Canton embarks on the road (work) again

By RALPH R. ECHTINAW
STAFF WRITER

As with a lot of things, it's going to get worse before it gets better, as Canton embarks on road repairs and improvements this year.

On the list to be resurfaced this year are: Haggerty between Joy and Koppernick, Beck between Warren and Ford, Warren from Beck to 3,000 feet west, Hanford from Canton Center to 700 feet west, and Palmer from Lotz to Hannan.

Township engineer Tom Casari said the projects will probably be done in that order as well, but no date has been set for work to start on any of them. Some of the projects will probably require detours during work, but Casari doesn't know which ones.

Also, four Canton intersections are scheduled to be improved this year.

Lilley will be widened at Ford to improve the left turn lanes. Warren and Sheldon will be widened where they intersect to install left turn lanes.

Canton Center will be widened at Palmer to install left turn lanes. And the left turn lanes at Canton Center and Ford will be lined up so people making left turns will have better visibility.

Casari said he hopes to finish all the above before Dec. 31. As yet, no contractors have been hired for the work.

There's no telling how much the work will cost, but the township has about $1.3 million budgeted for road work this year, according to finance director John Spencer.

Casari also reports that the Michigan Department of Transportation is working on the Michigan Avenue overpass at I-275 and Wayne County is just finishing projects on Warren, Beck and Joy roads.

School district faces cutbacks

With or without a tax increase, Plymouth-Canton school officials say spending cuts and layoffs are unavoidable. The cuts will range from $2.1 million to $4.9 million, depending on whether voters on June 8 approve a 1.5-mill tax increase, school officials say.

By M.B. DILLON
STAFF WRITER

Plymouth-Canton school officials forecast the lay-off of 56 teachers, five administrators, 28 other staffers, and total cutbacks of $4.9 million if voters fail to pass a 1.5-mill tax increase in the June 8 election.

Even if voters do approve the millage — which would cost the owner of a $140,000 house an additional $90 per year — across-the-board cutbacks of $2.1 million are planned. Staff cutbacks would include 10 teachers, five administrators, two clerical and five custodial-maintenance employees if the millage passes.

Plymouth-Canton Community Schools levies a total of 36.15 mills. Per pupil spending is $4,354.

At a workshop last week, administrators and the school board put the finishing touches on an information packet to be distributed among voters.

Board members didn't relish the task, but tried to focus on the positive. "If we hadn't been in pretty good shape to begin with, we'd have been in trouble, because we wouldn't have had any place to start from," Trustee E.J. McClendon said.

Included in the packet is a position paper explaining why the district is recommending a no vote on the schools of choice proposal to appear on the ballot. (See related story.)

Superintendent John Hoben said class size will increase if the millage fails. At the elementary level, it will jump to 32-34 students. Class size will be between 35-36 students in secondary schools.

Total revenues are projected for 1992-93 at $72-$73 million, with expenditures totalling $77 million.

Next year's deficit is pegged at $4.3 to $5.6 million, depending on how much state aid the district receives.

Factors contributing to the red ink, Hoben said, include:

- $3 million the district will not receive due to the property tax freeze.
- A $1.7 million deficit created last year by changes in the state aid act.
- The loss of $200,000 in funding from the Wayne County intermediate school district.

• The loss of $180,000 due to a cap on employees' social security payments by the state.

• The freezing of $750,000 in an escrow account earmarked for a tax-base sharing plan currently in litigation.

The board of education is making a real effort to keep any millage request as low as possible and keep a degree of stability in Plymouth-Canton's excellent educational program and services, school officials said.

Trustee Dean Swartzwelder said board members are taking a cut in their stipend from $30 to $20 per meeting, netting a yearly savings of $2,800.

If the millage fails, the district will increase fees. Fees to participate in sports or extracurricular activities will be $60 per high school activity to a max-

Suburban bazaars abound

Where can you find a U of M toilet seat, a $50 snowmobile, or a 5-foot tall stuffed duck, presuming that you want to find them?

Look no further than the army of ephemeral entrepreneurs dotting the Canton/Plymouth landscape, espoused in garages and eager to haggle.

If you haven't guessed by now, this is a story about people whose attics and basements have been so inundated with seldom-used and sometimes forgotten possessions that it has become desirable if not essential to sell off the residue of consumption.

A brief tour around the area found Patricia and Russ Wargin of Canton's Carriage Hills subdivision offering their daughters' clothes for sale to the highest bidder.

"My daughters are getting bigger," confessed Pat. "They get tired of wearing the clothes, so it ends up at my garage sale." In fact, some of the clothes have lingered forlorn and unworn in the dressers of her 20-year-old daughters, complete with tags still attached.

The garage sale gave Russ an excuse to take a couple days off work, Pat said. "That's my worker man. He's cheap. He doesn't charge me anything for his labor."

sion off Warren just west of Canton Center, held forth at her own garage sale, but did so without the help of her husband. ("He said I was on my own.") When told about Russ' contribution to Pat's sale, Kathy commented, "Now, that's a real man."

Kathy was selling a huge stuffed duck for $1, complete with Hawaiian shorts and "party animal" T-shirt, but missing one eye. "I think it has character," she said. "I was going to put an eye patch on it." (This reporter's nieces and nephew are presently beating the duck into submission.)

Kathy and her friend sipped at glasses of Bailey's that afternoon and pondered the pleasant nature of life without the ton of possessions on display in her garage. "I'm not making dinner either," Kathy asserted. "Pizzas for us."

Tickets are still available for the Canton Community Foundation's fund-raising auction, scheduled to begin at 3 p.m. Thursday, June 4, at Fellows Creek.

Among the cool items to be sold are baseballs autographed by Mickey Mantle, Stan Musial, Willie Mays and Hank Aaron, bats signed by Pete Rose and Al Kaline, a hockey stick signed by Pete Howe and several resort golf outings. Admission costs $50 and includes dinner. Call 454-5427 for more information.

Parking needed: Some backers of pristine Miller Woods in Plymouth Township

Proposal for Miller Woods parking lot creates dilemma

By KEVIN BROWN
STAFF WRITER

Neighbors of Miller Woods have complained about visitors parking near their Powell Road homes, so a parking lot has been suggested. Now, the question is where to put it — and if it's worth it to go ahead and build it. "We had planned a parking lot off of Powell Road," said Dr. Robert Evans, president of the Plymouth Kiwanis Foundation. But township codes call for a berm and landscaping to shield the parking lot. "The Plymouth Kiwanis Foundation has to meet and decide if they really want to go ahead and do this," Evans said. "And to be honest, I don't think they're going to want to," he said. The Kiwanis considered putting up "a limited amount of money" for the gravel lot — $8,500 — after the group Friends of Miller Woods asked for a lot. Evans said the lot was approved by the Plymouth-Canton schools. They own the climax forest which includes firs as old as 500 years. But when the Kiwanis sought approval May 20 for the 150-foot square lot, planning commissioners didn't like the placement. Rather than remove some scrub trees to make room for the lot, planning commissioners suggested putting the lot farther away from the woods entrance, where no trees would be disturbed. "We have other places to spend $8,500 that would do more good," Evans said. "We'd love to see a parking lot there but I don't know if we want to finance it. I'm not trying to get on the township's case," he said, adding he understands the need for codes regulating parking lots. Besides these concerns, the site proposed by planning commissioners is hidden from the road, and Evans said he's concerned vandalism of cars or dumping would occur if that is the final site. Evans said he'd like to see the lot moved closer to where it was originally proposed. "We would like to have it as close to the entrance as possible," he said. The planning commission had asked Evans to return to the school district to see if officials approve of the site planning commissioners recommend.

SC students face big rise in tuition

By WAYNE PEAL
STAFF WRITER

This year's property tax freeze is good news for homeowners but bad news for Schoolcraft College students who this fall face one of the biggest tuition increases in college history. Tuition is rising by 9.5 percent — to $40 per credit hour — for students living within Schoolcraft's primary service area. Tuition is going up 8 percent — to $60 per credit hour — for out-of-district students. It is also rising by 7.5 percent for Schoolcraft's small number of out-of-state students. They will now pay $87.50 per credit hour. Schoolcraft's primary service area includes the Livonia, Garden City, Plymouth-Canton, Clarenceville and Northville public school districts, as well as a small portion of Novi Schools. Here's how Schoolcraft's new tuition rates stack up against current rates at other area community colleges:

- Henry Ford Community College — $41 for residents of Dearborn Public Schools; $64 for others.
 - Oakland Community College — $41 for county residents; $69 for others; $96 for out-of-state students.
 - Wayne County Community College — $37 for county residents not served by Schoolcraft or Henry Ford; $52 for others.
- Not all Schoolcraft trustees approved the tuition increase. "I think it's too high," Trustee Michael Burley said. "It comes out to about $300,000 behind every teacher." Others said it was necessary because of this year's property tax freeze. "If there's a time to do it, it's this year," Harry Greenleaf said. "We have a flat tax income." Trustees Greenleaf, Mary Breen, Thaddeus McCotter, Stephen Reagan and Patricia Watson supported the tuition increase. Board president Jeanne Stempien joined Burley in voting against it. The news is better for area taxpayers. The college tax rate, 1.9231 mills remains unchanged under state law. Payments on three bond issues, raises the overall Schoolcraft tax rate to 1.9485 mills — roughly $97.50 for a house assessed at $100,000. The tuition increase and college tax were approved as part of Schoolcraft's 1992-93 operating budget. The $31.3 million budget is increasing by just under 4.5 percent, one of the smallest increases in recent years. Projected tax revenue is expected to rise by about 1 percent, to $12.1 million. Schoolcraft expects to take in $130,000 more in tax money for the next college year. State revenue is expected to rise to $8.6 million, a 3.5 percent increase — though state money is subject to cutbacks. Tuition is expected to account for $10.2 million. On the expenditure side, slightly more than 50 percent of the college budget is earmarked for instruction, including professors' salaries and benefits. College business services account for nearly 20 percent of the budget. General administration, including salaries and benefits for college administrators.

S'craft president gets good grades

By WAYNE PEAL
STAFF WRITER

Schoolcraft College President Richard McDowell made the grade with college trustees Wednesday during his annual evaluation session. Trustees voted McDowell a 5 percent raise and improved his job benefits after evaluating his job performance in closed session. "Basically, we're very pleased with his performance," said Trustee Mary Breen, who directed the session. "We're also pleased that he has addressed some of the concerns we had last year." The raise brings McDowell's salary to $95,300. His annual performance bonus was raised to $9,500 — a $400 increase. Trustees also extended McDowell's contract an extra year. His contract now runs through 1995. The 5 percent raise matched those awarded other college executive administrators. Trustees cited improved relations with college staff and adoption of target-specific bargaining — a break from more confrontational past practices — as among McDowell's major steps toward overcoming prior concerns. As in the past, McDowell drew praise for his strong ties to the college business community. "The college reputation and image is at an all-time high," according to McDowell's formal evaluation statement. The president's challenges for the coming year include finding new revenue sources, in light of shrinking state aid, and implementing a campus-wide recycling program. McDowell has been Schoolcraft president since 1981. He is a past president of the Livonia Chamber of Commerce and serves on the Michigan Education Trust Fund Board of Directors.

College sets new service contract guidelines

Not wanting to repeat a controversy that divided board members two years ago, Schoolcraft College trustees adopted a new policy Wednesday to guide review of college personal service contracts. The college's legal representative, Law, Hemming, Essad & Polaczyk of Plymouth, will be the first agency reviewed under the new procedure at the Wednesday, June 24, board meeting. "There will probably be a motion of some kind seeking to continue the relationship and, if trustees object, we'd begin interviewing other firms," College president Richard McDowell said. The selection of Law, Hemming, Essad & Polaczyk two years ago divided the board. Trustee Jack Kirksey resigned after alleging the firm, selected without competing bidders, had undue influence with then-board president Mary Breen. Breen denied the allegations, but reopened the review process. Trustees subsequently re-selected Law, Hemming after interviewing other firms. A review committee, headed by recently elected trustee Patricia Watson was subsequently formed to draft a new review process. The firm maintains no contract with Schoolcraft. Instead, it bills the college for services rendered. The college auditor will also be reviewed, under the same procedure, but not until 1995. Trustees last year selected Plante, Moran as auditor.

Pearsall talks to cancer patients on hope, healing

Nationally known psychologist Paul Pearsall speaks on "Happiness, hardiness, healing and hope" at 1 p.m. Thursday at Henry Ford Hospital's Buerki Auditorium (Lodge Freeway at West Grand Boulevard, Detroit). The event, which observes National Cancer Survivor's Day, is free and is designed especially for cancer survivors and their families. Pearsall will focus on the healing capacities of the human mind, bringing in his personal experience with cancer. "Dr. Pearsall is in such demand as a speaker that we plan to open the event to the public as well as to cancer survivors as long as space allows," says Wendy Goldberg, a West Bloomfield resident. She is a clinical nurse specialist in the Henry Ford psychiatry department, which is co-sponsoring the event with the hospital's departments of medical and radiation oncology. "At Henry Ford Hospital and medical centers some 2,500 new cancer patients are diagnosed each year," Goldberg says. "There's a lot of living to be done by these patients. We work with them and with their families to help them adapt so they can have high quality lives and live them fully." The event will include a reception which will give cancer survivors a chance to talk with each other.

FIRST RATE FUND FOR THE SHORT TERM.

The economy is recovering. But even the experts can't agree on what interest rates will do.

So First of America has two shrewd ways for you to invest. No matter what your strategy.

The long view. If you think rates will drop or stay flat, you should get with a longer-term investment and get a rate guaranteed to rise every six months over the next two years. The Rising Rate CD* starts at a bonus rate of 5 percent per annum. And you'll end up earning 6 1/2 percent for the final term. You can withdraw part or all of your money in the first ten days of every six-month interval without penalty. All it takes to get started is a $1000 deposit.

The short view. If you predict rates will keep going up beyond this election year, invest short term with the FirstRate Fund. You'll make a bonus return of 5 1/4 percent per annum from the day you sign up through July 31.

So the sooner you invest the more you'll make. After July 31, the per annum rate is based on the weekly Treasury Bill. So if the T-Bill goes up quickly, you'll continue to benefit from it.

A new deposit of $10,000* is required, and you can get your money seven days after notifying us.

It's a respectable rate of return plus liquidity in these uncertain times.

Cop takes on today's realities

What do you say about a band that would rather stew in contempt of reality and leave the answers to someone else. Or a band that sees the world as a ridiculous place and music as a way of dealing with and commenting on that. That's how Cop Shoot Cop sees things.

By LARRY O'CONNOR STAFF WRITER

Through their dissonant sound and lyrics coated in bile, Cop Shoot Cop is no doubt delivering a dark wake up call.

The initial impetus is perhaps to stir the TV-impaired and generally inert masses into some vague concept of action: the propagandist, deftly the marketeers and shun crass commercialism. But Cop Shoot Cop could be perceived to carry a more chilling message on "White Noise," the Brooklyn band's second LP.

Interpreted, it's seemingly one of ultimate hopelessness and despair and all is indeed lost. Which in its most vulgar realization is a dangerous state of mind revealed by the carnage of the recent LA riots.

Screams vocalist and bassist Tod A. like a wounded animal against the urban bass squall on "Hung Again." "I don't know why I try. Another day, another lie. It's just like sticking needles in your eye."

The Cop Shoot Cop founding member, though, contends he does see hope but "only in a small way."

Their brooding apocalyptic — not to mention guitarless — sound merely speaks to realities of the day.

After all, as Tod A. added, rap music is already doing it. "I don't think it's as bleak as some people may perceive it to be," said Tod in a telephone interview from Kansas City, Mo. "It's kind of like trying to explain the joke to somebody if you don't get it. We see the world as a ridiculous place... and the music is a way of dealing with that and commenting on that."

"I mean we're not completely humorless people."

An anarchist usually has ready-made solutions, though, Cop Shoot Cop doesn't. They'd rather stew in contempt of reality and leave the answers to someone else.

Said Tod: "I don't think that's my job to provide answers. Otherwise, we'd be in politics or become terrorists or something."

Their press bio nonetheless fuels the image of rebellion. Formed in a "roach-ridden" New York City apartment in 1988, Cop Shoot Cop set out to be anti-everything with a visceral urban cacophony.

Along the way, Cop Shoot Cop has released two LPs, including the first "Consumer Revolt" in 1990, successfully toured Europe and two members were picked up while back on concealed weapons charges outside of CBGB's in New York.

Tod A. said he'd rather not talk about the incident, though it is prominently mentioned in the band's press kit.

What Tod A. will gladly discuss is the reaction or non-reaction to Cop Shoot Cop's reality wailing sound. He said he has doubts if people are getting the gist of the band's lyrical mission, especially live at shows.

"A lot of responses that we get at a live show are 'Wow, that was really loud' or 'You guys are really intense,' he said. "I'm not convinced that live music is where you're actually communicating anything to someone other than just a certain amount of energy, like a cathartic sort of thing."

"And maybe they can get their aggression out through that as opposed to some other more harmful way like going around and beating someone up or pulling them out of their car clubbing them to death."

Cop Shoot Cop will perform with guests, Wig on Thursday, June 4, at the Blind Pig, 208 S. First, Ann Arbor. For information, call 99-MU-51C.

Waiting: John Andretti, son of racing superstar Mario Andretti, struck a serious pose, waiting for the start of the 1991 Detroit Grand Prix, the last IndyCar race to be held on the streets of downtown Detroit.

Speed and style on grand scale: It's at Belle Isle

Where's the cement barriers? Where's the asphalt patching crews? Where's all the detour signs?

Come to think of it... Where's this Grand Prix thing? Detroit Renaissance, with chief sponsor IIT Automotive, has moved this year's 11th Detroit Grand Prix to that peaceful little island just a short ways up stream from the downtown area.

Speed and style on the Isle, Belle Isle. Bottom line is money. It just got too expensive to rip apart the heart of downtown Detroit to make way for three days of auto racing. And for race fans who attend the race, the new locale will provide better sight lines than the downtown course as the many buildings give way to a few trees and one giant fountain.

Race officials claim that there is actually more area for general admission fans to mill about in, while everyone in attendance will be able to see more of the race than in the city.

And although Belle Isle is fresh and untested, present IndyCar and Formula One driver Emerson Fittipaldi was pleased with what he saw, likening the 2.1-mile, 14-turn temporary road circuit to a "romantic" European road course.

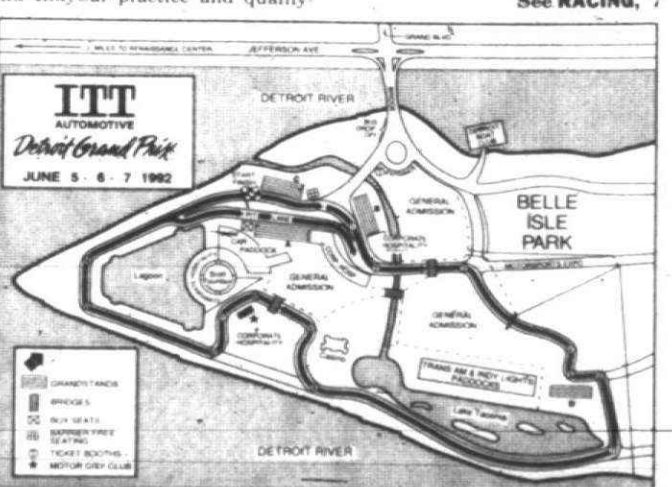

The speeds on the new track, which is shorter than the city course, will actually run about 30 mph faster on average (from 80 mph to 110 mph). The top speed on the course should reach around 160 mph.

If you're planning on attending, here's a few things you should know along with a couple that you already know and one thing that will just floor you.

Directions: The best way to get there from the suburbs is to hop on I-96, the Lodge or Southfield freeways and race like hell (just kidding) down to Jefferson Avenue. Then either park at the RenCen or Cobo and catch a shuttle. Or weave in and out of traffic (just kidding again) until you get to East Grand Boulevard. MacArthur Bridge, the only access to the island, is just east of the boulevard.

Dates: Friday, June 5 (Free Prix Day), is for Trans Am, Indy Lights and IndyCar practice and qualify.

See RACING, 7

Racing

Boat owners: Public docking will not be permitted on the island. Boat owners are urged to contact — well in advance — the Detroit Yacht Club or any of the other marinas in the area about rental slips. Also, anchoring off the island near the course is prohibited.

The Cars: Three different types of cars will race at the IIT Automotive Detroit Grand Prix. The featured car are the IndyCars. Made famous by the Indianapolis 500, IndyCars are the American version of Europe's popular Formula One race cars.

And although they're known for their prowess on the oval courses, like Indy and the Michigan International Speedway, IndyCar "road courses," like Belle Isle, are now as much a part of the IndyCar championship as are the ovals.

The scaled-down version of the IndyCars are known as Indy Lights. Powered by V-6 Buick engines, the Indy Lights produce up to 450 horsepower (750 in the IndyCars), weigh about 150 pounds less than their counterpart, but produce speeds on the courses comparable to an IndyCar.

Radio and TV: If you're out of town for the weekend, set your VCR to ABC for Sunday's IndyCar race. If you're in the ballpark, but still can't get to the island, WWJ AM will broadcast the IndyCar and Trans-Am races live.

No-No: Remember, no coolers, bottles, cans, chairs, platforms, cranes or buildings are allowed inside the circuit. Thanks.

Camping: No! Fun for all: Yeah!

The final car they'll race at Belle Isle is the Sports Car Club of America Trans-Am class. Modeled after the classic American muscle cars like the Ford Mustang and Chevrolet Camaro, the SCAA Trans-Am circuit cars pack up to 625 horsepower in a carbon-fiber body that can reach speeds of up to 190 mph.

Best Cheat Seats: Looking at the layout of the course, we recommend the relatively treeless site between turns three and four. From there, spectators will be able to view three, possibly four turns and listen to a slew of gear changes.

Formula just doesn't work for 'Cop'

LeAnne Rogers

Michael Keaton and Anthony LaPaglia are a couple New York police detectives working narcotics cases. LaPaglia is a widower with three young daughters. After a less than subtle setup of him as a devoted dad, guilt-ridden because he ran around on his late wife, you just know he won't be around long. It's that guilt that leads to his death during a violent domestic dis-

Sometimes if a film is really well done it can overcome the formulae and predictability of its genre. Unfortunately "One Good Cop" isn't one of those exceptional films. It's predictable, at times incredibly dumb and ultimately forgettable.

Naturally, Keaton feels responsible and takes the kids on a temporary basis. Yeah right, like there is ever any suspense about whether he and his wife, who really wants children but can't have them, will keep the kids.

The other plot line of this film concerns Keaton's efforts to get the drug dealer who supplied the dope to the guy who killed his partner. In a moment of sober remorse, the man who actually did the shooting provides the information to get the investigation started.

I don't know which is worse — the sentimental drivel involving the kids and the homefront or the unrealistic and morally lacking crime aspect. Keaton and company knock lots of heads together which seems to be the largest part of their investigation. That and Keaton glaring behind dark glasses. Very intimidating.

Of course, it wouldn't be a predictable genre picture if Keaton didn't get the bejezus beat out of him and shot at least once.

The two stories collide as Keaton needs cash to buy a home in order to keep the kids, he decides to rip-off the drug dealers he has been investigating. Apparently, the end is supposed to justify the means. This is reinforced when he drops the excess cash into a church poor box.

Based on the actions Keaton's character takes, I would have to assume the title of the film is meant to be ironic. He might have been a good cop before and clearly he's a loyal friend. But good cops aren't thieves and respect the law. The whole film rather insults your intelligence. "One Good Cop" is available on video cassette at your local video store.

Wake-up call: The Brooklyn, N.Y., band, Cop Shoot Cop may be trying to stir the TV-prone inert masses with its second LP, "White Noise."

Take it easy, Mom; you're good enough

Dear Barbara, My 1 1/2-year-old seems to need constant attention. She wants to be looked at, admired and noticed most of the time. Is this normal at her age and should I satisfy her demands?

Dear Alice, Whenever I give advice on this subject I feel guilty because who knows what is too much and what is too little with each individual child. No one can really predict the outcome of parenting styles because so much depends on the child's disposition.

When bottle feeding babies, the problem is to get the "right" number of holes of the "right" size nipple. What is "right" is determined by how hard that individual baby sucks. We must assume that if the baby is getting too much, he will stop sucking so hard, so he won't flood. The baby contributes to the best balance. Sometimes when we see a happy baby, we think "what a great mother," but maybe it is "what a great baby."

I wish I could give you a formula, but in truth, none exists. Your letter indicates that you are already a "good-enough" mother. The best advice is to enjoy your baby without the unrealistic burden of needing to be perfect.

Wender's 'Until the End of the World' stretches on

TICKETS PLEASE
It's 1999 and an errant nuclear satellite is headed toward earth. As residents flee the cities, an auto accident occurs that changes the course of a woman's life. According to the narrator, "it may change the course of the world."

Everything in Wim Wender's latest movie, "Until the End of the World," is weighed down with this kind of importance. And sometimes the film, which plays Thursday and Friday at the Magic Bag Theatre in Ferndale, actually sucks an audience into the artsy urgency.

At the heart of the film is a message about searching — whether for love, money, or the ability to see. It is the endless yearning of a pair of lovers (one of them played by William Hurt) that sets them on a collision course with each other.

Actually, the plot of "Until the End of the World" sounds pretty dopey on paper. Claire, a free-spirited French woman, gets mixed up with bank robbers who hire her to deliver money to another part of France.

She picks up the hitchhiking Sam (Hurt), who quickly takes off with part of the loot, leaving an I.O.U. behind. Claire falls inexplicably in love with the man and sets off in search of him across the globe.

The first half plays like a travelogue, as the chase jumps from one country to another, from Paris to Berlin to San Francisco and beyond. The Japanese sequence is among the most fascinating, filmed in one of the Tokyo hotels where overnight guests sleep in tiny glass-enclosed cubicles.

As pretty as it looks, "Until the End of the World" like a traveler on some whirlwind European bus tour, rarely stays in one place long enough to get a real feel for the terrain.

It does, however, convey an atmosphere of the near-future, where video — in the form of tiny handheld recording devices and the inevitable picture phones — is an even more integral part of daily life.

Hurt is sadly miscast as the mysterious Sam, who turns out to be a good guy after all. The government is after him to hand over a special video recording device that, when hooked up to the original viewer's memory, can replay images into a blind person's brain.

Sam's primary reason for globe-trotting is to visit all the people important to his mother, who is blind, and bring images of them back home for her. The experiments, set in a secluded outpost in the Australian desert, take up the second half of the film and lead to a fascinating conclusion.

The video machine, you see, can also unlock Claire's dreams and in a clever use of colorful video imagery, we see those nocturnal images splash across the screen. The effect will certainly be lost when the film comes to cable.

Wenders has wanted to make this film since 1977 and finally got his chance, packing "Until the End of the World" with brilliant, if sometimes incoherent, ideas. It is far less accessible than "Paris, Texas" and "Wings of Desire," whose success probably led Warner Brothers to agree to distribute the director's latest work.

Months after the film played in other cities, Warners dropped it for a week into a suburban Detroit mall theater with no advance publicity. If nothing else, the film should appeal to modern rock fans, since the soundtrack is laced with new material by Talking Heads, U2, R.E.M., Elvis Costello, Nick Cave and the Bad Seeds.

And even if they can't follow the plot, others should be fascinated simply by the ambition and passion that goes into each of Wender's projects. He's one of the screen's truly international directors.

POINTS OF VIEW

Women get ready to take 'giant step back'

You've come a long way, baby. Rest room equity and country club equality were addressed during this session of the Michigan Legislature.

Both issues were precipitated by Oakland County lawmakers. Jan Dolan, the Republican representative from Farmington Hills, introduced the new law requiring theaters and sports arenas to provide women with adequate rest room facilities. And Mar Dunaskis, a Republican who represents the Rochester area, co-chaired the House-Senate committee which, after months of haggling, put together a bill which guarantees women equal status at private country clubs. Originally introduced by Lana Pollack, an Ann Arbor Democrat, it passed the House and Senate last week and is now awaiting Gov. John Engler's signature.

Although publicity has focused on equal tee times, the bill also includes the right to eat and drink at men-only lounges — which actually may prove harder to enforce.

Randy Eskine, golf pro at Glen Oaks Country Club in Rochester, thinks women will still stay clear of the Stag Room, a bar overlooking the 10th hole, out of respect for tradition. Just whose tradition might that be? On the surface, it appears that women are making some in-roads. But it's odd that both these bills, which seem so basic, are coming to fruition now.

After all, women have been standing in lines which extend out the doors of public rest-rooms for decades, while men moved in and out of theirs as if each had a revolving door.

And it's been some time since the workforce was so dominated by men as to require that week-end golf tee times (and tennis courts) be designated for their use alone.

JUDITH DONER BERNE

Legislators are priming to gobble up the right of the women in this state to decide whether or not to give birth to a child.

For instance, it's been at least 10 years since my friend, Sandy Rose, and I petitioned the Orchard Valley Swim and Tennis Club in West Bloomfield to allow "working women" to play tennis during what was labeled a men's mixer each Sunday morning.

That was granted for a couple of years. Then additional courts were built and four of six reserved for the men's mixer.

Back to the question, why now? Perhaps it's the pressure the male-dominated Michigan Legislature is feeling from the influx of women who are making bids for public office. Maybe legislators feel that by passing a few laws to pacify women, that momentum will dissolve.

More likely the Legislature is throwing out a few morsels before voting to take the big bite. Legislators are priming to gobble up the right of the women in this state to decide whether or not to give birth to a child.

Remember the game, "Mother may I?" Everyone starts at the same point, then you ask the leader if you can move — one or two steps or even a broad jump ahead. You must say "Mother may I?" If you don't, you're ordered to retreat.

In this context, the question has become "Father may I?" The response: You've come a long way baby, now get ready to take a giant step back.

It's time to quit stalling on bathroom equity

Let's hope the bathroom equity issue in Michigan is solved quickly. I'm tired of waiting, not for the legislators to act, but for my wife.

It's something men have done enough of when our wives or girlfriends need to stop. I've missed the start of hockey games and some of Hank Williams Jr.'s best songs standing, waiting for my wife. The reason was that there aren't enough rest room facilities at public places to handle the situation.

The state legislature is trying to fix a longstanding more. It's a good idea, but I'm just afraid of what we're going to get up with. Chances are some equal rights nanny will argue for urinals in women's rest rooms. It's a moot point for reasons known to many.

But while we all hope the legislature does something about the situation, I'm worried to turn the issue of rest rooms over to government. Just look at what the wizards in Lansing have done to school financing. And now they expect us to trust them with rest rooms. While education is important, rest rooms have a certain immediacy to them.

They're just too important to turn over to state lawmakers, over zealous government regulators, feminists and liberals. But then again, even those folks need to find a rest room on occasion.

The trouble with government is that once the lawmakers unleash the bureaucracy on an issue, all sense goes out the window, and the terminally politically correct sneak in the back door.

If we could just tackle adding more rest rooms for women at places like the Palace or the Silverdome, things would be fine. But there's no telling who could be attracted to the trough on this one.

JEFF COUNTS

If we could just tackle adding more rest rooms for women at places like the Palace or the Silverdome, things would be fine. But there's no telling who could be attracted to the trough on this one.

Chances are the state would end up hiring a legion of rest room inspectors to make sure all would comply with state laws.

And there are probably just some rest rooms that wouldn't survive government, especially those in northern Michigan bars where the owners feel obligated to carry out the theme of the place on the rest room doors. You know the kinds of places that mark the men's room with "Bucks" and the women's room with "Does."

But "Bucks" and "Does" is cliché. There are better ones. A place in East Tawas, a boating bar, marks its rest rooms with "Inboards" and "Outboards." The subtlety keeps non-boaters out of the place and causes some confusion for those who sail.

Bird hunting bars tend to be less subtle. There's the ubiquitous "Pointers" and "Setters," and then there's a turkey hunting bar in the Oscoda County community of Fairview that uses the male and female names for the game bird to mark the bathroom doors. The names are a bit racy and decorum prevents me from using them.

The point here is that if we let state legislators take over public rest rooms, they won't stop at just making sure there are enough stalls for women in the Silverdome, they'll soon be taking aim at other places.

"Outboards" and "Inboards" will be placed in dry dock and feminists will declare open season on all the "Bucks," "Does," "Pointers" and "Setters" in the state.

Somehow I'd just as soon resolve myself to wait for my wife or start a movement to bring backouthouses.

Are you a Compulsive Overeater?

|--|-----|----|
| 1. Do you eat when you're not hungry? | Yes | No |
| 2. Do you go on eating binges for no apparent reason? | | |
| 3. Do you have feelings of guilt and remorse after overeating? | | |
| 4. Do you give too much time and thought to food? | | |
| 5. Is your weight affecting the way you live your life? | | |
| 6. Do you use fasting, strenuous exercise, vomiting or laxatives to control your weight? | | |
| 7. Have you tried to diet for a week (or longer), only to fall short of your goal? | | |

If you answer "yes" to three or more of these questions, you may be a compulsive overeater. You are not alone. Millions of Americans suffer from this disease.

Compulsive overeating is a painful, relentless illness that interferes with every aspect of life. It is a disease that gets progressively worse if left untreated.

Weight gain often accompanies this illness. But not always. Many compulsive overeaters maintain normal body weight by strict diets, fasting, strenuous exercise, vomiting, or excessive laxative use. These methods are ineffective and medically dangerous.

Weight is not the problem, and dieting is not the solution. The problem is the disease of compulsive overeating, and the solution is a program of treatment and recovery.

The Eating Disorders Recovery Center (EDRC) of St. Mary Hospital offers an outpatient treatment program that leads to lasting recovery. Our approach is comprehensive. We help our patients make lifestyle changes that give them renewed confidence in themselves and more control over their lives. Gradually, the chronic binge-diet cycle is replaced by a healthy, more satisfying, and more productive way of life. With food in its proper place, weight normalizes.

At EDRC, we work as a team — psychologist, psychiatrist, physician, nutritionist, and specially trained therapists — to diagnose and treat eating disorders. This experienced staff provides treatment with understanding and sensitivity.

If compulsive overeating is a problem for you, or someone you love, take the first step toward recovery. Call us today at 591-2936. WE CAN HELP.

Suburban lawmakers back regional control of water board

BY TIM RICHARD
STAFF WRITER

It's up to House Speaker Lew Dodak whether the Detroit-controlled water board becomes a regional authority.

Dodak, D-Birch Run, will decide this week which committee gets the Senate-proposed regionalization bill.

"If it gets into this committee, it's dead on arrival," said Oakland County Drain Commissioner George Kuhn, his index finger stabbing the roster of the Housing and Urban Affairs Committee. It's chaired by Rep. Nelson Saunders, D-Detroit, and has 40 percent Detroit members.

"If it goes here —" Kuhn pointed to the Towns and Counties Committee chaired by Rep. Roland Niederstadt, D-Saginaw, and contains no big-city members. "I've talked to Niederstadt. All I want to get to the bill to the floor where it can be voted on."

The Senate Thursday gave 21-16 approval to SB 936, put on a fast track by sponsor David Honigman, R-West Bloomfield, after one of the most bitter Detroit-suburban floor debates in years.

For 16 years suburban lawmakers like Rep. John Bennett, D-Redford, and Sen. Gil DiNello, D-East Detroit, had been shot down with efforts to establish a multi-county authority to take over the wholesaling of water and sewerage services from the city of Detroit.

Honigman, a freshman senator, moved the bill through the upper chamber in only a few weeks. Voting yes were 12 Republicans and nine Democrats, including Mike Bouchard, R-Birmingham, Mat Dunaskis, R-Lake Orion, William Faust, D-Westland, Jack Faxon, D-Farmington Hills, Robert Geake, R-Northville, George Hart, R-Dearborn, and Honigman.

Voting no were eight Republicans and eight Democrats, including Detroit's five senators and GOP chief-tains such as majority leader Dick Posthumus of Alto.

As a former state senator (1967-70), Kuhn was able to sit on the Senate floor with Honigman. Kuhn said Honigman's bill differed from earlier efforts in setting up a procedure to pay off Detroit for any of its general fund money that might be in the system.

The system has been built largely with federal aid from revenues, according to court documents. "Equity for Detroit is absolutely guaranteed," Kuhn said.

Detroit senators didn't think so. "You lay $3 billion on the table, and maybe we might want to talk," said Democrat Michael O'Brien.

"Start your own (system). That way you won't have to put up with us." "We start the business. We built the business. Now the customers want to take the business over," said Democrat Virgil Smith. "We don't want to sell. They want to steal the water system. Believe me, we'll go to court. We'll fight this all the way."

"It's been here 200 years. Now when it's under African-American control, you want to take control. Then you wonder why there's trouble in urban areas."

"It's good politics for someone," said Democrat Jackie Vaughn III in a veiled reference to Honigman's congressional ambitions.

Suburbanites saw the bill as municipal democracy, overdue after rising water rates and Detroit mismanagement.

"It would democratize the administration and rate setting in a seven-county area," said Honigman. "Even if Detroit were doing an excellent job running the system, there shouldn't be taxation without representation."

"It's a monopoly utility, and there's no Public Service Commission to oversee the rates," Honigman said, adding that Detroit awards 84 percent of its water board contracts without competitive bidding.

Jack Faxon, D-Farmington Hills, likened the bill to the American colonies' uprising against King George III. "Here are wrongs that are insufferable," he said, paraphrasing the Declaration of Independence. "I don't view this as a Detroit-bashing bill," said Mike Bouchard, R-Birmingham. "A regional authority allows more input into the process."

Romney out, DeVos is in

BY TIM RICHARD
STAFF WRITER

Neighbors Ronna Romney and Andrea Fischer knocked each other out at Saturday's Republican State Convention, handing over the national committee-woman seat to Betsy DeVos of Ada on the second ballot.

Romney, of Bloomfield, ran last on the first ballot in her bid for a third term, tearfully asking "friends and family" to "choose your candidate." Then she donned the pink cap that symbolized DeVos's "family values" campaign, which had religious undertones.

Result: Republicans broke their geographic balancing tradition by picking both their national committeeman and committeewoman from the Grand Rapids area. Re-elected committeeman, unopposed, was Chuck Yob.

First ballot results were 663 for DeVos, 641 for Fischer and 572 for Romney.

On the second ballot, Fischer, a Birmingham lawyer, was trailing by about 50 votes from more than 2,000 cast when she conceded to DeVos.

Fischer had strong support from people close to Gov. John Engler, for whom she was a fund-raiser, and open support from Oakland County Executive hopeful L. Brooks Patterson.

The unpaid national committee member is a money-raiser and organization person rarely seen by the public. But the women's contest — practically the only race at the staid convention — had some undercurrents:

• The 1996 U.S. Senate race — DeVos's husband, Dick, is a potential contender.

• Religion — DeVos is a trustee of two private schools, Ada Christian and Kendall College of Art & Design, and her supporters displayed anti-abortion stickers. Back-of-the-room talk noted that Fischer "isn't a saved Christian." Fischer, a partner in the law firm of Miller, Canfield, Paddock and Stone, is an Oakland University trustee.

• Term limitation — Romney had served eight years, and critics saw her as self-promoting rather than GOP-promoting. Perhaps significantly, delegates supported a term-limitation proposal by a vote of 834 to 394.

There was no proposal on abortion before the state convention. Abortion will, however, be a platform issue when Michigan's 72 delegates travel to Houston Aug. 16 for the national convention. Pro-choice forces want the GOP to soften the party's anti-abortion stand.

SKY WATCH

RAYMOND E. BULLOCK

At last, June has arrived. This is the month of the official start of summer, although many think summer begins on Memorial Day. (People who went camping over Memorial Day weekend may have thought it was the beginning (PRO see on) in the constellation of Canis Minor, the Little Dog. Procyon is the eighth-brightest star in the sky and is about 11 light-years away.

Above and to the right of the moon on the 3rd are Pollux and Castor, the "twin" stars in Gemini. Pollux is actually slightly brighter than Castor and closer to us. The distance to Castor is 45 light-years; Pollux is 35 light-years away.

The moon is 15 degrees above Procyon on the evening of the 4th. Since one degree is equivalent to two full moon diameters, the distance separating these two objects is about 30 moon diameters.

On the evening of the 5th the moon is approaching the star Regulus (REG u lus) in Leo. To the left of Regulus is the giant planet, Jupiter. Jupiter is generally the 4th brightest object in the sky but, since Venus is not visible this month, we can consider Jupiter the third brightest object. (Only the sun and moon are brighter.)

The moon, Jupiter and Regulus form an equilateral triangle on the evening of the 6th. Jupiter is seven degrees from Regulus on the 6th; by the end of the month they will be 10 degrees apart.

First-quarter moon is at 4:47 p.m. on the 7th. It has completed the first-quarter of its orbit around the earth.

The moon is in Virgo, approaching the star Spica (SPY ka) on the evening of the 9th, and has passed that star by the following night. Spica is the 16th brightest star in the sky.

The bright star two degrees to the right of the moon on the evening of the 13th is Antares (an TAR ees), the "heart" of Scorpius. Directly above the moon and Scorpius is a constellation that covers one of the largest areas of the sky. This obscure star pattern honors a doctor. Its name is Ophiuchus (oh fee YOU kus). In his outstretched arms he holds the symbol of doctors; Serpens the serpents.

Ophiuchus (it sounds like profanity!) has been identified with Aesculapius, the first physician. According to mythology, this doctor was so good, he could restore life to the dead. That was something that irritated Pluto, god of the underworld, to no end.

Ophiuchus looks like a big lopsided follow-the-dot house leaning to the left, without any bright stars to help identify it. (Is there a doctor in the house?) Notice the bright blue-white star high in the east; this is Vega (VEE ga) in Lyra the lyre. A line drawn from Vega to Antares passes directly through Ophiuchus, passing nearly directly through the apex of the "house."

In the year 1604 astronomer Johann Kepler witnessed a supermoon, which has since become known as Kepler's Star, in Ophiuchus. The ecliptic (path of the sun, moon and planets) runs through a portion of the bottom of this constellation, so it could be considered a thirteenth member of the zodiac. Actually, there is more of the ecliptic in Ophiuchus than in Scorpius!

Full moon on 15th
The moon is full at 12:50 a.m. on June 15. The full moon that occurs in June has been called the Rose Moon, Strawberry Moon and Flower Moon by various native American tribes. Notice the low altitude of the full moon this month. Because the full moon is opposite the sun, it is low in the summer while the sun is at its highest. In winter the opposite occurs.

There will be a partial lunar eclipse, as the moon passes through the earth's shadow, and it will be visible (weather permitting!) from our area. The moon enters the earth's umbra (darkest area of the shadow) at 11:27 p.m. on June 14. Maximum eclipse, when 69% of the moon is covered, occurs at 12:57 a.m. on the 15th. The illuminated portion of the moon will look like a smile in the sky. There is no hazard to your eyes in viewing an eclipse of the moon, and binoculars are just as good to use as a telescope.

By the way, the eclipse occurs within the constellation of Ophiuchus; the third magnitude star to the lower right of the eclipsed moon is Theta Ophiuchii, which is about 700 light-years distant. The moon leaves the umbra, essentially ending the eclipse, at 2:27 a.m.

of winter.) This year there will be a partial eclipse of the moon in June, a total eclipse of the sun (although it's not visible from our area) and Mercury puts in an excellent evening appearance.

The length of the day at the start of the month is nearly the same as at the end; 15 hours and 8 minutes versus 15 hours and 18 minutes. Sunrise on June is at 5:59 a.m. and sunset is at 9:07 p.m. On June 30, these times are 6:00 a.m. and 9:18 p.m. (All times are Eastern Daylight Time.)

Venus obscured

Mercury and Jupiter will be visible in the evening sky this month; Mars and Saturn are in the pre-dawn sky. Venus is too close to the sun to be seen.

Face west on the evening of the 3rd and look for the waxing (growing) crescent moon, 45 minutes after sunset. Below and to the left of the moon, eight degrees above due west, is the bright star Procyon

WHEN IS IT ALL RIGHT TO HURT?
Aching means something is amiss. However, there are aches which represent a re-occurring discomfort but not a condition leading to eventual crippling or impairment.

One example of such an ache is the pain of tension. You may be a person who handles stress by a tightness of your muscles and joints; you have periods of aching which come and then suddenly leave. There are days you awaken well, and days you are tight all over. The aching settles in your shoulders and back as your mood reminds you that a great (emotional) weight rests upon you. You find that a hot shower helps, and the working out, if possible, or the distraction of recreation, eases the ache. If you watch carefully, you may find the connection between the pain and the event that upset you.

A second example is the hurting that occurs after usual effort. Often you have more problem recognizing the connection than you would believe. As you age, your resiliency leaves before your sense of self acknowledges the loss of recuperative power. What you need as you grow older is more time to repair not a medical evaluation to uncover a secret of nature residing in your joints.

If aching is accompanied by a swollen joint, or you lose use of your hands, shoulders or knees, the above does not apply. Then you seek a doctor's evaluation without delay.

TASTE BUDS

CHEF LARRY JANES

Favorite foods taste better cooked on grill

Ask any of the Janes gang how they prefer their meat or fish cooked and the answer would be unanimous — "on the grill." Whether tossed on a $6 bargain basement special or cooked to perfection on an $800 outdoor range, you just can't beat a grill for cooking your favorite foods.

Maybe it's the look of the grilling marks, perfectly zig-zagged on a filet or the sumptuous sizzle from swordfish being brushed with an herb butter that makes the food so good. Maybe it's just being outside on a sultry summer's eve with a spatula in one hand and a cool drink in the other. There's no doubt about it. I love to cook on the grill.

Cooking on the grill can be exotic and expensive, as you well know. Standard grills require charcoal, starter and plenty of long handled utensils which help avoid singed hands and arms.

Gas grills require propane, the same long handled utensils and a little more attention to cleanliness less the burners get clogged with drippings and food residue. In addition to the cost of the grill, those are just for starters.

If you desire and can afford more, the list can escalate dramatically with the addition of special woods for that delicately imparted flavor and additional equipment that can make the job a little easier.

Charcoal chimneys, non-stick grill pans, speciality food holders and claw utensils not to mention meat thermometers, grill mitts and squirt bottles all make grilling more of a culinary fete, in addition to costing a bundle. What's hot and what's not?

Hot gadgets

Here's a look at what's available and in descending order, what should be a priority should you wish to expand your summer grilling expertise.

If you happen to be like me, you're still relying on the famed old standby, a Weber kettle grill. This grill is the standard for the industry and performs well. In addition to the grill and charcoal, to make lighting easier, you need a charcoal chimney. This is nothing more than a tall coffee can with handles. Simply set the chimney in the grill, add a crumbled Taste section and top off with charcoal. Light the bottom and in 15 minutes or less, expect glowing coals.

Available anywhere grills are sold, expect to pay $12 to $20. Speaking of charcoal, you certainly get what you pay for. Look for genuine hardwood briquettes, no ifs, ands, or butts. They not only last longer, but in the long run, allow you to really use less, saving you more money for better gadget or food purchases.

Relatively new on the market within the last few years are non-stick grilling pans that sit right on the grill grids and allow the backyard barbecuer an opportunity to cook a multitude of foods without ever having to worry about the food falling into the hot coals.

The first prototypes introduced were nothing more than cookie sheets with holes, but the market has improved itself and now heavier models are made of anodized aluminum. Non-stick surfaces make for a grilling pan with holes that will not warp and make cleanup a breeze. Prices vary dramatically with some models, depending on size, starting at $15 and running the gamut to about $75 for the top-of-the-line. I bought mine at a gourmet shop for about $25 and wouldn't think of firing up the grill without it.

Claw tools and speciality baskets for burgers, meats and fish are cute, but it's my professional opinion that they are useless, especially when a top grid grilling pan is available.

Flavor enhancers

Speciality woods seem to be the rage again this year, as in the past. Hickory chips, applewood and other assorted fruitwood chips supposedly add a distinct flavor, but unless you plan on covering the grill and allowing the smoky flavors to penetrate whatever it is you cook, they are expensive additions which do little.

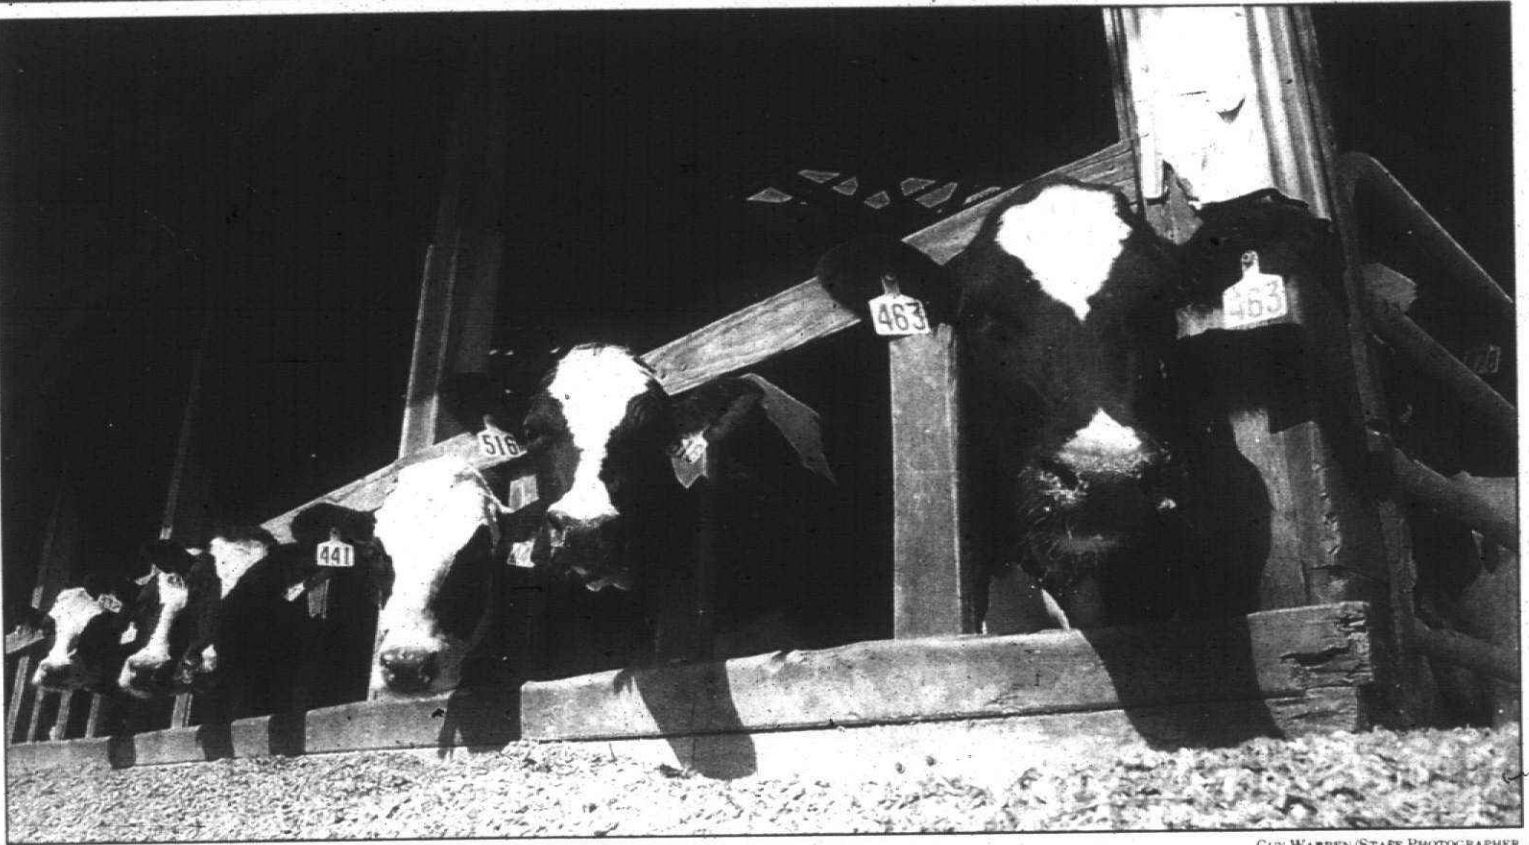

Herbs are more readily available and can be tossed on the hot coals directly when fresh or can be soaked for a few minutes in liquid if dried. In my opinion, they are more flavorful and cost-effective than those fancy woods.

Lastly, I would like to mention two personal favorites. A few years back, I picked up one of those inexpensive plastic squirt bottles and a good instant read thermometer.

The thermometer is always useful for immediately registering internal meat temperatures while the squirt bottle is always kept topped with wine, broth or water to douse flare-ups and help keep what's cooking moist. Trust me on these last two, you won't be disappointed with either.

So if the backyard beckons, or you happen to be looking for a few new ideas for Father's Day gift giving ideas, the above mentioned gadgets will surely please all who cook on the grill.

something to moo about

■ Chef Larry Janes learns how milk gets from the cow to the dairy case at the Gill dairy farm in Canton Township.

BY LARRY JANES
STAFF WRITER

You have to realize something right off the bat; the closest I've ever been to a cow was being chosen as a celebrity cow milker at last year's Michigan State Fair. I lost the competition because my cow "missy" inadvertently knocked over the milk pail when I assumed I grabbed her a little too ardently.

So when a packet of information heralding June as National Dairy Month crossed my desk, I couldn't wait to contact Irene Cameron from the Michigan Dairy Council, and a Livonia resident, to set up an interview with a dyed in the wool dairy farmer. I wanted to be ready and knowledgeable should that State Fair gig come up again this year.

I was surprised when she returned my call with information on one of Southeastern Michigan's premier dairy farms, owned and operated by Stanley and Sarah Gill just south of Canton in Wayne County!

This dairy farm, with close to 500 "bossies" in its herd is one of the oldest and largest continually operating dairy farms in the Midwest. Owned and operated by the Gill family, whose heritage traces back to England, it was founded in 1834 and is still being run by Stanley and Sarah Gill with their son Tom and his wife Sherry.

The visit was an eye opener. The Janes gang has long been avid milk drinkers, but never gave much thought to where milk comes from and how it got to the dairy case.

With a milking herd of about 480 cows, this dairy farm is in operation 24 hours a day. The Gills employ a crew of 17 who tend the cows, and farm more than 1,200 acres of prime alfalfa, hay and straw. The farmland helps generate feed for the milking herd, and the 100 or so bulls and 65 calves that keep the operation going at full swing.

The milking herd gets milked three times daily — 4 a.m., 11 a.m. and 7 p.m. Sarah Gill keeps tabs on the farm-house, paperwork, and calves, while husband Stanley sees that more than 4,000 gallons of fresh milk get delivered through rain, snow and shine, 365 days a year to the Michigan Dairy in Livonia.

For the uninitiated, that means the Gills' farm produces more than 13 million pounds of milk every year. The Gills are proud to point out that their operation is one of the few that produces only pure, Grade A milk. There are various grades of milk, but only the Grade A milk gets made into real butter, whole milk and ice cream. The other grades are processed into other forms of milk products. Cameron was quick to point out that in Michigan alone, there are more than 5,000 dairy farmers with over 850 of these that have been in business over 50 years.

"Together, dairy farmers and processors contribute more than $15 billion to Michigan's economy." Hard to believe, but Michigan ranks only seventh in total milk production with over five billion pounds being produced annually.

"Technology, new milking practices, and the fluctuation of milk prices have dramatically changed the way dairy farmers do business," said Cammeron. Sarah Gill agrees and says, "Last year's price drop of $1 per 100 pounds darn well near swept our feet right out from under us."

The Gills use computers and modern milking technology to get the highest volume from their milking herd. One of these technologies knocked the socks off this writer when I visited the Gills' state of the art eight stall herringbone milking parlor that can milk 16 cows simultaneously in less than 20 minutes. "It was a major investment," said Gill, "but it has paid for itself with the added speed and convenience."

In addition to her duties on the farm, Sarah Gill is also quite a cook. A recent visit found her preparing buttermilk biscuits from scratch that rivaled momma's. Here's a lady who eschews modern conveniences in the kitchen, but not on the farm. She still washes her face with milk everyday, and looks pretty darned chipper for someone who works 365 days a year.

So the next time you pick up a gallon of milk, a hunk of cheese or some ice cream at the grocers, remember folks like Stanley and Sarah Gill who literally work around the clock to bring folks like us the best Michigan has to offer. See recipes inside.

Good food, cabaret at Punchinello's

Springtime specialties: Mark Davis of Punchinello's presents chicken strudel with fresh vegetables, spring rolls, and Greek salad. The popular restaurant in Birmingham is celebrating its 10th anniversary.

Some things are different, like the new breakfast menu, coffee bar and vodka bar, but many things are the same at Punchinello's in Birmingham which is celebrating its 10th anniversary.

"We use only real, fresh ingredients," said Mark Davis, owner and manager of Punchinello's, 184 Pierce at Martin. "The only thing frozen is ice cubes. Yes, we might be a little more expensive, but real costs more."

Prices range from $5 to $12 for lunch items, $14 to $25 for dinner. Menu specials reflect the freshest fruits and vegetables of the season. "Our Seafood Alfredo is made with fresh lobster, shrimp, Parmesan cheese, and pasta, and tossed with a double cream sauce," said Davis.

He opened Punchinello's in 1982, and it immediately gained a reputation for innovative and creative cooking. He has incorporated Italian, Chinese, American and other styles to complement the French cuisine he specializes in.

There are also heart-healthy, vegetarian and an assortment of salads on the menu. During the summer, you can dine outside. The downstairs cabaret shows at 9 p.m. Fridays and Saturdays feature talented local entertainers who make a night out a holiday. Restaurant hours are 11 a.m. to 10 p.m. Mondays, 9 a.m. to midnight, Tuesday through Saturday, and 9 a.m. to 9 p.m. Sunday. Call 644-5277 for reservations.

Davis graduated from Michigan State University in 1972 with a degree in French literature. While attending school, he trained at MSU's Kellogg Center where he received a taste of French cuisine. He studied cooking in France, and worked at such area restaurants as the Money Tree and Tweeny's. Favorite herb or spice.

Basil.
Best experience as a chef?

A recent Christmas party he gave. "They ate everything, and seemed to enjoy it," said Davis.

Worst experience as a chef?

"I was having a party at the restaurant, and went to the store to do some last minute shopping that should have taken 10 minutes. I was blocked in by two cars in the parking lot, and was an hour late for the party."

Speciality?

Country French and Italian cuisine.

Favorite piece of cookware at home and at work?

Saute pan.

Name five things in your refrigerator?

Sliced, frozen turkey, cranberry juice, skim milk, frozen yogurt, grapefruit.

Cooking tips

"Don't over beat. If you're beating until stiff, and it's coming out dry, stop doing that. Preheat your oven. Buy the finest, freshest ingredients you can afford.

If you could cook dinner for anyone, who would it be? what would you serve?

"Thomas Jefferson because he was brilliant. I would serve a menu of Michigan foods — smoked fish canapes, gazpacho, Michigan chardonnay, chicken curry served with a Michigan blush wine, mixed salad with Michigan cherries, and for dessert, a pecan pie wrapped in phyllo dough."

SHARAH GILL'S HOMEMADE BUTTERMILK BISCUITS

2 cups sifted flour
3 teaspoons baking powder
1/2 teaspoon salt
1/2 teaspoon baking soda
1/2 teaspoon sugar
5 tablespoons shortening, at room temperature
1 cup buttermilk

Sift together dry ingredients. Cut in the shortening with a fork or pastry blender it will be coarse crumbs. Add buttermilk all at once and stir until the dough follows the fork around the bowl.

Turn out and knead 5-6 times. Be careful because too much handling makes dough tough. Roll 1/4 inch thick and cut with a cutter or glass. Brush biscuits with a little melted butter. Place in a baking dish and bake at 375 to 400 degrees for 10 to 12 minutes, depending on your oven.

When baked, brush the tops again with butter and sprinkle a little sugar on top. Makes about 8 biscuits.

EASY AMERICAN TART SHELL

1/2 cup (1 1/2 sticks) butter, softened

TART FILLING

2 packages (3.4 ounces each) instant vanilla pudding mix
2 cups milk
2 teaspoons lemon juice
1 cup whipping cream strawberries or raspberries blueberries or blackberries banana slices

For filling, beat together pudding mix, milk, lemon juice and peel. In separate bowl, beat whipping cream just until stiff peaks form; gently fold in pudding mixture. Spread evenly in tart shell. Decorate to resemble flag using berries and banana slices to form stars and stripes.

Fire up the grill for garlic, onions, fish

See Larry James' column on Taste front.

GRILLED GARLIC AND ONIONS

12 thin wooden skewers
3 large sweet onions
1 bulb garlic, peeled
1 cup white wine
salt and pepper to taste

Soak the wooden skewers in any liquid for about 1 hour before cooking to prevent burning.

Peel and quarter onions and alternately skewer on the stick with the garlic cloves. Grill over hot coals; frequently brushing or spraying with wine while cooking. Cook until vegetables are tender, about 15-20 minutes. Salt and pepper to taste. Serves 6.

GRILLED FISH WITH CITRUS MAYONNAISE

1 pound fish suitable for grilling juice from 2 lemons, limes or oranges

1 cup mayonnaise
1/4 cup Parmesan cheese

Allow the fish to come to room temperature before grilling. For optimum results, use only fresh citrus juice. Combine the juice with the mayonnaise and Parmesan cheese and mix well. Fish can be marinated in the mixture for 1 hour before cooking, if desired.

Place fish over glowing coals, about 4 inches from heat. Remember, fish cooks quickly so keep brushing citrus mayonnaise mixture over fish while cooking to keep moist. Flip fish and brush with remaining sauce. Cook until fish flakes easily, about 3 minutes on each side for 1/2 inch thick fillet. Serves 4.

Cooked vegetable salad perfect for picnics

Mountain-grown grapes add flavor to Gauer wines

Special aromas and flavors of wine are reflections of the grape's natural environment. Exceptional varietal wines are produced when the elements of soil, climate and cultural skill are well married.

Soil type defines a wine's structure and has significant bearing on flavor components. Climate holds equal importance and site differentiation accounts in great measure toward a wine's complexity and long-term ageability.

Varietal intensity is the principal characteristic of mountain-grown fruit. As a direct result of more pronounced sun exposure, grape berries are smaller, more deeply colored and thicker skinned. This heightens and intensifies their flavor.

These elements are well integrated in the mountain fruit of Gauer Estate Vineyard and are best illustrated in the winery's handsome

ELEANOR & RAY HEALD

Lack of water, however, can over-stress grape vines. At Gauer, drip irrigation from spring-fed ponds is used to maintain the vines at levels just above stress, thus producing small berries with concentrated flavors.

Different mountain slopes create varying angles from which the sun can penetrate a vine. Gauer's terraced vineyard sites range from 15 to 22 percent with the choicest vineyards planted at a 30 percent slope. Here cabernet sauvignon, cabernet franc and merlot thrive on west and south-facing slopes while chardonnay, benefiting from cooler temperatures, is better suited to north-facing sites.

Mountain grape growing is an arduous, expensive, time-consuming task requiring extended patience. Many years pass between soil cultivation and the first harvestable crop. Today, Gauer Estate is reaping the rewards of patience in their richly styled wines. "We're attempting to bottle the essence of our exceptional vineyards," comments winemaker Kerry Damskey.

"I believe the marketplace has many good chardonnays. Therefore, we need to have something different. The lower vigor of Gauer's estate vineyards adds a dimension of strength to the wines. They are somewhat tight when young, but are more European in style than most California chardonnays. Essentially, they are more French because they tend to taste better with some bottle age. You won't find a tropical nature in the chardonnays from Gauer Estate."

WINE SELECTIONS OF THE WEEK

1989 Gauer Estate Vineyard Chardonnay ($18) displays toasty-oak aromatics over intensely varietal fruit. The flavors are rich and creamy with an extended, lengthy finish. Early on, the 1989 vintage was literally damped by some feature cuisine from more than 50 of the areas finest chefs and over 100 wines donated by Detroit-Metro area distributors. Held on the Center's Farmington Hills grounds at 27400 W. 12 Mile, the fund-raiser designed to offset cuts in government funding for children's services, will wine authorities. Writing off a whole vintage is narrow-minded. This is one of the greats that will age for some years to come.

1988 Gauer Estate Vineyard Cabernet Sauvignon ($20) showcases a mountain berry nose with intense cassis elements. It's richly flavored and extracted with a complex, enticing finish.

Saucy potato topper low in fat

AP — When you sauteing not sauteing? When you "saute" in your microwave oven.

POTATOES WITH DIJON MUSHROOM SAUCE

4 medium baking potatoes (6 to 8 ounces each)
2 cups sliced fresh mushrooms
1 medium onion, chopped (1/2 cup)
2 cup chopped red or green sweet pepper
1/2 cup shredded carrot
1/2 cup chicken broth
1 tablespoon cornstarch
1 tablespoon Dijon-style mustard
Dash pepper
2 tablespoons grated Parmesan cheese (optional)

Scrub potatoes; prick several times with a fork. Arrange potatoes on a microwave-safe plate. Cook, uncovered, on 100 percent power (high) for 13 to 16 minutes or until tender, rearranging once. Let stand while cooking sauce.

In a 1/2 quart microwave-safe casserole combine mushrooms, onion, red or green pepper, carrot and 1/4 cup of the chicken broth. Cook, covered, on 100 percent power (high) for 5 to 7 minutes or until vegetables are tender, stirring once.

In a small mixing bowl stir together remaining 1/4 cup chicken broth, cornstarch, mustard and pepper.

Stir into vegetables. Cook, uncovered, on high for 2 to 3 minutes or until thickened and bubbly, stirring every minute until sauce begins to thicken, then every 30 seconds.

Split open potatoes; mash potato centers slightly with a fork. Season to taste with salt and pepper.

Spoon sauce atop. If desired, sprinkle with Parmesan cheese. Makes 4 servings.

KONA COCONUT MUFFINS
1/2 cup unsalted butter, at room temperature
1/2 cup sugar
1/2 cup lightly packed brown sugar
2 eggs
1 1/2 cups all-purpose flour
1 tablespoon baking powder
1/4 teaspoon salt
1/4 cup brewed dark roast coffee, cooled slightly
1/2 cup milk
2 teaspoons vanilla extract
1 1/2 cups coarsely chopped walnuts
1/2 cup sweetened grated coconut

Preheat oven to 350 degrees F. Grease and flour 12 muffin cups or line them with paper baking cups.

In a large bowl, cream the butter with the sugars until light and fluffy. Beat in eggs one at a time.

In a small bowl, sift together dry ingredients. Combine coffee, milk and vanilla in another small bowl. Alternately blend the coffee and flour mixtures with the creamed butter. Stir in nuts and coconut.

Fill muffin tins and bake in a 350-degree F oven until a toothpick inserted in the center of a muffin comes out clean, 25 to 35 minutes. Cool briefly on a wire rack. Makes 12 muffins.

Renovation polishes up longtime architectural gem

By M.B. DILLON
STAFF WRITER

Western and Ellington, the Detroit architect and engineer who in 1926 designed and built Western Golf & Country Club, would be so proud they'd pop a few buttons if they could see the just-completed renovation of Redford Township's architectural gem.

Working with Western members who hail from communities throughout metro Detroit, project designer John Bodag and architect Michael Krebs studied 66-year-old blueprints in planning the restoration of the club's grandeur.

Bodag — the Royal Oak-based designer of restaurants including the Alibi, Opus One, Pegasus and the Dearborn Hyatt's La Rotisserie — stripped fireplaces to reveal natural limestone, and resurfaced hearths with verde gada Italian marble.

He added concealed lighting throughout the club to enhance the texture of woodwork, oak beams and swirled, raised plaster.

A flower-lined ramp was landscaped into the entrance to provide barrier-free access.

Heavy Bavarian doors were replaced with doors custom-made with beveled glass. A specially made leaded glass chandelier five feet in diameter graces the foyer. Matching art deco wall scones adorn the walls.

Floors and walls were carpeted and covered in hues of forest green, black, amber and taupe. Doorways were widened with archways, and oak columns and crown molding added. Wide window sills and flat surfaces were rag-rolled in shiny tones of hunter green and black. Plumbing, electrical and fire protection systems were upgraded.

"The renovations were done because the mood of the club was it said club president Charles Bokos. "We hadn't done anything for many years. We were able to secure sub-contractors and some real artisans to complete the work."

The project's general contractor was Dale Belsley of T.H. Marsh Construction Co. Both Belsley and Marsh belong to Western. John Steinke antiqued the plaster work, and did the painting, glazing and rag-rolling.

Best-kept secret

"This is a great club. We have a phenomenal golf course, and now we have a beautiful facility," said longtime member Peg Watson. "Western is one of the best-kept secrets in the whole state of Michigan."

The 18-hole course was designed by Donald Ross, the architect who also laid out Oakland Hills and the Detroit Golf Club.

Said Bodag: "The building itself has such great architectural features and character, so our intent was primarily to enhance what was already there. We were able to come up with the original drawings of the building, and we borrowed from them."

"The architecture of the building revolves around the entry way, so we enhanced it and used it to set the theme for the entire club. To enhance wall textures, we came up with a two-layered paint finish. We painted the first layer, then washed a second color over it."

In the foyer's arched ceiling, Bodag hung an eye-catching leaded glass chandelier. Above it, tile-sized squares of bronze foiled wallpaper create the effect of gold leaf.

Bodag added large crown molding with concealed lighting throughout the clubhouse. He designed and built a new bar, freeing up dining room space. "We added indirect lighting under the face of the bar itself. The lighting effects just add it's much more dramatic, especially in the evening."

Space in the mixed grill was doubled. Added to the grill were columns and wainscoting made from oak.

Now barrier-free

A popular feature among both the club's able-bodied and wheelchair-bound is the landscaped ramp that traverses the front of the building to meet the front porch.

"Complying with the barrier-free codes and necessities of today doesn't mean that a building or condition has to be unattractive," said Bodag. "It's just a matter of thought and careful attention to detail."

As funds become available, offices off the foyer will be converted into a library/greeting area featuring hardwood floors, a fireplace and oak shelving, said Bodag. Other improvements will include more handicapped facilities and work on the exterior.

Club manager Ron Pearson, who started working at Western as a 12-year-old caddy, says he's delighted with the work that's been done so far, and looks forward to the next phase.

"The exterior siding hides quite a bit of the original design. If we can uncover some of it, we may find some very elaborate fieldstone work."

Western professional Ray Bolo looks forward to showcasing the club later this month, when Gene Littler, Don January, Jack Fleck and other pros will compete in the Super Seniors TPC tournament at Western. The tournament for 60- and older pro golfers will be hosted by Dearborn Country Club and Western the second week of June.

It will continue a club tradition that began in the 1930s, when Western hosted the Michigan Open. Since then, the club has been home to the Motor City Open, the prestigious Western Open, and numerous charity and celebrity tournaments.

This is lockerroom manager Jim Seiler's 47th year at Western. The former caddy and 20-year caddy superintendent remembers the 1930's when Western was also a boat and bridle club. "We had a man-made lake across Inkster called Lake Como. We had boating in the summer and ice skating in the summer."

New bar and grill: Western manager Ron Pearson relaxes at the club's new bar, which anchors a grill that's been doubled in size.

Caddy grants

In Seiler's opinion, Western has more to boast about than its physical assets. One of its finest achievements involves Western's 75 Evans scholars — caddies whose academic performance has earned them club-sponsored college scholarships.

His parents felt it was time he had a place of his own. After all, he was 15.

PLYMOUTH-CANTON SPORTS SCENE

Western Michigan hockey

Senior right wing Joe Bonnett, of Canton was named an assistant captain of the Western Michigan University hockey team for the 1992-93 season.

Bonnett was WMU's most improved player last season, playing in all 36 games and earning eight points with five goals and three assists.

David Weaver of Canton is one of three players who have been invited to the WMU fall training camp as a potential walk-on candidate.

He played forward for the Little Caesars midget team that won the 1991 and 1992 national AAA titles. Weaver scored 45 goals and had 58 assists in 76 games last season, averaging 1.36 points per game.

The Broncos were 16-14-6 overall and 14-12-6 in the Central Collegiate Hockey Association. WMU was ranked among the top 20 teams for most of the season and made a ninth consecutive CCHA tournament appearance.

Soccer stars on Bud team

Several area players competed for the Budweiser All-State Soccer Team in tournament play recently in Rockford, Ill.

Forwards included Brian Thiel of Livonia, a member of the Blazers, who attends Valparaiso University, and Travis Roy of Livonia Stevenson High, who is headed for Wisconsin.

Midfielders included John Gentile, Livonia Churchill product, a member of the Marauders (Oakland University); Dominic Scicluna, Redford Catholic Central High product, Paragon (Oakland University); Kerry Zavagnin of Plymouth, Redford CC High (North Carolina bound); Mike Giese, Farmington High (Butler University); and Paul Kaliszewski, Churchill product, Marauders (Eastern Michigan).

Defenders included Livonia Stevenson product Lars Richters, a Yale University grad and member of the National Professional Indoor League champion Detroit Rockers squad; Derek Williford, Stevenson grad, Blazers (Oakland).

Goalie selections included Mike Sheehy of Farmington High, who now plays for the Blazers and Oakland, along with Churchill High junior Kal Kaliszewski, a member of the Marauders of the Great Lakes Men's Soccer League.

The coaches were Steve Seargeant and John Boots.

Eagles win division title

Plymouth Christian Academy won the American Division softball title in the Michigan Independent Athletic Conference with an 8-0 record.

The Eagles completed a sweep of division opponents Tuesday by defeating host Westland Huron Valley 11-10. Winning pitcher Kristina Tilly struck out nine and walked two.

Nancy Kobernick had two hits, including a double to drive in the winning run in the seventh inning. Melissa Yoder also had an important two-base hit for the Eagles, 7-4 overall.

Berrigan top female athlete

Farmington Hills Mercy senior Kathleen Berrigan has been named the Female Athlete of the Year in the Catholic League.

Berrigan was a four-time letter winner in softball for the Marlins and played on the varsity basketball team for three years.

She has achieved a 3.6 grade-point average and hopes to continue playing softball next year at the University of Michigan.

"I thought it was a big enough honor just getting the application from my school, because each school gets only one," Berrigan said, adding she was "incredibly surprised" to receive the overall award. "I wasn't expecting to win, so I was quite excited."

Berrigan, who was chosen from 36 female applicants, will be honored along with Rob Valentino of Dearborn Divine Child — the male winner — at the Catholic League championship baseball game Wednesday at Tiger Stadium.

Berrigan was an All-Observer and All-Catholic selection in basketball last fall, helping the Marlins to a runner-up finish in the state tournament and a 17-9 record.

She averaged eight points and 3.7 rebounds and led Mercy with 110 steals. The 5-foot-4 point guard holds school records for single-game assists (13), assists per game (7 1/2) and career assists (381).

Berrigan also was a two-time most valuable player in the annual Mercy Hoops Classic.

As an outfielder in softball, she made the All-Observer team the last two years. She batted .375, stole 34 bases, scored 41 runs, had nine sacrifices, compiled 21 RBIs and had an on-base percentage of .683 as a junior.

"The highlight was the state final in basketball; that was the best," Berrigan said.

Morrison signs with MSU

All-State swimmer Bryan Morrison of Livonia Stevenson recently signed a national letter-of-intent with Michigan State University.

The 6-foot-4 honor student finished fifth in the 500-yard freestyle at the state Class A meet. He was also seventh in the 200 freestyle. Morrison also was a member of the 200- and 400- freestyle relay squads which earned All-American recognition with finishes of sixth and fourth, respectively.

Canton sweeps Stevenson, 1-0

Plymouth Canton, the 1988 Class A girls soccer champion, earned a berth in the semifinals its 1-0 win over rival Livonia Stevenson in the regional final Friday.

BY STEVE KOWALSKI
STAFF WRITER

Rebekah Raymor doesn't play goalkeeper for Plymouth Canton's girls soccer team, but she came up with the most important save of Friday's Class A regional final.

With less than a minute remaining and Livonia Stevenson lining up for a corner kick, Raymor stepped in front of a point-blank header by the Spartans' Shannon Wilkinson and preserved Canton's 1-0 victory.

Without Raymor's presence, the ball would have ended up in the corner of the net, forcing overtime. The win was the third straight without a loss against Stevenson and sends Canton (17-0-2) to Wednesday's Class A semifinal game against the Holland regional champion at Brighton.

"I just happened to be in the right spot at the right time and the ball hit my leg — it was just luck," said Raymor, a senior defender.

Canton's junior forward Leah Hutko also had good timing, waiting until after she scored the game's only goal with 19:15 left to have an asthma attack. Ironically, Hutko was motioning to the Canton bench moments before the goal for a rest, but couldn't exit without a stoppage of play.

Sophomore forward Mandy Salin picked up the assist on the goal after crossing the ball in front of the Stevenson net.

"I just put my foot out and redirected the ball into the net," Hutko said. "In big games, when my adrenalin is going, my asthma gets worse. I was trying to get off the field for awhile, but I couldn't get a substitute. I guess it was luck we couldn't get a sub."

Hutko played only about two minutes the rest of the game.

"She can't go real long — maybe 15 minutes at the most — without a rest because of the intensity she plays with," said Canton coach Don Smith. "Unless it's a slow-paced game. And this wasn't a slow-paced game."

Each team moved the ball well up-and-down the field, but there were few goal-scoring opportunities on either side. Canton took advantage of a break-down in the Stevenson defense to score the only goal, as the Spartans' senior defender Tracy Morrell was left as the only defender in front of the senior goalkeeper Alicia Smith.

"Someone (Hutko) ran through unmarked, they had two players in front of the box to our one defender, got the play and knocked it in," Stevenson coach Mary Kay Hussey said.

The loss ended Stevenson's season at 15-3-2 overall. Hussey said this was the first time she can remember a Stevenson team losing to anyone three times in one season.

What made the series with Canton even more aggravating was the Spartans were outscored 6-0.

"To beat us three times you've got to be the better team," Hussey said. "Canton is a good team, a very good team."

To generate some offense, Stevenson moved All-America midfielder Ragen Coyne up to the frontline near the end of the first half. The move almost paid off with about four minutes remaining before halftime as Coyne made a cross to sophomore Maureen Drabicki, but Drabicki's header sailed over the Canton net.

The Spartans moved Coyne to a rover position and Morrell to center halfback while trying to catch up in the final seven minutes, but they couldn't capitalize.

The Chiefs' goalkeeper was junior Jori Welchans and Canton also got strong defensive play from junior halfback Amy Westerhold and sophomore defender Erica Anderson, who shadowed Coyne.

This was the final game for Stevenson seniors Coyne, Smith, Wilkinson, Morrell and Jeanne Barnas.

The Spartans won the Class A championship in 1990, but Coyne, Wilkinson and Morrell look forward to even better days playing Division I college soccer. Coyne is headed to Notre Dame and Wilkinson and Morrell will play at Michigan State.

"Ragen is an All-American player and the five seniors we're losing, of course we're going to feel it," Hussey said. "But we're Livonia Stevenson and we'll always be competitive. We have a very good nucleus returning."

Shamrocks earn district honor

JIM JAGOFF/STAFF PHOTOGRAPHER

Right stuff: Scott Kapla of Canton pitched just two innings in the first game Saturday but was the winner in Catholic Central's mercy-rule win over Harrison.

Redford Catholic Central used the newfound strength of senior shortstop Paul Kuhn to win Saturday's Class A district final in the rain and mud at Southfield High School.

BY STEVE KOWALSKI
STAFF WRITER

Redford Catholic Central senior shortstop Paul Kuhn, known in years past as a light hitter, slugged a heavy baseball better than anyone else during Saturday's Class A district at Southfield High School.

Kuhn homered during CC's 11-1 win over Farmington Hills Harrison in a Class A district opener and later in the day he scored once and hit a sacrifice fly to lead the Shamrocks past North Farmington 4-1 in the district final.

The games were played in miserably wet conditions, making the several baseballs used heavier than normal.

CC (22-3) advances to Saturday's Temperance-Bedford regional and will meet the winner of today's Ann Arbor Pioneer district.

"Paul hit the home run, which is pretty good as heavy as the balls were today," CC coach John Salter said. "I didn't think anyone could hit one out."

After hitting below .200 a year ago, Kuhn spent the winter months working out at Grand Slam USA in Farmington Hills. The work helped raise Kuhn's average to .351, and his power has increased — although he's not ready to go from the No. 2 batter in the lineup to cleanup.

Kuhn's three-run homer in the win over Harrison cleared the left-field fence and was the first of his career.

"It was a fastball right down the middle. I kept my head down; it was just a normal swing," Kuhn said.

The district final was deadlocked at 1-1 after four innings before CC scored a pair of unearned runs in the top of the fifth to break the tie. After North starting and losing pitcher Mark Temple retired the first two CC batters, Scott Kapla's fly ball to center field was misplayed for a two-base error.

Kuhn walked to put runners on first and second and Brian Hicks followed with a two-run single for a 3-1 CC lead.

Temple allowed another CC run in the seventh on a single by Kapla, a throwing error and Kuhn's sacrifice fly.

CEP teams play today

Centennial Educational Park teams had to wait until today to play their district tournament softball and baseball games.

Both districts were to have been played Saturday at Ann Arbor Pioneer High School but were postponed because of poor weather and field conditions.

All games will be played today at the regularly-scheduled times.

In the softball tournament, Plymouth Canton plays Pioneer at 10:30 a.m. and Plymouth Salem opposes Belleville at 1 p.m. The championship game is slated to start at 3:30 p.m.

Salem begins the baseball tournament with a 10 a.m. game against Belleville. Westland John Glenn faces Pioneer at 12:30 p.m. The final is scheduled to start at 3 p.m.

The district winners will advance to the Class A regional tournaments at Temperance Bedford on Saturday.

All in all, he pitched well after having to throw three innings in a 4-3 win earlier in the day over Farmington.

Temple allowed four hits, three walks and struck out five CC batters in falling to 9-2 overall. Scott Kapla, CC's ace, earned the win after relieving starter Dan Gusoff in the third and not allowing any North hits.

Temple was one of 11 North seniors playing their final game.

"I think Mark threw well, considering the conditions," North coach Irv Horowitz said. "He ended up 9 and 2 and I think he's all-state material. It was great working with the seniors this year. All of them grew up with my son (Jason) and they're a great group of players."

North the first lead, 1-0, after pushing across a first-inning run against Gusoff. Mike Jehle and Horowitz walked and two batters later, Jon Sturtz poked an RBI single with two outs.

HOROSCOPE

By C.C. Clark

GEMINI (May 21 - June 20)
Family matters will need your attention. It would be a good idea to clear up misunderstandings quickly. You may get good financial news.

CANCER (June 21 - July 22)
Take an authority figure's word seriously. Try not to rock the boat. Stay as flexible as possible in working with certain projects.

LEO (July 23 - Aug. 22)
You will need patience, persistence and understanding to get through this difficult period. Don't try to please everyone; problems could result.

VIRGO (Aug. 23 - Sept. 22)
You will need to make some quick decisions that will affect all aspects of your life. You may find the simplest road is the best.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 - Oct. 22)
It's time to get yourself up and out of the doldrums. Gradually get into new activities and meet new people. You will be feeling better in no time.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 - Nov. 21)
Don't let other people's comments change your mind about a certain situation. There could be a delay of plans for a special evening or travel.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 - Dec. 21)
It may not seem like it right now, but great things are headed your way. Overcome the ignorance of another and you will succeed.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 - Jan. 19)
A journey, possibly on or near water, is in your immediate future. You should find a more expeditious way to complete a specific project.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20 - Feb. 18)
A dispute at work or home needs to be settled immediately. Even if you know you are right, you may want to concede in the interest of peace.

PISCES (Feb. 19 - March 20)
All may not be as it appears. Be cautious in financial dealings. Spend some time and money on yourself. You deserve the good things in life.

ARIES (March 21 - April 19)
You will be successful in a certain venture that has claimed a great deal of your time. This is a great time to plan that trip you've always wanted.

TAURUS (April 20 - May 20)
You will summon great courage and determination to finish what you have started. Afterward you will be amazed at all you have accomplished.

TNT's "Keep the Change" offers warmth, wisdom

Buck Henry stands out in excellent cast

By Steven Alan McGaw

"I have a superstition about going home, of forcing the present to conform to the past," muses Joe Starling as he heads up the highway toward Montana. "It takes a species of temporary insanity to override that superstition," he adds, "and I am consumed with temporary insanity."

Starling is the protagonist of Thomas McGuane's acclaimed novel, "Keep the Change," the story of a man looking for where he belongs. Now, Turner Network Television brings the tale to the screen, airing first on Tuesday, June 9. Additional showings include June 10, 13, 14, 19 and 21.

Born to the sprawling Big Sky landscape of Montana, Joe couldn't find a place for himself in his father's dual worlds of banking and ranching; instead, he became a painter, trying to capture, and control, the daunting enormity of his surroundings. Early success takes Joe to Los Angeles, but his artistic fire soon fails and he winds up drawing illustrations for technical manuals. When Joe's mounting debts and dwindling self-esteem reach a perilous intersection, he is urged by his girlfriend Astrid to "do something. Even if it's the wrong thing." And so he does.

William Petersen ("Long Gone," "Young Guns II") plays Joe Starling, and his edgy blend of dark dissatisfaction and boyish befuddlement suit the character well. Rachel Ticotin ("Total Recall," "One Good Cop") is Astrid, a woman of earthy allure and considerable wisdom. Oscar winner Jack Palance lends his fiery power to his portrayal of Overstreet, the rancher who covets the Starling ranch.

The film's large supporting cast is terrific. Actor/attorney Fred Dalton Thompson ("Cape Fear") stretches his talents admirably in the role of Otis Rosewell, a former hand of Overstreet's who agrees to assist Joe when he decides to try ranching one more time. Lolita Davidovich plays Ellen, Joe's first love and Overstreet's manipulative (and manipulated) daughter. "China Beach" veteran Jeff Kober delivers a deceptively simple performance as Billy, Overstreet's dim-witted son-in-law. ("He moves his lips when he's listening," Palance growls).

Actor/writer/director Buck Henry almost steals the show as Smitty, Joe's boozy, big-talking uncle. From his mishandling of the family finances to his looney scheme to import fresh seafood to Montana ("It's like a trail drive, only with crustaceans"), Smitty deserves nothing but wary disdain; instead, he is beloved, a dreamy little man who merits equally his family's affection and distrust.

"McGuane writes about people who are off the beat," Henry muses. "Like jazz—a little behind or in front of the beat—and it makes for a very human quality."

Director Andy Tennant carefully guides his actors' performances through John Miglilis' fine, quirky script, and the result is an eloquent work that says as much in its silences as in dialogue. Much of the story is told in simply placing the action before the dwarfing Montana landscape where the picture was filmed, and Mark Irwin's photography leads a mythic quality to the mountain vistas. Returned to the timeless geography of his youth, Joe can evaluate his life's investments: the profits, the losses and the lesson learned.

LET'S TALK

Will 'Superman 5' fly?; reader's query a real Lulu

By Taylor Michaels

Q: I heard that Alexander and Ilya Salkind are going to produce Superman V. What's the scoop? Could you give me an address to reach them? —S.H., Claremont, N.H.

A: The Salkinds are indeed beginning to talk up another chapter in the Superman saga, but the producers still appear hesitant to map out any firm details. However, they have revealed that the forthcoming picture will more or less "begin at the beginning," with little regard to plot lines of the past sequels, or the previous stars, for that matter. Christopher Reeve, whose career was built upon the Superman roles, won't necessarily return, according to the Salkinds, but his presence or lack thereof is still up in the air.

You may write the Salkinds in care of Warner Bros. Inc., 4000 Warner Blvd., Burbank, Calif., 91522.

Q: I am a big fan of the actor who plays Chris Peterson on Get a Life. Can you please tell me where I can write to him? Also, what is his marital status? —K. Provoost, Germantown, N.Y.

A: The character of Chris Peterson, the juvenile delinquent in a man's body, is played all too convincingly by Chris Elliott.

Elliott was working as an NBC producer in New York when he had the presence of mind to allow the then-insignificant David Letterman a tour (with his mother) for the children's admission price. After Late Night began to air, Letterman repaid his quirky friend by offering him cameo appearances in such roles as "The Guy Under the Seats," which opened the door for his current starring role on Fox.

Elliott, the son of radio comedian Bob Elliott, lives in New York with his wife and two daughters, and you may write to him in care of Fox Broadcasting, Box 900, Beverly Hills, Calif., 90213.

Q: I'm going crazy trying to recall a movie I saw on TV years ago. It starred Lauren Hutton, and she lived in a high-rise and someone was watching her with a telescope. Please, can you tell me the name of the movie, and can I rent it on video? —N.K., North Tonawanda, N.Y.

A: I'm fairly certain the picture you are describing is 1978's Someone's Watching Me!, a solid made-for-television movie directed by John Carpenter which, unfortunately, is not currently available in video stores.

Q: What is the name of the actor who played Hogan on Hogan's Heroes? Did the police ever find out who killed him? —Eleanor Mills, Tigard, Ore.

A: Col. Robert Hogan was played by actor Bob Crane, who was brutally murdered on July 29, 1978.

Crane began his career as a musician, becoming a well-known radio personality in Los Angeles in the late '50s, which in turn led to a co-starring role on The Donna Reed Show. In 1965, he jumped at the chance to star as the off-beat POW leader in Hogan's Heroes, an extremely successful show that made him a bona fide celebrity.

While still a major star, he returned to the theater and toured the country. One night in a Scottsdale, Ariz., hotel, he was bludgeoned to death in his sleep. The authorities have developed a number of theories over the years, but a lack of evidence has prevented an indictment in what they are sure was the result of an intricate murder plot.

Q: Is Lulu Roman from Hee Haw the same person who starred in Hazzard Corner as Boss Hogg's wife? My sister says no, but I say yes. Who's right? —J. Eller, Hartsborne, Okla.

A: The full-figured Roman has appeared regularly on Hee Haw since 1969, with only a brief hiatus in the '70s to sort out a drug problem. Roman did not appear on The Dukes of Hazzard as Lulu Hogg. That honor belongs to actress Peggy Rea.

Please send your questions to Let's Talk, Features Dept., P.O. Box 961009, Fort Worth, Texas, 76161-1009. Please send no return envelopes; all questions will be answered within this column.

CABLE NEWS

Rackets, hooves and Zippy, too

By Dan Rice

It's a great week for sports on cable television, with a variety of excitement for the armchair spectator. ESPN's live coverage of the French Open tennis tournament from Paris lasts from Monday, June 1, to Thursday, June 4, with same-day tape of a men's semifinal match airing Friday, June 5. Then on Saturday, June 6, ESPN's Racing Across America goes to the starting gate for the Belmont Stakes Special. Later that evening, USA airs the World Bowl, the championship game of World League football, live from Montreal.

Saturday, it's Showtime for the cable premiere of City Slickers, starring Oscar host Billy Crystal and Oscar winner Jack Palance. The cable channel follows up with Howie Mandel: Howie Spent Our Summer, a Madonnaesque backstage documentary of his 1991 summer comedy tour.

From Alfred E. Neuman to Zippy the Pinhead, comic-book heroes cover the spectrum of imagination. Look for your favorites when the cultural obsession with life in panels is examined in Comic Book Confidential, airing Sunday, May 31, on The Discovery Channel.

Please, don't go on. A psychotic patient (Bill Murray) pursues his vacationing shrink (Richard Dreyfuss) in What About Bob?, coming to Showtime on Monday, June 1, and The Movie Channel on Friday, June 5.

The fascinating life of Howard Hughes is the focus of A&E's Biography on Tuesday.

BITS AND PIECES

TRIVIA, ETC.

Cartoons all the time; raising awareness and funds

Welcome to the Toon Age. Turner Broadcasting has announced an Oct. 1 launch for its 24-hour Cartoon Network. Filling the days and nights with animated fun shouldn't prove a problem, for the network will draw upon Turner's extensive animation library, which includes 3,000 half-hours of Hanna-Barbera animation and 300 half-hours of MGM; pre-1950 Warner Bros. and RKO animated productions that are exclusive to the network. Turner plans to introduce the network on a global basis following the domestic launch and has already dubbed most of the Hanna-Barbera product into Spanish, with plans for a dual English-Spanish feed in the United States. The Cartoon Network's top stars include Top Cat, The Flintstones, Popeye, Jonny Quest, Yogi Bear, Screwball Squirrel and Droopy Dog.

Make your (recycled) check payable to the home planet. After a decade with The Young and the Restless, actress Melody Thomas Scott turned activist, sponsoring an annual fundraiser for the Save the Earth foundation to be held in Los Angeles on Aug. 7. Celebrities will turn out for the evening, which ends with an auction. Tickets are $100 each. Of course, you could stay home, wear shorts, eat whatever's in the fridge and send the entire amount to your favorite environmental group, but it's not likely you'll have your picture taken by the paparazzi.

Tom Conway and Simone Simon star in Val Lewton's 1942 chiller Cat People.

On Saturday, horse-racing fans can enjoy ABC's exciting live coverage of the Belmont Stakes.

Newman's own first movie?

By Steven Alan McGaw
