by Bud Besser

More than 1,500 people attended Saturday's Memorial Mass at All Saints Basilica for Vanessa Lynn Przybylo Kolpak, a missing victim of New York's World Trade Centers September 11 tragedy.

Fathers Wayne Prist and Frances Rog were the celebrants at the 10 a.m. mass.

Father Prist emphasized the importance of memory, faith and hope at this time. Memory reminds us of Vanessa's vitality, laughter, vibrancy and generosity - her outgoing flow for life. He spoke of the mystery of faith which gives a source for peace. He said the amazing grace of Christ's presence enables one to be radiant in life in heaven. He said hope is in the Lord Jesus' dealing with Vanessa's death and asked everyone to pray for her family, whose love in their hearts will be flowing for years.

Her sister, Alexis, spoke lovingly of Vanessa. She said Vanessa means "butterfly," a young woman who excelled in listening and talking, who had

A parishoner making her daily visitation Saturday morning, Oct. 20 to Queen of All Saints Basilica in Chicago's Sauganash neighborhood had planned nothing more than to say a few prayers inside a darkened church. Instead, she found its gothic interior filled, its parking lot looking like a Sunday morning.

Sliding into a back pew in the crowded church, she waited out an appropriate interlude, then approached a pew-mate to ask who was being honored. Referring to programs available in a

Morton Grove couple victims of home invasion

by Barbara A. Mendelsohn

A Morton Grove couple was confronted at home Sunday, Oct. 21 by two men who presented themselves as police officers. One of them then forced his way inside the home on the 9000 block of Oriole Avenue.

The confrontation took place approximately 1:30 p.m., roughly a half hour after the home owner, who has a cash business in Chicago, had returned home with receipts.

One of the two white male intruders identified himself as a

Niles woman gets 8 years for embezzlement

A Niles resident received a prison sentence of 8 years after pleading guilty to an embezzlement that left her former employer on the brink of financial ruin.

Barbara A. Olsen, 35, stole an estimated $610,000 from Automated Equipment Inc., a family-owned Mt. Prospect company, over a 4-year period that ended last January.

Judge John Fecarotta in his Rolling Meadows Courtroom said the thefts had caused severe hardships to her former employer, to his business, and to other employees.

Former Niles couple killed in Wis. car crash

A one-time Niles couple who retired to Wisconsin in the late 80's were killed in a car crash in Caledonia Township, Wis., on Friday, Oct. 12, while en-route home after dining out.

Betty J. and Eugene R. Bravieri settled in Niles following their 1947 marriage. During the 50's and 60's, Betty Bravieri taught music at St. John Brebeuf, then math in Park Ridge at St. Paul of the Cross school in the 70's and 80's.

After retirement, Eugene Bravieri, an insurance inspector and co-owner of a commercial insurance firm, moved with his wife to Merrimac, Wis.

Eugene was 77 and Betty, 75. The couple is survived by a son, Richard; a daughter, Janice; and four grandchildren. Mr. Bravieri is survived by a sister Yvonne Klatt, and Mrs. Bravieri by a sister, Bernadine Yardley.

A mass for the couple was celebrated at Park Ridge's St. Paul of the Cross.

Golf Glen will re-open with "Harry Potter"

by Daryl Dee Moir

After both its corporate-owned movie theaters were shut down, Niles residents will have access to the area's only first-run discount movie house when the Golf Glenn Theaters re-open, Nov. 16, just in time to headline Harry Potter and the Sorcerer's Stone.

Ron Rooding, Director of Operations for the family-owned Village Theaters, said that General Cineplex planned on closing the Golf Glen multiplex several months ago.

Rooding searches for failing theatres, keeping abreast of closing theaters and decides whether or add them to the Village Theater's chain.

"I am very grateful to the Village of Niles for their help, cooperation and sense of urgency in making it possible for the Golf Glenn Theaters to re-open on November 16 a reality. Working with the Village gave me a real sense and feeling of being welcomed into the community," said Rooding.

Village Theaters is a small, local, independent, family-owned theater chain that has been in business since 1978. It is the largest chain of pri-

Local FBI unafraid of Halloween

by George Pontikis

Many computer users have probably had their fill of theories, hoaxes and photographs that have arrived to them via e-mail since the September 11 tragedy. Some of this would-be breaking information has even made the late-night news. Among the more famous pieces of evidence trying to scare citizens into staying home is the story that we should all lock ourselves indoors on Halloween. Like all the others, most authorities don't acknowledge it. The FBI, which specializes in receiving and deciphering information, has been busy lately and is aware of all the those who think they know what a joke is.

Chicago FBI Press Coordinator Ross Rice, said that the agency doesn't have a responsibility to monitor the Internet and the postings put on it. They can only take action in postings that seem to be credible, or threats against a specific person or place. And even if those threats turn out to be hoaxes, then the Attorney General will prosecute that person to the fullest extent of the law.

Rice also said he supports full punishment against those who wish to commit hoaxes of any kind, in light of the mail tainted with powdery substances. Regardless if the letters contain anthrax or not, "these are still considered acts of terrorism," he said.

As far as the FBI is concerned, however, they are not involved with the e-mail that tells the story of a young lady who was dating a man from Afghanistan until he disappeared on September 6.

On September 10, as this story goes, the girl received a letter from him telling her that he was sorry he vanished and warning her not to board any planes the next day. He also warned her against visiting any shopping malls on Halloween. As the FBI and most authorities say, this is a vague threat, most likely another hoax meandering through the internet, and nothing for them to worry about.

"We are aware of it," says Rice of the e-mail. "But we don't feel it's even at the level where it warrants further investigation."

If there are any security precautions to be taken because of this, Rice says that will be left up to local police and private security companies.

At of press time (Oct. 22), the Niles Police Department was not available for comment on the issue.

"Women in Business Council"

The second meeting of the newly formed "Women in Business Council" will meet on Tuesday, October 30 at 12 Noon at the DesPlaines. The speaker for this "bring your own brown bag lunch" meeting will be Rev. William Grice, 1st Congregational Church in DesPlaines who will talk about "Grice in the Workplace."

The Women in Business Council is made up of women from Des Plaines Chamber of Commerce & Industry member businesses. The council meets regularly on the last Tuesday of the month (with a few exceptions) and the meetings are free. Attendees are invited to bring their own lunch.

Space is limited and reservations are required, and should be made before October 26, by calling the DesPlaines Chamber of Commerce at (847) 824-4200.

District 63 looks at past to plan its future

by Barbara A. Mendelsohn

Members of the School District 63 board recently approved holding a strategy conference geared to a back-to-the-future format.

The plan resulted from a conference held this past August attended by Kathleen Williams, District 63 superintendent. The three-day conference held in Niles focused on creating an educational vision for the future.

Supt. Williams said she believes that a factor of progress is learning from the past. Further, she was impressed with the positive interaction generated during the previous conference.

Williams credits the process of designing a future-focused strategy to Dr. Charles Schwahn, co-author of the publication, "Total Leaders." Schwahn works with both educational organizations and private businesses to help them strategize planning. "He challenges people to think," said Williams.

For instance, what will children need in the future, in the arenas of interpersonal relations or economics? That's an example of the kinds of questions posed to form the strategy, said Dr. Diane Cody, Asst. Supt. of Curriculum.

As yet no date is scheduled for the follow-up conference, which would be held in August or September, 2002 and would provide an occasion to review and re-evaluate outcomes of the August 2001 conference.

Park District Events

by Heidi Stadler

Iceland's thirtieth anniversary celebration, Oct. 14 went on without a hitch. The event featured such activities as figure skating exhibitions and speed skating races. Proceeds were donated to the American Red Cross. Park Board Commissioners, previous commissioners, as well as Congresswoman Jan Schakowsky joined the festivities.

In other news, Tam O' Shanter Golf Course recently hired Bill Wadden as its new Golf Director.

Upcoming October events, will include the Annual Halloween Parade and Party on Oct. 27, from 10 a.m. to 1 p.m. Children will be able to parade their costumes, starting at Oak Park and ending at Grennan Heights park.

Activities at Grennan Heights include games, candy, face painting, pumpkin carving and more.

There will be a Halloween Party at Pioneer Park on October 28, between 12 p.m. and 8 p.m. On Saturdays through October, Pioneer Park hosts a Teen Night. The fee for this event is $5.00 per teen. Teen Night will involve a round of mini-golf, as well as pizza and refreshments. For more information on this event, call 647-9092.

Mark your calendars and be with us as we greet Karen Kruse, author of "A Chicago Firehouse: Stories of Wrigleyville's Engine 78." Arrangements have been made to have copies of this book available for sale and book signing. This is a daughter's tribute to her father who spent 14 years at this firehouse, a tribute to the Chicago Fire Department and the firehouse she loved as a little girl. You are sure to find this program interesting, touching, sad, funny, and all true.

The program is open to everyone and all are invited. Bring your questions and curiosity. Admission is free, donations welcome and refreshments will be served following the program. There is plenty of free parking.

For your convenience, the Niles Historical Museum is open every Wednesday and Friday 10:30 a.m.-3 p.m. Appointments are available for other times by calling (847) 390-0160. Please make a point of seeing YOUR history museum.

Registration deadline Nov. 2 for ACT test

College-bound high school students who want to take the ACT Assessment have two chances to register before the December 8 test date. The postmark registration deadline is Friday, November 2. There is also a late registration postmark deadline on November 15 (an additional fee is required for late registration). Students can get information from their school counselor or register online at www.act.org.

ACT scores are accepted by virtually all colleges in the nation, including all Ivy League schools. The test fee is $24 ($27 in Florida). A student's ACT scores are considered by colleges for admissions and course placement, along with several other important factors including high school GPA, college prep courses taken in high school, extracurricular activities, personal background and other information.

To learn more about the ACT Assessment, including registration forms and test locations, contact your high school counselor or go to the ACT website (www.act.org), which also offers useful tips, sample tests and the opportunity to order test prep materials.

Seniors who have already taken the ACT can take it again and try for a higher score. Juniors and sophomores can also take the exam and use their scores to examine academic weaknesses, take courses to correct those weaknesses and re-take the exam at a later date. Students who take the exam more than once can report only their highest composite score to prospective colleges if they choose.

There are four sections to the ACT Assessment: English, reading, math and science reasoning. Some colleges and universities require only the ACT Assessment and no other tests, because it measures four academic areas. A record number of students, over 1.7 million, took the ACT Assessment during the past year. The ACT Assessment is a curriculum-based, academic achievement test, not an aptitude test.

We know the truth, not only by the reason, but by the heart.

Availability of flu vaccine for Niles residents

Our first batch of flu vaccine was received and all appointment slots were filled for the October 11th Clinic Date. Those who could not get appointments were put on a waiting list and will be called in the order of their sign up when the next batch is received.

Additional shipments are expected during this month and November. We are suggesting that if you do not have an appointment time, please call the Senior Center at 588-8420 and your name will be added to the waiting list. The company is confident that we will get our complete order filled by the end of November, but they will not guarantee it. So if you are able to get a flu shot from your doctor, we suggest you do so.

Vaccine will be given to persons at high risk for complications from the flu. This includes Niles residents 65 years and older, those under 65 who have underlying chronic illnesses, and their health care providers.

Anyone who belongs to an HMO (Humana Gold or United Health Care) and any other insurance that doesn't cover flu vaccine will be charged $15. Anyone who has Medicare must bring their Medicare card. Medicare will be billed. You will need to show an identification that contains your age and Niles residency. Homebound residents can contact Terry Dalla Valle for an appointment.

English professor George Baker, who taught play writing at Harvard, had such future luminaries as Eugene O'Neill, George Abbott, Thomas Wolfe and Philip Barry as his students.

'The SHOCK'

The Shock (1923) stars the Man of a Thousand Faces Lon Chaney in this rarely-seen silent classic. Chaney plays the part of Wilse Dilling - "dope peddler, safe cracker, and gun-man" a crippled hoodlum of the San Francisco underworld who decides to leave the darkness of Chinatown for a new life in the country. There he meets the lovely Gertrude Hadley (played by Virginia Valli). Gertrude makes Wilse feel like a new man, and Wilse eventually falls for the kind Gertrude, only to learn that she is already in love with Jack Mower (Jack Cooper). The story makes its bizarre twist when Gertrude's banker father stands to be indicted by bank examiners. Acting out of love, Wilse goes back to his criminal past to eliminate any trace of wrongdoing by Gertrude's father. What transpires next makes for a shocking turn of events that spell out mystery and the macabre! Exceptional special effects including the 1906 San Francisco earthquake! The Shock will be preceded by selected spooky silent shorts and cartoons.

The Pickwick Theatre, 5 S. Prospect in Park Ridge will show The Shock for one night only, Oct. 30 at 7:30 p.m.

The Pickwick theatre and its mighty Wurlitzer are both unique survivors from the golden age of the movie palaces. The Pickwick was designed by the team of Zook & McCaughy and opened in 1928. This Aztec-Art Deco gem was their only theatre effort ever.

Certainly one of the most remarkable designs for a theatre, it is distinctive both inside and out. As the focal point of downtown Park Ridge, its imposing tower is adorned with the eye-catching giant iron lanterns leading down to the equally gigantic art deco marquee canopy. Under the dutiful care and management for many years by the Vlahakis family, the theatre is preserved virtually intact. Today the Vlahakis family along with The Pickwick Theatre Council work together to insure the continued preservation of the Pickwick. The Pickwick's Mighty Wurlitzer is one of the few remaining original installations by the inventive Rudolph Wurlitzer Co. of North Tonawanda, New York.

The Second City

Second City Theatricals is proud to announce the opening of Playing Dumb with Jill Benjamin at Donny's Skybox Studio Theatre (1608 North Wells, 4th Floor, Piper's Alley) on October 27, at 10 p.m. The show will run on Saturdays at 10 p.m. through November 24.

Jill Benjamin returns to Chicago following a wildly successful run of her critically acclaimed show Pick-ups & Hiccups at the Edinburgh Fringe Festival with partner Seth Meyers (Saturday Night Live). The comedy duo has toured the world since 1999, performing in London, Singapore, Amsterdam, New York, Los Angeles and Chicago. The Independent of London writes that "Benjamin's mental agility and imagination will take your breath away."

Directed by Peter Gwinn, Playing Dumb with Jill Benjamin pokes fun at the absurdity that both women and men go through to form relationships. Benjamin uses both set scenes and improvisation to explore the topic, even calling a random woman in the audience to get advice on how to seduce herself. Diet Coke, Wonder Bras, Internet dating, no aspect of the female/male dynamic goes unexplored in Playing Dumb with Jill Benjamin.

Tickets for Playing Dumb with Jill Benjamin are available at The Second City box office at (312) 337-3992. All tickets are $12 and can also be reserved online at www.secondcity.com.

MGBA names new board

The board of the Morton Grove Baseball Association recently elected new officers and directors.
 Joseph Harrington is the new president, succeeding Ray Felkel, who resigned from the board after serving three years as president and in many other capacities.
 Also stepping down from the board were George Gates, former vice president of girls' softball, Mary McDermott, former treasurer, and Margie Venetico, former umpire director. Outgoing board members were honored with plaques for their service.
 In addition to Harrington, the new officers are as follows:
 • Paul Berg remains as vice president of baseball.
 • Gary Haygood became the new vice president of softball; and
 • John Frake succeeds Harrington as secretary.
 Newly-elected board member Charles Valente has offered to take the treasurer's position; the board will formally vote on that appointment at its next meeting.
 Three other new board members were voted in: Jim Betke, Pigtail league director, Ed Dickson, T-ball league director, and Ed Vohasek, Junior Ponytail league director.
 Other board members continuing their terms are Shant Hagopian, Pony League director, Rick Reichert, Minors league director, Eileen Sandalow, picture chairperson, and Randy Schlesinger, equipment chairman.
 Anyone interested in joining the MGBA board can contact Joseph Harrington at (847) 965-6935 or send an e-mail to MGHarr@aol.com.

Save money on heating bills

With utility costs staying high, and fall and winter just around the corner, now is the time to give your home a "check up". Here are seven tips from the Comfort Institute on what to look for and take care of to make sure your home is comfortable and energy efficient.
 1. Have your duct system tested for air leaks. Many think that windows and doors are the major cause of a home's air leaks. But according to recent research by the Department of Energy (DOE), gaps, cracks and disconnections in the typical home's duct system are much more significant. The DOE states that the typical duct system loses 25% to 40% of the energy put out by the central furnace, heat or air conditioner. Leaks are usually the biggest problem.
 2. Ask your heating contractor to perform an Infiltrometer "blower door" test. The blower door is a computerized instrument originally invented by the Department of Energy. It pinpoints where your home's worst air leaks are, such as duct leaks. It also measures a home's overall leakiness. While most homes are still far too leaky, some are too airtight, and need mechanical ventilation to ensure the air inside is fresh. For more information, visit the Web site: www.comfortinstitute.org.
 3. Seal air leaks in the attic floor and add insulation. The Infiltrometer blower door test often finds significant air leaks in the attic floor. Examples are open partition walls, recessed lights and gaps around chimneys and plumbing stacks. Seal them and then add insulation up to today's code to cut heat loss through your roof.
 4. Install and use a programmable thermostat. Lowering the temperature at night and when no-one's home does save energy. But you don't have to sacrifice comfort! Ask your heating contractor to install a "programmable thermostat" that will turn the heat back up before you wake up or before you come home.
 5. Replace your furnace air filter. Most systems need a new filter every month to ensure safe and efficient operation.
 6. Have your heating system cleaned and tuned by a qualified contractor. A furnace or heat pump tune up is a good investment. It reduces the chances of breakdowns in the middle of winter and pays for itself through more energy efficient operation. For a free report: "How To Identify a Good Heating and Cooling Contractor", go to: www.comfortinstitute.org.
 7. Consider replacing your old furnace or heat pump. Just like a car, heating equipment doesn't last forever. If your system is over 12 years old, and you are planning to stay in your home more than a few years, many authorities recommend replacing it before it fails permanently.

Edward Jones: What to do if the 'Pink Slip' Arrives

In recent months, we've seen report after report of companies making major layoffs. It may not happen to you, but if it does, what financial moves should you make?

Before you take any steps, just remember one thing: You don't need to panic. While getting laid off is certainly not pleasant, it's also not the end of the world. In fact, many people who go through this experience land on their feet, with jobs as good as or even better than they had before.

Nonetheless, you'll still want to ensure you make the right decisions during any time you are laid off. Here are a few ideas to consider:

• Be prepared. The best time to deal with any financial pressures resulting from a layoff is well before the layoff occurs. That's why you should maintain an emergency fund to cover at least six months to a year's worth of living expenses. You may want to keep these funds in a money market account that offers liquidity and competitive returns. Then, if you do get laid off, you won't have to rush into selling off your long-term investments.

• Protect your 401(k). If you're laid off, your 401(k) will present you with a tempting target. After all, it's just sitting there -- and it may contain a lot of money. But raiding your 401(k) could be one of the worst mistakes you make. If you do cash it out, you'll have to pay income taxes on the proceeds, and if you're under 59-1/2, you also may have to pay a 10 percent premature distribution penalty. And, just as bad, you'll be depriving yourself of a major source of retirement income. If you're really cash-strapped, you may be able to take out a loan on your 401(k), but you should take this step only as a last resort. You'll be better off either keeping your 401(k) in your former employer's plan, moving it to your existing IRA, or transferring it to a "rollover" IRA, from which you can eventually move it to your new employer's 401(k).

• Consider adjusting your asset mix. If you've maintained a diversified portfolio of investments, you'll be in good shape to make some needed adjustments in case of a layoff. For example, if you have a lot of growth-oriented investments, such as stocks, you may want to think about selling some and then investing the proceeds into income-producing vehicles, such as bonds. That way, you won't have to deplete all your assets -- and once you're employed again, you can readjust your portfolio to match your investment personality, time horizon and long-term goals.

• Borrow wisely. If you have to borrow, be smart about it. A loan from a family member or close friend may affect your pride, but it's less expensive than one offered by a high-interest-rate credit card.

By planning ahead and using your resources wisely, you can almost certainly get through a layoff with your financial future intact. So take the necessary steps -- and keep moving forward.

That Time of Year

by Jeanine Kromer

School is back in full swing and the seasons are beginning to change. Gone are the hot and sweaty summer days. Back are the crisp and cool days where nothing can beat a comfy sweat-shirt and worn-out jeans. Time to get out the rain-coat, hats and galoshes to protect from the chilly autumn rains. Whether it's the kids going back to school or the change in the seasons, the flu rears its ugly head once again.

Influenza (or the flu, as it is commonly called) is many times confused with other viral infections like colds and intestinal ailments such as gastroenteritis. Influenza has more serious symptoms and can lead to medical complications like pneumonia. Influenza is a viral infection that attacks the respiratory tract, but it does not affect the intestines as many people believe. People who have influenza experience a fairly high fever, cough, sore throat, runny or stuffy nose that may be confused with the common cold. Influenza differs in the severity and additional symptoms like headache, muscle aches, extreme fatigue and in rare cases nausea, vomiting and diarrhea. Although most people recover completely from influenza after 1 to 2 weeks, a small percentage are hospitalized due to complications. Influenza should be taken seriously because approximately 20,000 Americans die annually from influenza and another 100,000 require hospitalization.

There are three types of influenza-A, B and C. Type C has the mildest symptoms and is relatively stable so it does not evolve into a large outbreak. Types A and B occur almost every winter therefore they are the types people worry the most about. Types A and B are constantly changing viruses that develop regularly into different versions every couple of years and are responsible for large outbreaks. The constant changing enables the virus to evade the immune system. Occasionally there is a sudden change in the make-up of a type of influenza that may infect a large portion of the population because there is not an antibody to protect against that particular strain. If the new virus is easily spread from person to person an epidemic may develop quickly.

There have been three epidemics of influenza this century. The first one, Spanish flu in 1918 was responsible for 500,000 deaths in the U.S. and 20 million globally. In 1957 there was the Asian flu when 70,000 people in the U.S. died. The most recent epidemic was the Hong Kong Flu of 1968 that caused 34,000 deaths.

The best way to guard against influenza is to get an annual flu shot. Older people and those who suffer from chronic heart, lung or kidney problems, diabetes or live in an institution have a higher risk of contracting influenza. Influenza is contracted by inhaling small droplets of infected air. People with chronic diseases or diabetes may have a weaker immune system that has difficulty fighting off the influenza virus. Those who live in institutions increase their chances of contracting influenza through sheer numbers. The more people someone comes into close daily contact with the higher the chances of contracting an airborne virus.

The influenza vaccine's effectiveness fluctuates from year to year depending on the similarity between the previous year's strain and the current year's strain in circulation. The influenza season is from October to May with the peak being December to March. The vaccine's efficacy varies from person to person depending on age and general health. Contrary to what most people believe a person cannot contract influenza from the vaccine. Vaccines in the U.S. are manufactured from dead influenza viruses that cannot cause infection. The vaccine provides antibodies to help fight the influenza virus and has very few side effects. The most common side effect is soreness at the injection site. On a rare occasion people have allergic reactions to the vaccine so those who have a predisposition to allergies should check with their doctor first.

Folic Acid could prevent birth defects

The Illinois Spina Bifida Association said today that during October, Spina Bifida Awareness Month, it is reminding women of childbearing years that consuming increased amounts of folic acid daily before becoming pregnant could significantly reduce the risk of spina bifida, the most common disabling birth defect.

Ann Walsh Johnson, executive director of ISBA, explained that the organization is offering a new brochure explaining the benefits of taking folic acid before pregnancy. The brochure has been distributed to health care providers and high school health instructors throughout the state. Additional copies in English or Spanish are available from Illinois Spina Bifida Association, 3080 Ogden Avenue, Suite 103, Lisle, IL 60532, or by calling (630) 637-1050 or 1-800-969-ISBA.

Johnson added that the U.S. Public Health Service recommends that all women of childbearing years consume 0.4 milligrams, or 400 micrograms, of folic acid every day, and eat foods rich in folate, which refers to the vitamin as it naturally occurs in foods. Johnson pointed out that spina bifida and other neural tube defects occur within the first month of development, when many women are not yet aware that they are pregnant. That's why it's important that they maintain a sufficient level of folic acid BEFORE they become pregnant.

Folic acid, a B vitamin, is found in orange juice and other citrus fruits and juices, leafy green vegetables, beans, peanuts, broccoli, asparagus, peas, lentils and whole-grain products. Many foods are fortified with folic acid, such as breakfast cereals, breads, rice and pasta made with enriched flour.

Spina bifida, or open spine, occurs when, for unknown reasons, the spinal cord of a baby does not form properly during pregnancy. The effects of spina bifida vary greatly, from minor back problems to paraplegia, and are usually associated with bowel and bladder dysfunction and hydrocephalus.

Each year, approximately one in every 1,000 newborns is affected by spina bifida. Research indicates that insufficient levels of folic acid contribute to spina bifida and other neural tube defects of the spine and brain. It is estimated that if women consumed additional quantities of folic acid daily, the incidents of these defects could be reduced by up to 75 percent.

Lisle-based Illinois Spina Bifida Association offers services to people with spina bifida throughout Illinois, including educational seminars, family support programs, educational scholarships and assistance with equipment purchases and therapy.

Voo-doo Guru

by Jeanine Kromer

For most Americans acupuncture conjures up images of a voodoo guru in a misty backroom wielding needles like a Japanese ninja warrior. Not true. Acupuncture has been a conventional therapy in China for over 3000 years. The Food and Drug Administration (FDA) recently acknowledged that acupuncture is no more "alternative" than surgical scalpels or hypodermic needles.

Acupuncture first gained wide exposure in the U.S. in the early 1970s when the late New York Times columnist James Reston had trouble with his appendix while on a trip to Beijing. Reston underwent acupuncture after his appendix surgery to help relieve the pain. Since that time acupuncture has slowly achieved dubious respect and acceptance in the U.S.

Acupuncture is the traditional Chinese medicine method of utilizing thin needles at specific pressure points to facilitate the flow of chi (pronounced "chee"). Chi is the life force or vital energy that flows through the body along 14 invisible channels (meridians). The chi regulates all the physical and mental processes of the body with the idea that everything is interconnected. The meridians run deep within the body's tissues and organs surfacing at some 360 points. The meridians are connected to certain organs and processes so stimulating a specific meridian will in turn stimulate the organ and/or process associated with it. There are also opposing forces within the body usually referred to as yin and yang that must be kept in balance for the chi to flow freely throughout the body. When the chi becomes blocked or unbalanced a person gets sick.

Acupuncture is used to relieve pain, enhance standard therapies or avoid surgery or medication with their unpleasant side effects.

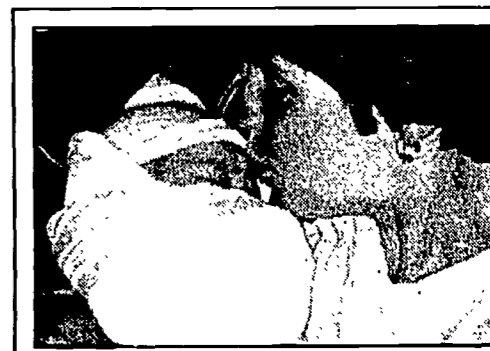

The procedure relieves pain after dental surgery and reduces nausea and vomiting associated with surgery, chemotherapy and pregnancy. It may also be used as a companion therapy to treat headaches, facial, neck and back pain, carpal tunnel syndrome, osteoarthritis, fibromyalgia, asthma, sports injuries, tennis elbow, kidney pain, menstrual cramps and other conditions that cause chronic pain. Two uses for acupuncture currently being researched are addiction withdrawal and speeding rehabilitation. In numerous detox clinics in the U.S. acupuncture focusing on the outer ear is used to ease drug and alcohol withdrawal. Acupuncture may speed up rehabilitation and reduce damage after a paralyzing stroke.

There are no known inherent side effects of acupuncture, which is remarkably safe so long as clean needles are used to avoid bacterial infection and the spread of communicable diseases such as hepatitis B. The widespread use of disposable needles has all but eliminated those dangers.

For more information on acupuncture and help in choosing a practitioner, contact Paulette Brody at the Glenview Park Center.

Masterpiece of Engineering

by Jeanine Kromer

Renaissance artist Leonardo da Vinci called the foot "a masterpiece of engineering and a work of art." The foot is a highly specialized structure composed of 26 relatively small bones connected by 33 joints and more than 150 ligaments. There are approximately 250 sweat glands in each foot that perspire about a cup of moisture every day. During a typical day feet endure a cumulative force of several hundred pounds. The average person walks 115,000 miles in a lifetime approximately five times around the earth. Truly amazing considering how little attention is paid to feet.

About 1 million years ago the first person walked upright. This astounding evolution freed the hands but doubled the load for the feet. The first shoes needed to protect feet from injury and cold were animal skin sandals. Shoes have evolved too. Comfort and function are not always the priority when it comes to shoes. Style and status play an important role too. Good fitting shoes are essential to healthy and pain free feet.

The right shoe may prevent foot problems and will not exacerbate existing conditions. Leather shoes are the best because they mold to the foot and allow the foot to breathe. Strong and flexible soles that have a good gripping surface are desirable - to cushion the stress of walking on hard surfaces, the insoles should be cushioned. Shoes should fit correctly, allowing toes to wiggle and be comfortable. Pay special attention to how narrow the front of the shoe is, feet grow with age therefore both feet should be measured each time when buying shoes. A person's feet are usually different sizes so buy shoes that fit the bigger foot. Size may vary with style and make of shoe, so do not get hung up on a particular size.

Contrary to the old wives tale, high top shoes do not provide better ankle support for infants. Kids shoes should be checked often because they grow so quickly. Their feet are very flexible and could be jammed into shoes too small without the kids complaining. Hand-me-down shoes are a no-no. The shoes are molded to the original owner's feet.

General healthy foot care basics should be a habit like brushing teeth. Happy feet essentials include wash feet daily and dry thoroughly especially between the toes. Trim toenails straight across, not too short and avoid digging into the corners. Wear clean socks. People whose feet sweat a bit should wear leather or canvas shoes, switch shoes from day to day and use foot powder.

About 70 percent of Americans have foot problems. The most common ailments are corns, warts, athlete's foot and bunions. Corns are calluses that develop over a bony prominence and are the result of intense heel to toe pressure. There are five types of corns: fibrous, vascular, seed, soft and the most common hard. Do not cut corns yourself. Commercial remedies such as plasters and patnis may harm healthy tissue surrounding the corn. It is best to consult with a professional.

Warts are usually found on the sole of the foot. Warts are caused by a virus that thrives in damp conditions such as pools, showers and bathrooms. One must come in direct contact with the virus by walking on a wet surface or using infected towels. Warts begin as a tiny pink area with black speckled dots. "They are often confused with corns but are more painful when pinched and may appear anywhere on the foot whereas corns are usually limited to pressure point areas. Many times the body's immune system will clear up warts. Over the counter plasters may be employed with relative success but should be used cautiously.

Athlete's foot is a fungal infection like warts that thrives in damp conditions including gym shoes. Symptoms include itching between toes, red/raw looking skin, flaky skin or a sore rash. To avoid athlete's foot follow healthy foot basics paying special attention to allowing shoes to "dry out" for a day. There are a variety of effective creams and ointments available to combat athlete's foot.

Bunions occur when the big toe begins to curve towards the other toes instead of pointing straight. When the big toe curves like that it causes the joint to swell and become painful. Heredity and walking style effect where or not a person develops bunions. Once a bunion has developed wearing shoes with a straight in-step will alleviate the pressure on the joint. Protective pads and in-steps may also ease the pain of bunions.

Remember the Greek philosopher Socrates when taking care of your feet, "When our feet hurt, we hurt all over."

Compulsive gambling

(NAPS) - More than 200 million Americans gambled last year and lost an estimated 50 billion dollars. For some, gambling is merely a matter of buying a lottery ticket and losing a dollar on a dream. Others aren't so lucky.

More than 2.5 million Americans are compulsive or pathological gamblers; another three million are considered problem gamblers.

"The problems caused by compulsive gambling can leave people's lives in chaos," says Valerie C. Lorenz, Ph.D. and executive director of the Compulsive Gambling Center, Inc. "Addictive gambling devastates the lives of the gamblers and their families."

Typically, personal earnings and savings are lost and replaced by severe debt. Marriages end; family members become distant; jobs, homes, and personal possessions are gone. Physical health often deteriorates. The gambler may experience depression and anxiety. Some turn to alcohol or drugs to escape. About a third will steal, write bad checks, and abuse credit cards, which can lead to prison.

Approximately 1.5 percent of adult Americans may suffer

Rainbow Hospice helps grievers cope with holidays

If you are wondering how to get through Thanksgiving dinner or other holiday events after one has died, consider some guidance from Rainbow Hospice's Center for Loss and Life Passages. Free presentations, Grief and the Holidays, will be held on Wednesday, Nov. 7 from 7 to 8:30 p.m. at the Martin Luther Church, 6850 W. Addison, Chicago; Monday, Nov. 12 from 7 to 8:30 p.m. at the Park Ridge Community Church, 100 S. Courtland, Park Ridge; and Monday, Dec. 3 from 7 to 8:30 p.m. at Westlake Hospital, 1225 W. Lake St., Melrose Park.

The presentation will be moderated by a bereavement professional and includes a panel discussion by recently bereaved members of the community. Each will offer insights on how individuals can engage themselves in the celebrations of the holidays even in the midst of grief. Following the panel presentations, there will be an opportunity for question and answer time and light refreshments.

Holidays are often difficult for anyone who has experienced the death of a loved one. Rather than being times of family togetherness, sharing and thanksgiving, holidays can bring feelings of sadness, loss and emptiness. Since love does not end with death, holidays may result in a renewed sense of personal grief - a feeling of loss unlike that experienced in the routine of daily living. Holidays are full of sights and sounds that trigger memories of the person who has died.

No simple guidelines can take away the hurt people feel following the death of a loved one. However, the following suggestions may be helpful as one copes during this joyful, yet painful, time of the year.

1. Accept the likelihood of your pain. Actually, few holidays were ever picture perfect.
2. Accept your feelings. Explore them, learn from them, and express them.
3. Create rituals that honor and remember the person who has died. Embrace your memories.
4. Surround yourself with people and places that are truly comfortable.
5. Be gentle. Eat well, rest and keep activities simple. Accept your limitations.
6. Accept help when it is offered.

Ask for it when needed.

7. Do something for others. Volunteer. Feel needed, appreciated, valued.

8. Harbor hope - Interests in life and the holidays will return. Grief takes time and is a healthy process. It comes as a result of giving and receiving love. It is well worth the investment of time and energy.

Everyone in the community is invited to attend the Grief and Holiday presentation. For more information and registration for the Grief and Holidays presentation, please call Rainbow Hospice Center for Loss and Life Passages, (847) 692-8884.

Masterpiece of Engineering

by Jeanine Kromer

Renaissance artist Leonardo da Vinci called the foot "a masterpiece of engineering and a work of art." The foot is a highly specialized structure composed of 26 relatively small bones connected by 33 joints and more than 150 ligaments. There are approximately 250 sweat glands in each foot that perspire about a cup of moisture every day. During a typical day feet endure a cumulative force of several hundred pounds. The average person walks 115,000 miles in a lifetime approximately five times around the earth. Truly amazing considering how little attention is paid to feet.

About 1 million years ago the first person walked upright. This astounding evolution freed the hands but doubled the load for the feet. The first shoes needed to protect feet from injury and cold were animal skin sandals. Shoes have evolved too. Comfort and function are not always the priority when it comes to shoes. Style and status play an important role too. Good fitting shoes are essential to healthy and pain free feet.

The right shoe may prevent foot problems and will not exacerbate existing conditions. Leather shoes are the best because they mold to the foot and allow the foot to breathe. Strong and flexible soles that have a good gripping surface are desirable - to cushion the stress of walking on hard surfaces. The insoles should be cushioned. Shoes should fit correctly. Allowing toes to wiggle and be comfortable. Pay special attention to how narrow the front of the shoe is. Feet grow with age therefore both feet should be measured each time when buying shoes. A person's feet are usually different sizes so buy shoes that fit the bigger foot. Size may vary with style and make of shoe. So do not get hung up on a particular size.

Contrary to the old wives tale, high top shoes do not provide better ankle support for infants. Kids shoes should be checked often because they grow so quickly. Their feet are very flexible and could be jammed into shoes too small without the kids complaining. Hand-me-down shoes are a no-no. The shoes are molded to the original owner's feet.

Family food and fitness facts

... (T)hese results show food consumption trends that are compromising the nutritional and health status of U.S. adolescents and may contribute to important increases in nutrition related chronic diseases." (Dr. Anna Maria Siega-Riz, University of North Carolina, Chapel Hill) This study, published in the July 2000 Archives of Disease in Childhood, reported that today's teens drink less milk and eat less produce than their parents did at the same age. The authors conclude that these teenagers are at a higher risk for cancer and osteoporosis.

"Boys' health lifestyles more closely resembled their fathers' lifestyles, and girls were more likely to emulate their mothers' behaviors." (Dr. K.A.S. Wickrama, Iowa State University, Ames) based on a five-year study in the September 1999 Journal of Health and Social Behavior, researchers reported that teens are likely to copy their parents in lifestyle choices like poor eating habits, inactivity, excessive drinking, smoking, and poor sleep habits.

"It appears as though eating family dinners more often may improve the nutritional quality of children." (Dr. Matthew W. Gillman, of Harvard Medical School, Boston, Massachusetts) According to the March 2000 issue of the Archives of Family Medicine, kids (ages 9 to 14) who eat family dinners are more likely to consume fruits and vegetables and less likely to drink soda or chow down on fried, high-fat or sugary-laden foods.

"The bottom line is that we have to get our kids to be more active, and not just through school activities but also within the communities where they live." (Dr. Jennifer O'Loughlin, McGill University, Montreal, Canada) Her study in the October 15, 2000 issue of the American Journal of Epidemiology showed that less active, video-game playing kids were more likely to become obese.

"Teenagers in the U.S. now drink twice as much soda as milk, a reverse of figures noted 20 years ago." (Center for Science in the Public Interest, Washington, DC)

Secondhand smoke poses serious health risks

Each year thousands of innocent nonsmokers suffer needlessly from secondhand smoke - the smoke exhaled by smokers and the smoke that comes from the burning end of a cigarette, pipe or cigar. According to the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency (EPA), secondhand smoke "is responsible for" 3,000 lung cancer deaths among non-smoking Americans each year. Secondhand smoke also accounts for as many as 62,000 deaths from coronary heart disease in the United States annually. Studies rank secondhand smoke as the third-leading cause of preventable death in the United States.

Secondhand smoke, also known as environmental tobacco smoke or passive smoke, is so dangerous because it contains more than 4,000 chemicals, including more than 50 cancer-causing agents and 200 poisons. Chemicals found in secondhand smoke include acetone, arsenic, ammonia, benzene, carbon monoxide, asbestos and formaldehyde. The EPA lists secondhand smoke as a Group A carcinogen, a rating used only for substances proven to cause cancer in humans.

The health risks associated with secondhand smoke pose a threat to the vast majority of Americans. Nearly 90 percent of nonsmoking Americans are exposed to secondhand smoke as measured by the levels of cotinine in their blood. The presence of cotinine, a chemical the body metabolizes from nicotine, indicates that a person has been exposed to tobacco smoke.

According to medical research, exposure to secondhand smoke causes a number of illnesses in nonsmokers including cancer, heart disease, respiratory problems and reproductive problems.

"Young children and babies still in utero are most at risk from secondhand smoke, and the elderly also are particularly vulnerable," said Dr. Richard Hurt, director of nicotine dependence programs at the Mayo Clinic in Rochester, Minn. "In infants, secondhand smoke causes sudden infant death syndrome (SIDS), asthma and inner ear infections. Infants also lack the ability to move away from smoke."

Secondhand smoke increases the frequency of episodes and severity of symptoms in an estimated 200,000 to 1 million asthmatic children. It also increases the risk of asthma in children who have not previously displayed asthma symptoms.

The workplace is a source of repeated secondhand smoke exposure, and studies demonstrate that the increase in lung cancer risk from workplace secondhand smoke exposure is about the same as from household exposure. Secondhand smoke exposure in the workplace also contributes to the aggravation of asthma in adults.

Workers in the hospitality industry are at high risk because the nature of their workplace often demands prolonged exposure to secondhand smoke. One study showed bar and restaurant workers exposed to secondhand smoke had cotinine levels that were five and a half times as high as for other workers not exposed to secondhand smoke.

Thanks to research and a greater understanding of the depth of health problems caused by secondhand smoke, efforts are growing nationwide to limit exposure to secondhand smoke in public areas and workplaces. Public health boards and legislators are working at the local, city and county level to safeguard public health by banning smoking in these areas.

These efforts to limit secondhand smoke have produced the following results:

- More than 220 cities nationwide have banned workplace smoking.
- Smoking in restaurants has been banned in 300 cities.

Mavena Derma Center open house

The Mavena Derma Center in Des Plaines has just opened, offering their unique Balneo-Phototherapy treatment, a natural, non-invasive, safe and effective method of caring for psoriasis and atopic dermatitis, which harnesses the special properties of the Dead Sea.

A public open house with presentations of the effectiveness of the Balneo-Phototherapy on psoriasis and atopic dermatitis will be held at the Mavena Derma Center, 1455 E. Golf Rd., Suite 120, Des Plaines on Saturday, Nov. 3, from 10 a.m. to 6 p.m.

Psoriasis and atopic dermatitis are debilitating skin diseases that affect millions of adults and children in the United States.

The Dead Sea, over 6,000 miles away, has been renowned for centuries for its healing effects on these diseases. Now, for the first time in the United States, treatment for psoriasis and atopic dermatitis is being offered, optimizing the special properties of the Dead Sea.

"Psoriasis and atopic dermatitis can be painful and debilitating, affecting people both physically and emotionally," said Dr. Vladimir Panine, medical director of the Mavena Derma Center. "Our aim is to create a sanctuary for patients where they feel informed, cared for and comfortable."

At the open house, the public will learn more about the diseases Balneo-Phototherapy. They are also invited to tour the treatment center and take home educational materials along with complimentary Mavena Derma line skincare products, which are uniquely formulated with natural Dead Sea salt and minerals, including magnesium. These products are designed to complement the treatment for home use.

Between 6 to 7.5 million people in the United States suffer from psoriasis. Psoriasis causes red, inflamed, thickened, scaly skin that appears most often on elbows, knees, and scalp but may cover large areas of the body. Atopic dermatitis, which affects about 10 percent of infants and 3 percent of all Americans, causes often intense, almost unbearable itching and may lead to skin infections.

To treat these conditions, Balneo-Phototherapy harnesses elements, such as the salt from the Dead Sea's deep, mineral-rich waters and the optimal qualities of narrow band UVB light.

For more information, call 1-866-4-MAVENA (1-866-462-8362) or visit online at www.mavena.com.

Mavena USA, Inc. is part of the dermatology division of Askia Holding AG of Switzerland which provides a range of healthcare services and operations including health and dental. Balneo-Phototherapy was pioneered by Mavena in Europe. The success with patients and physicians has allowed the company to expand its operations into the United States.

'Train to End Stroke' information meetings set

Runners and walkers in the Chicago area are invited to attend "Train to End Stroke," a team marathon-training program benefiting the American Stroke Association, a division of the American Heart Association.

Train to End Stroke gives participants the chance to improve their lives through exercise while raising much-needed funds for the American Stroke Association. Participants will train with an experienced coach for six months, while at the same time raising funds for the American Stroke Association's educational programs and research efforts. What you don't know will make you fat Nutricise (www.nutricise.com) shows how eating consciously can help you lose weight.

An estimated 61% of Americans are overweight, and 26% are obese. One of the leading contributors to this epidemic is the unconscious consumption of food - whether driving, watching television, talking on the phone - individuals have become completely unaware of the quality and quantity of what they're consuming! Even registered dietitians underreported the amount of daily calories they consumed by 10 percent, according to a study done at Pennington Biomedical Research Center at Louisiana State University.

Individuals attempting to lose weight need to pay attention to what they're eating and be familiar with the amount of calories contained in each food item. Nutricise (www.nutricise.com) has found that more than 80% of its clients underreport the amount of food they consume. Using food diaries and portion awareness guides (e.g. palm of your hand equals 3 ounces of meat). Nutricise Registered Dietitians educate their clients to eat responsibly and be aware of what they consume. Other helpful conscious eating strategies include planning all snacks and meals ahead of time (especially at social gatherings), never going to the grocery store on an empty stomach, sitting down to enjoy meals without distraction (including TV), pausing between bites by laying down silverware, spending a minimum of twenty minutes at each meal, and not nibbling while cooking or cleaning up. "Clients are shocked when they find out that due to unconscious eating their daily food intake is 1,000 calories more than they previously thought - adding up to two pounds of weight gain a week!" says Nutricise Vice-President, Carey Clifford, M.S., R.D.

The Nutricise Weight Loss Program recognizes that mindful or conscious eating is a two-step process. Think first, consume second. "Once you are aware of the caloric value of your food intake, you can modify your behavior in order to reduce it," says Charles S. Platkin, Nutricise co-founder and author of Breaking the Pattern (Red Mill Press). "Simply cutting out 100 calories per day (just three tablespoons of ice cream!), a person can lose 10 pounds in one year."

The Nutricise Weight Loss Program assigns each client a personal "live" Registered Dietitian for unlimited counseling via email. Clients learn invaluable weight loss, nutrition, physical activity, and behavior modification techniques. In the May 2001 issue of Men's Health, Nutricise's convenient and private program was the only program to receive the highest rating of 4 out of 4 stars when reviewed by an undercover registered dietitian. In addition, Nutricise was recently voted the Health and Fitness Favorite in the Forbes Summer 2001 "Best of the Web."

Helpful hints in the home bring relief to allergy sufferers

(NAPS) -- Does the mere thought of cleaning your house bring on sniffles and make your eyes water? If the answer is yes, you could be one of the 36 million people in the United States who suffer from allergies. Many of those sufferers are being attacked by things in their own home, like pollen and dust, which can cause allergic reactions.

Paying special attention to cleaning the house is one of the simple things you can do to reduce your exposure to allergens. In order to help prevent and minimize allergy attacks, try the following tips:

- Keep your carpet vacuumed. Allergens such as dust mites and pollen can settle in carpeting, so it is important to vacuum regularly. To avoid raising a cloud of dust, choose vacuum cleaner bags with high efficiency filters. In addition, have your carpet professionally cleaned at least once a year.

- Dust frequently. Take steps to aggressively banish dust in the home. It is easier to keep allergens under control if you take the time to clean a little bit each day. Keep a Scotch-Brite high performance cleaning cloth in every room in one year."

every room of the house. The unique micro-texture design helps to lift and trap dust rather than spreading it around the surface and pushing it into the air like ordinary rags.

- Be sure to wash your sheets and pillowcases once a week. Dust and other elements that can cause allergic reactions settle into bedding, which means allergy sufferers can be exposed to them throughout the entire night. To rid bedding of allergens wash sheets and pillowcases in water of at least 130 degrees once a week.

- Keep windows closed during allergy season. Keeping your windows closed during allergy season is the best way to reduce the amount of pollen that enters your home. Pollen levels are at their peak before 10 a.m., so it is best to stay indoors during the early morning. Dust and pollen tend to accumulate on windowpanes and windowsills, so keep them clean with the Scotch-Brite high performance cleaning cloth, which is washable and reusable hundreds of times and works without the need for other sprays and polishes. In addition, installing an air conditioner with a high efficiency filter lowers humidity levels and can help to reduce the environmental elements that aggravate allergies.

- Don't forget the bathroom. Scrub your shower curtains and wash window treatments in hot water to remove mold and mildew from your bathroom. Always use your bathroom fan before, during and after a shower or bath to help ventilate the room and keep humidity low. This helps to reduce the possibility of mold growth.

- Household pets. Household pets can cause allergic reactions for many people. Keep pets out of bedrooms at all times and off upholstered furniture. Always keep the pet's bed, box or cage clean and regularly launder any blankets or pillows that your pet uses with very hot, sudsy water and rinse well with clean water. Regularly brush and groom your pet to reduce shedding and pet dander. If you have a litter box, keep it in a well-ventilated area to reduce odors and airborne allergens.

Following these quick and easy tips may help allergy sufferers alleviate many of their symptoms during peak season. So happy cleaning this allergy season!

The Eyes Have It

by Jeanine Kromer

Glaucoma sounds like a grandma and grandpa disease of the eye. Approximately 5 percent of people over age fifty will develop glaucoma. Glaucoma results in a loss of vision and hardening of the eyeball. If left untreated, glaucoma can cause blindness.

Glaucoma occurs when pressure in the eyeball increases, damaging the optic nerve. The front of the eyeball is filled with aqueous (fluid) that is continually produced and drained from the eye. When too much fluid is produced or too little fluid drains from the eyeball, intraocular pressure is increased. Glaucoma is almost always the result of drainage problems.

Open-angle (angle referring to the angle where the iris meets the cornea) or chronic glaucoma is the most common type of glaucoma. Over 90 percent of glaucoma cases are of the chronic variety. Chronic glaucoma does not have any symptoms because there is a very gradual increase in pressure as drainage canals slowly clog and progressively damage the optic nerve. Vision loss is not usually noticed because it begins with the edges of the fields of vision. The most telltale risk factors for chronic glaucoma are age and family history. The actual cause of open-angle glaucoma is usually unknown.

Close-angle or acute glaucoma is quite different from chronic glaucoma in that symptoms usually strike one eye only and are sudden. Symptoms range from severe headaches or eye pain, nausea, severely blurred vision and colored halos (rainbows) around lights, these symptoms are coupled with an initially slight decrease in sight that develops rapidly. Sometimes the eyelids swell and the eyes become red and watery. Acute glaucoma is usually due to the shape of the eyeball. When the pupil dilates due to dim lighting, eye drops and certain medications, the drainage canal becomes clogged.

There are three kinds of tests, used to determine if a person has glaucoma. The test everyone remembers from routine eye exams is the air puff test. The puff of air electronically measures intraocular pressure of the eyeball. Yellow drops may also be used to measure intraocular pressure. A second test involves an ophthalmoscope to utilize a bright light to view the health of the optic nerve at the back of the eyeball. The third test checks visual fields or peripheral vision. The patient looks straight ahead and is asked to report when he/she sees a spot of flashing light at the side. Failing the third test is usually the first sign of chronic glaucoma as it affects peripheral vision first.

The most common type of treatment for both chronic and great charm, whose little voice was both strong and controlled. Vanessa was known for her great humor and wit - "her heart was so open and giving - she would not deny anyone." Alexis added Vanessa is much loved - and she displayed much love and joy, sorrow, laughter and tears... "She was God's most spectacular butterfly - our Vanessa."

Her father, Paul Kolpak, a Niles attorney, said his daughter was his Renaissance woman - she was comfortable discussing philosophy, economics and football.

Her mother, Vivian, co-owner of the White Eagle restaurant in Niles, reminisced of Vanessa's compassion and love for her family - how she remained close to her aunt and grandparents, often seeking their companionship, and noting how comforting she was during her mother's cancer surgeries last year.

Vanessa was a National Merit Scholar when she attended St. Ignatius College Prep high school in Chicago. She was an equestrian and a member of the debate and golf teams and was a 13 year Suzuki violinist. She graduated from Georgetown University Magna Cum Laude. She was chosen over 500 applicants as a financial researcher for a New York investment banking firm only three weeks before the September 11 tragedy.

Her family and friends spoke lovingly of her. Family members remembered her little voice and sweet face - her kindness and thoughtfulness. Her cousins said she had immense energy, was creative and artistic, was always happy and was a character who had style and a love for life.

Her friends said she was their therapist, teacher and philosopher, party planner, nurturer, go-getter and angel. She was never argumentative and "was the smartest person I've ever known...but couldn't spell worth a darn...we miss her soooooo much."

police officer from Morton Grove there to investigate what he described as criminal damage to a neighbor's property.

Following a brief exchange at the door, the second individual covered his face with a cloth mask, brandished a small handgun, and forced his way into the home, where he demanded money from the businessman's wife. Meanwhile, her husband struggled to keep the first individual from further entry.

The intruders successfully made off with a purse, a leather jacket and some jewelry, on foot.

Cndr. Mark Erickson of Morton Grove Police said the department is investigating information generated by calls from the public, based on certain identifiers.

Erickson said he does not accept an early claim that this crime was the result of ethnic targeting. Erickson then referred to a case about one month ago where a business owner's patterns had apparently been observed as a prelude to a robbery.

He characterized the M.O. of this offense as "not very sophisticated."

Regarding the identification ruse, he urges citizens confronted by anyone presenting as a police officer to not be shy about confirming such a claim. "Call either the emergency or non-emergency number---depending on the circumstance---to ask if an officer has, in fact, been dispatched to your address.

A Mt. Prospect detective, David Belun, said there is little chance the company will recover any money, that Olsen spent it all.

Olsen blamed her behavior on what she described, in general terms, as a mental illness. She said that she felt worse about this infraction than about a previous one.

Previously, Olsen was convicted on federal charges and sentenced to serve 15 months for initiating bogus student loans in 1997 while a student-loan counselor at North Park College in Chicago. She will serve that sentence concurrent with the 8-year state sentence, which she is expected to begin serving at Pe-kin this month.

vately-owned theaters in the Chicagoland area, with nine locations, offering a total of 60 screens for the movie-goer's pleasure. Village Theaters is also planning additional openings in the Chicagoland area, as well as Northern Indiana.

"Having theaters is like having a 3-year old child that never grows up," said Rooding, who added that a must-do attitude has to prevail in order to stay competitive within the industry. Things like state-of-the-art technology, comfort, cleanliness, very competitive pricing, along with keeping abreast on what the public likes and dislikes.

"We must be doing something right because we have never had to shut down any of our theaters since our first opening back in 1978."

Two thousand new seats will be installed in the theater in March 2002. Rooding believes that aisle space is extremely important to customers. The average minimum aisle requirement is 30-32 inches in depth, but in Rooding's theaters they allow between 40-47 inches of aisle space, making it much easier to enter an aisle, pass by people to sit down without knocking into them or stepping on their feet in the process. For Village Theaters, overall maintenance and cleaning "must be done within a 48-hr. time frame."

Thoughtfulness and helping others is of utmost importance to Rooding and is enforced with the staff he hires.

He is proud of his prices for first-run movies and say they are the lowest around the Chicagoland area. Village Theaters expects to charge between $4 and $6 for first-run movies; to Golf Glen patrons, that could reduce their former ticket price by half.

When asked why the largest movie chains like Lowe's Cineplex, General Cineplex and Regal Theaters filed for bankruptcy, Rooding said that common sense plays a big part in being successful.

"It is not good business to build a theater across the street from your competitor."

Nor, he said, is it smart to forget that six months after a first-run movie comes out it hits the video stores for rental.

"It used to take a lot longer before video stores would get the first-run movies, but things have changed and the demand is greater than Hollywood is able to keep up with. Getting a hold of first-run movies as quickly as possible, offering good prices, comfort, cleanliness and state-of-the-art technology are keys to success within the movie theater industry. Our goal is to take what were good theaters and make them into better theaters and give people a sense of pride in a theater in their neighborhood setting."

Vanessa Kolpak

Tributes offered by parents, siblings and cousins, both from the lectern as well as in the program (which included a 3-page list, "Vanessa's Favorite Quotes"), made the event an intensely personal experience, even for strangers present.

Many in the assembly wore commemorative pins or ribbons trimmed with a butterfly motif. The name Vanessa means butterfly, explained a family member.

Vanessa Kolpak grew up in Lincolnwood. Her parents, Paul and Vivian Kolpak, are prominent in the community. Mr. Kolpak in real estate, and Mrs. Kolpak as co-owner of Niles' White Eagle restaurant and banquet facility.

On hearing the explanation that neighbor who came to pray stayed until the end. Like many in the congregation, she was seen sniffing.

Aid afterward, she walked home in the bright sun light with dark glasses to protect her eyes.

Put the brakes on aggressive driving

It does not take long to find examples of aggressive driving on our roadways. Most of us see it everyday - the road racer, the tail-gater, the frequent lane changer, the red light runner. The atmosphere created by aggressive drivers is scary. Approximately 6,335,000 crashes occur in the United States each year. It is unknown exactly how many of those crashes are caused by aggressive driving. Estimates indicate the number to be substantial, based on the violations committed by the drivers of vehicles involved in crashes and reported by law enforcement agencies as the contributing factor of the crash. By focusing enforcement efforts and media attention on violations commonly associated with aggressive driving and encouraging voluntary compliance with traffic laws in general, the number of crashes and injuries each year can be reduced. Roadway congestion is considered a factor that tends to exacerbate aggressive driving behaviors. As the number of licensed drivers and registered vehicles has increased, this congestion often causes drivers to become frustrated, which, unfortunately, leads to a more aggressive, high-risk driving style. Aggressive drivers create an unsafe driving environment through their inconsiderate, self-centered driving habits. Drivers often commit multiple violations, including following too closely, changing lanes in an erratic or unsafe manner, signaling lane changes improperly, driving over the posted speed limit, and failing to obey traffic control devices. Because of these driving behaviors, hundreds of deaths, thousands of injuries and millions of dollars of property damage occur each year, and these behaviors contribute to the growing problems of hazardous traffic conditions and those criminal acts related to aggressive driving. To adequately address these unique issues, a concentrated and dedicated enforcement campaign is needed, and it must be coordinated with an intensive public awareness campaign. In their aggressive state of mind, these drivers may not be thinking about the human beings who occupy the other vehicles around them, or that the drivers in the other vehicles could possibly be their friends, neighbors, coworkers, or family members. It is time that aggressive drivers start putting a face on the drivers in the vehicles next to them, and realize they are not alone on the roadway. The ones they hurt may be themselves or loved ones.

DUI

While investigating a motor vehicle accident at Dempster and Shermer on October 16 an officer detected a strong odor of alcohol on the breath of a driver involved. The driver failed field sobriety tests and was arrested for driving under the influence and failure to reduce speed to avoid an accident.

An officer responded to a hit and run at Dempster and Shermer on October 14. The car in question was stopped at the 7000 block of Carol where the driver and passenger exited the car and fled on foot. The driver was located in a parking lot at the 7100 block of Dempster. There was a strong odor of alcohol on the driver's breath. He subsequently failed field sobriety tests and was arrested for driving under the influence, failure to reduce speed to avoid an accident and leaving the scene of an accident.

On October 14 an officer investigated a report of a man passed out behind the wheel of his car. The driver was indeed passed out in his car at Milwaukee and Touhy in the middle of a lane. The keys were in the ignition and the engine was running. The officer had to reach in the car and put it in park. The man came to. His eyes were glassy, his speech slurred, there was vomit on his shirt and he was slow to respond to the officer. There was a strong odor of alcohol on his breath and he failed field sobriety tests. He was arrested for driving under the influence, obstructing traffic and no proof of insurance.

While on patrol a car was observed swerving in the lane at 8800 Milwaukee on October 13. The car was curbed and the driver had a strong odor of alcohol on her breath. She failed field sobriety tests and was arrested for driving under the influence and improper lane usage.

CAR ON LAWN
An officer responded to a call about a car left on the lawn at the 8300 block of Odell on October 14. The car was unoccupied when the officer arrived but the driver and some friends showed up to push the car out of the ditch. The driver said the car ended up on the lawn because of the high standing water on the road that he attempted to drive through. The driver had a strong odor of alcohol on his breath and his eyes were red and glassy. He submitted to a breath test and was not over the legal limit. He was cited for driving too fast for conditions, driving off the roadway and property damage.

Why Select A Family Owned Funeral Home?

*Prices are traditionally much lower than those of corporate owned funeral homes.

* Our funeral directors and staff do not work on commissions. They will never pressure you to buy something that you don't want or need.

*All of our preparation work is done at our funeral homes by licensed funeral directors. Your loved one will not be transported to a "factory like" embalming facility.

*You will be treated with the respect and appreciation that only a family owned business can offer.

*We consistently upgrade our facilities and equipment to offer families only the best.

*The comfort of knowing the person you're dealing with. You will always see a familiar face at our chapels. Our staff is not rotated among dozens of funeral homes.
