Council Tables Talk of Further Street Improving

Rejects Recreation Program; Gives Away Part of a Street.

Ord city councilmen presented a united front against talk of further street improvement Monday evening. After hearing two consulting engineers give rough estimates of what might be done, city dads decided they wouldn't even bother to find out what could or should be done in street, storm sewer and sanitary sewer improvement.

Previously councilmen indicated they had wanted professional advice on how to bring a 33-year-old street survey up to date, but Monday night rejected both engineer's propositions that they be hired for a preliminary survey.

In the same frame of mind councilmen also rejected a plan for a supervised summer recreational program for youngsters, which cost would be born jointly by the city and school district.

City cops are, however, going to find life easier. Mayor F. L. Blessing was authorized to proceed with the fitting and redecorating of a room in the city hall for the police force. A telephone will be installed and in all probability the police will be equipped with sirens for their cars. The mayor told the council that reckless and careless driving is becoming a problem in Ord and that he wants the police to be better equipped to handle enforcement of traffic regulations.

Councilmen also decided to give away some city property, 10 feet off the south side of "R" street between 14th and 15th. Glen Auble told the city council that he owns the lot on the south side of the street and wants to move in a house to be fixed up for rental purposes. Auble said there wasn't room on the lot for this, due to a large canyon running through the lot, but that if the city would vacate 10 feet of the street he could go ahead with his plans.

Two engineers appeared before the council to talk street improvement, Don Price and Douglas McKnight, both of Lincoln. Both outlined their ideas of what could be done, and each asked $600 to make a preliminary survey.

The professionals took a little longer look into Ords future than most persons wanted to consider, in their discussion of the improvement program. McKnight told city dads that is is only a question of time until Ord will have to do something about a sewage disposal plant, and that will mean separation of present combination storm and sanitary sewers.

In view of this, he stated, it might be greater economy to put paving on some blocks instead of curb & gutter, but that some storm sewer would have to be placed to eliminate bad drainage conditions. McKnight cited 19th street as an example, in the area between the high school and the Catholic church.

Both engineers agreed that a contemplated 30 block curb project on M and N streets would not offer much drainage problem, but that the area north of the highway would entail additional work other than straight curb & gutter and surface drainage.

C. E. Palmatier, Oldest Pioneer of All, Laid to Rest

Ord Resident Dies After Illness of 10 Days; Friends Mourn.

Charles Palmatier, Valley county pioneer and one of the county's oldest and most highly respected citizens, passed away at the Ord Cooperative hospital early June 1st, at the age of 95 years, three months and twenty-three days. His death was the result of a stroke which he suffered May 23. He was born in New York state in 1856.

He leaves to mourn his passing, his beloved wife Ettie, whom he married in 1881; three sons, Marshall of Wilmington, Calif., Edmund, of Boise, Ida., and Ellery of Chicago; four daughters, Stella Grindey, Loretta Frazier and Grace Rowe of Chicago and Alice Reed of North Hollywood, Calif.; eleven grandchildren, seven great-grandchildren, and one great-great-grandchild, besides his many friends and acquaintances.

Mr. Palmatier came to Nebraska in 1878, homesteaded at Geranium in 1879. He was a mail carrier of the early days, and ran the post office at Geranium for 17 years. Leaving the farm in 1910, he was a resident of Ord until the time of his death. A man of absolute integrity, he will long be remembered by the old friends and neighbors who knew him best.

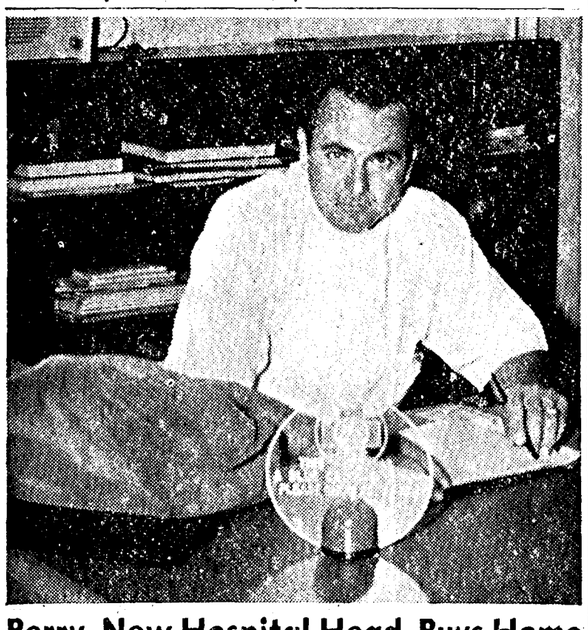
Marlene Quits, Quiz Has New Reporter

After serving two years on the Quiz staff as a reporter, Miss Marlene Bresley last week resigned her position and Monday morning went to work in the Overland National bank at Grand Island. The Quiz was sorry to have Marlene go.

A new reporter began work on the Quiz staff this week, Miss Coralee Anderson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Anderson. She just completed a two-year course at Colorado Women's college, Denver, where she majored in journalism, and the Quiz thinks she'll work into the reporting job in fine style.

Please phone 30 when you have local or society news items and Miss Anderson will answer your call.



Perry, New Hospital Head, Buys Home

Frank E. Perry, R.N., the new manager of the Ord Cooperative hospital, Tuesday purchased the home of Mr. and Mrs. Lynn Rogers on west O street, consideration being $9,850. He sold his home in Oakland upon accepting the Ord appointment and hopes to move his family here at once.

Under Mr. Perry's able management, and with a new staff, the Ord hospital is running smoothly and efficiently.

Plant Diseases Spreading in Wet, Cool Weather

Dale Advises Spraying Now With Bordeau Mixture, Etc.

Cool, wet weather such as we've been having recently and which we had all last summer is very favorable for the propogation and spread of certain plant diseases and blights, says County Agent C. C. Dale.

Both town and country gardeners have had a lot of trouble with strawberry leaf spot. Brown spots apear on the leaves, and spread rapidly under favorable conditions, resulting in dead leaves and sometimes killing the pant. Control consists of spraying frequently about every week or ten days with bordeaux mixture. This will not cure the affected parts but will prevent the spread of the disease and permit new growth. Spraying should be started as soon as the trouble is noticed, or if the disease was present last year it is well to start control sprays early and continue until the berries are almost mature.

Other diseases which played havoc with the gardens last year were the septoria leaf spot, the bacterial leaf spot, and blight of tomatoes. With these diseases it is also well to start the work of prevention before the diseases appear. Frequent praying with bordeaux mixture, or with spray materials containing fixed metallic copper are most effective in preventing these diseases from gaining a foothold. Dusts containing fixed metallic copper may also be used but are not as effective as sprays. After the entire plant shows evidence of disease, control measures are of very little value.

Dean Avers Buys Store from Steen

Dean Avers of Sutton, Nebr., purchased Frazier's Furniture store from Wm. Steen this week, and is now in charge of his new enterprise.

Wednesday of this week Mr. Steen enrolled in the University of Nebraska school of medicine, fulfilling a life-long dream of "wanting to become a doctor."

Mr. Steen's family will follow him to Lincoln in about ten days, and as soon as they move, the Bruce Covey family will move to the Steen home which they purchased. Mr. Avers will bring his family from Sutton and occupy the Zikmund resident at 19th & M streets, formerly occupied by the Coveys.

The new owner has spent 12 years in the furniture business, both wholesale and retail, in Lincoln and in Sutton. He is a native of Davenport, Nebr., his wife, Marie, a native of Dorchester, Nebr. They have an 8 months old daughter. Mr. Avers is a brother of Mrs. Leonard Cronk and the Cronks will also move here from Lincoln as soon as their new home on the corne rof 21st and O streets is completed. Mr. Cronk will practice law here.

K. A. Shepherd New Ord Pastor

Rev. R. E. Daughetee will leave Ord for Morrill about June 11 and Rev. Keith A. Shepherd, now at Sterling, will take his place for the next year, according to the locations assigned at the annual conference of Nebraska Methodist ministers at McCook, from May 30 to June 4.

Rev. Shepherd's wife, daughter of 11 years and four year old son will arrive with the new minister.

At the conference a business meeting was held in which the previously submited reports of the past year were viewed and acted upon. Several hundred people attended the various meetings, according to Rev. Daughtee. The Ord church choir sang at the Friday banquet and traveled to and from McCook in donated cars.

Dr. Glen Auble represented Ord laymen at the conference and Mr. O. A. Kellison, chairman of the board of the Ord church, was also a representative.

Doug Dale Winner at Albion Tournament

Four Ord golfers attended the Albion Invitational Golf Tournament Sunday, June 3, with Doug Dale of Ord walking away with the crown. Al Blessing finished just behind Dale to cop second in the tourney.

A field of 88 golfers were entered in the tourney, 24 of them in the championship flight. Three rounds were played on the nine hole course and par for the three rounds was 108. Doug Dale's winning score was a two under par, 106, and Blessing's was 110 for second place. The two other Ord golfers, Don Hill and Ed Sands, also finished low in the championship flight with scores of 115 and 117 respectively.

Fishing Good, Two Hooked on Same Lure

Fishing was good Sunday morning, especially at the Dr. F. J. Osentowski home where two little "suckers" were hooked on one bass lure and caused a great deal of excitement among friends, relatives and the Ord hospital staff.

Francis, the Osentowski seven year old, and his brother Richard, three, were arguing over who was the best fisherman and exploring the contents of their father's tackle box. When both boys reached for the same nine-pronged plug at the same time, both were "hooked."

Loud yells proclaimed the unpleasant accident and their mother called her brother, Rollie Johnson, for help. After unhooking one boy, he rushed the other to the hospital where Frank Perry, R. N., extracted the second hook and prescribed two ice-cream cones as further treatment.

3 Important Games Face Mustangs This Week; Need Wins

Wood River Comes to Ord Tonight; Shelton, Sun.; Both Important.

Mid-Nebraska Night League Standings.
(Includes Sunday, June 3)

TEAM	W.	L.	Pct.
Loup City	5	1	.833
Shelton	3	1	.750
Ravenna	2	1	.667
Ord	2	2	.500
St. Paul	2	2	.500
Wood River	1	3	.250
Boelus	0	5	.000

In the next five days the Ord Mustangs must play three Mid-Nebraska Night league games, two of them under the lights of the Ord athletic field, and if they can pull all three out of the fire it will send them well up toward the top in league standings.

Tonight Wood River comes to Ord for its first meeting with Ord. While only a notch above the league cellar, Wood River has a better team than the record indicates. They are especially strong on Wednesday nights when they have the services of several Nebraska Independent League players.

Bill Beasley is slated for the mound job by Manager Johnson. He has had a long rest and should turn in a winning performance. If his mates hit the ball as they did against Ravenna a victory should result.

Sunday night the Shelton Colts come to Ord. This team beat the Mustangs with an 8th inning rally on their previous meeting.

But before they play Shelton, the Mustangs must travel to St. Paul Friday to play off a postponed game and Novosad without doubt will be Johnson's mound choice. Bill is pitching great ball this year and if given good support and a few runs to work on St. Paul will find him plenty hot to handle.

Right now it looks like Loup City is the team to beat. Ravenna is the only team that has been able to beat them in the first round of play. Shelton, Ord and St. Paul look to be about equal with Ord improving fast. Ravenna and Wood River are strong Wednesdays, weaker Sundays because of using NIL players and this policy won't work, as Ord learned through experience last season. Boelus, the cellar dweller is the hard luck team of the league, having lost three games by 1-run margins. Now that Andy Jensen is back in shape and playing regularly they figure to win some games.

Size of the crowd that braved a bitterly cold night to watch Ord beat Ravenna Sunday was pleasing to the management and players. Given warmer weather tonight and Sunday tremendous crowds should jam the stands, for the Mustangs are putting out a classy brand of ball and fighting hard for the top rung of the league ladder.

Hugh Carson Seeks Post as Governor

Ord Senator Reveals G.O.P. Candidate Aim

State Sen. Hugh Carson of Ord this week announced his candidacy for the republican nomination for governor in the 1952 election.

Carson said, he would submit his filing soon to the secretary of state.

The Ord lawmaker, now serving his second term, is the first to announce his intention to seek Gov. Val Peterson's office.

CARSON SAID HE would not resign as the representative of the 29th legislative district because he wants to serve on the legislative council committee which will study the state's highway problems. He was a co-introducer of a bill in the last legislature to create a highway commission. The measure was defeated. Carson said he would make the highway commission an issue in his campaign.

In a statement, Carson said he was opposed to "monopolistic and special interest legislation" and would continue to fight it from the governor's office if he is elected. As a senator he fired frequent blasts at the state's wholesale liquor business and its legislative lobby which he termed "a vicious monopoly . . . an evil thing."

Carson was responsible for the liquor investigation conducted by the 1951 legislature. He said Saturday night that although no legislation was recommended by the committee assigned to the subject, he felt the public had been given an insight into the "workings of this monopoly."

Hugh Carson

THE 51-YEAR-OLD legislator said he thinks that the state should do more for aged persons on assistance rolls as the cost of living continues to mount. He cited salary increases voted by the 1951 senate and compared them to the legislature's refusal to raise the old age assistance grant ceiling.

Carson was the introducer in the recent legislative session of L.B. 134 which increaed teacher retirement benefits. He also wrote several revenue measures, aimed at the racing and liquor interests. Only one, which raised the wholesale whisky tax, was approved. It was the only tax meaure passed during the entire session.

BORN IN ORD, the senator attended schools there and in Omaha and is a graduate of the University of Nebraska where he was an outstanding track performer. He is a former member of the Ord city council and is now engaged in farm and ranch operation in Valley county. His wife is the former Tamar Round, daughter of a pioneer Valley county sheriff, George S. Round.

Carson has been particularly active in promotion of soil conservation and 4-H club work in the four county area comprising the 29th legislative district. Two years ago he started a foundation herd of purebred Herefords.

He served in the navy in World War I. He is a member of the Presbyterian church, American Legion, Masons, Shrine, Elks, Rotary, Delta Upsilon, Phi Delta Phi, Sigma Delta Chi, Innocents Society and the "N" club.

Rose Pierson's Fall Confines Her to Bed

Mrs. Rose Pierson has been kept in bed by badly bruised knees since she tripped and fell on her basement floor Monday morning, May 28.

While her injuries are not serious, Margaret Annyas has been caring for Mrs. Pierson under the supervision of Dr. R. J. Lynn.

The accident happened while Mrs. Pierson was doing her washing. She set a basket of clothes on the floor and, turning around quickly, she tripped on a piece of rolled linoleum and fell on the cement floor.

Unusual Ceremony Used in Breaking Ground for Church

After their morning services in the Legion hall Sunday morning, the Ord Presbyterian congregation went to the site of their new church where Rev. Allen Strong conducted an unusual ground breaking ceremony. Shown here with spades and shovels (left to right) are A. F. Kosmata, Dr. F. L. Blessing, C. C. Dale, Guy Burrows, James Ollis, Mr. Strong, H. T. Frazier, Duane Armstrong, Edwin Armstrong and C. J. Mortensen.

The old church structure has been reduced to rubble and this is being removed rapidly. Construction of the new building will start as soon as the site is cleared.

City Dads Set Budget Same as Last Year

Plan Spending $55,700 for All Non-Plant Uses.

From all appearances the amount of money to be spent by the City of Ord during the fiscal year beginning May 1 will be the same as last year.

Tuesday night the city council adopted a budget of $55,700 in all funds, exclusive of the light and water plants.

The annual budget is an informal one, as the council will not get down to cases and figure actual dollars and cents and mill levies until they pass their annual appropriation ordinance later this month.

Here are the estimates for 1951-1952 as adopted:

Water Fund	$ 1,000
Road Fund	7,500
General Fund	12,000
Cemetery Fund	2,500
Fire Department	1,500
Park Fund	5,000
Band Fund	700
Street Lighting	4,000
Sinking	15,000
Airport	2,500
Interest	4,000
Total	$55,700

Last year the city collected a trifle over $43,000 in tax and cash funds, exclusive of the light and water plant. It started the fiscal year with a cash balance of $27,000, ended with a balance of $40,000.

The figures include cemetery perpetual maintenance which grew during the year from $12,000 to $13,700.

During the year just past the city retired regular bonds to the tune of $16,000, reducing the indebtness to $67,000. Plans for the fiscal year ahead call for retirement of $15,000 in bonds.

City Bonds outstanding include:

Refunding (city hall)	$30,000
Aviation Field	19,000
Park Improvement	15,000
Sewer	3,000
Total	$67,000

During the year the city light and water department did a gross business of $147,000. It had started the year with $88,000 cash on hand. A total of $25,000 in bonds were retired, and the department ended the year with $74,000 cash on hand. Of the $280,000 building and refunding bond issued, $255,000 remains unpaid.

Ord Boys Leave on Summer Cruise

Mr. and Mrs. George Anderson went to Lincoln last Thursday to start their son, Bill, on his summer cruise with the NROTC. Bill, Galen Allen and 98 other Nebraska ROTC members traveled to Norfolk, Va. From there they will go to the USS Missouri and sail for Norway, France and the Mediterranean on a two months long trip.

Graduate Nurse

Peggy M. O'Halloran, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James L. O'Halloran, received a graduate nurse degree at Creighton university in Omaha on May 31.

Miss O'Halloran has been taking her training at St. Joseph's nurses school in Omaha for the last three years, besides taking classes at Creighton. She plans to stay at St. Josephs hospital as a nurse.

When Is a Buck Not a Buck?

Tom "Buck" Williams, of Ord, raises giant white rabbits to eat and so does Leslie Nash.

Recently Buck had a big buck that he was proud of and to bring new blood lines into his herd he arranged a trade with Mr. Nash.

He penned the big buck up in a separate hutch and told Leslie to come and get him and bring his own buck in exchange, but before Nash got around to picking up the Williams' buck the Williams' "buck" gave birth to a fine litter of little white bunnies.

Yes, you've guessed the right anwer to the headline query: "When its a doe."

No Crime Wave Makes Good News

Valley county's wave of petty violations apparently came to a halt this week with no cases filed in either county or district court for the past ten days.

Quipped county judge Ellsworth Ball, jr., "Guess people are just too busy to be ornery."

Only violation recorded was in city police court where Police Judge John Sullivan fined J. J. Campbell $5 and costs for speeding. Campbell was arrested by city police on order of Mayor F. L. Blessing.

32 Members of 1926 Ord Class Meet in Joyful Reunion

Ralph Misko Presides, Hager Shows Slides; Cushing Speaker.

After two years of planning, Ord high school's class of 1926 held a 25 year reunion at the Masonic hall on May 31.

Thirty-two graduates out of a class of 66 were able to attend the dinner and evening's entertainment. Beside the former classmates, there were 28 guests who had been connected with the group in various ways.

Dinner was served at 6:30 p. m. by the women of the W.S.C.S. Methodist church. Dr. Chauncey Hager of Denver showed slides of the class as it looked in 1926, made from snapshots which had been sent to him by the numerous owners. Bert Cushing, superintendent of Ord schools in 1926 and president of Kearney state teachers college for the past 15 years, spoke on what schools mean to everyone and what the home school means to each individual.

Ralph Misko was the master of ceremonies for the evening. He, and his wife who also attended, have two children at their home in York where he is the executive vice-president of the First National bank.

The class will, written by absentee Lloyd Parks of North Platte, was read by Mrs. W. T. Spelts (Frances Bradt) and the class prophecy, written by the absent Mrs. A. M. Gardner (Fern Winder) of Illinois, was read by Mrs. Albert Sorensen.

The class mate who traveled the greatest distance was Martin Frederick of Mound, Minn., a town near Minneapolis. He is the brother of Lelia and Vivian Frederick of Ord.

Ralph Misko and Dr. Hager originated the idea of the class reunion when they met at a football game in Denver two years ago. The plan was discussed with other class members and C. C. Thompson, present superintendent of Ord schools, was written for the names and most recent addresses of the students. Mrs. Lores McMindes and Dr. Hager began contacting the class and succeeded in reaching all except one person by checking with relatives, friends and former employers. The one missing student is Marie Wilson who moved from Ord shortly after graduation.

Federal Aid Asked for County Road

Application for federal aid and the designation of the road as a secondary highway was asked by Valley county commissioners in their regular meeting Tuesday, for the county line road between Comstock and Arcadia.

Custer county is making identical application. Main object of the petition is to provide for the rebuilding of the old wooden bridge across the Middle Loup between the two towns. If the applications are approved, the state will provide engineering for the project, the federal government will pay half the cost of bridge construction and Valley and Custer counties will split the other half.

—Mr. and Mrs. Charles Ackles and Doug were guests of Mr. and Mrs. Adrian Kusek on Friday evening for supper.

C. E. Palmatier, Oldest Pioneer of All, Laid to Rest

Ord Resident Dies After Illness of 10 Days; Friends Mourn.

Funeral services were held from the Methodist church at 2:30 Sunday afternoon, Rev. R. E. Daughetee officiating, with Hastings and Pearson in charge of arrangements. Lucille Tolen sang, with Mrs. Viola Kellison at the piano. The pallbearers were Elmer Zlomke, Don Dong, Wilbur Rogers, O. E. Patchen, Robert Noll and M. B. Cummins. Mr. and Mrs. John Haskell had charge of the flowers. Burial was in Graceland cemetery.

Charles Palmatier was born in New York state, at Youngsville, Sullivan county, March 9, 1856, and first came to Nebraska in 1878. With him came a friend, John S. Wheeler, who once lived north of Elyria. They walked from Grand Island to St. Paul, and the next day got a job off-bearing brick in a brick yard owned by a man named Dory DeVry. This yard was located on the river near St. Paul.

Mr. Palmatier's next job was working for Zach Leftwich in a mill on Spring Creek. He worked in the mill and also fed hogs. His first work at Ord was teaming in flour for S. S. Haskell, who at that time ran a store in the old Transit House, now located on the corner north of Hotel Ord, but then located about where the U. P. shops used to be.

It was a rather risky trip in those days. It took two days each way and camp was usually made over night near Scotia Junction. He stayed over night on some occasions with as much as $40 to $60 in his pocket, and that was a lot money in those days. He ran quite a chance of being held up and relieved of it, but happened to be lucky.

It was not far from that time that Palmatier came to Valley county and filed on a homestead where he later located the post office of Geranium. As the law required residence on the land only a small part of the time, he got out and worked wherever he could to get money to live on. He was helping put up hay on the Calamus between the Skull and the Bloody when he got his first mail job.

Another man had the contract, but he got Charley to do the carrying for him. He started carrying mail on horseback and carried it until the famous blizzard of 1880 hit on Oct. 15 and 16. His route was between Hartsuff and Fort Niobrara, a distance of 160 miles through the hills. He lost two horses in that blizzard and never went back to the job.

He would sometimes see as many as one hundred Indians on a single mail trip. Mostly they were peaceable, but a mail carrier can take no chances so he had little to do with them. One day he saw an Indian traveling to head him off, and tried to get past him, but got headed off. He asked the red man what he wanted and he answered "Tobac."

It happened that Charley had bought a plug of chewing tobacco at the store. It was about an inch square and four inches long. He broke it in two across his knee and gave the Indian the smaller piece. He looked as though he would like to have the larger piece, but he did not get it.

While living in New York state Mr. Palmatier had taken a fancy to a girl somewhat younger than himself, and in 1881 he went back and persuaded Ettie Conklin to come back with him as his wife and make a home for him on his quarter section of land, which he had proved up on that year. They lived on the homestead and raised a large family of children.

Palmatier also carried mail for "Bill" W. H. Williams from St. Paul to Ord and on to St. Helena. He never had a chance to go to school, but nobody would believe it after visiting him. His mind was clear until the last, and he never was at loss for the answers for any questions friends asked him.

In the ealy '80s Solon Pierson, a brother of Perry and uncle of Claence, started the original Geranium post office. Later John Wolfe took it over and then it went to Herbert Losey. Mr. and Mrs. Palmatier got it from Losey and kept it for some time after the turn of the century, when it was discontinued with the coming of rural free delivery. Mrs. Palmatier had much of the work of taking care of the office while her husband was engaged in other work.

There was no salary connected with the office and he got only about $30 for the year's work, which of course was not worth the trouble. After a while the post office closed at Manderson a few miles north and Geranium got the extra business. H. F. Rhodes was postmaster of the Manderson office.

Palmatier did any kind of work he could get in those days. He worked on the railroad between St. Paul and North Loup before the line was extended to Ord. He says that A. J. "Bud" Shirley cast his first vote at the Palmatier house in Geranium. When Mr. and Mrs. R. B. Miller, still living in Burwell, were married at the Dies House in Ord, Charley was at the wedding.

He was one of the few men still living who knew how to build a sod house. He never belonged to any secret society, and did not believe in them. Geranium was on the wagon route from east to west, and people always planned to stop at the Palmatier home over night. They were always welcome. He lived to be the oldest living mail carrier, the oldest Quiz subscriber and probably the oldest living citizen in Valley county.

In 1910 Mr. Palmatier built a home in east Ord and the family has lived there since that time. In 1911 they made a visit to their old home in New York state. He was always a busy man, and had a fine garden at his home when death called him. The fine character of both Mr. and Mrs. Palmatier is shown by the loving care of their children for them.

Midgets Win 13-1, But Junior Legion Loses to St. Paul

The Ord VFW Midgets defeated the St. Paul Midgets by a 13 to 1 score on the St. Paul diamond Sunday afternoon. Their teammates in the double-header, the Junior Legion, were victims of a no-hit, no-run, ball game pitched by Lukasiewicz of St. Paul.

The midgets collected 13 runs from six hits while Ign. Piskorski, midget pitcher, gave up only three hits. Bateries for St. Paul were Jepsen, Keller and Johnson. Catching for Piskorski was Jim Douthit.

The Junior Legion was defeated 4 to 0 as Lukasiewicz of St. Paul refused to give up any hits and was backed by errorless ball. Ord's pitcher, Paul Patrick, gave up only four hits, but his teammates made three errors. Lukasiewicz was credited with 15 strike out and Patrick 11. Catching for Ord was V. Witherwax and Edwards for St. Paul.

This was the second win for the midgets who also defeated Loup City on Memorial Day. For the Junior Legion it was their first game of the season.

The next game for both the teams is a double-header on the Ord diamond Sunday, June 10. They will play the Burwell Midgets and Burwell Legion, starting promptly at two o'clock. This is a Wheaties day—a case goes to each home run hitter.

Upon conclusion of the season, winner of this district will compete with winners of other nearby districts for the right to enter state competition.

Mustangs Rampage to 10-0 Victory Over Ravenna Club

Pound Out 13 Safeties While Bill Novosad Gives Stingy 3 Blows.

The Ord Mustangs were on a rampage Sunday night and behind the steady 3-hit pitching of Bill Novosad they pounded out 13 blows to beat a good Ravenna club, 10 to 0.

The way they were pounding the ball and playing defensively Ravenna could have been the New York Yankees, for all Manager Rol Johnson's Mustangs cared.

For two innings it looked like a tight ball game and the score was tied 0-0 when the Mustangs came to bat in the bottom half of the third. Before they quit batting 6 runs had scored on 6 hits and one Ravenna error and Al Guzinski, the starting pitcher for Ravenna was on his way to the showers.

Art Treischman, erstwhile Grand Island manager, took over after 5 of the runs had scored and Bill Novosad was the only Ord man to get a hit off him until the 7th inning when Mustang war clubs again rang merrily for 4 runs on 5 hits and an error. Treischman managed to finish the game but it was mainly because Manager Johnson removed several heavy hitters from his line-up to give experience to younger players.

Ord played superlative defensive ball throughout. Only error was by Dugan, who in the 6th knocked down a hard smash by R. Jensen that seemed ticketed for a hit, but overthrew first. Ord made one nice double play, Moore to Novosad to Finley. Finley made a sensational stop of a hard hit drive, getting back to his base in time to take the throw from Novosad, who was backing him up, for the out. And Novosad himself made a couple of one handed stops that brought applause from the crowd. For the first time this year Ord had a smoothly working infield.

Bill Novosad gave 4 walks, hit one batsman and was nicked for 3 singles. In several innings he had himself in trouble by losing the first man to face him, but he always had the stuff the pull out. He struck out 9 batters.

Frosts and Floods Miss Ord Area; Weather Chilly

Though both the frosts and the floods which have plagued other sections of the state left Ord alone during the past week, temperatures have definitely been on the chilly side here. Coldest registered was on the night of Monday, June 4, according to Horace Travis, when his official thermometer registered 37. North of town, he says, white frost was reported along with some slight damage to tender garden crops.

Only .17 of an inch of moisture has fallen here since last Thursday, the Travis report shows, and total rainfall up to Wednesday noon for the year was 10.67, nearly an inch more than had fallen by the same date last year.

But the season has been unusual in many ways. Sunday night a big flock of pelicans was observed near Ord. Usually these birds are hundreds of miles farther north by this time of year. And a flock of purple martins, a bird rarely seen here, apparently is thinking of nesting in this vicinity. There seem to be about six pairs in the flock. Usually they nest in Canada.

Alfalfa and all field crops are making rapid growth but the cool, wet weather also has been propitious for cutworms, greenbugs, scab, blight and other insect and fungous pests.

High waters of the Loup river Sunday and Monday came not from local rainfall but from a flash flood in the Taylor area. Eastern Nebraska and southwestern Nebraska streams caused flood conditions in many communities. And along the Dakota and Wyoming lines heavy frosts hit three nights in a row.

Practice Schedule for Ord Baseball Field Announced

At a recent meeting of the Ord city council, Gene Leggett, as a representative of the Ord Baseball club, was appointed scheduling authority for the season for the Ord baseball field, this action being taken so that all groups playing baseball here might be assigned practice and game times in an orderly manner. A practice schedule has now been drawn up, as follows:

Monday evenings—Ord Plugs.

Tuesday evenings—Junior Legion.

Wednesday evenings (when Ord Mustangs are playing away from home)—Midgets, 5:00 to 6:30; Ord Plugs, after 6:30.

Thursday evenings—Junior Legion.

Friday evenings—Midgets.

The Midgets and Junior Legion will have use of the field for games on all Sunday afternoon in their schedule, as printed elsewhere in this issue; other Sunday afternoons the field is open for games to these or other groups but they must schedule them in advance with Mr. Leggett so there will be no conflicts. On Sunday nights when the Mustangs play away from home the lighted field is available for other games, upon payment of usual fee for lights and upkeep of grounds. The Mustangs may take over the field any night necessary to play off postponed games or to play exhibition contests regardless of practice schedule outlined above.

Bill Dugan 'Makes' Ord's Infield and Fans Now Happy

Greeley Co. Boy Again in Mustangs Uniform; Hits, Fields, Well.

Return of Bill Dugan to the Ord infield Sunday night was hailed with rejoicing by fans who had watched Manager Johnson struggle with several different combinations of players, without bringing forth a tight infield. Dugan's speed and enthusiasm literally "makes" the Ord infield.

With Dugan at shortstop, Johnson was able to put Bud Novosad back at second, a position he plays with great grace and aplomb, and shift Rol Moore to third base, where he showed to good advantage Sunday. Finley remains a fixture at first.

In Dick Nelson the Ord team has a capable understudy for either Moore or Dugan, should either be injured.

For the outfield Johnson has Dan Dilla, Bob Philbrick and Dick Beran, with Rol Beran and Jack Koll as possible substitutes. Koll can also play third base capably if needed there. Johnson himself is at home anywhere in the infield or outfield while Bill Beasley, when he isn't pitching, can play acceptably at second or in the outfield. Both he and Manager Johnson are extremely capable pinch hitters, and Bill Novosad looked Sunday like his batting eye is back again, which will allow him to be used as a pinch hitter or bunter if occasion should arise while Beasley is on the mound.

All in all it looks like Manager Johnson has rounded up a capable group, nearly all local, who will give every team in the league a tussle before it gives up. In Stan Johnson he has one of the better catchers in the league; in fact his play in 4 games to date has been better than that of any opposing catcher, not excepting Billesbach of Loup City.

Hospital Notes

Mrs. Bill Beran's condition is improved.

Mrs. Lavonne Maurice has been in the hospital for minor surgery.

North Loup Wins 2 to 1 Oyer Elba in S-H League

Palmer, Ashton and North Loup were winners of Sherman-Howard league baseball games Sunday.

Verplank, Palmer hurler, threw a five-hit shut out to lead his mates to a 12-0 victory over Farwell at Palmer. Palmer garnered 13 hits off three Farwell pitchers and used six errors to advantage.

Score by innings:

Palmer	3	0	0	4	2	0	3	0x	12	13	3

Batteries: Stefanowicz, L. Lukasiewicz, Wysocki and D. Lukasiewicz, R. Borzych; Verplank and Gee.

Jakubowski of Ashton and Beck of Scotia clashed in a pitcher's duel at Scotia, with Jakubowski and Ashton winning 4-3. Scotia was limited to three hits and Ashton garnered only five safeties.

Score by innings:

Ashton	1	0	0	0	0	0	0	0	4	5	3
Scotia	0	0	0	1	0	0	2	0	0	3	3

Batteries: Jakubowski and Billesbach; Beck and C. Johnson.

A pair of runs in the second inning were enough as North Loup nipped Elba 2-1 at Elba Sunday. Hutchins, on the mound for North Loup, and G. Spilinek, hurling for Elba, each threw a four-hitter. Each team had only one error.

Score by innings:

North Loup	0	2	0	0	0	0	0	0	2	4	1

Batteries: Hutchins and Vail; G. Spilinek and Pavlik.

Next Sunday's schedule will send Elba to Palmer, North Loup to Scotia and Ashton to Farwell.

Sherman-Howard league standings:

	W.	L.	Pct.
Ashton	6	1	.855
Farwell	4	3	.571
Elba	3	4	.429

St. Paul Gunning for Mustangs Friday

Game Rained Out on Memorial Day to Be Played Off.

Weather permitting, the game that was rained out on Memorial Day between the Ord Mustangs and St. Paul will be played off on the St. Paul field Friday night this week and the Apostles will be gunning for Ord.

Their star hurler, Dayton Jensen, let Wood River down with a 4 hitter Sunday night and should be in top form for Ord after a 5 day rest. But Bill Novosad, who allowed Ravenna only 3 blows, should be equally rested by that time, as Manager Johnson figures on using Beasley against Wood River tonight (Wednesday) on the Ord field.

A big Ord crowd always accompanies the team when it plays at St. Paul and although highway conditions are bad and slow driving is indicated this game probably will be no exception.

Ed Lenz Farm Was Quickly Identified Thursday

In 1905 Ed Lenz bought from Abe Gibson an unimproved 160 acre farm in Mira Valley, paying $30 an acre for it. Then, while living with his wife's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Koelling, he built a house and sunk a well on his new farm, and in 1906 he and Mrs. Lenz moved into it. This farm has been the Lenz home place ever since. It was the subject of last week's "Mystery Farm" photo in the Quiz, reprinted above.

Three years ago when his wife died Mr. Lenz turned over all farming operations to his son Edwin but he continues to live at the home place with Edwin, his wife and their two children. His daughter, Mrs. Alfred Burson, lives near by.

The Lenz' family carries on extensive farming and feeding operations. A 240 acre tract of cultivated land has been added to the original quarter section and they also own 867 acres of adjacent pasture land. On the home place there are now 17 buildings, some of which don't show in the photo, including the big new elevator. There also are 9 buildings on the tenant farm. Mr. Lenz and his son aim to have 100 to 150 cattle in the feed lot the year around, backed up by 150 more on pasture.

Edwin Lenz says they had no trouble identifying the Quiz photo, although the fact that the elevator didn't show because of trees and the angle at which the picture was shot, confused them for a few minutes.

Mr. Lenz, sr., says that in the land boom after World War I the home quarter section could easily have been sold at $200 per acre. What it is worth now, with even more of an inflation in effect, he declined to say. The Lenz', father and son, unite in being opposed to federal price control of beef. "Things were going along all right before they started enforcing the regulation and with pork and poultry cheap, beef prices would have taken care of themselves," is their opinion. Asked what their future plans are for feed lot operations, under controls, Edwin Lenz said: Well, it depends on the price of feeder cattle. If we can't buy them right we won't feed as many."

Free Publicity.

It is inevitable that the Quiz, together with all other newspapers, must give a measure of free publicity. The publication of news of any kind is publicity for somebody. The question that the editor must ask himself in regard to every story offered for publication is whether the news interest is sufficient to offset the amount of publicity that goes with it.

For, example, a local man makes a new invention. He is entitled to a news story about it, and the Quiz is only too glad to give it to him. But after that story is published, the public has presumbly been informed as to the nature of the new idea, who made it and all the details connected with it. Any further stories would only be repetition and would be classed as free publicity or advertising.

No one realizes more than does the editor the vast amount of free publicity the government of the United States through its multitudinous agencies expects the country newspapers of the nation to publish. It comes to the Quiz every day, takes up valuable room in the box at the post office, is carried into the newspaper office. It is checked over and most of it finds its way into the waste basket.

Roughly figured, if all this material were printed every week, we would be forced to print a four page supplement, and even then we would have material left over. Further, if we did print it, not one person in fifty would read as much as a single column, and, if he did, the chances are that he would not understand what he was reading. Government publicity material is written that way.

With ten times as many bureaus operating today as we had twenty years ago and each of them trying with might and main to impress the public with its individual importance, the government printing presses are running at full capacity putting out all kinds of advertising in the guise of pamphlets, trying to guide the thinking of the people, and the people are paying the bill through taxes.

The apparent principle of all government bulletins is not to clarify the proposition for the reader, but to befuddle him, to bury him under a mountain of multisyllable words where simple statements would serve the purpose much better. There seems to be an idea prevalent among these publicity seekers that the use of high sounding but meaningless phrases will inculcate respect for the bureau using them.

This proposition of free publicity was bad enough when the government had the regular departments of pre-Roosevelt days, but today, with ten times as many bureaus and departments as there were then, the accumulation gives Alvin Wells about all he can carry out at one load at the end of the week. Mostly newly organized bureaus are unpopular, some of them deservedly so. They expect the newspaper to sell them to the public without remuneration.

The Quiz is supposed to give this publicity free while the local advertisers, the fellows who make the publication of a weekly newspaper possible, are paying for their space at the regular advertised rates. On the basis of taking up four pages, and this estimate is conservative, we would be giving between two and three hundred dollars per week to agencies that gave us nothing in return.

Further, we would not be printing the opinion of the Quiz writers or the Quiz readers. We would be printing the opinions of the fellows in Washington who want to change our way of thinking, and some of them would feel much better about it if they could compel us to do so. Today there is a strong undercurrent toward a controlled press. If this is permitted to expand and continue, the American free press is gone...

If that time should come we would find ourselves in the same position as the newspapers in communist controlled nations, papers which print only what they are permitted to print, and nothing else.

—Dr. W. R. Nay is in Ord on Tuesday and Friday at office of Dr. Zeta Nay. 29-tfc

Our National Flag.

On June 14 Old Glory will observe another birthday, this time the hundred and seventy fourth. This may seem like a long time, but in reality it is not a long time in the history of nations. In spite of more than seventeen decades of national existence, we are still among the youngest nations of the world, and much younger than most of the nations of ancient times.

For example, the history of Egypt as a nation began more than five thousand years ago, and there still is an Egyptian nation today, under British influence, it is true, but still running its own affairs. The Greeks began making history many centuries before the Christian era and they still are a great people. The very language we speak is the youngest general tongue of all.

Since our nation is still in its childhood, it is but natural that we, as a people, should be more virile, that we should show more ability and enterprise, that we should be the wealthiest nation in the world. With the natural advantages we enjoy, we owe it to ourselves to take the fullest advantage of the opportunities we enjoy.

To do otherwise would be selfish, and we certainly are not a selfish nation. Today we are annually giving away more than the total cost of our government twenty years ago, and yet our vast resources are scarcely touched. We raise more and manufacture more than any other nation, and we also give more of it away.

Our national flag symbolizes the advantages that are ours in this land of liberty. When a thoughtful nation pauses to remember the birthday of Old Glory, it is well to remember that it is only 174 years ago that the flag waved "o'er the land of the free and the home of the brave." As a nation we are a kid in knee pants.

The present flag, the same as the original but for addition of stars as the states were added, was adopted by the Continental Congress. June 14, 1777. Before that time the colonies tried out three different flags, the Pine Tree flag, the Grand Union flag and the Rattle Snake flag.

The early colonies of America used the British flag, a white banner with the red cross of St. George, but in pre-revolutionary times they had flags of different colors with a device in the upper, left-hand corner or a tree, a hemisphere or some similar emblem. On the eve of the revelution many flags expressed defiance of Great Britain.

After the battle of Lexington a flag bearing the arms of the colony was used, and ships leaving New York used a flag upon which a beaver was represented. The Pine Tree flag was flown from many ships when Washington was head of the continental army. At Richmond in September, 1775 was displayed, the blue flag with a crescent in the upper left-hand corner, which flag later bore the inscription, "Give me Liberty or give me Death."

The flag flown by Washington in Cambridge, Mass. in 1776, had thirteen red and white alternating stripes with the union jack where the stars are now. One of the most popular flags of this time bore the device of a coiled rattle snake having thirteen rattles and the motto, "Don't Tread on Me."

A flag of blue with eight stars was used in Rhode Island, 1776-1777.

The resolution by the Continental Congress June 14, 1777, read: "That the flag of the 13 states be thirteen stripes, red and white, that the Union be 13 stars in white on a blue field, representing a new constellation." In 1818 the stripes were limited to 13, with a star for each state. On Oct. 26, 1912, President Taft, by executive order specified the 6 rows of 8 stars each, the flag of today.

The minister drove the second-hand car back to the garage where he had bought it: "I want to return this car to you," he said, "I can't drive it any more."

"Anybody can drive that car," fumed the dealer.

"Not and stay in the ministry."

The hillbilly's son went to the city and made good. Thinking of the inconveniences of his boyhood life, he bought a bathtub and had it shipped to his father.

His parent sent a grateful letter thanking him for the present, and added: "I went down to the depot and raised hell. They lost the oars someplace."

A smart publisher suggested recently that the word normal should be deleted from the dictionary and from conversation and writing because the word describes a condition that has not existed since 1914 and is not likely to exist in the lifetime of anyone now living.

We are in for abnormality, he said, and must make the best of it, taking up each new day and year on its merits.

Over at the Vets club the other evening a few of the boys were idly musing just how a former Navy pharmacist's mate would go about running the hospital. Said one ex-sailor: "Just so he doesn't make the patients get out of the sack on Saturday to clean their own room for inspection and then give 'em beans for breakfast!"

—ped—

Which brings to mind a favorite old story:

"But, doc," argued the sailor, "I'm here for an eye exam. I don't have to take off my clothes for that!"

"Strip down and get in line!" shouted the pharmacist's mate.

The sailor obeyed, but kept on grumbling. The fellow in front of him finally turned around and said: "What are you kicking about? I only came here to deliver a telegram!"

Birdhouses, kids, swimming pools, flowers, frosts, the sun is out, what shall I write about?

It is always a mystery to me. Yet each week something pops up. Maybe it's the little country lady who stops at the door and asks "Are you Irma Leggett?" I say yes, and she says, "Well, I just had to see what you look like!"

So I said for her to go ahead and look. Couldn't think of much to say after that. Could you?

The fields make such interesting patterns this time of the year, quiltwork patterns with here a green field and there a hilltop with its lovely contoured plowing going around in graceful curved rows.

It is delightful to take a drive and look off across the valley, the land is so inviting. The greens are young and luscious this time of the year, with little leaves their tender spring green.

oOo

Later the dust swoops up along the highways, rising high into the air to make ugly clouds, settling back on the greenery to blur the colors we now enjoy so much.

oOo

If it is fun to drive across the hilltops and view the valleys and fields, how much more fun it must be to fly across the world in the wonderful spring days.

From on high the countryside's bright patchwork must be truly marvellous.

oOo

But say, there's no such thing as lifting your eyes to admire the scenery when you drive that rutty, chuckholey, pestiferous highway down the valley from Ord.

It's a miracle how a fairly good highway can develop so many booby-traps in one winter!

Those frost-boils, or whatever they were, are more vicious than the communists. In this corner of the world, at least.

oOo

The class of 1926, which had a reunion dinner last week, thought the idea was wonderful, and that there should be a big reunion dinner for all Ord High alumni each spring, along about Memorial Day, when so many old settlers return here.

Other schools seem to like this practice.

Mrs. Keith Lewis said they tried it last year in Loup City, and liked it so much that they had a second alumni banquet this year. And as much fun as before!

oOo

I'm hating to see the old Presbyterian church torn down. It had individualism, a certain country charm. It always seemed to belong where it sat: more so than the buildings on other corners of that intersection.

A pretty church, sitting so suitably, one that I admire each time I pass, is the Catholic church at Elyria. The way that knoll is graded up, the slim white spire, all of it seems just right. Each time we pass on the highway, I thoroughly enjoy that scene.

oOo

When we drive to Minnesota the countryside is a pleasure to me, certain places particularly so.

And one of these remembered views is where we turn a corner and come over a slight rise, with Minnesota hills and valleys dropping away to the north of us. There is a village hidden there, I guess, though we have never stopped to see. At any rate, there's a tall, slender white church spire visible. Not the church, just the spire, can be seen. And none of the town.

It is ever so fascinating.

oOo

There used to be a remenberable place up north here, at Bartlett or somewhere, where sand seemed to be drowning a grove of evergreens, but I believe a newer highway has deserted that view.

Why do you remember some scenes, more than others?

Ward's What's Cookin' Column

In looking through the old files of the Quiz for the material for "When You and I Were Young," I often run across items that I have nearly forgotten about, but which are most interesting. I also note the names of old friends who had their part in public affairs in those days, but who are now gone, and all too rapidly are being forgotten. Perhaps it is just as well to be forgotten. It is only a question of time that we all will be forgotten. The Kings of Ancient Egypt figured they had found a way to immortality when they built the pyramids, but they were mistaken. The pyramids still stand, the names of the builders are known by a few scholars, but are of no interest to the great majority of the people.

That is the way it should be. The pyramids still stand, the names of the builders are known by a few scholars, but are of no interest to the great majority of the people.

That is the way it should be. The individual man is of relative significance, but the good things he did, or the evil, are the things that affect mankind, and are the things that are remembered long after our forms are returned to the earth from which they came. No one can measure the effect, for example, that the weekly column written by George Gowen ten years ago had on the minds of the people who read them. Individually the effect was not so great, perhaps, but in the aggregate the writer of "A Few Things To Think About" had quite an effect on the people who read his column, and the world is better for his having lived among us.

J. L. Abernethy had a letter in the Quiz Forum ten years ago. He not only spoke of George Gowen, but also of Pat Fyson, another great man who has passed on, but who, with his brother Tom, will not soon be forgotten. Jason was truly a great man, for he had that first important characteristic of all great men, humility. He also possessed the second in a high degree, love of his fellow men. When it comes to influence on those with whom he lived, please don't sell Jason short.

Going back some 65 years in the files we find the names of such noted men of that time as Ming Coombs, George Seiver and Charley Coffin. They were all noted men of their day, but the chances are that fully half of the present readers of the Quiz never heard of them. If I were to write a story about the most remarkable man I ever knew, Ming Coombs would be among the top ten, and probably would hit the top line. He was truly a remarkable man, as all the old timers will testify. He was possessed of a keen wit and a fine voice with which to express it. He was an able man and made himself useful in every field he undertook, whether it was county office, planting a timber claim, auctioneering or running a "ding-bat" shop.

Also mentioned in that same file of the Quiz are George A. Percival and Peter Mortensen. I did not know Percival so well, since I had little to do with banks in the day when he was cashier of the First National bank, the same bank, by the way that Ord has today. However, I knew Mr. Mortensen well, and he will be the more easily remembered because his son, C. J., is still in the same business in Ord. Peter qualifies among the top ten in my list, I believe. I enjoy looking through the old files of the Quiz for the reason that it refreshes my memories of such men as he.

Spoken of fifty-five years ago are Art Gass and J. R. Williams, the man who built up the farm southeast of Ord that is still spoken of sometimes as the Williams place. Mr. and Mrs. Gass were married at this place, according to the record. My first recollection of seeing Art Gass was at least fifty years ago, at a July Fourth celebration. As I recall it, Ord was playing St. Paul or Greeley a game of baseball and an altercation took place on the side lines. Because Art was involved the gendarmes took him in charge and marched him down to the square, where they turned him lose. He got back to the game before the officers got back, but there was no more quarreling.

Also fifty-five years ago Adam Smith was quite a big shot in public affairs. A GAR, he was officer of the day during decoration day services. I can recall when Adam ran for sheriff against Steve Brace. Brace thought he had the office in the bag, but it turned out differently when the votes were counted. As the Quiz quaintly put it: "Brace thought he was sheriff until the returns were in and then he found out it was A Dam Smith." Then there was one of Arcadia's great men, M. L. Fries, who was in the prime of his career at that time. I do not remember him so well, but it will be a long, long time before the name of Fries is forgotten in Arcadia.

Mentioned among those of fifty years ago are such men as Charles A. Munn, whos brilliant career as a lawyer was cut short even before he had reached the prime of life; John Kokes, sr., well known farmer who was sheriff of Valley county nearly fifty years ago; The M. P. Calhouns, who will be remembered not only for themselves but for the fine group of daughters they raised; The J. M. Jones's, who founded the post office at Alta and then lived to see the same post office discontinued when the RFD came in; finally, the Charley Palmatiers, who were also in the post office business in the early days and ran the Geranium post office for years.

And how about those three boys who had the nerve to start on a bicycle tour that was to take them to Lincoln and Omaha? Frank Johnson is still living at Kimball, Nebr., where he dispenses drugs the same as he once did in Ord. Earl Stacy is dead, and I do not know what became of Harry Kates. Perhaps some reader can tell me. Anything I might write about John K. Jensen would have to be moving, for moving was his business. John was good at his job, and there was a saying that, if it was movable, John K. could move it. Among the many houses that he moved is the one just west of the Quiz office, which he moved up from Kaisertown, the family living in it all the way.

One thing leads to another. That house was one of many built by the Kaiser Bros., Arthur and Will. Most of these are located in that part of Ord still known as Kaisertown because the Kaisers once lived there. The two men have been living in Canada for several decades and Mrs. Glover is the only representative of the family still living in Ord. The Seversons, however, are of the second generation. Forty years ago J. B. Woodbury and Engineer Rollins died. There are still a few who will remember what a splendid character Rollins was in those days when he was running the train from Ord to Grand Island and return.

As for Woodbury, he built the Ord Roller Mills on the U. P. tracks in the '90s, and it served a good purpose over a long period of years. The coming of modern transportation spelled the doom of the mill, located as it was on a branch line, and today we ship flour into Ord instead of shipping it out. Personally, I liked the old method best. Thirty years ago Auble Bros. played a concert. One of the brothers is gone now, but the next generation is grown and they can furnish music in any quantity and the best quality. Jacob Peterson died thirty years ago, but his three sturdy sons are still carrying on the name and the stock raising tradition. Two young men mentioned thirty years ago have since died, Ross Hull and Otto Wirsig.

Twenty Years ago Nels Jorgensen died. Contemporary and neighbor of Gust Rose, who today has lived to be Valley county's oldest citizen, Mr. Jorgensen is still well remembered by those who knew him. This week's column is different. I try to make it different from week to week. If you have any ideas on how to improve it, I am a good listener. Also, if you can think of early day incidents that will bear retelling, won't you please remind me of them. Finally, if this column fails to appear, please remember it is not because I failed to write it. I have never missed yet.

—Mary Ellen and Bonnie Daily spent the week end with Mr. and Mrs. Ray Salter in Ericson. The Salters brought the girls back and spent Sunday evening with their mother, Mrs. Vernetta Daily.

Obituary

GEORGE F. WHITE

George Frank White, son of William and Mary White, was born March 4, 1867, in the state of Wisconsin.

At the age of 4 the family moved to Gresham, Nebr. where he grew to manhood.

In 1890 he came to North Loup. Then on August 23, 1891, he was married to Clara Estelle Coleman at David City, Nebr. and brought his bride to North Loup and settled in the Barker neighborhood.

The young couple were converted at a S.D.B. meeting at Mira Valley, and joined the First Baptist church then in existence there.

Following meetings held by Herbert Mott of the Friends church in Pleasant Hill they joined that group.

During the years when the Friends church was without a pastor, Mr. and Mrs. White transferred their membership to the Methodist church, where it still remains.

For many years Mr. White worked as a teacher in the Sunday school, and many have spoken of the guidance and training they received from him.

For several years Mr. White very lovingly and tenderly cared for his invalid wife, until her Master called her home on August 19, 1948.

Rheumatism and failing eyesight handicapped Mr. White for many years, but he lived alone and cared for himself, not wanting to leave his own home. Last March his health condition became worse and he was taken to the Earl Howell home, where Mrs. Howell gave him the best of care until pneumonia took his life at the age of 84 years, 2 months, and 25 days.

He leaves to mourn, his four children, Paul of North Loup, Myrtle of Inman, Nebr., Earl of Fort Collins, Colorado, and Ellen Manchester of Compton, Calif., eight grandchildren, thirteen great-grandchildren, one brother Charley of Marshalltown, Ia., several nieces and nephews, and many friends.

Funeral services for Mr. White were held Thursday afternoon from the Methodist church in North Loup, with Rev. F. D. Saunders bringing the message. Mr. Harold Hoeppner and Mrs. Fred Bartz sang and Mrs. Harlon Brennick was at the piano.

Pallbearers were Ray and Cecil Knapp, Floyd Redlon, Clifton Clark, Bert Cummins and Harlon Brennick. Burial was in Hillside cemetery, with Hastings and Pearson in charge of arrangements.

GOOCH'S BEST is Feeder-Proved RIGHT!

GOOCH users report fastest chick growth and development in their entire experience!

These facts are important to you if you want fast-growing chicks. Last spring 1,107 poultry-raisers in a 10-state area sent in 8-week growth records on 315,783 baby chicks fed GOOCH'S BEST. At 8 weeks there remained 306,155 sturdy, well-developed birds . . . a livability of 96.90 . . . an average weight of 2.007 pounds. These fast gains were attained at the good feed efficiency of 3.21—or just over three pounds of farm grain with GOOCH'S BEST for every pound of live bird. Yes, these GOOCH feeders reported the highest livability, the best feed efficiency, the fastest chick growth and development in their entire experience. You can have the benefit of this feeder-proved starter this year.

Letters from Quiz Readers

Says Ord Friendly City

Blue Hills Farm
Wallingford, Conn.

To the Editor of The Quiz:

It is a pleasure to subscribe for the Quiz and to read it. It is truly a good community newspaper—not filled with strife and agitation. We can see why Ord continues to be a clean, friendly town filled with friendly folks and a co-operative spirit. It is said a newspaper can feature constructive news which welds the readers together. Also, it is said the community has the kind of paper which best suits the people it represents.

To Mrs. Henry, the Quiz brings back the memory of old friends and acquaintances. When we visited Ord a couple of years ago we experienced so much kindness from every one we met. We found the hotel so far above what we expected—the host so kindly.

John Ward's column recalls many experiences Mrs. Henry and her family went thru when she was a little child. The purpose of our visit was the fulfilling of a desire of 50 years standing to renew our memories of Ord and to visit a friend of many years, Mrs. Anton Kosmata.

Mrs. Kosmata's father, Mr. Vandas, and my father, John C. Duban, were early pioneers in Valley county; out Geranium way. Does any one recall when the two Cary sisters taught the school in that section? I was not of school age but was allowed to go to school anyway and I have a school photograph taken then. I recall that some of the pupils were Mary Hunter, Edna Ramsey, Jenny Blessing, Frank Novotny and the Blesssing boys.

We revisited the school and found the view still beautiful; the soft mistiness in the valley turning to rose and then blue against the surrounding hills.

We have wanted to express our appreciation of the fine western kindliness of Ord. We are coming again—we hope—and Mr. Henry wants to locate a sod house and a prairie dog on our next trip.

Mr. and Mrs. Anton T. Henry

I'm a-heading for HOTEL LINCOLN
LINCOLN'S LEADING HOTEL

for the REST of my Life!

"Some day I'm going to own a Roadmaster"

ONE thing that interests us mightily is the fact that so many people are stepping up, when they buy automobiles.

We've been looking at surveys, and it seems that just about everyone wants a better car than the one he's now driving.

So we know how you feel, and we'd like to help you make your dreams come true.

We'd like you to discover how fine a fine car can be.

We'd like you to stretch out in the room of a ROADMASTER—feel the luxury of its double-depth cushions—stroke the fine texture of its fabrics.

We'd like you to know the proud levelness of its ride—and its gentle obedience to your hand on the wheel.

We'd like to show you the many extras this custom-built Buick provides—at no extra charge when we come to make out a bill of sale.

But above all, we'd like you to experience two thrills found exclusively in ROADMASTERS.

One is the smooth might of its Fireball Engine. The other is the supreme simplicity of Dynaflow Drive, which is, incidentally, one of the many features included in the price.

We try to hold down our enthusiasm in talking about this masterful beauty.

We might claim—you'll find more room—more comfort—more luxury—a smoother ride—more conveniences—more thrill in a ROADMASTER than in any other car in the fine-car field.

Airport Building Nears Completion

The new airport building pictured above is now nearing completion, which is supposed to be July 1. The only exterior work left to be done on the building is the painting. The building will be painted white with a green roof.

Inside the new building will be an office, a utility room, a CAP classroom, a lobby, and restroom facilities. The interior will be finished with knotty pine and it will be insulated. A propane furnace will heat the building and a hot water heater will also be installed.

A dedication service or a fliers' breakfast is hoped to be held when the building is completed.

The building will cost $12,000, of which ⅓ is paid by the city, ⅓ by the state and ⅓ by the federal government.

New Lutheran Church Arises

These laminated arches are the backbone of the new St. John's Lutheran church being constructed in Ordview by Henry Lange and his crew.

The foundation for the new church is a pumice stone block and the floor of the building will be covered with sulpha-tile, a product just introduced in Nebraska in the past year.

There will be no vertical supports from the basement to the floor of the church as is common in most churches, but it will be supported by horizontal steel pipes set every 16 inches along the foundation.

The new church is expected to be ready for dedication in September.

School Taxes in Ord to Go Up Next Year

One Mill Increase Needed for Record Budget of $125,000.

School taxes in Ord will jump about one mill to provide the record budget of $125,000 planned for spending during the 1951-1952 school year.

The budget as adopted by the school board calls for $65,500 to be raised by taxation. The balance of $60,000 will come from tuition fees, federal and state school funds and miscellaneous receipts such as licenses and fines.

The new budget represents an increase of $13,000 over that of the past year, although the amount to be raised by taxation is increased by only $3,000. On the district's valuation of slightly over three million dollars, a one mill increase will be needed.

The school will spend $10,000 for debt service during the fiscal year to pay interest and retire bonds on the high school building. The building will be paid for in 1957.

Capital expenditures of $8,300 are provided in the new budget, which includes $6,800 for remodeling the home economics room, and $1,500 for new equipment for the kitchen, typewriters, and other articles.

Faculty of the school were given a general 5 percent cost-of-living salary increase.

Ord schools will continue to teach normal training. When enrollment in the course dropped to four, school officials had thought that the course might be dropped since a minimum of ten pupils is required for participation in state grants. However, nine sophomores indicated they would enroll in the course next year to bring total enrollment to 13, so the school will continue the course.

R. Clare Clement on Nat'l. Hereford Congress Platform

Local Man Speaker at Nationwide Meeting in Salina.

R. Clare Clement of Ord was on the speaking platform when the National Hereford Congress met in Salina, Kans., this week.

Mr. Clement and Roy Largent of Merkle, Tex., appeared before the congress Wednesday afternoon to discuss the topic, "How Can We Improve Our Breed?" General theme of the four-day meeting is "Keeping Ahead With Herefords."

The Hereford Congress is an annual affair sponsored by the American Hereford Association and is attended by prominent Hereford breeders and cattlemen's association officials from all over the United States.

Clement has just completed a year as president of the Nebraska Hereford Breeders Association, and is secretary and sale manager of the Old Reliable Hereford Association. The original Clement herd, now divided between Clare and his brother George, is recognized as one of the first established herds of purebred Herefords in the state.

Making the trip to Salina with Clement are Don Sampson, and Don Warner, Central City, manager and assistant manager of the Nebraska Hereford Association. Warner is the son-in-law of Mr. and Mrs. Jess Kovanda of Ord. The group paid a visit to offices of the American Hereford Association in Kansas City before going to Salina.

Douthit Family Will Be Eating Wheaties, Period

Jim and John Douthit each walloped a home run and each won a case of Wheaties as the Ord VFW Midgets beat the Burwell Midgets 17-1 in three and one-half innings of play Sunday afternoon. The game was rained out after Burwell came to bat in the top half of the fourth inning.

In three innings of pitching Dobbins, Burwell, gave up six hits and walked 11 batters. Ign. Piskorski, Ord pitcher, allowed only one hit, three walks, and struck out eight batters in four innings of pitching.

The Junior Legion game which was to follow the Midget game was called off because of rain. The Junior Legion and Midgets will play another league game at North Loup June 17, the Midgets playing the first game of the doubleheader.

Band Concert and Community Sing at Ord Park Tonight

Park Has Been Sprayed for Mosquitos; Boy Scouts Park Cars.

The Ord Municipal band will experiment with a new type of band concert tonight (Wednesday) when at 8:00 they will play from an improvised band stand in the east part of Bussell park.

The concert will be a community sing as well as a concert, for while the band plays the words of such popular numbers as "Mocking Bird Hill," will be flashed on a movie screen and the audience will be invited to sing, under Director Nelson, in unison with the band.

Mosquitoes should present no problem, for the park has been sprayed. Boy Scouts will direct parking of cars on the athletic field facing the band stand and people may sit in their cars or on the grass as they prefer.

Concerts may be at the park and uptown on alternate Wednesdays, or if the idea being tried tonight proves popular the park board will try to make arrangements with the baseball club so that all Wednesday concerts may be held at the park.

Anyway, it's "music in the park" tonight. Be there to enjoy it.

Another Week Weather Here Wet, Sultry,

Some Hail Reported, But Little Damage; Farmers Are Busy.

Ord vicinity chalked up another week of wet, sultry weather, although spells of intermittent sunshine coupled with a light breeze, have kept conditions so that farmers should continue with their work.

No rain of moment was recorded in Ord, although Monday night a heavy rain in a five mile wide strip between Ord and Elyria sent Dane Creek out of its banks for a brief period.

Some hail was reported in Monday night's rain, but to date no damage reports have been made to Ord insurance men. The hail fell in a three mile strip ranging from the Adolph Kokes place west of Ord to the Harry Bresley farm east of Ord, but hailstones were too small to do serious crops damage. Farm gardens, however, were knocked to the ground in the hail area. In the hail area, rain and hail together totaled more than 2 inches of moisture.

Farmers are working overtime putting up hay and alfalfa, although only a few days have been suitable for such work during the past week.

A survey of crop conditions over the county shows wheat, oats and barley generally fair, with some isolated damage by rust and insects. Wheat is starting to head out, and farmers are hoping for an average or better crop if sunny, windy weather eliminates the rust potential.

Corn is still an unknown potential in the county with many fields not yet up.

Paul Willoughby Estate Settled

After a continuance of 30 days the will of the late Paul Willoughby of Scotia involving his estate worth about $28,000, was read at a hearing in Greeley on Monday.

The sanity of the deceased had been questioned by relatives. Witnesses were questioned privately before the county judge, Jesse L. Scott.

His decision was in favor of Elmer Cox of Cotesfield and Wallace Cox of Scotia who will share equally a 320 acre farm and personal belongings amounting to more than $25,000.

A cousin, Victor Asheley of Grand Island, received bonds with a maturity value of $2500. No other bequests were made.

Wallace Cox had lived with Willoughby until the time of his death on April 10.

Grand Island Here Thursday

Grand Island will play the Ord Mustangs in what promises to be a hot game next Thursday evening, June 21st. The fracas will start at 8:30 o'clock on the local diamond.

Manager Rollie Johnson had hoped to schedule a game for Wednesday evening, June 20, the night the Mustangs are idle in Mid-Nebraska league competition. The Grand Island team, however, is composed largely of players who "spike-up" other teams in the territory that evening, so when Johnson found that the Third-City aggregation wouldn't be able to field much of a club Wednesday, he made a date for Thursday. So in all probability, Ord will actually be playing an all-star aggregation.

Al Blessing Winner at Fullerton Tournament

Three Ord golfers went to Fullerton Sunday for the Fullerton Invitational Golf Tournament and returned home victors for the second time in two week. Al Blessing walked off with the top honors, shooting a six under par 99.

Jiro Kawata Wins in Lincoln Handicap

Jiro Kawata, Ord's shotgun expert, won his first big shoot Sunday when he broke 99 out of 100 rocks to place first in the George Carter Handicap at Lincoln, an annual event there. In addition to a handsome trophy, Kawata received one half the entry fees for the event with $100 added. "At last my hobby is beginning to pay its own way," commented the Ord man.

To win the event he shot against a classy field which included Ralph Kohler, of Tekama, state and national champion in many shotgun events. Rex Jewett, former Ord man, was one of the entries.

North Loup Votes School Budget $31,000

Home Economics Department Added; Talk Ag Building.

A budget of $31,000 was voted for School District No. 1, North Loup, at the annual school meeting held Monday evening. The meeting drew more than the usual number of school patrons.

Possibilities of adding a new vocational agricultural building, which must be erected by July 1952 if the school is to continue to qualify for Smith-Hughes funds, was discussed. A committee will investigate the matter and report at an open meeting in July. Representatives of the state vocational agricultural department will also be present.

A home economics department will probably be offered in the 1951 curriculum of North Loup high schools. Necessary funds were included in the budget.

Student drivers who use their cars for other purposes than going from and attending school also came in for discussion. Salaries of the school board secretary and treasurer were given a slight increase, and nine months of school will be held in 1951-52.

Superintendent Martin Dunklau and vocational agriculture instructor C. W. Sanders, jr., who are attending summer school in Lincoln, were home for the meeting.

Ord Boys Leave for Jobs in Oil Fields

They will be joined there by Jim Misko, son of Mr. and Mrs. John P. Misko, of Oregon City, Ore. The three boys went through high school together but have been attending different colleges the past two years.

While touring Wyoming last winter with the Hastings College chorus, young Heuck became acquainted with a geologoist who promised summer jobs for him and his friends, an arrangement confirmed since by correspondence, and their departure for Casper is the result.

Children who are able bring money for their own milk and federal aid is given to others. The donation from the Betty Crocker cake auction amounted to $85.75 which took care of the milk cost to the club.

Mustangs Win 3 of Last 4 Games, Are Pushing for Lead

Good Pitching Plus the Hitting of Johnson and Dugan Responsible.

The Ord Mustangs will play two games away from home this week, Boelus being their foe tonight (Wednesday) and the Loup City Red Wings next Sunday.

With 3 wins in their last 4 games, the Mustangs are forging rapidly to the top in the Mid-Nebraska Night league and now have a percentage standing of .571 with Loup City topping the league at .714 and Ravenna ahead of Ord with .667 but with some postponed games to play off.

Sunday night Ravenna beat the Red Wings 1 to 0, the second time this season they have done it and the only team in the league so far able to beat the tough Loup City crew. There were just two Ravenna men in their line-up Sunday when they beat Loup City for the second time, the rest being Grand Island and Kearney players including A. Karle, Ray Johnson, Knickrehm and others. Sweeney, a left-hander from Grand Island chucked for Ravenna.

On the same night Wood River downed Boelus 8 to 3 to push that hapless team still farther into the league cellar.

Ord's current win streak can be attributed primarily to the fine pitching given by Bill Novosad and Bill Beasley, the finest pair of hurlers possessed by any club in the league. In the last 4 games the two Bills have given up only 18 hits, an average of 4½ hits per game. In the same 4 games Ord has made 33 hits, an average of 8¼ per game.

In these games Stan Johnson has made 6 hits and four went for extra bases, including a triple and three doubles. Bill Dugan is right beside him with 6 hits but only two have been extra base blows. Dilla has had 5 hits in these games including his homer at St. Paul and Finley has had 4 hits. Bud Novosad's hitting has fallen off and he has had only 3 hits in 4 games. Dick Beran has got 2 in 4 games. Moore got 2 against Ravenna on June 3 but hasn't hit safely since.

The great job of catching being turned in by Stan Johnson has helped the Mustangs greatly in their climb. Shelton tried to steal second only once Sunday night and when their runner was cut down by Johnson's accurate throw they gave up in this department.

Philbrick's return to uniform after a week's illness with flu has bolstered the Mustangs also. In a free hitting game Philbrick is almost worth his weight in gold in centerfield. Dilla will be absent from the line-up for the next few games, being away on his wedding trip, which makes Philbrick's presence all the more necessary.

Manager Rol Johnson needs more reserve strength and more batting power and if there are any ball players working in Ord or nearby territory who want a chance to play they are invited to show Johnson what they can do.

All in all it looks like Ord has a good chance to finish on top of the heap, or at least to get into the play-offs and win part of the play-off cash. Fans have seen some excellent games lately and their next chance to see the Mustangs in league competition on the home field will be June 24 when St. Paul comes here. Efforts are being made to schedule an exhibition game against a good traveling club for next Wednesday night, when Ord has a bye in league play.

Grand Island Firm Low Bidder on New School Room

Origin of "Leathernecks"

Collars and ties made of steel were issued to officers of the U.S. marines in the early 1800's as a protection in warfare. At the same time, enlisted men were issued leather collars. And that gave the nickname, "Leathernecks" which they are still called to this day.

Bob Crosby Follows Carson Into Ring for Gubernatorial Nomination

Robert B. Crosby of North Platte, former Lieutenant Governor, has announced his candidacy for Governor of Nebraska. It has been generally expected that he would seek the Republican nomination.

Crosby first achieved prominence in 1943 when he was the youngest man ever to become Speaker of the Nebraska Legislature. His fellow legislators chose him for that office at the age 31. Earlier he had been elected to the State Senate at the age of 29.

During his term as Speaker, Crosby waived the draft exemption which that office carried, and permitted himself to be classified for military service. Later he volunteered in the Navy and served until 1946.

While still in service, he filed in 1946 for Lieutenant Governor. In his absence, the State Republican convention awarded him the only endorsement for that office. After his discharge Crosby campaigned, and was nominated and elected by large majorities.

Crosby served as Lieutenant Governor until 1949, when he did not seek reelection. Although widely mentioned for the U. S. Senate in 1948 and for Governor in 1950, he has refused until this year to again become a candidate for political office. There has been speculation that he might have retired permanently from public life.

Crosby is married and has two childen. He is 40 years old. He belongs to the Presbyterian Church, and is a member of the American Legion, Elks Lodge, U. C. T., and Kiwanis Club. He has been an active Republican worker, serving as assistant State Chairman during the 1948 campaign, as state campaign manager for the governor in 1950, as county chairman and district finance vice-chairman.

His home is North Platte, where he was born. He practices law in partnership with his father and brother. He attended Hastings College and received his legal education at Harvard Law School.

Obituary

MRS. ROSA SAUTTER

Funeral services were held Saturday afternoon for Mrs. Rosa Sautter, 67, who passed away at her home in Scotia after an illness of several months. She had been about her usual household duties until the latter part of March of this year and since that time had been confined to her bed. Even though she had not been well, her passing came as a shock to all who knew her. She was a kind and loving mother, was unusual in her devotion to her family and her friends. Her joy was in the fellowship of her home and neighbors and was always to lend a helping hand to anyone in need. She will be sorely missed by all who knew her. In spite of her ailment her ready smile gladdened many a person.

Rev. Leslie Moore of Red Cloud conducted the services from the Methodist church at 3 o'clock. Rev. Moore was a former Scotia pastor. Bernice Bussell, and Mrs. Barbara Shoemaker sang, accompanied by Mary Moody.

Pallbearers were Chas. Voorhees, C. A. Krebs, Clyde Keown, J. Y. Sautter, Steve Grohosky and Louis Sautter. Burial was in the Scotia cemetery with Ashleys mortuary in charge.

Rosa Katherine Kommerell, youngest daughter of Antone and Barbara Kommerell, was born August 2, 1883 at Stuttgard, Germany and passed away at her home in Scotia, June 7, 1951.

In the spring of 1894 she moved with her parents to the United States and then to a farm near Scotia in Nebraska where they lived for a number of years. On January 17, 1905 she was united in marriage to Jacob G. Sautter. To this union were born four children, two sons and two daughters. They made their home on a farm near Scotia for many years.

She became a member of the Scotia Methodist church in 1924 and has been a loyal helper since that time. She also was a member of the Royal Neighbor lodge.

Preceding her in death were her parents, two sisters, her husband in 1932 and two sons, one died in infancy and Theodore in 1944.

Letters from Quiz Readers

Want Pictures Named
Caldwell, Idaho
June 10, 1951

Dear Gene:

A group of former Ord people have been sitting around our table this evening looking over the picture in the Ord Quiz of the reunion of the Class of 1925, and have decided that we should offer a slight complaint. We have been having a lot of trouble making out some of the people in the picture and were wondering why the names of each one were not put under the picture so we could at least see what and who they are. It doesn't seem possible that people one knew so well not too many years ago have changed as much as some seem to have in the group shown in this picture.

We really do enjoy the Quiz, as in that way we are able to keep tract of all of our old friends in Ord. We get our Quiz out here on Saturday and right after dinner we have to take turns reading all the news about all of the people we know. Opal and I will have lived out here seven years the 21st of this month and Lynn and Eleanor have been in Parma since 1947, and have been away from Ord for 13 years so there are a lot of new names in the Quiz for us now. All of the young folk at the time we left are now grown up and have families and it is hard to associate the names with the faces as we remember most of them when quite small.

We get together quite often as Lynn and Eleanor live in Parma which is only 14 miles west of Caldwell which just makes a nice ride when getting together. We see several folks here who are formerly from or near Ord and always have a nice visit remembering folks we both knew back there.

Both Eleanor and Opoal are sitting here reminding me to be sure to say that they enjoy Irmas column very much, as it is always full of things and people they remember.

Now Gene in the future we would like very much to have the names of all people in any pictures in the Quiz placed under the pictures so we would be able to know for sure just who they are in case we have been away long enough to have trouble recognizing them. However, don't get us wrong, we still think the Quiz is a swell paper and we all still call Ord home even though we have been gone these many years.

Sincerely,
Opal and Mike Kosmata,
Lynn and Eleanor Beeghly.

Mustangs Defeat St. Paul, Lose to Wood River

Ord Team's Hitting Badly Off in Mid Week Games.

In mid-week play last week the Ord Mustangs dropped a 10 inning game to Wood River Wednesday night by a score of 3 to 2, then turned around and defeated St. Paul Friday evening 4 to 3 in a postponed game played on the St. Paul field.

Stan Johnson, whose second inning double brought in 2 Ord scores and who safely 3 times out of 4, was the bright star in Ord's successful game against St. Paul, with Dan Dilla close behind. Dilla hit an over-the-fence homer in the eighth.

In this game Bill Novosad pitched masterful ball all the way, allowing ten hits but keeping them scattered, while his mates made 5 hits stand up for 44 runs and the ball game. Four Ord errors, 3 of which were made by the usually sure Dugan didn't see mto hurt the Ord cause.

Against Wood River Bill Beasley pitched 7 hit baseball and struck out 14, while young Bob Wells also tllowed 7 hits and struck out 9. Beasley deserved to win but Ord muffed two scoring changes in the 8th and 10th innings and Wood River's 10th inning run, which broke up a 2-2 tie, stood up for the victory.

The story of the two games is told by the box scores, which follow:

New Walleye Record Set at North Platte

Lincoln, Nebr. — It happened again. Nebraska's oft-battered walleye record succumbed.

According to the Game Commission's weekly fishing roundup, John Stensvaad of North Platte landed a 11-pound, 5-ounce walleye while angling in productive Maloney lake. The previous record walleye weighed 11 pounds. In 1950, the state mark was 10 pounds. Stensvaad used a bucktail spinner as the producing lure.

Rain, swollen creeks and rivers, and some snow hampered fishing throughout most of the state. The unseasonal weather resulted in the most unsatisfactory fishing of the season. The outlook for more rain and dreary weather dampens all hope of any immediate improvement of fishing conditions

Only Conservation Officer Sam Grasmick—Kearney, Phelps, Harlan and Franklin counties—reported fishing as "good." In Grasmick's district, the better waters were the Republican river (catfish), Minden sand pits (bass) and Elm Creek sand pits (bass and bullheads).

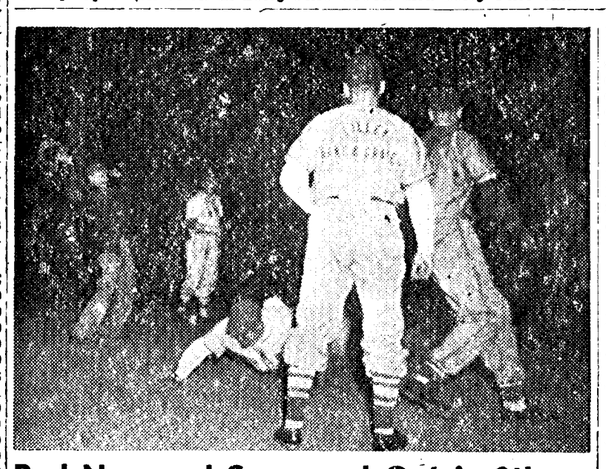
Let's Go to Long Pine—The Trout Are Biting

The trout are biting in Long Pine Creek as proved by this picture of Dr. V. L. Hybl, former Ord man, and two of his Ainsworth friends, shown with a limit catch of speckled trout. Many Ord people fish often in Long Pine Creek and Long Pine lake.



Bud Novosad Squeezed Out in 9th

Bud Novosad makes a final lunge for home plate after being caught on a squeeze play during the Ord-Wood River game.

Dick Beran, batter (pictured in background), was signaled to bunt and at the same time Novosad was sent on his way from third base. The Wood River pitcher anticipated the play and threw the ball far outside Beran's reach, leaving no chance for a bunt and giving the catcher time to tag Novosad.

This was the crucial play of the game as it was the last of the ninth inning and the score was tied 2-2. If the play had succeeded the game would have been over, Ord winning 3-2. As it was, Wood River scored in the first of the tenth to win by a score of 3-2.

Beasley Whiffs 17, Gives Only 3 Hits; Mustangs Win, 11-1

Shelton Easy for Ord Crew Sunday as Colts Make 11 Errors.

Bill Beasley was in rare form Sunday night and let the Shelton Colts down with 3 hits and 1 run, striking out 17, while the Mustangs played air tight ball behind him and got eight safe blows which they put together with 11 Shelton errors for a total of 11 runs.

A big crowd saw Ord take the game 11 to 1 on a water-logged diamond.

Stan Johnson with a triple and a double led Ord's batting attack with Dugan also getting a double. Tony Winey, University of Nebraska football star who played third for Shelton got 2 of the Colts' 3 blows.

Early in the game Shelton's young catcher, G. Hadenfeldt, dislocated a shoulder attempting to slide into second headfirst and had to be removed from the game and taken to the hospital.

Ord made one double play, Dugan to L. Novosad to Finley, and looked good generally afield, though Beasley's 17 strikeouts meant they had few balls to handle.

Hatt-Minne

At a pretty wedding solemnized at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Alton Hatt, Miss Phyllis Hatt and Cpl. Glen E. Minne, son of Mr. and Mrs. Louis Minne of near Dannebrog were married at 4 o'clock in the afternoon, Sunday, May 20, by Rev. Eugene Wekander, pastor of the Dannebrog Lutheran church in the presence of 30 guests.

Lohengren's bridal song was played by Gerald Hatt, brother of the bride and he also accompanied Miss Marjorie Jacobsen, who sang, "I Love Thee" and "The Lord's Prayer."

The sweet looking bride was given in marriage by her father. She wore a white two piece suit dress with pink and white accessories, a pink carnation corsage and rhinestone necklace, gift of the bridegroom and a bracelet worn by her mother and her grandmother at their weddings.

She was attended by her sister, Mrs. Charles Hansen who wore a two piece navy blue suit dress with matching accessories.

The bridegroom wore his uniform and the best man, Gerald Larkowski wore a blue suit.

The beautiful decorations consisted of cut flowers of calla lilies and gladioli in vases and baskets of garden flowers, carnations and tulips.

Dinner was served immediately after the ceremony. A three-tiered heart-shaped cake and candles centered the table.

The bride who was born and grew to womanhood here, is a Dannebrog high school graduate and the past school year, a successful Howard county teacher in district 38. The bridegroom, a graduate of the Arcadia high school has served the past 16 months in the U. S. Air Force. They will for the present live at Wichita Falls, Tex. Their many friends wish for them a happy married life.

Guests from out of town were Mr. and Mrs. Charles Hansen and family, Omaha; Gerald Hatt, Shelby, Ia.; Cpl Harold Minne, Tex.; Barbara Jensen, Phyllis Boltz and Betty Sorensen, all from Grand Island.

The Golden Text is: "The Lord shall deliver me from every evil work, and will preserve me unto his heavenly Kingdom." (II Timothy 4:18). Other Bible citations include, "Behold, he that keepeth Israel shall neither slumber nor sleep. The Lord shall preserve thee from all evil: he shall preserve thy soul. The Lord shall preserve thy going out and thy coming in from this time forth, and even for evermore." (Psalms 121:4, 7, 8).

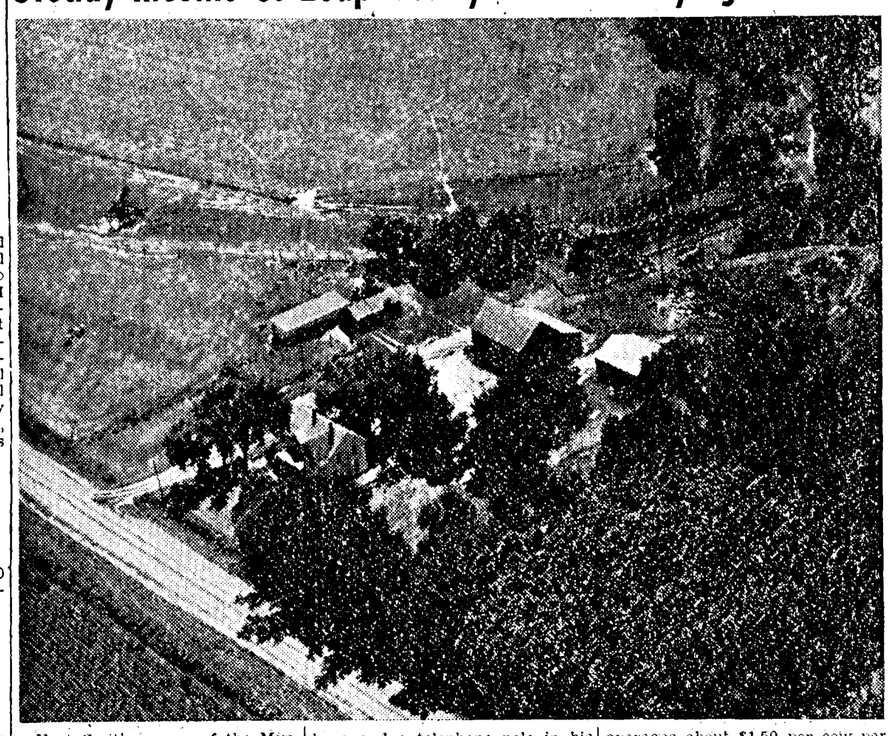
Evet Smith, Owner of Mystery Farm, Believes Steady Income of Loup Valley Lies in Dairying



Evet Smith, owner of the Mystery farm pictured in last week's Quiz, is a firm believer in the future of dairy farming in the Loup Valleys.

Mr. Smith now has 55 heifers on the 110 acre farm he owns, of which 25 are of producing age. Sixteen are now giving milk, and he expects the first of his 30 young heifers to become fresh in October of this year.

Evet's eyes gleam when he talks about his 30 young heifers. "Everyone of these is an artificial calf," he said, "from cows out of my own herd and breeding from the Loup Valeys Artificial Breeding Service.

"That means their sires are in the top half dozen dairy sires in the United States. On the average I believe they will give from 75 to 100 pounds more butterfat a year than their mothers."

Evet told the Quiz that he recognized the aerial picture of his farm by the position of the house, barn and a telephone pole in his front yard. "It was rather hard to do at first, since the picture was taken at an odd angle," he said.

He moved to the place with his parents in 1905, the year his father, D. B. Smith bought the place for $50 per acre from Harry H. Bailey. The original farm was 270 acres, but a property division among heirs at a later date left Evet with the home 110 acre improved tract. In 1916 Evet's parents retired and moved to Ord, and he and his young wife started farming the place.

Mr. Smith is a firm believer in grass farming, and the 110 acre tract has 25 acres of native pasture, 25 of brome and clover and 20 acres of alfalfa.

The dairy business is proving profitable for Mr. Smith. His 16 producing cows are giving an average of 37 lbs. of milk each day, and since he sells the majority of the production as whole milk he averages about $1.50 per cow per day.

"When I was a kid the folks used to milk a lot, too," he said. "But things were different then. Butterfat was worth 8 cents a pound, and the old scrub cows we had would average about a half-pound a day or a net income of 4 cents per cow.

"But even today, the national average on dairy cows is 11 pounds of milk, and it costs just as much to feed the scrubs as my cows which give 37 pound."

Mr. Smith said he expected his new herd of heifers to average 1,000 pounds of milk more per year than his present herd, or at the going rate for fresh, sweet, milk, to bring him $100 per year more.

"I know it costs a bit of cash to have the services of the nation's top Guernsey and Holstein bulls, but even then I couldn't afford to keep and feed a bull for the amount I have paid the association yearly," he declared.

MICRO WAVE RELAY CROSSES NEBRASKA

Have you seen those huge towers being erected across the state?—towers carrying a big horn-like contraption?

These are the new micro wave relay towers. They will carry television signals, linking the East Coast with the West Coast. With Nebraska directly on the television net-work main line, we may expect additional television broadcasting stations in the state, eventually.

More and more, television is proving its importance as an educational medium. Recent national events have established this conclusively.

In another field, education has proved its importance—maintaining Nebraska's good tavern conditions. For years, the brewing industry has devoted time and expense to show retailers the importance of keeping their places neat and attractive—of carefully observing all legal requirements. As a result, Nebraska's general tavern operation merits high praise.

Cause and Effect.

In a recent issue of the news, two headlines in adjoining columns on the front page read as follows: "National Debt Share $1,700," and Senate Group on New Path, to Cut Funds." These two have a definite connection, as a study into the details reveals. The first is the cause and the second the effect. The first is the story of the biggest debt ever incurred by a group of human beings, and the second an honest effort to see that the debt grows no larger.

In the first story a Nebraskan, Congr. Curtis, is struggling with some gigantic figures in arithmetic, and he comes up with the alarming fact that, if our total national debt of today were divided evenly among the hundred and fifty million population, it would mean that every man, woman and child would have to produce $1,700 to put the nation even with the board. He called that conservative estimate, as he did not take into consideration the heavy burden of new taxation.

Going back into the records Repr. Curtis finds that the per capita tax in 1900 was $16 per person, an amount that almost anybody should be able to raise over night. As late as 1940, even with the deficit spending of the depression years, the per capita was $326, an amount that the average person might be able to raise in a few months, or a year at the most. This is going on the presumption that the public in general and Washington in particular would practice economy.

The senator gave two causes for this tremendous growth of the national debt: first, the indirect cause is the unlimited spending powers of the federal government; the second, the direct cause, is the tremendous growth of the government. These two causes are interdependent and cannot be completely separated. A reduction of either one would have a like effect on the other, conversely, an increase of one makes an increase in the other imperative.

Another cause of the present huge debt is one not commonly considered and yet one which should be given full consideration. That is, the fact that, since the inflationary prices that developed during and after World War II, a dollar will buy less than half what it did ten years ago. This means that for every million dollars spent the actual results achieved would amount to only about that of $100,000 in normal times.

But there is a rift in the clouds, although it will be a long time before the sun breaks through. The senate appropriations committee last week was scheduled to slash a major budget request far below the amount passed by the house. In addition the house is not only upholding other house budget cuts, but plans to slice even deeper on some bills. This move represents an unusual departure from tradition, which for years has been calling for more and more spending.

In going over the various appropriations requested the senate has decided to cut funds asked for every department with the possible exception of the interior. It has been traditional of the senate to be more generous than the house in granting funds for these appropriations, and many house members have developed the habit of voting for cuts for the various departments, believing that the amounts would be restored by the senate.

However, it is ironic that we at home be asked to practice economy in government when we are lending the helping hand to about half the rest of the world, with more nations being added to the list as time goes on. These funds, ostensibly loaned in many cases, bunt actually given, as we have reasons to know to our regret, will do little except to keep the recipients in a happy frame of mind so long as the money is forthcoming. When it is shut off, they will turn against us

Most of us are proud if our parents had a part in carving out an empire in the western wilderness. If, by chance of birth or location, we are not able to claim that privilege, we are in an apologetic mood, feeling that there is something lacking in our background. The urge to pioneer is strong in the heart of man, and, if it were not, the old nations of the world would still remain largely within their own frontiers, just as the Chinese have for the past 5,000 years.

From those pioneers who came to claim the soil which until that time had never known the plow we have inherited many things, most of them good. We should be just as good as our immediate ancestors, perhaps some of us are in some respects. But we have a right to question whether any of us can measure up to our forebears in all of the traits for which their fame is heralded in song and story.

Our forefathers were thrifty. They had to be thrifty to exist in those days. They made a dollar go a long way, and, where the money was not available through their own industry, they went without. It is a far cry from those men who never went in debt if it could be avoided to the present day, when most of us spend our money until it is all gone, then begin buying luxuries on credit.

Our forefathers were hardy. They had to be hardy to walk to Grand Island and bring home groceries for the family on their backs. They had to be hardy to follow the breaking plow all day, to harvest grain the old fashioned way, to engage in any of the toilsome jobs that were a part of their pioneer existence. Maybe military training is a good thing. It will teach the present generation how to walk.

Our fore fathers were honest. We think we are honest, but there is a vast difference between the honesty of pioneer days and the substitute that we see much of the time today. If the pioneer invested a dollar and made a dollar, he was honest about it and called it one hundred precent profit. Today we call it fifty percent.

Our forefathers were sturdy, and they had to be sturdy to stand up under the dozens of tasks they had to perform that have gone out of existence since their day. They worked at the hardest work from daylight to dark, often long after dark. They went to bed completely worn out but got up the next morning just as early and worked just as hard. When we work steady for a few days we take a vacation.

The pioneers were helpful. They had to help each other with so many kinds of work that they often spent almost as much time at the neighbors as they did at home. This made for more friendship and understanding in the community. Today each man is largely self-sufficient. He can handle all the work he does without the help of others. No wonder we have clubs and associations to get people acquainted, one with the other.

The pioneers were generous. They did not have much, but they were always willing to share it with others. Nobody was permitted to leave a person's home at meal time without a pressing invitation to stop and eat. They also understood that not to accept would actually be in the nature of an insult. Today nobody eats at the home of anybody else, except on special occasions.

The pioneers were religious. They felt the need of houses of worship, but met in school houses or each other's homes when churches were not available. In time churches became scattered all over the landscape and each of them had a goodly congregation. Today there are only a few churches out in the country. There once were a dozen or more in Valley county alone.

We as a people inherited a wealth of good things, of the things that count in life, but, like the prodigal son, we have squandered our substance in riotious living. Today we need to get back to the principles of those men who made the Great American Desert blossom as the rose. We must start saving instead of spending, and by the year 2,000 we may all be out of debt.

Ward's What's Cookin' Column

Perhaps before this is printed I will have to give up once more and order some stoker coal from Roy Hudson. If I do, it will be the fourth time that I have done so since I thought I had enough to last until warm weather. Our bin holds about half enough to last through the winter. Last fall we had it filled to the top and then had it filled again the first of the year. The first winter we were here that was enough, but every winter since then it has taken just a little more. I am not accusing anybody, but I wouldn't be surprised if the coal dealers are in league with the weatherman. Maybe Harry Gillespie couldn't stand the hard looks he was getting for the weather he was putting out. Anyway, he gave up the job and turned it over to Dell F. Barber, who will take on anything, being at the present time secretary for four or five organizations.

At first I planned to shut off the furnace the first of May. When that failed I set a definite date of not later than June first. Now my tentative date is the Fourth of July, and if that don't work, I will shut it off and let the family freeze during Nebraska's Big Rodeo in August. Right after the rodeo it will be time to turn the furnace on again, and that is the way it goes, one perpetual round of pleasure. I have one thing to be thankful for this year, and that is the stoker, which gets full value out of every pound of coal. We have had no cold weather in the house since it was turned on last fall except the time I threw off the switch and forget to turn it on again. The next morning I found that the wind had blown the back door open and it was down to 52 in the house.

I have tried to buck the weather, but it is no use. My diary shows that I first shut off the furnace for keeps May 16, and that I had to turn it back on again May 19. I was certain it was the last time when I turned it off May 27, but I had to give up and turn it on June 1. Nobody should ever try to buck the weatherman. It simply cannot be done especially when you have roomers in the house. What I hate most about it is that all the former local people now sojourning in Sunny California will be writing me and kidding me about what certainly should be a serious matter.

One thing we should be especially thankful for is the fact that the month of June did not disgrace herself by bringing frost. It came dangerously near that one morning. My thermometer in the back yard showed 35 degrees at six o'clock, and there was a light frost on the garage roof, but there was such a heavy dew that morning that it tempered the cold and nothing was hurt. A few reports of slight damage came in, but it was not enough to worry about. It is thrilling to think of how narrow an escape we had. Three more degrees probably would have killed everything, and it is getting too late to put in more crops.

And that brings up the change in the seasons during the past 60 years. In the nineties the farmers often had their oats in by March first and were plowing for winter wheat. The past February, when the weather really got fine, some of the farmers in this area did a little farm work, probably more for the sake of being able to say they did so than for any other reason. It is safe to say that nobody did any farming in March, and it was well into April when work got into full swing. When I was a kid the rule among the farmers was to start planting corn by May 10 and to have it all in by May 20, if possible. May 25 was the deadline, and any corn planted later than that usually did not amount to much. The use of hybrid seed has done much to shorten the growing season, and corn can now be planted well into June and will still yield a good crop. The first week of June has gone by and there is still a lot of corn to be planted. It will be planted, and it will make a crop. Truly, the Lord made little apples. Man has certainly did a lot of improving on the Lord's growing things.

The passing of Charley Palmatier did not bring to me a feeling of sorrow. When his time came, he was called, and he was ready to go. He had little to regret. He could look back upon a long life well lived, a life filled with usefulness to his fellowmen. A life devoted to the raising of a family of the type not too common in these days, the kind of family who consider it their duty to do all they can for their parents in their old age. To raise such a family is quite an achievement for anybody. His wife must be given her full share in raising the family, and also in many of the other things Charley did, including looking after the Geranium post office while her husband was busy with other work. . . Instead of sorrow, I have a feeling of pride that I was privileged to know a man who lived so long and so well.

Speaking of that post office, it was included in my earliest recollections. My father first opened the Mira Creek post office in 1880, two years before I was born. At that time it serviced a wide expanse of countryside, about five miles in all directions, and to the south as far as the Sherman county line. People livng to the south would stop for their mail when they made their occastonal trips to Ord for supplies. Time was not a factor to be considered in those days, and people would spend a whole day just going to town. We would see them go by early in the morning, often the whole family in a lumber wagon, and they would come trailing back about dark. Today people are in too much of a hurry to get rich to live as the pioneers did.

In his Trail of the Loup, Harold Foght used an old precinct map of Valley county, made some time between 1880 and 1885, as the railroad had only been built as far as North Loup at that time. During those first years the mail for Mira Creek was carried from North Loup. Later this service went on to Vinton, where a post office had been established. Also in those days the mail for the west part of the county came up the Middle Loup river by carrier to a post office called Arcadia. There was no town or railroad there at that time. The carrier then went on to Yale, about 7 miles northeast, thence to Manderson, seven miles straight north. Next came Geranium, 3½ miles northwest, and finally there was Sedlov, 5½ miles north of Geranium and about due west of the present location of Elyria, which was not even dreamed of then.

Also established at that time were Ida post office, later Goodenow, Calamus post office, across the river east of Ida and just southeast of Fort Hartsuff, and Springdale, about where the McLain place now is. Finally there was Lee's Park post office over in Lee's Park, southwest of Arcadia. Thus the map shows eleven country post offices in Valley county in the early 1880's, all of which have gone completely out of existence with the exception of Arcadia, which grew into a town with the coming of the railroad. Most of the place names remain, but the present generation does not know and probably does not care anything about how those names happened to be used in the early days.

But the story of the post offices would not be complete without giving the setup as it was in the '90s. By that time the railroad had come to Arcadia, Ord and Elyria. Ida had become Goodenow. Calamus had gone out of existence. Springdale, Lee's Park and Sedlov followed in due time, but one route, serviced by two mail carriers, took care of the rest of the post offices. One man came from Ord to Mira Creek, thence to Vinton and finally to Yale, the location of which had been moved a few miles northwest. He ate dinner at Yale and was met there by a carrier who came from Sargent by way of Longwood, Geranium and Manderson. After dinner each returned the way he had come. It was a long trip and small pay, but the postmasters got even less. They were following the post office tradition of service to the community.

I was just a kid then, but I can remember that my father, A. Ward, was postmaster of Mira Creek. I do not know who ran the Vinton office, which went out of business early, as did Manderson, then run by H. F. Rhodes. D. B. Smith, father of Evet Smith, ran the office at Yale. Charley Palmatier was postmaster at Geranium. The ties of early days bound those men together in a sort of fellowship, although they seldom met. The postmaster at Ord I remember best was S. A. (Sam) Stacy. In those days Charley Nelson ran the end of the line from Ord to Yale and Joe Johnson handled the west end of the run. Later, through a mistake, I believe, H. B. Kaiser bid in the east run for $150 per year, which meant he made each trip for about fifty cents. Those were the good old days. People today may not live any better, although they certainly live faster.

Crappies Biting Good in Sand Hills Lakes

Productive walleye fishing in scattered waters of the state highlighted the Nebraska Game Commission' weekly angling report issued Friday.

Fishing, generally, for all species, ranged from fair to good. Angling was reported poor in only two districts. All others were fair, fair to good or good. Fishing pressure was heaviest of the year with 11 of 20 reporting districts having large concentrations of anglers.

Johnson lake led the way for walleye productiveness. Warden Bill Schultz described walleye fishing at Johnson as "very good." Other waters reported as good for walleyes were Lake Minatare, Minden sand pits, Lake Maloney, east canal checks, Jeffrey lake and Midway lake. Walleye fishing was fair in Medicine creek and Kimball reservoir.

Fred Rutt of McCook came close to shattering the state walleye record. Rutt, fishing in Johnson lake, took a 10-pound, 12-ounce walleye, only four ounces under the state mark. Other big walleyes taken this year weighed 10-pounds and 10-pounds, 6 ounces respectively.

Lake Maloney maintained its high rating as "one of the best" by providing Bill Dodson of North Platte with a 5-pound largemouth bass, Bill McCown, North Platte, a 15-pound carp, W. W. Culwell, North Platte, a 6-pound, 5-ounce rainbow and W. C. Shroeder, North Platte, a 13-pound catfish.

The sand hills lakes, perennially one of the top attractions, came into its own during recent days. Dewey, Rat, Beaver, and Trout lakes all boasted good fishing.

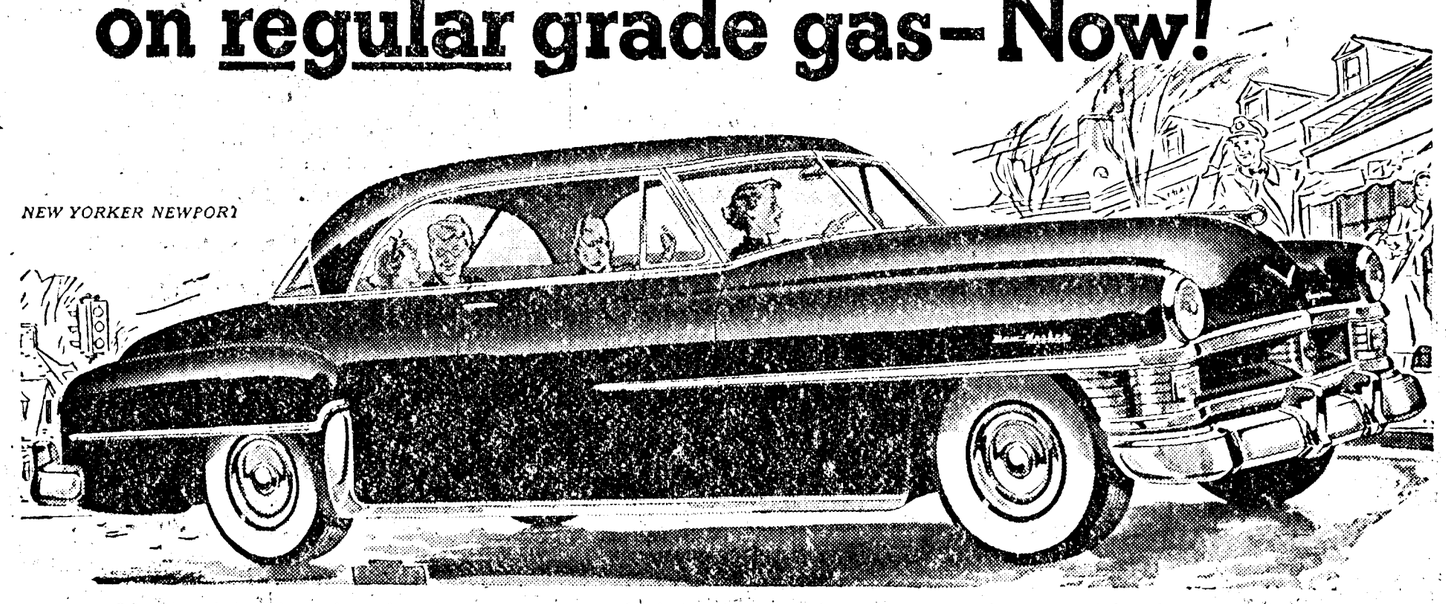
Here's 180 Horsepower... on regular grade gas—Now!



It's always interesting to hear about future-looking experiments with new super engines to run on new super-octane fuels...someday.
But it's even more interesting to hear today's real life, on-the-highway talk about Chrysler's new super-performing FirePower engine. FirePower takes any regular grade gas you care to buy . . . and adds its own new mechanical octanes to the power-giving octanes of the gasoline itself. The result is 180 horsepower performance such as no other passenger car built in the U.S. today can equal.
If you haven't driven Chrysler FirePower yet, your Chrysler dealer invites you to do so now. It's the most revolutionary engine in 27 years. It offers highway satisfaction and safety such as you've never known.
And it's a sounder engine other ways than any other on the road. Its new design keeps it almost completely carbon-free. It is smooth and quiet . . . but also rugged and strong and free from need for great attention and repair.
Now remember that this same new Chrysler offers you the new Hydraguide power steering* . . . plus the amazing new rough-road stability of Oriflow shock absorbers . . . plus Water-Proof Ignition, and Vacu-Ease Chrysler Cyclebonded super-brakes . . . then come see what we mean when we say the car of your tomorrow is right here for you to drive . . . today, and for years to come!
*Hydraguide regular on Crown Imperials, optional at extra cost on other Imperial and New Yorker models.

180 HORSEPOWER Here's the new Hemispherical Combustion Chamber that's the heart of Chrysler FirePower. Its new, designed-in "mechanical octanes" make regular grade gas do what best premium grades can't do in any other engine you can drive today!

Chrysler FirePower
finest engine ever put in an automobile

Pioneers Had Troubles With High Prices, Too; Emigrants Paid High Tolls

It may be difficult to believe in this era of the high cost of living, but the pioneers had their problems with high prices, too. This was particularly true of the overland emigrants, and many of the contemporary accounts of the emigration contain complaints against the high prices charged in outfitting towns and at points along the trail.

John Henry Coke in 1850 described rising prices in St. Louis—resulting from the heavy demands of the emigration—in words that are painfully descriptive of our own day: "For one of my horses I have paid 125 dollars, and for a mule $140. Three years ago I could have bought the two for less than half of what I have given for either."

Toll bridges and ferries were a constant source of irritation. John Hawkins Clark, who went overland to California in 1852, described the situation at the Wolf River bridge in Kansas: "a large Indian sat at the receipt of customs demanding $1 per wagon for the privilege of crossing over."

This bridge must have been particularly notorious, for others who went along the trail that year commented unfavorably upon the rates charged. The bridge was something of a bottleneck, too; travelers found themselves forced to wait long periods for the privilege of paying the price to get across. One diary noted: "Such was the crowd of people and so exhorbitant the price that our party joined with some other trains and built a new bridge."

Clark, mentioned above, did not confine his complaints to the Wolf River situation. In writing of it he stated, "California should be full of gold if the immigrant expects to get back all his outfit getting there: $5 per wagon fifty cents for horses, mules oxen for crossing the Missouri St. Joe; and here again, $1 per wagon for passing over a bridge fifty feet in length., costing perhaps $150."

Later, when the stage coaches and heavy emigration had brought about the establishment of way stations, prices charged for meals were $1.00 or $1.50, regardless of the fare or how little was served. Passengers frequently complained of what they got for their money.

Particularly notorious was Kearney City, the civilian community just west of Kort Kearney. Maurice O'Connor Morris described a shopping expedition there in 1863 as follows: "My sole purchase was a sheet of vile noepaper, for which I paid three cents—its weight I should think in silver, if not gold."

Cattle Numbers Down Again at Markets Monday

Fat cattle supply Monday at Omaha and other major markets continued like the previous week—abnormally light. Feeders apparently disliked selling on a market upset by OPS price restrictions. Others sold half-fats ahead of "compliance" and still others switched to grass feeding for slower but cheaper gains. However, on Monday's short run—6,000 at Omaha—trade on slaughter beeves was steady to 25c up, generally best trade on better kinds.

Bulk of steers and yearlings brought $32.50-$35.50, better steers reached $37.50, quotable top was $38.00. Plain shortfeds slid down to $27.50, but weighty and fat Western-origin Holstein steers scored $33.00 and $33.75, latter paid for 1481-pounders. Best heifers were some at $34.25 but mixed yearlings sold to $36.25.

Cows sold steady tho trade was uneven. Canners and cutters ranged from $17.50 to $22.50, bulk $19.00-$22.00. Beef cows reached $28.50, heiferettes $30.00. Bologna bulls sold to $30.50, beef to $29.50, odd head $30.00, Vealer top held at $38.00; heavier killing calves sold to $33.00, odd head to $35.00.

Stocker and feeder trade looked steady. The day's pacesetters were Colorado stock heifers weighing 575 at $36.25. Other stock heifers sold at $33.50; there were yearling stock steers to $36.00; and at $33.75-$34.25 were steers weighing 710-900 that had had some grain, but which went back out for more finish.

Butcher hog trade on an 8900 run was unevenly 25c lower to 25c higher, 180 to 360-pounders $19.75-$22.00. Sows sold steady to 25c up, 270-550-pounders $17.75-$20.25, choice lights to $20.50. Stags brought $14.50-$17.50.

Fat lambs sold steady to 50c lower, the break on old crop shorn. Spring lambs last week were hammered down as much as $2.00. Bulk of those Monday brought $35.00 and $35.25, top figure including Kansas 93-pounders. Several loads 90 to 101-pound old crop shorn lambs with No. 1 and 2 pelts, and most of them including some yearlings, sold at $32.50-$33.50. Shorn slaughter ewes sold steady, mostly $12.00-$17.50, culls down to $10.00.

M. B. Cummins, Ord, to Be Candidate for State Legislature

5-Times Ord Mayor Tosses Hat in Ring in 29th District.

M. B. (Bert) Cummins, five times mayor of Ord and present chairman of the Valley county board of supervisors, today announced his 1952 candidacy for nomination and election in the 29th unicameral legislative district to succeed Hugh Carson, who has filed as a candidate for governor on the republican ticket.

The 29th district is made up of Valley, Howard, Greeley and Wheeler counties.

Mr. Cummins has an ideal background for the elective position he seeks. He is 62 years old and 61 of these years have been spent in Valley county. Born in Davis Creek township, he grew to manhood there and farmed until 1936.

While living on the farm he served several terms as Davis Creek township clerk.

M. B. (Bert) Cummins

He began auctioneering in 1917 and handled sales all over the Loup Valleys country for almost 20 years before he became co-owner of the Ord Livestock Market in 1936 and retired from farming to devote full time to this business. From 1933 to 1936 he owned and operated a hardware store in Arcadia.

Throughout his lifetime Bert Cummins has been active in support of liberal, independent, progressive farm movements. He was an organizer and first president of the North Loup Cooperative Cheese company, was an original stockholder in the Ord Cooperative Creamery company and the Ord Cooperative Oil company. He was one of the pioneers in movements which later brought about irrigation, soil conservation and the present PMA program. He is a member of the Ord Chamber of Commerce and a stockholder in the Ord Cooperative hospital.

Once located in Ord as a partner and manager of the Ord Livestock company Mr. Cummins consented to his name being put up for mayor of Ord and as a result he was elected and served five two year terms in this office, finally refusing to run for another.

During his tenure city debts were cut down and taxes reduced. Many city improvements were made.

In World War I Cummins worked as a "Minute Man" in selling bonds. In World War II he served 4 years on the Valley County selective service board.

At present he is chairman of the Valley county board of supervisors and states that regardless of his campaign for the unicameral legislature he will finish his elective term to the supervisory board.

He believes in economy in government, in business-like managerial methods in government and in the golden rule in government, in business and in private life. He is a member of the Masonic lodge and of the Methodist church.

In Mr. Cummins Valley county is presenting a strong candidate to succeed Hugh Carson. No man in the 29th unicameral district is better known and none has more friends. He has definite ideas about the way state government should be conducted and expects to wage a strong campaign for nomination and election.

. . . Worry, confusion and bewilderment are shown on the face of Catcher Stan Johnson as he tried to find the ball in that fantastic 4th inning, while two more Loup City runs scored. In fact, confusion and bewilderment troubled the entire Mustang team and caused the 8-6 loss to Loup City.

. . . Yet Bill Beasley's face and actions show plenty of confidence as he trots across plate after his 9th inning home run, making the score 6-8. Too bad no runners were on at the time.

Hapless Mustangs Give 8-6 Game Away Sun. to Loup City Red Wings

The Ord Mustangs lost another ball game Sunday night.

They lost it, 8 to 6, to the Loup City Red Wings.

It was a game they could ill afford to lose and one they didn't need to lose, for the Red Wings weren't the roaring lions they sometimes are and Lefty Kruegers sharp-breaking drop and breath-taking speed were strangely missing.

The Red Wings played poorly afield, also, making 4 errors.

And Ord had far better pitching, for Bill Novosad allowed only 3 hits for extra bases—the other 5 against him were all infield hits or Texas league bloopers.

In the first inning the Red Wings got an unearned run when Hogg wafted a lazy pop-up that dropped just behind third base. He was sacrificed to second by Babbitt and then Bill Novosad, with plenty of time, overthrew first on A. Krolikowski's easy grounder and Hogg came in on the overthrow.

There matters stod until the last of the 4th when Billesbach, leading off for Loup City, got a puky hit between 1st and second, a pop-up that was just a step too far back for the infield and not far enough for the outfield to handle. Things didn't look serious at that point but before the inning closed, and without a ball having been hit beyond the infield, they racked up 5 runs to make the score 6 to 0.

Grassmeyer tried to sacrifice Billesbach to second and Rollie Moore, who fielded the bunt, elected to try for Billesbach at second, with the result that both men were safe. Then Rasmussen laid down a bunt which Novosad fielded but he debated too long over which base to throw to and finally threw nowhere, which left the bases loaded and nobody out. Kruger grounded to Finley and Finley tried to cut a run off at the plate but was too slow and the run scored with Kruger also safe. Novosad fumbled Cady's slow roller and another Loup City run scored, leaving the bases still choked with nobody out. Then Hogg grounded to Novosad, who threw him out at first for the first out of the inning, but another run scored. Babbitt's pop-up bunt fell between Moore, Dugan and Novosad, and another run scored. Billesbach got his second hit of the inning, another blooper which brought in a run, but was caught off base and Carl Krolikowski fanned to end the agony.

Bacterial Leaf Spot Is Disease Affecting Wheat

Damage Serious If Wet, Cloudy Weather Continues Long.

Dr. M. Boosalis of the U. S. Department of Agriculture and John Wehing, extension plant pathologist, accompanied County Agent Dale on an inspection trip of the small grain fields of Valley county last week. Some of their findings will be of interest to local farmers.

They identified the disease which is causing so many yellow and dead leaves in the wheat fields as bacterial leaf spot. The disease thrives and spreads rapidly during wet cloudy weather. The effect on wheat yields, they said, would depend largely on the weather during the next two or three weeks. A continuation of this wet, cloudy weather could result in serious damage, but a change to dry sunny days would tend to check the progress of the disease. Bacterial leaf spot is also found on several native grasses including downy brome, and wild barley which furnish a source of infection for grain fields.

One of the main purposes of the visit of the two plant disease specialists was to make field investigations of barley in an attempt to determine what has caused the declining yields of barley in central Nebraska for the past several years. Ten years ago barley yields were good and there was a large acreage in this area but the average yield has fallen off steadily, as a result the acreage has been greatly reduced. In every barley field which was inspected considerable root rot was found. In some fields it was very severe with nearly all plants affected. This disease which is caused by a mold organism is carried over both in the soil and on the seed. Agronomists hope to find or develop varieties which are resistant to root rot, making it possible to grow profitable barley crops again in this area. The leaf spot disease which is attacking wheat is also showing up in many of the fields of barley.

A small amount of orange leaf rust was observed in all small grain fields, but no black stem rust was found.

For the past several years Mrs. Capron has been spending six months a year with her daughter, Mrs. Fred Coe, of Grand Junction, and six months with her son, Arthur E. Capron, of Seattle, Wash.

The couple celebrated their golden wedding anniversary in 1932, and in 1935, Mr. Capron passed away quietly.

Besides her son and daughter, Mrs. Capron is survived by a sister Mrs. Edna Jackson of Baker, Ore., and a brother, John Ramsey of Lava Hot Springs, Ida., four grandchildren and five great-grandchildren.

Lightning Hits Scotia Farm

Loss on Henry Groetsinger Farm Is $3000.

An estimated $3000 in damage was the toll at the Henry Groetzinger farm three miles east of Scotia, when lightning struck it at 11 p. m. Wednesday night.

Every light fixture in the one-story, eight-room house was torn from the walls, plaster knocked down, and sashes torn from every window in the house when the bolt struck. Double doors between two rooms were damaged beyond repair, the roof on the back porch raised several inches, and a partition torn from between a bedroom and clothes closet.

Norman Groetzinger, 14, was thrown from his steel bed and momentarily stunned by the bolt. His bed was torn down, burned brown and bent out of shape. A bedside radio was melted. The youngster received facial cuts and bruises and damage to the hearing in his left ear.

The fuse box in the ash room in the Groetzinger house was thrown into the kitchen, and the telephone blown from the wall. Lights in the barn were blown out, but those in the chicken house remained on.

The family took refuge at the Fred Sautter home for the remainder of the night. Next morning neighbors gathered to help clean up the wreckage. Loose plaster taken from the floors alone, amounted to nearly a wagonload.

Lightning struck the telephone in the house about two weeks ago.

Mustangs Will Face 2 Strong Opponents on the Ord Field

G. I. All-Star Team Here Thurs. Eve and St. Paul Sunday.

Tonight (Thursday) should see a sell-out crowd at the Ord athletic field when the Ord Mustangs play a worthy opponent, the Grand Island All-Stars. Drawing a bye in the Mid-Nebraska Night League play for Wednesday, Manager Rol Johnson booked into Ord the strongest team he could find.

The all-star group from Grand Island is built around the Island Supply team which is undefeated in inter-city league play there this year. Manager Spiehs has a team which features heavy hitting, fast infield play and excellent pitching from Bill Sweeney, who recently beat the Loup City Red Wings, and the Shelton Colts while hurling for Ravenna, Neal Whetstone, who pitched good baseball for Boelus in 1950 Mid-Nebraska league play, and Cecil Owen, a young right-hander who hasn't been defeated this year.

Many Grand Island players participate in other leagues but Thursday is an off night for all such leagues and Manager Spiehs expects to bring the "pick of the city" to Ord with him tonight.

Against this team Manager Johnson will start Beasley and if the Islanders get by with fewer than 15 strike-outs they may count themselves lucky. The Mustangs will be at full strength and may spring a surprise or two on fans, after holding a secret workout Tuesday evening.

Sunday night's game is an official Mid-Nebraska game which pits the Mustangs against St. Paul, one of the league's best and certainly the greatest long-ball hitting club in the league. Up to last night the Saints had 12 home runs to their credit with Luckasevlez, Huck Johnson and Dayton Jensen being the greatest sluggers. Ord beat this team 4 to 3 in their June 8 battle on the St. Paul field and it took a homer by Dan Dilla to do it, one of only two made by Ord this season. Bill Novosad, who beat St. Paul then, will again be on the mound for Ord.

Farewell Party for 2 Quiz Employees

Members of the Quiz staff are planning a farewell dinner for two valued members of the group, Harry and Lou McCormick, who are leaving Ord this week to accept positions in the mechanical department of the Council Bluffs Nonpareil, daily newspaper published at Council Bluffs, Ia.

The dinner will be served at the Veterans club at 7:00 Thursday evening and about 60 are expected.

Mr. and Mrs. McCormick came to Ord from Ida Grove, Ia., in April, 1947, to join the Quiz staff and have been regularly employed here since that time. Mr. McCormick as a floorman and Mrs. McCormick as a linotype operator. The Quiz management regrets the decision made by these fine, reliable people to move to Council Bluffs, which was made partly because their daughter and her two children are living in that city while her husband is in service overseas and partly because a brother-in-law is an executive on the Nonpareil staff. Mr. McCormick's father who is 88 also lives in Omaha.

To date the Quiz has been unable to secure competent replacements for the McCormicks and will be operating under difficulty until such replacements are found.

Church Lumber Made a Profit of $870

Used lumber from the old Presbyterian church was sold at auction Saturday by Bruce Covey and demand was brisk, so much so that the church realized a profit of $870 over cost of razing the church and hauling debris away, from the sale of used material.

Only a few buyers were on hand but all were bidders and the old lumber sold as rapidly as it was offered.

Construction of the new church will begin in a few days, says the general contractor, E. R. Horner.

Agnes Penas, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Louis Penas, Jr., became the bride of Pvt. Jerry A. Skala, son of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Skala, Sr., at a double ring ceremony performed by Judge Ellsworth Ball on June 16.

Wilhelmenia Skala of St. Paul was the maid of honor and the best man was Eldon Penas of Ord.

A white slipper gown was worn by the bride, made with a net yoke and a satin Bertha edged with lace. Long sleeves came to points over her wrists and her full skirt ended in a train. A fingertip length veil was fastened in place by a band of seed pearls. The bride wore a rhinestone necklace and earrings which were a gift of the groom.

Miss Skala, the maid of honor, wore a dress of orchid with a matching head band and she carried a bouquet of pink and white carnations.

A dinner was held for close relatives and friends at which a four tiered wedding cake topped by a bride and groom miniature decorated the bridal table.

When You and I Were Young

Ten Years Ago. — Samuel J. Garrison, 67, of Burwell, passed away in an Omaha hospital. — Mrs. Joseph Novosad, 69, passed away at her home in Ord. — Miss Twila Brickner became the bride of Glenn A. Stroud. — All 21-year-olds were ordered to register July 1st for military duty. — Cornelius Bicmond was the Ord boy picked to compete in Omaha July 1 for the honor of driving champion. — Dr. E. J. Smith of Burwell was elected president of the Old Settlers association at a picnic held in Bussell park and attended by about 400 persons. Grant Merritt and Oscar Jensen, both of Grand Island, were seriously injured when their auto turned over not far from Scotia. — At least 19 boys were to compete in a soap box derby held at Ord under the sponsorship of the Cosmopolitan club — A severe electrical storm June 21 brought 1.66 inches of rain to Ord. — Henry Bredthauer was having a 3,500 foot well drilled a few miles west of North Loup in the hope of striking oil. The well failed as did a second some time later near the Cnalk Hills.

Twenty Years Ago. — N street in Ord was to be the first to get gravel under the new gravel delivery, contract with Fred Ulrich, who was delivering the gravel from a pit on his father's farm north of Ord. — Roy G. Collison, for seven years general manager of the Ord Milling company and president of the Ord Chamber of Commerce, went to Kearney, where he was to manage the Midway Milling company. — Ordites were planning a big Fourth of July picnic in Bussell park. It was further announced that there would be no fireworks in Ord for 1931. — After finding that the night sale idea for the summer was not popular with the customers, the Weller Auction company returned to the regular Saturday afternoon sales. — Because of the rising of the Cedar river causing damage to his property, Christopher J. Lawless filed suit against the Western Public service asking damages in the amount of $50,000. —A Legion Junior baseball team was being formed at Ord, with Frank Andersen as coach. — Men from the United States department of agriculture found barberry bushes on the Jim Turek farm 12 miles southwest of Ord.

Thirty Years Ago. — Two cuts apeared on the front page of the Quiz, one of the Ord baseball team and the other of the crowd at a baseball game at the park. The pictures were OK, as they were taken by Orin Mutter, but the cuts made from them would not be accepted by any self-respecting newspaper today, thus showing how photo-engraving has improved during a period of thirty years. —The Paul Hanson team executed a clever runaway from the Weller Lumber yard north to the Ord Milling company, where they were stopped when they ran into a combination light and telephone pole, which they knocked down, disrupting both services. — Mr. and Mrs. T. Rockhold, residents of Ord for many years, left for California after selling their property four blocks south of the square to Mons Monsen. — The H. D. Leggetts were sojourning at Cullen Lake, Minn., and the Boss was writing letters of his experiences home to the Quiz. — Great interest was being shown in the Boys' and Girls' club work and a large number of Valley county youngsters were planning to raise porkers as members of the pig clubs. The idea, with variations, is being developed in the county once more at the present time.— Anthony Thill was badly burned about the arms when gas from a vacuum tank on a car he was repairing became ignited.

Forty Years Ago. — Prof. William C. Noll, principal of the Fairmont schools at the time, was married to Miss Fannie Blanche at York, Nebr. They still live at York, where Mr. Noll is connected with the college. —A description of the picnic grounds at Bussell park told picnickers to enter the park at the southwest corner, go down the path there and do their picnicking along the west side of the creek beneath the trees, with the steep west bank to cut off the heat of the sun. At that time the trees on the side of the present picnic grounds had not even been planted. — The people of Vinton were planning a big July Fourth picnic at the Paul Whitford grove. Quail H. Partridge, father of Chas. Partridge, died in Ord and his body was taken to Illinois for burial. — H. J. Schwaner put down a ney well for the city of Ord. THESE folks are enjoying something that's being pioneered by Buick.

It's freedom from the blinding glare of bright summer sunlight.

It's freedom from hot laps—caused by the sun's rays beating down through the broad expanse of windshield.

These freedoms trace to a new feature you may have noticed in '51 Buicks—a new kind of glass† with a cool, soft, blue-green tint, in every glass area of the car, front, side and back.

Buick engineers tell us that this "Buick first" reduces glare 18% over conventional glass—cuts sun heat as much as 45%—and Buick engineers are very conservative fellows.

This glare-and-heat-reducing Easy-eye glass is factory-installed at moderate extra charge. It gives you a built-in transparent "sun visor" right in the windshield—and it also dulls the dazzle of oncoming headlights at night.

As we've said, this is something Buick owners were the first to enjoy. It takes its place with such exclusives as the valve-in-head Fireball Engine—coil springs on all four wheels—the firm power linkage of torque-tube drive—and the magic of Dynaflow.*

As we've also said—rather modestly—"Smart buy's Buick."

Come in soon and find out what an understatement that really is.

*Equipment, accessories, trim and models are subject to change without notice. Standard on ROADMASTER, optional at extra cost on other Series.

†Optional at extra cost—available on most models. (Not presently available in California and Massachusetts.)

No other car provides all this:

DYNAFLOW DRIVE* • FIREBALL ENGINE
4-WHEEL COIL SPRINGING • DUAL VENTILATION
PUSH-BAR FOREFRONT • TORQUE-TUBE DRIVE
WHITE-GLOW INSTRUMENTS • DREAMLINE STYLING
BODY BY FISHER

When better automobiles are built BUICK will build them

R. L. Cochran Was First Governor in Nebraska to Serve 3 Terms in Row

Robert LeRoy Cochran, governor of Nebraska from 1935 to 1941, has the distinction of being the first man in the history of the state to serve three consecutive terms as governor. (Charles W. Bryan served three terms, but they were not consecutive.)

Born on a farm near Avoca, in Cass county, January 28, 1886, Roy Cochran (as he is universally called) grew up in Lincoln county. He attended a rural, sod school for a time, then went to Brady High school where he graduated in 1906. He worked his way through the University of Nebraska, completing the four year course in civil engineering in three years.

Following his graduation from the University, in 1910, he worked for a while with the county surveyor of Lincoln county, and then for a few months with the Santa Fe railroad.

He became county surveyor of Lincoln county in 1912, thus beginning the long career of public service in which he still is engaged. He became state bridge inspector in 1915, and deputy state engineer in 1917. During World War I he served as an artillery officer in the U. S. Army.

At the end of the war he returned to Nebraska to become a district engineer in the highway department. From 1923-1934, Mr. Cochran served as state engineer, holding that post under both Republican and Democratic governors.

The Democrats nominated him for governor in 1934. Defeating Dwight Griswold in the general election, Governor Cochran was twice re-elected. He defeated Dwight Griswold again in 1936; and in 1938 he defeated Charles J. Warner, Republican, and Charles W. Bryan, who was running by petition. In 1940 he made a try for the United States Senate, but was defeated by Hugh Butler.

At the beginning of his second term, Governor Cochran had the unique experience of delivering his inaugural address before the first session of the unicameral legislature. He served two years as chairman of the conference of state governors and as president of the council of state governments.

In 1941-42, Governor Cochran was on active duty as a colonel in the Army. Since 1942 he has held a number of high administrative posts in the federal government. Since 1945 he has bee chief of the civil works branch of the Bureau of the Budget, except for a time in 1947 when he served as deputy chief of the American Mission to Greece headed by Dwight Griswold.

Some Early Nebraska Railroads Had Short and Disastrous History

One of the most extraordinary stories in all of Nebraska's history is that of the Brownville, Fort Kearney and Pacific railroad. It is a prime example of speculative overconfidence in a period when reckless speculation was the order of the day. Its failure brought repercussions in the once-bustling Missouri River town of Brownville that are being felt to this day.

James J. Blake, formerly professor of history at Peru State Teachers' college and now with the American Embassy in Belgium, told the story of this unusual and unfortunate speculation in Nebraska History, September, 1948. I can only summarize it here.

The railroad building fever that hit Nebraska in the late sixties and early seventies brought with it a conviction that a good railroad connection was a fundamental factor in the success of any community; towns and counties bonded themselves freely to acquire railroads.

Brownville, Fort Kearney and Pacific was designed to connect Brownville with the Union Pacific at Kearney. This was only part of the dream, however—it would simply be one link in a great transcontinental system on which Brownville would be an important station. The Nebraska Advertiser declared that the railroad gave Brownville an opportunity to begin a, "new era in her progress and prosperity which will know no stoppage until she becomes one of the leading cities of the Missouri valley, a centre known to the commerce of the world."

Brownville bonded itself to the hilt, and private citizens liberally subscribed to the stock of the new organization. Unfortunately, however, their grandiose scheme fell through. Of the 340 miles projected, only 10 were built, and but four of these were permanently operated. One citizen wrote that it looked like "a rough road to travel. Three ties to a rail and nary gravel."

J. Sterling Morton, who called Brownville's support of the scheme an example of "communal suicide," described its effect on the city as follows: "The county seat was removed, mercantile houses and banks deserted the townsite, until in some of the best buildings on the main street bats and owls found their most secluded and comfortable roosting places. Grass grew in the streets that had been resonant with the rumble of farm wagons and brisk with the traffic of a rich and prosperous county."

Brownville never recovered from the shock of this failure. After more than three-quarters of a century some of the old grade still remains to remind its citizens of the ill-fated Brownville, Fort Kearney and Pacific Railroad.

Young Animals

Even a slight change in feeding schedule can cause a digestive upset in young animals, just as it does in human beings.

Super-Smooth Landings

A new landing system makes it possible for elevator cars to land so smoothly that passengers can't detect the exact instant the car stops.

When You and I Were Young

Ten Years Ago — Sen. J. T. Knezacek favored limiting the senators to not more than three bills each. Too bad it wasn't done. — The annual estimate for city expenses for the coming year was the same as for 1940, $18,000. — H. Elliott McClure was seeking public cooperation in taking a survey of the pheasants in the area. — This area received from one to three inches of moisture over the week end. — Mrs. Ericka Larsen, 60, died at Ericson. —Miss Dorothy Auble graduated from Hastings college. — Ord lost to North Loup 18 to 7, 17 errors by the local team having something to do with it. — Ord dealers were offering 9c a pound for old roosters in a cleanup drive. It would be nice to buy them for that now.— The Valley county grasshopper poison plant was in full operation. — Miss Eloise Norris and Floyd Beranek were married. — So also were Miss Angelina Wachtrle and Eugene Petska. — Then there were Miss Ava Leach and Chester E. Houtby, and Miss Alice Holoun and William C. Petska. — Mrs. Mary Holman observed her 89th birthday. — A butter institute was held at the court house.

Twenty Years Ago. — F. J. L. Benda had leased the south room in the new Ord Theater building and was planning to open a haberdashery there as soon as his new goods arrived. He has gone quite a way since then. — Miss Marjorie Hostetter of Douglas, Nebraska, sister of Mrs. Gould Flagg, was elected to teach in Ord high school. — Thieves broke into the Joe Ciemny pool hall in Elyria and stole $25 and a similar value in cigars and cigarettes. — Jimmie Blessing, 1½ year old son of Mr. and Mrs. Earl Blessing, was unharmed by a fall from a two-story window to a cement sidewalk. — The Union Pacific railroad was announcing a new pickup and delivery freight service, subject to the approval of the Nebraska state railway commission. — The home on the Bill Preston farm near North Loup was destroyed by fire, probably caused by rats gnawing matches in the pockets of a pair of overalls. — Two hundred sacks of North Loup pop corn was on its way to England under the Johnson Elevator company's label. — It was again stated that Ord was to be included in a new million dollar gas line construction program. It was one of several false starts, but gas has finally arrived (at Ord, Burwell and Arcadi, not North Loup and Scotia.

Thirty Years Ago. —Rev. Chudnacek lost his automobile by fire which started while he was returning from a Knights meeting at St. Paul, Nebr. — Irl D. Tolen and Alvin Blessing appeared before the state board of control to present the claims of Ord in having the new state reformatory located here. — Dr. Floyd Collins was married to Miss Clara Beck at Ceneral City May 21. At last accounts they were living at Mitchell, Nebr. — Pat Pardue lost all his clothing except what he had on in a fire at the home just south of the Ravenna creamery building. —A list of 150 eighth grade graduates was printed in the Quiz. Miss Lelia Moorman was superintendent of Valley county at that time. —The merchants of Ord were planning big things for their next bargain day, June 15. — Manager Bates Copeland protested an Ord-Greeley game because of interference by the crowd. The final score was 4 to 3 in favor of Greeley.

Forty Years Ago.—John Schmid returned from Omaha with a 40-horse power Auburn car. Clarence Bailey and Anton Kosmata accompanied him. They left Omaha at 8 a. m. and arrived in Ord at 7 p. m., same day. — Mr. and Mrs. H. G. Westberg and daughters left for Roseborough, Ore., where they expected to make their future home. — The first number of the Burwell Tribune off their new press had apeared the week before. W. C. Parsons, formerly of Ord, was the publisher. — C. J. Mortensen had accepted a position in the First National bank and was to work there during summer vacation. — J. J. Kepner and wife were moving to Grand Island to make their home. They drove there in a new Ford they had purchased from George Newbecker. — The four year old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thearon Beehrle died of scarlet fever. — The following officers were elected for Ord's first commercial club: president, J. C. Work; vice-president, A. J. Firkins; secretary, P. C. Perryman; treasurer, Vincent Kokes.

Fifty Years Ago. — The famous century class of the Ord high school put on their equally famous play "Reunion of the Centuries" at the old Reithardt opera house, which stood at that time on the south lot of the present Sinclair station. The play was written by members of the class under the direction of Miss Alta Jones and staged by Mrs. Ben Bridgford. There were 24 members, the largest class in Ord high to that date. Of these Mrs. Ava Clement Johnson lives at North Loup, John Rockhold at Comstock and Arthur Mensing at Burwell and Mrs. Geo. Parkins in Ord. — Ed Kates of the 1901 graduating class went to Lincoln to make his home as he had employment there. — A new cement crossing was installed between the court house and the post office building to the south, but it disappeared long ago. —Marshal Phil Busby was the contractor. — Harry Scott moved his motion picture machine to Ericson, where he was scheduled to give a show. That was fifty years ago remember. — Judge R. L. Staple issued a marriage license to Harold O. Cooley and Miss Lura Round, both of Arcadia. — The Ord Alumni association tendered a reception for the 24 members of the Ord high school graduating class, the affair being held in Odd Fellows hall, located right where it is today.

Fifty Years Ago. — R. F. Milford, former Ord miller and then of Casper, Wyo., had been given a patent on a non-refillable bottle.—A number of Ord citizens were planning an expedition to the famous goldfields of Alaska. Their names were not given. — A tornado swept through the heart of St. Louis with fearful loss of life. — A meeting was held in Ord for the purpose of promulgating a Fourth of July celebration. I wonder if Ord will ever have another celebration? — Reddy Ward of Loup City was in Ord. He was a famous ball player of those days. — E. J. Clements had been apointed a member of the board of examiners for admission to the bar, and had been instructed to draw up a list of questions on real estate and evidence. — Edgar Draper, Ord's photographer, had just purchased a completely new outfit for taking pictures. — Ord had two photographers in those days, the other being C. G. Henderson. — A party of fishermen returning from the Cedar river brought back some fine bass and several brown faces, whatever they might be. — Miss Myra Babcock of North Loup had been selected as one of the teachers at St. Paul for the coming year. — W. A. Anderson, pioneering in farming, cut his first cutting of alfalfa from an acre of ground and got more than two tons.

Sixty Five Years Ago. — There were trading in North Loup until the road could be improved. — There was a post office at Vinton and the postmaster there, name not given, was starting a grocery store in connection with the office. —The kindergarten department of the Ord schools put on a special program and the Ord opera house, which merited, and received, a long writeup. — The board of county court house, started some two years before, from the contractor, O. S. Haskell, on June 1, 1886. Five weeks later the first railroad arrived. — Johnny Gard, brother of Dr. George R. Gard, died at the family home in Kent, June 1.

Machinery Set Up for Under Age Pupils

According to Fred B. Appelget, county superintendent, the present law states that a child must be five years of age October 14 of the current year to be admitted to the beginner grade.

However, certain conditions will allow earlier entrance. This requires a test to be taken; Kearney State college is the nearest of the designated points.

To anyone wishing to use this service the state department of public instruction gives the following information: No tests are given after September 30. No tests necessary for entrance to first grade, but child must be six years of age before October 15. The parents should at the time of testing birth or baptismal certificate to determine the exact age of child, and a signed statement from the board of education of the district saying the child will be accepted if passed.

All arrangements should be made through the office of Mr. Appelget, the county superintendent.

Also, he reminds everyone that applications for high school tuition for the school year 1951-52 should be in his office not later than July 1.

John Ward Says Fuss Farm Was His Birthplace, But Walter 'Butch' Fuss Gets the Picture

Although John Ward, sage of North Loup, called the Quiz editor Wednesday evening to identify the Mystery Farm as his birthplace, the free enlarged picture went to Walter A. "Butch" Fuss, who called at the Quiz office to make formal identification of the farm on which he has lived for 25 years.

"I couldn't miss it," Butch said. "Every time I have been out in the field, I've looked at the buildings from just about the same angle as Ed Swopes did with his camera. Of course, I was on the ground, but you get what I mean."

Fuss said that the 160 acre farm was the old Ward homestead and that the first Mira Valley post office was located on the farm at one time.

The farm, which is seven miles south of Ord, was purchased by Adolph Fuss, father of Butch, in 1920. "Dad gave $180 an acre for it, right at the peak of things," Fuss said.

Butch started farming the place in 1926, when his father retired. The entire quarter is in cultivation, except for the large shelterbelts on the place. This year Fuss has 15 acres in alfalfa, and 130 acres in corn. Last year the large piece was in corn and barley.

EXHIBITION GAME

This team is built around the Island Supplies, league team undefeated this season. Spiehs, who catches for St. Paul, is team manager, pitchers include Cec Owen, Bill Sweeney and Neal Whetstone. Grand Island will send its best to Ord for this one.

Bill Beasley will pitch for Ord and the Mustangs will be at full strength. Maybe they'll show a surprise player or two to fans.

St. Paul Saints

vs.

Ord Mustangs

OFFICIAL LEAGUE GAME

The Mustangs edged out the Saints at their last meeting, thanks to an over-the-fence homer by Dan Dilla, but St. Paul is the heaviest hitting team in the Mid-Nebraska Night League and is always hard to beat. The Saints have hit 12 home runs so far this year.

It will be Bill Novosad on the mound again and you know how he fools the Saints. The Mustangs need this one . . . you can help.

Legion Wins First League Game, 8-1

The Ord junior legion baseball team won its first game of the season by defeating a junior legion team made up of North Loup and Scotia players at Scotia Sunday. Ord won the league game by a score of 8-1.

Patrick pitched the first five innings of the seven inning game while Jim Douthit caught for him. Then Crosley took over the catching position while Ign. Piskorski and Jim Douthit each pitched one of the last two innings of the game.

The legion's next game will be a league game with Sargent on the Ord diamond Sunday afternoon, June 24.

High Waters Still Hamper Fishing

Lincoln, Nebr.—Nebraska's fishing generally showed a slight improvement during recent days but still displayed the effects of heavy rains. Some creeks and rivers remained swollen while others began receding. Clearing and warmer weather is needed if fishing conditions are to improve.

According to the Game Commission's fishing roundup, Mrs. Luana Nelson of Valentine and W. E. Harvey of Superior set the pace for the state's anglers. Mrs. Nelson landed a 7-pound, 3-ounce largemouth bass, one of the largest bass reported taken this year. She was using a minnow and was fishing for crappie at the time the big bass hit.

Harvey hauled in a 20½-pound catfish. Two other anglers from his home town of Superior succeeded in landing good catches. Bob Hudson pulled ashore a 11-pound yellow cat and C. L. Whitney a 9-pound yellow cat.

Other anglers making fishing headlines were Dale Finch of Fremont who took a 6¼-pound bass from Fremont state lake No. 5; Marion Horn of Palisade a 12-pound catfish; Eddie Rosencutter of North Platte a 15-pound, 14-ounce cat from Maloney lake; Denny Razed of North Platte a 4-pound, 1-ounce largemouth bass from Maloney, and Rusty Schiltz of North Platte a 4-pound, 4-ounce trout, also from Maloney.

Heaviest fishing pressure of the week was reported in Warden Geo. R. Weidman's district—South Half Sioux, West half Morrill and Cheyenne, Banner, Kimball and Scotts Bluff counties.

Some of the better waters were: Platte river (catfish); Victory lake (bass, crappie); Fremont state lake No. 5 (bass, bluegill); Schuyler park lake (bluegill); Long lake (bullheads, bluegill); Long Pine pond (crappie, trout); Red Deer lake (bass, bullheads, bluegill); Box Butte reservoir (crappie, carp); Whitney lake (carp); Lake Minatare (bullheads, carp); Winter Creek lake (bullheads), and Kimball reservoirs (bass, trout).

Gardens

After winter garden plants are up to a stand, a light application of nitrate of soda will help them grow. For quickest results, dissolve a heavy tablespoonful of soda in a gallon of water and pour it along the row. A teacupfull of soda to 100 feet of row will be enough.

Fried Chicken

A broiled or fried chicken is properly cooked when the meat on the thickest part of the drumstick cuts easily, and no pink color is visible.

Ord's big inning was the 5th when Johnson was safe on an error, leading off, Finley singled, and Dick Beran walked to fill the bases with none out. Beasley's single brought one man in, Novosad's double scored two more and a 4th came in when R. Beran hit a sharp grounder to the infield but Bud Novosad went out, pitcher to first, and Dilla flied out to right field to end the threat. Still, the inning put Ord back in striking position, score being 6 to 4.

Loup City added two in the sixth, making it 8 to 4 but Ord came right back and scored on a hit by Stan Johnson and a pair of Loup City errors, making it 8 to 5. Beasley's long home run in the ninth was Ord's final effort and the game ended 8 to 6.

The game was poorly played and the officiating was poor Hulzeisen and Brady reversing themselves on two decisions and making several other bad calls that kept players and fans upset.

Throughout the evening rain threatened and within five minutes after the game ended the clouds broke and deluged playing field and highways with several inches of rain. So far as Ord fans were concerned it could have rained earlier; they would have been better satisfied with the evening's entertainment.

Ammonium Fertilizer.

We have just had in three carloads. Two of Nitrate and one of Sulphate. We have about 12 tons of the 21% Nitrogen on hand but the 33½ is just very scarce. If you do not have your Nitrogen ordered we believe that you could do well to get some of this 21% and hasten the maturity of your corn as well as a nice increase in the yield. In regard to allotments for the balance of 1951: we will have a couple more cars by the middle of July and do not expect any other allotment till in Dec. 1951. This Dec. carload is nearly all spoken for and we have quite a lot of our tonnage for 1952 promised. If you are going to use Nitrogen Fertilizer we feel that you should by all means get your order placed right now, as we are told that our allotment for the next twelve months will do doubt be cut a considerable amount.

Fertilizer Containing Phosphate.

At present we have a small amount of 10-20-0 and 0-20-0 in the warehouse and just at present know where we can get a limited amount of 0-43-0 for use on your alfalfa fields this fall. The fall is a very good time to place Superphosphate on your alfalfa ground and also a very good time to place 10-20-0 or Nitrate on your Wheat fields; and Nitrate on your Brome Grass fields. If you have not used fertilizer in the past you owe it to yourself to try out a limited amount this year.

Fertilizer Spreaders.

We have a used Fast Flow Spreader that we will make an attractive price on, and we have a new Gandy with all attachments. These Gandy Spreaders and Seeders are the very finest in their field Let us quote you a price on either one of these Spreaders.

Hybrids.

Nothing in the history of agriculture has so taken the fancy of the farmer as hybrid corn, and for a good reason. Hybrid seed is the sure seed. It will germinate when the old style seed would rot in the ground. Hybrid seed is the seed that has different varieties adapted to different types of soil, to varying lengths of season, to irrigation or dry land farming. Add to this the fact that hybrids have greatly increased the per acre yield of the nation, and you have the reason why farmers demand it.

The past few years have proven the need for hybrid seed. The farmer of the old days wanted to be in the field planting corn by May 10. For a number of years now that date was completely out of line, and the time for starting planting has been pushed back by weather conditions from ten to fifteen days. As practically no open pollinated seed is used in this area, it is difficult to compare the old type and the new, but it is certain that the old type seed requires a longer growing period than most hybrids.

In the old days many farmers had a small box on the side of their husking wagon into which they threw the best ears while they were husking and these were saved to use for seed the next year. Others went right into the field and selected their seed from the standing stalks. Still another method was to pick out seed while unloading the corn, and the last and poorest was to select it while the crib of corn was being shelled.

Many items entered into the chances of obtaining good seed in those days. Today much of the guess work has been taken out of the corn crop. With taxes as high as they are, with machinery to farm economically costing as much as it does, the farmer cannot afford to fool with any but the best seed. If the seed does not germinate the first planting there is not time enough left for a second planting to mature. The man who invented hybrid seed corn is entitled to a diadem.

The Fourth of July.

The Fourth of July is the one holiday peculiar to America. Thanksgiving was given a special significance by the early settlers of New England, but it had been observed long before under similar names, and is now observed practically all over the world with the exception of communist countries. Christmas has been observed on Dec. 25 since the fourth century, A. D. and is observed practically all over the world.

Likewise the custom of holding a memorial day far antedates the customary date of May 30 on which it is observed in America. It is observed all over the world also, though under various names. Arbor Day, started by a Nebraskan and for Nebraska, is not officially observed in all the states, but it is observed in Canada and also in a number of other countries. American in spirit and concept, it has outgrown America.

The observance of July Fourth as our national holiday did not come by accident, for the men who brought it about met in Philadelphia for the purpose of formulating some sort of a declaration. The final decision as to what would be embodied in that document came after long arguments and bitter debates. Not all the colonies signed at first, but some of the representatives signed against their better judgment at the time.

The causes that made possible the assertion of American National Independence must be sought, not merely in the oppressive legislation which directly harried the colonies into revolts, but, back of that, in the political institutions they had evolved for themselves; in the self-dependence made necessary by the distance and indifference of the mother country; in their ardor for commercial and territorial expansion, and in the occasional and temporary unity of action to which they were from time to time forced for mutual defense against a common enemy.

When the struggle which ended in the revolution began, the thirteen colonies were, as regards internal affairs, to all ends and purposes representative democracies. All of them elected legislatures which made laws, laid taxes, levied troops, provided for grants, and formed a real government of the people by the people. Two of the colonies, Connecticut and Rhode Island, held charters which permitted them to choose their own governors as well. So complete were these two charter grants that when the union was formed no change was needed in the structure of the two states.

Looking more closely into the political structure of the colonies, we find in New England the purest form of democracy the world has ever known, in the town meeting system. In these town meetings every citizen had his right to speak and his vote, and the meeting assumed the fullest authority over all local matters, forming also, the unit for legislative representation. In the southern colonies the county took the place of the town as the political unit.

While in New England the colonists were closely united by race, religion and common purpose, the colonies of New York, Pennsylvania, Maryland and the Carolinas were of a population comparatively mixed and much less unified. For this reason we find that the proportion of tories in these colonies was far greater during the revolution than in the other colonies.

It was in these colonies that we find the watchword cropping up: "No taxation without representation." This idea was first expressed in Massachusetts in 1728. The doctrine, in principle, was that money raised by the people should be expended by the people. The colonies had frequent occasion to unite against the common enemy, usually the Indians, but their chief cause came with the French and Indian war.

Writs of Assistance, the Stamp act, the quartering of troops in the colonies and by the colonists, the Boston Tea Party, all were signs along the highway of time pointing to the inevitable separation of the colonies from England. That this separation must come was a foregone conclusion among colonial leaders, the only question being when the separation would take place. The signing of the declaration of independence, July 4, 1776, marked the actual date of that separation.

The colonies had a long, bitter struggle ahead of them, a struggle that seemed hopeless at first, a struggle that was made the harder by the presence in their midst of thousands who still held their allegiance to the mother country. The tories were not traitors. They believed the revolution impractical, that the colonies were not strong enough of themselves to get along without the aid of England.

The Declaration of Independence was made during the stress of war. Born of war, it has meant since that time that this nation has had to go to war on a number of occasions to maintain the principles for which the colonists fought. Today we are engaged in an undeclared war, why undeclared, nobody knows, to help a sister nation to maintain the principles set forth in that declaration.

We are traveling a long road and a hard road, a road from which there is no turning if we are to survive as a free nation. For this reason the observance of July Fourth this year should have special significance. We should not look upon it as a celebration, but rather as a day that marked the beginning of a principle among nations, a principle that today is facing its severest test before the world.

It is fitting that our unicameral took much of the unnecessary ribaldry out of the celebration in Nebraska by banning most fireworks. The observance this year should be one of quiet meditation over the long way we have come as a nation, of thought about the long years that lie ahead. If we should lose those rights granted us under the constitution then the Fourth of July will have lost its meaning.

Whenever I go to Loup City to a baseball game, I wonder why we can't adopt some of the nice features they have?

Why can't we have a scoreboard for our baseball field? So that we can glance at it, and know what's what. Mr. and Mrs. Wayne Turner, who were sitting beside me, said they'd often talked of it.

They also have a neat arrangement for taking car of the bats and balls. A sort of open box, with a slanting bed for the bats so that it's easy to choose a bat.

Then they have music broadcast before their games: that's pleasant on a summer evening.

And not least by any means, they open their games with the playing of the Star Spangled Banner. Why save our patriotism for the Fourth, and for Memorial Day and Armistice Day?

—oOo—

It was terribly exciting to me to have the fun of seeing and hearing, at long last, the St. Louis Municipal Opera. Such fun! No wonder St. Louis people are so proud of their opera, Sunch fun! No wonder St. Louis people are so of their operas, each St. Louisan acting as if it were HIS baby. This is the 33rd year it has been given, out under the stars, where a sloping hillside has been transformed by tiers of seats, and the stage and scenery are not cramped, but can be really large.

—oOo—

They were playing Sigmund Romberg's Nina Rosa last week, and though I had never heard it, Romberg is always good entertainment and this was no exception.

Costumes were South American, there was a beautiful heroine, there was a villain, there was a lost mine which the handsome American hero succeeded in finding, there were some of the cleverest comic dancers I have ever seen anywhere.

The music was delightful, everyone left there humming and singing. Next day I was sure I could hear some of the tunes gently echoing in the corridors of that most dignified Chase Hotel where we met.

The scenery was monstrous in size. To shift it gracefully they simply turned the floodlights on the audience for a minute, then turned them back to the stage, and presto, a new set was in place and the action hurled on.

Each program at the municipal opera is presented for a week to two weeks, and everyone goes. It is THE treat of the city, and the surrounding countryside. There is a singing and dancing chorus of 90: an orchestra and what an orchestra, of 50. Internationally famous stars appear often.

This year the schedule calls for, after Nina Rosa, High Button Shoes, Music in the Air, Miss Liberty, Die Fledermaus, Girl Crazy, a festival of Rodgers and Hammerstein music, The Bohemian Girl, The Merry Widow, The Wizard of Oz, and The Great Waltz finishing the season on September 2.

—oOo—

Advertising convention members were guests, and this was fitting, for the municipal opera was begun in 1914, partly as an entertainment to offer a convention of the Advertising Clubs of the World, which was being held in St. Louis that year.

—oOo—

Of course there were some famous people speaking at the convention, but more fascinating, almost, was it to see the award given for the best high school essay in the United States on the subject of "What Advertising Means to Me."

A $500 cash prize, and free trip to the convention went with this.

It was won by the prettiest, sweetest little brunette miss, 18-year-old Geraldine Lamm, an orphan just graduated from the Methodist Orphanage High School at Raleigh, N. C. So good was her essay, so attractive her demeanor, so pleased were the listeners by her thoughts as she gave them, that they did something unheard of. They passed the hat, and gave her another $550 with which to go on to business college as she planned.

In a pretty blue dress she had made herself to wear at the big banquet when she would be honored, Geraldine accepted the offering as modestly as she had spoken.

The same old Horatio Alger story, female version.

But how Americans love it.

Especially when the young lady is so appealing.

Recent news releases stating that many big businesses and branches of government were having their employees psychoanalyzed, tested for aptitude, etc, brings to mind an old story:

Needing a new secretary, the firm's president decided to have applicants judged by a psychologist. Three girls were interviewed together.

"What do two and two make?" the psychologist asked the first. "Four," was the prompt answer. To the same question the second girl replied: "It might be 22." The third girl answered: "It might be 2 and it might be 4."

When the girls had left the room, the phychologist turned triumphantly to the president. "There," he said, "that's what psychology does. The first girl said the obvious thing. The second smelled a rat. The third was going to have it both ways. Now, which girl will you have?"

The president did not hesitate. "I'll have the blonde with the blue eyes," he said.

Ed Krikac of Comstock would solve the farmer's problems:

"The South Bridge correspondent has been crying about planting his corn for several weeks and I think it's silly. In fact, I think farmers are all silly the way they plant their corn. They could do it much easier and have a lot of time for fishing. (I suppose some one will come up with "who wants to go fishin'?")

Farmers plant their corn a seed at a time (like setting type by hand) and that is not the most sad part of it. They also string it all over the field and in the fall they have to run all over the field to pick it.

Suppose we were to print a paper and put only one word on each page. It would take a long time to do it and it would take a long time to read it, too.

Now if the farmers would dig a large hole, bury their seed corn in one spot they could save a lot of time. During the summer they could build a crib near the hole and in the fall they could almost sit in an easy rocker, pick their corn and throw it into the crib.

Heck, Alleman, if you will only modernize your farming you won't need to cry."

We don't know Dorothy Long of Germany or her dad, E. H. Long, of Sac City, Iowa. But the letter she wrote to her dad last week is a prose poem that deserves reprinting:

June 12, 1951

Dearest Dad:

Aagin I won't be with you on Father's Day but I'll be thinking of you and hoping you have a very nice day and if I were to have my way I'd ask the robins, to be at your window to waken you to a beautiful sunrise, cool morning and dew on the garden.

I'd ask for sweet perfume from the iris, syringa and honeysuckle, and I'd ask the sun to play over the hedge and the oak trees where the swings used to be. And at twilight I'd ask the cool breeze to rustle the porch curtains as the stars quickly twinkle into place.

Then I'd ask that your dreams be filled with happy familiar things of Peg reciting her declam piece in the front room; of the shadows cast by the street light over the games of run sheep run; of Bob in a starched white shirt starting on a date in the family car; of the smell of popcorn from the kitchen; of Kay's familiar tunes on the piano; of Mother busy dipping up the ice cream you bought at the Greek's and of me dashing through the house amid the excited barks of Paddy.

Then I'd ask that all my love reach you on Father's Day.

Christian Science Services
"Is the Universe, Including Man, Evolved By Atomic Force?" is the subject of the Lesson-Sermon which will be read in Christian Science churches throughout the world on Sunday, June 24, 1951.
The Golden Text is: "We give thee thanks, O Lord God Almighty, which art, and wast, and art to come; because thou hast taken to thee thy great power, and hast reigned." (Revelation 11:17). Other Bible citations include, "For thus saith the Lord that created the heavens; God himself that formed the earth and made it; he hath established it, he created it not in vain, he formed it to be inhabited: I am the Lord; and there is none else." (Isaiah 45:18).

Ward's What's Cookin' Column

A month or two ago I got the insane idea that it would be nice to fix up the curb in front. The irrigation ditch runs just outside the walk, and the outside bank had been too high all the time, so I cut it down and leveled it out the width of the curb and all along the front of the place. I took the clinkers from the furnace and tamped them into the driveway between the curb and the highway, and really had everything looking fine. I then spaded the curb, raked it, let it season a few days, and then, just before a heavy rain, I sowed it to bluegrass. Since it was raining at the time, I was sure nobody would walk across it, and I wanted it to be perfect.

Then came the rain, more than an inch of it. While it was pouring down a bunch of men came looking for rooms. They had no time to notice the curb, and one of them ran right across it, making tracks 14 inches long, 6 inches wide and 3 inches deep, four of them. A little later a kid rode his bicycle down the sidewalk, then across the irrigation ditch and into that soft dirt. He mired down and had to get off and wade out. Still later a dog with feet as big as a cow came along and walked right through that curb. As the days went on that curb was dented with tracks of all kinds, from sparrows to autos, and no spot escaped the damage.

Damage, did it say? That is what I thought it was. The rains continued every day, and in time the bluegrass began to make its apearance. Believe it or not, those places where everybody walked, or rode or waded came up first, and had the best stand of grass. All of which shows that it doesn't pay to worry about anything. I suppose the grass, accustomed to germinate under difficulties when left to shift for itself, actually does better in adversity.

And that brought up another line of thought. What is true of the grass is true of humanity. The young fellow born in the lap of luxury is under a handicap all his life. He seldom gets anywhere by his own push, but by the pull of the money in the family. He never knows what trouble is, in a sense, and yet he actually has more trouble than anybody. Life is a battle, and he, instead of leading the charge, is back with the paymaster or with the commissary department. He may not get shot, but, when he gets back into civilian clothes, he will not have much to talk about. Yes, young men, don't waste any time envying the fellow who does not have to work for a living. He is having a helluva time, and not the way it looks to you.

John L. Anderson threatened me with personal violence if I said anything about him. He usually tells me where I can go, but I haven't gone yet, and I am not afraid of the big lug, either. His fellows of the Lions club of North Loup have noted that recently John has become a connoisseur of art, and has taken to spending money lavishly for pictures of any kind that may take his fancy. He already has a fine collection of photos, some of which he takes himself, and some of which he purchases, sometimes paying as much as a couple of bucks for a single print. Oh well, it is a harmless pastime and every man should have a hobby of some kind. If you want any further particulars, ask John. I have said all I dare to.

And, speaking of John, reminds me of the fact that he is about the tallest Lion in captivity, or at least in Valley county. In fact North Loup has quite an assortment of Lion members from Ord. Besides Tall John, we have Big John Haskell who outweighs all the other members even after taking off a hundred pounds or so. Then there is George Hastings, who is one of the smallest Lions along with Shorty Cress, Martin Dunklau and one or two others. They may be quite a variety, but they are just as good Lions as any in the whole North Loup cage.

Last week, I mean two weeks ago, I asked a question which got a quick answer, I am passing it on to others who may wish to know. I wondered about the present location of Harry Kates, if living. Mrs. Ord Twombley phoned the evening the paper came out to give the gentleman's address, which is: 1420 Palm Ave., Ntional City, Calif. Harry has been away from Ord a long tie, but no doubt a number of former friends will be interested in obtaining his present address. Now, if somebody will tell me the present location and status of John R. Heddle, Class of 1904, OHS, another mystery will be solved and the class record will be complete.

I saw an interesting sight when I was walking into Ord recently, and one that seemed really funny to me. It had been muddy and Mart Beran was out cleaning up the driveway of the Texaco station with a scoop. What made it funny was the fact that, not too many years ago there was a livery stable across the highway. In those days people had a different method of travel and scoops were a necessary part of stable equipment. Times do not change much. These days they use scoops to clean up after the automobiles.

Ed Swopes has a number of enlarged photos up on his wall, and four of these at last accounts were lined up, side by side. Six months ago all these men were living. Ed's father was the first to go, then Anton Bartunek and finally Charley Palmatier. That leaves one, and, if you don't know who it is, it is John L. Ward. If I were superstitious, which I am not, I might be making plans for the future. No, when my time comes, if it be next week or thirty years from now, I expect to be ready to go, as ready as I will ever be. One things is sure, I will go.

Recently I had occasion to start on foot to Ord. It was at the time when the road was in its worst condition after the spring thaw. If some auto manufacturer is looking for a test course for his cars, he need look no farther. That half mile north from North Loup on Highway 11 is a real test, even for a fellow traveling on foot. This is no criticism of the local road maintenance men. They certainly have their hands full.

Horace M. Davis brought up an interesting subject recently when he wondered what the present population of the North Loup cemetery is. He has a theory that the number of people in a cemetery will about equal the number in the town about the time all the original settlers have passed away. In this connection we might place the present population of Ord at about ten thousand, if we include Graceland addition. A rough guess places the Graceland population at from seven to eight thousand. It would take a long time, but a complete check of the records should give the correct number. It is true these resting citizens do nothing to build up the town, not any more. Neither do they do anything to tear it down, which is more than some live people can boast of.

The trouble with many towns is that all the dead people are not in the cemetery. The fellow who is waiting around to be buried, unless he is physically unable to accomplish anything, is more of a drag on the community than he is after he is planted. The worst of it is that, while he may not be doing any good locally, he usually finds time to tear down what others have built up. If you are not willing or able to do anything yourself, for Heavens sake get out of the way and let the men who are working have a clear field.

When people are young they are very particular about the use of condiments. In the cafe you will note that the young people always put on salt and pepper to suit their varying tastes. They use plenty of catsup or mustard on hot dogs, Worcester or other sauce on steaks. They want their food seasoned just right. As people get older they pay less attention to these details, or, in some cases, they greatly increase the amount of seasoning, especially pepper. The reason probably is that a person's taste becomes impaired with age, so they either increase the quantity or they get to a point where they do not care.

Each week I try to find something suitable with which to end this column, and this week I believe I have about the best that I have written for some time. It is better because I did not have to think of it myself. Somebody a lot smarter than I ever hope to be had thought of it and he had it made up on cards and sent them all around the country, in the vain hope that people like me would take the hint and do as the slogan requests. Here it is, just as it apears on the wall of a businessman's office in Ord:

"O Lord, help me to keep my big mouth shut until I know what I am talking about!"

Bond Sales Total $17,156 During May

C. J. Mortensen chairman of the Savings Bond committee announced today that total sales in Valley county amounted to $17,156.25 during May.

At the same time Leland R. Hall, state director of the Savings Bonds Division announced that sales in Nebraska totaled $5,031,391.25.

"Everyone interested in the Defense Bond program and the welfare of our citizens should be proud of this record, especially in view of the fact that 70% of the sales was in series 'E' Bonds—the Peoples Bond," Hall said. "This indicates a wide distribution and no doubt is aided by the increase in the number on Payroll Savings."

Dr. Haldeman Visits Ord Again

An Ord visitor Friday, after an absence of many years, was Dr. Keene Haldeman, of Berkeley, Cal., who was accompanied by Mrs. Haldeman and two of their three daughters. The eldest was married recently and did not accompany her family on this eastern trip.

A few present Ord people will remember Keene Haldeman as the son of Dr. F. D. Haldeman, a pioneer Ord physician and surgeon. For years the family occupied the large residence west of the Ord township library now owned by Mrs. Charles Bals, of Belgium.

Keene was born here in 1898 and graduated from Ord high school with the class of 1917. Mrs. Haldeman having passed away, his father disposed of his practice here and moved to Lincoln so Keene might attend University of Nebraska, but a year or two later they moved to California, locating at Berkeley where the elder Dr. Haldeman died some years ago.

Dr. Keene Haldeman was graduated from the University of California medical college, and then entered private practice at Berkeley, specializing in orthopedic surgery and also teaching this subject in the medical college there. The Haldeman family recently bought a ranch in the Ojai valley, near Santa Barbara, where much of their time is spent.

Dr. Haldeman retains some property interests here, has kept up his Quiz subscription all these years, and was a pleasant Quiz visitor Friday, accompanied by E. S. Murray, who looks after his Valley county interests. He commented that Ord has not changed a great deal physically but that there has been a great turn-over in population. He still finds a few people whom he knew while attending high school and in the Quiz still finds many familiar names in every issue. "That's the reason I keep my subscription going," he said laconically.

—Kenny, Ronny and Joyce, children of Mr. and Mrs. Alvin Anderson, are visiting Mrs. Anderson's parents, Mr. and Mrs. William Christensen of Bloomfield. The three children plan to spend a month visiting their grandparents.

THE Ord Quiz

The Loup Valley Region's Big Newspaper — "Read by 3,476 Families Every Week"

Wrecks Own Car; Fined for Not Reporting Mishap

North Loup Man Has Double Trouble; Judge Keeps Busy.

When Edward Whalen backed his own car off a bluff near his farm home at North Loup, he figured he had plenty of trouble for the car was wrecked although he and his small son escaped injury when the car tumbled.

This week Mr. Whalen had more troubles. He was fined $10 and costs of $4 in county court for failure to report the accident to the state highway department within 24 hours.

The gimmick, according to county judge Ellsworth Ball, Jr., is that all accidents exceeding $50 in damages must be reported, no matter how they happen. "Didn't believe it myself until I looked up the law," the judge said. "But there it was in black and white."

After a two weeks lull, petty criminal affairs in Valley county returned to normal with four cases disposed of, and another set for hearing on Monday.

Murlin Wullenvaber of Seward paid a $5 fine and costs of $6 for issuing an insufficient fund check to the Ord Auto Sales Co. He also made the $10 check good.

Maynard L. Sillivan of Comstock paid a fine of $10 and costs of $4 for driving without a rear view mirror, and Harvey E. Pierce of Taylor drew a fine of $15 and costs of $4 for being intoxicated.

Set for hearing Monday are charges against Dr. A. J. Ferguson for driving while intoxicated.

In Grand Island Monday, Edward Potrzeba of Ord paid a fine of $25 and costs and was ordered not to drive for 120 days after he pleaded guilty to a drunken driving charge.

Arcadia Planning Celebration on 4th

Arcadia is planning a Fourth of July celebration to top last year's observance. This year's program will include a parade in which all school districts, local business firms and organiaztions will enter floats.

A horse show will be staged by the Spring Creek saddle club, while a ball game between Arcadia's LVL entry and the Loup City Red Wings will be held in the afternoon. There will be several races for children.

Amateur prize fights are scheduled for the evening. A feature of the day will be the "West vs. the East" tug of war with Merle Moody and Walt Dobson as captains.

Cotesfield People in Hit-Run Accident

The Harold Day family of Cotesfield, returning home from a day spent with the Ralph Heubner family in Lincoln, were involved in a hit-run auto accident a short distance north of Elba Sunday evening.

Although the Day car was thrown across the road into a ditch, no one in the car was hurt. Property damage was considerable.

Patrolman Otto Zapp, who investigated the accident, said that a pickup would soon be made of the hit-run drivers, whom he believed could be identified without difficulty. The rear bumper of the hit run car caught the front wheel of the Day car.

Horse Fly Wrecks Irrigation Canal

Things have come to a pretty pass when a common, ordinary, horse fly can put an irrigation canal out of commission.

It happened on the Emil Skolik farm, just south of North Loup where the Ord-North Loup canal has a particularly low flume.

Flies bite horses. And horses itch. If you were a horse and couldn't scratch, what would you do? That's right, you'd rub! And that's what this horse did.

The handiest place was the irrigation flume and due to the vigorous rubbing and bucking, about nine feet of the sheet steel flume wall was caved in.

Ordinarily, during fly time, the flume carries water but due to flood conditions near Taylor, the water had been shut off from the canal, making it easy for the horse fly to start the chain of events. Cost to the district—about $40 in labor and material.

Ravenna Ousts Wings as Leader; Ord Now Down to 6th Place

Wood River's 7-6 Win Over Loup City Puts Ravenna at Top.

For the first time this season the Mid-Nebraska Night league has a new leader, Ravenna ousting the Loup City Red Wings last week from the top spot, thanks to a victory by Wood River over Loup City which also boosted Wood River to third spot in the loop.

The Ord Mustangs sank to 6th spot, just above Boelus, after their third loss in a row Sunday. There are still 14 league games to be played and two or three victories by the Mustangs would put them right up to the top, so closely are the six teams bunched.

Tonight (Wednesday) the Mustangs go to Ravenna to play the league leaders. In their only previous encounter this year, Ord slapped Ravenna down 10 to 0—their worst loss of the year. The Mustangs think they can do it again. Bill Beasley probably will start for Ord and Manager Rol Johnson hopes Bud Novosad will be back at second base. He plans a reshuffling of players to get all the batting strength he can into the line-up and probably will be touring the left garden himself, with Jack Koll playing at third base.

Sunday night the Mustangs again travel, this time to Wood River, and again they will get a chance to advance by knocking off one of the leaders. Wood River beat Ord in a close game here two weeks ago.

That word was received by his relatives this week. His parents, Mr. and Mrs. Paul Coufal, live on a farm four miles south of Scotia. Island Supply Team Plays Mustangs in Ord on July 4th Teams Played 0-0 Tie in Rain, Meet Again in Holiday Encounter.

The Island Supply baseball team, otherwise known as Grand Island All-Stars, will be opponents of the Ord Mustangs in an exhibition game to be played on the Ord Athletic field at 8:30 on the evening of Wednesday, July 4.

Manager Spiehs promises to bring to Ord the same players who hooked up with the Mustangs in a 0 to 0 six inning tie game in the rain two weeks ago, the game having to be called when the downpour grew heavier. He will start G. Wells on the mound and Karle will play either 2nd base or shortstop.

Rol Johnson will probably start Beasley, who had such a terrific pitching duel with G. Wells last time these teams met. And the Ord line-up will be the same as then. A full 9-inning game will be played.

The Ord management had expected to play an exhibition game here July 4 against the Ajax Jets, an Omaha negro team, but Matchmaker Matt Pascale advised Tuesday that the Jets could not make the trip for a night game and attempted to substitute an afternoon game. Because several near-by owns have baseball games in the afternoon in connection with July 4th celebrations the Ord management insisted on a night encounter, which ended the negotiations.

The Island Supply team, best semi-pro aggregation is the Grand Island area, is a crowd pleaser here, and is evenly matched with Ord, so the holiday game should prove a big drawing card.

The Cow Had Her Own Reasons for Not Giving Milk

There's a cow on the Emmanuel Vodehnal place that had her own reasons for not giving milk, until she was good and ready.

For three days Mr. Vodehnal and veterinarian Dr. D. L. Karre worked with the cow, giving her special foods, shots and so forth. The fourth day they found out why bossy was so reluctant.

The story goes back to the first day when Mr. Vodehnal had put two cows in a stall as they were both due to calve. And, sure-enough, that morning when he looked into the stall, there were two fine calves. One cow was perfectly all right, but the other seemingly wouldn't have anything to do with her calf, and had no milk for the little fellow. So the veterinarian was called.

On the fourth day the reluctant bossy dropped a calf of her own. The first two calves had been twins!

Weed Control Spray May Be Needed Before Combining

Selective Use of 2,4-D in Grain Crops Now Recommended.

Because of the wet spring which has been favorable for weed growth, especially in small grain fields where stands are thin it may be necessary for many farmers in Valley county to spray for weed control before the grain can be harvested by a combine, says County Agent Dale. The following recommendations by Neal E. Shafer who is in charge of weed control investigations at the College of Agriculture should be followed in the use of 2-4-D.

Spraying in growing crops should never be under taken unless weeds threaten to seriously reduce yields, reduce the quality, or interfere with harvest. When emergencies arise farmers are often willing to spray without regard to possible crop injury. 2-4-D is a powerful weapon on many broadleaf weeds, but it must be pointed in the right way in order to do the most good with the least harm to our crops.

Generally speaking, 2-4-D can be used selectively in the grain crops, wheat, oats, barley, rye, corn, and grain sorghum. We now know that there are certain stages in the development of these crops when the use of 2-4-D may backfire and cause more crop injury than would the weeds.

Winter Wheat and Barley—Rates, 2-4-D acid equivalent/acre. Use ¼ to 1/3 pound of an ester or ½ lb. to 2/3 lb. of an amine salt. Safe to treat—from full tillered to early boot, and early dough. Dangerous to treat—boot stage, flowering, and fall seeding.

Oats—Rates 2-4-D acid equivalent/acre. Use ¼ to 1/3 pound of ester or ½ lb. to 2/3 lb. of an amine salt. Safe to treat—after jointing till flowering, and early dough. Dangerous to treat—early tillered, jointing, and flowering.

Corn—Rates 2-4-D acid equivalent/acre. Use ¼ to 1/3 pound of an ester or ½ lb. to 2/3 lb. of an amine salt. Safe to treat—emerging to 2 feet tall, and after silks brown. Dangerous to treat—2 to 4 feet stage, also emerging silk stage.

Sorghum—Rates 2-4-D acid equivalent/acre. Use ¼ to 1/3 pound of an ester or ½ lb. to 2/3 lb. of an amine salt. Safe to treat—from 8-10 leaf until early flowering. Dangerous to treat—from seeding stage up to 6-8 leaf flowering time especially dangerous.

Lightning Hits REA, Telephone Lines Near Here

Farmers Becoming Concerned as Weeds Take Over Fields.

While intermittent rains and thunderstorms filled another week of weather for the Ord vicinity, lightning caused considerable damage to rural electric and telephone lines in the community.

Monday night's storm, which was far more threatening than any received this year, produced no other damage to mention. The storm became evident in the afternoon, with lowering, mean gray skies and oppressive heat. Most Ord residents expected the worst either in the form of hail or tornadoes, but when the storm finally broke about 7 p. m., nothing more than heavy rain, high winds and lightning developed.

REA headquarters in Ord reported five outages due to lightning fusing the wires. Breaks came 8 miles west of Ord, just north of Elyria, 6 miles southwest of North Loup, 8 miles northwest of Loup City and at a spot on the Dry Cedar, northwest of Ericson. REA maintenance crews worked through the night and had service restored on all lines by noon Tuesday. One transformer in the REA hookup was damaged.

Drs. McGinnis and Ferguson Break Partnership After 38 Years

Drs. J. W. McGinnis and A. J. Ferguson shook hands on a business deal this week that will see the end of an association that lasted 38 years and a partnership that continued 33 years.

The two veterinarians are parting with the retirement of Ferguson from steady practice. He is moving to Westminister, Colo., this week. "My nephew is a turkey disease specialist there," Ferguson said, "and I'll help him a little bit but most of the time I just expect to loaf."

The McGinnis & Ferguson partnership was formed in early 1919, although Ferguson had been working for McGinnis since 1913 with the exception of the year the latter spent in the U. S. Cavalry as a veterinarian.

Three years ago, the partners brought young blood into the firm when Dr. D. L. Karre joined them and the firm became McGinnis, Ferguson and Karre. In a short time the firm will be McGinnis, Ferguson and Lambert. Paul C. Lambert will join the firm as soon as he passes state veterinary examinations and is admitted to licensed practice.

Although few Ordites knew it, Ferguson's initials stand for Allan James. For all the years he has been here he has been known as "Doc" or, more familiarly as "Fergie."

During those years of association the partners estimate they have treated a half million hogs, a quarter million head of cattle and at least fifty thousand horses.

Boy, 2 Men Saved as Ord Firemen Arrived Quickly

Accident Occurred Near Ord River Bridge at 6 P. M. Tuesday.

Frank Tauer, 78, is dead and three other occupants of a truck, including a 10-year-old boy, had narrow escapes from drowning as result of a highway accident which occurred 100 yards east of the Ord river bridge about 6 o'clock Tuesday evening.

Mike Bower was driving the truck and in the cab with him was William Bruha. Mr. Bower's 10-year-old son and his father-in-law, Mr. Tauer, were riding in the box of the truck which also contained a two ton load of feed and rock salt.

Apparently the steering apparatus of the truck broke and the truck plunged off the north side of the grade into a ditch filled with mud and water to a depth of 3 or 4 feet, where it overturned.

Bower and Bruha managed to get out of the cab but Mr. Tauer was pinned under water beneath truck and contents and the boy was thrown forward and pinned under the cab. His father could not extricate the boy but managed to hold his head out of water until help could arrive.

Clare Berney, linotype operator for the Quiz, came along a moment or two after the accident and realizing that he could nothing to help he turned around and drove back to town where he notified Policeman Herman Rice, and also summoned Dr. R. J. Lynn. The policeman promptly had the fire siren sounded and a load of Ord's volunteer firemen sped to the scene. Rice also had a wrecker called.

Eugene Bower, 10 . . . he escaped a watery grave.

Dr. Lynn reached the accident scene first and, wading into the water, he reached under the wrecked truck and could feel Mr. Tauer's body. His pulse was beating at that time, the doctor stated. When firemen arrived they lifted the truck and removed the body but Dr. Lynn pronounced the man dead at that time, possibly because of internal injuries or possibly from drowning. His death will be listed as a highway fatality.

In the meantime, efforts to rescue the boy were being made. Vern Andersen, by crouching breast deep in the water, established the fact that his legs were pinned and while other firemen

Eugene Bower, 10, had been rescued from the wreckage by firemen who lifted the truck off his legs while Vern Anderson pulled him free. Melvin Clement is seen near the wrecked vehicle. Firemen and spectators at right are looking at the body, a gruesome sight as proved by expressions on their faces.

Obituary

Wallace Maxwell.

Funeral services were held Friday afternoon from the Scotia Methodist church for Wallace Maxwell who was found dead in his bed Thursday noon. Mr. Maxwell had been up and about as usual until Tuesday night. He had talked with friends on the street about 9:30 Tuesday night on his way to his home. Of late he had not been a daily caller at the Scotia cafe as he had in the past so was not missed until Thursday noon when George Sautter noticed that his chickens had not been turned out. Mr. Sautter called another neighbor, Mrs. Martha Meyer, they went to his home and could see a body lying in the bed. Dan Sautter, local marshal, was called and forcing the door he found that Mr. Maxwell had apparently died in his sleep. Sheriff John Smith and coroner Barrett were called. Death had apparently come 36 hours previously.

Rev. Merle Jones had charge of the services on Friday. Mr. and Mrs. Jess Meyer, Mrs. Irma Goldfish and Andy Peterson sang accompanied by Mrs. Irvin Hermsmeyer. Active pallbearers were Glen Morrow, Mose Clement, Weaver Maxwell, Garland McClain, Murl Vance and Floyd Clement. Honorary pallbearers were Bert Ammerman, John Schilling, Dan Sautter, Ed Biskeborn, Chas. Keown, Floyd Vance, Lou Schilling and Elton Rice.

Burial was in the Scotia cemetery with Ashley's mortuary in charge.

Wallace Orville Maxwell, an early pioneer of this community was born at Kanton, Ill., on Febr. 20, 1866. He was the son of Martin and Mrs. Maxwell. At the age of two years he moved with his family to Mercer county, Mo., and came to Nebraska in 1841. After residing in the Fish Creek community for six or seven years he moved to the Lamartine community.

On Sept. 25, 1892, he was married to Eliza Clement. To this union five children were born.

In 1913 he moved with his family to Wyoming where he homesteaded, returning to Scotia community in 1925, where he farmed until after the death of his wife in 1930. He then moved to Scotia where he spent the remainder of his life. He was 85 years old at the time of his death.

He was united with the Methodist church in the Lamartine community about the year of 1911.

Mr. Maxwell had a keen memory of the early days and was regarded as an authority on dates and events in the history of the North Loup valley region.

A friendly and happy man, his declining years were spent in the midst of his family and friends with whom he enjoyed life to the fullest.

He was preceded in death by his parents, his wife and one son, Henry. Those left to mourn his passing are two daughters, Mrs. Henry Van Slyke of North Loup and Mrs. Leroy Yax of Scotia; two sons, Ivan of Lance Creek, Wyo., and Earl of Phoenix, Ariz., two brothers, Arthur of Hollywood, Calif., and Ernest of Lawrence, Kans., one sister, Mrs. Maud McClain of Trimbal, Mo., nine grandchildren and thirteen great-grandchildren, a host of other relatives and friends.

Out of town relatives coming for the services were Ector McClain, Mr. and Mrs. Grland McClain and Mr. and Mrs. Elton Rice of Trimbal, Mo., Mr. and Mrs. Weaver Maxwell and three sons of North Platte, and Ivan Maxwell of Lance Creek, Wyo.

Attorney Blackledge of Kearney was a business caller at the Bussell home on Monday and also at Greeley.

The Red Cross needs more blood donors.

In other words, our fighting men need more blood.

We all know how many lives this program has been able to save in the past few years.

I for one would like very much to see the bloodmobile brought to Ord, and set up a program of volunteer blood donors here.

I'm positive we have rich, red blood and plenty of it in Valley county, and nearby.

This may not be a war, only a police action as they tell us. But the boys that die are just as dead, call it by any name you like.

Let's help if we possibly can.

Ord is represented in Europe at the present time by several travellers.

There is Irene Auble, who just left for an Old World visit, as a welcome change from her teaching duties. She was in Scottsbluff the past year.

A former resident, Ord born and bred, Lucile Hager, and her husband, Kurt Miller, are enjoying the continent. They sent greetings from Brussels, Belgium last week, writing that they had been unable to get to see Mrs. Charles Bals, though they had tried.

Mr. and Mrs. Miller call Denver home these days.

oOo

Two Ord boys are also seeing all they can on their brief leaves from the battleship Missouri. They are on a summer tour of the famed naval reserve officers training corps. Both their mothers, Mrs. George Anderson and Mrs. George Allen, had several letters from them on Monday.

Bill Anderson wrote that he had 36 hours to visit Paris, and he hoped to bring remembrances to the family from that gay and famous city.

The big Missouri and the boys will soon call at Oslo, Norway, where students in training at the Norwegian military academy will come aboard to visit and inspect.

This is just one of the many thrills they foresee.

oOo

Exciting and interesting was the flight Jean Huff made from Grand Island to the west coast a few days ago.

Boarding an airliner just before two o'clock at the airport in Grand Island, Jean was at the home of her aunt at Oceanside, Calif., and phoned home to tell her parents of her safe arrival, about eight that evening.

But Mr. and Mrs. Howard Huff hadn't reached their Ord home as yet! Of course, they did stop briefly, over at Kearney. But it makes a good story, doesn't it?

oOo

It would be of general interest to have columns of live statistics in the Quiz, births, deaths, marriages, anniversaries . . . they have a way of piling up.

For example, Tuesday was the 35th wedding anniversary of Rev. and Mrs. Jeppesen, which they celebrated quietly.

For example, Tuesday was the 25th wedding anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Anderson, which they let slip quietly by.

And Tuesday was the wedding day chosen by Myra Maupin of North Platte and Dick Satterfield, former Ord lad who graduated from the University of Nebraska this spring.

oOo

It seems we're really going to get action on the scoreboard for the Ord baseball field! And have the music, too!

Goody!

I'll try to keep it a secret and not tell you about it today!

—Irma

It takes just as much "know-how" to manage household finance properly as it does to run a successful business.

The "know-how" of buying so as to get the MOST for our money. The "know-how" of BUDGETING our family income to cover all expenses, with something left over every month.

The "know-how" of SAVING according to a systematic plan.

As long as our savings account KEEPS GROWING, I know that our family is "showing a profit"—like any well-managed business should!

Results of Test Plots Discussed Next Tuesday

John Furrer and W. D. Ringler of the agronomy department at the college of agriculture will lead the discussions at a field meeting to be held at the small grain test plots on the Maynard Schudel farm in Independent township on July 3, 2 p. m.

Eighteen oats varieties, eleven barley varieties and fertilizer tests are being run in connection with the variety tests. Some of the fertilizers are having a very marked effect on the appearance of the grain plots.

With the ever increasing interest in the use of commercial fertilizers in Valley county, farmers will have an opportunity to see the actual effects of the various rates of nitrogen alone, phosphate alone and combinations of nitrogen, phosphate and potash fertilizers.

Farmers are urged by the county agent's office to attend the meeting and get a first hand comparison of the better varieties of small grain as well as fertilizers.

New Fiscal Year Brings P. O. Changes

On July 1 all post offices will begin issuing a new type of money order, a service begun in 1894 and which has now grown to the point where 400,000,000 money orders and postal notes are issued annually.

The new postal money order will be in the form of a punched card and, as before, can be cashed at any bank or post office.

This system was born of the need of sending small sums thru the mail in a safe, economical way and it now has an aggregate value of five billion dollars.

At the Ord post office, whose serial number is 338,000, 725 orders are average per month. There are $350,000 in postal savings, paying 2% every three months. In 1936 only $175,000 were in postal savings.

Mustangs Lose Again, St. Paul Victor by 4 to 0 Score

Jensen Scatters 5 Hits, Mates Give Support to Take Sunday Clash.

The Ord Mustangs were pushed farther cellarward Sunday evening when the St. Paul Saints took a well played game 4 to 0 on the Ord field with the largest crowd of the season in attendance. St. Paul had 6 hits, Ord had 5; St. Paul had 3 errors, Ord had only 2, but these came when it hurt. Jensen struck out 6 Ord batsmen while Novosad and Beasley between them whiffed 16 St. Paul hitters. Novosad was the losing pitcher.

The Saints had two scoring innings, the 4th and the 8th. In the 4th Les Davis lead off with a double to the fence and went to third while Petersen and Lukesaviecz were being retired on ground balls. Then Bill Novosad wild pitched and Davis scored standing up. H. Edwards was safe on an error by Dugan, stole second and scored on D. Jensen's single. Jensen was caught at second trying to stretch his hit but St. Paul took the lead 2 to 0. Neither run was earned.

In the 8th, with Beasley on the mound for Ord, R. Nielsen struck out and Lyle Leth drew a walk. Then Beasley made the fatal error of giving Huck Johnson a fat one down the groove and Johnson parked it over the left field fence, scoring Leth ahead of him and making the count 4 to 0 where it remained.

Ord had men on base in the 1st, 2nd, 4th, 5th, 6th, 7th, 8th and 9th innings but lacked the batting punch to bring them home. Jim Finley hit a double with one down in the first frame but died when Dilla flew out to left and Dugan grounded out. In the second Beasley led off with a single but was out on a fielder's choice as following batters grounded out. So it went in every inning, the batting punch just wasn't there to score runs. Dick Beran struck out 3 times in 3 times at bat to account for half of Jensen's six strike-outs. Other players were hitting the ball into the dirt or flying directly to the fielders.

It was a better game than the score indicates and was enjoyed by the big crowd but the loss did Ord no good in the Mid-Nebraska Night League standings, where they are one notch above the perennial cellar dweller, Boelus.

Midgets and Legion Win Double-Header

The Ord Midgets and Jr. Legion baseball teams defeated Sargent's teams in a double-header here Tuesday night. The Midgets swept the bench, using 19 boys and still walked away with the game by a 17-1 score. It was the midgets' fifth straight win this season. Piskorski and Flock pitched for the midgets.

The Legion won by an 11-6 score, getting only six hits off Sargent. Most of their runs were either walked in or brought in when the batter was hit by a wild pitch. Patrick gave up only four hits and got ten strike outs for Ord.

Drs. McGinnis and Ferguson Break Partnership After 38 Years

"The worst year I can remember was in 1937-1938 when we had an epidemic of sleeping sickness in horses," Ferguson recalled. "I don't know how many head we treated during the spell, but I know that I drove 6,000 miles in six weeks, and Doc McGinnis was out just as much as I was."

The partners estimate they have each driven 30,000 miles a year, or about a million miles apiece since their association began. "Of course we cover a lot more territory now than we did 30 years ago," McGinnis said. "Back in the early days we used teams and buggies and once in a while had to go on horseback.

"And it was only two years ago that Doc Ferguson had to go on horseback. It was during the blizzard and we had a call some 30 miles northwest of Burwell. He drove about half way and took the last 14 miles on horseback, carrying his veterinary case across the saddle.

"By the time he got back he was so stiff and sore he could hardly walk for a couple of days," McGinnis laughed.

Ferguson said that the best car he had ever owned was a 1911 Model T Ford. "I called her 'Old Dusty' and she would go a lot of places these cars won't go today," he said.

Ferguson, who will be 64 next May, says that the life of a veterinarian is interesting, but that there's a lot more hard work to it than most people know.

"I only kept track of one month and that was last April," he said, "but I was called out of bed every night that month except for three nights. And several of those nights I made two and three trips. And many's the night I've got stuck in the ditch on some country road and slept in my car all night."

The veterinarian admits—somewhat sheepishly—that cattle, hogs and horses aren't the only things he vaccinates. "I've stuck myself at least a dozen times when animals got fractious," he said. "Twice with Blackleg serum and several times each with Bangs and Hog Cholera serum.

"Does it hurt? I'll say it hurts! Why sometimes my arm has turned black and blue from my fingers to the shoulder, and I've swelled up like a cow on green alfalfa. No, there isn't anything you can do except cuss yourself and wait for time to do the healing."

Doc Ferguson has what he considers the high spots in his career, too. "That's when I see 'em get well, and the people come in and tell me about it."

Quotas Retard Cattle Buying at Omaha Monday

Fat cattle Monday at Omaha sold slow, and steady to weak, some in late trade 25c lower. Supply was moderate—in fact, at Omaha and 11 other markets substantially short of both the previous Monday and a year ago—but order buyer demand, lately above average, turned spotty. Some had their buys curtailed by OPS slaughter quota restrictions.

Bulk of slaughter steers and yearlings brought $32.00-$36.00, better steers sold to $37.50 and were quotable to $38.00. Plain shortfeds sold down to $27.00, but fat, Western-origin Holstein steers scored $32.75. Heifers sold to $35.75.

Cow trade was uneven but prices little changed, canners and cutters again $18.00 to $22.50, mostly $19.00-$22.00. Beef cows sold to $29.00, heiferettes to $31.00.

Bologna bulls sold to $29.50, odd head higher; beef to $29.00; veal calves to $38.00.

Stocker and feeder trade was steady. Plain to good stock and feeder steers ranged from $30.00-$34.75; yearling stock steers were held at around $38.00; stock calves sold to $40.00.

Hogs sold 25-50c lower, butchers weighing 180-360 $20.00-$22.35, a few $22.40 and $22.50. Sows weighing 270-550 brought $17.50-$20.50. Stags held at $15.00-$18.00.

Spring lambs broke 50c to be stopped at $33.00, but old crop shorn sold steady to 25c higher, bracketing 85 to 95-pounders with No. 1 and 2 pelts at $30.50- $31.00. Shorn slaughter ewes continued to bulk at $12.00-$17.50. Lightweight Southwestern feeder lambs went at $34.00-$34.50.

Boy, 2 Men Saved as Ord Firemen Arrived Quickly

Accident Occurred Near Ord River Bridge at 6 P.M. Tuesday.

lifted the truck, Andersen and Ernest Horner pulled the boy out of the wreck and carried him to safety. He was covered with mud from head to foot and seemed to be suffering from shock but Dr. Lynn could find no other injuries. He was taken to the Andersen home where a warm bath and clean clothing soon made him feel better.

Neither Mr. Bower or Mr. Bruha was injured.

Examination of the truck by Patrolman Otto Zapp disclosed that its wishbone had come loose. It was an ancient truck of about 1928 vintage and apparently only one bolt was holding the driving apparatus in place before the accident. When this bolt broke there was no means of controlling the truck.

It was Valley county's worst highway accident in 1951 and had the Ord firemen not arrived so promptly it is likely that more than one death would have resulted.

Rain Interrupts 0-0 Pitchers' Duel

Bill Beasley, Ord, and G. Wells, Grand Island, were hooked up in one of the nicest pitching duels Ord fans ever saw and the score was 0 to 0 after six innings of play last Thursday night when the game had to be called because of rain. A drizzle had fallen from the start but started coming down heavier and the field became unsafe for play.

Beasley struck out 9 and allowed only 1 hit in six innings; Wells struck out 6 and gave up only 2 hits.

Both teams were playing errorless ball despite bad field conditions and fans acclaimed it one of the best contests seen here in years. The Grand Island team will be booked back to Ord at a later date.

Nitrate Fertilizer

Nitrate applied to corn at this cultivation will give the corn a boost that is needed to bring it to earlier maturity.

Ammonium Nitrate is extremely scarce and enough of it is not available to take care of all orders. Just at present we have about eight tons of Ammonium Sulphate which is 21% Nitragin. This applied to corn at the second cultivation will help the corn make a more rapid growth. If you do not have attachments for your tractor it can be applied with our Easy Flow spreader.

Now on the question of Nitrate for fall. We expect a car in August and another in December. This is more than half sold at the present time and all will be sold before it arrives. In tests the past couple of years where the Nitrate has been broadcast and plowed under with the stubble, a marked improvement has been seen in the decomposition of the stubble. We believe that this practice will become more popular in the next couple of years. If it is impossible to apply at that time it should be broadcast on the fall grain either late in the fall or very early in the spring.

If you have a Brome Grass field that you want to grow seed from you should apply Nitrate in the fall; if you pasture it then apply early in the spring. If interested in fertilized pasture lands ask us to show you some near Ord. The results are very outstanding.

If you plan to plow an alfalfa field in the spring you should apply a phosphate fertilizer in the fall and then plow the field in the spring. Phosphate applied to alfalfa increases both hay and seed crops.

It is becoming more evident all the time that if we are to continue to take off these large crops that we have been taking from these fields we will have to use Commercial Fertilizer with our regular farm practices. Consult us regarding fertilizer needs. We do not know all the answers but can probably help you some.

We have two 10-ft. fertilizer spreaders for sale. Ask about them.

Forage crops

If you have idle land you can still plant canes and sorgos as well as millets and Sudan and get a very good forage crop from it. Soy beans will also make a lot of hay and may mature if a very late fall.

Feeds

Our line of Hill feeds is very complete and we also have the full line of Conkey's cattle feeds that are very heavy in molasses. Yo can contract your cat feeds at present prices take them out in September. We believe that this would be a very good practice on a part of your next fall and winter needs.

Jim Finley Leads Ord Batters With .367

Batting Averages of League Players Ten or More Times at Bat

This week Harold McDermott, secretary of the Mid-Nebraska Night Baseball league, released batting averages on all players who have been at bat 10 or more official times during the season and whose averages are .300 or better. Ron Clark, who has batted 21 times, made 10 hits and scored two runs, leads the league with an average of .473.

Among Ord players Jim Finley was highest, getting 12 hits and scoring 6 runs in 33 official times at bat for an average of .367. Ord placed three more players in the charmed group, Dilla hitting .324, Dugan and S. Johnson .318 each.

Loup National Pays $2,861 in Dividends

A regular 5 per cent dividend was paid last week to farmers and stockmen of Greeley, Loup, Garfield and Valley counties by the Loup National Farm Loan Association.

Checks totaling $2,861.00 were mailed to farmers and stockmen who have Federal Land Bank loans through the cooperative, according to James B. Ollis, secretary-treasurer of the association.

Payment of the dividends was made possible because of a dividend recently received by the association from the Federal Land Bank of Omaha, Mr. Ollis said. He explained that the land bank is owned entirely by cooperative National Farm Loan Associations, which in turn, are owned by farmers and stockmen who obtain land bank loans.

Directors of the association at Ord are: Evet Smith, of Ord, President, W. O. Zangger, of North Loup, Vice President, Art Coleman, of Taylor, John H. Schere, of Burwell, George B. Clement, of Ord, Joseph Warner, of Greeley and John J. Ryan, of Greeley.

Tent Caterpillars.

If there is one thing the tent caterpillars like better than anything else, it is to build their tents in the plum trees and then eat off the leaf. They should not be confused with the leaf eating larvae that are ruining the foliage of nearly every kind of tree that grows, for the tent caterpillar makes a specialty of the plum tree, and also is the only larvae to build the socalled tents.

Wild plums are native to Nebraska and the settlers found them doing right well when they first took up their homesteads. They, together with the wild grapes and chokecherries, were about the only fruit available for the first decade or so, until other fruit trees could be planted and brought to fruition. And those jellies and jams were good eating, as children who lived in those early days can still testify.

Whether the tent caterpillar was indigent here or was imported from the east through the passing of the years is a moot question. It is certain that they were well located here at least half a century ago, and those who had tame plums, or wild plums planted in their orchards had quite a battle on their hand to save the trees from the pests.

As time went on the caterpillars flourished and the trees, weakened by continued attacks through the years, finally gave up the ghost. At one time it was almost impossible to find any live plum trees anywhere in the country, especially in the hills and along the streams where they once were so plentiful.

This proved tough on the caterpillars, who would eat no other leaves. As a result, the tent caterpillar went almost out of existence, and young plum trees grew until today there are plenty of them once more. The caterpillar, with plenty of its favorite food, is also staging a comeback and the tents are in evidence wherever there are plum trees. They will continue to eat until the trees die, and then the cycle will start all over again.

Unemployment Low.

According to a report recently put out by the bureau of labor statistics, unemployment in May reached a new post war low. Despite cutbacks in the auto and other durable goods industries employment continued at an all-time high for the season. Employment off the farms was given at 46,100,000.

All this sounds good, and it could hardly be otherwise with a large part of the employment being used to produce goods and farm products which go to foreign countries on a lend-lease basis. In other words, too much of this employment is made employment, employment that would cease to exist tomorrow if we cut off funds from these foreign nations.

Also, the Bureau of Labor Statistics itself employs far more people than ever before, and the same is true of dozens of other bureaus and departments of the government. This is just another form of made employment, employment that would cease to exist tomorrow if we cut off funds from these foreign nations.

Also, the Bureau of Labor Statistics itself employs far more people than ever before, and the same is true of dozens of other bureaus and departments of the government. This is just another form of made employment, employment that, to a large measure, should never have existed in the first place, employment that is becoming an alarming menace to our American way of life.

Another source of employment that must be taken into consideration is the large numbers of our young men and women that have been, and are being, inducted into military service. In the present condition of inter-national affairs these men are needed where they are to bolster our prestige abroad, but it is also made employment, employment that will decrease when and if the menace of communism is removed.

Not long ago the president engaged our only living ex-president, Herbert Hoover, to head an organization to look into our federal government and find what ailed it and to recommend what should be done to improve it. That study was made, and the committee made its recommendations. To date little, if anything, has been done to act on those suggestions, possibly for the political reason that firing a few thousand unnecessary men in Washington might increase unemployment. It is time to clean house.

They Also Serve.

The death last week of Dr. Floyd Perrin, 65, manager of the Norden laboratories at Grand Island for the past twelve years and a former president of the Nebraska State Veterinary Medical association, brings to mind the service these men have been doing in the state over the years, a service that cannot be measured in dollars and cents alone, but in outstanding service to the community.

Dr. Perrin was always a leader in his profession and during his years in the field he was located in Lincoln. Like too many medical men, he was called when it would seem that he had many years of useful life still ahead of him. But men in his line of work, not only work too hard and put in long hours, but are expected to answer calls at all hours of the day and night.

Going back into the history of the county, we find that the early settlers were sufficient unto themselves in the matter of taking care of sick stock. Their home made remedies did not always work, but they were the best that could be had in those days. Here and there might be a man with greater natural skill with stock and he would help others in time of need.

The first doctor who catered to the ills of animals in Ord was Luddington, who started out his doctoring in the horse and buggy days making long drives into the country when occasion demanded. Short on college experience, the doctor made up for it in an almost uncanny knowledge of stock and their diseases.

Dr. Clason followed Luddington, and he was the first man who used an auto in getting around, a vast improvement for those days. Clason, like all veterinarians before and since, found more work than he could do. The exact time of his arrival and departure from the Ord field is not immediately available, but he was going strong from 1910 to 1920, or thereabouts.

Dr. Vinnedage came on the scene about that time and worked in this area for a few years, but his work was cut short by his untimely death. It is now more than thirty years since Dr. J. W. McGinnis hung out his shingle in Ord, and in a short time he was joined by Dr. A. J. Ferguson upon his return from service in World War I.

They bought and remodeled the old Methodist church into the present Ord veterinary hospital. Now after thirty years in partnership, Dr. Ferguson has found it necessary to quit the work for reasons of health. Not long ago they took in with them a young doctor Karre, who has taken part of the burden of the work off the shoulders of the two older men.

Such, in brief, is the story of veterinary service in the Ord community, but it does not begin to picture the work these men have done, not only in the saving of livestock through the curing of disease, but in the prevention of disease through immunization in its various phases. They hold that it is far better to prevent disease than to cure it after it has developed.

But the work of the local veterinarians is not the only advance made in their profession. The development of such places as the Norden Laboratories at Grand Island and similar places all over the nation has made serum and other products immediately available in quantity sufficient for the growing needs of the farmer, saving thousands of head of stock and making them healthier.

Today we accept the services of the animal doctors and the fact that they are here as a matter of course. No farmer would want to raise stock in an area where their services were not available. No farmer would want to buy a farm lying beyond the limits to which these men can travel in an hour or less. They have made themselves a vital part of our modern farm life and are worth far more thanthe money they earn.

The Division of Nebraska Resources, which ought to know, relates in a recent publication that Nebraska's printers and publishers make up the state's second largest group of manufacturers, out-ranked only by the processors of food products.

This will be a surprise to many persons who do not realize the magnitude of the job of getting down in black and white—also colors.

The use of paper and printing is taken for granted to such an extent that the ordinary person often fails to notice.

The next time you visit the grocery, or drug store, look around you and count the things you see made of paper—and printed. Better take a pencil because it will run into the thousands.

The census of manufacturers credits Nebraska with 315 printing and publishing establishments with over 4000 employes and a payroll over ten million dollars annually.

The husband was running around looking for his hat, when his wife asked him what he wanted it for.

"That fellow Smith across the street just phoned and asked if I could lend him a corkscrew," replied the husband.

"Well, why should you deliver it? Let him come and get it."

A look of deep sorrow and dejection spread over his countenance.

"My dear," he said, "that remark of yours sums up in its entirety the weakness of woman's wisdom. It is because of such reasoning as that women cannot lead armies, control nations, be president, or take any outstanding part in the affairs of the world."

Ward's What's Cookin' Column

The recent death of Bishop George Beecher calls to mind a fact that was not touched upon in any of the stories written about him on the occasion of his passing. I am sure he was the same man, but about all the boys knew about him was that he was called Dean Beecher and he hailed from Canada. He was acting as chaplain of the Fifth Nebraska at the time the outfit went to the Mexican Border in 1916, and went along. He was not a young man even then, about 48 years of age, and the climate there was not good for his health.

I got quite well acquainted with him and he told me one day that he believed a younger man would suit the boys better than he did, and that a man who believed in teaching by example, rather than precept. He was a big man with a hearty voice, and it was wonderful to see how the boys would perk up whenever he came along and talked to them. I do not recall that we had too many regular church services while he was there, but he believed that personal contact was the proper approach to the boys' problems, and he traveled a lot in making those contacts.

In nearly all respects he was a direct contrast to his successor, Gene Cobbey. Cobbey was on the border at the time Beecher went home and was given the appointment in his place largely because he was a good mixer and popular with the boys. He got some reflected glory from his brother, Charles Cobbey, who was president of Cotner college at that time. He did not claim to be a preacher. Unlike Beecher, he taught by precept and did not let his job interfere with his private life. He told the fellows on more than one occasion; "Don't do as I do. Do as I tell you to do and you will get along fine." One day we were on a hike and stopped for a rest period. Cobbey, who had imbibed too freely the night before, went to sleep under a tree. The boys hunted up whiskey bottles and tobacco tins and scattered them over him and one man sacrificed his deck of playing cards and scattered them all around. Then some of the men who had cameras took pictures of him from all angles. Cobbey's remarks when they woke him up were hardly worthy of a chaplain.

We went to a little more trouble than usual this spring getting everything ready for the coming of the wrens, which is a special event in this neighborhood. Last winter I cut down a couple of trees, in one of which we had a wren box located for several seasons. I moved the box a little to one side and located it and another one in the nearest tree to the old location. Then I repaired a special eight-sided bungalow that had been hanging in a big tree between us and Boomers and put it back about where it had been. Then we waited for results.

The birds finally came. First the pair that usually nest in a house over at Boomers came, stayed a few days, and then went elsewhere. Finally another pair came along. They inspected the three houses mentioned above, all of which were painted the conventional moss green, but were not satisfied with any of them. They found a fourth box which I had put in an entirely new location, and they have been busy and happy there ever since. The funny part of it is that wrens are supposed to like almost any color of the rainbow except yellow and will not nest in a box painted that color. Believe it or not, the box they selected is painted a brilliant yellow. Not far from the same time a second pair of wrens came and took over the octagon bungalow, and now we have plenty of music all around.

Because somebody in the dim and distant past started the habit of saying "Merry Christmas," everybody since that time has felt that they must use those same words, and that is the greeting you hear around Yuletide. I have no objection to the words or the custom, but I am just using the phrase as an illustration. If those first people had started out with "Happy Yuletide," no doubt we would be using that expression today instead of what we do use. In communist countries, where Christmas is forbidden and people are regimented to the Nth degree, we might expect to find people as much alike as two peas, but if they are any more alike there than people are here, I do not know how they could be.

In our everyday greetings very few people have anything different to offer than the usual "How do you do," "Hello" or "Good Morning." There is nothing wrong with any of these, but it is really none of your business how the other fellow does, and he might think you unduly impertinent in inquiring. Also, the "Good Morning" is badly overworked. The fellow who uses it will use it, regardless of the condition of the weather, and he need not use it at all, since the other fellow should know the condition of the weather without being told.

I sometimes offer one slightly different, "It's a fine May Morning." The trouble with this is that it is true only one month out of twelve and then only if the weather really is fine, which it often is not. For all practical purposes it might be just as well to give those you greet a word of advice or admonition like "Go Jump in the Lake," or "your shirt tail is out." Why not try something like this for a few days. You will be certain to attract plenty of attention and those you greet will not soon forget you. In fact they will probably noise the fact about that you are crazy and should be put where you can do no damage.

Did I say all people are alike? If I did I am ready to take it back. In such items as daily greetings, eating three meals per day when they can afford it, gossiping over a cup of coffee, going to church on Easter Sunday, kicking a man when he is down and a hundred other items of daily existence we may all be much alike, but in others we are not. One man is gifted with more brains than the average and he thinks up something that would be a blessing to humanity if it were put into effect. A few will agree with him. A few will wildly denounce him. A lot of others will immediately develop counter plans, and some will even advance entirely new ideas. But the chances are that the great majority of the people will pay no attention whatever.

William Jennings Bryan had some radically new ideas and ran for president on that platform in 1896. He was defeated largely because the public did not want to trust the running of the government to a man so visionary. Yet in fifty years all the changes in government that Bryan advocated have come to pass, whether they be good or evil. He was a man too far ahead of his time. History shows us that Abraham Lincoln had bitter opposition all his life and was killed by a man who considered him a tyrant. The same can be said of Washington, except that nobody killed him. The framers of the constitution had a tough time of it, fighting opposition all the way. It seems to me Christ was crucified by the very people he came to save.

Heard a remark on the streets the other day that set me to thinking. It must have been important to make me do that. It was. The fellow has the idea that there is no use of monkeying around and paying out good money for irrigation when we are getting all the water we need in the good old fashioned way. It seems that way at times, and it seems foolish to spend money all our lives carrying life insurance when none of us will live to collect it. I would far rather pay the assessment for irrigation water each year and never have to use it than I would to have to use it all summer long. The Lord does a more thorough job and He does it a lot easier than I can.

It was that kind of philosophy that ruined the North Loup valley's first irrigation company. The old Ord-North Loup ditch was working for several years, but the dry years of the '90s were past and people could get by without using irrigation. They found it cheaper to get along with the rains and not pay for the water. The finances dwindled and soon there was no money in the treasury and the ditch was abandoned and the company went out of business. The ditch must be maintained, and the only way that can be done is by the regular paymenet of assessments every year. Once lost, it would take a long time to get irrigation back again.

Best Fishing Since '36 at Lake McConaughy

Huge McConaughy reservoir provided Nebraskans during the past week with some of the finest fishing in the big lake since 1946.

According to the Game Commission's weekly fishing roundup, Warden Loren Bunney reported that the bass angling was the best fishing in McConaughy since 1946 when crappie abounded. Bunney estimated 90 per cent of the fishermen took bag limits of white bass on last Friday, Saturday and Sunday.

Two white bass on one line were very common. Bunney saw one angler with three hooks who landed three bass at one time.

Anglers are reminded, however, that the spectacular fishing reported at McConaughy occurred late last week. This report does not in any way indicate what kind of fishing can be expected today, tomorrow or Sunday. Fishing conditions can change in a short time from good to bad.

From the far western part of the state Warden Leon J. Cunningham reported fishing as good. Walgren lake was good for bullheads; Whitney lake fair for crappie, bullhead and catfish and good for carp, and Box Butte reservoir good for both crappie and carp.

Leading anglers of the week were Mrs. J. C. Schneider, Grand Island, who took a 9-pound walleye in Maloney; Jerry States, North Platte, a 2-pound crappie in Maloney; Robert Flock, North Platte, a 5-pound, 1-ounce largemouth bass in Maloney; R. A. Bowles, Alma, a 3½-pound cat in the Republican river; Clarence Voght, Minden, a 3½-pound walleye in the Minden pits; M. L. Armstrong, Blue Hill, a 19-pound catfish; Doug Gnesen, Fremont, 8 catfish in the Platte river, and Glenn Newbert, Ames, six catfish in the Platte.

Our First New Carload of

FURNITURE

Arrived This Week!

We're happy to report that our first full carload of new furniture has arrived. We'll have most of it ready for your inspection this week end, and say, folks, we're really proud of it! It has Quality with a capital "Q", and yet was bought so carefully that our prices will be no more that you have been accustomed to paying for just ordinary furniture. For example, the bedroom sets. These are all FULL size with 5 drawer chests, not the economy models with four drawer chests, and yet cost no more than the small ones. Come in and look around—you'll be glad you did!

Clearance goes on...!

We gotta make room! And so our big clearance sale continues with prices SLASHED on every item of old stock. Further reductions have been made on some items—we're listing just a few samples, you'll have to see the rest.

BED ROOM SUITES

A good looking 4 piece set, polished GUMWOOD. Was priced at $179.50, we're asking only $126.50

This wouldn't be on sale except the dresser has a slight blemish which we'll be glad to show you. A modernistic set in BLONDE HARDWOOD solid oak interior, drawers center guided. Should sell for $210.50, but we want 149.50

SPEED QUEEN IRONERS

Forgot to mention these last time. Two only floor samples, slightly shopworn. Regular $59.95, for only 39.50

PHILCO UPRIGHT FREEZER

Won't somebody please take this off our hands at way less than cost? A 7½ cubic foot job, was $344.50. 179.50

INNERSPRING MATTRESSES

Genuine Cambridge innersprings, 5 year written guarantee. We were going to save these for our grand opening, but couldn't resist passing this saving to you. Made to sell for $49.50. $39.50

METAL KITCHEN STOOLS

Help! We inherited these—some four legged, some step models. Sounds ridiculous but some were made to sell at an OPA (remember?) ceiling of $5.95. Take 'em out at 95c

RED HOT FLOOR COVERING SALE!

No kidding. We've got to clear out our old floor covering stock. It comes in 9 and 12 foot widths, and we'll sell you just as many feet as you want. Linoleum was never any cheaper, when you can get it here, by the square yard for only ..... 69¢

INLAIDS

The hair goes with the hide. Inlaids are scratched too. And remember, we have competent personnel to install inlaids on your floors, walls or cabinet tops. Our price is so ridiculous we won't mention it.

Don't make the mistake of forcing your pullets to "rustle" all their feed this summer. They need more than just farm grains. Actual tests prove that birds fed GOOCH'S BEST Growing Feed with farm grains get into heavy egg production much sooner than those fed grain alone.

A single dozen eggs at fall prices will more than repay the cost of the Gooch Growing Feed needed to develop a pullet. Your profit will be the EXTRA EGGS you'll be getting when prices are best.

Back in 1750 the grapefruit was first mentioned as "forbidden fruit" and not until 1814 was the name "grapefruit" used. For another 50 years it was grown as a curiosity.

Folks who claim that "time is money" aren't just making an idle observation. Our present measurements of 60 seconds to the minute and 60 minutes to the hour originated from the standards of counting money in ancient Babylon.

Steve Beran, Owner of Last Week's Mystery Farm Has Lived on Home Place 54 Years—Time Out for War

Steve Beran, owner of the Mystery Farm in last week's Quiz in the series sponsored by the Valley County Implement Co., believes in staying put.

That's why he's lived on the place 54 years - all his life--- with the exception of 9 months in the Army in the first World War. "Those French farms made me all the more anxious to get home," he said.

Steve's father, Frank Beran, bought the farm in 1890. He paid $2500 for the bare quarter which lies 2 miles north of Ord. Steve purchased the farm in 1934 when his father retired and moved to Ord, where he now lives with his son Mart Beran.

The farm was in the center of the 1938 tornado which damaged every building on the place, and wrecked the corn crib and hog shed. All buildings were rebuilt following the storm.

Steve has not been feeling well for the past ten years, and in 1946 he rented the place out to his neighbors, while he spent some time in the Veteran's hospital in Lincoln and several other spots. This year, however, he is back in the harness and is farming the farm. His crops this year are widely diversified, 35 acres in wheat, 17 in alfalfa, 18 in barely, 40 in corn. He has about 10 acres of hay meadow, about 20 acres of alfalfa. "Then I have a piece of about 20 acres that is still too wet to plant," he grinned. "I'll probably raise a bumper crop of sun flowers, unless it drys off so I can work it."

Turn now to the advertisement of the Valley County Implement Co. on another page of this issue and see if you can identify this week's Mystery Farm. If it is your farm, come to the Quiz and you'll receive a professional 8x10 enlargement of the picture.

NO SUBSTITUTES!

There's nothing but good red meat in the products we sell—no gullets or weasons.

That's because our products are made up to a quality, not down to a price.

For your convenience, the famous North Side weiners, bologna and ground beef are carried in most independent groceries in Ord.

Convenience for you at no extra cost!
