Southwest Hicksville Gets A Civic

By JW Garger

Residents from the southwest portion of Hicksville gathered at Levittown Hall on July 29 to determine if there was an interest in the area to establish a civic organization. By the meeting's end there was a temporary slate of officers, start-up committees, and the new Hicksville Southwest Civic Association.

The turnout (estimated at approximately 65 people) was enthusiastic, and after a brief discussion of the functions and needs of a civic group, it became obvious that there were many common concerns.

Concerns of the people present included the future of Dutch Lane School and the property, local traffic, neighborhood loitering, graffiti, the possible widening of Stewart Avenue, and the condition of county and town dumps. In addition, the group also wanted to become involved with monitoring new building construction in the area and local businesses. Since the upcoming board of education vote on school closings is in September, the

New Escalators For Hix Station

By John W. Garger

As part of the Long Island Rail Road's Capital Improvement Project, the Hicksville railroad station will receive two new escalators.

Beginning on August 24 and continuing until approximately Christmas, the escalators will be removed and new ones will be installed in their place. The project will have no effect on train service and the elevators on the west side of Newbridge Rd. will be available for persons who have trouble using the stairways.

Presently the escalator on the north side of the station, for the platform servicing west-bound trains, is in disuse and will remain closed until the replacement project begins. According to a LIRR bulletin, "The north escalator, severely damaged by vandalism and already slated for replacement, will not be repaired due to the cost." The escalator on the south side of the station, for the platform serving east-bound trains, is functioning.

The new escalators will be continuous running escalators. The treble pad system that activated the old elevators was considered a safety hazard, according to a representative from the LIRR, who spoke at a Community Council meeting earlier this year.

Each platform is serviced by three stairwells and an elevator.

NEW ESCALATORS will be installed at the Hicksville railroad station as part of the LIRR Capital Improvement Project. The four-month project is scheduled to begin on August 24 and continue until Christmas. Train service should not be affected. Photo by JW Garger

Danger Zone: Not Knowing The Rules

By John W. Garger

What happens when a neighboring landowner wants to use his property zoned Business-F for a light industry use? Will you be notified? Do you have a right to oppose the application? What are your options?

There are not many wide-open parcels of land in Hicksville. So builders are increasingly forced to petition the town board for special requests in order to build to meet their needs.

The Town of Oyster Bay does have specific rules and regulations that govern the process for a change of zone or a special exception request. Special exceptions, sometimes referred to as special uses, apply to using property for a purpose intended for that property but requiring town board approval. When special exceptions are granted, the town board will usually place certain restrictions and covenants on the special exception. According to Salvatore Pontillo, commissioner of planning and development for the Town of Oyster Bay, special exceptions are granted with built-in safeguards to take into consideration the safety and comfort of the surrounding area.

All change of zone requests or special exceptions must be presented to the board at a formal board hearing. To get the hearing the property owner must file the appropriate papers with the town clerk's office.

The application instructions are contained in a five (legal size) page packet that explains exactly what is needed. It says that all applications must be submitted with the correct fee and 15 copies of the following: the verified petition, disclosure application of all applicants and the attorney's firm, if any; a survey; a 300 foot radius map; the proposed site plan; and an interior layout plan, when necessary.

Neighboring property to a parcel that is the subject of a hearing are required to be notified by certified mail, return receipt if they are within 300 feet of the property in question. The notice is to inform the landowner that a hearing has been scheduled. The notices must be mailed out at least 14 days prior to the hearing date but not more than 30 days. All other interested residents are informed by the listing of a public notice in the local paper and a copy is mailed to the public library for posting on its bulletin board.

The site plan submitted should include the exterior dimensions of the improvements proposed, means of ingress and egress for motor vehicles, location of parking stalls (including handicapped), all signage (including size and location), exterior lighting, landscaping, and dumpsters.

According to deputy town attorney Stephen Luongo, the mere objection of neighboring residents to an application is not enough to have the town board deny it. Residents must present facts as to why a petition would have a negative impact on a property.

Change of zones are granted when the petitioner can show that there is no reasonable use under present zoning. People opposed to a change of zone request must present proof that the property as zoned has a reasonable use. "Fear and feelings are not substantial reasons for denying a request," said Luongo. Opponents must present facts. If a petition is denied because of strong neighborhood opposition and the case is appealed, chances are that the appeals court will overturn the decision.

The petitioner must also submit "An unequivocal statement of the use to be made of the subject parcel if the application is granted." Therefore if an application is granted the petitioner is bound to use the property for the purpose that the application was sought. If another use is desired after the application is granted then another hearing must be scheduled. If an application is denied the petitioner must wait at least one year before petitioning the board for the same use of the same property.

The zones in the Town of Oyster Bay were originally created in 1929. They were revised in 1953, 1959, and are periodically reviewed, according to Pontillo. Presently the town is in the process of reviewing the G-1 zone in Hicksville to see if changes can be made to foster better use of the land.

Stores Proposed For Vacant Lot

Plans Need Town Approval

By John W. Garger

Herbil Holding Company has expressed interest in constructing retail space on the parcel of land between the Holy Trinity property and Barter St., just off Newbridge Rd. The property, approximately 42,500 square feet would have a 10,000 square foot building and 53 parking spaces according to plans by Herbil Holding Co.

The property, now vacant, is on the east side of Newbridge Rd. and the north side of Barter Street. A service station abuts it on the southwest corner and residential homes on the east side. The proposed plan would need town board approval because half of the property is zoned residential.

Bill Cohn, representing Herbil Holding Co. met with area residents in an informal meeting on Tuesday, July 28 to discuss tentative plans and see if both parties could come to some sort of an agreement.

Residents in the area were mainly concerned about the increase in traffic, especially because of the nearby public pool on Barter Lane. Other concerns focused on the type of stores that would occupy the building, and the general appearance of the site. The entrance and exit to the property would have to be on Barter Lane. Cohn explained that the state will not permit an opening onto Newbridge. The exit and entrance onto Barter would be as far west (closest to the service station) as possible.

Many residents in the area fear that many of the trees on the property would be removed, especially those lining the north side of the property. Cohn said that when building they will try to preserve as many of the trees as possible. He also said that new shrubbery would replace removed trees.

Cohn said that as of the meeting there were no definite stores interested in the site. They are looking for tenants, but would build the building and then divide to meet demand. It is possible that the building could accommodate 10 new stores. He also mentioned the possibility of using the building for medical offices. As far as the appearance of the site, Cohn said he would work with the neighbors to come up with a reasonable facade and that the area would include the proper shrubbery.

Businesses in the area were also concerned with the development. Merchants from the West Village Green and the Trunz shopping center were obviously concerned with the type of stores that would occupy the building.

The land presently encompasses two separate types of zones. The land on the north side of the parcel is zoned residential and the land adjacent to Barter St. is zoned for business. The petitioner will be requesting a change of zone for the residential portion of the property.

After the first informal meeting the residents and Cohn agreed that the proposed stores would not be used for certain purposes. Those include a bar, dance club, pool hall, and a game room. Future meetings will decide further restrictions. Cohn has said that he is willing to work with the community to come up with a viable plan.

Although Cohn estimated that a hearing would probably not be scheduled until the spring, residents have scheduled a meeting for Aug. 10 at 7 p.m. at the West Village Green pool to further discuss their concerns.

Home Security Takes Spotlight

By John W. Garger

During the summer months when people are on vacation or spend days and evenings at parks and beaches, anti-crime officials are encouraging homeowners to follow burglary prevention tips. Right here in Hicksville, businessmen are responding to the need for increased residential and commercial security.

Some of the tips that leading anti-crime experts offer are: never to hide a key outside, keep outside lights on in the evening whether home or not, trim hedges and bushes around doorways, and install and use good locks, bolts, or chains on all doors and windows, garage doors, and gates. Locksmith Marc Seidenberg can help homeowners meet some of these guidelines.

Lock Masters Locksmith Shop, located just north of John Street at 77 North Broadway in Hicksville, offers full installation and service of residential and business door and window locks, custom made window grills, door closers, and other security devices for the car and home.

Seidenberg, an area resident, has been in the locksmith business for over 20 years. In opening his store in Hicksville, he brings locksmith service to the mid-Nassau County area for residential, commercial, industrial, and auto services. He even provides a 24-hour emergency hotline. "People don't realize how inadequate locks from 20 years ago are today," says Seidenberg. He points out that today's deadbolts go in a whole inch deeper, and that today's conventional locks have a dead-latch that thwarts break-ins. Seidenberg recommends upgrading older locks by installing super strikes (a piece of metal that reinforces the frame). "I'm more interested in getting customers to upgrade rather than have them be victimized." But for homeowners that are victimized Lock Masters offers door frame repair after break-ins, if possible.

Lock Masters does not stop at the front door. They also offer special locks for sliding glass doors, and a complete line of fire-rated safes for the home and office. Safes in the home are especially popular now says Seidenberg. Instead of having to deal with the inconvenience of a safe-deposit box during bank hours, safe owners have access to their valuables and important papers whenever they want. The money saved on a safe-

Reliving A Bit Of History: Model A Style

By Howard G. Olsen

You probably recall an article in the Hicksville Illustrated News, written by Eleanor (Finnegan) Cramer, in May of 1991, asking if anyone remembered a car with the spark and gas on the steering wheel. I also hope you remember an article I wrote, in May of 1992, referring to that good old Model A Ford. At the end of my article I stated that a neighbor had a Model A Ford and that he invited Mrs. Cramer and Ms. Schnepf for a ride. This article tells of a couple of hours of that day and a ride 50 years or so back in history.

Sunday, May 17, 1992 was a beautiful spring day when Joe Cramer drove his wife Eleanor and Mary (Ellis) Schnepf to Hampton Bays. We met at an old landmark, the Hampton Bays Diner. After a cup of coffee and a short chat we proceeded to the home of Mr. Wesley Hemsley (referred to as Wes hereafter). Wes is the proud owner of a Model A Ford. When we arrived at Wes's house he was out walking his friendly little dog, Sandy. When he returned he invited us into his house. As we stood in the family room, which overlooks Smith's Creek and the Shinnecock Bay, we were looking at all the memorabilia in that room. There were posters, photographs, and autographed pictures of many famous people of the past. To mention a few Clark Gable, the "frankly my dear I don't give a damn" guy. Wow to say something like that in the movies. There was a poster of Eva Tanguay, the "I don't care" girl. There were also pictures of Jean Harlow, Marilyn Monroe, Franklin Delano Roosevelt and Eleanor, James J. Farley, Joseph and Rose Kennedy, John F. and Jackie Kennedy, also Bobby, Betty Grable, and many more. We all admired his wonderfully displayed collection. We then walked out onto his patio.

Now came the time for the car ride which Eleanor and Mary had been patiently waiting for. We piled into the four door Model A Ford. As we backed out of the Hemsley's driveway Wes informed us that he was going to take us to the Shinnecock Inlet. As we drove down the road I had the feeling that Wes had taken other people for rides before us, by the act he put on and the remarks he made. At one point he said, "For a moment I thought I could hear the tires screech" as we sped around a very slight bend in the road at a high break neck speed approaching 15 miles per hour. Once through the curve Wes waved the line of cars behind us to pass. They did, even over a double solid line. Some people smiled, while others had different looks and expressions on their faces, as their fancy new cars overtook us.

Suddenly there it was, the Ponquogue Bridge crossing over the Shinnecock Bay. I told everyone to be prepared to get out and push if it became necessary. However, the 61 year old car chugged along and up the incline of the bridge without hesitation. As we rolled down from the top of the bridge Wes pretended to almost stand on the brake pedal in order to stop the car at the traffic light on Dune Rd, 500 feet away (this was also part of Wes' act). We went east on Dune Rd. to the Shinnecock Inlet.

We then drove into the parking lot and up near the front door of a new multi-million dollar restaurant, which had its grand opening just three days before our arrival. After sitting there for about five minutes, we realized they weren't going to roll out the red carpet for us, so we left.

On the way back to the Hemsley home we passed several groups of young ladies walking along the side of the road. They waved, smiled, and said something which I couldn't hear over the purr of the engine. If all the young ladies respond that way—well, I've got to get me one of those vehicles.

When we arrived at the Hemsley's home Wes got out and opened the car doors for us. He then told me that the doors didn't open from the inside. It was then that I realized Wes had a captive audience for his act and we enjoyed every moment of it. Thanks Wes.

I guess in a way we all celebrated May 17 in our own way. Eleanor and Mary had their trip 50 year or so back in history. Wes and his sister, Una, who wasn't there at the time, were celebrating their 81st birthday - Happy Birthday - God bless you and many more. I was celebrating the SYTTENDE MAI (17th of May) as it was the anniversary of Norway's independence (Constitution Day). You know Norway, that is where Lief Ericson, the True Discover of North America, came from. Take care, Howard Olsen.

High School PTSA Essay Contest Winner

The Hicksville High School PTSA sponsored an essay contest entitled "What I Like About Hicksville High School!" Freshman Robert Hora's essay was chosen from 50 entries and he was awarded a $100 cash prize for his efforts. Following is his entry -

There are a great deal of qualities I enjoy about Hicksville High School. The freedom, academic programs, teachers and after-school activities are all admirable attributes which make Hicksville High a wonderful school to attend.

One characteristic I especially enjoy about Hicksville High School is the freedom which is entrusted to the students. Students choose their own destiny and the outcome of their lives. They are not babied or constantly looked after, which is a trait that prepares students for life later in the work force.

Another admirable quality of Hicksville High School is the full range of academic programs that are offered. Students are placed into courses according to their ability which helps them to achieve their fullest potential. Many AP courses are also offered, which gives students advanced credits that can be used in most colleges. I myself will be taking two such courses next year in the tenth grade, AP European History and College Italian. I believe such rigorous courses will help better prepare me for the later grades at Hicksville High School. Next year will be the first year European History is offered in the high school and I feel privileged to be participating in such a venture.

Another wonderful feature of Hicksville High School is the teachers. They are kind and friendly, but at the same time present a serious, yet fun attitude toward learning. The teachers I have had so far at Hicksville High School have been most kind and considerate. They try their absolute best to educate their students and at the same time use new and unique teaching methods. It's very interesting to participate in projects such as oral and group presentations. It gives students an opportunity to be creative and use their imagination. I found the teachers have greatly eased my transition from the middle school to the high school.

Finally, what I like best about Hicksville High School is the large selection of after school activities that are offered to the students. They ranged from sports, yearbook, to drama, and various other clubs. Having after-school activities and student participation brings about a feeling of togetherness and school spirit. Sports promote interscholastic competition and friendship. They not only help to bring together students within our school, but also between ours and other schools.

I enjoy the freedom, academic programs, teachers, and after school activities that Hicksville High School offers. These qualities notably set the high school apart from other schools and I know my years to come will be filled with learning, fun and excitement.

CAN YOU SPOT THE DEER TICK ON THIS PAGE?

Reactions to its bite can feel like the flu initially, and cripple like arthritis when a condition known as Lyme Disease is involved.

If you spotted the deer tick at the base of our question mark, congratulations! If not—let's just say you're not alone.

Why the focus on something no larger than the head of a pin?

Because the deer tick is the most common carrier of a growing—and difficult to diagnose—medical problem known as Lyme Disease. And it's a lot more than a touch of the flu.

Lyme Disease is a bacterial infection that, if left untreated, can lead to damage of your heart, joints, and nervous system.

The deer tick lives in wooded, grassy, and bushy areas. If you jog, picnic, golf, hike or camp, you may be at risk of being bitten and infected. Your pets can also carry the tick.

At first, Lyme Disease may feel like the flu. In many cases it may be accompanied by a red, bull's-eye rash around the bitten area.

Up to a year after the bite, the disease can cause ear and eye pain, heart flutters, and joint swelling.

Still later, mild to crippling arthritis, stomach cramps, weight change, and a wide variety of other conditions may occur.

But the good news is: Using modern antibiotic therapy, Lyme Disease can be treated and further damage prevented.

For more information on Lyme Disease, or for the names of physicians in your area who treat Lyme Disease, call this toll-free number.

HEALTH & FITNESS

Keeping Healthy In The Heat

In addition to fun in the sun, summer also brings concerns about health and safety.

When the temperatures soar, the body also has difficulty adjusting and the dangers include heat stroke.

Heat stroke is characterized by a high body temperature that can be 106 degrees or higher. The skin is hot, red and dry because the sweating mechanism is blocked. The pulse is rapid and strong and the victim may be unconscious.

According to the Nassau chapter of the American Red Cross, first aid for heat stroke includes the following:

- Cool the victim quickly but prevent over-chilling once the temperature is reduced below 102 degrees.
- Undress the victim and sponge bare skin with cool water or rubbing alcohol or apply cold packs continuously; or place the victim in a tub of cold (not iced) water until temperature is lowered sufficiently.

*Use fans or air conditioners.

*Do not give stimulants.

For more information, contact the Nassau chapter of the American Red Cross at 262 Old Country Road, Mineola, NY 11501 or call 747-3500.

Spending time in the great outdoors, particularly on Long Island, also prompts concerns about Lyme disease, but a new manual published by the Arthritis Foundation helps to answer some questions about the disease.

The 1992 edition of the Comprehensive Lyme Disease Response Manual contains the latest, up-to-date information about the disease and is now available.

The manual was developed for use by staff, counselors and trained volunteers of agencies and facilities who receive inquiries from the public or their own personnel concerning Lyme disease. The easy-to-read question and answer format allows rapid and simple reference to individuals using the manual. Edited and reviewed by a panel of experts, the manual will ensure agencies that they are giving accurate and consistent information to the public.

The Lyme Disease Response Manual may be purchased for a nominal fee. To order a copy, or to receive more information, contact the Arthritis Foundation, Long Island Chapter, 501 Walt Whitman Road, Melville, NY 11747 or call 427-8272.

Lend Us Your Views

An item recently caught our eye in the New York Times which talked about a community newspaper publisher on the west coast whose phone rang off the hook as soon as a recent issue hit the stands. No, the overwhelming response wasn't due to a controversial story he had run. Rather, the callers were upset about something he didn't run. The crossword puzzle.

We can relate to that. Regardless of how many late-breaking, far-reaching news stories we publish, if something goes wrong with the crossword puzzle or the bridge column, we know it immediately. (Thankfully our readers are understanding enough that we have not been forced to do what the west coast publisher did: run the puzzle on the front page of the following issue, believe it or not.)

We also know immediately if birth announcements or wedding photographs have not yet been published.

The same is true for little league reports. And calendar items. And obituaries.

We're not complaining. In fact, it's quite the opposite. We're thankful for the responses. It's nice to know that our readers depend on us, not just for straight news, but for entertainment and for helping to preserve a piece of their private history.

And, we'd like to hear more. More about what we're doing wrong, what we're doing right, what we should be publishing and what we shouldn't.

We'd also like to hear more from you on this page, in the form of letters to the editor. Our guidelines are simple as outlined above and topics can vary to what a great neighborhood we live in to how we can cut back on taxes.

Let your neighbors know what you think by lending us your views. We'll be looking forward to hearing from you.

Letters to the editor are welcomed by Anton Community Newspapers. We reserve the right to edit in the interest of space and clarity. All letters must be handwritten and they must include an address and daytime telephone number for verification. Personal attacks and letters considered in poor taste will not be printed. We cannot publish every letter we receive due to space limitations.

BON VOYAGE

By Edythe Shepard

Have you noticed the State Department's Travel Advisories which appear (increasingly, it seems) in travel sections of newspapers and occasionally as part of broadcast news? They're issued by the State Department's Bureau of Consular Affairs and I was prompted to contact their office to find out more about the workings of these advisories so that I could be more informed when questioned, as to the how, why and where of these admonitions.

For those who aren't familiar with these government advisories, they are up-to-the-minute warnings about adverse conditions in areas around the world for Americans who contemplate travel there. Except for rare instances, these are not destinations which are prohibited to US travelers by the State Department; rather, these notices range from advisements of expected severe hotel room shortages to warnings of civil unrest in certain regions.

A travel advisory is born "at post," which in State Department language means the US Embassy in the particular foreign country, whose consular officers have a broad range of local contacts, are up on local news, make personal visits throughout the country and have excellent police contacts.

The regional security officer of our embassy, if aware of potential trouble, can originate the groundwork leading to issuance of an advisory. Occasionally, the source could be Washington, DC's headquarters office, but when disorder occurs, our ambassador to the country is brought in for consultation. It is then decided whether to recommend issuing an advisory. The Citizens Emergency Center (a division of the State Department) is notified, where further research is done, as the staff section with specific responsibilities to that country reviews news files and contacts that US Embassy for further details. If it issues a go-ahead, the advisory is cable to the 285 US embassies and consulates abroad. These are kept for access for Americans living or traveling overseas.

In the US, these travel advisories are distributed to the news media, all passport offices, airlines and to the American Society of Travel Agents. The advisories number 100-150 at any one time and are changed on an almost daily basis as conditions change.

A taped recording on a special Citizens Emergency Center phone number informs the caller, by regions, of the affected countries. Callers can then select up to three advisories to listen to before the recording is disconnected. A copy of the recording is also available by mail.

The number to call to check on your travel destination is (202) 647-5225, in operation weekdays between 8:15 a.m. and 10 p.m.; Saturday hours are 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. The department can be reached for emergencies at other times at (202) 647-1512.

Some advisories sent me, included warnings about trekking in Thai villages near the Burmese border due to "banditry and fighting among narcotics trafficking factions. Expiration date: Indefinite"; another past notice reported visitors being attacked and robbed in Johannesburg, South Africa, by "gangs asking for money, cigarettes, etc. and overpowering the victim who is robbed of passport, money, camera, etc. Expiration date: Indefinite"

Some years ago, an advisory warned, "American citizens planning to visit outside Jerusalem should be aware that conditions affecting their safety can change with little warning. Travelers should contact the consulate in Jerusalem soon after arrival. Travelers to or through the Gaza Strip should be in touch with the American Embassy in Tel Aviv"

More recent advisories included May warnings of cholera in Argentina, Belize, Peru, Ecuador, Brazil, Guatemala, El Salvador and Bolivia. "Visitors are warned to "boil it, cook it, peel it or forget it." Brazil visitors are warned also about increased crime in Rio.

Kenya game reserves have had advisories for a long while and now its beach resorts are also listed as crime areas. Tanzania is also targeted and Bangkok's continuing clashes between police and protesters led to an advisory to avoid tourist attraction there. Southeast Turkey's terrorism has prompted warnings to travelers; however, visits to western Turkey can be made "in relative security if normal precautions are taken."

Americans are advised to exercise caution in Jordan and flights to and from Amman may make unscheduled stops in Beirut. "US citizens should not board these flights."

While a US advisory can be of concern to the host government, since its tourism will be affected, (A recent Jamaican advisory was protested) State Department officials must issue them to protect American travelers.

In Jamaica and also, in most advisories, warnings are very specific and often do not include the entire country, but limited to certain areas.

The Citizens Emergency Center also handles all emergencies (illness, death, arrest, etc.) of Americans. It handles liaisons with families back home and also enables families to locate and contact a traveler abroad in an emergency.

We can personally attest to the wonderful assistance we received from the American Embassy in London when we hadn't heard from our son who was traveling from Paris to meet us. We finally visited our embassy which called the Paris Embassy to determine if there was any bad news to report. It took only minutes to lighten our hearts; later we learned that our hotel had failed to deliver his telegram informing us of a delay.

On another occasion, when East Germany's welcome mat was not out for traveling Americans, we discovered that from Copenhagen, in order to drive to West Berlin

A Letter from Lulabelle...

...I've always admired people with excellent vocabularies—I really love multi-syllabled words...and I have a friend who has the best, most exotic vocabulary of anyone I know...We love to hear her talk and we find her very quotable...One day she was telling me about her difficulties with her vacuum cleaner and she said, "The recalcitrant beast simply will not perform"...another time I was in a department store dressing room in an adjoining cubicle where we were both trying bathing suits. Suddenly I heard her voice say in amazement, "Can those bulbous appendages be my legs!?!". My friend's mother was from Newfoundland and has bequeathed to her daughter some wonderful words that I never saw in any dictionary—words like "narky" which means difficult or maybe grouchy, such as, "Don't be narky about doing the dishes"...And then there's "dunch" which I really love—it means something between stupid and dopey and explains exactly the way I feel when I get up in the morning...The other night I had dinner with my erudite friend and she regaled us with a story about a luncheon she had recently attended where a woman had come in and said, "I hope you have all brought me the "kewpons" that I'm collecting for the church"...Well," said my friend, "how can we hear people say 'stoopid' which is really 'stewpid' and then say 'kewpon' which is really 'koopon'"...And you can imagine how that led to an hilarious discussion of "stoopid kewpons."

Yours, Lulabelle

Camp Adventure

Long Island's only summer camp for children with cancer and their siblings, sponsored by Central General Hospital in Plainview, will be held in Wading River from August 23-29.

Some 60-80 children with cancer attend "Camp Adventure," thanks to the fund-raising efforts by staff members at the hospital. Already $30,000 has been raised to send the children to camp, which is free to parents. "It's a competent, qualified camp. It's a place where kids can go to have some respite and it is a place where they can build their self esteem," said Robert Bernstein, hospital administrator at Central General.

Doris Hoyer, Medical Affairs Director of the American Cancer Society, was instrumental in the camps formation. "The camp is unique because it brings both children with cancer and their siblings together so they can enjoy a camp session with each other. It gives the children with cancer an opportunity to really have a week of camp that is normal and it provides an opportunity to be with other children who have similar problems," said Hoyer.

Anyone interested in volunteering at the camp can contact Hoyer at 436-7070. To make a donation call 681-8900.

New Hospital Center

St. Francis Hospital, The Heart Center, Roslyn, New York, will open its 51-acre DeMatteis Center for Cardiac Research & Education, in Old Brookville during a week-long celebration, beginning Sept. 14, to be filled with community open house events, seminars and demonstrations plus a joint medical conference for professionals.

Formerly the site of the New York Chiropractic College, St. Francis Hospital purchased the 60,000 sq. ft. facility, which is just 3.5 miles away from the hospital, with the intention of creating a satellite campus which would be devoted exclusively to fostering coronary risk reduction awareness within the community and providing an environment conducive to professional exchanges and the pursuit of new methods, through clinical research, with which to combat heart disease. All in-patient services would remain at the Hospital's 15-acre campus in Roslyn.

Grand opening activities at the DeMatteis Center will include a joint seminar with physicians from St. Francis Hospital and Columbia-Presbyterian Medical Center; a cardiovascular education day with professionals speaking on all aspects of coronary risk reduction and keynote speaker, Dean Ornish, M.D.; plus a day in which representatives from Long Island's businesses can learn about on-site health education and screening programs, available through The Heart Center, to benefit their employees. Members of the community, of all ages, will be invited to participate in a host of free health screenings, cardiac educational seminars and demonstrations including heart-healthy cooking sessions with some of the region's chefs.

The DeMatteis Center will house St. Francis Hospital's current roster of cardiac education and prevention programs, a formal cardiac research center, the Cardiac Exercise & Health Enhancement Center, physical therapy and sports rehabilitation for out-patients, and administrative support services.

For information regarding opening week activities at the DeMatteis Center for Cardiac Research & Education, or to reserve a catalog of course offerings, please call (516) 562-6036.

Loose Dogs and Letter Carriers Don't Mix

Whatever the reasons for them, dog bites are a serious problem for letter carriers trying to deliver your mail. Nationwide, Postal Service carriers suffered 2,733 dog bites last year (an average of 10 dog attacks every working day), and that figure does not include the number of threatening incidents that did not result in injury.

A letter carrier in another state recently suffered her fifth dog bite incident in a nine-year career when the tip of one finger was bitten off during an attack by a loose dog. She was delivering mail on the front porch of a residence when the owner, unaware the carrier was on the property, let the dog out the back door. The dog raced around the house and attacked the carrier, who fought the dog back with a 2-by-4 board until the owner could remove the animal and call 911 for help.

Nationally, the number of carriers bitten by dogs has dropped from more than 7,000 in 1983 to 2,733 in 1991. This dramatic decrease can be attributed to greater cooperation from dog owners, stricter leash laws and stepped up efforts to educate letter carriers and the public in dealing with the problem.

One tool the Postal Service can use in controlling the dog problem is a policy of withholding delivery where dogs are a threat, sometimes bypassing an entire block where a menacing dog runs loose. This is a last resort, but we will do it when other means have failed. All threatening incidents are reported to the postmaster or the carrier supervisor, who decides what action is to be taken. Normally, pet owners can avoid the loss of mail delivery by simply keeping their animal inside, or tied in a fenced back yard, during the time of their delivery.

Our carriers can be vigilant. We can stop mail delivery and collect damages for injuries received. But we can't control people's dogs. Only the dog owner can do that.

If a letter carrier or other neighborhood worker needs to hand you something in person—a package or certified letter—shut your dog in another room before opening the door. Dogs sometimes mistake the motion of handing something to their owner as a threat. They have been known to burst through a screen door, even a plate-glass window, to get at what the animal perceives to be a threat to its territory.

While some attribute dog's scorn for postal workers to an inbred aversion to uniforms, the psychology actually runs much deeper. Every day, the letter carrier comes into the dog's territory, the dog barks, and the letter carrier leaves. Day after day the dog sees this action repeated, and after a week or two it starts to feel invincible. Now, what do you think that dog's going to do once it gets loose and has a chance to attack?

To avoid these painful incidents, we instruct letter carriers to watch out for dogs along their routes and to be aware of places a dog can hide.

No doubt your family dog has already claimed part of your yard for its own and is defending it against all comers. Never mind that the area is occupied variously by neighborhood children, letter carriers, meter readers, and other service personnel. If the dog considers one of them a threat to its domain, there's trouble brewing. Someone is likely to get bitten, and it won't be the dog.

The attendees agreed to get started by voting for a name and electing a temporary board of directors. Start-up committees, such as bylaws, newsletter, dues and membership, were established. It was also decided that the group pursue incorporation under the name "Hicksville Southwest Civic Association."

Boundaries will be established at a future meeting, and a permanent board of directors will be elected after the incorporation process has been completed. Ray Manzo has been chosen as temporary president.

where we were to meet friends, we would have to go through parts of East Germany. We visited our embassy in Copenhagen, who informed us that since we had no diplomatic relations there, there "could be tough going ahead." We would be "on our own," with no US jurisdiction behind us. I believe, today, we would've changed our plans but youthful braggadocio won out and just as we were told, it wasn't easy or pleasant. As we were stopped and searched at endless guard stations and rudely treated, we wondered whether we had made the right decision. But we followed the embassy's instructions and reached our destination with no untoward results. And we realize the advice we were given of "not going where we're not wanted" is to be followed.

Jerry Seinfeld Inherits His Dad's Humor

By Scott MacMillan

Jerry Seinfeld was never the funniest person in his family. His dad was. The late Kal Seinfeld painted and sold business signs around Long Island for a living, but his friends and acquaintances knew him for his sense of humor. He was also his son's biggest fan. When Jerry first appeared on The Tonight Show, the side of Kal Seinfeld's van read "JERRY'S ON CARSON TONIGHT."

Jerry Seinfeld now plays himself in a self-created, self-titled series on NBC, Seinfeld. The sitcom, appropriately, portrays the life of a comedian dealing with day-to-day life in New York City. Viewers and critics alike praise Seinfeld for its originality and, more importantly, its humor.

One could say that the show itself is simply an elaborate response to the question most asked of comedians: "Where do you get your material?" The answer, of course, is simply by looking at normal events in an abnormal manner, which is exactly what Seinfeld thrives on.

Jerry Seinfeld was born in Brooklyn and grew up in Massapequa. At the age of eight, while watching the Ed Sullivan Show, he decided that he wanted to be a comedian. His father encouraged him. Miraculously, he led a fairly normal childhood, most often laughing at his father's jokes rather than being the joker himself.

He graduated from Queens College in 1976, and hit the comedy club circuit immediately. Four years later, after perfecting his routine, he was on Carson. He was employed by ABC for a short stint as a joke-writer on Benson, and has since headlined on the stand-up circuit and has made numerous appearances on late-night television. In 1988 he won the American Comedy Award for best stand-up comic.

Mr. Seinfeld is still close to his mother, Betty, who lives in Florida, and his sister, Carolyn, who lives in Bellmore. The comedian recently wrote a letter to Bellmore Life newspaper voicing his opposition to the Cedar Creek sewage treatment plant in Wantagh.

Living in Los Angeles, Mr. Seinfeld eats health food, studies Zen, and practices yoga. He is also known to be somewhat of a neat freak. Good friends such as Jay Leno are deliberately sloppy around Mr. Seinfeld just to annoy him.

Jerry Seinfeld is a stand-up comedian and the star of NBC's Seinfeld. He grew up in Massapequa.

Erika Slezak: Her One And Only Life

By Andrea Martone

To millions of adoring fans, she is Victoria Lord Reilly Buchanan and lives a complicated, but charmed life in "Landview" in television's popular serial, One Life To Live.

To her family, friends and neighbors on the North Shore, her name is slightly shorter—yet just as regal—Erika Slezak Davies.

One Life To Live, one of the longest running daytime soaps, has not lived up to its name in dealing with Vicki. Vicki has had her troublesome alter-ego, Nicki, conjured up at least twice, thereby demanding that she live more than one life. Vicki also has a daughter she wasn't even aware of while living in an underground town named Eterna, creating a possible third life she has blacked out. Vicki, who in real life has two pre-adolescent children, is a victim of the soap opera world's fast paced infant-to-adult process. Why, Vicki is an expectant grandmother.

But, enough soap talk. It's time to turn the attention to the real Erika Slezak, who has been honored with three Emmy Awards for Outstanding Lead Actress for her schizophrenic character portrayal. She received the awards in 1984, 1986 and again this June.

A graduate of the Royal Academy of Dramatic Arts in London, Erika was admitted to the prestigious school when she was only 17, making her one of the youngest students ever accepted. But honors in the world of the arts are a tradition in her family. Her father, the late Walter Slezak, starred in many films and Broadway hits, among them "Fanny" for which he won the Tony Award. He also played a lead role in Alfred Hitchcock's famous thriller Lifeboat. Erika's grandfather was the world-famous operatic tenor, Leo Slezak, who sang in Vienna and Berlin as well as the New York's Metropolitan Opera.

Born in Hollywood before moving at an early age to the North Shore where she was raised, Erika learned to speak German at home before she learned English.

When did Erika first decide she wanted to act?

"I can't recall a time when I didn't want to act. When I was a sophomore in high school, my father talked to me about training for a career in acting," Slezak said. "One thing my father did for me was not discourage my ambitions. But he made sure I had no illusions about the acting profession, explaining that it was going to be harder for me because I had a famous father. I would have to prove myself more than others and, as usual, he was right."

Before making her debut in television on One Life To Live, Erika established solid credentials in the theater. She was a member of the Milwaukee Repertory Company for three seasons when she starred in everything from Chekhov to Noel Coward, and she acted for another season at the Alley Theater in Houston. Erika is the only Slezak of her generation to pursue an acting career. Her sister, Ingrid, is an attorney and her brother, Leo, is a pilot.

Blonde-haired, blue-eyed Erika is married to actor Brian Davies, who may remember as the young German soldier who courted—and then betrayed—the eldest daughter in the Sound of Music.

The couple have two children Michael Lawrence, 12, and Amanda Elizabeth, 11. They live in a large English Tudor home on the North Shore, where they lead quiet lives, enjoying family life and activity in their yacht club. Erika commutes four days a week to Manhattan to shoot her show.

This is the final installment in a three-part series, "LI's Galaxy of Stars."

Galaxy of Stars

Long Island's Own Shining Crystal

By Lisa Morris

With many Long Island natives gaining popularity throughout the nation and worldwide, one seems to stand out crystal clear Billy Crystal that is.

After attempts to contact this celebrity who has gone from stand up acts to our television sets to motion film, Crystal's publicist Arnold Lipsman informed us that Billy was locked in the editing room of his next film; expected to be called Mr. Saturday Night."

Growing up in Long Beach, Crystal had been known to stand before the mirror holding a toothbrush in his hand as a young boy, pretending to be accepting an Oscar. He attended New York University as a film directing major.

After graduating NYU, Billy joined an improv-group called Three's Company. "It was hard to be the middle man," he recalled, adding that he left the threesome and decided to try and make it on his own.

Billy acknowledged the struggling years he experienced as a stand up comic. "In the early stages my wife and (daughter) Jennie would travel with me." He said he was at first reluctant to do this but reflects on his travels with warm memories.

Later, he auditioned for the television show, Saturday Night Live, but was not chosen. He decided to perform at local clubs and nightclubs to fine tune his delivery and act. "I was working every place getting myself better," he noted.

Gaining a name for himself, the producers of Saturday Night Live asked Billy to host the show. He did twice.

Then, in 1984 they asked him to join the cast and Billy accepted as a more confident performer. "I peed a place to say I'm ready."

Although it has been over 15 years since the original shows were aired, Billy said he still has many fans calling from the audience for old characters he created.

He is known for his Fernando Lamas character, his "You look marvelous" catchline, his portrayal as Howard Cosell's wife, and much more. "Characters come out I don't know existed," Crystal has said. He attributed it to the pressure of the moment and something just come out.

He explained how he approaches every show as special, giving it his all.

After his Saturday Night Live days, he branched into acting in both television as a regular on the popular series Soap and his debut film Running Scared, co-starring with Gregory Hines.

Most recently he has moved with ease between successes on television and film. In 1991 Billy created, co-produced and wrote the critically-acclaimed HBO series Sessions. He also won an Emmy for writing the HBO comedy special Midnight Train to Moscow and writing and hosting of the 1991 and 1992 Academy Awards.

In the past decade Billy has made his presence known as a movie star in films as Throw Momma From the Train; Memories of Me (which he also produced and co-wrote); When Harry Met Sally' and City Slickers (which he also executive produced).

A dedicated human rights advocate, he has co-hosted the Comic Relief benefits on HBO, with Whoopie Goldberg and Robin Williams, which have helped raise money for the nation's homeless.

What's The Secret To Baldwin Family's Success?

Four Brothers Make Headlines In Hollywood After Making Start In Massapequa

By Michael J. Maloney and Nancy Fischetti

What is it about Massapequa that causes so many of its residents to become celebrities?

Is there something in the water?

Is their some magic ingredient in an All-American burger?

While coincidence is probably the best answer, one still wonders why this South Shore community has produced such stars as Steve Guttenberg, Jerry Seinfeld, and of course Jessica Hahn.

If a study is ever done to determine why Massapequans are so apt to put themselves in the limelight, scientists had better begin their work at the house where the Baldwins lived.

It is there where not one, not two, but four brothers have made a name for themselves as a family of stars.

Probably the most recognized of the clan is the oldest brother, Alec. Currently on Broadway in A Streetcar Named Desire, Alec starred in such movies as The Hunt For Red October, The Marrying Man, Working Girl, Beetlejuice, and She's Having a Baby. His current movie, A Prelude To A Kiss with Meg Ryan, is a screen adaptation of the Broadway play, which he starred in as well. While accomplished on both the stage and screen, Alec is probably most often seen on the social pages with his romantic interest, Kim Bassinger.

Billy Baldwin made his mark in the hit movie Backdraft last year, but also was seen in Flatliners and Internal Affairs. He has just recently finished shooting the yet to be released movie Three of Hearts.

Steven Baldwin is one of the stars of the popular television series Young Riders and was in the movie Last Exit To Brooklyn. Daniel Baldwin was also in a television situation comedy with Valerie Bertinelli a few years ago, but the show was unfortunately cancelled.

The Baldwins, especially Alec and Billy, have not forgotten where they grew up and how much it means to them. For the past two years, Alec and Billy have made several visits to Massapequa High School to talk to students about everything from growing up to becoming a star to saving the environment.

"I try to get out here as often as I can and Massapequa never changes," Alec Baldwin said during a visit to his former high school last year. "To me, I'm just a kid from Massapequa."

On one occasion last year, Alec conducted informal interview-like sessions with three classes at the high school.

"I try to get out here as often as I can and Massapequa never changes," he said.

Alec added that he has lived in Washington, D.C., New York City and Los Angeles, but his home now is on eastern Long Island, a place he did not think he would ever choose to live 12 years ago.

Following the discussions, which were held in a small lecture hall, Baldwin spoke to individual students and obliged many autograph requests. He seemed pleased to be able to speak with the young people, first sitting behind a table and later moving to the end of the small stage.

Some of the students seemed interested only in getting autographs and seeing the actor, while others were grateful for the opportunity to hear Alec's views on the entertainment industry as well as his advice.

In response to a student's question, Alec said he was uncomfortable that people recognize him on the street. "To me, I'm just a kid from Massapequa."

He reminisced about his childhood in Nassau Shores, spending time at "Fly Beach" or Florence Avenue Beach and the Peninsula golf course. His father, Alexander, was a high school football coach and social studies teacher.

Alec said he did not know that he wanted to be an actor when he was in high school. "I could never make up my mind if I wanted to act or play football," he said, adding that the students in the drama club thought he was a "brainless jock" and the football players said he shouldn't "hang around" with the acting students.

Proving that he still is very fond of both the arts and athletics, Alec recently donated a substantial amount to the Massapequa High School music department and has established an athletic scholarship in the name of his late father, Alexander Baldwin.

While none of the Baldwins still live in Massapequa, they all remember where it is they came from and how much it meant to them.

Now, if we could only find out what it is about Massapequa that made them so famous.

Anton Community Newspapers would like to thank everyone who contributed to "LI's Galaxy of Stars," particularly those stars who took the time out to talk with our reporters. Thanks, too, to all the public relations personnel who provided us with information and photos.

Boogie Board Contest

"Break out the boogie boards, it's time for some ocean body surfing fun," said Oyster Bay Town Councilman Leonard Kunzig, referring to the town's 12th annual "Boogie Board Contest" scheduled for Friday, Aug. 7 at Tobay Beach.

"Boogie boarding has been the beach sport of preference for many young people during the last decade," explained Councilman Kunzig. "It applies many of the same techniques as traditional surfing except participants are lying down instead of standing up."

Participation in boogie boarding has skyrocketed because it is easier than surfing. "Keeping your balance on a boogie board is not tremendously difficult, which appeals to the novice," the councilman said. "However, those who have excelled in the sport have taken the activity to new levels requiring quickness, maneuverability, and technical expertise. The increasing popularity, and the improving skill of the participants, are both the impetus for the contest and the reason for its success."

"As in years past Kransco Corporation of California will provide both the prizes as well as the liability insurance for the contest," said Kunzig. "The town's lifeguards at Tobay Beach will help provide the technical assistance necessary to maintain order and proper water safety."

Anyone interested in entering the contest can contact the lifeguard station at Tobay Beach at 679-0720.

Ebbets Field Wins Tournament

Ebbets Field Cafe of Hicksville defeated B and B Carpet of Cherry Hill, NJ, to win the Forks of Delaware B-Flight Softball Tournament in Easton, Pa. The tournament, held on the fourth of July weekend, saw Joe Grippo and Gary Sanfillippo named co-MVPs, both hitting 25 for 29 for the tournament.

After losing their first game 6-5, Ebbets Field won eight straight games to capture the title. Sound defense and timely hitting were the reasons for the victories.

The tournament featured 42 teams from the Connecticut, Massachusetts, New Jersey, Pennsylvania, and New York. Ebbets outscored its opponents in the tournament 88 to 32.

Previous to the tournament Ebbets Field finished in first place in the Oyster Bay softball league and is on its way to the playoffs. They also are looking forward to qualifying for the playoffs in the tough Nassau County American 3 league. Ebbets maintains a team batting average of .530, and looks forward to continuing its winning ways in the playoffs.

HBA Team In County Finals

HBA's Williamsport team has come within one victory of being crowned the best in Nassau-Suffolk counties by defeating Rockville Centre and Albertson/Herrick's in its previous two games. The Williamsport team can become the first team in HBA history to be named reigning champs if they secure another win.

The road to the finals began with Hicksville sweeping past Plainview to secure district honors.

Hicksville edged Plainview on Thursday, July 23, behind the hitting and pitching of John Schiralli. John pitched an incredible six innings of two hit, shutout ball while knocking in Adam Smith with Hicksville's only run.

On Monday, July 27, the double elimination tournament saw Hicksville having to face Plainview a second time. Although Plainview jumped out in front in the first inning, the orange and black would not be denied.

They roared back to a 5-2 victory behind the pitching of Paul McNamara and David Ng, and a tenacious defense which had only one error during the tournament. Adam Smith and Jared Orientale sparked the victory with their clutch hitting. Hicksville became the only team in the tournament to remain unbeaten.

As one of the final eight in all of Nassau and Suffolk, Hicksville played for the Division Championships this past week.

"We thank all 14 of our boys for their effort and tireless work they have done to achieve this result, and to our number one fan, thanks Nicky," said the coaching staff.

To County Finals

In its bid for the county championship, Hicksville started by beating district champs Rockville Centre.

The pitching of Keith Keith Cromwell and David Ng, was backed by the excellent fielding of Luke Silver, Eric Micalizzi, Matt Puerta, and Jimmy Stahl, which keyed the victory.

The hitting stars were captain Adam Smith, Keith Cromwell, Charles Bernardo, and John Schiralli who contributed a two run home run.

The second game was against Alberston/Herrick's. The orange and black bombarded them. John Schiralli and Eric Micalizzi pitched Hicksville to the victory, while the defense remained incredible.

The quiet bats returned to life led by Andrew Coppala who had a grand slam and Adam Smith who also had a home run. Matt Pinelli, Ken Broshert, Keith Cromwell, Matt Puerta, and Charles Bernardo also contributed to the hit parade.

Paul McNamara made a spectacular backhanded fielding play. In a fitting ending the infield turned a triple play started by Adam Smith to end the game.

Special thanks to Jimmy Stahl, Jared Orientale, Luke Silver, and David Ng who all contributed to the victory.

Athletic Awards For HS Graduates

Oyster Bay Town Councilman Thomas L. Clark presents certificates for Outstanding Athletic Achievement to Lorraine Simonelli and Eric Basta. Lorraine and Eric recently graduated from the high school. The recognition program was initiated to honor students from high schools throughout the town for their athletic accomplishments.
