Just call the League in Montclair at 746-1465 any weekday from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m., between now and Nov. 4 for advice about registration, absentee ballots, military service ballots, polling hours or any pertinent election question that you might have."

"Informed, active citizenship is the purpose of the League. The telephone information service is one more step toward encouraging citizens to take an active part in their government," Mrs. Forman stated.

UNSAFE AT THE PLATE - Nat Stokes, Democratic candidate for Township Committee, points to hole in the baseball backstop at DeWitt Field. Stokes calls broken timber supports and protruding wire ends a hazard to players, calling for constant maintenance of athletic facilities.

Y exhibits works by 3 artists

An exhibition of the art of Rhoda Kaplan, Ingrid Hoffer, and Gella Lovit, all teachers in the Summit YWCA's art classes, is currently on display at the YWCA.

All three artists are well known in the field. Mrs. Kaplan's works have been exhibited in juried shows at the Montclair Museum.

Mrs. Hoffer has exhibited at many juried art shows and is currently director of the American Art Week for the American Artists' Professional League.

Mrs. Lovit has studied abroad and privately with Al-Bross, Jr., Pauline Lorenz, John Grabach, Adolf Konrad, and Nicholas Reale.

Registrations are currently open for the YWCA's art classes being taught by the exhibitors.

Music and art mix: Picture of harmony

The advanced art (Art 4) classes and the music appreciation and music theory classes will visit the Metropolitan Museum of Art, New York City, Tuesday, to study the correlation between contemporary music and art.

Falkin assails Dems, reviews history of swimming pool improvement plans

"Is it possible to overdo a good thing?" Recreation Commissioner Arthur M. Falkin, this week commented in relation to a Democratic campaign projection which recently appeared in the Leader. Falkin, who has been active in Springfield recreation for 12 years and watched the program from its inception, declared, "Yes, even too much recreation can give you a stomach-ache."

"In addition," Falkin stated, "I must point out, that there is nothing new in the projection. What the article in the Leader indicated is a rehash of ideas that have been handed about since the concept of the municipal pool was put over and, I might point out, by the same administration that now governs Springfield. Mayor Phil Del Vecchio was in the forefront of the pool effort and he is still very much involved in the advanced recreation plans in Springfield today."

support necessary for its maintenance. At that time only a recreation and social facility was contemplated. Although an indoor pool was considered, the anticipated initial cost and the membership fee that would be necessary would have made the cost prohibitive.

"A master plan for the development of the remaining acreage at the pool includes developing the balance of the property. Sufficient funds are available to complete the filling of the area. In 1967, I advanced a plan for a day-camp facility that would be self-sufficient, in that only parents who place their children in the camp would be assessed for its operation."

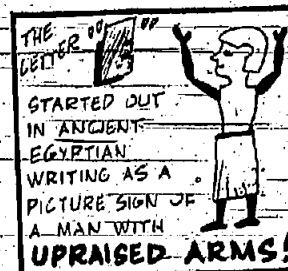

"The general consensus indicated that they did not feel that this property should be used to benefit such a limited number of people. The Township Committee is now going ahead with the plan to landscape the area and develop additional recreation facilities for the pool members."

"The concept of an indoor swim pool was explored originally. It was found that a building of sufficient size to house the pool would cost more than the entire facility as it now stands. There is no question in my mind," Falkin continued, "that an indoor pool would be nice to have, but even though I have often been accused of being too recreation-minded, I could not advocate such a facility now. As a member of the Township Committee for eight years, I have refused to put each requirement of the town in its proper perspective, and to advocate the construction of an indoor pool at this time when our voters recently defeated a referendum for the expansion of the high school, which to my thinking is most necessary at this time, would not be feasible."

"TO ADVOCATE a luxury of this nature before we care for the pressing needs of the community's flood control problem would be frivolous," Mayor Del Vecchio recently released a projection which indicated that Springfield's share of the overall program for flood control could run as high as $1,500,000. "I feel that this program deserves priority over any other expenditure in our township today, and it is my sincere hope that it will continue to be so into the future," Falkin concluded, without substantiation, and at least create the impression that much thought was given to the plan. "Nothing new has been offered to the public, and the rehashed ideas that were advanced do not warrant serious consideration at this time," Falkin stated.

"I would point out, to those who seek to advance the recreation program in Springfield, the right way to bring about improvements—let's take the Sarah Batley Civic Center as an example. From the time a new library was decided upon, the idea of converting the old building into a civic center was advanced. With the assistance of a citizens committee the plans were formulated. "With a total outlay of $6,000 the conversion of the building was accomplished with the assistance of the greatest bunch of teenagers anywhere in the world. "Springfield's recreation program is not based on how much money we can spend, but rather how much personal involvement we can generate. Ours is not a dollar-a-dollar program but rather a people-by-people program, and it is my sincere hope that it will continue to be so into the future," Falkin concluded.

FRIDAY DEADLINE
All items other than spot news should be in our office by noon on Friday.

"Springfield's approach to recreation has been to anticipate the needs of a growing community, and to exert necessary leadership in programming and facilities to meet the desires of the people."

"When the Municipal Pool was projected," Falkin continued, "there were many people who thought that such a facility would not go over. Acting upon the recommendation of a citizens committee, the Township Committee took the necessary steps to bring about the construction of the pool. Although the full faith and credit of the township is pledged to support the bonds for the pool, the cost projection was such that the committee felt it could be operated on a self-sufficient basis, and this has proved to be the case."

"FOUR YEARS AGO, a committee was appointed to investigate the construction of a new town civic and athletic center, using the pool as a nucleus. This committee reported back favorably. However, when a survey of the community was made by that group, it was found that it would not receive the type of support necessary for its maintenance. At that time only a recreation and social facility was contemplated. Although an indoor pool was considered, the anticipated initial cost and the membership fee that would be necessary would have made the cost prohibitive.

Memorial General announces election of three to board

Three Union County executives have been elected to the board of trustees of Memorial General Hospital, Union, William Pace, president of the Schering Corp., Union, Charles P. Woodward, executive vice-president of the Epicures Club of Union, and C. Gordon Miller, president of Miller Pontiac-Cadillac Corp. of Rahway, are the new directors.

Pace, who lives in Morristown, is vice-president of manufacturing and engineering for domestic operation at the Union pharmaceutical company. He is chairman of the production and engineering section of the Pharmaceutical Manufacturers Association. Pace is a graduate of the University of Cincinnati.

A resident of Westfield, Woodward has been with the Epicures Club for 19 years. A graduate of the Colorado School of Mines, he is a veteran of service as a naval aviator in World War II. Woodward is vice-president and treasurer of the Suburban Golf Club of Union, past president of the Manufacturers Association of Union and past treasurer of the Washington Rock Girl Scout Council.

Miller has been president and general manager of the automobile dealership bearing his name since 1955. He lives in Rahway. His organizational affiliations include membership in the Elks Club, Rahway Sidewinders and the Colonia Country Club. Miller also is a member of the Automotive Old Timers, the New Jersey State Auto Association and the Union County State Auto Association.

County leaders see need to expand programs at UC, technical institute

Union County civic, political, industrial, educational and religious leaders see a need for expanded educational opportunities at Union College, Cranford, and Union County Technical Institute, Scotch Plains, according to the results of a survey released this week by the Union County Coordinating Agency for Higher Education.

The study was made by Dr. Kenneth C. MacKay, executive director of the Agency. Dr. MacKay said the survey of 1,000 Union County leaders in all 21 municipalities indicates they feel there is a need for additional programs and courses in various technologies, management, business and banking, group and social relations, computer training and Automobile Dealers, which he once served as president. He is also a former president of the General Motors Club of New York. Miller, who served as a field director of the American National Red Cross during World War II, was awarded a citation by President Truman for his service.

In Rahway, Miller has also been president of the board of adjustment, chairman of the Boy Scout fund drive, and president and campaign chairman of the United Fund. He also has been a member of the board of managers of Marlboro State Hospital and the board of trustees of the New Jersey State Mental Health Association.

data processing, psychology and sociology, nursing and health services, and languages. "Most of the technologies (and there is a broad spectrum of these) which have been suggested merit consideration at the technical institute," Dr. MacKay said. "The various programs in management, science, languages, challenge Union College. Many of the suggestions for additional remedial work or in community-related services, or in nursing and paramedical studies are broad enough to command the attention of both institutions."

"The executive director of the coordinating agency said the two institutions utilized by the agency are already giving attention to many of the areas mentioned in the survey or have programs under study and consideration.

"WITH SOME LICENSURE, WE HAVE grouped together under group and social relations what appears at first as a rather disparate collection but actually all of them appear to have in common an anxious concern that something be done so that our people can live together in understanding and mutual respect," Dr. MacKay said. "These concerns are too important to be ignored. These small subgroups down near the bottom of the list."

Included in Group and Social Relations were such areas as community relations, black studies, government training, social studies, religion and law enforcement.

Both from what has been said in the replies and out of what has been left unsaid, we can deduce that our two institutions have the support of the citizens of Union County as they extend the opportunities of education beyond high school and that those of us in education should endeavor through assiduous communication with the people of the county to keep abreast of needs in the rapidly changing years ahead," Dr. MacKay said.

The Union County Coordinating Agency for Higher Education was formed in November, 1968. It has signed contracts with Union College to provide university parallel programs and with Union County Technical Institute to provide technical and occupation-oriented programs. James S. Avery of Scotch Plains, an executive of the Humble Oil and Refining Company, is chairman of the Agency and Edward C. Wetzlar of Summit, a partner of Merrill Lynch, Pierce, Fenner & Smith, is vice chairman, and Mrs. Ann M. Grygolis of Linden is secretary-treasurer.

UC picks Villano as evening director of campus center

Michael B. Villano of 1400 Thelma Terrace, Linden, has been appointed to the newly created post of evening director of the Union College Campus Center, Cranford. It was announced this week by Prof. Elmer Wolf, acting dean.

As director, Villano will supervise activities of the some-900 students enrolled in the evening session of Union College. He will also be concerned with the development of extra-curricular programs for evening students. Villano is a senior sociology and economics teacher at Linden High School. He is a graduate of Jersey City State College where he also earned a master of arts degree in social studies education.

He is supervisor and advisor to a number of extra-curricular activities at Linden High School and is a member of the New Jersey Football Officials Association. He also serves as an official for junior and senior high school baseball and basketball games.

Villano played varsity football and basketball at St. Michael's High School, Union City, and was active in organized sports while serving with the U.S. Army in Germany.

Human Relations Lab gets under way Oct. 10

Des. Henoch and Neal W. Clapp will conduct a "Human Relations Laboratory," beginning Oct. 10, as a part of the Educational Center at the Educational Society, 516 Prospect St., Maplewood. The laboratory will begin with a weekend of intensive sensitivity training and then proceed beyond self-awareness to inter-group relations, they said.

Through the examination of human relations the course will endeavor to facilitate the students' participation in the community and formation of constructive relations with other ethnic and racial groups, the instructors added. Emphasis will be placed on social action and change.

Mrs. Henoch and Clapp are both currently Ph.D. candidates in human relations at New York University and are colleagues in the Institute for Group Relations, a non-profit organization for human relations consultation for school systems, urban programs and job corps situations. Mrs. Henoch is professor of communications and drama at Bloomfield College and is a consultant for the Urban Institute of Montclair College. Clapp, an independent consultant for various business and government agencies, will be a guest lecturer at Bloomfield College this fall.

A brochure on this and other humanistic and creative arts workshop courses, is available by calling 50-3-1905. Educational Center is a non-profit school offered as a community service.

Benefits also help the young

Is Social Security just "retirement insurance?"

Ralph W. Jones, district manager of the Elizabeth Social Security Office, emphasized this week that it certainly is much more than just a "retirement insurance."

The younger worker contributing to Social Security is actually paying for four types of insurance protection. They are:

- Disability insurance for himself and family, if he should become disabled.
- Survivors insurance for his family, if he should die.
- Retirement insurance for himself and wife at age 62 or over, and for any qualified children.
- Prepaid health insurance (Medicare) for himself and wife beginning with age 65.

Any person working and paying into Social Security is buying "protection" as he does with many types of private insurance.

A booklet "Social Security Information for Young Families" is available free of charge from the Social Security office at 268 North Broad St., Elizabeth, telephone 351-3200.

Become part owner of a Multimillion dollar bank.

By any standards, The First State Bank of Union is no ordinary bank. Though only 16 years old, its assets are already well in excess of $56,000,000. This represents a phenomenal rate of growth. And a unique investment opportunity. You are invited to participate in this financial phenomenon. And share the profits of its growth in the years to come.

New issue is limited
In order to finance the establishment of several new branch offices in New Providence, Clark and Middlesex, and overall expansion of its operations, The First State Bank of Union is issuing a limited number of common stock shares as of October 1, 1969. Since the issue will total only 40,000 shares, it is expected that there will be little stock available. Our current stockholders have first preference in purchasing this issue.

Unusually rapid rate of growth
The First State Bank's growth picture is nothing short of amazing. The bank was organized in 1953. Today, its assets total well over $56 million. In the last 2 years, our resources increased by 38%. In 1968, our deposits increased by nearly $8 million. It is anticipated that our growth in 1969 will be even greater, with assets estimated to reach $60 million. To a large extent, our success is attributable to our willingness to invest in the business and people of Union County and its environs.

Earnings and dividend prospects
Our earnings record has shown a continuous increase over the years. The rate of return on average Capital and Surplus Accounts in 1968 was 10.84% after taxes. This compares with earnings of 9.80% on Capital Accounts in 1967.

Earnings overall in 1968 were $1.27 per share after taxes. The Management anticipates that earnings will be much higher in 1969.

Cash dividends of $95 per share were paid in 1968 on old shares. In October 1968 the bank's stock was split 2-for-1. This brought stock dividends paid to 120% since 1967! A very strong dividend record indeed.

The chart above shows how First State Bank has continued to expand over the years. Now that we are able to open offices in other counties, our rate of growth should be even greater.

Growth stock in a growth area
The picture is clear. The First State Bank's home counties of Union and Middlesex are growing rapidly, due in large part to the influx of so many big corporations and manufacturing enterprises. This, in turn, has attracted thousands of wage earners and home owners.

A similar pattern holds true for most of the other counties in District H. And nothing can supply a bank with a greater impetus for growth than being located in an economically "booming" community.

A growth bank in a growth area often results in a growth stock. This has certainly been the record of First State Bank common stock to date. And with the bank's growth performance and potential in mind, this stock is considered to be a very good buy.

When and how to acquire your shares
Now is the time to obtain stock in First State Bank, since shares will not always be available.

For more information about the bank or specific instructions on how to acquire your shares, call Mrs. Nancy Minette at 686-4800. She will be glad to help you out.

NATURAL POISONS
The smog hanging over our cities and pollutants filling our streams are beginning to cloud our vision so much that many of us are forgetting the hazards that Nature herself adds to our environment.
But these hazards are not completely escaping notice. One group concerned with some of the natural poisons is a part of the National Institute of Environmental Health Sciences at Research Triangle Park, North Carolina.
Certain fungi growing in some of our foods or in the eggs that sustain food-supplying animals, produce poisons that can have a wide range of effects. These poisons are called mycotoxins.
During the siege of Moscow, Russians found out just how dangerous these culprits can be. After food became scarce, miller left in the fields at harvest time had to be used to make bread. The freezing and thawing of the miller lying on the ground had created just the right conditions for mycotoxin production by grain molds. Many people who ate the bread became ill and died.
Farmers in this country know the effects of mycotoxins too. Some farmers' herds of cattle and swine have suffered a high rate of sterility. This sterility that could bring economic disaster to the farmers has in some cases been traced to normal activity of mycotoxins produced by molds in stock feed.
This contamination raises other problems. Animals that are sterile may be shipped to market. Are these toxin-carrying animals fit for human consumption? And what about the animals in which exposure to poisons does not produce sterility but whose milk contains the toxins?
The fact that mycotoxins exist is well known, but it is evident that there are many questions yet to be answered about these natural poisons. Scientists want to find out which molds produce which poisons, what are the effects of different toxins in humans, which foods and feeds are the best hosts for mold growth, what conditions encourage and even are necessary for toxin production, and what are the effects of fungi-cides on the production of toxins.
Researchers at NIEHS, a part of the National Institutes of Health, are trying to answer some of these questions. One team is studying the effects of toxins of the fungus species Alternaria which grows on apples, tomatoes, tobacco, and other common plants.
Also being studied are aflatoxins—a type of mycotoxin that is highly poisonous and can cause cancer of the liver in some laboratory animals. Systematic research efforts—such as the ones at NIEHS—will provide much information about the nature and effects of these natural contaminants. Information gained may determine whether certain fungi produce substances that may be poisonous, genetically harmful, or cancer-causing in man. This knowledge could provide a logical basis for safety measures to keep such poisons from being part of the food supply of man.

Toolmakers plan exhibit
Senator Manly J. Rimoldo of Essex County will announce at the ribbon-cutting ceremony for the eighth annual Tool and Manufacturing Exhibition on Oct. 8 and 9 from 5 to 10 p.m. at the Westfield Armory, 500 Rahway ave., Westfield.
Joseph Michalek, president of the American Society of Tool and Manufacturers and guest of honor, No. 14, has announced that Freeholder Edward Tiller of Union County will also take part in the opening ceremonies.
The purpose of the 100-month educational seminar is to give the members and opportunity to display their products to the northern New Jersey manufacturing community including colleges, technical and vocational schools.

Adult lipreading classes planned
Registrations are being taken for morning and evening adult lipreading classes sponsored by the Plainfield Hearing Society.
Tuesday morning classes will meet in the Plainfield YMCA from 10:30 to 11:30. Wednesday evening classes will be held in Plainfield Adult School in Plainfield High School from 7:30 to 8:30, beginning Oct. 1.
Further information concerning either class may be obtained from the Plainfield Hearing Society, 518 Watchung ave., Plainfield. There is no charge for the course.

5,478 at Regional schools; Davis calls it 'overcrowding'

Total enrollment in the four high schools of the Union County Regional High School District has increased to 5,478 after the first three weeks of classes. It was announced this week by Dr. Warren M. Davis, superintendent.
Dr. Davis noted that this figure is slightly above the estimates made before the opening of school. He said the enrollment figures show an increase of 200 over the last school year.
"All the schools are showing the effects of overcrowding," he said. "A more graphic description of the overcrowding would be to say that, using this latest enrollment figure, the four high schools are at least 953 students over the standard maximum capacity. In fact, each school is over capacity, no matter what auxiliary you use, that of our planning consultant or the New Jersey State Educational Department."

A breakdown of enrollment in the schools shows: Arthur L. Johnson Regional High School, Clark, 1,558; Gov. Livingston Regional High School, Berkeley Heights, 1,569; David Brearley Regional High School, Kean/Warrenton, Springfield, 1,252.
"In order to maintain quality education in the district and meet this continued growth in student population, the Board of Education is planning a building program to meet the enrollment increase through the mid-70s," Dr. Davis said.
He said the enrollment figures show that the district's projections are just about correct. He added that more than 6,000 students are expected to be enrolled in the district by 1975.

Physicians are invited

Members of the medical profession who practice within a 50-mile radius of Manhattan have been invited to see "A Special Kind of Care," a film dramatization of services provided by Cancer Care, Inc. of the National Cancer Foundation.
Co-sponsored by the New York Academy of Medicine, 5 E. 10th St., New York, the screening will take place there Thursday, Oct. 2 at 6 p.m. The 24-minute film illustrates the specialized services available to advanced cancer patients and to the families who care for them at home.
The Cancer Care, Inc. film demonstrates the role of the case worker - counselor in increasing strengths of parents and children during a time of crisis. It shows how the professional assists a troubled family and can make arrangements for homemaker service, or, in one-out-of-two cases, by mental, financial, supplemental financial grants. The organization served some 14,000 individuals in the middle income group last year who live in New York, New Jersey and Connecticut.
At the conclusion of the film, a discussion will be led by Dr. George G. Reader, a member of the board of trustees of Cancer Care, Inc., who is professor of medicine, New York Hospital-Cornell University Medical Center and a member of the advisory committee of the Regional Medical Program. A cocktail reception will follow.

Woman driver cut in 3-car accident

Rt. 22 west was the scene of a three-car collision last Wednesday. According to Mountaintide police, a car driven by Dennis Klein, 23, of Bernardsville, lost the use of its brakes, swerved across the left lane of the highway and struck a car driven by Virginia Niebling, 58, of Westfield, in the right side. The car then veered back across the road and hit the rear of a car driven by Stanley E. Russ, 60, of Rahway.
Mrs. Niebling sustained a series of cuts on her legs as a result of the accident, according to the police report, but will consult her own physician. The Russ car suffered complete damage to the front and the gas tank. The previous Sunday, a car driven by Jim Guy, 30, of Colonial Heights, Va., was struck in the rear end by a vehicle operated by Ronald Duckett, 17, of Garwood. Mrs. Ann Guy, 37, a passenger in the struck car, complained of pain, according to the police, but suffered no visible injuries.

Showing of NASA film planned by Men's Club

The official NASA motion picture of the flight of Apollo XI will be shown at the season's first "dessert-coffee" to be held by the Men's Club of Westfield's Temple Emmanuel at 7 p.m. Sept. 28.
The 25-minute color film includes film shot by the astronauts and not previously shown. It will be followed by dessert and coffee. The program is open to Men's Club members, their wives and children.

NSC honor students

Two Mountaintide residents were named to the dean's list at Newark State College, Union, at a convocation Sept. 16. They were Caroline Mazur of 175 Sunrise Parkway and Patricia Bottes of 1334 Hunter Circle.

Red Cross youth back from meeting

Charles Horner, 14-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert G. Horner of 1575 Brookside rd., Mountaintide, has returned after serving as the Red Cross youth delegate to the Youth Leadership Center at Reddie School in Hightstown. Each year delegates are selected from each chapter in the area.
Their theme this year was "encounter with the assignment" to act and learn throughout the week that they will become more effective in their service.
As a guest at a recent Westfield-Mountaintide Red Cross meeting, he presented a resume of his experiences.

U.S. Congresswoman FLORENCE P. DWYER

Reports

Like a healthy young tree whose roots must be buried in the soil from which it obtains its nourishment, an effective Congress must constantly renew its contact with those from whom it receives its power and authority and legitimacy — the people.

This rather fundamental principle was strikingly confirmed, for me at least, by the late-August Congressional recess from which we returned recently. In every sense, it was truly the pause that refreshes — the opportunity to shift gears, to escape the sometimes artificial and unreal world of official Washington, to see the faces and hear the voices once again of the people for whom this institution exists.

It came at just the right time: following closely the extensive round of hearings, investigations, and study which precedes committee action on major legislation and immediately before the numerous important legislative decisions Congress must make in the next three or four months, decisions on taxes, military spending, social security and on the way we elect our Presidents and Vice Presidents.

IT WAS ALSO the first occasion since last December for most members of Congress to spend more than a very few days at a time back home in the districts we represent. As such, it confirmed for me the wisdom of the decision which Congressional leaders made for the first time early this year, the decision to recognize the inevitability of year-long sessions of Congress and schedule in advance several years been pressing the leadership to do just this, both to allow for consultations between representatives and the represented and to permit younger Congressmen to arrange for rare but important vacations with their families.

However one chose to spend this time, it could not help but be refreshing and restorative — close to, away at home and the change was strikingly apparent — not only in the physical sense of leaving the heavily circumscribed official environment of Washington for the more open, more relaxed, and less formal atmosphere of suburban New Jersey, but especially in the more direct and candid way in which the big issues were faced and discussed by the people most directly affected.

It may be unavoidable, but the bureaucratic system with which Congress must constantly deal and from which we pick up some undesirable habits is frustratingly indirect and ambiguous. It emphasizes the complexities of issues rather than the need for solutions. It thrives on the perpetuation of problems rather than their resolution. By seeing issues as continuing in nature and as multi-faceted and interrelated in character, bureaucracies too often tend to postpone action or prolong the status quo — to the evident concern and displeasure of the people back home.

AND PEOPLE ARE concerned today — more, perhaps, or more openly, than I can recall being true in the past. They're concerned about problems which threaten them directly, problems which so far haven't yielded to conventional bureaucratic remedies, problems which could become far more destructive unless effective action is taken soon.

Based on literally hundreds of personal conversations with people throughout my district, these are the problems which most disturb them: the continuation of the war in Vietnam, high prices and interest rates, high taxes, and inadequate Social Security. Of the four, concern with our position and policy in Vietnam is clearly dominant. The remaining three are so closely related and so directly affected by our Vietnamese involvement that they are basically one, the problem of too little money to meet too many demands, personally and nationally.

BUT LET ME DEAL with them one by one:

1. Vietnam. Distillation of the war in Southeast Asia — its killing, its cost, its disruption, its damage to our economy and our pride and self-respect — has gone so far that today there are no longer any hawks or doves. Today, there are just people who are deeply sick and tired of the whole thing and who yearn to get out. Reasons differ, of course. Some believe we could have won the war militarily. Others contend that Western wars on the Asian mainland can never be won. While still others insist we never had a right to be there in the first place. But all are united — or nearly all — in believing that our present course is fruitless and that we can't or won't or shouldn't do more.

So far, many opponents of the war are still inclined to credit President Nixon for wanting and trying to end the war. They continue to give this Administration the benefit of the doubt — but, inevitably, the doubt is growing. They are struck — as I am — with the senselessness of prolonging a war that cannot be won, with the brutality of death when the cause and purpose have all but withered away, with the poverty of spirit of imagination or commitment which has lost opportunities to negotiate earlier and more effectively.

In this context, therefore, I am particularly encouraged by what I think I see as a growing interest in achieving a mutual and enforceable ceasefire as an essential precondition to ending the war, stopping the fighting, and resolving the political issues. As a long-time proponent of such a ceasefire, and as one who has urged two Administrations now to explore more creatively the opportunities for a ceasefire, I suggest that the death of Ho Chi Minh may be the time to move as vigorously as possible toward this goal.

2. HIGH PRICES. On street corners, in their living rooms, over the telephone, and especially in their supermarkets, prices are on people's minds — prices that steadily go up and seldom come down, prices that reduce their standard of living and deny them some of the basic necessities of life, prices that seem impervious to all efforts to bring them down.

People are being hurt by high prices and interest rates. And at the lower end of the income spectrum, that hurt is generating fear. But at almost every level below the very rich, the pinch is being felt. It's harder to send one's children to college. It's a major burden to invest in a new house. It's more and more difficult to feed one's own family, particularly if meat is a staple food.

People recognize that Congress and the Administration have been trying, that high interest rates, higher taxes, and reduced Government spending are designed to relieve economic pressures, to discourage excessive investment, to stop competition for scarce funds, and thereby bring prices down. But where are the results, they ask. Why haven't these measures taken effect? And, more and more, they indicate a willingness to consider wage and price controls as a last desperate step to protect themselves against inflation.

3. HIGH TAXES. People's attitudes toward taxes are so similar to their feelings about prices as to be almost indistinguishable — with these differences: they don't feel they're getting what they should for the dollar they pay to federal, state and local governments. They're right. And this, as I've emphasized time after time, is one of our greatest challenges: to organize our purposes and administer our programs so as to achieve maximum results at minimum cost.

4. Social Security. Unless you are in the position yourself, it must be impossible to imagine fully the exorable and mounting fear generated by rising prices when you're old and dependent largely on Social Security. For Social Security has not moved with prices. It has remained at levels inadequate three years ago. Here, the pinch has become a gouge, a deep decline in the marginal existence of people on low and fixed incomes. And every time the phone rings, I can hear the fear in their voices.

They were pleased, they tell me, to read of my efforts to get action on legislation raising Social Security benefits and living benefit levels in the future to the cost of living. But in the meantime, they can't buy food or the medicine or the clothes or transportation they need. The last days of each month are the worst — scrimping, stretching, sacrificing. Congress must act now.

Assemblyman Irwin honored by 400 at testimonial dinner

More than 400 "Friends of Charlie Irwin" supported his re-election as Assemblyman-at-Large of Union County at a testimonial dinner last Friday at Wieland's Steak House, Mountaintop.

Among those attending were U.S. Senator Clifford P. Case, county officers and freeholders and assemblymen from Union County. The principal speaker was Arthur Lane, a former federal judge and now general counsel for Johnson & Johnson and chairman of Citizens for Cahill, Nelson-Gross, Republican State Chairman, who was also present.

Former Judge Lane said, "I rarely have I seen a man in public office with the verve and drive of Charles Irwin who also has the extensive and varied background, making him particularly well suited to represent the people of his county."

Assemblyman Irwin devoted much of his talk to the question of law and order and said he was concerned with "the ever expanding tentacles of organized crime." He said "there was no relationship between public corruption and members of organized crime which can be an 'acceptable' relationship." He said that "any attorney that represents any such individual, must remove himself as an avail-

Lan charges GOP using 'half-truths' in 1969 campaign

Donald Lan, Democratic municipal chairman supporting Nat Stokes' bid for Township committee, this week called upon his Republican counterpart, "to conduct the 1969 campaign with complete facts rather than half-truths."

Lan's statement referred to comments attributed to Mayor Phillip Del Vecchio, billed as a GOP achievement of the impossible.

Lan stated, "The Springfield electorate is too sophisticated to buy less than the full story."

"Why is it that Mrs. Del Vecchio didn't fully reveal the delicate negotiations with the Houdelle Quarry?"

"Why is it that he hasn't revealed to the Leader and the public that in removing the deed restriction on the Sarah Bally Civic Center that $12,000 in costs were buried in the budget under 'aid to hospitals'?"

"Why is it when he refers to the municipal pool that he fails to state that his imaginative project was initiated under a Democratic administration and brought to fruition by the citizens' committee it had appointed."

"Mr. Del Vecchio will have to stand on his record, but when reciting this record to the public, the full details should be reported to the public."

"This is a year for change in Springfield, and while I am most anxious for Nat Stokes and Marie Smith to be elected to the Township Committee and tax collector's office, respectively, I want them elected based upon their full story, dedication, change and community involvement."

McCormick names Sargenti manager

Armando Sargenti of Mountainside has been appointed divisional manager for metropolitan N.Y. and northern N.J. for McCormick and Co., Inc., Baltimore-based international producer of spices, flavoring extracts and other food products, according to an announcement by David B. Michels, director of sales, McCormick Division.

Sargenti has been district sales manager in northern N.J. for the past 14 years. Before becoming associated with McCormick in 1951, he had been with Seeman Bros. in New York City as merchandising salesman and, previously, with Campanella Food Market in North Bergen, as grocery manager. Sargenti was born in Manhattan, was graduated from the High School of Commerce in New York City, and attended New York University.

2-car collision injures 5 people

Last Saturday a two-car collision in which five persons were injured occurred at the intersection of Morris and Metzel avenues, Springfield, according to a Springfield police accident report.

The accident took place when a car driven by William Blount, 45, of Millburn crossed over the yellow line on Springfield avenue and struck a second car driven by John Jones, 17, of Irvington.

Jones and the passengers in his car suffered minor injuries, according to the police report. The passengers were Kathy Orr, 17, of North Plainfield; James Orcutt, 18, of Brighton Beach; Eileen Martin, 16, of Newark, and Ellen Douga, 16, of Union.

The injured persons were taken to Overlook Hospital in Summit by the Springfield Fire Aid Squad. At the hospital, they were treated for minor bruises and abrasions and later released.

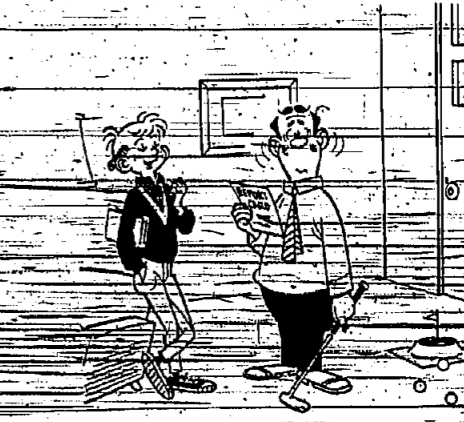

Blount was issued a summons for drunken driving by the Springfield police.

'Superfinishes' durable for home-type furniture

"Superfinishes" is a new term that furniture buyers need to know and understand, reports Carolyn F. Yuknus, Senior Country Home Economist. They are being used on case goods as well as on upholstery fabrics. As a consumer it is important to know what these finishes are, what they will do, and what upkeep is required.

Superfinishes have been around in the commercial trade for some time. Now they are being applied to home-type furniture to be sold to home and apartment dwellers.

Much of the research for the use of superfinishes has been the joint effort of major finish-material manufacturers and testing laboratories under the Fine Hardwoods Association sponsorship.

This association has developed a special label for the identification of superfinish surfaces, for the consumer. After a finish is tested and approved, the manufacturer may use this label on the furniture to which it is applied. The certification text in the label will point out any limitations of the finish.

Tests that the superfinishes are subjected to include solvents, stains, impact, burns, heat, and scratches. Resistance to these hazards reflects the performance to be expected from everyday use.

In the home, impact damage is the result of dropping an ashtray, silverware or other objects on the exposed surface of wood. Scratching usually results when sharp or ragged objects are drawn across the surface.

Chemical damage is tested by checking the resistance to common household products such as water, alcohol, fingernail polish removers, detergents, cleaners and bleaches.

Staining compounds used in testing superfinishes include mustard, ketchup, laundry bluing, bleaching agents, dyes, coffee and cola. The superfinishes are another use being made of plastics by the furniture industry. The plastic resins used for such finishes are of the thermosetting type. They cure and will not soften when heated and are not usually sensitive to solvents.

This superfinish is applied in liquid form to the entire wood surface. Then the liquid is usually baked on and chemically cured on the surface of the furniture.

Check the directions carefully for type of care required for superfinishes.

New fur trims coming in coats

News here is in the ways fur accents fashions. Fur trims fur and fur trims fabric, in full coat and suit collections.

When fur wears another fur, fluffy and flat surfaces usually combine—for instance, a coat of seal or broadtail trimmed in fox or muskrat.

There are no limitations on fur trims for fabrics, just about every kind of fur is used as a trimming.

In addition to collars, cuffs, tuxedo fronts and hemline borders, touches of fur appear unexpectedly as closures, scarves, pockets and other adornments.

Voting Rights Act

Before passage of the Voting Rights Act of 1965, only 32 percent of voting age Negroes in Louisiana were registered as compared to 81 percent of voting age whites, according to the Civil Rights Commission. In 1967-69 percent of the Negroes were registered compared to 79 percent of voting age white citizens.

Silhouette, colors bolder in coats, slacks for men

Changes in silhouette, bold colors, striking patterns characterize men's sportcoats for fall.

It hardly seems possible, but the new colors are more vibrant and alive than ever. Electric blues, reds and greens brighten up the casual life, and tweeds also come on strong. In brown and green, blue and gray, salt and pepper, reports the American Institute of Men's and Boys' Wear.

For the slacks to go with the sportcoats, the big news is leg styling, and the selection is wide, including straight, stovepipe or flared.

Elephantine bells (they extend 27-28 inches) with two and three-quarter inch cuffs are beamed to the trendsetters.

Stripes—wide track, thin, multi or roman—mark sportcoats. Other bold patterns include windowpane plaids and houndstooth checks.

Shape is the main theme in sportcoats styling. These are definitely shaped models with deep center vents, suppressed

Tips on skeeters

Quote from an 1885 New Jersey newspaper: "Never kill or drive off a skeeter; let him have his fill. Expose your body so as to be bitten all over, after which no skeeter will bite you for a skeeter never is known to place his needle in the same place that one has been before him, even if it were 50 years ago."

blaze the way to fall fashion. Avid as long as there are solid blazers, there'll be patterned slacks—this season, in checks, plaids and windowpanes.

Patterned sportcoats, on the other hand, require solid slacks—and fall presents them in browns, camels, blues, grays and more.

Howard Savings head named Americanism Award winner

JOHN W. KRESS

John W. Kress, president and member of the board of managers of the Howard Savings Institution, Newark, has been named to receive the 1969 Americanism Award given by the New Jersey Regional Advisory Board, Anti-Defamation League (ADL) of B'nai B'rith, it was announced by Donald R. Sorkow, New Jersey State ADL board chairman.

The presentation will be made at a black tie dinner, Thursday, Nov. 20, at the Robert Treat Hotel, Newark. The ADL award is being given to Kress "in recognition of his distinguished support and active advancement of the democratic ideals of intergroup understanding, the defeat of bigotry and prejudice, and the counteraction of extremism, wherever found, whether from the right or the left."

The ADL Americanism Award was initiated in 1965 when John T. Connor of Summit, former U. S. Secretary of Commerce was honored. Last year's recipient was W. Paul Stillman, chairman of the board of the Mutual Life Insurance and The National State Bank of New Jersey.

MORE THAN 500 LEADERS in business, education, finance, government and the judiciary will serve as honorary chairmen for the affair. Daniel M. Bernheim, board chairman of Reach, McClintock Co., Inc., Advertising Agency, has been named Dinner Chairman.

Kress served as general chairman of the 1954 campaign of United Appeals Fund and Council of Essex and West Hudson; received the Distinguished Service Award from the New Jersey Education Association in 1956 in appreciation of his many years of service as a trustee of the Teachers' Pension and Annuity Fund; was the 1962 recipient of the Newark State Ledger's Annual Achievement Award in the Banking Field; in 1967 received the 20th Annual Brotherhood Award from the National Conference of Christians and Jews, was given an Honorary LL.D. degree from Bloomfield College in 1967, and was chosen to receive the Outstanding Citizen of New Jersey Award for 1967.

He serves either as a director or trustee of many civic organizations including the Greater Newark Development Council; Newark Museum; New Jersey College Fund Association; New Jersey State Chamber of Commerce; United Community Fund and Council of Essex and West Hudson; United Hospitals of Newark; Symphony Hall; New Jersey Symphony Orchestra; Two Hundred Club of Newark; Greater Newark Hospital Development Fund, among others.

HE IS ALSO A DIRECTOR of the Central Railroad of Pennsylvania; Delaware and Bound Brook Railroad; Fairport Iron & Steel Co., Inc.; Lehigh and New England Railway Co.; National Newark & Essex Bank; New Jersey Natural Gas Co.; New Jersey Realty Corp.; Ragen Precision Industries, Inc.; and Reliance Insurance Co.

Kress attended schools in Newark graduating from Central High School, and received a bachelor of commercial science degree from New York University. He is a graduate of the American Institute of Banking and joined the Howard Savings Institution in 1921.

Kress and his wife Rose reside in Essex Fells. They have three sons: John R. Kress, associated with Radio Sutro-Waco Chicago, Mass.; Donald C. Kress, a registrar representative of Putnam, Coffin & Burr, New York City; and Raymond P. Kress, chaplain, St. Andrew's School, Boca Raton, Fla.

Remlinger sets back Marech twice to take softball league championship

Remlinger Real Estate captured the championship of the Springfield Adult Softball League last week with a pair of victories over Marech Advertising. Remlinger turned back Marech, 9-3 and 8-4. In the best-of-three playoff (finals), Remlinger reached the finale by winning the Division "A" title with an 11-2 season mark. Marech won the Division "B" title, beating United Services in a playoff. The two teams completed the season in a tie with 10-3 records.

Marech entered the championship round as a slight favorite, the result of a regular season victory over Remlinger. Marech gave up two runs in the first inning on consecutive hits by Harry McCann, Vinnie Pione, Charlie Haas, Werner Huehn and Gene Doyle. Marech narrowed the margin in the third inning when Roger Kuehn and Larry Bernstein hit back-to-back doubles and Fred Marech singled. But Barro's single gave Marech another run in the fifth.

FOOTBALL'S CENTENNIAL

100 years of rivalry Tiger-Scarlet clash Saturday

PAST RUTGERS GREATS—Coach John Bateman would certainly like to have these former Rutgers football stars on his team this Saturday, when Princeton and the Scarlet Knights clash again in football's 100th year. Picture, left to right, are: John Wittmann, class of '18; Elmore "Toady" Bracher, who holds all-time rushing record with 220 yards against Stevens in 1915; Homer Hazel, Hall of Fame player and All-American, 1923-24; Kenneth Rendall, 1917 captain; and Francis Scurr, captain of the 1916 squad.

The Princeton Tigers and the Scarlet Knights of Rutgers meet this Saturday for football's 100th anniversary.

They met in November 1869 in the first organized inter-collegiate match. Rutgers won, six goals to four.

The game this week will be a difficult one for both teams. The 1969 Tigers must make a comeback from the first losing season experienced by a Princeton eleven in a decade—and they must do it under an almost completely revamped coaching staff.

Van Ness, who has gained 1,829 yards running and passing, has scored six touchdowns and passed 19.

Schneider, at 6-2, 214 pounds, has started every game for two years, as a tackle in 1967, when linemen were scarce, and at his normal linebacker post last year. He is a heady, hungry player and could be among the best this season.

Tigers' Coach Jake McCandless has moved up from his backfield assignment to take over the reins as head coach following the resignation of Dick Colman after 12 seasons at the helm. He and his staff plan to institute new themes in the Princeton football picture.

McCandless' chief trouble spot—and it could be a big one—is the deplorable offensive line. Gone are Mike Silivinski, guard Joe Freschie, split-end Ken Garson and a fine pair of tackles in Dave Hantz and Bruce Eckman.

Only Bill Ivy, guard Mike Querin and tight end Mark Birso remain.

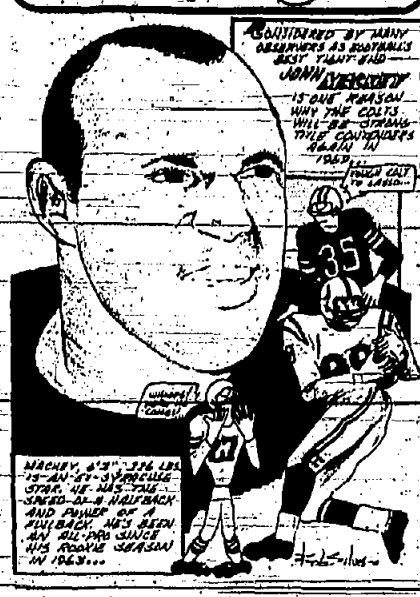

The Tigers face a battle to get back into the thick of the race, particularly in view of the shakeup in coaching personnel and the fact that they must meet a seasoned Rutgers squad in their opener, McCandless optimistic, however, that his team will come along well if an offensive line can be molded and developed accordingly.

Princeton's main threat is fullback Ellis Moore, captain, and two all-backs, Scott MacBean and Brian McCullough.

Moore, 192 pounds, holds both the Ivy League and Princeton record for touchdowns in a game—five and the Ivy mark for rushing yards in a game, 238. He has both power and speed.

McCann, a senior, chalked up 331 yards offensively last fall, scored four times and passed for two more tallies. Junior McCullough had a whopping sophomore campaign, accumulating 1,100 yards of total offense and scoring 13 touchdowns, all in Ivy play to the surprise of McCullough's Princeton greats Dick Kazmier and Royce Filippin as sophomores surpassing 1,000 yards of offense.

Harriers win meet at Edison; Reinhardt first

The Jonathan Dayton Regional High School cross country team registered a major victory by winning the Edison Invitational meet. The Bulldogs will meet Verona and Rahway in a triangular meet today at Home, Saturday. Dayton will meet the Park away, at 10 a.m. and Tuesday will challenge Pliny in a road contest.

Outlook promising for Dayton football

BY ARNOLD GERST
The Jonathan Dayton Regional High School football team will open its 1969 season against New Providence Saturday at 2 p.m. at the Metzel Avenue Field.

ing importance. With many talented runners, Dayton's offense will be balanced.

The past few weeks Dayton has scrimmaged North Plainfield, Chatham, Bridgewater-Raritan East, Pliny and Bergen Catholic. Only Bridgewater could move the ball with any consistency. In Dayton's 19-12 triumph over Bergen Catholic, the Bulldogs displayed an excellent aerial game.

Because football is based on emotion, there is a certain incentive which only a huge crowd can provide. A team needs a winning spirit and attitude to achieve victory and this can be helped by vocal support from its followers.

In general, head coach Ted Amo said, the team looks pretty good. Amo has installed a wing-T formation in place of the I used last season. Amo feels that Dayton has adjusted to the new formation very well.

At least.

Regional gets ready to root for every one of its sports

Sports Orientation Week at Jonathan Dayton Regional High School will be launched this morning with an assembly. The assembly will be directed by Herbert H. Palmer, athletic director. Palmer will introduce the head coaches of various teams who will comment on the prospects for the coming year.

Orientation as they conduct the annual pre-football game pep rally in the boys' gym tomorrow afternoon.

Response is heavy to recreation unit's schedule of courses

The Recreation Department has reported a heavy response to the printed folders for the fall and winter program distributed last week.

The Student Council dance which will be held in the girls' gymnasium from 8 to 11 p.m. is the third phase of Sports Orientation and will feature team introductions, cheers, yells and school spirit.

Sea duck season gets under way

New Jersey waterfowl hunters can enjoy some early sport this weekend. The special sea duck season opens a half hour before sunrise today.

Commissioner Robert A. Roe of the State Department of Conservation and Economic Development, said the special season applies to scoter, older and old squaw ducks and is limited to waters of the Atlantic Ocean.

Long season opens for raccoon hunting

New Jersey's raccoon hunting season opened one hour after sunset last Saturday, September 20.

Sea ducks, especially scoters, are abundant along the Atlantic Flyway and have long been utilized for recreation. Populations off the New Jersey coast usually build to well over 100,000 during the fall migration.

Junior Judo Olympics

The New Jersey State Junior Judo Olympics is scheduled Sunday at the Woodbridge Armory.

The special season will extend through Jan. 10, with a daily bag limit of seven sea ducks and a possession limit of 14. These limits apply to sea ducks throughout the State during the regular duck season, in addition to the bag of other ducks.

Bakery local members honor Fred Mercurio

Fred Mercurio of 436 Mountain ave., Springfield, was among those honored by the Retail Bakery Drivers and Salesmen, Local 194 at the Robert Treat Hotel in Newark on Friday. The evening consisted of a dinner-dance in honor of all the retired members of the state-wide local. The proceeds of the dinner were applied to the Bakery Industry's Pension Fund. Mercurio, who is retired from the Fischer Baking Co., now works at the Rapid Roller Co. in Springfield. Mrs. Mercurio is also the president of the Springfield Women's Club.

Brown appointed to post of director of social service

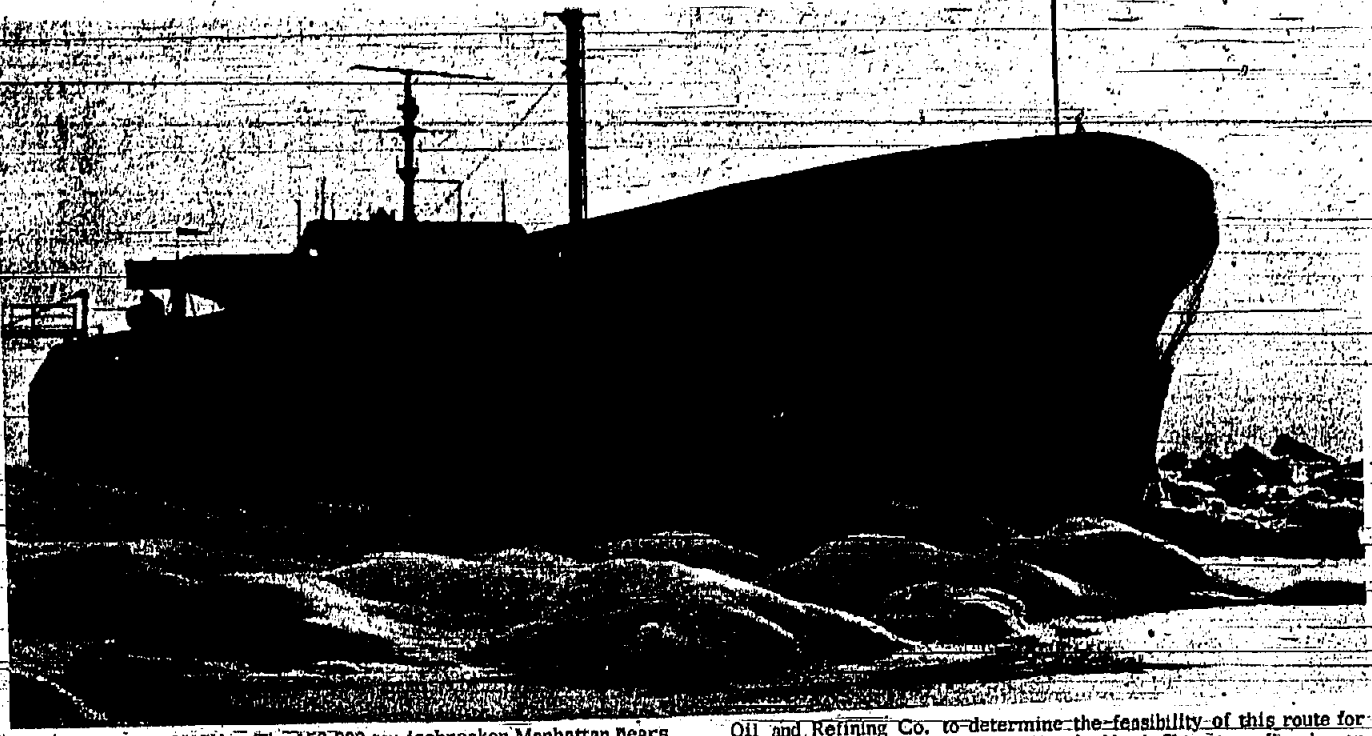

The appointment of Thomas J. Brown of Short Hills as director of social service at Overlook Hospital, Summit, was announced this week by Robert E. Heindel, Overlook's director.

Brown was formerly assistant chief of the Bureau of Community Mental Health Services, Division of Mental Health and Hospitals, New Jersey State Department of Institutions and Agencies. The bureau coordinates the operations and programs of the 50 community mental health clinics in the State, and also administers state matching funds to each clinic, whether public or private.

Previously he was chief psychiatric-social worker at North Essex Guidance Clinic, and was associated with the Mt. Carmel Guild Guidance Institute for seven years. He received his master's degree from the Fordham Graduate School of Social Service, his BS in sociology from the University of Scranton in Pennsylvania, and did added post-graduate work at the William Alanson White Institute and Rutgers University Urban Issues Seminar.

Brown is a member of the National Association of Social Workers, the New Jersey Association of Social Workers and the American Society of Hospital Social Workers, Academy of Certified Social Workers.

Overlook's social service department has grown widely in scope and responsibility. The department's activities cover all service inpatients, plus their follow-up and after care arrangements; screening of all clinic outpatients; evaluating family units and individuals for the home care program; personal adjustment counseling; working with the rehabilitation team in extended care programming; helping with transfers to nursing homes; transportation and many other services involving more than 2,500 patients a year.

Tola to head national unit

Louis J. Tola of Madison will be elected president of the American Society of Chartered Life Underwriters during the annual meeting in Washington, D. C., today and tomorrow.

Tola will represent the national group at many of the 171 American Society chapter meetings during the year starting Wednesday. He has been vice-president the past year.

He became a chartered life underwriter in 1955, and since has served as president of the Newark CLU chapter.

Tola also has served as a board of trustees member of the American College of Life Underwriters. The college has granted the CLU professional designation to more than 10,000 life insurance men and women on the basis of stringent intellectual, ethical, and experience requirements.

Tola is a special agent with the Prudential Insurance Company's A. R. Seltzer & Associates agency, Springfield. He is a life member of the Million Dollar Round Table, having sold more than a million dollars of insurance yearly for 13 years.

The Prudential special agent topped the three-million dollar mark in three separate years and sold more than two million annually in four consecutive years. In the first eight months of 1969, he has sold a million.

Know Your Government

From N.J. Employers Association

County governments are severely limited in their ability to provide locally-oriented services in New Jersey because about 60 percent of their financial resources traditionally are devoted to performance of duties required by the state. So found the state's County and Municipal Government Study Commission in its search for means of reconstituting and strengthening the county as a "middle level" of government to help serve local, inter-municipal and regional needs.

To permit financing of future area-wide services, the commission proposed that costs imposed upon counties to support various state mandated welfare and judicial services aggregating $118 million be assumed by the state. Estimating the entire burden of all mandated state service costs at $225 million, the commission recommended eventual transfer of responsibility for financing all of these to state government. Such a transfer to state financing would require additional state taxation in lieu of local property taxes which now largely finance the services. Fiscal observers point out:

"The commission said its study of the financial crisis in local government showed

Linden resident sentenced to jail as narcotics user

At the regular session of the Mountaineer Municipal Court last Wednesday, Judge Jacob Bajer sentenced Keith M. Gaydos, 19, of Linden on a charge of using narcotics.

Gaydos was arrested on Sept. 7 at the water tower in the Watchung Reservation by Union County Park Police Officer Thomas P. Geady. He was held on a charge of violation of the state statute regarding the use and possession of narcotics. In this case LSD. Although LSD is not technically a narcotic, it falls within the jurisdiction of the statute, according to Judge Bajer.

Gaydos was sentenced to 60 days in the county jail or a $250 fine. Unable to pay the fine, Gaydos is completing the final 49 days of his sentence, having served 11 days prior to his trial. His driver's license has also been revoked for one year.

Gaydos was examined by a doctor at Overlook Hospital in Summit prior to his official arrest to determine whether he was under the influence of LSD. The police report asserts that he had been using the drug at the time of arrest.

"the need is urgent and local government must have real fiscal relief if it is to continue."

It cautioned that state assumption of responsibility for welfare and its administration should be on a "roll-over basis" and accompanied by controls over inefficiency and abuse of the system. The commission said the past experience has shown that partial fiscal assumptions by the state provided only temporary benefit to local governments.

FAMILY POT LUCK

BY HELEN HALE

For sausage patties you can bake in the oven, mix one pound of bulk pork sausage with one slice of bread broken into small pieces. Combine with one egg, slightly beaten, one-half cup of grated apple and one teaspoon of salt. Mix well and shape into six patties. Place on a rack in an open pan and bake in a moderate oven (350 degrees F.) for 45 minutes.

Fried Tomatoes Murphy Red and Green Tomatoes
Crushed Potato Chips
Egg
1 Tablespoon Water
Hot Bacon Fat
1 Tablespoon Red Wine
1 Package Dehydrated Cream
1 Cup Milk
Dip thick slices of red and green tomatoes in finely crushed potato chips, pressing them down firmly. Dip in egg/beaten with 1 tablespoon water and again in the chips. crumbs. Sauté in hot bacon fat until nicely browned and remove to hot platter and keep warm.

To crumbs in skillet add 1 tablespoon more crumbs, 1 tablespoon red wine, 1 package dehydrated cream of mushroom soup and 1 cup milk. Stir over brisk heat till smooth and thickened slightly.

Garnish with crisp bacon or thin slices of ham, glazed with glazed orange slices.

Ask Amy

By AMY ADAMS

Dear Amy:
I've been going out with a man for four years, I love him very much but can't stand his three children and don't think it's fair to me that he says he can't stand any better. Yet, I won't part with them, I feel my animals aren't part of any other ex-human where the children are and it bothers me terribly. Because of these problems, our love is going fast.

Dear N.W.:
Forget this man because he will never forget his children. How you could expect him to or want him to is beyond human compassion and understanding. Because you are not a parent, you cannot understand the love that another has for the children they brought into this world.
You will never make this man happy nor do you have the capacity to bring happiness into your world. Look for a man who is willing to accept you and your pets, but who has no attachments, if you can find one.

DWIGHT D. EISENHOWER

Post Office announces new Eisenhower issue

Postmaster General Winton M. Blount this week made public the design of a postage stamp honoring the late Dwight D. Eisenhower.

In making the announcement, Blount said: "General Eisenhower was one of our time and of all time. His life was proof that the fundamental power of the American people lies not only in their potential for greatness, but in their capacity for goodness. It is appropriate that we should honor his memory in this way."

Israeli food production rising Nation experiments with taste

Today, more than ever before, people all over the world are demanding better quality food—and are experimenting with new tastes and flavors. The Israeli food industry is very much aware of this and has expanded and diversified so that it may take an ever-increasing share in the trade.

Israeli exports range from fresh agricultural produce to high-quality processed foods. Constant research has resulted in the introduction of specially selected and improved new strains suited to industrial processing.

All food plants in Israel operate their own fully staffed laboratories for purposes of quality control and the development of new products. Teams of chemists and food technologists supervise production processes and are responsible for ensuring that the local product conforms to international specifications. A final check before loading is made by the government quality control department.

Consumer markets throughout the world have become familiar with the great range of Israeli food products. Agricultural products include subtropical fruits and out-of-season fresh fruits and vegetables such as strawberries and early tomatoes. Industry is continuously widening its range of products and today Israeli factories can supply products as diverse as citric acid, liquorice extracts and oriental delicacies. In fact, the local industry has now reached such an advanced stage of know-how in food manufacturing techniques, that it has been able to supply and install in developing countries, complete food factories according to Israeli design and specifications. The tested quality, and latest in know-how

Dear Amy:
I'm 18 years old and I've been going with a boy for 4 months. He treats me fine and takes me wherever I want to go, but he has one fault. He drinks too much!

How can I show him how to slow down? He always goes overboard when we go out. Then he goes to feeling real good, I get worried because he already has had 4 accidents because of it. He told me he's been drinking ever since his mother passed away 4 years ago. I told him he's only hurting himself and me and that drinking won't solve anything.

I know he loves me and I love him, but I'm asking for your advice. How can I persuade him to stop his excessive drinking?

Dear G.L.:
There is no excuse for drinking that I'll buy, nor should you. If he refuses to stop or to get help from A.A., refuse to see him. Sock it to him, act tough and don't weaken or you will find that two can suffer as easily as one.

The 6-cent stamp will be issued at first-day ceremonies Oct. 14 at Abilene, Kan., where President Eisenhower spent his boyhood and where he is buried.

The commemorative stamp is based on a photograph made by Bernie Noble of the Cleveland Press. The photo captures the grin that was President Eisenhower's trademark. The design is by Robert J. Jones and engraved by Edward R. Felver and Howard Sharpless of the Bureau of Engraving and Printing. The vertical stamp will be the second jumbo size one issued this year. It measures 1.05 by 1.80 inches. It will be issued in panes of 50.

Homemaker unit to meet

The Metropolitan Newark Home Economists in Homemaking will hold a luncheon meeting next Wednesday at 1:30 a.m. at the Wedgewood Inn, Morristown.

Following the luncheon Mrs. Phyllis Zlatin and Mrs. Nancy Powers, members of the Home Economists in Homemaking, will report to the group on the American Home Economics Association's five-day annual meeting in Boston.

Anyone interested in becoming a member of the Home Economists in Homemaking group is welcome to attend the meeting. The group is affiliated with the American Home Economics Association and requires that its members be graduate home economists who are not presently working professionally.

For further information contact Mrs. Nancy Powers (464-1971 in Berkeley Heights).

Singles club plans dance

Single men who are day or evening college students or college graduates, and single women who are college students, college business or professional school graduates, ages 21 to 39, are welcome to attend an "annual reunion dance" tomorrow from 9 p.m. to 1 a.m. in a private banquet room at Mulligan's, 1049 Clinton Ave., Irvington, N.J. The program will include entertainment and prizes.

The club is designed to provide a social meeting ground for New Jersey's young single professional men and women.

The club also sponsors a date matching division for those who are unable to make the club parties, or for anyone who wishes to participate both the parties and the matching division.

Persons interested in joining or in further information may send stamped self-addressed envelope to the SJA Club Box 436C, Newark.

Arts-humanities institute opening tomorrow at NSC

Dr. Carl Marburger, state commissioner of education, will be the keynote speaker at the afternoon session of the Arts-Humanities Leadership Institute at 1 p.m. tomorrow in the Little Theatre of Newark State College, Union.

More than 50 New Jersey teachers, administrators and community leaders will participate in the first of 14 day-long sessions presented by the institute, which has been established to keep New Jersey educators abreast of the latest developments and teaching techniques. Conducted by the state department of education, a state-of-the-art institute in the arts sponsored by the N. J. State Department of Education and the New Jersey Art Education Association, the project is federally funded through the Dover Board of Education.

According to Dr. Thelma R. Newman, executive director of the project, "each of the 14 sessions is part of an overall design to carry participants through various experiences in the arts. As a result everyone emerges communicating and understanding each other. After this program, new skills are brought back to the classrooms and a new curriculum is created."

Dr. Marburger, in "Education Brief," a new publication of the state department's division of research, planning and evaluation, states: "Because of the demands of a changing society, schools are becoming more than mere repositories of information. They are being called upon to broaden their involvement with the community which they serve. Part of this involvement comes back in the form of better ways to educate children and confront them with experiences that are more relevant to the world in which they live. In the process, new roles are being formulated for teachers and administrators, new institutional settings are being devised and educators are learning as well as teaching. It is through the arts that man best communicates and symbolizes his noblest values and aspirations for the future."

(Dr. Marburger is an ex-officio member of Classroom Renaissance's board of directors.)

The morning presentation beginning at 9:30, will be an intermedia, "experiences in dance through the dissection of Sholem Hellman; music by Florence Higgins; drama by Anne Bartle, and art by Judith Koppel. Participants will be actively, physically involved in these areas participating in the four arts. Later in the day a film featuring the former Sister Carlin in "We Have No Art" will be shown.

DURING THE SECOND SESSION on Saturday, Mrs. Marian Stroud, formerly of Leicester, England, and now director of the Vermont Action Center in Montpelier, will describe child-centered schools. "The Leicestershire system," according to Dr. Newman, "has become today's innovative model that the education world is watching. It gives structure and order to the best of John Dewey's philosophy and is truly preparing children for tomorrow's world. Those young people from Leicester are ahead of our children in math and writing skills and their developed abilities in the non-verbal areas give them another dimension with which to communicate. Our schools mainly have been stressing verbal areas, leaving our young people virtually illiterate in other vehicles of expression."

Following the two beginning sessions, there will be guest leaders from Temple University, Harvard University, Newark State College, Hunter College, Bank Street College and Fairleigh Dickinson University, among others.

Mrs. Florence Gurland will be Classroom Renaissance coordinator and Professor James Howe will coordinate the program as a graduate offering of Newark State College. Participants who register at the College may earn three graduate credits for participation in the Arts-Humanities Leadership Institute.

Put the bite on him-- he likes it Rutgers research aide a 'repellent' guy

Many graduate students will tell you that they're "giving blood" for a degree, but in the case of Joseph L. Lomax it happens to be true—literally. Lomax, a research assistant in the Rutgers College of Agriculture and Environmental Science, tests insect repellents while writing his Ph.D. thesis on "basic considerations of repellency."
 During the past two summers, he and his wife Ellen, dressed in shorts and shirt sleeves and sometimes assisted by other students, have lugged through insect-infested areas all along the East Coast, in Costa Rica and the Canal Zone.
 Their usual procedure is to coat one side of their bodies with repellent, leave the other unprotected and often take notes.
 Lomax's research, in which he is guided by his faculty advisor, Philip Graner, is supported by a grant from the Union-Castle Corporation. During World War II, Dr. Graner helped develop, in cooperation with the U.S. Department of Agriculture, the repellent popularly known as "6-12," or aryl-hexanediol in technical language.
 As a second generation repellent researcher at Rutgers, Joe Lomax feels that a better understanding of insect physiology is needed to develop improved repellents.
 "We know that the insect smells odors through sensilla having on its face and body. But the complex question of why some odors attract insects and others repel them has barely been scratched," he says.
 "Some people seem to be more bite-prone than others, but the reasons are very unclear. One theory holds that large doses of B-complex vitamins, consumed orally, will help ward them off.
 "Another is that biting insects are attracted to lysine, an amino acid constituent of some proteins. The first theory has been largely discredited, but the second is still under investigation.
 Although present repellents, when properly applied, protect against mosquitoes, they are somewhat less effective with biting flies. One question that puzzles Lomax and his wife on their walks through the woods is why green-headed flies tend to attack the legs and scrawny flies the head.
 And what about smudgepots, blue lights and the other paraphernalia sold to keep mosquitoes away from backyards and patios? Lomax hasn't tested them all, so he won't say.
 "I just don't think they're very effective," he says. "My personal choice for the backyard is a yellow light bulb. Because insects can't see this particular frequency, they're less likely to be attracted to the area."
 The letter added:
 "I'm the most party you have ignored out there to cooperate with you on behalf of the children of New Jersey." Instead of doing so, the NJEA charged, Marburger "has issued wholesale condemnation of education leaders" in the press.
 The NJEA letter told Marburger that NJEA objects to "your disdain for well trained teachers, your attempts to ignore certification standards, and your criticism of others for your own failures."

SUFFERING FOR SCIENCE—Joe Lomax, a Rutgers research assistant, literally gives blood in pursuit of his Ph.D. thesis on "basic considerations of repellency." Along with his wife and other students, he has tested insect repellents all along the East Coast and in Costa Rica and the Canal Zone, usually coating one side of his body and leaving the other unprotected.

Course on safe boating will start Tuesday night

A U.S. Coast Guard Auxiliary course on handling small boats will be offered at Irvington High School starting Tuesday night from 8-10 p.m. It was announced by Edward Rinchings, commander, Flotilla 38.

Marburger is criticized by teachers

Charging "inability" and "failure," the New Jersey Education Assn. has told Carl L. Marburger, "to exert constructive leadership or resign as State Commissioner of Education."
 "Unless you can lead rather than condemn, it would be better for the schools of New Jersey that you step aside and let someone lead who can," said a letter to Marburger signed by Dr. Frederick L. Hupp, executive secretary of the 65,000 member state-wide teacher organization, and George Springer of Beach Haven, president.
 The letter added:
 "I'm the most party you have ignored out there to cooperate with you on behalf of the children of New Jersey." Instead of doing so, the NJEA charged, Marburger "has issued wholesale condemnation of education leaders" in the press.

A reminder by NROTC

Time is growing short for high school seniors to apply for college benefits under the Regular Naval Reserve Officers' Training Corps Program (NROTC).
 Eligible high school seniors and graduates must submit their applications before Nov. 14 to be eligible for the only NROTC national competitive examination to be offered for the college class graduating in the spring of 1974.
 The NROTC program offers the student all tuition, uniforms and books, a $50 per month subsistence allowance and a potential career as a Navy or Marine Corps officer as he studies for his degree in all but a few non-technical subjects. During the summers between academic years, the student participates in interesting at-sea periods as a midshipman.
 Application forms are available from high school counselors, the nearest Navy Recruiting Station listed in the telephone directory, or from the Chief of Naval Personnel (Pers-B6411), Department of the Navy, Washington, D.C. 20370.

Health expert set as guest speaker

President Nixon's White House advisor on national nutritional policy will deliver the keynote address at the New Jersey Weight Watchers convention in Asbury Park's Convention Hall Sunday, Oct. 5 at 1 p.m. The speaker will be Dr. Jean Mayer, organizer of the project. Mayer is on leave from his post as professor of nutrition at Harvard University School of Public Health. For the first time the theme of the convention will be maintenance. Awards will be made to members who lost weight one to four years ago and have maintained their weight for long periods of time. Special awards will be given to people who have maintained weight losses from 20 to 200 pounds.

Dr. Mayer said he hopes his address to Weight Watchers would be a link between the group dynamics of Weight Watchers and the findings of scientific investigations. Author of the best-selling Prentice-Hall Spectrum book, "Overweight: Causes, Cost and Control," in which he champions the cause of the overweight person whom he sees as the object of cruel ridicule and discrimination or misplaced pity, Dr. Mayer strikes out at fats and quicks-

Title group to meet in Atlantic City

The sixty-third annual convention of the American Land Title Association will be held in Atlantic City from Sunday through Wednesday.

Speakers will include J. S. Senator Harrison A. Williams Jr., who will present an address entitled "Pressures and Pitfalls of Housing," Horace J. Bryant Jr., State Commissioner of Banking and Insurance, who will discuss, "The Future of Title Insurance in New Jersey as a 158th State," Louis A. Barba of Chattanooga, first vice-president of the National Association of Home Builders, who will talk on "The Challenge and Opportunities of the 70's" for the Housing Industry," and John H. McDermitt of New Jersey Realty Title Insurance Co., Newark, president of the New Jersey Land Title Association, who will deliver a talk entitled "Rocky Island - 27 Miles of Water - 27 Tons of Paper."

Other principal convention speakers, according to Gordon M. Burlingame, chairman of the board, the Title Insurance Corp., of Pennsylvania, Bryn Mawr, Pa., ALTA president, will be:

Edward L. Wright of Little Rock, Ark., president-elect of the American Bar Association, and Dr. Norman Vincent Peale of New York City.

Full Army scholarships for 1,200 competitors

FT. MEADE, Md. — College scholarships for 1,200 high school seniors who are motivated — toward an Army career — will be offered again this year, the Army has announced.

The scholarships, good at any of the 274 colleges and universities in the United States offering the four-year ROTC program, have been awarded annually on a competitive basis for the past five years.

Scholarship winners receive their full tuition, textbook costs and laboratory fees, plus a $50 a month allowance for the full four years.

Winners may select academic courses in the field of their choice, the only additional requirement being the completion of officer-training subjects. Upon graduation are commissioned second lieutenants in the Army and fulfill their military obligation by serving four years on active duty.

Student selection is based on academic excellence, extracurricular activities, physical standards, results of college entrance examination boards, personal qualities and leadership potential.

Since part of the scholarship selection is based on the college entrance examination board tests, it is essential that high school students who intend to compete for one of these awards take the tests this fall.

High school seniors, their parents or teachers may obtain information by writing: ROTC Scholarships, First U.S. Army, Ft. Meade, Maryland 20785. Deadline for submission of completed applications is Jan. 15.

News class to be offered by Upsala

Publicity chairman and aspiring newspaperman will be offered a non-credit seminar in reporting during the evening hours of Upsala College in East Orange, starting early in October.

The eight-week seminar will be taught by Richard Burke, an Associated Press reporter of New York City who is an Upsala College graduate and a former member of the staff of the Newark News.

John M. White, director of Upsala's Division of General Studies said the seminar will include all facets of newspaper writing and reporting.

"Organization publicity chairman will find this one a good seminar," White said, "because it will help them prepare releases for newspapers and therefore, improve their organization's activities." White said, "For those who plan to become members of the fourth estate, the seminar can be viewed as a well rounded basic education in the 'do's and don'ts' of Journalism."

Included in the seminar will be lessons on how to recognize a good story, the craft of interviewing, writing tersely and graphically, feature writing and how to make fast appraisals and observations.

The seminar will not be confined to classroom. There will be opportunities to participate in on-the-scene reporting at meetings of municipal governing bodies and on the campus at Upsala. Students will then write stories based on information accumulated.

Students will also be taught the difference between the writing of a feature story and a "hard news" account.

Registration and other details may be obtained by contacting the Office of Special Sessions at Upsala College, (266-7259).

State Police exam is set for Tuesday at Essex Catholic

State Police examinations will be held at Essex Catholic High School, 300 Broadway, Newark, on Tuesday, Sept. 23, beginning at 7 p.m.
Applicants, according to Col. David B. Kelly, superintendent of State Police, must be citizens of the United States, have high school diploma or equivalency certificate, be between the ages of 21 and 34 (as of Feb. 22, 1970), weight not less than 150 pounds, height not less than 5 feet 8 inches, vision not less than 20/30 in both eyes without glasses or contact lenses, ability to distinguish colors, normal hearing in both ears, good teeth with satisfactory restorations, body free from all physical defects, good reputation and moral character, and must have a valid driver's license. Married and single men are accepted.

Applicants who take the exam will be notified of the results. Those who pass will be instructed to report to Division Headquarters, West Trenton, for the medical and physical examination. Results of all examinations are held in the strictest confidence.
Successful applicants appointed to the academy for the fourteen-week training period will receive a biweekly salary of $264 plus meals and quarters. Upon graduation, the annual salary of a trooper is $7,018 plus $1,704 maintenance allowance. Yearly increments of $351 are granted until the maximum of $9,124 plus $1,704 is attained (total $10,828).

Septic tank in sky topic of lecture
On the clearest night even the most avid star gazers see fewer and fewer stars than he used to. Ever wonder why?
"Our Vanishing Sky," the New Jersey State Museum Planetarium lecture demonstration scheduled during the last week of September and the month of October, deals with air pollution and how it affects man's ability to see into space. The audience will see the sky transformed from the transparent ocean of air viewed by past generations of gazers to the twentieth century's celestial "septic tank."
In addition to hearing a discussion of pollution, pollutants and their causes, the public will have an opportunity to see the stars and constellations of late summer and fall that still shine — albeit more dimly — in our current sky.
Planetarium lectures are offered Saturdays, Sundays and holidays at 2, 3 and 4 p.m. Tickets are given out free to the public in the Planetarium lobby a half hour before each lecture. Children must be seven or older to be admitted.

STILL HERE—Camel and curator try to draw attention to the fact that the Turtle Back Zoo in West Orange is open. The curator, Dean Lyzak, said the baby camel seemed glad to help remind everyone the zoo will be open until Oct. 19. He added that rumors that the zoo has closed because of a recent fire are completely unfounded.

Turtle Back is still open Fire did not force zoo closing

For some unknown reason Turtle Back Zoo in West Orange has received countless phone calls during the past two weeks inquiring as to the status of the zoo. "Despite the recent fire they are really still open," says Lyzak. "The zoo is open and will remain open until Oct. 19." Richard Ryan, zoo director, said, "According to Ryan, the zoo has suffered an unanticipated attendance lag over the past couple of weeks due to stories circulating that it has closed. Quite the contrary," he states. "We have never had so much to offer the public as we do right now."
For 25 cents visitors have the opportunity to view 210 species of animals and there are free story-hours on Tuesdays and Thursdays for children. There are picnic facilities, a miniature locomotive ride around the South Mountain park area, which is in regular operation, souvenirs and even a birthday party room.

Saint Barnabas to hold nurse refresher course

An intensive refresher course for inactive registered nurses who desire to return to their profession will be conducted at Saint Barnabas Medical Center from Nov. 30 to Feb. 22. The ten-week course, which meets three and one half days per week, is part of Saint Barnabas Medical Center's continuous program to provide qualified personnel for patient care.
"We feel certain there are nurses in this area who are interested in returning to nursing, but who are apprehensive because of the changes that have taken place in the profession since they last worked," Anna E. Marks, director of nursing, said. "This program is designed to orient them to the latest nursing techniques and to prepare them to resume the practice of nursing. By having Saint Barnabas nurses who believe that they will feel confident and enthusiastic about their return to active nursing." During the refresher program, which will be conducted from 8:30 a.m. to 3:00 p.m. on Tuesdays, Wednesdays and Thursdays, and from 9:30 a.m. to 12:30 p.m. on Fridays, participants will attend lectures and demonstrations by an instructor assigned to the program as well as by members of the hospital's medical and nursing staff. They will also be assigned nursing units to participate in patient care under the supervision of their instructors.
Mrs. Joan Kane, instructor, will be in charge of the refresher program and inquiries about enrollment may be obtained by calling the nursing office at 992-5500, extension 369, between 10 a.m. and 2 p.m. daily.
"If anyone has any relatives who are graduate nurses and have expressed the desire to return to nursing, please mention the program to them and have them contact me," Miss Kane says.

Williams campaign pays off; program for aged is now law

WASHINGTON — A five-year campaign by U.S. Senator Harrison A. Williams Jr. (D-N.J.) to win adoption of a program of volunteer activities for the nation's elderly retirees paid off last week when President Nixon signed the Older Americans Act Amendments of 1969, extending until 1972 authorization for federally-assisted programs for the elderly.
A key provision of the amendments creates a National Older Americans Volunteer Program—measure which Williams, chairman of the Senate Special Committee on Aging, has backed since he became a member of that committee.
Under the volunteer program, persons over 60 could sign up for volunteer activities in the community and be reimbursed for travel and out-of-pocket expenses. Such volunteer programs would be administered by the states.
Three forms of volunteer activities are envisioned under the measure:
—Person-to-person services by the elderly for children in foster homes, institutions or other temporary shelters;
—Tutorial and other services by the elderly for children in day-care centers, nursery schools, and similar institutions, with special emphasis on children from low-income families;
—Services by the elderly for other elderly who are incapacitated by age or infirmity.
Williams pushed for congressional adoption of a senior services program immediately after he was named chairman of the aging committee in 1967. Unresolved questions of administrative jurisdiction kept the program from winning final approval until the House adopted a Senate-passed version of a bill including volunteerism for Older Americans and the Williams proposal was a reality.
COMMUNITY SERVICE by the elderly has been tested—and won approval—in a number of Williams-backed programs:
"Foster Grandparents," a joint venture of the Administration on Aging and the Office of Economic Opportunity, which pays elderly retirees to give one-to-one attention to disturbed or disadvantaged children.
"Green Thumb," a Department of Labor project which pays older and retired low-income farmers and rural elderly to maintain roadside greenery, historic sites and recreation areas.
"Senior Aides," a pilot program launched last year by the Department of Labor to provide federal funds for local programs of voluntary assistance by seniors, generally for other seniors.
"Project FIND," an Office of Economic Opportunity program, which employs older persons to seek out and survey the needs of the elderly who are too ill or too immobile to move out into the community.
Williams said that the signing of the Older Americans Act Amendments will build on the foundation of these pioneer service programs for the elderly. "The time is finally at hand when federal resources can be put to work helping older people serve their communities, their neighbors, and their own sense of accomplishment and purpose," he said.

Nearly 100 pupils enrolled at YMHA Nursery School

Nearly 100 young boys and girls have entered the Eastern Union County YM-YWHA Nursery School on Grange Lane, Union, this month.

An additional class was inaugurated for the 1969-70 school year to accommodate more children. The school, now in its fifteenth year, has always enjoyed a fine reputation for the quality of its teaching staff, according to school officials. In the new building, the Nursery School occupies a complete wing, especially designed for the small fry, with an enclosed play yard, creative play equipment, games, books, puzzles and music are added each year.

Mrs. Max Wald of Millburn, head teacher and instructor of the four-year-olds, has returned for the sixth year. Mrs. Samuel Leese of Rahway, a teacher of the three-year-olds, has also been on the staff for six years. Another group of three-year-olds is taught by Mrs. Stanley Seal of Elizabeth, who returned for the second year to the Nursery School. Also returning for the second year is Mrs. Marvin Wasserman of Union, in charge of the four-year-olds. Five newcomers to the staff are Mrs. Harold Brewster, Youth Activities chairman, have announced that Mrs. Edward Cohen of Maplewood has been added to the teaching staff. Mrs. Cohen, a graduate of Douglass College and a speech therapist, is teaching the newly-formed afternoon group for four-year-olds.

Teachers' assistants are Mrs. Lawrence Hartman of Union and Mrs. Joe Krakauer of Hillside, both returning for a second year. Mrs. Milton Klein of Elizabeth, Mrs. L. Lullanski of Cranford and Mrs. Jerome Vorn of Bloomfield.

Three-year-old nursery students meet Monday, Wednesday and Friday from 9:15 to 11:45 a.m. There are three classes for four-year-olds who meet daily Monday through Friday. One class meets in the morning from 9:15 to 11:45 and two classes meet from 1 to 3:30 p.m. There are a few openings in the afternoon class and two in the three-year-old classes in the morning.

Additional information may be obtained by calling Mrs. Samuel J. Rosenthal at the YMCA.

Civil Service bulletin lists job examinations

John J. Farrell, chief examiner and secretary of the New Jersey Department of Civil Service, has announced that the September 1969 Open Competitive Examination Bulletin contains five examination announcements for positions with Union County and 20 examination announcements for the various municipalities in Union County under Civil Service.

Local New Jersey State Employment Offices have the Examination Bulletin and applications available. The last date for filing of applications for examinations is Sept. 30.

Cahill wins poll at UC Candidate gets 52 pct. of vote

Congressman William T. Cahill, Republican candidate for Governor of New Jersey, defeated former Gov. Robert B. Meyner, the Democratic aspirant, in a poll taken by government students at Union College, Cranford.

Rep. Cahill was favored by 52 percent while former Gov. Meyner received 48 percent. Some 541 students favored Cahill and 468 favored Meyner. However, 653 students indicated they had no preference.

Of the 1,682 students who participated in the poll, 962 were enrolled in the day session and 720 were enrolled in the evening session. Among the day session students, 464 could not make a choice between Cahill or Meyner, while 189 evening session students did not make a choice.

Fifty hundred and seventy-six of the students (345 in the day session and 231 in the evening session) said they think of themselves as Democrats, 442 (216 in the day session and 226 in the evening session) said they think of themselves as Republicans, and 608 (373 in the day session and 235 in the evening session) think of themselves as "unaffiliated or independents."

UNION COLLEGE STUDENTS feel "urban problems" is the major issue of the gubernatorial campaign. Other major issues were listed in this order: taxes, organized crime, and legislative reform.

When asked which candidate they favored in last year's presidential election, 48 percent of the students said they favored President Nixon, 31 percent said they favored former Vice-President Hubert Humpfrey, and 18 percent said they favored other candidates.

In the current gubernatorial poll, Cahill received 52 percent of the total, Meyer received 48 percent of the total, and 39 percent don't know which of the two major candidates they would like to see elected governor.

This poll would seem to indicate that the

Girls' programs offered by YMCA

The Five Points YMCA offers a number of opportunities for girls. Registration is taking place at the YMCA, 216 Salem Road, Union.

GIRLS in the first to third grade may enroll in a new program called Junior Debs. This takes place Saturday from 9 to 10:30 a.m. at the YMCA building. A program of gym activities, games, crafts and occasional movies is offered with mature leadership. Swimming instruction on Thursday is offered and bus transportation is provided every scheduled route to our Elizabeth Branch. Trampoline, too, is a favorite and all-grade levels may register. This takes place on Friday and three levels are offered.

Baton twirling is offered to girls in the first through eighth grade on Thursday afternoons at the Y location.

For girls in the fourth through sixth grade, The Y offers a program of physical activity, projects, guest demonstrations and discussion, and interest groups.

Diamond will head Meyner boosters

Former Hillside Mayor Robert Diamond has been named chairman of the Robert B. Meyner Booster Club in Union County.

"New Jersey needs Bob Meyner," Diamond said in accepting the appointment. "He has the experience. He's proved he can do the job. Bob Meyner also has the plans and programs. New Jersey needs to solve its problems. He is the one man prepared and equipped to lead our state into the 1970's."

The appointment was announced by Michael L. Delahanty of Montclair, state chairman of the Meyner Clubs which have a goal of garnering 500,000 voters by Election Day.

Diamond is a senior partner in the law firm of Diamond and Pitman, Union. He has served as a special deputy attorney general; counsel to the PUC; Hillside township attorney; and attorney to the Boards of Adjustment, Health, Planning and Alcohollic Beverage Control in Hillside.

Rise in enrollment reported by Union Vocational Center

Despite the fact that local high schools in Union County have inflated or expanded their own vocational programs, enrollment at the Union County Vocational Center has risen again this year, according to Leslie N. Kiray, director.

Last year's enrollment of 332 students has been already exceeded, and applications are still being processed. The increased enrollment has resulted in long waiting lists for courses in auto repair, beauty culture, commercial art, and TV radio. "This increase demonstrates the growing need for expanded vocational and technical offerings," commented Kiray, who announced that 434 students have been accepted into the following programs: Appliance repair, 18; auto body, 35; auto repair, 43; baking, 15; beauty culture, 81; commercial art, 47; food servicing, 8; electricity, 27; graphic arts, 28; heating, ventilating, air conditioning, 35; machine shop, 25; maintenance mechanics, 15; radio and TV, 37; welding, 27.

The Vocational Center accepts qualified students from district high schools in Union County that do not offer the courses listed. Students apply to their guidance counselors who arrange the scheduling of academic programs at their district schools for part of the day and vocational technical courses at the County Vocational Center for the balance of the school day. For example, a student may attend his local school in the morning and the County Vocational Center in the afternoon.

Almost 100 out-of-school adults have also been admitted as special non-students on a part or full-time basis.
