Outdoor cafe

Word has reached here that the city commission tonight could opt to reject plans for the city's first outdoor cafe.

When Penniman Deli owner Russ Webster first proposed an outdoor cafe at his restaurant, some city officials said that if other downtown restaurant owners picked up on this idea, a fun atmosphere could be created and business could return downtown. Ann Arbor and Windsor have flourishing street cafes — and business is flourishing in those towns. They can do it, and Plymouth can too.

A recent study of downtown Plymouth suggests that an element of fun be injected into the city. Street cafes could do that.

But what do the curmudgeons on the city commission think of fun? Perhaps an ordinance against it. Probably not, but commission members will be talking about street cafes when they meet at 7 p.m.

Held over

"Images of Lincoln," an exhibit of Abraham Lincoln memorabilia presented at the Plymouth Historical Museum, has been extended through May 3.

Individual students were also recognized. They are Sarah Kuhaneck, gold medals for news, sports and promotional announcements; Jennifer Eaton, silver medal for news, Paul Thomas, gold medal for sports, silver for on-air talent; Asif Chowdhury, silver medal for promotional announcements; Sarah Petre, silver medal for on-air talent; and Lara Hrycak, a silver medal for on-air talent and a bronze for on-air talent.

Goss loses Canton in redistricting

By Kevin Brown
staff writer

If there is any change locally from the redrawing of state House districts announced last week, it will likely be for the better, local officials say.

The Michigan Supreme Court announced last week that the district represented by Rep. Georgina Goss, R-Northville, would be redrawn to exclude Canton but still retain greater Plymouth, nearly all of Northville city and township, and northwest Livonia.

The district represented by James Kosteva, D-Canton, would be redrawn to include nearly all of Canton.

Canton supervisor Tom Yack said the change in district boundaries is "kind of a double-edged sword."

Jerry Vorva

Plymouth city commissioner Jerry Vorva is coming out swinging in announcing he will run against state Rep. Georgina Goss in the Republican primary in August.

"Goss has not only supported but has created the environment spawning cronyism, patronage and nepotism," Vorva charged. "The arrogance of power has not served us well at all."

Vorva was defeated last August by Goss for the state representative post.

"In last year's election I raised the issues of the Western Townships Utilities Authority and insider information," Vorva said. "We need to wipe the slate clean and rid our community of those that are willing to operate only for their personal interests."

Goss, a former Northville Township supervisor, served about two months as head of WTUA before she was elected to the state House. Some work for the authority was performed by those with family or business ties to former or current Plymouth Township officials, and critics have alleged cronyism.

"It is my intent to wage a full, all-out campaign," said Vorva, a former Plymouth police officer.

"IN THE PAST we had Canton represented by two representatives. When you can gain both of their support for a project, that's great," he said, as Canton could have two legislators fighting for the same issue.

On the other hand, "When you share them with other communities they respond to more than one community," Yack said.

Vorva vies again for House

Plymouth city commissioner Jerry Vorva is coming out swinging in announcing he will run against state Rep. Georgina Goss in the Republican primary in August.

"It is my intent to wage a full, all-out campaign," said Vorva, a former Plymouth police officer.

"Canton probably will require and receive more attention," he said.

John Hoben, Plymouth-Canton Community Schools superintendent, said, "I was pleased to see that Rep. Kosteva will now have (nearly) all of Canton in his district."

"In the past, he has represented four school districts, two of which were in-formula and two of which were out-of-formula. This made his task more difficult when considering school legislation," Hoben said, adding the change "should make it possible for him to more fully represent our school district."

"While Rep. Goss picks up a portion of Livonia, the educational concerns there are similar to ours, so she could continue to ably represent us in the future," Hoben said.

For Plymouth township and city, still represented by one House legislator, "It probably doesn't change much," Plymouth Township supervisor and former state representative Gerald Law said.

"I would prefer that the whole Plymouth area (Canton included) be represented by one representative. If I had my preference the three communities would stick together," Law said.

But while Canton will be in another district, "that doesn't affect our relationship with the Canton administration," Law said, adding the three communities will continue to work together on projects.

GOSS, ELECTED TO the state legislature in August, said, "I am sorry to lose Canton, I enjoyed representing Canton. As long as I continue representing Plymouth and Northville, my base is intact."

Like Yack, Plymouth City Manager Steve Walters said "there can be advantages to having two state legislators."

Besides greater Plymouth and most of greater Northville, Goss' 20th District will now include the part of west Livonia north of I-96 to Newburgh Road, and north of Five Mile Road to Merriman.

Kosteva's 21st District will include Belleville, Sumpter and Van Buren townships and nearly all of Canton. A sliver of Canton northeast of I-275 and Cherry Hill Road will now be in a district which includes most of Westland and is represented by Democrat Justine Barns.

Courtyard cafe idea takes root

By Kevin Brown
staff writer

A grand outdoor cafe just off of Kellogg Park in downtown Plymouth is planned by Box Bar owner Chip Falcuson.

A waterfall, ponds, gazebos and wrought iron fencing are part of the redesign of the bar's current parking lot.

But to build it, Falcuson will need approval from the city's planning commission and city commission.

And because the first estimate of the cost "was very expensive," he said that cost will have to come down before he can begin construction.

He plans to go before the city planning commission in May to seek approval. Russ Webster, owner of the Penniman Deli in downtown Plymouth, won planning commission approval last month for the city's first outdoor cafe.

THAT CAFE, still awaiting city commission approval, is planned for a deck extending from the front of the deli.

Some city officials believe the outdoor cafe idea could be great for Plymouth, as it could bring a little excitement downtown, where some prominent stores have closed in recent months.

Falcuson's plan is the most elaborate one so far for an outdoor cafe. If he does it like he plans to, it could be difficult to top.

"I think it's fantastic," said Downtown Development Authority member David Pugh. "It's the kind of message sender we want — It's a great development."

Eriksson kids help homeless, donate soap, other toiletries

By M.B. Dillon
staff writer

Jim is a regular at the Baptist Center in Detroit's Cass Corridor.

The 58-year-old Chicago man used to work as a doctor — before he got hooked on drugs and alcohol.

"Because of his drug and alcohol problem, he lost his job and his home. Now he's here in Detroit, struggling to survive," said Sherrie Pridemore, director of the Baptist Center, which assists and feeds more than 100 homeless people a day.

Another homeless person who frequents the center is a woman named Kathy who recently came to Michigan from California.

"This young woman just discovered she is expecting twins. She has always been homeless. She never really had solid roots," Pridemore said.

Thanks to Canton children who attend Eriksson Elementary School, homeless people like Jim and Kathy will have toiletries to get them through the month.

IN JUST A FEW weeks, the students collected 188 bars of soap, 186 bottles of shampoo, 86 toothbrushes, 71 Wetnaps, 66 tubes of toothpaste and 29 containers of deodorant.

"We will add disposable razors and toothpaste to this, and we'll have enough items to make kits for 66 people," said Pridemore, whose nephew Andrew attends Eriksson. It was Andrew's mother, inspired by her sister-in-law, who thought up the school project.

Andrew, a few of his classmates, and their principal, Judy Ireson, shared their thoughts on their recent effort.

Ireson said students were asked to donate pocket-sized trial and sample sizes of toiletries.

"For our children, the idea that there are people who don't have a home and who sleep wherever they can was just unbelievable," Ireson said. "The concept that they go to the center to get supplies, but have to carry with them all of their belongings, made us think. It made all of us aware of what some of the problems of the homeless are."

Andrew, a first grader, said his school is giving to the homeless "because they didn't have enough money to buy any of it."

Third grader Kim Reeve said she saw a person "just a few days ago who had his clothes tied all around him."

The homeless man, and the homeless people helped at the center, "don't have that much money," she said. "They need these smaller things so they don't take up so much room."

"We should do something about it," she added. "That's not right. They should be able to be put in a place where they can be taken care of."

THIRD GRADER Jason Tomb saw the project's practical side. "They don't need big things, because they have to carry them. So our moms didn't have to spend a lot of money. We just had to get little things," he said.

Sherrie Pridemore said the center's needs for hygiene items and food is especially acute this year, due to the economy and the cutting off of General Assistance for many people. Donations are welcome, she said. Anyone wishing to help may call her at 961-9075.

With just one full-time staff person and a team of volunteers, the center feeds an average of 130 people twice a day, five times a week.

In addition to breakfast-and-lunch, the center offers a daily 11 a.m. worship service and runs an enrichment program for children in a nearby elementary school, Pridemore said.

"People think the homeless have always been that way, that they grow up in the ghetto and never get out," she said. "We see a lot of people who get mixed up with drugs and alcohol; and it virtually costs them their lives."

"We have men and women, black and white; we have them as young as 18 years old coming in for services, all they way up to senior citizens in their 80s."

Pridemore, who is new to the center, said she was told to expect a drop-off in requests for help as the winter neared an end. "But there's been no change in our numbers," she said.

Schools to sell 4 land parcels

Four parcels of school-owned land could soon be on the tax rolls.

The Plymouth-Canton Board of Education agreed Monday night to sell the parcels located in Canton and Plymouth Townships. They range in size from 15 to 50 acres.

The proceeds will be placed in a capital improvement fund earmarked for land acquisition for future schools, and major improvements such as roof and equipment repair and replacement, said Ray Hoedel, associate superintendent for business.

The sites include:

- 17 acres adjacent to Plymouth

Township Park known as the Amrhein property. Valued at $70,000 per acre, the land is north of Ann Arbor Trail and west of Glenview behind the Glenview subdivision. Plans call for the township to extend its park.

• 49 acres on the south side of Cherry Hill east of Lilley. Referred to as the Truesdale site, the land is divided by a drainage ditch into a 10-acre parcel and a 39-acre parcel. It's valued at $21,000 per acre.

• 15 acres on the south side of Proctor west of Canton Center. Formerly part of a nursery, the acreage is landlocked by township-owned land and has no water or sewer. It's been appraised at $5,000 per acre.

• A 27-acre site to be appraised by April 20 on the south side of Joy between Beck and Ridge known as the Gyde property.

It was decided to sell the land because the locations aren't well-suited for new schools, said Dick Egli, the district's community relations director.

Funds from the land sales, by board resolution, may not be used for operating expenses, even though a $4.3 million revenue shortfall is projected for next year. "We are in a financial jam because Lansing is moving too fast, too soon," said Hoedel. "But it would not be my recommendation" to use proceeds from the land sales to decrease the deficit.

"The reason is, you don't want to sell property to get you through your day-to-day operational needs. That's really short-sighted," he said. That's not saying the board won't have to take a hard look at finances, Hoedel and Egli agreed.

The board of education reserves the right to reject or accept any bids in the best interests of the school district, Hoedel said.

Falcusen hopes to create the atmosphere of a New Orleans courtyard.

"We want to block out the hotel in the back, so when you step into this area you're in a totally different world."

While he would lose seven or eight parking spaces by building the outdoor cafe, Falcusen said he would gain four or five spaces along Ann Arbor Trail.

Construction would take five to eight weeks, meaning he could build it this year if approval comes quickly. "It could help create an atmosphere to encourage restaurant business in Plymouth," he said.

His outdoor cafe and others wouldn't steal business from competitors downtown, Falcusen said. Instead, such cafes would draw people to Plymouth to eat, rather than the Ann Arbor Road-I-275 area or other areas.

"You need some diversity, something to kick-start the business a little bit," he said.

"It's something I think would be very nice for the city," even in cold months when no food would be served outside, Falcusen said.

"I can imagine 20,000-30,000 Christmas lights" strung in the courtyard during the holidays, and ice festival displays in January, he said.

"What's that song about 'They paved paradise and put up a parking lot'?" We just want to reverse it," he said.

Restored Old Village house offers eclectic mix

By Janice Jones
special writer

The day James Stine moved into his turn-of-the-century home in Plymouth's Old Village he gave a dinner party. When Stine and his guests got up from the table, they went to work removing all the wall-coverings and most of the carpet in the house. It was the beginning of a labor of love for Stine.

In the five years he's lived there, he has redecorated the place from top to bottom, inside and out, with an eclectic mix of old pieces that he has bartered for, found in trash hoppers, received from friends, or purchased from local craftsmen.

The end result is an exciting example of how to turn an old house into a comfortable, yet elegant home on a tight budget.

"This house is my little jewel box, full of items that others have thrown away," Stine said.

Stine, a purchasing manager, has taught classes in interior design at Schoolcraft College. The house gave him a canvas on which to exercise his decorating skills.

IN THE LIVING ROOM and throughout much of the interior, Stine has painted the walls colonial red, to match the exterior of the house. In the middle of the living room stands a large trunk rescued from a trash hopper, that serves as a coffee table. On one wall is a pair of green wooden shutters with the outline of a crescent moon cut in. Stine is planning to install them on an out-house he plans to build in the back-yard for garden tool storage.

Plymouth and Canton townships are still interested in Mettetal Airport.

The question is, Will the feds let them have it on local officials' terms?

It's been nearly eight months since Plymouth Township abandoned its lone effort to get federal and state grant money to buy the airport in favor of joining Canton to start a new joint effort to obtain the airport.

A key element of the joint proposal, which could be a sticking point with the Federal Aviation Administration, calls for Canton to have the right to review the airport operation in 10 years and close it if the airport isn't succeeding.

PLYMOUTH TOWNSHIP Supervisor Gerald Law and Canton Supervisor Tom Yack say they're waiting for the FAA to decide if it can accommodate that request.

Will the FAA go for it? "I have no feel for that whatsoever," Yack said. "I would expect to hear from them in the near future."

Law said he expects to hear from the FAA at least sometime this year. It could take that long, Law said, because "it's difficult for a large bureaucracy to change things."

Plus "they only have X amount of dollars in their trust fund," he said, for paying for small airport purchases.

"The chain of command is just unbelievable there. When you attempt to do something out of the norm, it takes a while. We're just waiting to hear back from them."

Should the FAA not decide sometime this year, Law said the owner "might try to market his property."

"My philosophy on the entire thing from day one was I thought it would be a reasonable idea to look at keeping it in the community, but only with Canton as the lead entity," he said.

If maintained as an airport, "you're hopefully looking at something that will benefit the community 10 or 20 years from now," Law said.

AT THE MARCH 24 meeting of Plymouth Township trustees, the township administration reported that the township has spent $53,970 so far on legal fees related to the airport acquisition. The township expects to be reimbursed for these costs out of airport proceeds if the FAA approves a grant to allow Plymouth Township and Canton to buy it.

Some township residents who oppose airport involvement questioned Law on money spent related to the airport. Law said he didn't have a figure, but additional fees for consulting related to the airport have been billed by other firms.

Law said the state has agreed to pay those bills and that payment should be made in the next few weeks.

The plaster ceilings were removed by an artist who once used the house for a studio in order to open up the house to the light. The original one inch wooden slats with rough cedar installed between the supports makes for an unusual and dramatic living room ceiling.

Near the front door, and suspended upside-down from the slat and cedar ceiling, is a large, papier-mâché Dalmatian that greets visitors, eye-to-eye. "I ran out of floor space, that's why Sparky's up there," said James Stine.

ONE DINING ROOM wall displays a hay fork Stine found buried in the backyard. The light fixture over the dining room table is an old oil lamp converted to electricity.

The kitchen has the original wooden cabinets, and a large butcher block table that Stine acquired from a friend who found it walled in beneath a formica countertop when he was renovating Bill's Market in Old Village.

The door from the kitchen to the dining room was an old exterior door with small glass panes.

"I saw a man carrying it to the trash in Dearborn, so I stopped and grabbed it," Stine said.

At the bottom of the door, one glass pane has been removed, so that Stine's three cats can walk through when the door is closed.

The house has the original horsehair plaster walls and hand-blown glass windows with occasional bubbles.

"When you clean the old glass it sparkles. New glass doesn't do that," he said. Stine has rebuilt most of the cottage storm windows for the home's 27 windows by hand.

Stine has made some interesting discoveries in the midst of his redecorating projects. When he tore out a wall he found the space full of ash. He believes some of the lumber used to build the house came from a burned-down mill that sat across the street.

Stine, who once bred St. Bernards, was very surprised to find a cast iron statue of a St. Bernard inside a wall.

WHEN REDECORATING, Stine said, "I've saved a spot of every piece of wallpaper that was taken down. I love the house, and I don't want any part of it to get lost."

Near the front door, and suspended upside-down from the slat and cedar ceiling, is a large, papier-mâché Dalmatian that greets visitors, eye-to-eye. "I ran out of floor space, that's why Sparky's up there," said James Stine.

Stine's eclectic brand of decor continues outside the house onto the grounds. The backyard garden of the home is a bewitching blend of "finds" turned into art objects and integrated into the landscape to create a feeling of whimsy.

At one time the house was owned by a horticulturist, and when Stine moved in, the backyard was so overgrown that he had to remove some trees. In doing so he discovered the outlines of an old rock garden, which he has restored.

Race for Canton treasurer's job heats up

By Brian Lysaght
staff writer

In the wake of Canton Treasurer Jerry Brown's retirement, at least two candidates are preparing for what may be an interesting campaign to succeed him.

Both Elaine Kirchgatter, a township trustee and Timothy McCurley, a former Canton deputy treasurer, will be on the Republican ballot in Canton's August 4 primary.

Another possible candidate, Patrick Haggerty, said he is undecided about entering the race. Others may be interested in the job; the filing deadline for candidates is May 12.

The retirement of Brown, Canton's twice-elected treasurer, became effective March 24, following his announcement at a recent board of trustees meeting. Brown suffers from a congestive heart disease and had been on disability leave collecting a $46,700 salary for six months.

"I'M WHAT YOU call officially retired," Brown said. He has no big plans, saying his heart condition limits its activity.

"I feel good. I just run out of steam pretty quickly."

Some board members had thought Brown's retirement should have come sooner, but he said he "had to conform" to township insurance requirements.

Deputy treasurer Sandy Setlock will continue to run the office, as she has since Brown began his disability leave.

"The place is in excellent hands," Brown said.

Dan Durack, Canton's administrative services director, said Setlock can conduct all the treasurer business, though she can't vote on the seven-member board.

The board, meanwhile, is expected to allow voters to choose Brown's successor rather than appoint a treasurer before the election. According to this plan, if the winner of the August Republican primary would be appointed if there was no Democratic primary or candidate. If Democrats did run, the November election would decide the issue.

McCurley, 35, was Canton's deputy treasurer 1984-86. He is budget director in Westland, working with another former township official, Mike Gorman.

"I do the work in Westland now that I would be doing (as Canton treasurer). And I feel that I can help Canton grow now," said McCurley, a Canton resident for five years.

Kirchgatter, 51, was appointed as trustee in Jan. 1988 and elected to a four-year term the following November. She served for 8.5 years on the Plymouth-Canton school board before in the late 1970s and 1980s.

"At this time in my life, I just feel ready to take on more responsibility," said Kirchgatter, a Canton resident for about 20 years.

Kirchgatter and another trustee, Robert Shefferly expressed interest in December in the treasurer's post. Shefferly said he would seek re-election as trustee unless appointed treasurer.

She said she supports the board decision not to appoint a treasurer before the primary election and allow voters to choose. "Then there's no question of the old boy network," she said.

Haggerty, 42, an accountant in Plymouth, said he "really hasn't completely decided" whether to enter the race. He obtained petitions but not circulated nominating petitions.

New commission districts expected to pass

By Wayne Peal
staff writer

A showdown between incumbents Bryan Amann and Maurice Breen won't occur under revised Wayne County Commission districts expected to be adopted tomorrow.

The county apportionment panel is expected to adopt a compromise plan that puts both incumbents in separate districts.

Amann, D-Wayne, and Breen, R-Plymouth Township, had seen their home communities placed in the same district under an earlier plan rejected by the Michigan Supreme Court. Amann was among four commissioners who appealed to the high court to block the previous plan.

Both Amann and Breen said they were pleased with the revised plan unveiled last week.

"I like it," Amann said, looking at

Public hearing set on new area code

A public hearing on plans to split the 313 telephone area code is scheduled 7 p.m. Tuesday, April 7, in the Livonia Civic Center Library Auditorium, 32777 Five Mile.

A preliminary plan would split the area into north and south regions.

Detroit, the Grosse Pointes, Ann Arbor and Monroe would remain in the 313 area code. Other communities, including Farmington, Mount Clemens, Flint, Lapeer, Port Huron and Sandusky would receive a new area code.

Telephone rates wouldn't change, according to Michigan Bell. Calls that are local today would remain local after the split.

The split is necessary, Bell officials said, because the 313 area code is running out of available telephone numbers.

An additional meeting is scheduled for 7 p.m. Wednesday, April 8, at the Novi Civic Center, 45175 W. 10 Mile.

Those unable to attend either meeting can comment by calling 1-800-831-8989.

the district map. "I think everybody's going to be pleased."

Breen, the lone Republican on the 15 member commission, said his party could pick up as many as three additional seats under the revised plan.

"WE COULD pick up a seat in the Grosse Pointes, plus I think we'll be competitive in at least two other districts," Breen said.

The plan was filed by apportionment committee member Juliette Okotie-Eboh, a member of the Detroit planning department. It is backed by county leaders.

"It's fair and it's legal," said deputy county executive Michael Duggan, who represented the protesting commissioners before the high court.

"It's a compromise plan between a lot of people including the commission, the county executive and community groups," county commission chairman Arthur Blackwell said. "We got together to decide how best to meet the needs of people in Wayne County."

Here is how western Wayne districts would look revised plan:

- The 10th District, currently represented by Breen, remains almost the same, including Plymouth, Plymouth Township and most of Livonia, but loses a section of Livonia, east of Middlebelt.

- The 11th District, currently represented by Amann, also remains primarily intact, retaining Canton, but losing Flat Rock and Rockwood.

- The 12th District, currently represented by Kay Beard, D-Westland, stays in tact by including Westland, Garden City and Inkster.

Major changes are reserved for the 9th District. Redford remains in the district, but is joined by Dearborn Heights and Livonia, east of Middlebelt. The previous district included Redford and a section of Detroit.

Current 9th District representative Kevin Kelley won't be running for the seat this fall. Instead, he's challenging county Sheriff Robert Picano in the Democratic Party primary.

The revised district "might have made a difference four or five months ago," Kelley said.

"I have made my commitment to run for sheriff," he added. "But I am glad the new districts were drafted."

Apportionment committee members are expected to adopt the revised districts 4:30 p.m. Tuesday at the City County Building, Detroit. The meeting, at the 13th floor auditorium, is open to the public.

Not everyone is happy with the proposed districts.

Steve Walker, of Latinos for Fair Representation, said the plan promoted segregation.

"YOU'RE CREATING an all-white, lily-white district that extends from Redford to Dearborn Heights," Walker said.

The group, representing Spanish-speaking Democratic Party members, filed its own plan with the reapportionment committee.

A competing plan was also filed by Kenneth Cockrel Jr. on behalf of New Detroit Inc. and the Wayne State University Center for Urban Studies.

Though plans would divide western Wayne communities more drastically.

The Latinos plan divides Livonia and Westland into separate districts and creates a Redford/Garden City district.

The New Detroit/Wayne State plan divides Livonia, Westland, Dearborn Heights and Wayne into separate districts.

Neither plan is considered likely to pass muster with the apportionment panel, who placed a premium on dividing as few communities as possible.

The panel includes county clerk James Killeen, county treasurer Raymond Wojtowicz and chief prosecutor John O'Hair, as well as Okotie-Eboh, the Democratic party delegate and GOP delegate Wendy Lamb.

New districts will be submitted to the state Supreme Court for final approval.

Pursell not typical politician

POLITICS ASIDE, Carl Pursell is the most unusual politician I've ever covered — a category that ranges from the Zoltan Ferencys to the Dave Jayes, from Gus Scholle to Dick Headlee.

At 59, Pursell was eagerly planning another decade on Capitol Hill — maybe even a Republican takeover and a committee chair. But a U.S. Court of Appeals panel gerrymandered him into an impossible situation. The life-long Plymouthite wasn't about to turn carpetbagger and move to a favorable district. He won't run again.

What made Pursell unusual wasn't that he flew home each weekend and avoided booze, babes and bad checks. It goes deeper.

MOST POLITICIANS practice the art as they learned it in high school: federal government in one paper box, state government in the next box, local the next, private enterprise in that box. The ordinary lawmaker develops expertise on a committee that becomes his world.

Pursell adopted a problem-solving approach: What can the feds do?

Richard

Where does the state fit in? How can city hall, the chamber of commerce and the press help? The walls came down when a Pursell committee focused on the Rouge River, Jackson's industrial development or elementary counseling.

Nothing like it.

Say "city" and the ordinary politician answers Detroit or New York. Pursell looked at cities, plural. One of the key regrets he and I shared about Coleman Young's tenure was that the mayor thought only about Detroit, not about the Royal Oaks, Northvilles and Adrians that have similar problems.

Quite a rarity.

IF YOU'RE a Democrat, you kowtow to the UAW, the teachers union or the public employees groups. If a Republican, you cultivate entrepreneurs.

Without question, Pursell is in the entrepreneur class, but he never forgot that he had worked in a plant in his youth and held a minor Michigan Education Association office as a teacher. His hands-on union experience earned many votes as a lawmaker.

The ordinary congressman with a world-class university in his district would say his bailiwick is "home of the University of Michigan."

Pursell's boast, at one time, was that his district had more college students than any in the U.S. He respected U-M's scholarship and clout but looked out for the regional universities, community colleges and private schools that do the teaching.

IT'S COMMONPLACE for politicians to talk about the need for scientists and engineers and doctors.

Pursell thought nurses deserved a voice in health policy and scholarship money. He pushed a nursing administrator from U-M into a health policy post in the Bush administration. It made him a cult hero in the profession.

Scores of politicians have young, enthusiastic campaign staffs. I've covered dozens of conventions of four different parties, and Pursell was the only middle-aged politico who repeatedly helped young people get elected to party vice-chairs or nominated for state boards. To find Pursell at a GOP convention, you'd case the hall for a pack of mop-haired kids and look for the bald spot in the middle.

Absolutely the most unusual politician I've ever covered.

My guess, without consulting him, is that Carl Pursell isn't through with public service. A re-elected Bush may make him a deputy to Lamar Alexander in Education, or the Michigan GOP could tap him for the State Board of Education.

If so, don't expect him to become a turf-conscious bureaucrat. Most likely he'll punch holes in those governmental paper boxes.

IT WOULD BE nice to be able to believe a Democrat. Bill Clinton would have us believe he tried a marijuana cigarette, but he didn't inhale it. And by the way, it was in England, so it really didn't count.

It's not that we're trying to be the morality police. I would have thought more of him if he would have said he smoked marijuana and liked it, or even if he had said he inhaled it and didn't like it. But come on now, not inhaling.

We're newcomers to the lines Hot Springs Bill has been handing out. The good ol' boys in Arkansas have been hearing them for years. Their conclusion: "Clinton and his wife are as crooked as a barrel of snakes."

Personally, I hope they're not right. The other guy in the Democratic primary race has a glaze in his eyes that makes him look like he has been inhaling the stuff, and liking it.

But here's what one Arkansas boy has to say about Clinton. But first his qualifications. He's a railroad retiree who was born, raised and lived in Arkansas his entire life. He grows perhaps the best okra in the state and can pretty much fix any engine.

HERE'S HIS grievance list against Clinton:

- Clinton doubled taxes in 10 years, putting a sales tax on used cars. And this comes in a state where chances are more people are looking at used pickup trucks than new Toyotas.

- His money is coming from the "well-to-do," not the middle class.

- His moral character is questionable.

- Miss Flowers isn't the only petal plucked by Bill.

- The environment, education, health and other services in Arkansas are well below most other states.

- He has never worked at a regular job, and in the words of one Arkansas boy, Clinton "is a professional politician."

- He has two answers for all questions: "I've done nothing wrong." Said my Arkansas source, Clinton should "make a collar for

- the real question for Democrats is who can beat Bush. Could it be the silver haired, silver tongued boy from Arkansas or the glazed eyed, born again populist from the left coast.

- Chances are it's neither.

Arkansas has had rice, cotton and cattle. They haven't exactly been the boom businesses of the '80s or '90s. You just can't squeeze a Michigan-style welfare state out of Arkansas' red, rocky soil.

There's also the cost of living factor. When you look at the wages paid in Arkansas, it looks dismal. But then again you can buy a house for about half the price paid in Michigan or another industrial state. The taxes are also about half.

The real question for Democrats is who can beat Bush. Could it be the silver haired, silver tongued boy from Arkansas or the glazed eyed, born again populist from the left coast.

Chances are it's neither.

Tenure must keep only the top teachers

QUESTION: What are some of your experiences and observations of the tenure issue?

ANSWER: The perception of the public is that tenure means a permanency of employment without fear of dismissal. In reality, it is a process and procedure to be followed, yet a process that is cumbersome and time consuming.

A tenure case can put a teacher, rightly or wrongly, in a limbo for years at a tremendous cost to a district. Example: District A wishes to part company with 10 teachers. Cost for tenure process to the district is about $100,000 per teacher or $1 million to pursue cases the district may lose. That's $1 million that could be used for classroom materials and supplies.

Many school districts would rather give $50,000 to get rid of a teacher than go through the tenure process. Most teachers in this situation won't take this one time buy-out, but will go through the tenure process.

SOME DISTRICTS periodically shift poor teachers from one building to another. Most administrators believe shifting and hiding teachers to be professionally dishonest. However, I have seen moving a teacher to another building work well when that teacher had a building vigilante parent group out to destroy him. Some teachers need a new environment, a new start.

Other districts have a sophisticated teacher evaluation process but a poor or a non-existent teacher improvement plan. The evaluation instrument and the evaluation process should generate a plan for teacher improvement and not necessarily be a negative experience.

Believe it or not, education has improved in both selection and evaluation of teachers over time. Some of the practices in the 1950s and early 1960s, before teacher contracts, were absolutely gross and included:

In the '50s, it was a practice of a few superintendents to give an incompetent teacher a decent recommendation provided the teacher agreed to leave the district. It was called dumping. This practice was totally dishonest, but worked because there were plenty of jobs available for teachers then.

IN THE '60s and even the '70s, because of a teacher shortage, a few administrators I knew hired college graduating candidates over the phone, and mailed them a contract without seeing them or interviewing them in person. Today the teacher candidate screening process is far more sophisticated.

• And as in all professions, I remember a few better candidates being overlooked for weaker candidates, sometimes political appointments of a son or daughter of a powerful community leader or son/daughter of a neighboring school district administrator.

Today all tenured teachers should be thankful. The most job secure position I know of in this era of huge layoffs is teaching. As long as people keep producing kids, teachers have a job. There is no competition with foreign competition on issues of quality or style when a kid is born in a teacher's attendance area.

However, tenure does need to be revisited to ensure that we have and keep only the most professional, top quality teachers. That's what the vast majority of our teachers and administrators are.

Senate Dems' auto insurance victory is short-lived

AP — Senate Democrats got a rare victory, but Gov. John Engler ended their celebration by vetoing a bill that would have revamped a key part of the state's auto insurance law and cut rates 15 percent.

The GOP-controlled Senate gave surprise approval to the bill Tuesday night with a 24-14 vote. That prompted shouts and applause from the usually downtrodden minority Democrats.

The House later gave final approval to the measure on a 94-12 vote and sent it back to the Senate for a procedural vote.

But Engler spokesman John Truscott said the governor vetoed the bill because it doesn't have enough cost savings to allow insurance companies to cut rates 15 percent. This bill is a sham, pure and simple," Truscott said.

The bill was designed to replace part of the auto insurance law that expired at midnight March 31. If it's not replaced, the segment of the law in effect before 1987 will be reactivated.

Insurance industry officials say that will mean rate increases of 15 to 20 percent for some outstate and suburban drivers, while city motorists will see their rates drop or remain steady.

DEMOCRATS GOT their rare Senate victory because three Republicans — David Honigman of West Bloomfield, Doug Carl of Utica and Fred Dillingham of Fowlerville — broke ranks with the usually solid GOP majority.

I'm sick and tired of the politics that get played between the House and Senate," Dillingham said after the vote. He added that he voted for the bill and led the GOP renegades because he believes it's the best compromise that can clear the House and the Senate.

Although they could get the bill passed, the Democrats couldn't muster the two-thirds vote necessary to give the bill immediate effect.

Senate Majority Leader Dick Posthumus, R-Alto, said the 15 percent rollback was a fraud because it would allow companies to get a rollback reduction if they prove they couldn't bear the full amount.

That means almost nobody in the state would see a rate rollback. I want to see a rate rollback that would be real come July 1," he said.

Posthumus said the bill had other problems, such as eliminating different rates based on age, which would have senior citizens subsidizing teenage drivers. It also would force insurance companies to offer coverage in Detroit, and that would send rates higher for the other drivers the companies insured because losses are higher in Detroit, he added.

House Speaker Lewis Dodak, D-Birch Run, disagreed.

I believe that there's true reform in the package," he said, adding the bill contains an actuarial panel to act as a safeguard in event companies complain they can't roll back rates 15 percent under the bill.

If he (Engler) wants to veto a 15 percent rollback bill, then so be it. He has to answer to the people of the state and explain to them why he vetoed a bill that would roll insurance premiums back in Michigan."

This was nonsense masquerading as intelligence," said Gary Mitchell, a spokesman for the Professional Independent Insurance Agents of Michigan.

I think it's a very bad bill. The legislators who voted for that ought to be embarrassed," said Doug Cruse, president of the Michigan Insurance Federation.

Cruse, a former state senator whose district included Troy, said letting the current law expire would be better and fairer to motorists than having to face the impact of the bill as it cleared the House and Senate.

Senate bill targets 'stalkers'

AP — Women victimized by "stalkers" — men who badger them, follow them, call them, and sometimes kill them — would get new protection under a bill up for debate this week in the Senate.

Under the legislation, Michigan could become the second state to make stalking a crime, punishable by up to five years in prison and a $10,000 fine.

"Stalking is not an obscure or infrequent crime," said Sen. Robert Geake, R-Northville.

Geake sponsored the bill approved last week by the Senate Judiciary Committee. His district includes Livonia, Plymouth, Plymouth Township, Canton and Redford.

"NEWSPAPERS IN every town in America carry stories about stalkers, their brutal crimes and their victims," Geake said.

The bill would apply to male victims and female stalkers as well, but most victims are female and often the stalking is a product of domestic violence. According to Geake, one study estimates that one in 20 adults will be stalked in their lifetime and another said up to 200,000 people exhibit the traits of a stalker.

"Domestic violence is a pervasive problem in Michigan," said Kathryn Young of the Department of Social Services' Domestic Violence Prevention and Treatment Board. "Stalking behavior is a form of domestic terrorism."

The bill was approved in committee on a 4-0 vote and is expected to clear the Republican-run Senate easily. Its fate in the Democrat-controlled House is unclear.

Geake said that his bill would put some teeth into court injunctions and restraining orders designed to keep the stalkers away from their prey but which are largely unsuccessful.

NOW, STALKING itself is not a crime. California has already passed a law criminalizing the act, and 26 other states are considering similar moves.

HOW TO PREVENT A FLARE OF ARTHRITIS

If anyone tries to sell you a medicine that prevents a flare or urges you to purchase a book that gives such information, don't buy!

No one knows how to prevent a flare.

No medicine formulated to date can act as well, nor will any joint injection given before inflammation occurs suffice to justify the injection cost or discomfort. Exercise is fine for muscles but does not strengthen joints against adversity, let alone prevent inflammation in those joints. Nor, has research as yet found any diet, vitamin, or food of particular benefit in preventing arthritic flares or promoting joint protection against such stress.

The problem is that science does not know what initiates a flare. The starting point is a sudden intensity in inflammation which in turn sets up and increases in the concentration of chemicals that irritate the joint. Pain arises from the irritation, and you hurt when you move. Impairment compounds when the inflammatory process causes fluid to accumulate within the joint. What you see and feel is then identified as a "flare." Why the inflammation intensifies is not known.

When you are struck by this cascade of events, it is not reasonable to ask yourself: "What did I do wrong?" You have enough to overcome, and do not need the added burden of guilt and remorse.

Restorations
breathe soul
back into city

By Simon Elegant
New York Times Syndicate

Some years ago officials at Singapore's Tourist Promotion Board noticed that most visitors found little to keep them on the island for longer than three days.

One of the main problems was that rapid development coupled with an almost fanatic preoccupation with cleanliness and order had leached the city of the exotic atmosphere that tourists flew to Asia to find.

Large parts of the city looked like a tropical version of any one of the indistinguishable midsized cities spread across North America and Europe.

Pragmatic as ever, the island-nation's planners decided to do whatever was necessary to increase the length of the average visitor's stay.

The fruits of that decision are just beginning to blossom. Visitors will find not only a whole range of new attractions that take much from the designers of the various Disneyworlds, but also clusters of turn-of-the-century or older buildings that have been restored, giving a breath of historical soul back to this sometimes spiritless city.

One of the finest examples of the time and money lavished on the city's architectural heritage is the 126-year-old neoclassical Empress Palace Museum, at the southern end of the Cavenagh Bridge in the heart of Singapore's colonial center. It reopened as a museum in 1989.

The museum is showing, through October, a dazzling display of artifacts from Tang Dynasty China and the Silk Road trade route through Central Asia that connected China to the West. It is open from 9:30 a.m. to 6 p.m. daily. Admission is $3.65. For more information call 3367633.

Just a short walk from the museum are the other main remnants of the colonial administration, which lasted from the early 19th century until 1959: the Supreme Court, the General Post Office, the Victoria Memorial Hall, the Cricket Club and City Hall, all built around the central padang — the cricket and rugby field that was the invariable centerpiece of British colonial town planning.

Two other preservation areas, at Emerald Hill just off the Orchard Road shopping district, and at Tanjong pagar, adjacent to Chinatown, feature row upon row of restored pastel shop-houses — two- or three-story structures with living quarters above and shops at ground level that were the chief feature of old Singapore's architecture.

A stroll through the narrow alleys of Chinatown and into Tanjong Pagar — Temple Street, Pagoda Street, Smith Street, Sago Lane and Neil Road — past the Chinese medical halls with their sacks of spices and dried roots wafting out heady, unidentifiable smells, past the riot of characters scrawled over every surface in bright red and green paint, cannot help but conjure up the spirit of Singapore's colorful past.

WHAT TO DO
Though some three-quarters of Singapore's population is of Chinese descent, substantial minorities of Malays and Indians contribute to the richness of the city's festivals.

Later, on June 5, is the Chinese dragon boat festival, which commemorates Qu Yuan, an ancient poet and official who drowned himself to protest political corruption. A spectacular and noisy international dragon boat racing competition is held in the city's Marina Bay.

A 60-meter-long dragon is one of the giant statues at Haw Par Villa, an amusement park in Singapore, with multimedia theater shows based on ancient myths and legends.

SIGHTSEEING

Tang Dynasty City, at 2 Yuan Ching Road, is a combination historical re-creation and movie studio in which copies of Tang Dynasty (A.D. 618 to 907) buildings are occupied by actors playing the parts of artisans, travelers, warriors, judges and the like.

Though only 40 percent complete, the complex is still worth a visit for its presentation of life during China's most glorious dynasty. The complex is open from 9 a.m. to 10 p.m. Admission is $9. For more information call 2611116.

A similar idea is at work in the recently refurbished Haw Par Villa, at 262 Pasir Panjang Road. It is a kind of Chinese Disneyland, though on a smaller scale.

Haw Par Villa is open from 9 a.m. to 6 p.m. Admission is $3.75. For more information call 7740300.

Sentosa Underwater World, on Siloso Road, Sentosa Island, opened its doors last spring. It centers around a huge tank containing many of the bizarre inhabitants of tropical reef — angelfish, stingrays, sharks, moray eels, the comical clown fish, the huge grouper.

An acrylic tunnel that winds around the bottom of the tank allows visitors a view that comes as close as possible to duplicating the experience of scuba diving without getting one's feet wet. It is open from 9 a.m. to 9 p.m. Admission is $5.65. For more information call 2750030.

Another natural attraction is the Jurong Bird Park, on Jurong Hill. The park houses an astonishing variety of birds from all over the world, some 5,000 altogether, and puts on a bird show several times a day. The park is open from 9 a.m. to 6 p.m. daily. Admission is $3.75.

The Empress Palace, by the Singapore River, was built in the 1860s to house the legislative assembly.

Shop smart to reduce grocery bill

Sure, I clip coupons. Yes, I buy in bulk whenever possible. But saving money at your grocers goes far beyond saving 20 cents on a jar of peanut butter, and buying an 80 load box of detergent instead of a 20 load box.

Without even trying, I can easily cut a minimum of 10 percent from my weekly grocery shopping trip by ripping out coupons from the weekend paper.

I'm certainly not a coupon fanatic, but I do get a certain amount of satisfaction seeing the cash register tape subtotal out at a little over $100, and then watching those coupons crediting the tape down to around $85 dollars plus change.

BUT IN addition to saving money, shopping efficiently also saves time. If there's one thing that really bothers me, it's standing in line for an extra 20 minutes just to save two dollars. Time is money, and the money you save driving around town looking for savings hardly ever equals the return on your investment.

Here are a few of the strategies that yours truly learned from my friend Heloise in her book "All New Hints From Heloise: A Household Guide for the Nineties," (1989, by Heloise, Putnam Publishing Group).

When grocery stores offer double coupons, I check the newspapers for useful coupons, and when I see something I really use, I actually save more money by purchasing another paper, or asking friends and neighbors for unused coupon pullouts.

Detergent, cosmetics, razor blades and paper products will last indefinitely, and eventually get used.

If there's one thing I've learned in the 1990s, it is to read packages. I'm always comparing weights, volume, number of servings and costs per ounce or per pound when grocery shopping. I make it a point to shop on Monday mornings when I know the produce and meat over ordered and not sold from the weekend will be marked down.

LAST MONDAY, I picked up some short ribs just one day beyond their prime and made them for dinner that evening, saving myself more than two dollars per pound.

Heloise also suggests that when buying canned goods, the cheapest may not always be the best.

Generic canned vegetables may be all right for soups, stews and casseroles, but may not be as tasty or attractive when served as a separate course for dinner.

SURE, NATIONAL brands are more expensive, but last week, what started out as a potato soup turned into a luscious chowder with the addition of canned corn, a few onions, and some leftover cream from a recent Janes Gang celebration.

Only Vito DePalma, owner of DePalma's at 31735 Plymouth Road in Livonia, works hard to make people feel welcome in his restaurant.

DePalma's is a family place. His wife, Giulia, makes some of the desserts. Her unbaked cheesecake topped with strawberries is very popular. Son Paul and daughter Gracie also work at the restaurant, managed by Raymond Borden, DePalma's nephew.

While Vito's in the kitchen, Borden is in the dining room making sure guests are comfortable and happy with their meals. The restaurant is celebrating its fourth anniversary with a variety of specials, making it an affordable night out for families on a budget.

There's an "Early Bird Special" served 4-6 p.m. Monday through Friday, priced at $6.75, which includes dessert, and six anniversary entrees for $4.95 served 4-6 p.m. Monday through Thursday. Anniversary entrees include a choice of soup or salad, coffee and tea.

Last, but certainly not least, my most recent savings are coming in through rebates. Three minutes at the rebate wall of my local store netted me about nine dollars after postage using items I knew I had purchased earlier.

Nothing monumental here, but the money helped top off the gas tank for the remainder of a busy week.

JIM JAGDEFELD/staff photographer

Neighbors Penny Francis (left) and Kayle Swider clip coupons and talk about the best buys of the week. Francis saves her grocery bags and redeems them at the grocery store.

Savings add up for coupon clippers

By Keely Wygonik
staff writer

OVER THE course of a year, the average shopper will walk 4½ miles behind a grocery cart, said Lois Theileke, home economist for the Cooperative Extension Service.

A survey by Kraft Light Naturals of 1,000 consumers nationwide found an average shopping trip is 42 minutes.

Grocery shopping requires a lot of time and energy. To get the most from your workout, plan ahead and shop smart.

Mary Bugis of Beverly Hills pulled out all of her coupons when area grocery stores advertised double coupon up to $1 in November and December. Some stores also offered a free turkey if you bought a certain amount of groceries.

On Nov. 21, Bugis went shopping at Farmer Jack. She redeemed 51 coupons that added up to $53.46 in savings on a $153.34 grocery bill and got a free turkey worth $8.55. Her total out-of-pocket expense was $91.33.

"I cut coupons out every week and save $20 to $21 regularly," she said.

"When I heard they were offering double coupon up to $1, I started a special envelope for coupons over 50 cents. We were having a party so I bought more than I usually do."

Bugis stocked up on coffee, juice, sponges, noodles, paper products, canned goods and other nonperishables. "I'm still using laundry soap that I bought in November," she said.

PENNY FRANCIS of Livonia saves in lots of ways. She clips coupons, which include newspaper coupons for discounts at restaurants like Bill Knapp's, scouts the paper for specials, triple coupon offerings and double coupons up to $1 and compares prices.

At the grocery store, she'll ask for a paper bag. "A lot of the stores will give you five cents for every bag you take back," she said. "If I take back four bags, that's 20 cents in my pocket."

Eighty percent of the coupons redeemed are for grocery items. Coffee, detergents, dog food and cereal coupons are redeemed most often, said Theileke.

To save with coupons, you've got to clip them and organize them; many people don't.

A 1989 survey showed that consumers in the Metro Detroit area took advantage of less than three percent of their potential savings. Clipping coupons adds up to an average savings of $35 per week times 52 weeks in a year that equals $1,820.

The average time spent organizing and clipping coupons is one hour. The average number of coupons used per month was 26, but some people used over 100.

A follow-up survey of the state of the economy and its effect on coupon usage by NCH Promotional Services found that during the current economic slowdown, consumers consider it essential to increase their coupon use.

Manufacturer's distributed 292 billion coupons in 1991, a 4.5 percent increase over 1990.

Homey dining

Italian chef marks anniversary

By Keely Wygonik
staff writer

Vito DePalma, owner of DePalma's at 31735 Plymouth Road in Livonia, works hard to make people feel welcome in his restaurant.

DePalma's is a family place. His wife, Giulia, makes some of the desserts. Her unbaked cheesecake topped with strawberries is very popular. Son Paul and daughter Gracie also work at the restaurant, managed by Raymond Borden, DePalma's nephew.

While Vito's in the kitchen, Borden is in the dining room making sure guests are comfortable and happy with their meals. The restaurant is celebrating its fourth anniversary with a variety of specials, making it an affordable night out for families on a budget.

There's an "Early Bird Special" served 4-6 p.m. Monday through Friday, priced at $6.75, which includes dessert, and six anniversary entrees for $4.95 served 4-6 p.m. Monday through Thursday. Anniversary entrees include a choice of soup or salad, coffee and tea.

Although he received no formal training as a chef, DePalma has been cooking since childhood. He came to this country from Italy at age 14 and learned how to cook from his parents. "It's all I know," he said. He worked at different restaurants, country clubs, and hotels before opening his own restaurant Clairpointe in Grosse Pointe.

He moved to Livonia in 1980, sold the Clairpointe and opened DePalma's in 1988. Everything including the pasta and bread is homemade. Entertainment 7-11 p.m. Tuesday through Saturday. For information, reservations, call 261-2430.

Who does the cooking at your house? "My wife."

What's a normal dinner at your house?

"Down to earth food. Pasta with primavera sauce, good hearty minestrone, assorted cheeses, salad."

What's your favorite food?

"Veal and pasta."

Worst experience as a chef.

"We catered a party and served Chicken Parmesan. It was served in layers in a dish, people thought it was lasagna and took big pieces. They ran out and called for more."

Best experience as a chef.

"Being in business for four years at DePalma's. People said we wouldn't make it because there's too much competition. We did."

Favorite herb or spice

Basil.

Name five things in your refrigerator at home.

"Provolone cheese, salami, prosciutto, fruits — oranges, pears and apples, rabbit, it's a form of broccoli that tastes in between spinach and broccoli, asparagus, garlic."

Favorite piece of cookware at home, and at work.

"Sauté pan."

If you could cook dinner for anyone, who would it be, what would you serve?

"Lee Iacocca. I would serve an appetizer of fried calamari, Italian olives and cheeses, Italian egg drop soup, Pasta Campagnola, sautéed veal with a touch of garlic, sun dried tomatoes, prosciutto, black olives, cheese, wine sauce, bouquet of asparagus with red roasted pepper, special homemade torte for dessert."

Money saving tip

Buy a whole chicken, cut it up and freeze it for more than one dinner. Bake the chicken legs with potatoes, carrots, celery and onions for one dish, use the breast for another, save the bones to make a broth for soup.

Healthy meatloaf has Southwestern flavor

One first prize winner in the second annual Quaker Oats "It's the Right Thing to Do" Recipe Contest gave a healthy new twist to an American classic — meatloaf.

Ellen Burr from Truro, Mass., was determined to make a meatloaf that even her husband would enjoy when she created Zesty Zuni Turkey Loaf.

The Pueblo Indians were the inspiration for this good-for-you meatloaf. Burr starts with a mixture of ground turkey, picante sauce, corn and spicy seasonings, adding egg whites rather than whole eggs and oats instead of bread or cracker crumbs.

Whole grain oats stretch 1 1/4 pounds of lean ground turkey to serve eight while adding fiber and contributing to the loaf's moist and tender mixture.

A no-cook yogurt sauce flavored with chilies and cilantro replaces the butter and flour-based sauce in Burr's original recipe while carrying out the Southwestern theme.

ZESTY ZUNI TURKEY LOAF

Loaf

1 cup Quaker oats (quick or old fashioned, uncooked)
1 cup picante sauce or salsa
2 egg whites, slightly beaten
1 1/2 pounds ground turkey
1 seven-ounce can whole kernel corn, drained (about 1 cup)
1/2 teaspoon ground cumin
1/2 teaspoon ground coriander
1/2 teaspoon dried oregano leaves
1/2 teaspoon ground sage
1/2 teaspoon dried thyme leaves
1/2 teaspoon celery salt (optional)
2 tablespoons toasted sunflower seeds* (optional)

Sauce

1 8-ounce carton nonfat or low-fat plain
1 4-ounce can chopped green chilies, drained

1/4 cup finely chopped cilantro
1 teaspoon lime juice

Heat oven to 350 degrees F. Spray 8x4-inch loaf pan with no stick cooking spray or grease lightly. For loaf, combine oats, picante sauce, egg whites, turkey, corn and spices; mix lightly. Press into prepared pan. Sprinkle with sunflower seeds, pressing lightly. Bake 1 hour or until cooked through. Let stand 5 minutes before slicing. For sauce, combine yogurt, green chilies, cilantro and lime juice; mix well. Serve with turkey loaf. 8 Servings.
*Or, substitute pepitas (shelled pumpkin seeds).

Smart shoppers clip coupons

Surveyed said they are now more careful when checking prices in the grocery store.

Since most families spend about a fifth of their disposable income on food, it pays to shop with a strategy.

"Don't shop when you're hungry or rushed," said Linda DeVore, registered dietitian at St. Mary Hospital in Livonia. "You'll probably spend more."

Thieleke recommends planning meals a week in advance, making a list of the foods you need, taking an inventory of your pantry, checking newspapers and magazines for food specials, coupons and recipes, and comparing food prices at different markets. Shop where the values are better.

FILE YOUR coupons in an organizer, and keep it in your car for last-minute shopping tips.

At the store, do your shopping quickly, buy only what is on the list. Buy what you need and will eat without wasting food.

Learn to recognize a real bargain. Ask yourself — "Do you need it?" "Can you use it before spoilage occurs?" Words like "jumbo" and "economy" can be misleading. Sometimes buying three small packages instead of one large one can save you some money.

Home-cooked meals usually cost less than those that are ready to serve, but some convenience foods, such as cake and pudding mixes, save time and money.

"Plan your storage, especially if you're buying large quantities of meat," said DeVore.

It's tempting to stock up when chicken is on special, but "make sure you will repack and freeze it in usable portions immediately. It's not a fun job, but important in decreasing bacteria growth and saving your investment."

The Redford Coupon Club meets 7 p.m. Monday, April 13 at Redford Union High School, 17711 Kinlock in room 104. Bring your coupons, for information, call, 538-0306.

Chef shares Pasta Campagnola recipe

PASTA CAMPAGNOLA

(presented by Chef Vito DePalma)
1 cup loosely packed roasted red bell peppers recipe below
1/2 cup part-skim ricotta cheese
1/4 cup extra virgin olive oil
2 tablespoons capers, drained
2 cloves chopped garlic
1/4 teaspoon dried, crushed red pepper

pinch salt
1 1/2 pounds fettuccine or linguine

ROASTING PEPPERS

Coarsely chop peppers and blend all ingredients, except the pasta, to a thick consistency. Cook the pasta until al dente. Strain pasta, then toss mixture with pasta in a warm bowl until well covered. Garnish with finely chopped parsley or fresh basil.

Place peppers under a very hot broiler, turning every few minutes until entire surface is charred black. When cool enough to handle, peel off black skin. Remove stems and seeds, then chop.

U.S. owned Banfi produces high-tech Italian wines

The corporate profile of Banfi is straightforward. Banfi entered the winemaking field in 1978 after achieving its mark as an importer.

Founded in 1919, the company introduced the American palate to many of Italy's classic wines and what now may be called the phenomenon of Riunite Lambrusco, which in its mid-1980s stride turned over more than 13 million cases annually.

While Riunite was capturing the palates of many as a young, fresh, fruity pour, Banfi's owners, Americans John and Harry Mariani, were making a huge investment in Tuscany's Montalcino region. They had a dual purpose: to expand their wine line with Banfi-produced world-class Italian wine and to impact the movement to modernize the Italian wine industry.

TODAY, WITHIN the shadow of the medieval fortress town of Montalcino, the Mariani brothers are harvesting rewards from their 7,100-acre Tuscan estate. A broad spectrum of Banfi wines are produced in one of the most modern wineries in the world. It's not just high-tech, it's super technology from computerized crushers to the latest refrigeration units.

Kosher wines for Passover

Hagafen Cellars produces well-made kosher wines in California's Napa Valley. In time for Passover this year (April 17-25), Hagafen has released a dry Red Table Wine. Available at $7.50 per bottle, it is flash pasteurized and designated mevushal.

Red Table Wine follows in the same tradition as the other Hagafen wines which are designated "kosher."

The 1991 Hagafen Pinot Noir Blanc ($6) is a flavorful, off-dry rose style wine, for those preferring a touch of sweetness.

All wines in the Hagafen portfolio (of which we only mentioned two) are certified kosher for Passover and the remainder of the year by Rabbi Dr. J.H. Rabag of New York and bear the Triangle K symbol.

They are available locally. If your wine shop does not currently carry Hagafen wines, they can be ordered by your wine merchant from the distributor Viviano Imports. Delivery can be made in a day or two.

focus on wine
Eleanor and

Crowning the estate is a restored medieval castle, now called Castello Banfi. Origins of the castle can be traced to the Longobards, a people of Viking descent who occupied the area in the 9th century.

Winemaking is in the able hands of Dr. Ezio Rivella, one of Europe's most-respected winemakers. "The Mariani gave me only one job," contends Rivella. "Their stipulation was to produce the best wines in the world and prove that the Italians can match the finest the world can offer." Rivella does admit to an occasional sleepless night!

BANFI'S MONTALCINO location puts it in the winemaking heart of Brunello di Montalcino, one of Italy's most-prestigious red wines. Only 10 percent of the estate acreage is devoted to brunello. "There's no chance that we'll flood the market," Rivella maintains. Knowing that this wine retails with a $38 ticket, you can better understand this statement.

Banfi owns another winemaking estate in Italy's Piedmont. Wine's produced there carry the Banfi Cellars label, while those produced in Montalcino are labeled Castello Banfi.

We recently tasted through the complete Banfi product line and found the following bottlings especially interesting. Like all things Italian, whether it's shoes, leather or wine, the price tag is steep, but the quality is impeccable.

1986 BANFI Brut ($22.50) is produced by the classic Champagne method from 55 percent pinot noir, 40 percent chardonnay and 5 percent pinot blanc. The latter grape variety adds grapey notes and seems to hold the other two varietals together while contributing a charming bouquet with roundness and richness. It's fruity, dry and elegant.

Introduced to the U.S. in late 1991, Principessa Gavi Vigna Regale ($20) comes packaged in a very dark bottle to protect the delicate nature of this white wine from damaging ultraviolet light. This Piedmont white is produced 100 percent from the cortese grape in the Regale vineyard within Banfi's Principessa estate. With a slight spritz to heighten the lively fruit, the wine finishes crisp with a hint of oak.

The connoisseur wine, newly introduced by Castello Banfi, is the 1989 Collalito ($33.75). The interest in wines produced from 100 percent syrah has heightened worldwide. Banfi's is the first Italian syrah to enter the fray in the competitive U.S. market. If you're familiar with

WINE SELECTION OF THE WEEK

1989 Castello Banfi Centine Rosso di Montalcino ($10) was the value-oriented wine of the recent Banfi wine tasting. Brunello is Italy's most legendary wine, but for many the taste of a young brunello is far too massive with overpowering woody elements. It's also very expensive. A Rosso di Montalcino is produced from younger brunello vines. Banfi's sports intense berry fruit with chocolatey nuances. It's fruit intensive with just the right cedar oak complements. It's perfect served with steaks, roasts or any grilled meats. Cellaring the wine a few years will reap handsome taste rewards.

the red wines of the northern Rhone, made from 100 percent syrah, comparison with the intensely colored, deeply flavored, peppery, spicy Collalito is in order.

Peachy ham slice perfect for Easter

AP — Would you like to serve ham for your Easter meal without the prospect of endless leftovers? Consider cooking a smaller cut. The speedy microwave recipe below uses a ham slice that will comfortably serve six adults. It's so fast that you can almost wait until dinnertime to cook it.

Still hankering for that huge holiday ham? Then tuck this recipe away. You can cut off a 1 1/2-inch thick slice from your ham to make this recipe later.

PEACH-GLAZED HAM SLICE

One 8 3/4-ounce can peach slices, drained
2 tablespoons honey
2 tablespoons lemon juice
1/4 teaspoon ground cinnamon
1 1/2- to 2-pound fully cooked ham slice, boned and cut 1 1/4 inches thick

For glaze, in a blender container combine peach slices, honey, lemon juice and cinnamon. Cover and blend until smooth.

Place ham in a 10- by 6- by 2-inch microwave-safe baking dish. Cover with waxed paper. Cook on 100 percent power (high) for 8 to 10 minutes or until heated through, turning ham over and brushing with glaze after 5 minutes.

Versatile beef makes rush-hour dinners easy

Rush-hour dinners don't have to be a hassle if you cook once on the weekend and freeze the makings for several meals.

For just a couple of hours' time, you can serve great home cooked meals to your family — in a hurry during the week. How? With Triple Batch Beef — a versatile beef mixture that serves as the base for three different dishes.

WHEN YOU have spare time, make Triple Batch Beef and freeze it in portions for later. It's simple — pieces of beef chuck shoulder, arm or blade pot roast are cooked with garlic and onion until tender. It's super easy, too, because once the simmering starts, it cooks unwound.

Freeze each portion in one-quart containers, leaving "headspace" in the containers to allow for expansion during freezing — about one inch should do it. Label each container with the contents and date. For fastest freezing, arrange containers in a single layer near freezer walls; leave space between containers for air to circulate. Once frozen, containers can be stacked.

Then, when time is at a premium, you have the basis for three scrumptious main dishes which can be prepared and served in under half and hour!

Simply pull out a container the night before, and place it in the refrigerator to thaw (or you can do it in the morning before work). When rush-hour strikes, you're ready to make a delicious soup, stew or chili with the addition of just a few other ingredients in less than 20 minutes.

FOR A new twist on an old favorite, Weeknight Beef Stew is fast and flavorful — just add sliced red potatoes, peas, oregano and lemon juice to the beef mixture. Or, for a winter warmer on a chilly night, Quick 'n Easy Beef Barley Soup fits the bill. The beef, barley, green beans and carrot soup tastes like it's been simmering for hours instead of just 15 minutes! And, by adding on-hand ingredients — chili powder, kidney beans and prepared salsa — to the beef mixture, you've got a hearty 20-Minute Beef Chili, just right for a Saturday night supper.

TRIPLE BATCH BEEF

Preparation time: 15 to 20 minutes
Cooking time: 2 hours to 2 hours, 20 minutes

4½-pound boneless beef chuck shoulder, arm or blade pot roast, cut into ¾-inch pieces
3 tablespoons vegetable oil
1 teaspoon salt
½ teaspoon pepper
4 cloves garlic, crushed
2 medium onions, coarsely chopped
1½ cups water

Heat oil in Dutch oven over medium heat. Add beef pieces (¼ at a time); cook and stir until beef is brown. Remove beef from pan; season with salt and pepper. Set aside. Cook garlic and onion in same pan until onion is lightly browned. Pour off drippings. Return beef to pan; add water. Bring to a boil. Reduce heat, cover tightly and simmer 1½ to 2 hours or until meat is tender. Skim off fat. Place about 2 cups beef mixture into each of three 1-quart freezer containers. Cover containers tightly and freeze. Use beef mixture in the following recipes. Yield 6 to 7 cups cooked beef.

WEEKNIGHT BEEF STEW

Preparation time: 5 minutes
Cooking time: 15 minutes

1 container (2 cups) Triple Batch Beef, defrosted
2 medium red potatoes, cut into ¼-inch thick slices
½ cup water
1 teaspoon dried oregano leaves
½ teaspoon salt
1 cup frozen peas
1 tablespoon lemon juice
2 teaspoons cornstarch

Place beef pieces and cooking liquid, potatoes, water, oregano and salt in medium saucepan. Bring to a boil. Reduce heat to low to medium-low, cover tightly and simmer 10 to 12 minutes or until potatoes are tender; add peas. Meanwhile combine lemon juice and cornstarch; stir into beef mixture. Bring to a boil; cook and stir 1 minute. 4 Servings.

Cook once for three meals. When you have Triple Batch Beef in the freezer, you have the makings for three different, delicious dishes when there's no time to cook.

1 tablespoon chili powder
1 can (15 ounces) kidney beans, drained and rinsed
1 cup shredded Cheddar Cheese
¼ cup sliced green onions

'Top 10 Almanac' has fun food facts

Is it spring yet? I keep waiting for the weather to warm up. If flowering crocuses, asparagus for 99 cents a pound, and rhubarb in the produce sections of most grocery stores are any indication, warm weather can't be far away.

Speaking of rhubarb, on May 11 we'll be featuring this vegetable, first cultivated in China for its purgative medical rootstalk. Called a nuisance by some gardeners and a delicacy by cooks, is it any wonder that rhubarb is also a slang term for a heated argument? If you have a rhubarb patch, or know someone who does, like to eat rhubarb, or want to share a recipe, call me at 953-2105.

TRIVIA BUFFS, and list makers will love "The Top 10 Almanac" by David Kaestle, published in March by Workman Publishing, New York, New York ($5.95). With over 140 lists in two dozen categories, the almanac is a compendium of contemporary American life.

"Please, my little girl needs blood."

The categories are music, movies, television, books, magazines, papers/comics, radio, theater, home video, sports, gaming, business, advertising, technology, attractions, shows, kids' entertainment, consumer products, eating and drinking, crime, travel, college, politics, ear-thwatch and opinion.

Surprise your family and friends. Here are some fun facts for foodies — Of the best selling grocery store items, only two were real food: Kraft cheese and Campbell's soup. Marlboro cigarettes reprised as the number-one grocery store seller. Almost 3,000 new condiment products were introduced to food store shelves in 1991.

The most popular specialty drink last year? The Seabreeze. Mix equal parts vodka, grapefruit juice, and cranberry juice. Serve over ice in a tall glass.

Hamburger restaurants were the leading eating-out places in the country, and McDonald's ranked number one, outselling its closest competitor, Burger King, by nearly 3 to 1.

PAM SHORTER of Livonia sent this recipe for Strawberry Cake. "I made this recipe last year for Father's Day and everyone liked it," said Shorter. "The recipe came from a cookbook I got in Florida, 'Hillsborough County Extension Homemakers.'

Betty Crocker tip of the week: Kids need more than three meals to keep their bodies growing strong and healthy. Encourage snacks that pack in nutrition, as well as good flavor. Include milk, hot chocolate, fruit-flavored yogurt, whole grain bagels or English muffins made into mini-pizzas, small boxes of raisins and string cheese in their diets.

A 'golden' opportunity that's not for my butt

By Lynn Weidner
special writer

I'd better get to work on that screenplay. Not only because it holds the promise of fame, fortune and freedom from the grind of a daily job, but it's probably the only way I'll ever get to see the Oscars.

Oh, sure I watched them on TV last week as did millions of viewers across the globe. But just once in my life, I'd like to be at the Dorothy Chandler Pavilion in Los Angeles on Hollywood's most glamorous night of the year, rubbing elbows with the creme de la creme.

I thought I had my wish this year.

You see, the people who produce the Academy Awards show — ABC Television — hire everyday people like you and me to be "seat fillers." It may not be a glamorous title, but a seat filler's responsibility is to fill the seat of an Oscar winner when he or she walks up to the stage and makes an acceptance speech.

The idea is to create the appearance of a capacity-filled auditorium when dozens of stars have vacated their seats to accept awards or pose for photographs backstage. When the award winner returns to his or her seat, the seat filler moves on to the next empty seat.

Having learned of this a month before the Oscars and figuring my seat could fill a seat as well as anyone else's, I jumped at the opportunity. First, I called the Motion Picture Academy of Arts and Sciences.

"I'D LIKE to apply for the seat filler position," I said. OK, so it didn't sound very glamorous, but when you're talking admission to the Academy Awards, you tend to forget your pride.

The Academy transferred me to ABC who transferred me to the Academy's Board of Governors (whatever that is). The person there told me that only ABC employees are eligible to be seat fillers "for security purposes." Then again, he said, he really wasn't sure. Call ABC.

After several more calls, I eventually was in touch with ABC's Office of Guest Services. Yes, they said, seat filler applications will be accepted on a first come-first served basis and, no, you don't have to be an ABC employee. BUT ABC employees get preference.

Desperate for some leverage, I explained that I was a reporter. Do members of the media get preferential consideration too? The voice on the other end of the line sounded suspicious. The Academy frowns on media coverage of seat filling activity, he explained.

"What kind of reporter are you? Broadcast or print?"

"Print."

"Oh, that's fine. Nobody reads anymore."

He went on to explain that applications would be accepted over the phone on a specific date. Only on that date, he emphasized, and absolutely no letters, faxes or in-person requests would be accepted.

I CALLED on the designated day at the designated time. Not surprisingly an obnoxious busy signal reverberated in my ear. Though I knew it was hopeless, I kept trying once every 20 minutes. About five hours later, the call actually went through.

"I'm calling about the seat filler position," I said. A very bored-sounding person asked for name, address and telephone number. The Academy looks for people who are "willing to work hard and follow instructions closely," he said.

Was he kidding? What could be so hard about sitting down? If you are chosen for a seat filler position, he continued, you would attend the event at your own expense, and you must wear attire appropriate for a black tie function. Yeah, yeah.

Another thing. Seat fillers must show up at 11:30 a.m. on the day of the Academy Awards, even though the show doesn't begin until 6 p.m. Pacific time. I guess they figured that after standing around for six hours you'll be plenty anxious to run to the nearest empty seat.

So when do I find out if I'm a seat filler? In about a week, he said. How many volunteers do you need? About 100. How many people have called? Hundreds. Oh.

So much for my short-lived hope to mingle with the paparazzi. But a girl can dream, can't she? Even though this year's Oscar night has passed, I keep having this reoccurring dream.

A GQ-ish looking guy with a clipboard gives me the nod. My first seat-filler assignment. Am I really prepared for the tremendous responsibility? These shoes are killing me. I walk briskly (trying to mask my star-struck expression with what I hope passes for a suave look of sophistication) to an empty seat in the eighth row.

Tripping over a few feet along the way, head down, mumble "excuse me" to the knees of royalty, I finally stumble into a vacant seat. There. Mission accomplished. Glad to know I've done my part to save ABC from the embarrassment of an empty seat by embarrassing myself.

On my God, I don't believe it! On my right is Jodie Foster. "Jodie," I whisper, "I'm a big fan of yours. You were brilliant in 'Silence of the Lambs,' though I must say I liked you better as a blonde. You're a shoo-in for best actress."

Jodie politely smiles and turns away, so I turn to see who's sitting on left. Gulp. It's her co-star from "Silence of the Lambs," Hannibal the Cannibal, I mean, Anthony Hopkins. I know he was only acting, but the man gives me the creeps. I smile at him nervously. He licks his lips.

Awards to recognize Motown's musicians

The impetus for the Motor City Music Awards is a noble one. Undoubtedly, though, it's the glitz of such an event that always garners the most attention.

Glamour as well as recognition will be featured as members of the Detroit music community congregate for the inaugural awards presentation 7:30 p.m. Sunday, April 12, at Music Hall in Detroit.

The ceremony is designed to reward the accomplishments of today's up-and-coming artists while honoring those who were instrumental in establishing Detroit's rich musical tradition.

Motown great Smokey Robinson and comedian Mike Ridley will co-host the extravaganza. Robinson, along with Howard Armstrong and noted CKLW music director Rosalie Trombley, will also receive a Lifetime Achievement Award.

Noted presenters scheduled to appear include Bob Seger and members of the Silver Bullet Band, Alice Cooper and Was (Not Was).

Those aforementioned celebrities will help present awards in rock/pop, blues, country, R&B, rap, classical and gospel categories, which are voted on by nearly 2,000 industry professionals. Six awards will be decided by public ballot.

THE MOTOR CITY Music Awards is the culmination of four years of planning. The annual event is organized by the Motor City Music Awards Foundation, which is made up of a cross-section of those involved extensively in the music community — promoters, radio personnel, record company executives and journalists.

"In any event, organizing the first one is a little difficult," said Michael Watts, executive director of the Motor City Music Awards Foundation. "But we've generated a lot of good will and community. That's our goal — to create a sense of community . . ."

All proceeds from admission costs (tickets starting at $25) will benefit music related causes in the Detroit area. The primary beneficiary from this year's event is Music Hall, which is undergoing major renovation. Money raised will be matched by a Challenge Grant from the Kresge Foundation.

An awards ceremony of such prominence is overdue considering Detroit's storied musical past with "Black Bottom" blues clubs, Motown, MC5, Iggy Pop, Cooper, Seger and Was (Not Was). Music communities such as New York, Toronto, Minneapolis and Boston already have similar music awards ceremonies.

Watts, who runs Plymouth-based Watts-UP, is certainly more than familiar with such grand-scale musical events. He's coordinated the annual Detroit Blues Festival, the Downtown Hoedown country fest and was involved in promoting concerts at Chene Park for four years.

ONE OF his goals is to make the Motor City Music Awards a weekend-long event. Area musicians are scheduled to perform the National Anthem before Detroit Tigers and Pistons games that weekend.

Also, there is a jointly sponsored record and recording seminar presented by American Society of Composers, Authors & Publishers (ASCAP) and National Academy of Recording Arts & Sciences (NARAS) 1:30-3:30 p.m. Sunday, April 12, in the Radisson Pontchartrain Hotel's Versailles Room. Admission for the seminar is $10 at the door ($8 in advance) with all proceeds benefiting the foundation's projects.

As with the recently successful Rob Tyner benefit, the Motor City Music Awards marks another joint effort by a music community that has been normally fragmented through competitiveness.

"Because of the nature of the board, we were able to cut through that," Watts said. "The competition between the newspapers and the radio stations is a fact of everyday life. We said you have to put that aside for a cause that benefits the community as a whole."

The first-ever Motor City Music Awards take place 7:30 p.m. Sunday, April 12, at Music Hall. Tickets start at $25. For information, call 932-2510.

Live gets serious in songs

By Larry O'Connor
staff writer

When even U2 has turned down the notch on the dour face meter, Live's penchant for seriousness could only be attributed to youthful naivete or a poorly calculated career move.

Give them time.

"A lot of people say that," said bassist Patrick Dahlheimer, whose band performs Sunday at the State Theatre. "At this point that's the way it is. Maybe I'll look back a year from now and things will be different."

At least the intensity is harnessed in an indelible form on the Pennsylvania quartet's spirited, uncompromising debut release on Radioactive "Mental Jewelry." Lead vocalist Ed Kowalczyk sings with an emotionally drenched fervor, reflecting a sense of urgency throughout the 12-song effort.

Reoccurring images of pain and angst are a common thread lyrically, which seemingly belies Live's age and experience (the oldest member is 21).

Unlike similar outfits — The Alarm for example — who sustain themselves on emotion as much as musical substance, Live contends it's not under the mistaken belief that music can render change in a complex world.

Rather, the band addresses all the pangs of anxiety and the dire necessity of succeeding associated with constantly re-examining the unalterable state we find ourselves in. At this point, the psychic fallout from that is more appealing to Live than how to conquer the feelings of uncertainty.

SINGS KOWALCZYK in the opening number "Operation Spirit" with undaunted fury: "Heard a lot of talk about my spirit/ Heard a lot of talk about my soul/ But I decided that anxiety and pain were better friends so I let go."

While it is admirable for a band to explore such personal feelings at such a tender age, it still begs the question: Is anyone interested?

College/alternative music appears cloistered in an aray of cold-techno heartbeats and frivolous flutters of pop at the moment. Which in itself seems to be a reaction to the constant serious expression purposed by U2, Simple Minds and Tears for Fears during the '80s.

"There's plenty of that stuff (care free music) to listen to. There's enough of that," Dahlheimer said. "I don't have a problem with people doing jovial, frivolous stuff."

Live may very well be a reaction to the reaction. Undoubtedly, the consciousness of U2 and alike outfits played somewhat a role in the band's upbringing.

Drummer Chad Gracey, guitarist Chad Taylor, Kowalczyk and Dahlheimer started playing covers of the aforementioned acts in the early '80s, winning a talent competition in middle school.

BUT IT was the breadth of their own songs that later attracted Radioactive Records president Gary Kurfirst to sign Live and send them to producer and Talking Heads alum Jerry Harrison.

Derrick McDonald of Canton earned a place on the All-Observer, first-team basketball squad for the second straight year. The senior guard helped the Chiefs achieve an 18-5 season.

Canton senior duo earn hoop award

By Brad Emons
and Dan O'Meara
staff writers

THE NCAA has its Final Four, but the Observer Newspapers goes three better with its Final Seven, honoring the area's best boys basketball players.

The first-team is a mix of centers, guards and forwards, led by Redford Catholic Central's dynamic duo of Chad Varga and Bob Kummer, the latter of whom is making his second straight appearance on the first team.

The pair led the 19-5 Shamrocks to a share of the Central Division title and a Class A District crown before being ousted by Detroit Cooley in the Southfield regional final, 39-35.

Plymouth Canton, which finished unbeaten in 11 Western Lakes Activities Association regular season games, a Western Division title and 18-5 overall, also placed two players on the first-team, including Derrick McDonald, another repeat first-team choice. Canton also placed Hal Heard.

Rounding out the squad is Bill Malecki, who led Redford Union to a share of the Northwest Suburban League crown; Livonia Franklin's Keith Roberts and Wayne Memorial's Rick Barnes.

COACH OF THE YEAR honors go to Wayne Memorial's Chuck Henry, who led the Zebras to a 19-3 overall record, including a perfect 14-0 mark in the Wolverine A League. Wayne also captured the Class A district crown at Garden City.

Henry has an impressive 158-44 record at Wayne to go along with six league championships and four district titles in nine years.

His career varsity mark is 235-98 in 15 seasons, which also includes stints at Dearborn Divine Child and Walled Lake Western.

"It was a good year for us winning the league (Wolverine A) and district," said Henry, whose team was eliminated by Detroit Public School League champion Cooley in the regional semifinals, 65-52. "We generally know we're going to face a PSL team in the regional, but I was not dissatisfied with our effort against Cooley. We played them tough. We were only down two at the half."

"It was a good year."

Introducing the 1991-92 All-Area basketball squad chosen by the Observer sports staff:

FIRST TEAM

Chad Varga, senior, Redford CC: The 6-foot-5½ center had a monster year, averaging 24.1 points, 10.5 rebounds and three blocks per game.

By scoring a total of 581 points, Varga broke the CC single-season scoring mark of 569 held by Mike Prince (1977).

Varga tallied a career-high 44 points against Redford Bishop Borgess and added 42 against Detroit Redford in the state tournament. He also had 36 in a regional semifinal win over 1990-91 defending state champ Detroit Southwestern.

Signed by the University of Richmond, Varga made rapid improvement only one season with Catholic Central after transferring from Dearborn Heights Fairlane Christian.

"He really elevated his game," CC coach Bernie Holowicki said. "Chad was an excellent leader for us. He was great in the weight room. Even during the season he was just outstanding."

"He has a good touch and can shoot the 17-footer. He's an electrifying player who makes big-time plays."

Varga, a Class A first-team All-Stater, will play in the annual Michigan-Ohio All-Star Game.

Bob Kummer, senior, Redford CC: The 6-6½ Kummer played a variety of roles for the Shamrocks, including a stint at point-guard.

Chiefs have talent to win WLAA again

By Dan O'Meara
staff writer

Nobody will be too surprised if Plymouth Canton should win another Western Lakes Activities Association championship in girls track later this spring.

The Chiefs, who won their second WLAA title in four years by a 56-point margin over Livonia Stevenson, remain an extremely talented team since many of their top athletes return, including three league champions.

"I think we're serious contenders for the WLAA championship again," Canton coach George Przygodski said, adding the first goal is always to win the WLAA Western Division title. The Chiefs have the last seven years, compiling a 34-0-1 record in division return.

The Chiefs do return junior Selena Basetime, who threw the discus 104 feet last year and the shot 31-7 in a scrimmage this year. Senior Dawn Kersten and Gray lend support in those events.

Gray jumped 5 feet to win the high jump at the WLAA meet and had a season best of 5-3, good for second place in Observerland.

"We have as much talent as any group we've had, and we've had some pretty good ones. It's a matter of filling in a few pieces of the puzzle, staying healthy and getting lucky. There are a lot of other good teams in the WLAA. We're looking forward to getting started and seeing what happens."

The Chiefs, who had their first dual meet postponed Thursday because of cold weather, don't have a weak event. They have at least one and usually more accomplished athletes in each.

ATTEMPTING TO defend their WLAA titles next month will be junior Stephanie Gray in the high jump, junior Heather Pastor, long jump; and senior Kim Gudeth, 800-meter run.

Canton will miss graduated stars Aleah Collier, the WLAA champ in the shot put, and Ifeoma Okwumabua, the school record holder in the discus, most in the throwing events, though they also contributed to the sprint relays.

The Chiefs do return junior Selena Basetime, who threw the discus 104 feet last year and the shot 31-7 in a scrimmage this year. Senior Dawn Kersten and Gray lend support in those events.

Despite missing four games, McDonald averaged 14.8 points, while shooting 47 percent from the field.

He scored a season-high 28 points, including 22 in the final quarter, in Canton's first regular season meeting against rival Salem.

"When it was winning time, Derrick took over," Van Wagoner said. "He is probably the best fourth-quarter player I've ever coached. When the game was on the line, he produced."

"He won us the Division championship in the fourth quarter at (Farmington) Harrison."

McDonald was also prolific at the free throw line, averaging 90 percent (65 of 72).

"He shot 200 to 300 free throws every day, and that's what it takes," said the Canton coach. "Derrick is a gym rat who's always playing ball. He's a tremendous scorer."

McDonald also shared Canton Defensive Player of the Year honors with teammate Owen Crosby.

Rick Barnes, senior, Wayne: A three-year varsity performer, the 6-1 forward was a tower of strength for the Zebras.

A great leaper, Barnes' averaged 13 points and 10 rebounds per game, both team bests.

Barnes, the Wolverine A League's MVP, also hit 60 percent of his field goal attempts and 80 percent from the free throw line.

"Rick did a lot of the intangible things for us," Wayne coach Chuck Henry said. "He always played hard and had no real weakness, just a coach's dream."

"He was also a great offensive and defensive rebounder for his size. He also ran the floor well both on the offensive and defensive end, just a tremendous work capacity."

Bill Malecki, senior, Redford Union: The 6-2 guard was named MVP of the Northwest Suburban League and helped the Panthers to a share of the NSL crown along with Dearborn.

He tallied a season-high 37 points against Livonia Churchill.

In 17 games, Malecki averaged 20.5 points per game, hitting 51.5 percent from two-point range (103 of 200) and 38.8 percent from the three-point line (33 of 85).

Malecki also averaged 6.3 rebounds and 3.4 assists per game.

"Bill has been a consistently outstanding offensive player for the last three years," RU coach Tip Smathers said. "Bill uses his dribbling skills, jumping ability, and finger-rolls on drives to the hoop. Bill's jump shot has been a real weapon for us because he can shoot it from a stand-still position, or off the dribble. He can shoot it over defensive players and he can score from three-point range."

In three years, Malecki totaled 1,025 points, averaging 15.7 as a sophomore and 18.8 points per game as a junior.

Keith Roberts, senior, Liv. Franklin: Cat-quik at 5-7, the Patriot guard had an outstanding senior year racking up 409 total points for a 20.5 scoring average. He tallied over 800 points during his three year varsity-career.

The All-WLAA pick also averaged 3.5 steals, three rebounds and three assists per game.

Roberts hit 40.3 percent from the floor (134 of 332) and made 37 three-pointers during the year.

The left-hander also hit 79.3 percent from the foul stripe (104 for 131).

"We knew the other teams would key on him and it showed in the way they defended him," Franklin coach Rod Hanna said. "They double-teamed him every time."

Roberts played mostly off-guard, but moved to point on occasion, finishing with a game-high 26 points in a district tourney loss to Wayne.

"Keith used his skills, with and without the ball," Hann said. "In the open court he had good one-on-one skills. And for his size he was a good defensive player."

Rocks tie Spartans in soccer

Plymouth Salem's early-season soccer showdown with Livonia Stevenson ended in a tie Thursday while Plymouth Canton won its second game without a loss Wednesday.

Freshman Kelly Lukasik scored Salem's only goal with 15 minutes left in the game, which was postponed from Monday and played at Central Middle School because the field at Centennial Educational Park was under water.

Sophomore Mackenzie Emmett assisted on the Salem goal, which tied the score, and senior Jenny Emmett made 12 saves while playing the entire game in goal.

"Each team had a chance (to win the game)," Salem coach Ken Johnson said. "It could have gone either way. I'd have to say the tie was a fair result."

Salem is 1-0-1, having defeated North Farmington 6-1 Wednesday, and the Spartans 2-0-1.

Stevenson led 1-0 at halftime on a goal by Ragen Coyne with an assist from Shannon Wilkinson. Goalkeeper Alicia Smith made 13 saves for the Spartans, who had two good chances to score in the second half, according to coach Mary Kay Hussey.

THE ROCKS also had other scoring opportunities. Shelby Carey hit the crossbar with a shot, and Michelle Cronan fired another wide of the net.

"It could have been 3-3," Johnson said.

In the Wednesday game, Kris Goff scored three goals and had one assist to lead Salem. Mandy Drummond had one goal and an assist.

Julie Thomas and Caryn Tatterson accounted for the other goals, and Erin Bagozzi, Carey and Cronan had single assists. Hadley Thurmon scored for North on a second-half penalty kick.

Canton upped its record to 2-0 with a 3-1 victory over Farmington in a Western Lakes Activities Association game. The Falcons are 0-1.

Colleen Connell had one goal and two assists to lead the Chiefs, who trailed 1-0 after Sue Gibson scored for Farmington.

All the scoring occurred in the first half, with Amy Tortora and Britta Anderson scoring for Canton followed by Connell's goal, which resulted from a pass by Danielle Meyka.

Jori Welchans was in goal the entire game for the Chiefs.

CHURCHILL 3, MERCY 2: Jamie Bewernitz tallied what proved to be the game-winner Wednesday as host Livonia Churchill edged Farmington Hills Mercy in a non-league.

Melina Garrett assisted on the deciding goal.

Churchill (1-0-1) led 1-0 at intermission on Aimee Cousino's goal from Erin Stacherski.

Dana Pososki made it 2-0 in the second half from Cousino before Heather Richards countered for the Maroons (1-1-3). Tania Macioce had Mercy's second goal.

Madonna splits DH in softball

Mandy Armstrong's fifth-inning run-scoring double knocked in sister Megan Armstrong, giving Madonna University a 3-2 softball win in the second game of a doubleheader with host Aquinas Wednesday. The Lady Crusaders dropped the opener 7-3.

It was the first NAIA District 23 games for both teams. Madonna is 8-6 overall and 1-1 in the conference. Aquinas is 11-4, 1-1.

In the second game, Kim Supron (Livonia Ladywood) first-inning double accounted for Madonna's first two runs, scoring Megan and Mandy Armstrong.

Tracy Vachon was the winning pitcher, allowing four hits and striking out three. But it wasn't an easy game to finish; players had to rake snow off the field to play the bottom half of the seventh inning.

In the first game, Aquinas jumped in front with a four-run fourth inning. They added three more runs in the fifth.

KRISTEN WASIL was the losing pitcher for the Crusaders, yielding nine hits and one walk. Jodi Borowicz collected the win for the Saints, hurling a six-hitter; she fanned four and did not walk a batter.

Madonna scored its runs in the seventh inning when Megan Armstrong doubled to score Jill Burt and Kay Lee Davis, both having singled, and Holly Jondro, who reached base on a fielder's choice.

The opening of the District 23 portion of Madonna's schedule isn't easy; the Crusaders now must tackle defending district champ Siena Heights in a doubleheader at Ford Field Tuesday. Both Siena Heights and Aquinas are ranked in the NAIA's national top 30.

"I'd take a split against these two anytime," said Madonna coach Dave Racer.

Crusaders win NAIA ballgames

Finally, a game.

Madonna University's baseball team, idle since its spring trip to Florida ended March 8, opened its northern season the same way it ended its southern one — winning. The Fighting Crusaders swept a doubleheader from NAIA District 23 foe Siena Heights, 4-2 and 3-2, Friday in Adrian.

Bill Terski delivered a two-out, three-run double in the first inning to highlight the opening win. Jeff Pendell added a run-scoring double in the second. Terski had two hits in the game. Mike Hocking was the winning pitcher; he surrendered just four hits and three walks, striking out three.

Ernie Bowling, sitting out the second game with a sore back, got in one at-bat and made good on it — he lined a two-run single with two out in the fourth to score the tying and winning runs. T.C. Raptis, who had two hits, singled in Madonna's first run earlier in the fourth.

Dennis Hamilton tossed a five-hitter to collect the victory; he walked four and fanned five.

The Crusaders raised their record to 14-1, 2-0 in the district. They have a rematch with Siena Heights at 4 p.m. today at Redford's Capitol Park.

By C.C. Clark

ARIES (March 21 - April 19)

Your suspicions about a particular situation may be well founded. Don't neglect duties, especially in personal relationships.

TAURUS (April 20 - May 20)

You should be happy where you are. You may come up against a great difficulty, but you have the power to see it through.

GEMINI (May 21 - June 20)

You may fear a necessary change that could redirect your true path. Try to see the big picture and your life will gain new meaning.

CANCER (June 21 - July 22)

Don't let your life be commanded by greed. You should know better than to let "things" come before those you love. Use your influence wisely.

LEO (July 23 - Aug. 22)

Try not to be defensive when hashing out problems with loved ones and co-workers. A little understanding could go a long way.

VIRGO (Aug. 23 - Sept. 22)

Health matters should take top priority for you and those around you. You will overcome great adversity in a specific area of your life.

LIBRA (SEPT. 23 - Oct. 22)

You may gain freedom from ties that have bound you so tightly. Remember that a positive attitude can carry you through almost any difficulty.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 - Nov. 21)

Don't be carried away by superstition; it will only hurt you. Keep an open mind to ideas presented to you. Your creative powers are in full force.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 - Dec. 21)

You will be sorely tempted, but it is imperative you do not repeat gossip. Much relies on your keeping quiet about things you overheard.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 - Jan. 19)

Your talent for juggling many things at a time will come in handy. Though the world is constantly changing around you, you will find peace within.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20 - Feb. 18)

There is great activity and energy in your life. Channel it in a positive way. You will find the power to help those less fortunate.

PISCES (Feb. 19 - March 20)

It seems so hard to make the right decision. It certainly isn't the easiest choice to make. Be discreet with a friend's secret.

'Barney & Friends'
 will motivate kids

By Chris Carpenter

A prehistoric, cosmopolitan creature he may be, but this Barney has no friend named Fred with razor stubble, no wife Betty, last name Rubble. The latest Barney is a foam-rubber, purple-lycra dinosaur, former star of children's home video, future star of PBS' Barney & Friends, a weekday series premiering Monday, April 6.

Appearing on the playground in a puff of glitter and smoke, Barney is summoned whenever his little human buddies are in need of some serious entertainment, which, in the case of preschoolers, is every other second. Fueled by either a box of chocolate cupcakes or supernatural enthusiasm, David Joyner, the man in the Barney suit, and the show's young performers dance, sing and whoop it up in a classroom and schoolyard setting for the entire 30 minutes.

Program themes deal squarely with what it means to be 3, 4 and 5 years old, with little acknowledgement of adults, either as viewers or on-screen role models. In fact, anyone over the age of 7 will feel left out. This show belongs to the little ones, it's the private property of an age group that can claim few other things on television as their own.

Barney & Friends wins no prizes for pizazz, but it does make doers out of mere viewers and promote the value of friendship and imagination. Kids could do worse than follow the lead of this purple pied piper.

Kevin (Fred Savage) is bewildered when a party gets out of hand in The Wonder Years, Wednesday on ABC.

CBS' "Stompin'" doesn't make the noise it should

Whitfield, Van Peebles head good ensemble

By Steven Alan McGaw

On March 12, 1926, in the middle of that cultural flowering known as the "Harlem Renaissance," the Savoy Ballroom opened its doors. Like the Cotton Club, the Savoy was a haven for black musicians, singers and dancers, and instrumental to the careers of entertainers like Ella Fitzgerald and bandleader Chick Webb. Its closing in 1958 truly marked the end of an era.

Now, the sophisticated ballroom comes back to life in "Stompin'" at the Savoy," premiering Sunday, April 12, on CBS. Directed by Debbie Allen, the film is set in the years just before World War II and focuses on four young women whose lives are punctuated by cherished nights spent at the Savoy.

"During the Depression," says Actor Michael Warren, "the Savoy was one of those surreal places that, when you walked in, whatever was happening outside those doors ceased to exist." Warren appears as Calvin Hunter, a ruthless entrepreneur ("opportunist slimeball," the actor laughs) who determines to romance Pauline, an aspiring singer played by Vanessa Williams.

Lynn Whitfield ("The Josephine Baker Story") plays Esther, whose romance with handsome restaurateur Walter Turner (Mario Van Peebles) is secondary to her fierce determination to open her own beauty salon. Jasmine Guy is Alice, a country girl in love with New York and a guy named Ernest played by Darnell Williams. Vanessa Bell Calloway completes the quartet as Dorothy, a mild-mannered housekeeper unprepared for interracial romance with successful white actor Bill Jerome (John Di Aquino).

The Savoy, itself almost another character in the film, is the scene of several enjoyable musical sequences. When it came to choreography, Allen deferred to Norma Miller and Frankie Manning, two of the original Savoy dancers and founders of the New York Swing Dance Society.

Actress singer Dawn Lewis, a longtime Allen associate on "A Different World," appears as jazz great Ella Fitzgerald. For Lewis, playing the inimitable, innovative singer was an unforgettable experience.

"They were well into shooting," Lewis says, "and Debbie called me and said, 'I need a favor.'" Lewis admits that playing Fitzgerald was intimidating, particularly on short notice. Still, she leapt at the chance, and familiarity with the music was no problem. "As soon as I hung up the phone, I went over to my CDs and cassettes. I've got Ella forever."

In Warren's estimation, the "Stompin'" script written by Beverly Sawyer, "really warranted being a feature film." He credits Allen with assembling "an exquisite cast on a shoestring budget," and says costumers and art direction people "went to great pains to duplicate the period."

Costumes and period details, of course, do not a movie make. "Stompin' at the Savoy" is at its best when doing just that: swinging and dancing to the timeless music for which the club was known. Less engaging, however, are scenes advancing the four intertwining stories, which seem to lack energy and aim. Of the actors, only Whitfield, Van Peebles and Warren consistently deliver urgency and appeal.

A: Write to the actress in care of Full House, Capitol Cities ABC, 27 West 66th Street, New York, N.Y. 10023.

Q: My son, who has cerebral palsy, is a great fan of Garth Brooks. He's learned a lot of his songs and sings them all the time. Where can I write to him? I would greatly appreciate it if you could answer as soon as possible as he is going to be in concert near us soon. — Daniel Razo's mother, Cottonwood, Ariz.

A: For basic fan information, you can write to Garth Brooks Fan Club International, 27 Music Square East Suite 1712, Nashville, Tenn. 37213. But in this instance, I would suggest you write to him in care of Doyle Lewis Management, 1109 17th Ave. South, Nashville, Tenn. 37212. This is his management group, and they will probably be able to get you a faster response. Other fans, please use his fan club address as their office will no doubt turn the mail over to the fan club anyway. And if Doyle Lewis Management is flooded with mail, it will only slow down the response time to this letter.

Q: I am writing to say that I would like to see the two television shows Matlock and In the Heat of the Night continue. Both are great family shows with a lesson for all of us ... a show the whole family can watch.

SIOAPPI TAIKIKI*'Y&R' star can't flee her evil character

By Candace Havens

Every week I get several letters from viewers of The Young and the Restless saying the same thing, "Make Sheila give Lauren her baby back." Of course they are writing about Nurse Sheila Grainger, who not only stole Lauren's baby, but her husband as well. She is an evil woman who will do whatever it takes to create her "perfect" family.

Likewise, the talented actress who portrays Sheila, Kimberlin Brown receives the same kind of letters.

"I get a lot of mail asking when am I going to give the baby back and people telling me they love to hate me," says Brown. "But I've also received some strange letters. Yesterday, I received a photograph from a fan who had a tattoo on his arm of a baby with the name Sheila underneath it as a tribute to Sheila. He sent a really nice cover letter assuring me he wasn't crazy and explained why he did it, so I didn't feel so bad about it."

"Most people separate me from the character and are generally really nice," said Brown. "But I did get one letter from a woman who said if I did anything to the baby she was going to fly out here and blackmail me and she was serious. That one scares me a little bit."

In real life, Brown couldn't be more different from her character. She and husband Gary Pelzer live an idyllic life in San Diego, where they share a love of snow skiing, boating, scuba diving, golfing and traveling.

In fact, Brown and her husband had just come back from filming an episode of Lifestyles of the Rich & Famous in Antigua when I spoke with her. Even there she couldn't get far from Sheila. "Our show is in prime time there and many of them would say 'Hey, give back the baby,' but they were all really nice," said Brown.

While Sheila is in the midst of motherhood, Brown isn't sure when she'll want to have children. "We talk about it but right now I'm really happy with the way things are."

Brown doesn't know if Lauren is going to get her baby back, but she promises there are going to be some big things happening to Sheila and those around her very soon.

STAR NOTES*Arthur at home with 'Strangers'

By Dan Rice

Flight attendant Mary Anne, the quirky girlfriend of Balki (Bronson Pinchot) on ABC's Saturday comedy series Perfect Strangers, is no daph blonde. And neither is Rebecca Arthur, the actress who plays her.

"I prefer to call her a naive blonde," Arthur says. "There's a lot more to her than actually gets on the air. We only have 22 minutes to do a show. So a lot of things that show Mary Anne is not an idiot have to be cut out."

Arthur enjoys the role because it's far removed from the stock comedies from the studio audience.

"I am a producer, so I can go to a town, I want to do a show, and I want them now."

BUTS AND PIECES*Teen's contest entry will air 'Afterschool'

A fresh voice delivers a timely message. A Vietnamese-born high-school senior from New York City is the author of the winning story outline for an episode of ABC's Afterschool Specials to be produced by Oprah Winfrey's Harpo Productions in the spring of 1993.

Sixteen-year-old Bich-Nga Nguyen, who lives with her family in Forest Park, Georgia, competed in a writing contest sponsored by ABC in association with Seventeen magazine. Her winning teleplay, which concerns the dangers of alcohol and the importance of family, was chosen over 1,000 entries.

"It beat it was something that needed to be dealt with, especially by teenagers," she says.

The final conflict between good and evil will be waged on ABC. Robert A.iger, president of ABC Entertainment announced that the network will air a miniseries adaptation of Stephen King's sprawling novel The Stand most likely during the 1992-93 season. The story describes the near future in which a deadly virus has decimated the world's population, leaving the few survivors in opposing camps of purity and corruption.

DIME OUT

First pitch on ESPN, last dunk on CBS

By Steve Pavlina

The sports world seems to be radical fashion. Monday night's beginning with the first baseball game and followed by the basketball game then acrobating to the final basketball tournament championship game.

The mere mention of "baseball" in pre-game stages & press conferences, Buckwheat breast cancer, and the end of the first half of the year, is not a dogmatic command, but rather the other.

But you don't have to be a ballpark fan to appreciate the optimism and enthusiasm ESPN kicks off with each new regular season. Major leagues begin with a triple-header, and the traditional curtain-up game is fast-champion baseball. Wednesday in the Detroit Tigers and the visiting Cleveland Indians, the Los Angeles Dodgers and the San Francisco Giants, and the baseball's sideshows in between.

On the playground and in the classroom, it's Barney & Friends. Monday through Friday on PBS.
