Tax Facts, Number 2 Buying, Selling or Improving Home

(This is one in a series of articles on federal income tax filing. These articles are based on information provided by the American Institute of Certified Public Accountants and the Nebraska Society of Certified Public Accountants in cooperation with the Internal Revenue Service.)

In today's economy, with constantly rising prices and land values, it is quite common for the family man to look upon his home as an investment. Not that he entertains the idea of selling it necessarily, but at least he knows that it will probably climb in value, and that he could then sell it if he wanted to. However, as an investment, the ownership of a home differs in many respects from the ownership of stocks or bonds, and these differences have important tax implications that you should be aware of.

If you sell your house (which is your principal residence) at a profit and move to a new house, you may not have to pay tax on the profit. Let's say you bought a house five years ago for $15,000 which you sold last year for $20,000. Since you held the house for more than six months, the profit of $5,000 is taxable as a long-term capital gain at a maximum rate of 25 per cent. However, if you move into a new house either one year before or one year after the sale, and if the new house costs $20,000 or more, then you pay no tax on the $5,000 profit. If you are buying the new house built for yourself and construction begins either one year before or one year after the sale of the old house, then the period of replacement is extended to eighteen months from date of sale, providing you occupy it within that period.

The important point here is that the new house must cost as much or more than the amount you receive for the old house. If it cost only $19,000, you must pay the long-term capital gains tax on the balance of $1,000.

Sell At Profit

You could actually sell your house at a profit and buy a new one every few years without paying a tax on the profit, but you aren't really avoiding the tax, you are merely postponing it. The cumulative gain will be taxed when the last house is finally sold without being replaced. Even this tax can be avoided if the house is sold after your death by your heirs or estate. The total cost which the gain will be figured will be the amount you have invested in the house over the years. For example, you originally invested $15,000 in a house. You sell the house for $20,000 and buy a new one for $22,000. Your tax cost for the $22,000 house is now $17,000 ($22,000 less the gain of $5,000 on the sale of the old house.) Whatever you sell it for above $17,000 will be a taxable gain.

If you sold your house during the year and haven't yet purchased another, but plan to do so before the replacement period elapses, you must give the details of the sale on Schedule D of Form 1040. You need not report the gain. When you do replace your

Ord Firm Gets Change of Name

An Ord business firm and an Ord secretary received new titles this week through an Act of Congress.

The two were the Loup National Farm Loan Assn. of Ord and its Secretary-Treasurer James (Jim) Ollis.

An amendment to the National Farm Act passed last summer said that after January 1 this year the business shall be known as the Federal Land Bank, and Mr. Ollis as a manager instead of secretary-treasurer.

This change it is believed will provide a better tie-in between the local organizations and the Federal Land Bank at Omaha.

The association at Ord was originally established in 1917 and Joseph Barta was the first secretary-treasurer.

James Ollis succeeded Mr. Barta in 1929 and has served as secretary-treasurer since.

The association makes long term real estate loans on farms and ranches in Greeley, Valley, Garfield and Loup counties.

Directors of the association are John J. Ryan of Greeley, W. O. Zangger of North Loup, John Scherer of Burwell and Hilmer Wallin of Taylor.

Ever Smith of Ord, who passed away this past summer, was also a member prior to his death. A fifth member will be chosen at the annual meeting in February.

Rysa Boys Face Up Surgery

They're looking bright to Mr. and Mrs. Bill Rysavy, Ord parents of young boys, afflicted with lame back difficulty, necessitating surgery.

The Russell, a sixth grader, an ankle, a pre-schooler, entered Orthopedic Hospital in Lincoln during the holidays for surgery.

Bob underwent surgery last week according to medical men. He is scheduled for a similar operation February, and currently is in a cast.

What the corrective operation doctors said he would have been confined to a wheel chair by the time he was 16 or 17. He and Jack are grandsons of the Joe Rysas in Ord.

Mr. and Mrs. Loren Good are home after a seven week tour of Florida and a holiday in Washington D. C.

The Goods made the trip by car, drove almost 7000 miles and covered most of Florida's coast line. Highlights which they considered most interesting were the sights of growing flowers, fruits and vegetation throughout Florida.

Mrs. Good said tourists jammed highways to scenic spots. One small town they visited, which has a normal population of 1400, increases to 14,000 during the tourist season. During the Ordite's visit the weather was accommodating. Only once did temperatures drop to 32 degrees.

The Goods said they were greatly impressed with Cypress Gardens and its excellent water ski shows; the Underwater Gardens at Silver Springs where they rode in glass bottomed boats; the many marine lands; Ringling Bros. Museum and the Ringling family home.

She said they also enjoyed seeing St. Augustine, the oldest city in the United States. Mr. and Mrs. Good headquartered at Saratosa, and drove to Washington D.C. to spend Christmas with her brothers, Donald and Mable Allen.

The Goods arrived home Thursday.

Weekends in Mars, Newland Reve Self-Clean Windows, TV Phones Comin'

As I write this we are only a few hours away from the first Monday of 1960. I wonder if others feel as I do during the first days of a brand new year. It's difficult to describe, a special feeling like being new self, with a keen anticipation of something good to come.

Scientists and industrial leaders have made radical and fantastic predictions for the next decade. Most of them are too wild for my limited comprehension.

But one that I await with glee is the day windows will be self cleaning. It will be a shock to look toward a window in our house and see clear through it.

I'll miss the finger prints and tell tale signs of little tongues that have licked the steam and frost from wintery panes. (This reminds me of the time, I got my tongue stuck to the windmill pump in zero weather).

And what of the prospect of seeing persons over the telephone? Catastrophic! Visualize getting out of the bathtub to realize that you have forgotten to turn off the video-phone panel. There you are, dripping and bare, wearing nothing but a lot of skin.

I wonder if I'm going to disapprove of my children's children trotting off to another planet for a weekend, and if because of it, I'm going to be tagged a meddling old grandpa with old fashioned ideas.

Instead of stories in the newspapers about small fry and runaway automobiles, we'll probably be reading about little monsters taking off in papa's rocket.

It will be fun to spill something on the kitchen floor and see an electronic mop whisk out from under a hidden door, clean up the mess, and scoot back out of sight.

I suppose when these things come about we'll accept them casually as is our habit this generation.

I just wonder what we women are going to do with all our extra time. With gadgets doing all the work for us, not do we will have more leisure time but so will our children. I wonder if too much time is going to be good for us. It will be interesting to see what happens.

Crime. There has to be a penalty for the good things science offers, there always has been and always will.

I might learn to play bridge. It would take that many extra hours for me to master it, in spite of Charles Goren, who says anybody can.

A lot of little pleasures will be lost in the new world too. Like making bread as I did this weekend, not from a box, but from scratch.

It was fun!

I hope we'll still have similar simple pleasures in another decade.

Burson Families Join for Holiday

The Alfred Burson and Harold Burson families arrived home Saturday from a holiday trip to the west coast.

Traveling in separate cars the Alfred Bursons, Gloria, DeLyle and Angela left Ord Dec. 19. They were followed a day later by Mr. and Mrs. Harold Burson, Keith and Karol. All were guests at Simi, Calif. of the men's brother Eldon, his wife and youngsters, Teresa and Terry.

The California Bursons live in a suburban home in the mountains north of Los Angeles, with surrounding orange groves and their own private lake. The Ord people said they were impressed with the beauty of the location. Eldon Burson is a cement contractor.

Mr. and Mrs. Earl Allen, Jerry and David, were hosts to the Nebraska family at their Sacramento home. She is a sister of the Burson brothers. Mr. Allen is employed in the mechanical department of construction work, dealing with large equipment.

The Ord families enjoyed Disneyland and the time at the beach and did a lot of sightseeing.

Mrs. Alfred Burson said traffic was a little frightening. At one time a dog ran into one of the traffic lanes. When a car stopped to avoid hitting the animal, 40 cars piled up and traffic held up. Twelve of the cars had to be towed away, and the others were damaged considerably.

When the Ord folks started on the return trip home, they were met by Ralph Kornej, son of Mr. and Mrs. A. Pokorney of Ord. He is stationed at Oceanside, Calif., with the marines, and spent a seven day leave traveling as far as Amarillo, Texas with the two families. They all spent New Year's day sightseeing at Carlsbad Caverns near Mexico.

Other places of special interest noted by the Ord people were Boulder Dam, the Painted Desert and Petrified Forest. Their travels took them 4500 miles. They preceded the snowstorm that raged through Ord and Burson, and saw first signs of heavy snow when they approached Kearney.

Ordites Brave Storm To Welcome New Year

A threatening snowstorm Thursday evening failed to daunt the holiday spirit of many Ordites who welcomed the New Year with numerous parties and dinners.

The Veterans Club was particularly popular from early evening. Manager John LaCornu was assisted by George Dworak and Bill Schauer.

Mrs. Eldon Cetak and Mrs. Lil Vastek served 150 dinners plus sandwiches and salads prepared by cooks. Mrs. Tillie Beran and Mrs. Dorothy Hans.

Among hosts for private parties were the Bill Lees, Lloyd Zikmunds, Charles Kriewalds, Henry Pentas, Paul Martins, and J. B. Ferguson.

Ordites Home From Georgia Holiday

Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Albers arrived home Tuesday evening from a Georgia holiday with their son-in-law and daughter. Mr. and Mrs. Charles Berbenich and son, at Atlanta. It was the first time Mr. Albers had seen his grandson.

The Ord couple were gone two weeks, and Mrs. Albers said while there was no snow, rain came down in torrents several occasions. They found the countryside lovely.

Before they left for home the Ord couple celebrated the Berbenich's 12th wedding anniversary. It was a dual occasion, for the Albers will soon note their 40th anniversary.

They said train traffic was exceptionally heavy when air traffic was grounded.

Five diesel engines were added to the Albers train through the Big Smoky Mountains.

To Get The Best Gambling Hand: An Example Of Fraud In Using The Mails

Ed. Note: The Quiz is a regular recipient of an information service from the United States Postal Department listing frauds uncovered in the mails. Since the bulletins are lengthy the Quiz has seldom used them hoping the space saved could be better used for local ways.

Recently however, the Quiz was notified of at least two swindles perpetrated on farmers — one involving a photograph, a second covering trees. Neither was by an area firm. The Quiz is happy to say but it believes some education in this field is necessary. Therefore this week it offers the second of the Postoffice Bulletins for your information. Write the Editor if you think you might enjoy others.

ROCKET RECORDS Company and Mrs. Cora Isabel Mayer at Portland, Oregon. The Hearing Examiner noted that a complaint was issued against this company by the General Counsel. As the Hearing Examiner explained, this company purported to be interested in advancing the careers of hopeful amateur song-writers and lyricists — for a price — through alleged local and national publicity and through recordings made by top professional musicians in an expensively equipped studio. But these and other representations were found by the Hearing Examiner to be so palpably and grossly false as to constitute a reckless and willful disregard of the truth.

Denied Mails
BIG TABLE, Inc. at Chicago, Illinois. In his initial decision, the Hearing Examiner recommended that Big Table Magazine, Issue No. 1 be denied second class mailing privileges in that the vile, vulgar and filthy language used in its articles and which set the tone of the entire publication and establish its dominant characteristic far outweighs whatever literary merit there may be in the articles. The Hearing Examiner emphasized that there was nothing in the initial decision which purports to be critical of proper discussion of any idea presented in Big Table 1. While not all of the ideas are condoned, they are recognized as elements of life as it is lived by certain segments of the population. The Hearing Examiner concluded, however, that it appears to be inescapable that the manner of presentation of these ideas is offensive and repugnant to the average conscience of the time.

Obscenity Orders
Obscenity Orders, based on default, issued against the following: EARL at Clayton and St. Louis, Missouri. In this operation, hundreds of complaints were received from almost every state, and many from Canada, protesting against the unsolicited mailings made by this firm advertising the sale of obscene photos. Many who received them were teenagers and one mother wrote, "my twelve year old daughter received the enclosed in the mail. It is unnecessary to describe our reaction."

Obscenity proceedings were initiated during July, 1959, by the General Counsel of the Post Office Department against the following:
Judy of Los Angeles, California for the sale through the mail of black and white photographs of nude models.

FAIRFAX Record Sales Co., at Los Angeles, California, for the sale of lewd and obscene photographs through the mail.
DAVE CARB at Los Angeles, California, for the mailing of advertising telling where lewd and obscene material may be obtained.

PHIZE Features and Stan Mayberry at Los Angeles, California, for mailing advertisements telling where lewd and obscene material may be obtained.

GEORGE STEVENS at Los Angeles, Calif., for mailing advertisements telling where lewd and obscene material may be obtained.

Fraud Evident
Washington, D. C.: Cameron Moulden, 29, pleaded guilty to charging more than the value of fictitious names in defrauding record clubs of more than $7,000 worth of merchandise. For nearly two years, Moulden, using numerous aliases and frequently changing addresses, ordered record albums from the clubs after joining them under his false names. The investigation showed that Moulden never paid for the hundreds of records ordered but sold most of them and used the money received for clothes, etc.

Rochester, New York: Anthony J. Farago, alias Farago, 43, was found guilty on 8 counts in a mail fraud scheme involving phony uranium stock in which he filched an estimated $250,000 from trusting investors. Beginning in 1955, and relying heavily on the magic in the word, "Uranium," Farago, through misrepresentations and illegal methods of corporate financing, victimized more than 200 persons in the Rochester, New York area. Staking various claims in sections of New Mexico, Farago released news of his supposed fantastic "strike" to Rochester newspapers as a means of encouraging more victims to invest in what he actually knew was a practically worthless mining venture. His company, the Uran Corporation, worked one claim in Wild Horse Canyon from which samples showed only a low grade ore. Farago reworded assaying reports to paint a rosier picture of the Wild Horse operation and many of the victims invested even more money on the basis of his fraudulent report.

El Cajon, California: Jack Silver, 42, was sentenced to serve 1 to 20 years in State prison after being found guilty of attempted murder in the mailing of a bomb made by him. The recipient of the bomb fortunately had moved and failed to file a forwarding order. The return address bore the name of an alleged sender who informed the post office she had no knowledge of the parcel and refused to accept its return. The addressee was the same person whose apartment was bombed earlier and, fearing for her life, she left no forwarding address. The bomb was expertly designed and had either the address of the alleged sender or the lid, two sticks of fresh dynamite would have exploded. The evidence that convicted Silver was the impression made by pliers from his garage on one of the component wires in the bomb.

Baltimore, Maryland: James E. Tuttle, 44, pleaded guilty to an 8 count violation of mail statutes in a scheme involving the fraudulent use of mails in an assumed name. Tuttle was responsible for the mailing of 1,000 pieces of letter mail and 100 parcels to an elderly woman during a six month period. The woman returned the unordered merchandise and complained to Postal Inspectors who proved Tuttle's typewriter for merchandise had been typed. Tuttle then admitted his guilt and said he considered the orders as a "joke" on the woman. The Judge, before passing sentence noted it was a serious matter which had a harmful effect on the health of the woman and that it caused an economical loss to each of the firms that mailed the merchandise ordered by Tuttle in the woman's name and without her authority. The Judge stated he would have imposed a jail sentence had it not been for the recommendation of the psychiatrist who had examined Tuttle.

Milwaukee, Wisconsin: Eugene A. Richards, 32, was sentenced to 15 months imprisonment after pleading guilty to charges of conducting a mail fraud scheme in which approximately $2,000 was filched from persons interested in purchasing fishing flies. Using the fictitious name, "Stellar Enterprises," Richards advertised in leading outdoor magazines offering "60 Beautiful Hand Tied Flies in Handy 3 1/4" x 5 1/2" Aluminum Case" — a $20 value for only $7.95 post paid." He received responses from all parts of the country, cashed the checks and in not one case did the flies as advertised. In addition special flies, including coachman hackles and mayflies, would be furnished, according to the advertisements. Postal Inspectors found Richards had no supplies used the money to pay for a second-hand Cadillac and received a five year sentence. Sentence was suspended and Richards was to be confined in an institution for a period of six months and placed on probation for a period of five years afterwards.

Denver, Colorado: Harold W. Mason, 39, indicted for mail fraud on October 15, 1958, and since then a fugitive was located and arrested at San Francisco, California. In his scheme, Marvino filched $6,000 by borrowing money in the name of Marilyn Arts Company, a department of octurn paid the sent him on open accounts based on false and fictitious orders for the merchandise.

New York City, New York: Benjamin Bert Kimmel, 48, was sentenced to one year imprisonment for mailing false financial statements in order to obtain money on credit for his store, Rita's Accessories. Kimmel filched approximately $50,000 through his scheme. Judge J. Skelly Wright, in sentencing Kimmel after a jury had found him guilty, commented that the sentence might act as a deterrent to other mailers to mail false financial statements.

Denver, Colorado: Henry Walter McWhorter, 66, indicted on November 15, 1957, for violation of mail fraud statutes in which $40,000 was filched, and since then a fugitive was located and arrested recently in Dallas, Texas. McWhorter, a "Con-man" with a criminal record going back to 1930, devised this latest mail fraud scheme around the sale of alleged franchises for automobile accessories. Using the fictitious name of the Business Opportunities sections of newspapers, McWhorter reached victims to whom he sold, for $2,000 each, the "exclusive franchises" for the sale of the accessories. The victims paid the money and in most cases they never saw or heard from McWhorter again.

Denver, Colorado: Clarence Franklin Johnson, 42, was convicted and sentenced to serve one year imprisonment for devising a scheme to defraud stamp dealers throughout the country. In his operation, Johnson used numerous fictitious names to order stamps and admitted he had no intention to pay for them. He would then sell the stamps to other dealers for his own profit. Johnson, who claims to have been a stamp collector for some 15 years, made an admitted $800,000 from this fraudulent scheme.

Philadelphia, Pa.: Charles E. Hickey, alias M. P. Gorman, 35, has been arrested in a mail fraud scheme in which $11,000 was obtained through forging and cashing checks against bank statements stolen from at least 50 apartment letter boxes. Hickey, arrested on four previous occasions on similar charges, was on three years' probation after serving part of a prison term for cashing checks stolen from the mail.

St. Louis, Missouri: Emil V. Rudolph, 27, Charles W. Lee, 34, Harold W. Fink, 41, Ernest J. Hartz, 49, and Sol Cutler, 53, have been indicted and arrested, charged with conducting a nation-wide mail fraud scheme in which an estimated $160,000 was filched in connection with the sale of radio and television tube testing machines. Doing business under the name of Midwest Electronics Corporation, it is alleged the defendants promised victims monthly income up to $600.00 per month through the purchase of five tube testing machines and inventory of tubes for $2,925. Further, it is alleged, the company led the victims to believe it would locate each machine in an "exclusive" territory and if the prospective operator was dissatisfied with the income from the self-service tube-testing business, the company would refund the "excess" route after a period of one year. In many cases it is alleged the victims paid for the machines and received nothing in return, despite their repeated requests.

Kansas City, Missouri: Matilda Stutzman, 27, and her husband Clarence Stutzman, 31, were recently indicted by a Federal Grand Jury at Sarasota, Florida, charged with 10 counts of using the mails to defraud and one count of conspiracy in a work-at-home scheme involving the alleged sale of knitting machines. Operating as the Kansas City Knit Garnet Company, it is estimated the public was filched of $21,000. The defendants sold Strick-Matador knitting machines at unreasonably high prices to housewives who, it is alleged, believed they could supplement monthly income through the sale of knitted goods made on the machines to the company. With financing included, these machines cost the housewife a total of $422.58. The machines were imported from Germany for approximately $35.00. The buy-back agreement between housewife and company was so phrased that, it is alleged, the company would have to purchase very few of the goods made. The idea, supposedly, was to sell as many machines as possible saturating the market, and then leave as was the case in the Kansas City area.

The sales of the Strick-Matador machines through national franchise dealers and distributors were set up by Morris Barrin and his father, John Barrin, Buffalo, N. Y., in 1955. Both of these men are presently free on bond from arrest for mail fraud. It has been estimated that possibly 20,000 of the Strick-Matador Knitting machines have been sold by franchise holders and by the Barrins themselves in these work-at-home operations. At approximately $400.00 per sale this would mean the fantastic amount of $8,000,000.00 has been obtained from the public. And the most vicious part of this alleged swindle is that the victims are young housewives, elderly persons and others who can least afford to lose even the smallest part of their incomes.

Milwaukee, Wisconsin: Darryl H. Saichek, 22, Christ Treants, 39, and Andrew H. Kronek, 52, were arrested, charged with mail fraud in a knitting machine work-at-home scheme in which approximately $200,000 was filched from the public. The defendants, all officers of American Knit Garnet Distributors, Inc., allegedly sold approximately 400 Regina Princess Knitting machines for sums in excess of $400 each, including finance charges, to housewives in Milwaukee, Green Bay, Racine and Kenosha. The defendants supposedly bought the machines from the Two-M Corporation, in Chicago, Illinois, for $100 each. It is alleged that misrepresentations were made to the effect that stoles, knitted slippers, baby sweaters and other garments could be knitted in 45 minutes on these machines and that in the sales pitch the company allegedly claimed it would "buy garments from ladies like yourself, but we never get enough garments." The work-at-home feature, supposedly was a lulling operation in order to deceive the alleged victims into paying exorbitantly high prices for the machines.

Hartford, Connecticut: Charles J. Hershman, 54, was indicted on four counts of operating a fraudulent scheme through the mails and on one count of giving to a postal inspector a false financial statement to conceal the facts of his fraudulent operation. As the operator of Mortgage Clubs, Inc., Hershman advertised to investors through direct mail solicitations and newspapers. Supposedly, club members were told their investment would be placed in second mortgages with interest rate as high as 15 per cent, that the borrower was agreeing to pay back mortgages in weekly payments over a 50 month period. Investors, it is alleged, were promised their money plus interest would be paid back also in 50 monthly installments. It is alleged, however, that in numerous instances Hershman failed to fulfill his promise. Alleged victims were in many states and in Canada.

San Juan, Puerto Rico: William M. Rossiter, President, Gene J. Hanrahan, Vice-President, John W. Tynan, Vice-President, William P. Shea, Treasurer, and William C. Baron, Financial Officer of the Commercial Finance Service Corporation, Washington, D. C., and the following salesmen: Francis J. Weber, Sidney Silverman, Ralph Webb, Mark Norwood, and Francis Burke were all indicted on 65 counts of using the mails to defraud in an alleged advance fee scheme in which approximately 150 Puerto Rican small businessmen were victimized of about $60,000. The businessmen, in return for an advance fee, were told they could arrange business loans through the Commercial Finance Service Corporation and its supposed contacts. The loans, it is alleged, did not materialize even though the advance fees were paid in good faith.

Wheeler County to Receive $76,753 in Wake of Court Nod

Payment in full of the Wheeler county treasurer's claim against the Bartlett State Bank was announced Wednesday by E. N. Van Horn, state banking director.

The bank was declared insolvent by Van Horn on May 19, 1959, and was placed in receivership.

The Department of Banking is the statutory receiver and liquidating agent.

At the time the bank closed, Wheeler county had $68,753.78 on deposit. The Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation had already paid the insured portion, $10,000, to the county on the claim.

Payment of the balance of the claim was withheld pending a judgment by the courts on the validity of the claim.

Wednesday the Wheeler county district judge held the claim of the county was a prior preferred claim and subject to a trust fund and that the county was entitled to payment of the entire deposit account.

Following the order, Van Horn sent $76,753.78 to Wheeler county treasurer S. L. Westcott.

The amount restores the county's funds in full.

January 15 Deadline For Last '59 Payment

The deadline for paying the last installment of estimated Federal income tax returns for 1959 is Friday, January 15, James L. McCrory, Director of Internal Revenue for Nebraska District, reminded today.

"If you have any other questions about your Federal income tax return, telephone your local Internal Revenue office at Broken Bow," he advised.

Shoe Business Up About 9 Per Cent

In a year end summary for Turkey Shoe Store here Owner Don Turkey told the Quiz business was up 9.3 per cent for 1959.

December this year showed an increase over December last year of 16 per cent.

All months in 1959 were ahead of 1958 except two — June and November. Mr. Turkey reported.

He said the entire shoe industry was unable to account for an unexpected drop in sales in June. The November drop came as rubber footwear stocks gathered dust while cold but dry weather prevailed.

The shoe firm operates with two full time — Mr. and Mrs. Turkey — and one part time, employees. It has a yearly volume of nearly $50,000.

CAP Squadron Alert for Storm

The Ord CAP unit was alerted here during the recent heavy snow when at least two small planes were "lost" over Nebraska.

Busiest cogs in the local squadron were Ray Williams and George Purtle, both of whom manned the transmitter and receiver at the Evelyn Sharp field here.

Both men worked most of New Year's Eve and New Year's Day relaying weather traffic and communications concerned with the "Redcap" alert.

The alert was called when one of five small planes, bound Kansas City to Sioux Falls strayed from its companions, and another plane traveling westward over Nebraska called in to say it was having visibility trouble.

The Dakota bound plane and pilot were located in Kansas when Ord's CAP men suggested a squib be put out over KHAS-TV.

The other pilot was finally located at Crawford where he attempted a landing only to nose over into a gully.

The pilot suffered a few chipped teeth, a broken heel and a few bruises. He stayed in the plane for 18 hours before the storm lifted enough for him to walk a mile to a nearby farm.

SS Tax Jumps To 3 Per Cent

Persons in work — employment or self-employment — covered by social security are reminded that the social security tax rate will be increased beginning with 1960.

When employed people get their first pay envelopes or pay checks in January, they will find 3 per cent instead of 2 1/2 per cent deducted for social security tax purposes.

When self-employed persons file their 1960 tax returns early in 1961, they must pay 4 1/2 per cent instead of 3 1/4 per cent social security tax.

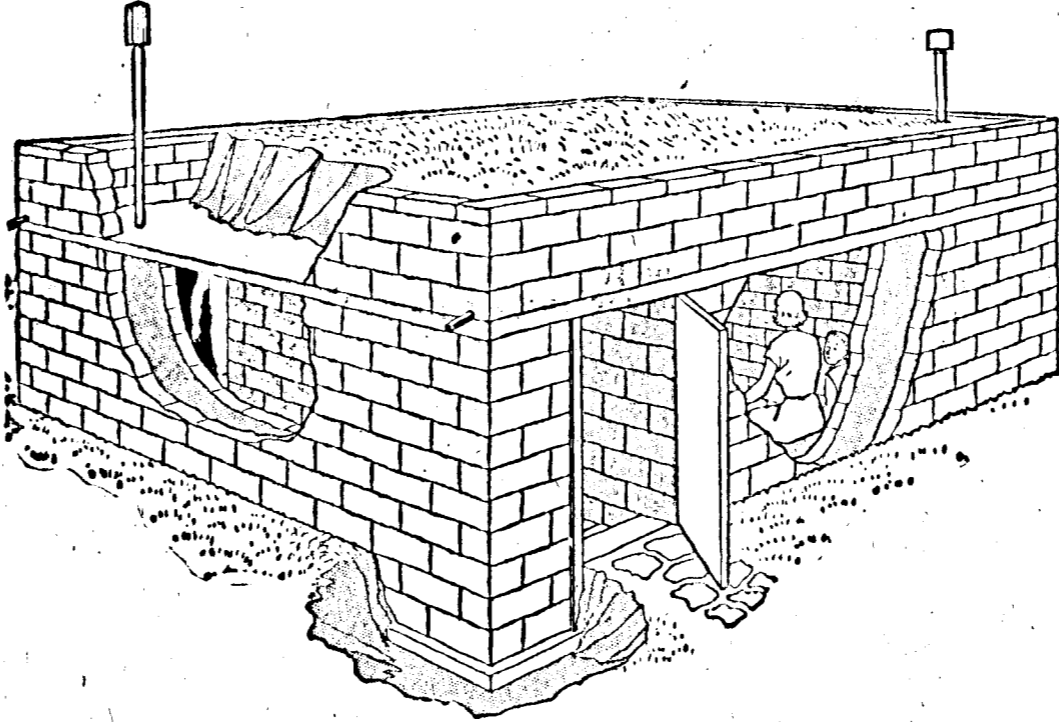

This increase will not apply to self-employment returns on 1959 earnings which must be filed on or before April 15, 1960.

The above increases in social security tax rates apply to wages or self-employment income for 1960 through 1962.

The increased social security tax rates, which become effective as of January 1, 1960, were enacted by Congress to continue the self-supporting principle.

DO-IT-YOURSELF SHELTER PROJECT For Family Protection From Radioactive Fallout

BASEMENT SHELTERS generally are the least expensive type that will give substantial protection. The basement shelter shown here can be built with solid concrete blocks as a do-it-yourself project for $150 to $200. Standard 8-inch solid concrete blocks are recommended because hollow blocks would have to be filled with concrete to give effective protection.

Bricks are an alternative. If they are used, the walls and roof should be 10 inches thick to give the same protection as 8-inch solid concrete blocks. Plans for this do-it-yourself project appear in "The Family Fallout Shelter," OGDN booklet. Copies may be obtained from Box Home Shelter, OGDN, Battle Creek, Michigan.

Mr. Wellman is a charter member of the North Loup department and was a long time fire chief.

His home was the home of the first SDB church in the 1870's and it was also the first school in the North Loup River Valley.

Former Ord Woman Mrs. Nels Sullivan Dies at Scottsbluff

A former well known Ord wife and mother died over the Christmas holidays and was buried at Rockville Sunday, January 3.

She was Mrs. Nels (Ethelyn) Sullivan, 44, wife of former Ord High School Supt. Nels Sullivan.

Mrs. Sullivan died in the Western Nebraska General hospital at Scottsbluff about 7 p.m. Wednesday, December 30.

Death was attributed to lung cancer.

She left Ord about 13 months ago when he was named superintendent of the Gering High School.

In January Mrs. Sullivan grew seriously ill. Her illness wasn't correctly diagnosed until last June. Early treatment seemed beneficial but her condition worsened later in the year.

She was able to be released from the hospital shortly before Christmas and managed to spend the holiday with her husband and children.

Death followed a few days later.

Memorial services were conducted in Gering and final rites from the Rockville Community church by Dr. Henry Beatty of the Gering Methodist church. Burial was at Rockville. Mrs. Mark Tolson and Doyle Dickey sang at the rites.

Mrs. Sullivan was born Ethelyn A. Crawford and was graduated there and later attended Peru State Teachers College.

She was married to Nels Sullivan, July 6, 1937. They came to Ord in 1951 from Big Springs and lived here for four years, while Mr. Sullivan was superintendent of Ord schools.

In 1933 the Sullivans moved to Gering.

While in Ord Mrs. Sullivan was an active member and vice-president of the Women's Society of Christian Service of the Methodist church, and a member of the Veterans of Foreign Wars auxiliary.

Survivors: her husband; daughters — Cathy, 10, and Martha, 6; one son — Mike, 13; sisters — Mrs. John Niday of Red Oak, Iowa, and Mrs. Gerald Mosier of Castro Valley, Calif.

Editorially Speaking

We're Hoping Somebody, Somewhere, Takes A Stand

One of the things that has been griping us lately (if's the holidays; too much time to sit!) is this "Let's all join hands around the mulberry bush" attitude taken on public issues by area TV and radio stations.

As near as we can determine from our meager watching habits (we only hear radio while in cars) there hasn't been one source this year to come out flat-footed on any civic issue although news sources indicate dissent is as common as fleas on Towser.

For instance, we see where Lincoln is currently embroiled over three or four spicy issues — the governor's firing of the state engineer, the interstate fess with Omaha and forced closing of business on Sunday.

Other than straight reporting we haven't heard one opinion on the subjects from the Lincoln station, and when one of the same issues (Sunday closing) got hotter than August Dutch love in Grand Island recently we don't recall as having heard Hastings sound off either!

Oh sure, occasionally, one of the stations will present what is called a "commentator" on a controversial subject, or it will go little farther and hold a "panel" which means that the station can keep its little behind safely tucked in the middle where it can disclaim contamination with either side.

This to our way of belief is pure shilly-shallying and should be beneath any newsman who thinks he might have some claim to the name. We believe that if public voices haven't got the guts to speak out against chicanery, malfeasance — or their country cousin-ignorance — then who in Hades will? There must be a right side to most of the issues that confront us today, and it shouldn't be too hard for any TV or radio reporter worth his salt to find and state them.

And for the Lord's sake, just once, let's have them presented as opinions of this station without having them emulsified of their strength and virility by the preface:

"Opinions expressed here are not necessarily those of this electronic gab circuit!"

Self Assessment on the Subject 'My Town'

If you haven't said it you should have: "My Town is the place where my home is found, where my business is situated and where my vote is cast. It is where my children are educated, where my neighbors dwell and where my life is chiefly lived. It is the home spot for me."

"My town has the right to my civic loyalty. It supports me and I should support it."

"My town wants my citizenship, not my partisanship; my friendliness, not my dissension; my sympathy, not my criticism; my intelligence, not my indifference."

"My town supplies me with protection, trade, friends, education, schools, churches and

Tucson Weather Does A Reverse: Cold and Snowy

Gosh, we thought it would be summer down here.

We expected plenty of sun, boiling and blazing.

Somehow, when one mentions deserts, that's the way he visualizes it.

So we thought this should be a good spot for Gene, warm him up, sun him, and dry him out with humidity down to HERE.

Bake out his cough. But some way, Tucson fooled us, even though we read all the weather statistics in Holiday, wrote the Chamber of Commerce and all that stuff.

The first five or six days were according to Dr. Martin's prescription. The sun was hot. The days were sunny. Here and there a rose bush bloomed. Or an infrequent poinsettia. Oranges hung invitingly on dark green, bushy trees. We loved the palms, the bamboo, the tropical look. We soaked up the sunlight.

And about that time, bang!

The weatherman went crazy. The humidity hit in the eighties. Then the nineties. He might as well have put Gene in a straight jacket!

The sun left. It got gray, And grayer. And colder. And colder.

Last night it got down to 20° F!

On The Lee Side—

There's A Time For Writing Christmas Thank You Letters

I'd like to report to readers that this has been a very fine Christmas season for me and that this is the day I sit myself down to wish everyone my best for the coming year.

The day is perfect for writing. The whole Quiz is abandoned for the New Year holiday and most of my Christmas presents are stacked on my desk awaiting listing.

Two in particular take my eye — a quart of Dunphy's Imported Shamrock Irish Spirits, (seven years' old) and 12 bottles of Guinness Extra Stout, a heavy bodied ale, brewed and bottled only a stone's throw from St. James' Gate in Dublin, Ireland.

A third present can't be seen since its a pair of shorts cut from cloth made to look like a newspaper. You won't believe this, but across my seat is a headline that reads "State Mental Institutions Release All Patients" and "Head Scientist Accused of Pilfering From Atom Reserve."

It is generally my custom on a holiday like this to array myself in my presents, then sit down and write long thankful letters. I like to do this because I find that when I use the gifts I receive, it stimulates the imagination somewhat. So if you'll excuse me a moment I'll slip into the things I have been given and be right back.

Well, here I am again wearing my newspaper shorts, and my new sweater shirt and my necktie holder that has a Christmas, Star right in the center of it. I find the newspaper shorts and the jewelry give me an air of rakishness that I haven't been aware of for a long time. After all,

I may still be a gay dog, even if a bit grey at the temple.

Anyway, the office is empty as heck today and it's a fine time to get a holiday letter written. Even the mountaining room is quiet and the downstairs girls are not running through the halls or looking over my shoulder. Somewhere, when I try to write I find three or four people looking over my shoulder.

Today is different. No one is here. There is only this slight draught draft from the society editor's room which just might give me a cold. If you'll excuse me a minute I'll see about that draft.

Well, I'm back. I didn't find any windows open but I took a few pees, (precautionary) measures just to be sure. I flow like me can't be too careful, although I'll admit I'm not afraid I'll catch something because, discounting my YEARS, I am an amazingly healthy.

desides I have a lot of pills and stuff left over from my last heart attack. they are all good pills and are guaranteed—(excuse me, a pair of identical twins are at the downstairs door!)

Well, the twinshave gone. Strangely enough when I got downstairs one had already left, the other only wanted to collect for the daily newspaper. It is strange what days the, these kids come to collect. (would you please excuse me again?)

now, to get to my christmas letters.lets see by brot her is first, (he mailed the beer). Or shall I make gene leget first, (he sent the Irish spirits)? whomsoever I put first, the other's are going to be surely inslt. to be saafe I am ju7st going to wish all a verry ha77y n(ew year)60!

Geranium Joe Sez:

'Taxpayers Sluck To Replace Silver In UN Cafeteria'

Dear Bill: Sometimes I think reading the newspaper is like watching a feller's days here on earth. For instance, I see where 3,563 pieces of silverware, over 1,000 goblets, and 387 plates has been stole by the members out of the United Nations cafeteria. Alton and the estimate that $845,000 worth of stuff has been toted off by the members.

The American taxpayers, of course, is footing the bill and will have to replace it. If they keep this pace up there won't be nothing left but the sugar bowl and being a taxpayer, I'm in favor of putting a lock and chain on it. A fine mess of folks we got there trying to run the world affairs!

Senator Mundt thinks we need a constitutional committee to finger out a way to help the small towns. I have writ to the good Senator and told him to let us live in peace. The Federal Government has been saving the big cities to the tune of billions and if they get to saving the small towns, they're going to kill off the country. Our small towns is unheared, unsung and uninvestigated and we don't want 'em ruined with no handout "progress" from Washington.

It says here the U. S. Bureau of Standards is working on a hydraulic drill for dentists. Just how this Government agency get over into the dental profession, I ain't shore. They say it won't reduce the vibration, but it'll reduce the vibration. I'm again any more tax money for that project. As long as I got to set in the chair and suffer, what do I care if it shakes the office down?

And it seems them Russians is following up Khushchev's disarrament plan in their customary good faith. A English newspaper is quoted as saying they're working on the Z-Bomb, the one that is designed to reduce everything to a fine mist.

And if that ain't enough, it says here Elvis Presley claims his tour of duty in the Army has caused him to lose his "feel" for rock n roll songs. That, however, shouldn't be one of our national problems. He can get it back by going out in the barnyard and practicing hog-calling fer half a hour.

When I get discouraged like this about the shape things is in I go out behind the barn and give myself a good talking. I compare things with Russia, fer instance. A Russian, gent have to worry about his property because he ain't allowed to own none. He don't have to worry about what trade he'll follow because they pick his job fer him. He can't strike, employ labor, travel, own jewelry, be friends with foreigners, be tried by a jury, belong to a church, express his own views, or be absent from work. That makes it a little better fer us here in America.

Just Joe

Forty Years Ago

H. D. Leggett, Quiz Editor, predicted Ord would be a town of four thousand in three or four years. Arthur Lewis and Edwin Kull were working claims near Torrington, Wyo. Senator Curtis Sez:

Farm Economy Is Prime '60 Topic

One of the most important matters to face the second session of the Eighty-sixth Congress is what to do about the farm economy.

The wrong way would be to simply criticize what has taken place and then offer no alternatives.

A national magazine calls the farmers' plight a national scandal. This is unfair and inaccurate. The same magazine lauds every nickel that Uncle Sam has spent in Europe and Africa and on so-called "public works" projects. Why is this spending any less or more a scandal than money spent to help our own farmers?

The truth is that our farm situation is not a scandal but a very serious problem. The future of the Midwest depends upon how it is solved.

Nearly every announced candidate for President has some special farm-saving formula. Each of these plans, say the candidates, will solve all the headaches.

In a Presidential election year, it is difficult to write laws in Washington. But with laws in the hands of Congress greater by the hour, it falls upon the Congressional leadership to rise above politics and call public hearings on this question. It can add much to be solved.

New Session, New Issues

Each year the Congress presents new issues. Progressing the peace will be the headlines during the months ahead. President Eisenhower's talks with the leaders of the other World Powers may call for Senate action.

More Congressional hearings will be held on our probes into outer space and the status of the Strategic Air Command with its headquarters at Omaha will play an important part of these hearings.

No Inflation Good

Some people in Washington claim that "a little inflation" is a good thing. But testimony before a Congressional Committee proves otherwise.

This committee was told that a wage or salary earner with a wife and two children and a yearly income of three thousand dollars in 1942 would need $5,013 to live as well in 1959. Only by nearly doubling his income would he be able to just stand still economically. This shows where inflation hurts the most — the fixed income of the retired, and salaried, the small businessman and the farmer.

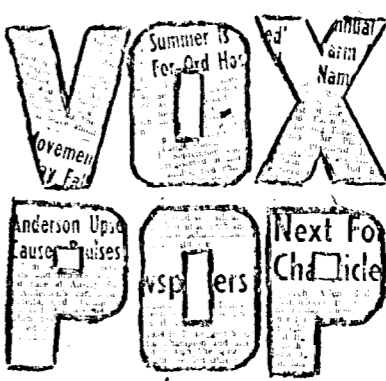

Govt. "Payola" Bad

You hear a lot about "payola" these days. Here is a Washington example: Uncle Sam spent 102 thousand dollars to send Jack Teagarden, a jazz trombonist from Texas, and his combo, on a three months' tour of foreign countries to entertain the "underdeveloped."

Wards Visit

Mr. and Mrs. Don Ward and son of Paxton, visited his mother, Mrs. John Ward at Ericson over the New Year weekend. Don is a teacher of social studies at Paxton. His late father wrote a column for the Quiz for many years.

State Senate Committees Conducting 15 Studies

Nebraska's 43 state senators are currently engaged in quiet study of some major areas of government.

Between sessions every two years of the Unicameral, the lawmakers form into committees and study state government. These normally are serious research groups who do not seek headlines.

Effect of recommendations of the committees that go under the name of the Legislative Council, is very strong on the following session of the Legislature.

In recent years, importance of council recommendations has increased annually. Current chairman of the council is Sen. Don Thompson of McCook.

There are 15 studies being conducted now and Thompson said every committee has met already. Progress is ahead of other years, he said.

Thompson has pushed the committees to get an early start on the theory that the studies, and recommendations, will be better.

A high percentage of the suggestions of the last study committees became law during the 1959 session.

Thompson said this is because "good legislation is the result of intelligent compromise where possible" and the council committees are able to iron out rough spots in a state problem before it gets to the floor of the Legislature.

In February, the council executive committee will meet to talk about controversy in the highway department.

Thompson said since there has been some controversy about the department, "it is our duty to give it some consideration."

Major General Guy N. Henninger's recognition by the state of Nebraska for his many years as top officer of the Nebraska National Guard was not unexpected.

Brooks cited Henninger for his outstanding leadership and guidance in bringing the Nebraska National Guard to its highest peak of combat readiness in history.

Henninger retired as adjutant general in July, but still retained the job of head of the state's selective service system.

The 61-year-old soldier was born on a farm near Shelbyton. He had been Buffalo County attorney and in 1939 was appointed adjutant general — top officer of the guard.

He was elevated in 1940 to brigadier general and given the post of selective service chief.

The general was highly respected in military circles and the statehouse and often was a vocal fighter in Washington for benefits for the national guard. He was outspoken against any moves to water down the guard's potential.

Trailer Talk The office of Atty. Gen. C. S. Beck has ruled that once a house trailer, always a house trailer.

This, Beck said, is despite the fact a trailer may be mounted on blocks, have a lean-to addition and be hooked up to city sewer and water lines.

Kimball County Attorney Thomas D. Brower asked a question of Beck on taxing of the trailers.

Beck said it appears the manner in which the trailer is used is not a controlling factor when it comes to paying taxes.

Concluded the attorney general: "If it is designed for living quarters and if it is also designed for being drawn by a motor vehicle, it is governed by the act (on taxing of trailers)."

A law passed by the last Legislature called for licensing of house trailers much in the same manner of automobiles. Property taxes must be paid before a permit is issued for the trailer.

Hospital Money There is still a strong demand in Nebraska for federal hospital funds.

That's the report from Verne Pangborn, director of the hospital division of the State Health Department.

SUGGESTION: START SAVING IN '60...

SAVE FOR A SUNNY DAY

We think banks have talked enough about saving "for a rainy day." We prefer to talk about the happier prospect of the "sunny day" that will result from a consistent, persistent program of saving.

Write your own ticket for your particular kind of a "sunny day" . . . a trip, happy retirement or whatnot.

Whatever the dream, systematic saving will make it come true.

Burwell Passes Sewer Use Fee Of 75c Monthly

Burwell village recently passed a 75c a month sewer tax that will eventually raise $50,000 in years to come.

The $50,000 will be used to construct a sewage disposal system, a move all cities and villages in Nebraska must make in conformance with a federal law.

Burwell city dads won't build the sewer system until half of the necessary amount is on hand.

The 75c is a one family residence fee. Other schedules for multiple dwellings and commercial taps are on file in city offices.

Firemen Answer Call Scotia volunteer firemen extinguished a blazing car this week on the bridge over the North Loop River east of Cotesfield.

The car struck the end of the bridge and caught fire. It was driven by Elton Walker of Ord who, after the accident, walked to the nearby Leonard Wells farm and summoned firemen.

Calf Tagging Date Resel to Jan. 9

Calf tagging for the rate-of-gain contest got off to a poor start due to bad weather. No calves were tagged Monday but ten were weighed Thursday.

Since its rather important that 4H members be along for this event, we're going to try it again Saturday, January 9.

Wilson and Sons have a scale which they are making available.

Weighing will start at 10:30 and we hope we'll be done by noon. Late comers had better call to make sure they can get weighed.

Last year about 40 calves were entered. We want to give everyone an opportunity to enter again this year. Hope we hit a good day.

Feeding Charges Speaking of feeding — an interesting sheet came from the college recently showing the change in feeding by chain stores.

Chain stores have not fed calves or hogs in the last five years or sheep since 1953. Cattle feeding operations have declined since 1954.

Altogether the packers and chain stores accounted for about two per cent of the total cattle slaughter from 1954 to 1957 and nearly three per cent in 1958.

In 1954, six of the 10 largest packers accounted for over seven per cent of all sheep slaughtered. There was a large drop in 1955, a slight rise in 1956 and steadiness since.

In 1954, only one of the 10 largest packers and 23 others were feeding calves. By 1958 three packers and 36 small packers were feeding calves. Still it amounts to less than half of one per cent of the calves slaughtered.

In other words, the feeding operations of packers and chain stores have not been large.

Ready to Go! OLIVER 770 3-4 plow tractor

All new—and all set to go, ready to turn out more work in a day.

First of all, there's more horsepower in this new 770 — power from a deeper breathing, higher speed engine. Add the new Power-Booster Drive and you get 12 forward speeds, almost one-third more pull at the touch of a lever — on the go.

Hook a new 4-bottom semi-mounted No. 5440 plow to Oliver's new Power-Traction Hitch and forget about the tough spots. Your 770 just bears down, steps right through at full speed. Put on Powerjuster wheels; let the engine change tread. And make driving a pleasure with power steering.

This is only the beginning. There's a lot more to see in the new 770. You'll want to feel the snappy power, too—in all the exciting new ways.

Speaking of Trucks

These are just a very few of the types of trucks you see and use every day. For today there's hardly a person anywhere in Nebraska who doesn't depend on trucks of all kinds.

Trucks bring food supplies to your local merchant . . . trucks bring deliveries direct to your door . . . trucks haul material for that new house or business building . . . and buses, yes trucks, take your children to and from school. Without trucks the vast majority of Nebraska towns would be paralyzed, for most are served only by trucks.

Burwell Passes Sewer Use Fee Of 75c Monthly

Burwell village recently passed a 75c a month sewer tax that will eventually raise $50,000 in years to come.

The $50,000 will be used to construct a sewage disposal system, a move all cities and villages in Nebraska must make in conformance with a federal law.

Burwell city dads won't build the sewer system until half of the necessary amount is on hand.

Firemen Answer Call

Scotia volunteer firemen extinguished a blazing car this week on the bridge over the North Loop River east of Cotesfield.

The car struck the end of the bridge and caught fire. It was driven by Elton Walker of Ord who, after the accident, walked to the nearby Leonard Wells farm and summoned firemen.

The car was a 1955 Buick. Bridge planking was charred, later replaced.

Calf Tagging Date Resel to Jan. 9

Calf tagging for the rate-of-gain contest got off to a poor start due to bad weather. No calves were tagged Monday but ten were weighed Thursday.

Since its rather important that 411 members be along for this event, we're going to try it again Saturday, January 9.

Wilson and Sons have a scale which they are making available. Weighing will start at 10:30 and we hope we'll be done by noon. Late comers had better call to make sure they can get weighed.

Last year about 40 calves were entered. We want to give everyone an opportunity to enter again this year. Hope we hit a good day.

Feeding Changes

Speaking of feeding -- an interesting sheet came from the college recently showing the change in feeding by chain stores.

Chain stores have not fed calves or hogs in the last five years or sheep since 1955. Cattle feeding operations have declined since 1954.

Altogether the packers and chain stores accounted for about two per cent of the total cattle slaughter from 1954 to 1957 and nearly three per cent in 1958.

In 1954, six of the 10 largest packers accounted for over seven per cent of all sheep slaughtered. There was a large drop in 1955, a slight rise in 1956 and steady since.

In 1954, only one of the 10 largest packers and 23 others were feeding calves. By 1958 three packers and 36 small packers were feeding calves. Still it amounts to less than half of one per cent of the calves slaughtered.

In other words, the feeding operations of packers and chain stores have not been large.

enough to have a significant effect on prices. Still, the packers who do have feeding operations remove part of the price risk.

Ready to Go! OLIVER 770 3-4 plow tractor

All new -- and all set to go, ready to turn out more work in a day.

First of all, there's more horsepower in this new 770 -- power from a deeper breathing, higher speed engine. Add the new Power-Booster Drive and you get 12 forward speeds, almost one-third more pull at the touch of a lever -- on the go.

Hook a new 4-bottom semi-mounted No. 5410 plow to Oliver's new Power-Traction Hitch and forget about the tough spots. Your 770 just bears down, steps right through at full speed. Put on Powerjuster wheels; let the engine change tread. And make driving a pleasure with power steering.

This is only the beginning. There's a lot more to see in the new 770. You'll want to feel the snappy power, too -- in all the exciting new ways.

I PRESS FORWARD

... to a high calling in Christ. For I know, "out of the lowest depths there is a path to the loftiest heights." This man's challenge is higher ground... to blaze his way to God. His highest moral intent is to go Heavenward. God had a purpose in his road-block. Maybe there is one before you. God doesn't make it easy for us to be good. But He gave Jacob a ladder and he climbed to Princeshood with God. From way down, a man can climb way up when his purpose is lofty. The church will help every man in his climb if he truly seeks higher ground. You are what you want to be — good or bad; of God or of the devil. Then seek good this week... go to church.

FARMERS in the ORD AREA are expanding their CO-OP To Include L. P. GAS

Our plan is to install an L.P. Gas bulk plant with adequate storage and to put on one delivery truck. We will have a man trained and skilled to do service work on your heating equipment. Arrangements are being made for a location. We expect that local capital, invested at a good interest rate, will complete the financing of the project.

We are learning to do things for ourselves in our cooperatives. Farmers deserve the most convenient and efficient service obtainable. By working together we can supply our own needs in heat and power. By doing this ourselves we gain top quality, dependable service, and a chance to keep profits of our own organization working for us and coming back to us.

ANNOUNCING CO-OP DAY WED., JAN. 20

On this one day 30 teams of farmers in the Ord area will call on their friends and neighbors. They will solicit investments in the cooperative to finance the L.P. Gas plant. Certificates of indebtedness bearing 6% interest will be sold. These certificates mature in 10 years, or earlier at the discretion of the board. C. I.'s will be issued in amounts of $100 or multiples thereof. The board reserves the right to limit the size of any investment. Both farmers and non-farmers are eligible to invest.

Dealers Offered Melia Corn Plot For Corn Tests

Ray Melia has a comparison plot of corn hybrid numbers for several years in cooperation with Funk's Hybrids. This year the Extension Service will assist.

Major corn companies may enter one or two adapted hybrids. To enter, the company representative, should deliver 10 pounds of medium flat seed to Mr. Melia's farm in March or April. The numbers delivered must be hybrids that are being sold, not experimental.

Hybrids will be planted at the same rate and adjacent to each other. The same rate of fertilizing and watering will be used. At harvest time, the corn will be mechanically picked and weighed. Moisture from random samples will be determined. Shelling per cent will also be figured from random samples. Final yield figures will be based on 15.5 per cent moisture corn.

Corn dealers and interested farmers will be invited to observe the harvesting operations and make "On the spot" comparisons.

Census Necessary For Representation

Last November and December the 1959 Agricultural Census was taken in Valley county. Now a 1960 Census will be taken.

It is nice to know that information given the Bureau of the Census is strictly confidential. The Bureau is not interested in each person as an individual but rather as a part of the whole.

Each of us, especially we women can help make an accurate 1960 census. The women are usually the ones who answer the questions.

During the Agricultural Census, I heard several comments on the worth. The same question may be asked of the 1960 census.

The primary purpose of census taking every 10 years is to determine the number of representatives each state may elect to Congress. Each new census has also made significant changes in American life.

Manufacturers decide how many automobiles of a certain model to manufacture, by determining how many potential customers fall within an income bracket that can afford to buy their car.

Another example is the coat manufacturer. He wants to know how many little girls will be potential customers for size 12 coats in 1965.

Buying Agreement's Final Date Changed To Monday, Feb. 1

The Valley county ASC office this week received notification that since January 31, 1960 falls on Sunday, the final loan or purchase agreement availability date for 1959 crop wheat, grain sorghums, etc., has been extended through Monday, February 1.

A large number of applications for both farm storage and warehouse storage loans is currently anticipated, the ASC here said. And in order to assure producers of CCC supports, farmers should make application no later than January 22.

Those who wish to apply for warehouse storage loans must have the warehouse receipts in the county office no later than January 29.

Applications received after those dates may fail to be processed in time.

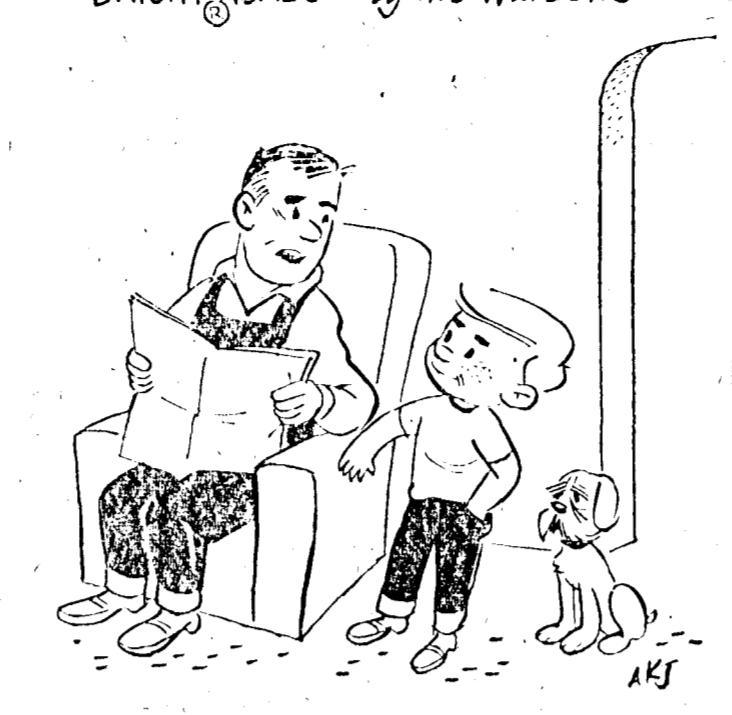

However, producers may elect purchase agreements instead of loans to assure themselves of price supports.

Producers are also reminded that the required period of storage for any farm stored grain sorghums and for artificially dried, shelled corn was reduced to 10 days. Formerly it was 30 days.

In the event grains are carrying excess moisture, purchase agreements may be completed so that in the event drying occurs, delivery of the commodity will be accepted.

Contact the ASC office if further information is desired.

Here's A Chance To Voice An Opinion On Surplus Disposal

Farmers, businessmen and housewives in Valley county will soon have the opportunity to do a little "shouting" on what to do with the surplus corn crop.

And what's more, their suggestions and opinions in ballot form will be reviewed by U. S. foreign officials as well as Nebraska senators and representatives.

The University of Nebraska is sponsoring a statewide campaign, "Great Decisions," which is part of a national plan to give every one here in Valley county a chance to discuss and vote on eight critical foreign policy issues.

Agent Has Info Bob Perry, the extension agent here, has received the go-ahead to issue further information to individuals, groups of farmers and businessmen, church leaders, women's clubs, etc., who would like to take part in the program.

Individuals may also start private groups by writing the University of Nebraska, extension division, in Lincoln.

This is the first time the program has been officially introduced in Nebraska. Several states have maintained a Foreign Policy Association program for the past four years.

Ballots Local The balloting will be done locally under direction of the discussion leader with Dr. Everett E. Peterson, an economist, and Dr. Otto G. Heberg, a sociologist, both of the University administering the statewide program.

The state program, "Great Decisions" will begin about Feb. 7 and will continue for eight weeks.

Watch your coming editions of The Ord Quiz for ballot results, local participants and a week-by-week description of the issues as they will be discussed and voted upon by local citizens.

Wheat Supply Is At All-Time High

The total U. S. wheat supply for the current marketing year is at an all-time high of 2.4 billion bushels, according to the Department of Agriculture report received at the Valley County ASC office.

A sharp increase in the carryover from last year more than offsets a 24 per cent reduction in this year's crop.

Domestic disappearance and exports of wheat in 1959-60 are expected to total about 1 billion 35 million bushels.

This would leave a carryover on July 1, 1960 of 1 billion, 365 million bushels, more than five times the wheat carryover in 1952, at a time when wartime demands had drawn stocks down to low levels.

Walfords Are Home From Junket South

Mr. and Mrs. L. E. (Sack) Walford are home after a five week vacation in Florida. They were guests of Mrs. Walford's brother-in-law and sister, the Lelloy Andersons, who have a home on the gulf near Englewood, Fla.

The Andersons reside in Burwell during the summer. Former Ordites, Mr. and Mrs. Earl Murray entertained the Walfords on several occasions, and acted as guides for sightseeing around Sarasota, including the beautiful jungle gardens, Ringling Brothers, Museum of Art and Fort Meyers, the center of the gladioli industry.

The Walfords celebrated their 35th wedding anniversary as Murray's guests for dinner at Robins, described by Mrs. Walford as a "delightful restaurant located on Siesta Key."

The Murrys had noted their 47th wedding anniversary at Robins the week before.

Enjoy Trip
Mrs. Walford said they enjoyed a trip over the Tamiami Trail, (U. S. 41), which is considered one of the most remarkable highways in the world.

It took 12 years to build and cuts straight across the Everglades, over miles of treacherous muck. She said when one crosses the trail hurriedly there is an impression of endless saw grass and cypress.

The Indians call it the "River of Grass." The occasional stops along the canal banks bordering the road are rewarding with interesting glimpses of tall wading birds, strange vegetation, often an alligator or black turtle and colorful Seminole Indians.

A popular tourist attraction is riding in a Swamp Buggy, a small scow propelled at bone-chilling speed by an airplane propeller. Tropical fruits that grow profusely included papayas, mangoes, avocados and guavas.

The Walfords brought home samples of lush citrus fruits picked from the Andersons' grove last Saturday in 92 degree temperatures.

They spent much time fishing, caught 13 huge trout at one outing, collected sea shells, and went on an oyster hunt with six others.

The group found six and one-half quarts (mussels) of oysters in an hour and a half.

Mrs. Walford said she had a fit of the giggles as she reached for the oyster clusters. The water made her seasick, and eventually she retired to the boat, to recuperate for the oyster feed following the hunt.

The Walfords returned home by following the gulf to New Orleans, they encountered snow as far south as Paris, Tex.

When they reached home they had traveled 5500 miles.

Bresleys Like Eastern Trip
Mr. and Mrs. Harry Bresley report an interesting and enjoyable trip to Norristown, Pa., where they spent the holidays with a son, Lloyd, his wife, daughter, Robin, and son, Christopher Lloyd.

This was the first time the Bresleys had seen Christopher who was born Oct. 28. They also spent time with Mr. and Mrs. James Shea, parents of Mrs. Lloyd Bresley.

Mrs. Bresley said there was snow on the ground on their arrival in Pennsylvania, but it soon disappeared. It rained several times during their visit. They were surprised to see green lawns beneath the snow, as well as rhododendrons, holly growing, azaleas, mountain laurel, dogwood and many other shrubs.

Mrs. Bresley, an active member of the Valley county garden club, said she plans to try to grow holly on the south side of their home.

The Bresleys' hosts took them on a tour of Valley Forge Park where they saw Washington's home, Memorial Chapel, Bell Tower, the Covered Bridge, soldier's huts, cannons, parade grounds, and the Liberty Bell in Independence Hall.

Two trips were made to New Holland, an Amish and Mennonite settlement. Lloyd Bresley is assistant engineer for the Taylor Fibre Co., manufacturers of a complete line of vulcanized fibre and laminated plastics in sheets, rods, tubes and fabricated parts. The company also makes its own rag paper and most of the general resin.

On their return the Ordites stopped at Hastings for a visit with their son-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Bob Fast and two sons.

Daughter of Former Residents to Marry
Friends of former Ordites, Mr. and Mrs. Ross Blessing, have received news of the approaching marriage of their daughter, Patricia Kay to William Ted Cass.

The wedding is scheduled for Jan. 23 at the Atherton Baptist Church, Englewood, Calif.

Mr. Blessing is a brother of Ord's "Dutch" Blessing and made his home here many years. He is a retired employe at Douglas Aircraft.

Mrs. Blessing will be remembered as a sister to another former Ordite, Mrs. Mae Martin, long time employe at Absalon's Variety Store here.

Clarice's Comments Electronic Secretary Puzzles Clarice's Regular Callers

I've been having so much trouble with the Electronic Secretary in my office that I'm going to have to ask someone for help — YOU.

The purpose of the secretary, a magnificent machine, is to answer my telephone when I am out of the office.

It has been performing its duties only half the time it seems and is about to get booted out the door if some startling changes don't occur PDQ.

I hope I can keep the machine, because it now enables me to gather more news each week for the readers, and that in turn will make the boss happy.

Many persons have called when the secretary is turned on, and after they hear my voice (which is recorded) they hang up, leaving no message. That disturbs me.

You see, I don't care if you call and listen to my voice out of curiosity, but please say something, so we know the machine is working.

If you have quite a long news story or maybe several and you don't want to take the time to tell it over the telephone, just leave your name and give me the telephone number where I can reach you.

I'll call back and we can talk it over.

If you get going with some news for me and I hope you will tomorrow and the time runs out, you just hang up your phone — call my number 30 again and start where you left off.

We have made new arrangements this week so that you have much more time to talk. In fact, there is so much tape for each call now a good reader could entertain me with a short story.

Every time I leave the office I switch the machine on. It stays on all night, so if some morning at 2 or 3 a. m. you think of a news item when you are having a bout with insomnia, call me. Who knows, maybe my voice will put you to sleep and you can quit talking those pills.

I'm real tired of this sort of silly about this, but I am serious and sincerely am asking for the help of every reader. I don't like to miss news from anyone, and this will be a tremendous help to me.

How about it?
Shall we both try again?

MRS. GNASTER IS RECOVERING
Mrs. Ed Gnaster, well known Ord housewife, said Wednesday she is recovering nicely from recent surgery in Omaha. A nerve in her right arm was transplanted to correct a muscular reaction which had begun to curl two fingers of the right hand.

Mrs. Gnaster said she considers herself fortunate in that the operation was a success, which is not often the case. Had she prolonged the correction there was a chance of her losing the entire use of her right hand.

Popular for her intricate fancy work and knitting, Mrs. Gnaster has been able to resume these favorite pastimes. She says their remains a degree of numbness in her fingers, but they are straight, and the numbness will eventually disappear.

—Friends here will be happy to learn that Mrs. Curtis Gudmund, seen at the reported ill last week is much better.

Harrowing Climax To Holiday Visit For Mildred Auble

Mrs. Mildred Auble, who arrived home last week from an extended visit in Ogden, Utah, is recovering from injuries suffered during her stay there.

She and nine grandchildren, sons and daughters of the Veri Timmermans, Elwin Aubles and Ruth Swopes, were all riding in an omnibus type automobile driven by Elwin, when they collided with another car.

Mrs. Auble said the children escaped injuries except for bruises from the knees down. She said their legs looked like they had all kicked each other.

She suffered a severe laceration near the left eye, which still remains swollen and bruised.

She said she feels well but doesn't venture out of doors yet, because she has double vision.

While she can see to read and sew, she said it might be weeks before her eye focuses.

Mrs. Auble received the most serious blow when she was thrown from her car, suffering a severe blow behind one ear, and a fractured skull from the top of his head extending down behind the ear bone. The ear drum was broken. Doctors feared Mr. Auble might suffer a complete loss of hearing.

His mother said he had noticed some hearing since then and is encouraged by his progress.

He has been released from the hospital, but must remain quiet for at least two weeks. He is employed by the Union Pacific.

Mrs. Auble went to Ogden before Thanksgiving. She was joined there for Christmas by the Dale Valters of Omaha and the William Schudels of North Loup. She accompanied the Schudels home, arriving here last Wednesday.

Gift Shop Notes 13th Anniversary

Mrs. Olga Burrows recently celebrated the 13th anniversary of a hobby here that grew into a supporting business.

In December, 1946, she decided between two interests, hats and dishes. Her fondness for the latter won, and construction of business began in a small structure next door to the Burrows residence.

It now houses gifts bought by patrons here and away.

Because a storm held up the completion of the shop, opening day for the venture was held in the Burrows dining room, temporarily emptied of furniture.

A blizzard kept customers away. A few tramped through the snow, others waited until the grand opening.

The late Mrs. Ava Noll was the first "patron" of Olga's Gift Shop. Mrs. Noll arrived bearing a basket of chrysanthemums.

Patrons of the shop come from as far as Omaha. Items have also found their way to the East and West Coasts.

The stock at Olga's has grown from first dishes to novelties, stationery, cards, napkins, pottery, gift wraps, toys, storybooks, baby gifts, playing card accessories — ad infinitum.

Wedding gifts are also offered. Mrs. Burrows said in the 13 years she has been in business only two items have been broken by shoppers. She has broken a few herself, although.

She continues to operate the store every day without assistance, and does her own bookwork.

Remembering back she is glad she chose dishes for a business. But she still has a keen interest in a good looking hat.

Ed Sprague Said Recovering Well

Ed Sprague, unit leader for the Valley County Soil Conservation Service, is reported by his wife to be doing well after undergoing surgery at the Veterans Hospital in Grand Island, Monday.

Mr. Sprague spent several weeks receiving treatment and being built up for the operation before the holidays. He was released during that time and spent several days at Ord. While here the Spragues were visited by their son, Glen and family of Fullerton, and Mr. Sprague's sister, Miss Phyllis Sprague, of Royal Oak, Mich.

ened fire protection and at one time had home owners watering lawns on alternate days.

And it should also provide water cool enough to make air conditioners efficient — another fault of the old water.

Well water comes out of the ground at about 55 degrees. It will stay pretty close to that in the winter, and summer.

River water here was often clocked as warm as 83 degrees, reportedly high during heat waves.

Despite the boom of well water, Supt. Allen said the city won't abandon its water right on the North Loup River.

He said the five which preceded Ord in shifting to wells are Teocumseh, Weeping Water, Nelso, Nebraska City and Falls City.

Now only three communities — Crawford, Chadron and Omaha — still get their water from surface sources.

Mr. Filipi gave full credit to Ord's citizens and town officials.

"Through a development program, they discovered a wonderful water supply a short distance out of town," he said.

"They had been adding alum, lime, charcoal and chlorine to river water passed through aeration, sedimentation and filtration processes to remove impurities.

"The new water is going in with no treatment whatever."

Ord had a well supply in town for many years.

It turned to the river about 1929 when the sub-surface supply in town became obnoxious due to manganese.

Romans, Zulkoskis Off to Washington

Senator and Mrs. Jack Romans and Mr. and Mrs. Harry Zulkoski left Ord Wednesday morning for Washington, DC where the Senator will attend an executive meeting of the American Truckers Assn.

Stops will be made in Des Moines and Chicago where Senator Romans will confer with representatives of Ace Lines, Inc.

On the social calendar for the Ord foursome during their stay in the Capital is a venison dinner, hosted by Congressman Orin Har-

He was one of a four man hunting party to this area at the invitation of Senator Romans during the deer season. The Romans took approximately 175 lbs. of venison from that hunt back east to Har-

Mrs. Zulkoski's brother, Cork Biemond, will fly to Washington to be present for the dinner. He will also fly Mrs. Zulkoski to New York for a visit with another sister, Mrs. Joan (Dallas) Davis and her family at Long Island.

They will also be guests at a cocktail party and dinner Wednesday, Jan. 20 when they will be attended by Roman Hruska, Carl Curtis, and all Nebraska congressmen.

Mrs. Munn, Early Ord Resident Dies; Services Saturday

Mrs. Ada Munn, 93, one of Ord and Valley county's better known pioneer women, was buried here Saturday, following Christian Science services at Hastings-Pearson Chapel.

Walter Noll was reader. Mrs. Mark Tolson, soloist, was accompanied by Mrs. Orin Kellison.

Born in Wayne county, Ohio, Sept. 8, 1866, Mrs. Munn was one of seven children. She received her early education in Wayne county, and was married to Charles Almon Munn, Jan. 1, 1890.

The couple came to Ord where Mr. Munn began the practice of law. They lived all their married life at 1923 M. St., and Mrs. Munn lived there until death.

Mr. Munn was prominent politically and was elected Valley county attorney, a post he held for four terms.

He was later elected district judge, a position he held at the time of his death, June 8, 1961.

Following her husband's death Mrs. Munn turned her attention to the care and education of a son, George. She later became more active in community affairs and an interest she maintained until the advent of her declining years. She also managed her own business interests.

Mrs. Munn was the oldest living member and former president of Woman's Club here. She was also a member of the First Church of Christ Scientist of Boston, Mass.

Survivors are one son, George, of Ord; one brother, John Heffelman of St. Petersburg, Fla; one sister, Mary C. [unclear] of [unclear], Ohio; four grandchildren and eight great-grandchildren.

Judge Ball... as is today, relaxed, at peace.

Judge Candidate Is Not So Slim

Judge Ellsworth Ball, a candidate for county judge who announced his intent last week, isn't quite as thin as a picture accompanying the announcement indicated.

The Quiz file picture, taken when the judge was quite a few pounds lighter than today, caused some courthouse comment.

In a mildly reproving note he waxed poetic over the Quiz's slimming publicity and said:

Relaxed am I and at peace with the world. The creases and wrinkles all uncurled.

The man that I was, I am now now: To keep fat and healthy I solemnly vow.

The picture of me (as published last week) was an injustice, I could not speak.

I am not asking for sympathy but for support and loyalty.

Chicks Explode Against Barr Jr. For Slim Edge

Coach Dave Van Nordheim's Ord Chicks took their fifth consecutive game win in as many outings Tuesday afternoon, this one from Barr Junior High of Grand Island.

The Ord quintet provided home partisans with an exciting basketball game as they shall ever see. The Chicks took the backseat for the first half, scoring 10 to the Islanders' 22.

Ord then exploded for 11 points in the third canto. Barr tallied 2—a field goal in the final 15 seconds.

At the end of three quarters the score stood 67-21, Ord 21. The Chicks stayed torrid in the final, outscoring Barr 8-5. That brought the game to a tie with 1:11 left.

Neither team managed another tally. Came the overtime.

Allen Cetak and Gaylord Boilesea provided the needed punch with Allen potting three free throws and Boilesea sinking a fielder. The Island bunch could only manage three free throws.

That gave Ord the decision. High scorer for Ord was Allen Cetak, who hit 67 from the free throw line and 2 field goals for ten points, all in the final half.

For Barr it was Jim Livingston with 15. Livingston provided the main opposition in the first half for the Chicks. Ord defenders then handcuffed him for the second half.

The Chicks will see no action until Feb. 1, when they meet the NL-Scotia Reserves here at 3 p.m.

Chants Nip Schuyler Then Blast Aurora In Weekend Action

The Ord Chanticleers beat visiting Schuyler Friday night with an eight point edge in free throws that helped spell out the 62-54 defeat.

Schuyler equaled the Chant effort from the floor but fell down on its charity drive. Ord made 18 of 27 free tosses for 67 per cent shooting to Schuyler's 36 per cent.

Ord sent four players into double column scoring with Maylon Wolf paving the way with 16 points. Ray Cronk had 14 and Bruce Pearson and Lanny Bundy swished 10 each.

For the losers it was Trofholz and Heimann with 11 each.

Fouling was extensive with a total of 39 committed by both teams.

Wolf and Bundy fouled out for the winners as did Draper for Schuyler.

In preliminary action Ord seventh and eighth graders were handed a 18-16 defeat by St. Mary's in a low scoring thriller.

Gift Shop Notes
13th Anniversary

Mrs. Olga Burrows recently celebrated the 13th anniversary of a hobby here that grew into a supporting business. In December, 1946, she decided between two interests, hats and dishes. Her fondness for the latter won, and construction of business began in a small structure next door to the Burrows residence. It now houses gifts bought by patrons here and away. Because a storm held up the completion of the shop, opening day for the venture was held in the Burrows dining room, temporarily emptied of furniture. A blizzard kept customers away. A few tramped through the snow, others waited until the grand opening. The late Mrs. Ava Noll was the first "patron" of Olga's Gift Shop. Mrs. Noll arrived bearing a basket of chrysanthemums. Patrons of the shop come from as far as Omaha. Items have also found their way to the East and West Coasts. The stock at Olga's has grown from first dishes to novelties, stationery, cards, napkins, pottery, gift wraps, toys, storybooks, baby gifts, playing card accessories — ad infinitum. Wedding gifts are also offered. Mrs. Burrows said in the 13 years she has been in business only two items have been broken by shoppers. She has broken a few herself, although. She continues to operate the store every day without assistance, and does her own bookwork. Remembering back she is glad she chose dishes for a business. But she still has a keen interest in a good looking hat.

Ed Sprague Said Recovering Well

Ed Sprague, unit leader for the Valley County Soil Conservation Service, is reported by his wife to be doing well after undergoing surgery at the Veterans Hospital in Grand Island, Monday. Mr. Sprague spent several weeks receiving treatment and being built up for the operation before the holidays. He was released during that time and spent several days at Ord. While here the Spragues were visited by their son, Glen and family of Fullerton, and Mr. Sprague's sister, Miss Phyllis Sprague, of Royal Oak, Mich. Mrs. R. C. Austin... the only Ord homemaker to notice the difference in the water's hardness.

Water Switchover

Well water comes out of the ground at about 53 degrees. It will stay pretty close to that in the winter, and summer. River water here was often clocked as warm as 83 degrees, reportedly high during heat waves. Despite the boon of well water, Supt. Allen said the city would abandon its water right on the North Loup River. Instead it will continue to use the system a little, each year to have it available as an emergency. The approach, statewide, it was causing other comment. State Sanitation Director T. A. Filipi praised Ord for being one of six towns to abandon surface water for drinking.

Five towns which preceded Ord in shifting to wells are Tecumseh, Weeping Water, Nelson, Nebraska City and Falls City. Now only three communities — Crawford, Chadron and Omaha — still get their water from surface sources. Mr. Filipi gave full credit to Ord's citizens and town officials. "Through a development program, they discovered a wonderful water supply a short distance out of town," he said. "They had been adding alum, lime, charcoal and chlorine to river water passed through aeration, sedimentation and filtration processes to remove impurities. The new water is going in with no treatment whatever."

Ord had a well supply in town for many years. It turned to the river about 1929 when the sub-surface supply in town became obnoxious due to manganese.

Ordites Plan Trip to Hawaii Mr. and Mrs. William Sack look forward to a two week stay in Hawaii. Mr. Munn was prominent politically and was elected Valley county attorney, a post he held for four terms. He was later elected district judge, a position he held at the time of his death, June 8, 1961.

Following her husband's death Mrs. Munn turned her attention to the care and education of a son, George. She later became more active in community affairs. An interest she maintained until the advent of her declining years. She also managed her own business interests.

Judge Ball... as is today, relaxed, at peace.

Judge Candidate Is Not So Slim

Judge Ellsworth Ball, a candidate for county judge who announced his intent last week, isn't quite as thin as a picture accompanying the announcement indicated. The Quiz file picture, taken when the judge was quite a few pounds lighter than today, caused some courthouse comment.

The judge, as is, is shown in the new picture above. In a mildly reproving note he waxed poetic over the Quiz's slimming publicity and said:

Relaxed am I and at peace with the world. The creases and wrinkles all uncured.

The man that I was, I am not now: To keep fat and healthy I solemnly vow.

The picture of me (as published last week) was an injustice, I could not speak.

I am not asking for sympathy but for support and loyalty.

January 31 Deadline For Alien Addresses

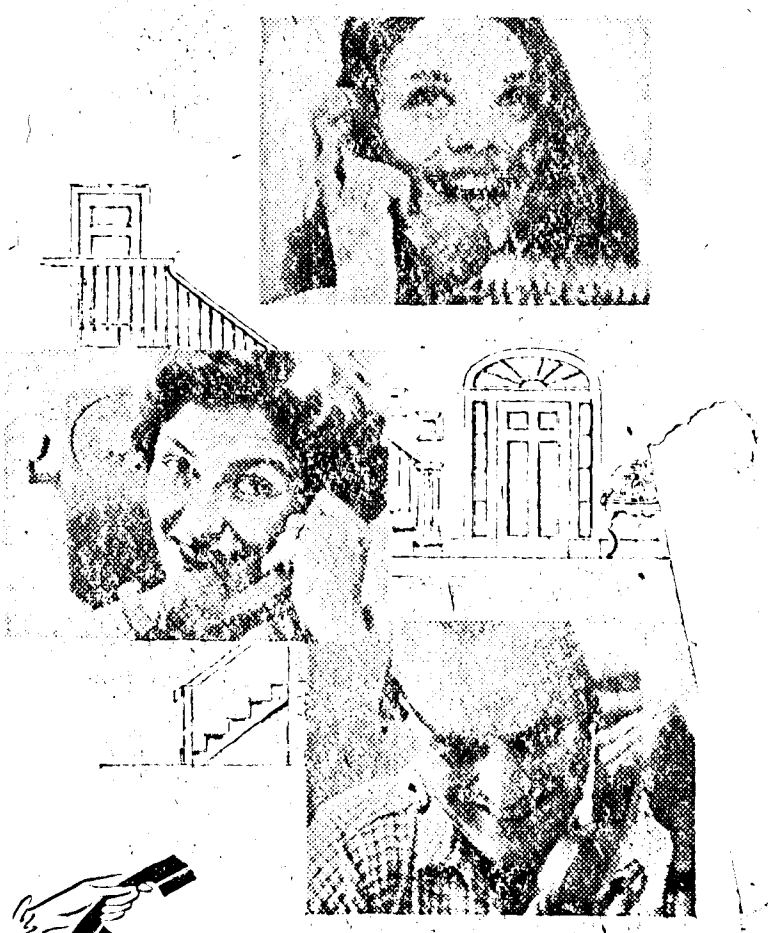

Robert C. Wilson, district director of the Immigration and Naturalization Service at Omaha, this week urged aliens in Nebraska, who have not yet filled out address report forms, to do so before January 31 at the nearest postoffice.

Wilson pointed out that the law requires all non-citizens — except persons in diplomatic status, foreign representatives to certain international organizations, such as the United Nations, and aliens here temporarily as agricultural contract laborers — to report their address each January.

He added: "The parent or legal guardian of an alien child under 14 years of age must fill out the address report form for such child in order to comply with the law."

Editorially Speaking :

A New Approach to the Problem of Farm Surplus

There is no more important, pending question related to the agricultural economy of Valley county farms and business than that of what should be done with the farm surplus.

There is not one of us who has not seen the row after row of gleaming grain bins full of government corn and who has not wondered where this whole business is leading.

We can almost hear the growing "glut" of our corn fields.

At the same time our memories may go back a few months when we first heard that chilling statement by India's Gandhi:

"To the millions who have to go without two meals a day, the only acceptable form in which God dare appear is food," he said.

There may be a few Christians who would call that heresy or at least blasphemy but for the fact that they've seen pictures of the hopeless eyes of little children as big as saucers and stomachs as big as melons supported by spindly, undernourished legs.

A few days ago, a University of Nebraska economist, Dr. Everett Peterson, had this to say when the subject of turning over our surplus to India was brought up:

"It just isn't as easy as giving things away," he said. "There are even problems that might arise above and beyond that of what would happen to the world grain market should needy countries be given the surplus outright."

Dr. Peterson, along with Dr. Otto Hoiberg, a sociologist at the University of Nebraska are spearheading a new program of individual thought, the "Great Decisions" program in Nebraska.

They are among the first "experts" who admit that foreign policy does not have to necessarily originate with the "experts" in Washington.

They are asking for local support — from men and women like you, you and you in all walks of life in the state. They want your opinion. They would like to know what you think should be done.

They ask that you join a discussion and polling group of "Great Decisions," a program recommended by foreign policy makers themselves, both political parties, and the present administration.

In addition to the farm surplus question, there are many others that we, as Nebraska citizens, can voice our opinion on and have it heard.

If you are interested contact Bob Perry, the extension agent here or write this newspaper.

"The boss just offered me an interest in the business," the young clerk confided to the pretty stenographer.

"He did?" she asked in surprise.

"Yeah," the young man replied reflectively. "He said if I didn't take an interest in the business pretty soon, he'd fire me." —Wall St. Journal.

Something Different—

The Arizona Way: 'We Guarantee Grass Won't Grow!'

Let's hope you aren't tired of hearing about Tucson. Though I promise to quit telling you about it soon now.

Coming out of the mountains to the east and peering into the distance, it hardly seems there's a settlement here. A few flat roofs sprinkled sparsely over the desert do not add up to a city of 240,000 people. Someone's foolin'!

It's a strange place. The low desert growth conceals a multitude of people. Highways and streets are paved through vast areas of sand, and the ever-present cactus. Many a front yard is landscaped only with various kinds of cacti.

Behind them hides a duplex or an eight-plex, or a trailer court. (There are many fine trailer parks — some of them have long waiting lists for "space.") Some of them sell the space for a trailer, or lease it.)

But to get back to this cactus: There'll be acres of soft-colored desert and it's not-unnatural growth; then all at once here's a fine housing development with several hundred homes and more going up between dawn and dark every day.

Then perhaps blocks on streets of undeveloped area, more sand, more cactus, and presto — another lush housing region. A good share of the houses here are brick or some sort of adobe.

Practically every house and building is flat, flat, flat. Hardly ever a two-story home. Rarely a business building higher than one or two stories. No basement is the rule. No wonder they whip these developments up so fast. And every one of the areas has a fancy name.

These "estates" and "hills" and "crests" and "views" extend for miles in every direction! Up into the foothills where homes are bigger and farther apart. Back into the canyons. Over the arroyos or "washes" as they call them here. And by the way, street bridges are few. Along comes that "DIP" sign — and you'd better believe it! It will also say "Dangerous in Flood Time." And you'd better believe that!

It seems the ground is so hard packed water won't soak in — it races madly away, a torrent in most streets and every "DIP."

Front yards are often of green painted gravel here. Shades of Keith Lewis! I remember when he threatened to put in a concrete yard and paint it green!

Before graveling the ground is thoroughly sterilized so that weeds and such won't pop up through it, they guarantee! Occasionally they lay tar paper and then pour six inches of gravel on that.

Who says this Arizona isn't a strange world?

I thought I'd laugh myself silly the other day when Gene was in the hospital and I looked out the window to see workmen hoeing grass out from under the cactus! Scraping the bare ground, almost sweeping it, so those cactus would show to advantage.

Chopping out the grass and leaving the cactus!

I do like the "cactus yards" though. Gene doesn't. He pines for green grass. —Irma

On The Lee Side—

The Los Angeles Times Provides Some Amazing Reading

I am indebted to an unknown friend for a copy of the Los Angeles Times, a hefty, king sized newspaper of some 100 pages, that arrived in the mail this week and since has been the object of some close, critical reading.

Talking off the top of our head, so to speak, the most obvious difference that I can see between the Times and the Quiz is that the Times is a little more lush in the artwork department.

It certainly doesn't have as many news yarns as does the Quiz! The front page, for instance, only has four yarns — one of them a rundown on the Hollywood divorce rate in 1959.

We think it is a heck of a poor Quiz when the front page doesn't have a story count of 33 or 34.

The advertising layouts are big, full of fancy artwork, many of them page sized. Even the classified section (want ads) features half-page spreads on bleats for engineers of every description.

IBM wants engineers, so does Packard-Bell and so does SDC (System Development Corp.) An engineer, to use an old expression, has it made in Califor-ni-ay.

Only one page of comics but the Times has 'em all. They're boiled down in size to all fit one page. I counted sixteen.

So that's what's kicking off Al Capp's scrap with the Syndicate. Capp was on IV's Person to Person recently squalling about "boiled down" Lil Abner's. "Having him looking like a mid-jit", Capp complained.

I liked this Times ad: "Fly to Las Vegas on the fabulous Hacienda, 80 passenger, four engine, pressurized airliner. Dick Winslow at the Sky Piano, Champagne tour. ALL FOR $19.50."

"Four includes Gourmet Buffet Dinner, bottle of Vintage Hacienda Champagne, Limousine service in Las Vegas, Champagne enroute. Two rounds of golf, night lighted course, clubs furnished, Four chances at a $5,000 hole in one, Continuous entertainment, Dancing all night."

"Overnight Tour includes all above plus suite (double occupancy) for $29.50. Heck, who said Vegas was expensive?"

There's another ad that I have never seen before. It goes like this:

"HEIRS: National Estates gives you money, READY CASH in just a few hours! We advance against your inheritance from any trust or estate wherever located. You repay ONLY when estate is settled."

How about that?

This California country is fabulous. Here's another wild one:

"NEED $4? Do this Now: Earn $4 for regular donation of pint of blood and up to $75 if you are the right type. Bring this ad for return carfare."

Maybe you'll like this better:

"MARRY IN ONE HOUR! See our ad in all phone books. Anytime, day, night. Luke's Gretina Green Wedding Chapel. No publicity. Turn right at state line, Yuma, Arizona."

This one tops 'em all:

"HOTEL FOR DOGS: Every possible care and comfort. No 'Sick' dogs taken. We provide care, grooming service, nail clipping, bathing, hair cutting, registered stud service, lying in service and an obedience course to teach your dog to sit, not pull leash, walk like lady or gentleman dog should. References exchanged prior to enrollment." Well!

Hound Dog Ways

Play Part in Politics: Joe

Dear Bill:

I never knewed until Saturday night that hound dogs was playing such an important part in the tax situation in this country.

But Clem Webster explained it plain and simple so's all of us could understand it.

Most of us attending the session at the hall Saturday night is a authority on hound dogs, and Clem allows as how them Congressmen is using "hound dog psychology" in spending our money.

A heap of you town folks don't understand why a hound dog will keep on barking all night, but there's a reason. A feller's dog thinks he hears sompuns, so he starts barking. All the other dogs in the neighborhood hears him barking and think they got to help him out. Sooner or later the dog that started the barking finds out he don't hear no more and is ready to stop barking, but by now he's got to help his buddies. And round and round it goes for couple hours.

Them Congressmen, claims Clem, don't call it hound dog psychology. They call it pork barrel legislation. A feller in one state thinks his voters has got to have a airport or a big dam across some river. His buddies over in the next state thinks they got to help him out on account of pity soon they're going to need a airport or sompuns themselves. So they start barking to help out their buddy and afore long all the Congressmen is barking to help get other. By the time they get through barking the coffers is empty and we got to float another loan and find new taxes to finance it.

Now I ain't comparing our Congressmen with a hound dog, Mister Editor, but in a heap of ways, especially in spending money, they got a lot in common with a barking hound dog.

Incidental, Clem was complaining p'w'w'w' Saturday night about his arthritis, says it always hits him worse in the winter. It put me to thinking about how things has changed in a man's life in 50 year. The Bible says that the King of Babylon had aching back and had to sleep on a board. What the King had was rheumatism and they ain't never found anything that would do it much good. Folks with aching backs still sleep on boards. About the only improvement they've made since the King's time was to change the name from rheumatism to arthritis. That helped a lot. Fifty year ago Clem wouldn't dare tell nobody he had rheumatism. About the only tells everybody right out in the open about his arthritis.

Yep, science has done a heap to change the thinking of man. For instance when I was a boy, folks was discussing the origin of man. Since the first atom bomb I ain't heard nothing about Darwin or monkeys and how man got here.

Now all folks is thinking about is how he's gonna finish. Jst Joe

Ken Austin Writes

To The Editor Of The Quiz Dear Sir:

Being over here in Germany I get the Quiz a little after every one else, but in the 10 Dec. issue you said something about people liking to hear from people you used to know real good. I've gotten quite a few Christmas cards from the folks back home, and they sure do take some of the lonely feeling out of a GI's life.

A lot of people don't realize what it is to be away from home during the holiday season, especially if you're in a foreign country.

Even if the folks back home come late, I still get a lot of info. from it about what my old neighbors are doing back home.

In one of your past issues I saw where Capt. Bresley was in Germany, so I just called them up and talked for awhile. Sure seems odd to find someone you know pretty well in this crowded little country.

Speaking for the rest of the home folk over here in Germany and France as well as for myself a letter from home is always welcome. Write soon!

Why of Christmas

To The Editor Of The Quiz Dear Sir:

I have been catching up with Quiz reading since returning from California for the holidays. Do Quiz readers like such editorials as the one featuring you

There's A Great Day Coming!

It ain't far off; its been a long, long time on the way. When I get just a little older and get to be president I will fix it so everybody has everything, which way and however. It's a promise.

As soon as I get bedded down in the Whitehouse I will send the congressmen home — of course they may take their pensions and perquisites with them but must leave their prerogatives. No more VIP tours for them — nor for me.

All usury laws will be quashed so Wall Street can raise interest rates and have fun, and the loon sharks can double-double profits on the thirty thousand installment creditors who owe on used cars.

The Taft-Hartley bill will be vetoed to strike the fetters from the arms and necks of downtrodden unionized labor slaves. Jimmy Hoffa will boss the job and tell 'em all how they must vote. I am in favor of raising wages and reducing work hours with every other day and all week ends as paid holidays.

The railroad companies must furnish featherbeds for engineers, brakemen and colored porters. Steelworkers must fire the furnaces or get fired. Fringe benefits will be pinned on every coat tail or white collar.

Automobiles have got to be bigger and faster to get out of the way of trucks and consume more gas and oil. That makes for interstate throughways so tourists can flit through without stopping, while the school buses happily make do with dirt and gravel trails.

About schools: Let the athletes continue to run them, provided they furnish a Cadillac station wagon to each teenager who lives more than a block from the schoolhouse.

We'll tear the top stories off the Statue of Liberty, make it ranch house level and turn it into a dog kennel with padded stall for Khrushchev and DeGaulle. I figure an melting down Bryan's cross of gold to pave

Madison Avenue and guild all official golf clubs. Regular pew holders may continue to drowse in church while the pulpit preaches over their heads to the non-paying sinners in the back row.

We never used to hear much about budgets and got along alright. But they are fragile things that can be busted by any uniformed mass of the Pentagon.

Then there is a farm problem that seems to bother the politicians a little bit. But as long as agriculture represents only ten per cent of the voting population the farmer won't count for much. Anyway on account of the divorcement of the farm family the farmer has got to be a bachelor. What stenographer with high heels and open toe brogans wants to milk cows or hunt hen eggs? But to solve their imagined worries Ezra Benson will continue to stick around to pray for them and afford a subject for polite conversation during dry seasons. The Farm Bureau will continue with its head in the furrow and swear softly, but do nothing else. Keeping the organization going is enough. Looks like it is enough.

To ease up on the American Medical Association the doctors can dispense with all their tools and the dentists throw away their pliers and just keep cash registers. Bookkeeping with the druggists about prescriptions can be simpler.

Barbers can extend credit to bankers who put up good chattel security. Bootleggers who now make a fifth of all the whiskey consumed and dodge $25 millions in taxes should commendable thrift and rugged individualism. There must be a token of goods inside the costly packages at the self-service stores. People who do not dare to write letters may use the telephone.

And the public: John Q. Public and his wife, deaf and dumb, shall keep right on as taxpayers.

Horace M. Davis, 86.

as having been celebrating by drinking. Why do we celebrate Christmas? Do we use that time as another excuse for indulging perverted appetites?

Does Christ approve of His birthday being so celebrated, or does He consider such acts a mockery? Christ said "Be ye transformed by the renewing of your mind." Your editorial illustrates how alcohol destroys thought patterns. Would He appreciate it if you would elevate your thinking and write editorials that would inspire more noble thought patterns in Quiz readers?

I just returned from visiting a county where intoxicating liquors are made. There were eighty-three traffic deaths in that county whose county seat is about half the size of Grand Island. The daily papers cited many crimes and murders there. Can this nation any longer lay claim to being a Christian Democracy?

Poor Crop Year

To The Editor Of The Quiz Dear Sir:

From away up north I will say we are both well, but it has been a very bad year for crops and prices on stock.

I can't get along without the Quiz, and it is also so nice to hear from friends made during the 27 years I lived in Ord.

Those of you who remember our girls, Alyce and Johnnie, will be interested to know they were home for the holidays and all is well with them.

Demo-GOP Tiffs To Occur Throughout Year of '60

The Democratic attack on the Republicans' 1960 "blueprint" was not unexpected.

Rather, it confirmed what most political observers have felt some time. That is, there will be extremely strong assaults from both parties on each other in coming months.

The "blueprint" itself was laid before the Republicans by their young state chairman, Charles Thone, of Lincoln. It included an attack by the GOP on most of the Democratic actions in the past year and areas in which Thone felt the party should take a stand.

Two main ones were that Thone felt the GOP should back a constitutional convention and express itself on whether Nebraska should have a broadened tax base — that is, some other main source of revenue than property.

Thone said the base that should be substituted should be left to the people in a vote at the polls.

Immediately, Democrats insisted that Thone had actually advocated the policies of Gov. Ralph G. Brooks.

The biggest fuss came when Thone accused Democratic National Committeeman Bernard Boyle of Omaha of "bossism." Whereupon, Boyle and the Democratic State Chairman, Russell Hanson of Newcastle, fired back.

Hanson said Thone's father and the father of Don Ross, Ord's GOP national committeeman, were on the state highway department payroll. And said Hanson, if "bossism" were the rule the two men would not be on the payroll.

Thone replied that the words of Boyle who attacked Thone, and Hanson, were "hollow" and their actions spoke louder than their words.

These stinging statements from both sides will become increasingly familiar to Nebraskans in the coming weeks as the Democratic fight to hang on to the statehouse, and the Republicans scrap to get back in.

Polio Concern

The State Health Department has expressed concern about some of the latest figures on polio in Nebraska.

Last year, the department said, there were 68 cases of paralytic polio in Nebraska and 8 of these victims died.

Dr. E. A. Rogers, state health director, said 40 of the 68 had not received any shots of Salk vaccine and only three persons had taken the full four shots.

"That's the most telling statistic of all," commented Rogers.

The disease hit young adults hardest last year. Thirty-eight of the 68 persons were over 20 years old. The second highest number was for infants and children under four years of age, Rogers said.

Teen-Age Drivers

There could well be more attention in the 1961 Legislature to the matter of teenage drivers.

Statehouse observers say statistics on how many of them have had their driving permits revoked under the point law will be a big factor.

The state division of financial responsibility reports that a good round figure is that half of all revocations involve teenagers.

Most of these come under the law which permits them to get only eight violation points in a year's time. Some get their permits revoked under the portion of law which allows 12 points in a two-year period.

Observers look for lawmakers to consider tightening the point law as it affects young drivers.

Board of Education

The State Board of Education has taken a stand in writing on two areas of controversy.

The board went on record for "reasonable" state aid to schools but said the Legislature should find how to raise the money, and expressed itself as "unfavorably" opposed to any form of federal control of education.

Nebraska is the only state in the union which has no general state aid to education. However, limited amounts now are offered for special and vocational education programs.

The board's policies were outlined in writing for the first time.

HOW MUCH — Am I Really Worth? Exactly what do I weigh? Am I heavier than my money, or is it getting the best of me? The all-important question is — when God puts me on the balances — will the weight hand deceive Him? If all a man has to offer the world is his body created in God's image — his chemical composition — his dead weight... then that man is of little value to himself, to humanity, to God. Mister, don't try to analyze your worth by pointing to the pile of silver you control. No one grows bigger when he says "no" to the varied opportunities he has to serve God. Far better to say, "silver and gold have I none," if I am given to serving God, helping the lost to find their way to a place of worship... to His church.

The newlyweds were honored at a reception luncheon for 70 immediately following the ceremony. They will make their home in Bassett where the groom is a rural mail carrier. Mrs. Buoy is a member of the senior class at Rock County High School.

Pops-Rite Corp. Written Up In Nebraska Pamphlet

The Pops-Rite Popcorn Corp. of North Bend, Nebraska, was the subject of a lengthy article this month in Nebraska On The March, a publication edited by the State Division of Natural Resources. The article reported the efforts of Jim Blevins, corporation master mind, who has been directing the bullabuloo surrounding North Bend's Popcorn Village.

About North Loup, the real Popcorn Village, the article says only this: "At nearby North Loup (90 miles is nearby) visitors to Mr. Blevins plant) viewed great cribs capable of storing 650,000 pounds of popcorn each. The cribs are among several at which Pops-Rite stores and gives preliminary curing to its corn before funneling it into — North Bend."

THE ALARMING TRUTH ABOUT

CO-OPS

CO-OPS COMPETE BUT DON'T SHARE TAXES

Last year showed a continued increase in the number and services of cooperatives. Some 14 million families in the country now belong to more than 37,000 cooperatives which do an annual business well up into the billions of dollars.

Why such growth and popularity? The co-ops say it's because they provide better services to their members for a lower net cost. In many cases this is true.

Business says that much of the success of co-ops hinges on its tax advantage. Although cooperatives usually pay property and sales taxes the same as other businesses, they do not pay income taxes as other incorporated business does.

Co-ops claim they pay income taxes on what "net income" they have such as from business with non-members. On balance, however, net income after expenses is returned to the patrons in the form of refunds and even much of this is never taxed (as individual income) since it is treated as a "reduction of living cost" instead of a personal income.

Let's look at cooperatives today. The largest type is the credit union — some 18,000 of them and growing at the rate of 1,200 a year. They compete with private loan companies and banks, and now do about 15 per cent of the nation's small loan business. Credit unions serve 100 million U.S. families. 98.5 per cent of which are non-rural.

FARM CO-OPS SECOND

The second largest number would be the 6,500 farm marketing co-ops which do an annual volume of $7.5 billions. They assemble, grade, standardize, package, transport, store, finance, insure, process, merchandise and sell agricultural products. Some co-ops provide only one or few of the above services. Others may do most with the trend toward doing more.

Next in line are the rural telephone cooperatives, some 5,000 in number which serve 360,000 subscribers. Telephone co-ops have expansion plans underway.

Other co-ops include insurance companies, group health plans, farm supply, rural consumer, farm loan associations, banks, consumer stores, housing, retailer-owned wholesalers, even funeral and student cooperatives.

Cooperatives (not mutual) insurance includes the "billion-dollar-in-force" Nationwide Insurance Co. and 1,700 smaller ones. In the petroleum field, co-ops distribute two billion gallons of fuel annually and also own pipelines, truck and marine transports and terminals, 2,000 oil wells, 2,700 bulk stations and 2,000 service stations.

In the fertilizer field, co-ops have recently gone into the manufacture of basic ingredients as well as owning 110 mixing plants. They now own and operate two nitrogen plants, a nitrophosphate plant, an ammonium phosphate plant and a phosphate mine.

CO-OPS MANUFACTURE

Co-ops manufacture milking machines and water heating equipment. Consumer co-ops handle home appliances, tires, automotive supplies, paint, groceries, clothing and furniture — much of it under their own brand names. A new-type co-op is now in the sale and lease-back business.

Cooperative shopping centers are growing too, with eight in suburban Washington, D. C. alone doing 15 million of business annually. Cooperative supermarkets and or shopping centers exist in Minnesota, Wisconsin, Michigan, Maryland, Virginia, California, Illinois, Massachusetts and Ohio.

A new co-op area is housing, particularly in the largest cities — some of it financed and occupied by unions and their members. About 115,000 families are now housed in consumer or builder-sponsored cooperative projects. Plans have been completed for new 5,200-unit, 2,500-unit and 1,728-unit apartment projects in New York city alone.

In New York also is the largest consumer-sponsored health plan which treated more than 500,000 patients last year in 32 health centers.

While this shows progress for the cooperative movement, it also means additional costs of Federal government. Co-ops use highways, the courts and government financial aid the same as any other business. Their members also benefit from the protection of our military defense system, government agencies, and farm supports in particular. They profit from or use atomic energy progress, government health research, national parks, waterways and other developments.

BUSINESS PAYS, COMPETES

When cooperatives don't pay proportionate Federal taxes to business, business not only has to help make up this part not paid by co-ops, but more and more it also has to compete with them as they grow in size and number.

Has the time come for cooperatives, most of which are businesses and compete with business, to be treated as businesses?

Or will higher Federal taxes continue to be paid by everyone but co-ops?

Farm Ag Tips:

Tax Data Exact With Good Records

Whether or not a farmer reports income on a cash or accrual basis for tax purposes, he should still make an annual inventory.

Only in this way, says Dean Brown, extension economist, can he gain information that can be used to see what his business is doing.

Over points made by Mr. Brown in his discussion with farmers here last Wednesday were: A depreciation schedule is a must for farm records. A list of all depreciable items, a recording of the method on which each is being depreciated, number of years over which depreciated, salvage value and original cost are the items that make up a depreciation schedule.

Such a recording does two things says Mr. Brown. First it gives an annual reminder of replacement needs for equipment or breeding stock. Second, it is a sure way of entering all depreciable items for tax purposes.

This is important, since depreciation as a tax deduction, can only be claimed in the year which it occurs.

One question that arose in the discussion was how to allow for changes in value, especially of breeding livestock, due to market changes.

Mr. Brown pointed out that some farmers are handling this by using the same value for any particular item in beginning and closing inventories of any year, then altering the value, according to market, when setting up the new beginning inventory.

It's kind of like balancing the check stub when you get the bank statement.

Record Books: If you close this week by putting in a plug for our record books. We think there's one of the best. Stop in and pick one up for 45c. The depreciation schedule and inventory book can be gotten for only 20c.

McGinley Writes: Grain Storage Is Prime Topic for Senate Ag Group

Senator Stuart Symington's special Senate Agriculture Investigating Committee has held hearings on grain storage operations by the National Commodity Credit Corporation.

While the principal aim of the subcommittee is to determine if the United States Department of Agriculture is administering the program in the most economical manner, there are some important questions of replacement that may have more far-reaching effect on the program than the possible reduction of cost of storage.

Generally, I would agree that continuing to have a large people should handle the storage of our surplus commodities — with the farmer given at least equal opportunity for an on-the-farm operation.

And it has been by observation and evidence that some adjustments should be made in the commercial storage rates.

But we in Nebraska face the growing discontent by city people with the farm program and the overwhelming volume of the program in national publications aimed at discriminating the farmer and labeling the farm program as a huge boondoggle.

The testimony of some of the profits made by commercial warehousemen feeds fuel to this growing farm program. Such things brought out in the hearings as 167 per cent profits by commercial warehousemen and the 1000 per cent (one thousand per cent) increase in the cost of operating the Department of Agriculture (since 1952) are included in the total cost of the operation of the USDA — and it is too easy for many writers to simply label it farm program costs, and infer that the farmer is getting the benefits.

Many important bills are hanging fire from the 1959 session. Some appear to be blocked by the Rules Committee.

They'd like for the warden to arrange for an album more suitable to "Serve Time By." They have suggested that the warden should purchase a record of "The Sound of Music."

The prospect for some type of helpful farm legislation is quite gloomy, in my opinion. But there will be a concerted effort by the Midwest Congressmen to restate their case. I am hopeful that the announced plan of Governor Brooks to lead a group of Governors to Washington before the Congressional committees will materialize.

There are some 1,200 amateur (ham) radio operators in Nebraska who have organized networks which provide emergency communications.

Speaking of music, we learn that England now has waterproof loudspeakers, especially designed to cope with London's famous fogs.

In this country, we just use them to cope with water. At any rate, a possible application is to provide underwater music for swimming.

The speakers were demonstrated in a goldfish bowl at the recent N. Y. Hi-Fi Show. Fish also figured prominently in the Audio Empire exhibit where the conversation of guppies was overheard by an underwater microphone.

Our informant didn't tell us what we're doing to know — and we'll bet you are, too. What were the guppies talking about?

The policeman's lot is not a happy one. In Toledo, Ohio, two cops were suspended for three days after they stopped their investigation of a collision promptly when their shift ended at 3:10 p.m. While they were only indulging in that great American pastime, clock-watching, it's arguable that these two brought their troubles on themselves. But we don't see how a New Guinea policeman could be blamed for what happened to him. Into the village came a pair of cannibals, who lived near-by in the hill country. They caught, killed and ate the local arm of the law, chased all the villagers to the Australasian Petroleum Co.'s camp, and then returned to the hills — presumably to pick their teeth.

I sometimes think books on how to raise children should be written by children. Waiting in line at an ice cream stand, I noticed two boys, about 7 and 2. The little brother was announcing emphatically to all the world, "I want vanilla! I want vanilla!"

The vanilla machine had broken down. Knowing how my own 2-year-old would react to a crisis like that, I wondered how the older boy would handle the situation. Without flinching, he ordered two strawberry cones and handed one to his little brother. "Here you are," he said. "Pink vanilla!"

The famous wine-taster, touring Europe in quest of outstanding wines, had become a foreign car addict even before they were imported into the U.S. in such quantities. Induced to try one of the new American compact jobs, he returned from his spin with the verdict, "Domestic, but good."

Game Men Shift New Boat Laws

Three amendments to the 1960 boating regulations were approved by Nebraska Game Commissioners at their January 15 meeting.

Most important is the removal of the requirement that a fire extinguisher be required on outboard motorboats under 23 feet.

An addition to the regulations requires that a report be filed with the Game Commission by the operator of a vessel involved in an accident resulting in (1) loss of life, (2) injury causing any person to remain incapacitated for a period in excess of 72 hours, or (3) actual physical damage to property in excess of $100.

Whenever death results from a boating accident, a written report in duplicate must be submitted within 18 hours.

Other accident reports must be filed in five days.

The third amendment requires an alien to state his nationality when registering a boat of 50 horsepower or more, or 40 feet or more in length.

In addition to their regular business, the commissioners elected George Pinkerton, Beatrice, chairman, and Robert H. Hall, Omaha, vice chairman.

Don Goodsells Buy 8-Lane Ord Bowl

Dr. Murray Markley of North Loup this week announced the sale of the Ord Bowl to Mr. and Mrs. Don Goodsell of Burwell. The sale took place Saturday. Mr. and Mrs. Goodsell will take possession February 1.

The announced price was $56,000.

The alleys, now six years old, were built here in the summer of 1953, opened for league play that fall.

Owners were Dr. Markley and George Dworak. Mr. Dworak was also manager.

Two years later Mr. Dworak sold his interest to Dr. Markley. He has owned and operated the alleys since.

When first built the Bowl contained hand operated pin setters and six alleys.

Two more drives were added in 1958 and fully automatic racks were added last summer.

Mr. Goodsell is now farming at Burwell. Prior to coming there he was superintendent of a West Coast dairy employing 100 men.

He said he would probably reduce the price on open bowling from 45c to 40c. League bowling now at 45c will remain the same.

Mr. Goodsell said he plans immediate soundproofing with extensive alley resurfacing scheduled this summer when leagues are idle.

A St. Louis Brunswick-Balke man has been over the lanes this week suggesting improvements.

Near Ord Townships Have Lost More Than 1,000 Persons in the Last Twenty Years

By Emiel Christensen

During the past 40 years there has been a startling increase in human populations in many areas of the world.

This general increase is due not only to advancing birth rates but also to declining death rates.

Human populations have not only increased in numbers but they are now much more mobile than they were prior to World War I. These two factors of increase in numbers and in ability to get around have brought varied and various problems to different places.

Here in Nebraska we do not have a serious problem due to state wide increases in population. For the state as a whole the all time population high was reached in 1920. Of course, that figure may be surpassed by 1960.

Here are some of the figures taken from the last general census of 1950.

For Nebraska: 1920 — 1,290,375;	1950 — 1,377,903;	1940 — 1,315,834;	1950 — 1,325,510.
Valley County	1930 1,740	1940 1,750	1950 1,752
Elyria Twp.	574	447	343
Estimote Twp.	401	338	233
Michigan Twp.	345	256	200
Noble Twp.	440	334	310
N. Loup Twp.	1,143	890	892
Ord City	2,226	2,240	2,239
Ord Twp.	433	422	373
Springdale Twp.	268	218	218
Vinton Twp.	313	228	223

6,157 5,473 5,034

These figures do not tell the whole story but they do indicate the trends here in Nebraska.

Our birth rates are up and our death rates are down as in other parts of the world but our population remains fairly stable on a state basis due to what sociologists call out-migration.

However, within the state we find considerable movement. In general this movement is from the less densely to the more densely populated areas.

The Ord Chants took their third beating of the cage season here Saturday night at the hands of the Cozad Haymakers.

The loss was the third in seven outings for the Big Red as they were humbled 7-58.

A wild first half saw little scoring by either team. Cozad held a first half edge by two points. They gained the edge in the final seconds.

Cozad then went on to hit 16 charity tosses and 17 field goals for a 50 point second half spurge. Meanwhile Chanticlevers fashioned only 33.

Chick Garner was high man for Cozad with 10 free throws and 3 fielders for 18 points.

Ord's high men were Rich Zukoski, with 6 field goals for 12, Maxton Wolf and Lanny Bundy with 11 each. Tom Seveaker was back in action and hit 10.

In the pre-1950 St. Mary's seventh and eighth graders took the Ord seventh and eighth graders 27-15.

College action in Ord had Peru taking a 78-69 decision from Kearney Teachers.

Women made their first appearance in the modern Olympic Games in 1912.

The Winter Olympic Games were initiated in 1924, in France. The Winter Olympic consist of skiing, skating, ice hockey and bobsledding.

No nation ever really wins the Olympic Games. The purpose of the games is to let the great athletes of the world compete in a spirit of peace and friendship. The practice of ranking nation against nation is unofficial.

Just in Case You've Forgotten

This old snow picture was given the Quiz this week by Dr. Glen A. Lyle who said he had heard several Ordites refer to the recent storm as being "almost as bad" as early day ones. "Not so," said Dr. Glen and then exhibited this shot from Noble Township taken in the winter of 1920.

Benda's Relate 40% Business Hike For Year of 1959

A second Ord firm reports an exceptional year in 1959 and a business increase of "about 40 per cent."

The firm is Benda's, a men's clothing outlet here owned and operated by Frank J. Benda and his son, Henry (Hank) Benda.

Henry told the Quiz "the 1959 increase was general and wasn't confined to any one particular line."

The two men also operate another outlet for men's dress clothing at Ravenna. That will be sold March 1 to George Hurtya. He will add a cleaning plant.

In other Benda yearly highlights the Quiz learns that this is the Elder Benda's 40th business year here, and that he plans to retire about March 1.

At that time Henry will assume full store ownership and control.

Republic Insurance Is Offered Here

American Republic Insurance Protection will be made available to Valley county residents soon.

Alfred Miller, Nebraska Manager, announced this week.

The protection will be available to all residents who qualify.

Miller said a drive will be conducted here to contact city and rural residents.

American Republic Protection Plans provide help against the expenses of hospital, doctor and surgeons as well as financial help when sickness or accident strikes.

They are written by a company which has a record of thirty-one years' service to Americans.

As hospital and medical costs have risen, the need for insurance protection has become apparent.

Over one hundred million persons in the United States now have hospitalization protection and slightly more than half that amount have medical care protection.

Miller said many Nebraskans are protected by American Republic. "Because our plans can be fitted to nearly every individual and family's needs, it is important that every county resident get a full explanation," he said.

There's A Car Under There!

SOME OF the big digout problems encountered by Ordites in the wake of the two storms is shown here by Murray (Cap) Nelson, an Ord used car dealer. To show this car to a prospective buyer Nelson had to defrost it with a snow scoop.

Weather Sidelights

—Ord schools began buttoning up as the storm increased intensity Thursday. School officials began dismissing country youngsters about 2:30 in the afternoon. About 60 youngsters stayed home Thursday afternoon as the winds picked up speed. Radio and TV reports said most other area schools closed.

—Absenteeism in the schools hit its peak Friday morning. The grade school reported 74 children absent of an enrollment of 277. Instructor Bill Roth was reported holding classes with four pupils. His normal complement is 15.

—The high school reported 88 students missing from a 368 enrollment. Most of the missouts were farm youngsters.

—State highway crews did a surprisingly quick job on opening Highway 11. An early arrival Friday in Ord reported four hours needed to complete the 12 miles between Ord and North Loup, most of that time spent behind a plow. That was at 7:45 a.m. At 10:30 a.m. the Quiz made a second check and talked to a salesman who had made the trip from Grand Island in two and one half hours. The salesman reported Highway 11 the scene of heavy drifts near St. Paul, but open. He said the road had one way traffic in several spots.

—General Telephone here survived the storm without damage. Mrs. Jean Noy, substitute chief operator, said only one outage was reported and that one was not caused by the storm. One extra operator was called in Thursday and Friday to help handle a call board "twinkling like a Christmas tree."

—The Loup Valley Rural Public Power District cringed under the storm impact, waited with held breath throughout the Thursday day here's why. The storm started off with a heavy rain about 1 a.m. As temperatures dropped they started an ice buildup. Fortunately the rain changed to snow but District wires remained coated throughout Thursday. Manager Wilbert Calvin said crews spent most of that day readying heavy equipment for expected outages. By midmorning Friday, as winds quieted, it looked like the District had escaped heavy damage. "The winds going down probably saved us," Calvin said.

—For City Supervisor George Allen it was payoff day for a lot of hard work last summer. Mr. Allen has kept city crews trimming trees away from electrical wires all summer. The city electrical system survived this storm without an outage. "We've been whipping those trees all summer," Allen said. "This is payoff!"

—Manager Bob Hall said the Hotel Ord was booked solid with snowbound salesmen, others "There was quite a bit of doubling up too," Hall added. The hotel has 28 rooms. Strangely enough the motel reported it was only half full Thursday night.

—The city's snow removal was stymied by a broken loader, idled by a needed part. Councilman Frank Kapustka said the plan for the city was to use the blade to move the snow to street center. "It will have to wait there until we can borrow the county grad-

Storm Notes Staab Infant's Arrival

When Mrs. Max Staab, a Mira Valley farm wife, awakened to Thursday's storm, she decided to come to the Ord Hospital in case the expected stork made an early arrival.

By evening she and her husband returned to their home nine miles south of Ord.

Saturday and nice weather again brought the flutter of stork wings, so the Staabs made another trip to Ord.

This time Penny Sue was born Sunday morning. She joins two sisters and a brother.

Mrs. Staab is the former Lola Scherbek. Her parents at Ansley are caring for the other children.

Brother of Ordite Dies Unexpectedly During Snow Storm

Paul Holmes, 59 year old brother of LeRoy Holmes of Ord, died unexpectedly Thursday about 5 p.m., Jan. 14 at the Polk county garage.

A county maintenance man, he was fitting equipment with chains in case it was needed for emergencies during the snow storm.

Death was believed to be due to a heart attack. Roads were drifted shut and no doctor was able to get into town. Polk has no resident doctor.

Funeral arrangements were set for Monday at Polk, but were postponed because of blocked roads, until Tuesday. Relatives from here, including cousins, Walter Hoon and Ivan Holmes were unable to attend, due to snow blocked roads.

Mr. Holmes, son of Mr. and Mrs. Joe Holmes, was born at Arcadia. He operated a cafe in Polk for several years before going to work for the county. He was an active member and past Noble Grand of the Ord Fellows lodge.

Survivors are: his wife, Wilda; sons — John and Gaylen of Lincoln and Robert at home; daughters — Mrs. Oliver Kempf of San Bruno, Calif., and Mrs. Marlin Junge of Ft. Collins, Colo.; five brothers and three sisters and two granddaughters.

The Chet Swanek, with whom LaVerne stays during the school week, were called.

Mr. Swanek took LaVerne to the hospital where she received treatment until released Sunday.

Reverend Zimmerman has assumed the county presidency of the organization, drive chairman, secretary and treasurer for two years.

His busy church schedule prevents him from continuing.

Clarice's Comments:

Cage Fanatics Irritate Clarice

I am not a sports enthusiast—never have been and never shall be—with the exception of basketball.

As each cage season rolls around, and I join the fans that follow the Chanticleers, I am appalled at conduct of spectators.

It has been my misfortune many times to be seated by the Wiseguy who knows more than the coaches, referees and players plus the Guy who wrote The Book Of Rules.

At regular intervals both can be depended on to voice disdain for all. I've noticed the loudest always sit farthest from the action.

This has always been a bone of contention between Friend Husband and me. He tells me again and again that "that" is a part of the fun and permissible.

I detest poor sportsmanship and am thoroughly disgusted with the loudmouths who sit in the stands and hurl insults at the referees and damn the hometown coach when the going gets rough.

Let one of the officials miss a foul against one of "our boys" and there is the inevitable lame-brain who bellows, "Okay, buddy! Who's payin' ya to nite?"

That comes under the heading of "fun". The most degrading spectacle I have witnessed yet was during a recent Chant game. One Ord "fan" (I can think of two or three more appropriate names) succeeded in convincing me he "boogies" is a privilege of spectators. But NO ONE will convince me that such an abominable performance as this man's should be allowed.

Now anyone who knows me will agree that I like fun a little better than the next person. But I was filled with shame and disgust as I heard this grown man make fun in a booming voice for all to hear, of the physical appearance of this player by calling him names.

I'll go so far as to concede the "booging" is a privilege of spectators. But NO ONE will convince me that such an abominable performance as this man's should be allowed.

It is degrading to town and school to let a few jeopardize our reputation. It is also unfair to the fellows on our team for they are judged by our actions. Oh, sure, we brought home the victory—but I wonder what kind of an impression we made.

Ord CAP Unit Is Top Ranked

Attending the Nebraska Wing Conference of the Civil Air Patrol Saturday and Sunday at Hastings were Bill Fafetta, Ord squadron commander, Mr. and Mrs. George Pottle, Mr. and Mrs. Ray Williams and Ernest Holt.

Over 100 persons attended the two day meet at which Senator Carl Curtis was a banquet guest speaker.

Dr. Murray Markley, North Loup, and current medical officer of the Ord squadron, was appointed to the Nebraska Wing Staff.

In other conference business the Omaha unit was awarded a trophy for making the best percentage showing over a designated quota. Offutt squadron took second.

Individual squadrons are given quota points based on community potential and membership as their monthly goal. These points are earned by squadron activities in communications, training, and sponsored affairs such as the Santa Claus airplane visit here in December, and the CAP Seal Conservation Airlift earlier.

In the past year the Ord squadron accumulated enough points to place them among the top November ratings.

Ord High Chorus And Swing Band To Vocal Clinic
Fifty-eight members of the Ord High School chorus and the high school swing band will leave here Saturday, Jan. 23 at 7:30 a.m. by two chartered buses for Central City.

They will join students from Aurora and Central City in a vocal clinic directed by an instructor from the University of Nebraska, Department of Music.

After morning and afternoon rehearsals the Ord swing band will play for a dance preceding the evening concert. The latter will feature mass chorus presentations and individual chorus numbers.

Clark Yanda, Ord music instructor, has also announced a new kind of band clinic, "A Floating Clinic", to be held here Feb. 20 under direction of Dr. Randolph Foster from the Chadron State Teachers College.

Covering three days the clinic will be hosted by participating schools at Aurora, Fullerton, Central City, Albion and Ord.

Specific details will be announced in a later issue of the Quiz.

Lincolmites Here
Mr. and Mrs. Albin Carkoski and son Myron of Lincoln arrived Saturday. They came to Ord expecting to attend funeral services for a relative at Loup City, which were postponed until roads could be cleared.

House guests of Albin's parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Carkoski, the Lincolmites were Monday night supper guests in the Bob Thompson home.

School Closed, Teacher Stranded
Blocked roads in Mira Valley have caused Valleyside school (Dist. 10) to close since last Thursday.

Mrs. Robert Sorensen, one of the teachers from Burwell, didn't attempt to make the drive to school Monday.

The other teacher, Miss Georgene Kelly, who lives north of Burwell started on Sunday.

She reached the Joe Fenton farm, about two miles from school where she was still stranded Tuesday morning.

Hopeful for cooperative weather, Mrs. Clara Clement, president of Valleyside P.T.A., announced a meeting for Thursday, Jan. 21 (tonight).

Bob Noll will show pictures taken during a Hawaiian trip. The public is invited.

Stormy Start in Life for Nelsons
Married life for Mr. and Mrs. Alvin Nelson (nee Shirley Arnold) had a real stormy beginning here this weekend.

After a marriage ceremony at York last Thursday, Mr. Nelson, drove the officiating minister to his farm home, while Shirley waited in town. The journey took two hours.

After a weekend in Lincoln and Omaha the Nelsons started for Ord Sunday. They stalled about 14 miles east of St. Paul, and spent three hours digging out of a drift.

They stopped at a nearby farm home, where they remained overnight.

Leaving their hosts, the John Schlecters, at 9 a.m. the next morning the Nelsons again started for Ord only to have to wait for roads to be cleared. They arrived here about 2 o'clock that afternoon.

Mrs. Nelson will end employment at the City Hall Feb. 11 after which she and her husband will spend three weeks in Omaha.

They will stay in the home of relatives who plan a Southern vacation.

Robert Martin Cut
Robert Martin, a former banker at Bartlett, three year term in a federal prison for embezzlement has been trimmed to one year, the Wheeler County Independent reported this week.

The order cutting the sentence was signed November 9 by Federal Judge Robinson. The same judge sentenced Martin Sept. 10 after Martin had pleaded no defense to charges of embezzlement and false entries at The Bartlett State Bank.

Martin will have served his minimum time by January 9 and becomes eligible for parole.

A hearing is slated "sometime in January," the Independent was told by a reliable source.

Sherman county has lost population each year since 1953 when the figure was 6825 with the exception of 1958 (as noted previously).

Mercy missionaries Don and Doug Zikmund and Pilot Cork Biemond... the sacks are loaded into the Super Cub then dropped into likely cover spots.

Pheasant Feeding Program Kicked Off

An airborne pheasant feeding program was kicked off here Saturday by the ASC, assisted by a plane pilot and two high schoolers.

The center of the operation was Evelyn Sharp Airport where Sprouts Doug and Don Zikmund loaded a hundred odd five pound sacks with corn, milo, etc.

The sacks were later put aboard Cornelius (Corky) Biemond's Super Cub spraying plane with Biemond at the controls.

Up front was ASC Manager Lloyd Zikmund who "bombed" likely looking pheasant and quail cover with sacks as the plane flew over.

CAP Ready For Storms

The Ord Civil Air Patrol squadron says it is ready for another emergency blizzard.

One plane, equipped with skis, is ready to take off on notice to areas within 50 miles of Ord.

In the event of another snow storm persons needing emergency help are asked to call one of these numbers, 46 — 99 — 150 or 17. This CAP service is available to all at nominal cost.

A current project of the CAP is distribution of food to wild fowl in the highly concentrated areas in this vicinity. So far 500 pounds have been dropped by plane.

The sacks break on landing, scattering the grain for snow-bounded game birds. The latter are reportedly hard up for forage.

Many Birds Seen

The flying mercy missionaries report "hundreds" of quail and pheasants seen. One flock of 50 was spotted on the Max Cruikshank farm near Arcadia.

They also reported many deer and several coyotes seen.

The mercy missionaries bagged four of the latter with a shotgun while flying and that led to another story.

The plane landed to pick up the coyote cars (turned in for a $2.90 bounty), encountered deep snow, then couldn't take off with a full load.

Zikmund, the passenger, was forced to hike a mile and half through knee high snow to reach a traveled road from where he hitchhiked back to town.

Biemond, with the lightened plane, made a successful takeoff.

Miss Blalock... one of the school's busiest.

Regents' Winner

Patsy Blalock, an Arcadia senior and daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Blalock, is winner of the school's Regent scholarship. She was the Girls State choice and is editor of the annual, class treasurer, Pep Club president, volleyball captain; member of the play casts; active in music, singing with the sextette and triple trio.

Alternates are Max "Bud" Cruikshank and Carole Hill. All participants were above the state, required score.

Alternates now also receive scholarships of $100 from the University of Nebraska.

Miss Shirley Holmes and Quiz icicle... considerably larger than a snow.

Here's Quiz Entry in Area Icicle Race

The Quiz this week lists its entry for the area's largest icicle race. It's an eight foot giant, dripping from the roof of the Quiz mounting room.

Originally the icicle was in two sections one as large as the other.

At weekend the eastern or left half tumbled to the roof causing Quiz workmen below to come running upstairs.

"Thought it was an earthquake!" one shaken printer said.

Bud Burch Dies In Tractor Spill

A former North Loup man, Bud Burch, was killed in a tractor upset near Arlington, Calif., this week.

Few details are available but the Quiz was told Mr. Burch died as the machine spilled while he was working in a citrus grove.

Mr. Burch's father, Ray Burch of North Loup, left immediately Friday for California.

Five children survive. Three are 17 year old triplets — two girls and a boy.

The family visited North Loup at Christmas.

The elder Burch farms near North Loup at Fussville.

Paddock Unhurt As Car Rolls

Clyde Paddock, about 39, escaped injury in a traffic mishap here Sunday about 5 p.m.

Car damage was estimated at $600.

Haskell Announces His Retirement from Ord Business Scene

John R. Haskell, a 66 year old well known Ord businessman and insurance salesman, announced his retirement this week after 33 years in the insurance business.

His story starts about 1923 when he first sold insurance at Havelock near Lincoln. In 1924 he moved to Ord.

"I started to death here a couple of years," he recalls, "then began to write a little business." He recalls selling Maytag appliances to earn supplemental income.

Nine years later in 1931-32 he opened the first agency for State Farm here in his home, then the house west of the Ord Quiz.

That agency later moved to a spot now occupied by Carson's Market, still later to the building that it occupies at 236 South 15th street today.

John Haskell... 35 years with Policies.

Retirement finds Mr. Haskell making frequent trips to his farm a mile west of Ord on the Sargent road.

"That farm has been a life saver for me," he explains, "since it lets me get away where I can relax."

Mr. Haskell was seriously ill three years ago.

The farm, and juggling the million dollar affairs of Valley county as a supervisor from the Ord township, will keep Mr. Haskell busy in retirement.

On Board

He is rounding out his first term on the county board. It is one of a half dozen public posts he has held since he entered the Ord business scene.

Others have been on the township board, assistant police magistrate, and the library board. He is also a member of the official board of the Methodist church, a 32nd degree Shriner and Mason, AF & AM, IOOF and Rotary until ill health forced his withdrawal from the latter.

Mr. Haskell is a native son, born here August 10, 1894. His father, W. W. Haskell, was a distinguished pioneer and Quiz founder. John is an Ord high school graduate of 1914 and for two years attended the Baptist College at Grand Island where he studied liberal arts.

He started farming on the old Quiz (Q-Z) ranch on Haskell Creek. That task, during which he picked a bride (Miss Ruth Wilson of Greeley), was interrupted by WW I.

Farming ended when Mr. Haskell found himself on a train bound for the USMC and officers' candidate school after enlistment. The armistice was signed while Mr. Haskell was on the train.

A second try at farming near Lincoln, and Mr. Haskell's venture into insurance, followed.

"What will you miss most after your long career in business here?" Mr. Haskell was asked.

Roads Icy On Hwy. 11

State highway patrolmen this week warned motorists of suddenly encountered ice stretches on Highway 11.

"The recent snow is melting," said Patrolman Otto Zapp, "and the thaws are bringing patches of ice all along the pavement. Many times the motorist won't be aware of the ice until he is on it."

Patrolman Zapp said the ice extends from Ord to about the Chalk Hills.

Hard Luck Pursues New Feather's Cars

Hard luck pursues Mr. and Mrs. Don Feather and their new Ford. Saturday night a second Feather's new car, bought from the Lee Motor Co. here, crashed into a telephone pole along Highway 11, four miles north of North Loup.

At the wheel, patrolmen reported, was Miss Katherine Keller, 17, of Ord, who told patrolmen she lost control when her arm was jiggled in a scuffle.

Patrolmen estimated the damage at $125. The car had been purchased that afternoon.

About a month ago another new car owned by the Feathers crashed into a turtle creek bridge near Elyria.

That time the car was a total loss.

Damage then was estimated at $1150. At the wheel was Smoky Marshall, later found not guilty of a traffic charge.

Deadline Nears For All Aliens

Robert C. Wilson, District Director of the Immigration and Naturalization Service in Omaha, this week said that aliens in Iowa and Nebraska have only one more week in which to comply with the law requiring that aliens report their address during January of each year.

"This is required even though the alien has not changed his address since the last report."

The Immigration official urged all aliens, who have not yet complied, to go as soon as possible to the nearest Post Office of Immigration Service Office to file the report. Parents or guardians must file the report for alien children under 14 years of age.

Willful failure to comply carried penalties including a fine and deportation.

Hospital Resets Annual Meeting Friday, Jan. 29

A postponed meeting of the Ord Hospital Association, a registered non profit group currently operating the Ord Hospital, will be held this Friday at 7:30 p.m.

The site is the First National Bank. The meeting was postponed last week by the storm.

Persons interested in hospital welfare are invited to attend.

Thursday, the Ord Cooperative Hospital met at Beranek Drug Store.

Only three persons arrived for the meeting. They were Floyd Bernick, Robert Noll and John Sullivan. All are officers.

In the absence of a quorum the three heard a hospital report then voted to re-lease the hospital for another year to the Ord Hospital Assn. (non profit).

The lease goes for $1.

April 15 Final Date for Pacts On Conservation

New conservation reserve contracts recently signed by farmers go into effect no later than April 15 this year, said Victor Cook, chairman of the Valley county ASC committee here.

The contract goes into effect when the farmer starts operations on the cropland under agreement, but in no case later than April 15 this year.

Cook cited this example: A farmer signs a Conservation Reserve contract December 12, 1959, placing all eligible cropland in the program. He agrees to plant grass on the contracted land. Preparation for grass seeding starts March 10, 1960. The contract then goes into effect March 10, 1960.

"However," Cook said, "if the preparation for grass seeding did not take place until April 20, the contract would still go into effect April 15."

State Farm Office Opens; New Local Manager Is Named

Valley counties this week will greet a new business and business man.

He is William (Bill) French, 29 year old specialty salesman who will manage a new office here for State Farm Insurance.

The office is open now. It is located in the same structure that houses Dan's Appliances, Inc., next door to the McDonald store. It was formerly with the John Haskell and Hal Pierce Agency.

Mr. French will arrive Monday, February 1.

He was formerly associated with business firms in Grand Island and McCook.

He is married and has two children — a boy and a girl.

Mr. French is reportedly a civic hustler, and holds an office in the Junior Chamber of Commerce state association.

Less Subsidy for School Milk May Cause Meal Hike

Lower federal reimbursement rates on school milk programs has school heads here watching cafeteria income.

And that may be biked by slightly higher charges for school meals.

Here's what has happened: Milk served in school cafeterias is almost paid for by grants from the government.

If a youngster drinks milk with meals the government reimburses the school 2c.

If a youngster drinks milk alone the school is reimbursed 4c.

Milk costs about 10c to serve. It is bought from O'Hairford Dairy here.

The federal aid is appropriated each year, issued on per capita, then dispensed through the state education office.

Smaller Fed Grant

The office has notified Supt. Walter Parks that this year's appropriation is smaller.

So the aid to school milk programs will be reduced from 6c to 4c on milk served with meals, and from 4c to 3 1/2c on milk served without meals.

It could mean a loss of about $290 each month to the school lunch program," Parks told the Quiz. "Well watch income for a while. We may have to increase the price of meals."

If meals are raised, and it isn't certain they will, they will probably be biked a nickel—25c to 30c.

The new federal rate on reimbursement is effective March 1.

Polio Opens Its Moms' March

A Mothers' March for polio will start in Ord this week (Feb. 16) at residential homes only.

Mothers will also ask home dwellers a series of questions that will list persons with arthritis, no polio shots, and those born with birth defects.

Names will be optional.

Mrs. Frank Fafetta will chairman the drive.

Arcadia is currently holding its Mothers' March under chairman Mrs. Dorothea Mettenbrink, and North Loup will get underway next week directed by Mrs. Lyle Slatke.

Ord business will not be solicited this year but volunteer donations may be sent to Campaign Director Ed. Huffman.

One check, $25 from Lee Stores, has been received so far, Huffman said.

RAY OGIER, DISTRICT CHIEF FOR CONGRESS, 4TH DIST.

Dr. Howard F. Eby, Greeley dentist, has filed for the Republican nomination to Congress from the 4th District. He is a former resident of St. Paul.

KING WINTER will apparently spend the next few weeks on top of the 21st street hill here and his arrival resulted in this rash of sprouts turning the hill into the area's best sliding surface. Kids (like in the picture) are crowding the hill after school and Saturdays, and oldsters were reported giving the hill a big play after dark.

Two Ord stores reported they had been approached by a man wanting to buy red fuses to illuminate the slide for after dark movies. Unfortunately neither store carried the item. All stores were apparently sold out of sleds, too.

Tax Facts No. 4
Deductions for The Car and Home
(This is one in a series of articles on federal income tax filing. These articles are based on information provided by the American Institute of Certified Public Accountants in cooperation with the Nebraska Society of Certified Public Accountants in cooperation with the Internal Revenue Service.)
Your home and car may be the source of deductions that will lower your federal income tax. It is important to check all possible deductions because of the savings involved.
If you are in the lowest tax bracket — 20 per cent — each $5 you can find in deductions will mean a dollar in your pocket. For persons of higher income the possible savings are even greater.
The interest on a mortgage is deductible on your federal tax return. In most cases, payments to a bank include both interest and principal; as the mortgage is reduced the interest is less, and a larger portion is applied to the principal. Only the amount you pay as interest is deductible in the case of your residence.
Property Taxes
Sometimes the monthly payment also includes an additional amount which the bank holds for the payment of taxes, insurance, and so on.
In this case the bank is acting as your agent in paying tax on your property. Real estate taxes paid for you by the bank are deductible as if you had paid them directly. The important point here is that you can only deduct the amount paid by the bank.
For example, you may give the bank $360 over the year toward the payment of taxes, but the tax bill may only come to $341. In this situation you can only deduct $341.
From the time you buy an automobile, you begin to have other expenses which are deductible on your federal income tax return. Any state or local sales tax you paid on the car purchase is deductible. So are the cost of your license plates and interest on an auto loan.
Keep Gas Record
A common deduction in many taxpayers' returns is for state gasoline tax. It is best to keep a record of your gasoline purchases during the year, but if you don't have such a record you can still make a reasonable estimate. For example, you may divide the average number of miles your car runs on a gallon of gasoline

Ordites Should Know!
Small Towns (Ord) Are Not Obsolete
This column is dedicated to the continued development of Ord and its citizens. Much of the material is prepared and offered by the Community Services Department of the University of Nebraska in cooperation with local communities.
As mentioned last week there are many people who think the small community like Ord is obsolete or of minor significance. This is not true.
The human race has existed for hundreds of thousands of years and for all but the last 6000 years of that time people lived in small communities only.
Even now a large part of our race lives in villages and small cities where people know one another.
This all means that our genetic inheritance and those qualities within that inheritance that determine our capabilities for cooperation, tolerance and understanding were all formed in the environment of the small community.
To approach this community significance from another view, consider the vital statistics of our large cities. In 1940 there were 97 cities of 100,000 population and up in the U.S.A. Only two of these had a birth rate equal to the death rate. Between 1940 and 1950 the last census period for which we have full information, shows New York City gained 436,902 in population but its vital statistics ratio was only .475. San Francisco during the same period gained 149,821 while its vital statistic ratio was .537; for Washington, D.C. the gain was 139,087 with a .546 ratio. Since a ratio of 1. is necessary to maintain a stable population it is obvious these cities would lose population rather than gain if it were not for immigrants from other areas.
Cities Would Shrink
The vital statistics ratio of some of the long established larger European cities indicate their population in 100 years would shrink to less than 10% of their current number. Rome, when the sustaining power of its outlying areas failed, dropped in population from 1,000,000 to 50,000 — a shrinkage of 95% in less than a century.
At a meeting here in Lincoln some time ago there were 17 University faculty people present who were discussing this point of population ratios. Only one of the 17 was born and reared in a large city. Sixteen of us were from rural areas and small cities and towns. All this simply means that many significant tasks in our cities are being performed by people whose basic character training and fundamental education was received in the small community.
The rural areas and small communities not only sustain and augment the city's population and talents, but also its economy. It does this by providing raw materials, by buying finished products and also through the material inheritance of its migrants.
Adding up all these factors we

Vets Pensions

New Pension Law Spurs Query Flood
(From the thousands of questions asked about the new pension law slated to go into effect July 1, 1960, the Veterans Administration has selected the most pertinent together with the appropriate answers. This is one of a series.)
Q. When will the new system of pension payments go into effect?
A. On July 1, 1960. The first checks under the new system will not be mailed before August 1, 1960.
Q. Who will be affected by the new system?
A. All veterans of World War I, World War II and the Korean Conflict and their dependents who qualify and begin to receive non-service pensions after June 30, 1960, will be under the new system. Those already on the pension rolls on June 30, 1960, will not be affected unless they choose to come under the new system. They can make this choice at any time, but once the election is made, the pensioner can never revert to the old system.
Q. How does the new law affect those drawing compensation or service-connected benefits?
A. The new law does not affect benefits paid for service-connected disabilities.
Q. Does the new law affect service pensions?
A. No. Service pensions are paid only to Indian War, Civil War and Spanish American War veterans. These pensions are not affected by the new law.
Q. Does the new law change the eligibility requirements for pensions paid to veterans?
A. Not basically. Ninety days active wartime service and an honorable type discharge are required. The veteran must also be permanently and totally disabled. There are important changes in the income limits under the new system as well as some changes in the methods employed to compute the pensioner's annual income. Under the new law the veteran's estate or "worth" will become an eligibility factor.
Q. Let's go into this a step at a time. What are the criteria for establishing permanent and total disability?
A. The degree of disability may vary according to the age of the veteran. Generally, he must have a disability which at his age prevents him from getting regular, full time employment. This disability must be such that doctors do not expect it to improve materially.
(Another in this series will appear at an early date).

Deer Harvest to Almost '58 Peak

Nebraska's 1959 deer harvest was close to the high standard set in 1958, reports P. Vance, game division chief of the Game Commission.

"Improvement in rifle hunting was noted over the 1958 kill in all our deer management areas but two," Vance said.

"While the percentage success score in the Northern Sandhills was down from last year's, this came about because of the way we handled the seasons. Last year either sex could be taken on the last day of the season in this area while this year the unit was limited to antlered deer during the entire season."

Some 11,044 deer rifle hunters took 6,611 deer during the live-day period of success score of 59.9 per cent. This is less than a point below last year's score of 60.4 per cent when 9,500 hunters took 5,789 animals.

Archers in 1959 took exactly the same number of deer as their counterparts in 1958 — 221 animals.

Kill score was not as high as the record-breaking 1958 figure of 19.4 — 15.5 per cent this year. More bow and arrow hunters were in the field this year — 1,426 in comparison to 1,136.

Since 1949 when rifle seasons on deer became consecutive, Vance said, 42,591 deer have been harvested by 92,063 hunters. Some 557 deer have been killed by archers since hunting was opened to them in 1955.

Tips for Boat Owners Listed

Nebraska boat registration and safety laws are much like the laws governing the registration and operation of motor vehicles. Important features are:

1. All boats propelled by mechanical power and operating on any water within the boundaries of Nebraska (including the Missouri River and Gavins Reservoir) must be registered and numbered.

2. Application forms and informational leaflets are available at all places that handle fishing and hunting permits (includes County Clerk).

3. A "Certificate of Assessment" must be secured from the county assessor and verified by the county treasurer, showing that the boat has been assessed and the taxes thereon paid. This certificate must accompany the application.

4. If the boat was not owned by the applicant at the time of assessment, he must so certify. This certification must include the name and address of the person or company from whom the boat was purchased and the date of purchase.

5. Boats owned by residents and operated in this state at any time must be registered in Nebraska. Non-residents may operate here for not more than ninety days if:

(a) registered in another state which has a Coast Guard approved numbering system, or if

(b) registered by the Coast Guard in a state which does not have an approved system.

6. The requirement for Coast Guard-approved fire extinguishers does not apply to a boat that is less than 26 feet if propelled by an outboard motor. It does apply to all other motorboats.

7. If the boat owner is an alien he must so state on the application form. Federal laws have special provisions for alien boat owners.

Crusaders retaliated with 18 in the third frame to cut the margin to 3 points.

A 21 fourth canto splurge put the icing on the cake for the Big Reds.

Ray Cronk potted 7 fielders to lead Ord with 14 points. Tom Sevensker dunked 6 from the floor and canned one charity toss for a total of 13.

Other Chants in the double figures were Lanny Bundy and Maylon Volf, junior forwards, with 10 and 11 points respectively.

Leading the Crusader attack was Rocky Ford with 12 counters.

The win put the Chanticleers in the semi-finals of the tourney to be played Thursday evening.

Farm Ag Tips

Pheasant Feeding Prime Farm Topic

Snow isn't news but — don't remember ever seeing this country so white. There are few bare spots showing.

Means a lot of long, round-about hay hauling. Roads to some farmsteads are through the field and over fences.

Some Ordites who like to sally forth in the fall to shoot them should be ready to sally forth now and feed them.

Any farmer who has spotted a flock that he thinks is short of feed can give us a ring and we'll try to get some grain to them.

Many flocks have access to corn piles or feed lots and except for cold feet are probably not suffering. Other covets are probably having a tough time getting enough food energy to keep up body temperatures.

About 20 bushels of feed were dropped by plane over the week-end to isolated covets. The heaviest concentrations of pheasants were seen northeast of Arcadia and in the Central South part of the county. Lloyd Zikman and Cork Biemond also reported spotting several herds of deer.

Six 4-H leaders have indicated a desire to attend a leader training conference in Kearney. We hope the weather gives them a break so that all can attend February 2, 3 and 4.

ODDLY ENOUGH

by Waldman

The secrets of glass making were once confined to Murano, a tiny island near Venice. If an artisan escaped, his family was held as hostages; when captured, he was put to death!

In the mid-1600's, France's Louis XIV sought to break the monopoly. Through bribery, intrigue and violence he spirited away a few craftsmen, founded the St. Gobain works. Among the first orders: Mirrors for Versailles and the palace of Peter the Great.

Today's orders are still spectacular; include a glass bed for a maharajah... a glass house for France's leading hair designer. Most dramatic recent development—Duralux, the world's first virtually unbreakable glass tableware.

Mrs. J. W. McGinlis, who is spending the winter at Springfield, Calif., with a son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Velmer McGinlis, is reported to have been ill with flu.

Her address is Box 215, Springfield.

Bits of Grass, Leaves, Pods Claim Extension Leaders' Attention

A swarm of extension club leaders jammed extension offices here in the postoffice this week to participate in a workshop for wall accessories.

Most of the afternoon found the ladies busy with bits of leaves, grass, tumbleweeds and pods, affixing all to wooden shingles.

The shingles will be fitted with hangers then, usually in groups of three, used to decorate home walls.

The workshop instructed lesson leaders who will in turn take ideas back to home clubs.

Several clubs will be making scroll wall hangings of polished cotton or burlop.

Children's wall plaques may be made of felt attached to cork backgrounds.

Hugh Carson Here

A former senator, Hugh Carson of Newport Beach, Calif., was an Ord visitor from Thursday until Saturday then left for Lincoln after looking after business.

He spent several days with the Gene Leggett's at Tucson, Ariz. While in Tucson, the Carsons also visited with Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Anderson, who arrived there Wednesday, two days after being delayed at Dodge City, Kan.

The Andersons expect to leave Tucson (Wednesday) returning home by Albuquerque where they will visit a daughter, Mrs. Richard Scher.

A Puff to City, State and County Road Crews

To the Ord street department, and to Councilman Kaputka and Mayor Karre who must have fielded a thousand street complaints last week, the Quiz would like to offer a word of commendation for the way recent snow removal was handled. Admittedly there were some vexing moments as the double barreled storm smote the city, but all of us seem to have survived.

The Quiz offers its compliment in full realization that snow removal wasn't all that it could be since the city's loader went on the blink and another had to be brought in as a replacement.

That seeming unbecomingly might make the average person inquire: "Well, why don't they have the right equipment to handle these storms when they come along?"

The question is pertinent and can probably best be answered by pointing out that it takes no particular management skill to buy equipment or hire men to operate it. Without much trouble the publication of bids Ord city dads could fill garages here with enough equipment to handle any snow, rapidly and efficiently, no matter how deeply it drifted.

But buying equipment isn't the answer, far from it. What IS called for is a reasonably intelligent appraisal of the weather picture here for the last 20 years, a sensible estimate on the amount of snow that may fall, then the purchase of equipment good enough to handle the average year, and a little more as a safety margin.

Any other approach loads the taxpayer with unnecessary expenses, a point that all of us should remember.

When big, and unusual, falls of snow happen,

Those Unbelievable TV Ads

We are a little amused this week with a report by an institution of motivational research (what makes you buy) that says tests show more people have faith in newspaper advertising than in TV advertising.

The above fact has been proven many times but the latest person to find it out is Dr. Ernest Dichter whose report reads: "... tests revealed a higher intensity of credibility for print ads than for TV commercials, despite the greater impact of the latter. Consumers interviewed tended to give print ads a much higher prestige rating than TV commercials."

We like that four word addition to the finding of Dr. Dichter "despite (TV commercials) greater impact."

We were always taught that ad impact resulted from how many people believed the merchandise story you were trying to tell.

How in the world then, despite Dr. Dichter's aside, can a print ad have greater believability, yet less impact?

It seems that it isn't only us listeners that are confused!

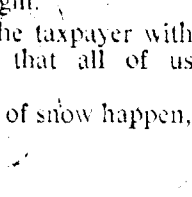

Something Different—

'Las' Martz Couple (He's an Ord Boy!) Avid Music Collectors

A son of Ord who lives in Tucson now is "Las" Martz, engineer, highway expert, bituminous boss for Standard Oil for several states hereabouts, Arizona Highway commission official, advisor and what not.

One of a family, mostly boys, he was reared in Valley county about the vintage of Bill Heuck. His father moved the family to California long ago and Las had not returned to his birth county for 43 years, but was tugged back by the high school reunion dinner a couple of years ago, bringing his wife, Louise. It was her first trip to Ord.

They had such a happy time they came to Ord the next year in lovely October, and again the North Loup valley showed off for them, green and charming. But having made their home in Tucson for 25 years past, they also devote on showing it to newcomer visitors like the Leggetts. They can't say enough about how this climate helps sufferers with respiratory troubles like Gene's.

The Martz home is in the Santa Catalina foothills, sitting on a promontory so that the breezes and views are equally choice on all sides. We quite fell in love with the wild beauty of the mountains, the rocky cliffs, the expanses of desert sand and cactus. The view of the sprawly city of Tucson was unexcelled, and eleven mountain ranges were in sight.

oOo

But the view inside the Martz home was more unusual yet, for Mr. and Mrs. Martz have travelled in many quaint corners and from each they brought novel additions for their home.

They collect like pack rats, but selective pack rats. Mr. Martz has dozens of music boxes and phonographs, representing almost every year of their manufactured history. A dear little bird in a cage yaks in rhythm to the music when he is wound up. A tiny piano plays two tunes, while the little doers pop out, and the lid flies up to reveal a cigarette hideout.

Big petunia-shaped horns, pretty painted ones, tiny horns on little machines, stately Edisons, every sort of music box stands in their recreation room. Since there are also thousands of records carefully filed, the concert can go on for days or years. Many of the old records are priceless, for instance, 50 plus of Caruso and his tremendous voice.

What hobby could be more delightful? No wonder their friends never are ready to go home! And they collect other fascinating items — I'll tell you later.

The King's English as She Is Spoken in Carolina, (South, That Is)

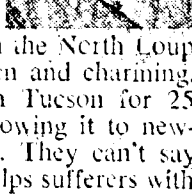

I know it is a little past the Christmas season but before January flies out the window I want to recognize a debt to Mrs. Clarence Davis of Ord by whose wits I have come into the possession of the cleverest holiday card I have ever seen.

The card comes from Charleston, South Carolina, from where it was sent Mrs. Davis by a daughter, Mrs. Beverly Fowler, and it really isn't a card at all but instead a small booklet prepared by the News-Courier of Charleston, a newspaper.

The book's contents are given over to the explanation and definition of the King's English, as she is spoken in Charleston by Charlestonians.

And if you don't bust a gut at some of the explanations as I steal them from the book, then brother I feel real sorry for you because you are sick, sick, sick.

Oh, I almost forgot to mention that the phrases that you'll see here are not used anywhere that I know of in Ord. If you hear a word or two used here that makes you think the Ord party is a South Carolinian forget it! No South Carolinian in his right mind would leave the Holy City (Charleston).

Okay, here goes for Charlestonese:
 ABODE — Wooden plank
 AIR — What you hear with, i.e. "Friends, Romans lend me your airs!"
 A BOOF — Approximately
 BALKS — A container, (match barks).
 BALL — To heat liquid
 BEKON — Meat from a hog, often eaten with a-igs for breakfast
 BRAID — What you make toe-est from to go along with bekon and a-igs
 BUM — Instrument of destruction like the H-Bum!

State Capitol News . . .

Winter's Headache Time For State John McMeekin

Winter is a busy time for John McMeekin. He is the state maintenance engineer for the highway department and as such has the tough job of keeping roads open during winter snows and blizzards.

It is not an easy task. For the very thing that closes the roads also hits communications.

Often McMeekin is unable to reach maintenance crews to get them out on the highways, so he obtains information on which roads are open for travel.

Information McMeekin gets from his field men is quickly relayed to the people by way of news media.

For many years, the quiet, bespectacled McMeekin has calmly faced the problems of winter. Newsmen find him very cooperative even when under considerable pressure, and he is not the type to seek headlines.

The snow produces only a small part of the problems McMeekin faces each year.

He is charged with the responsibility of preserving condition of highways to protect original investment of the public in them. This involves judgment and attention to the availability of funds.

McMeekin has charge of the entire state highway network, which has 8 maintenance districts which in turn are divided into maintenance districts.

Library Commission

One of the many state agencies in the Capitol that rarely makes the headlines is the State Library Commission.

The commission has offices and a library in each statehouse under supervision of Louise Nixon, executive secretary. There are 15 full time employees and 6 who work part of the time.

The commission is an old agency. It was established in 1901 by the Legislature to serve as the library extension agency of the state to assist in the organization and improvement of public libraries.

It also works with public schools and lends books to them, small community libraries, clubs, and individuals who do not have access to public library service.

One of the unique features of the commission is a traveling li-

Interstate Highway

Long-time government observers say they cannot recall in the past 15 or 20 years as much organized pressure as that built up over the Interstate Highway.

However, the matter of roads has always been a touchy political subject in Nebraska.

The previous fight in the late 40s and early mid 50s mainly concerned priority of constructing regular roads and increased gasoline taxes and license fees.

Adoption of the sufficiency system for determining order of construction of roads on the regular network greatly reduced the flood of delegations making the trek to see the governor.

Creation of the Advisory State Highway Commission also took the pressure off the governor on hearing road delegations.

The sufficiency system is a report card method of giving a rating to a road, based on a formula which includes engineering principles.

The controversy over the Interstate priorities picked up a full head of steam with formation of the Greater Nebraska Interstate organization.

Articles of incorporation have been filed by the group, which says it is non-partisan and non-profit and designed to press for construction of outstate segments of the Interstate ahead of a down town Omaha route.

The group also listed as a goal protection of the continuity of the seventh cent of state gasoline tax.

Hospitals

The State Health Board says it finds no fault with care given at hospitals in five Nebraska towns, only with physical plants.

It was noted that some of the communities were taking steps to correct their facilities.

Geranium Joe; Joe Says: 'Election Talk Has Farmin At A Standstill'

Dear Bill:
 It looks like everybody in Valley county that ain't running for some office is busy conducting a poll to see who will win. Between the candidates and the poll experts, farmin' has about come to a stop.

Over in England they say a feller "stands" for office. In this county he "runs" for it. A candidate "standing" for office in this county would all succeed to death in the push. I reckon you might say the difference between politics in England and Valley county is that they handle theirs standing and we handle ours running.

Different countries has different systems. I recollect reading a few year ago where the voters in a town down in Brazil was so disgusted with the local situation that they elected a goat named Suedly to the town board to eat the weeds. While we don't go in much for goats in this county, we has elected a few jackasses to office from time to time.

In all these political polls, I see where a certain per cent is listed for or agin certain candidates and a certain per cent "has no opinion." Im awful curious to meet one of them fellers that ain't got no opinion on someone. I ain't never met nobody in my life that didn't have an opinion on about everything under the sun. And most of them was anxious to express it.

I got a hunch, Bill that this campaign for President is going to be rough. Already the Democrats is speaking of "Richard Milhouse Nixon." Regardless of how a feller feels about politics, I think it's carrying it too far when you expose a candidate's middle name. For instance, Ed Doolittle's middle name is Cornwalis and he'd shoot his brother for divulging the fact. Ed says Cornpone would've been just as good and a darned sight easier to spell. There's a heap of folks that don't like their middle name exposed in public and some of 'em, like Woodrow Wilson, gets rid of it by law. And they'll vote for Nixon on account of the Democrats' middle name. For instance, Ed Doolittle, is a down-down Democrat but he'll vote for Nixon as sure as shooting on account of the "Milhouse" trick.

But actually, Mister Editor, there ain't much difference between political campaigns now and back when I was a boy just after the turn of the century. I can't see, but two "shall all" changes. In them days we didn't have no "polls" to give us the results after the vote was counted.

And in them days all the candidates bragged about being a pore boy that started life off in a log cabin.

Now they brag about being a pore boy that started life off as a pedestrian.

Loud Mouths vs. Loud Mouths

To the Editor of the Quiz

Dear Sir:

Three cheers for Clarice. Its about time someone took to task Ord's so-called "sport fans."

I agree with her that there is nothing more disgusting than to set through a basketball game with a loud mouth in shouting distance.

Every town has one but Ord seems to have hit the jack pot. Its impossible to watch an Ord game without hearing several of our sport fans cut loose on the Ord boys, coaches and referees and opposing players.

I like to think that any sport should be that and not a matter of seeing who can curse and criticize the loudest.

It would make quite an interesting game if Clarice could arrange to have Ord's 10 loudest suit up and play each other.

I'd be willing to bet they wouldnt get much playing done. Im sure all the Ord players and the loyal Ord fans would pay plenty to watch such a contest.

Star Was Comet?

January 22, 1960

To the Editor of the Quiz

Dear Sir:

How are you coming with the Wise Men — who presumably showed their wisdom by worshipping?

According to the story — Matthew 2:9 — "and lo, the star which they had seen in the East went before them, until it came to rest over the place where the Child was." This star appeared in the East and moved toward the West or in the direction of Bethlehem.

Some think this object was a comet which moved from the East to the West, attracting attention.

As to the Wise Men drinking too much that doesn't sound logical. There is the story about the cowboy who ordered a gallon of whiskey for his horse after coming in off the desert but turned down an offer for a drink himself saying, "No thanks! I've got to do the driving."

I would be of the opinion that only sober Wise Men could have followed the Star to Bethlehem.

Someone has speculated about the idea of taking a different way home as the Wise Men did.

He suggested that no one who discovers Christ could go along in the same way but would have to find a new way because he would not be the same himself.

Well — here's hoping you get the Wise Men and the Star straightened out.

(Rev.) Allan W. Martin

Editor's Note: The biblical passage " . . . the Star they had seen in the East went before them . . ." it seems to me presumes the Wise Men were going east and so " . . . went before them . . ." then becomes more distance to the East. Of course that isn't the case, since the Wise Men went west from Persia to Bethlehem.

Was General Ord Ever Here?

Was General E. O. C. Ord ever at Ord?
 There are reasons to believe that he was, that is, he must have driven through the area that later became Ord.

Some months ago, in reply to an open question, I stated that there was no proof in army files from Washington that he visited the site of Ft. Hartsuff.

Immediately thereafter Miss Maud Goodenow replied from Burwell that she was certain that he ate dinner at the Goodenow home across the river from Fort Hartsuff.

Diving into the inquiry Miss Merve J. Owens, a painstaking historian and considerable author of Loup City, delves into the files of the Times, a Grand Island newspaper, and learns that General Ord and Colonel Brown paused at Grand Island from their Omaha headquarters of Department of the Platte on their way to Camp Ruggles at the headwaters of the Loup river "to consider the location of a permanent fort."

And where was Camp Ruggles in 1873?

In the winter of 1872 and '73 Captain Munson was sent out from Omaha headquarters with a squad of cavalry to explore for a proper site for a permanent fort, which he did.

For that winter he had a camp a mile west of Elba where a creek, now called Munson Creek, came out of the hills.

Captain Cook, a venerable old soldier, lived at Elba as a considerable land owner. He ate his meals at the boarding house where I lived when principal of the Elba school in 1894-'95.

One evening he and I walked out to the old camp, where he had been stationed, and he said something about Camp Ruggles and showed some remnants of the site. He was later at Fort Hartsuff.

When he left the service there, he returned to Howard county and filed on some government land between Elba and Cotesfield. Other soldiers did the same. Proving up in a few months, as soldiers might do, they sold their rights to Cap. Munson, Judge Kendall and others.

But we have the printed word of a Grand Island newspaper that General Ord visited Camp Ruggles in August 1873. In the meantime Captain Mix from Arcadia supplanted Captain Munson, while Colonel Copinger was in command at Fort Hartsuff, but Captain Munson was returned to general command following the transfer of Copinger and Mix.

If the temporary camp at Elba was Camp Ruggles it is easy to imagine that when the soldiers moved up the river to the Fort Hartsuff site the camp near Calamus was called Ruggles while the new fort was in process of building.

NOTICE

TO OUR INSURED:

We have severed our contract with State Farm Insurance Companies because we refuse to be captive Agents. We pride ourselves on being Independent Agents working for our customers and not one Company.

We believe we should provide the best insurance protection in the market for the customer and not that provided only by one Company.

An Independent Agent works for his customers — not for one Company. We as Independent Agents use Independent Adjusters for claim handling when needed, on large losses, not Company Adjusters working for their own Company. An Independent Agent takes pride in offering all types of Insurance and Bonds, and is proud of his training in all phases of Insurance Protection.

We continue to be competitive in auto, fire, life, casualty, bonds and all forms of insurance coverage. We continue to have auto companies that provide a Safe Driver Program for our customers where adjustments are fair and fast. Most adjustments will be made in our office and checks issued immediately. We provide nationwide claim service for travelers.

As Independent Agents, we are proud of our Companies we represent, we are proud of our Community and of the service we will continue to afford our many customers.

Teen Steam! Students Hear Tales Of Rugged North

By Jerri Noll
Sincere Oliver Nutchuk, a native Alaskan, treated Ord high schoolers to exciting tales of our 49th state Tuesday morning. As an intriguing yarn spinner he related facts about his home, his life and his family.

Mr. Nutchuk was born in the village of Chignik where his Norwegian father and Eskimo mother lived. After the death of his mother, he spent his childhood in an orphanage in the Aleutian Islands. The study of medicine reigned until he launched himself in a musical career.

For further entertainment Nutchuk demonstrated his mastery in storytelling with an Eskimo fairy tale. He reported on Aleut music and played a lullaby and a folk dance on the piano.

Touring under National School Assemblies, Mr. Nutchuk will continue his cross country trek bringing Alaska and its culture to other young people. The student council sponsors the convocation.

At times Jake averaged as high as 33 miles per gallon under certain driving conditions, and quite often 27 miles per gallon. "Speedometer read 1010.5 when we got in the Falcon two weeks ago . . . read 5275.5 when we drove in the front yard Sunday night . . . gas receipts totaled 174.9 gallons . . ." figure it out for yourself. WE GET 24.3 MILES PER GALLON, OVER-ALL DRIVING! "Steering ease . . . a breeze on the Freeway . . . plenty of visibility . . ." any other questions? STRENGTHEN YOUR FAITH
The GLAD Way
YOU IN THE CHURCH
THE CHURCH IN YOU
Loo long have we thought of The Way of the Cross as the "sad way." There may be sad moments along every noble path, but not all great ways are sad ways. The path of motherhood may have sad turns but it is a satisfying path. The path of education climbs some difficult and steep places but it is a thrilling way. Isaiah talked about the highway of God, where faithful servants passed on good errands. The way of the Cross is the way one takes when he serves God. It is not the "Sad Way" but rather the "Glad Way." Jesus came by way of the Cross, and the Book of Books on which the cross is planted, tells us to "take up our cross and follow." Whether atop the church steeple or on the highest mountain, it is The Glad Way. Heaven and God are at the end of that way. It is today aglow with the light of forgiving grace. It challenges the weak to walk by faith and offers pardon to those who fall at its foot. It is where Jesus prayed, "Father, forgive them, for they know not what they do." It is The Glad Way.

The ringing of the bells at the 4 p.m. ceremony were made possible by a recording made in Cork last December. Arrangements were made by the bride's father, D. B. McOstrich, of Grand Island, in accordance of an 18th century bequest by his great grandfather three times removed, the late Alec McOstrich.

Alec McOstrich designed and built the St. Ann Shandon bell tower and steeple in 1750-1752, which stands 176 feet tall on the north side of the River Lee overlooking the city.

His bequest reads: "Wherever and whenever a McOstrich shall marry, be it in the farthest end of the globe, the Shandon bells will ring to mark the happy occasion."

The bride's floor length gown was of peau de soie with fitted bodice. Appliques of Chantilly lace highlighted the jeweled Sabrina neckline and jewels were scattered across the skirt. Matching lace formed the gown's Watteau back and sweep train and bride's mantilla. She carried a white bible with a white orchid and satin streamers.

Miss Patricia McOstrich was maid of honor and bridesmaids were the Misses Hilda Rasmussen, Judy Martin, Sandra Swails of Omaha and Judy Reynolds of Norfolk. Mrs. W. J. Wilson of Lincoln was bridesmatron.

Patricia and Steven Alfrey were flower girl and ring bearer. The Misses Lois Deane of Kansas City, Mo., and Julie Byers of David City lighted candles.

Best man was Ronald Seymour and groomsmen were Larry Westerbeek, Richard Foster, Joe Walker, Gordon Rasmussen of Aurora and Jack Justice of Central City. Roger Massey, Jerry Wagner, Don Wenzel, and W. J. Wilson, both of Lincoln were ushers.

After a short wedding trip the couple will be at home in Baltimore, Md., where Mr. Rasmussen is serving with U.S. Army Intelligence.

Both Mr. and Mrs. Rasmussen attended the University of Nebraska where she is a member of Delta Gamma Sorority and he is affiliated with Sigma Nu Fraternity.

Chant Defense Screen Smothers Red Raiders To Give Ord Tourney Win

By Rich Zukoski

The Ord Chanticleers capped their own invitational tourney here Friday night with a win over the Loup City Red Raiders.

The Chanticleers gained the finals with a win over Broken Bow Thursday.

Loup City entered the finals by a victory over highly regarded Central City 58-45.

In the Loup City-Ord tilt, the Chant defense reigned supreme.

Loup City scored only ten points the second half.

The Chants went into the final period with a four point lead 34-30 and allowed but three Raider points in the fourth quarter. Meanwhile the Big Red potted 11 to grab the game and the championship, 45-33.

High scorer for the Chants was Tom Sevensen with 13.

Loup City's Mike Hegarty was the leading tourney scorer with 41.

Hegarty and Frank Sokol were the mainstays in the Raider lineup, each getting 9 in the final fray. Sokol tied Sevensen for second place honors in the entire tourney.

In the Broken Bow-Ord tangle, the Chants used a potent defense setup as the main weapon.

The Indians managed but 3 field goals and 3 free throws in the first canto and 2 free tosses in the second quarter for a first half output of 11 points.

Tom Sevensen led Ord scorers with 14 points while Kent McCloughan netted 15 for the losers.

The two wins, plus an earlier tournament win over GI Central Catholic gave the Chanticleers an overall record of 9 wins and 3 losses for a .750 percentage.

Ordites Should Know: Defining Community First Step Necessary To Good Planning

This column is dedicated to the continued development of Ord and its citizens. The ideas are not necessarily those of the editor. Much of the material is prepared and offered by the Community Services Department of the University of Nebraska in cooperation with local committees.

Communities are geographical areas of various sizes and shapes that are occupied, developed and maintained by people of varied attitudes and talents.

Any effective development program must seek to stimulate and improve the capabilities of the people as well as the facilities and resources of the geographical area. In evaluating or selecting any development program we must therefore consider both the human and physical phases or parts of such a program.

One of the first steps to be taken in considering a community development program is to define our community area. Shall it be the incorporated village, town or city? Or, shall it be such a corporate place with its interdependent territory. If we include some surrounding territory, shall it be determined by trade, local paper coverage, church services, mail routes, high school enrollment, telephone service or a combination of all of these?

It is important that we give some thought to this defining of community before undertaking any development program just as communities are built or maintained by the people that occupy them so will they be improved by the people who identify themselves with the program. No matter how we arrive at community boundaries the number of persons interested in the program will always be important to its success.

Specific steps in a community development program are usually the responsibility of some group within the community. It may be a civic club, a church group or a veterans organization depending upon the type of program or project. This means community development does not necessarily or always imply broad community action except on matters of general interest or continuing policy.

In other words community development under democratic processes as operative in America becomes largely a matter of voluntary participation on the part of citizens.

Council Meeting:

City Hears Plea For Engine, Cemetery Trees

The City Council here Monday muffled the probability of a new engine for the utility plant, heard George Allen review a soon-to-be passed sewer use fee ordinance, then listened to one complaint on the Ord Cemetery, voiced by Mrs. Clarence Davis.

Mrs. Davis suggested the north half of the new section be black. "It doesn't have a tree to relieve the monotony," she said, "and those of us who go there for a little comfort now and then find none."

The council agreed the cemetery was bleak, needed and might get some trees, but then added the plantings would probably be confined to a "park area."

Mrs. Davis offered her help and that of other women if needed, then with a goodbye left the room.

Allen Describes Law

George Allen had appeared earlier to give the council a run down on what the sewer use fee ordinance will probably shape up like.

The ordinance provides money to build a land-fill disposal plant on land (proposed) north of Ord. Allen said the present plan is to divide fee payers into two classes for collection ease. The classes will be single dwelling units, to be called "Residential," and all else, to be called "commercial."

Residential taps will pay 75c a month. Commercial taps will pay 1 1/2 of their water quarter billing, but not less than $1, nor more than $25.

Non residents will be charged twice the residential rate.

The council is somewhat surprised at the lack of interest shown in the sewer use fee ordinance. It has been voiced several times in council circles the last few months, but business men have not mentioned it to either the council or Mayor Karre.

Sewer District Planned

Mr. Allen also said he would like to get a sewer district underway in the newly opened West K extension leading off the 24th street City Park entrance.

He said the sewer should be installed, brought to the curb lines of every lot so the continual digging up of city streets would stop.

Allen added water taps should have copper heads from mains to the lot line installed too.

"No matter how good these back fills are," he said, "the street is never as good afterward."

On the light plant engine Allen said the city should junk one, install another. The old one needs more than $1000 in repairs money, he said that would be better spent on a good used replacement.

Cost $50,000

One can be found and installed for about $80,000, Allen believes. The old engine is 21 years old.

The new boiler would carry 840 KW, Allen said.

That was the sum of council major topics. In other minor discussions it:

—Rushed over the salaries, setup, and employees of the summer swimming program. No definite action taken until Mayor Karre settles salaries. Mrs. Zicht, (last year's instructor) will probably direct this year's program.

—Discussed complaints on garbage pileups during the storm, then chewed the rag about Ord's snow removal equipment which, the discussion indicated, leaves something to be desired.

—Heard Mayor Karre say he would like to install rubbish catchalls on city streets in an effort to stop litterbugging. Present barrels are too heavy, Karre believes. What's in store are probably new swinging lids for steel barrels.

—Discussed an alley situation back of Jack 'n Jill, Kasal's and Doudahl's Restaurant.

—Discussed tree spraying in city park then heard Park Chairman Jay, Auble say he would prefer staying with his present spraying contracts. Apparently tree pests will be on the move soon. He closed up business and to attend the Firemen's Benefit Ball.

25-30 Asking Building Loan Taxing Refunds

An estimated 25 or 30 persons have applied for tax refunds on levies paid in 1959 on building and loan shares, the assessors of office here indicated.

County Assessor George Dvorak said the highest rebate was for $22, the lowest for about $90.

Taxpayers were eligible for the rebate because the state supreme court decision said the wrong formula had been used to figure the amount of tax due on the shares.

The deadline for applying for the refunds is next Thursday.

Weather: Ground Hog Here Blinded by Fog, Caught Sinus Maybe!

If the groundhog poked his head into the air here this week it's a ditch he suffered from fog blindness and probably sinus trouble.

The county has been haze-bound for a week. Temperatures have been above normal.

And skies have gripped over the same period. The continual drip was freezing on some streets, making ice-coated others sleek and dangerous.

At any hour of the day or night one could hear the whir of spinning tires.

The only bright spot in the otherwise dull weather picture was that the sun didn't shine Feb. 2 and Mr. Groundhog didn't see his shadow.

That means an early spring, due to check in at Valley county March 21, or 40 days away.

Moisture from Jan. 1 to date: Jan. 1, 85 moisture from 10 inches snow; Jan. 2, .03 moisture from 2 inches snow; Jan. 13-14-15, 1 1/4 inch moisture from 12.5 inches snow; Jan. 18, .18 moisture from 2 1/2 inches snow; Feb. 1, .10 moisture from 8 inches snow; Feb. 3, .33 inches of rain.

January moisture totals are 2.74 inches.

Carl Curtis $290 Million Is Now Tab for Uncle

You near from Washington three days that Uncle Sam is in debt to the tune of 290 billion dollars. Actually, this is about two-fifths of the red ink that must be written against our fiscal policy.

We started out 1960 with an obligation to pay more than 700 billion dollars.

Here's the breakdown: A national debt, incurred mostly from 1933 to 1952 of 290 billion; 68 billion in obligations for commitments to spend already on the books; and 300 billion dollars for obligations which will occur in the future.

This session of Congress also is likely to vote on an increase in the minimum hourly wage to $1.25. A try will be made to have the law apply to retail and service workers.

Union leaders already are pointing to this legislation as one of the most important bills in the session.

Opposition will center about the inflationary impact, particularly because unionized workers above the minimum wage scale would insist on corresponding increases of pay, to preserve the differential.

It also will be contended that the law could wipe out many small businesses which would find it impossible to maintain this kind of a payroll.

The latest move of the Civil Service Commission is to compete with private enterprise in attempting to lure young college graduates into Federal service.

The biggest problem, say the commission officials, is trying to convince the young people that they won't become bureaucrats who spend the taxpayers' money.

Can we afford to disarm? This is the subject of a study by the staff of the Joint Senate-House Economic Committee. It is trying to determine what effect the elimination of a yearly 41 billion dollar defense budget would have on our economy.

One immediate gain, apparently, would be lower taxes and fewer borrowed dollars with a big decline in Federal spending.

However, as long as Russia continues to be a threat to our security the chances of total disarmament appear dim.

It's Not All Gravy for the Farm Meal

This is an election year and the ever loving cost of the "farm" program (estimated at $7 billion this year) is bound to be prime conversation topic as the rugged individualists gather on the town square.

Well, we would like to have the budget cut as well as the next guy but before anyone gets too rambunctious with the subject of the "farm" budget let's take a cotton pickin' minute to get it into the right perspective.

Of this year's $7 billion to be credited to the "farm" budget about only $1 billion will go directly into farm pockets — soil bank, conservation, etc.

About $3 billion will be used to buy grain and other commodities in an effort to support prices, but here, remember, that the government is currently recovering about two-thirds.

Here is the full budget estimated breakdown:

Price Supports, Loans	$2,100,000,000
Soil Bank, ACP, Wool, Sugar	$1,100,000,000
Storage, CCC Borrowing	$1,000,000,000

Something Different—

To a Nebraskan, Tucson Homes Just Ain't Got It!

Nothing could be more different from the way the houses are built in Nebraska . . . than the houses they build in Tucson. And are they simpler? I'll say.

Firstly, never or hardly ever, is there a basement here. If there's a recreation room downstairs you may be sure the house is perched on a hillside, a split-level affair.

Bulldozers come along and scrape the cactus away and greasewood or mesquite . . . brushy stuff. Before you know it, a plumber has a maze of pipes laid out within the forms, and a concrete slab is being poured.

On this goes vinyl or linoleum and that's the floor. Almost before you can turn around, rafters and brick walls are in place and it is easy to see the shape the place is taking. Rafters are left exposed at the ceiling. Over them is laid rough wood, and this too is left exposed when the house interior is finished. Layers of roofing paper or something like that are heavily tarred, and on top of this the roof builder puts layers of pebbles or rocks. Sometimes the stones are small white granite chips. Sometimes the pebbles are little round green fellows. . . . fascinating me and giving an intriguing rough look.

Well now those brick walls. That's the inside wall as well as the outside wall. No insulation, no nothing. Simple, hey?

Inner walls of rooms may provide a sheet-rock surface, or a plyw. surface between bath and bedrooms. There may be a few plasterboard walls, but not many. Brick here, as around here; the proper Arizona sand must be easy to get and easy to work into bricks.

Wood is the least in demand for outer walls. . . .

Adobe, or bricks of earth, are the most expensive. There are some stucco houses, and a good many cement block and pumice block dwellings.

On The Lee Side—

Line Up GI's and We'll Give a

If all you ex GI's, who believe that service brasshats aren't Saintly Souls worthy of canonization, will line up against the wall then we'll proceed with the business at hand — the reading of The Memoirs of Field Marshall Montgomery, supreme boobah of the British forces.

Page 74: "Commanders in all grades must have the qualities of leadership; they must have initiative; they must have the drive to get things done and they must have the character and ability to inspire confidence. . . . Above all they must stand firm when the issue hangs in the balance."

Page 30: "I was evacuated to a hospital in England (he had been wounded) and for some time I took no further part in the war (WW II). I had time for reflection in the hospital and came to the conclusion that the old adage was probably correct: the pen was mightier than the sword. I JOINED THE STAFF."

In the English hospitals that your scribe here infested, reaching a conclusion similar to Monty's wasn't at all unusual. In fact, it was arrived at rather rapidly by all except the most morose.

It became such common complaint in the officer's wards the medics (head shrinkers) began calling it "anxiety neuroses, moderately severe."

In the enlisted men's latrine we just called it "chicken."

Monty's book, by the way, indicates he wasn't particularly impressed with the Eisenhower Battle genius. I can't quote chapter and verse but in one criticism Monty indicates he

Food Shipments Abroad $1,500,000,000
School Milk Programs $ 500,000,000
Research, Market Reports $ 200,000,000

REA, FIA Loans $ 650,000,000

So, if any of the Quiz' wide readership is under the impression that the USDA's wide spending is being devoted exclusively to subsidizing farmers the above should straighten out some wry thinking.

Geranium Joe: 'England Gets 30 Year Credit; Us Farmers Pay Cash'

DEAR BILL: The way things is working out it looks like we get more and more bad seasons in this country every year. We got the big rains season, the tornado season, the polo season and the heifer fever season, just to name a few.

And one of our very bad seasons is getting to be what we might call the "Item 4, Minus Item 3" season. Them brass hats in Washington figures farmers is a little dumb, so they make the farmers get their income tax report in a month afore normal folks has to turn theirs in. I always start on mine the first week in January so's to allow plenty of time for prayer and meditation being working on this new fig-saw puzzle for three straight days and I get a new answer ever time I figger it out. I got a good notion to wrap up my Sunday suit and that nine dollars I got in the bank, send it to 'em and tell 'em that's what I'm holding onto fer them to work it out. I'll add a note advising that if there's anything left over, I'd like to have my Sunday pants back.

"Subtract item 4 from item 3, then carry it to Schedule A, line 9, or, something, it says. I can't even get Schedule A, much less line 9. Every year about this time I get out that old motto I won at the county fair, dust it off and hang it over my bed: "I will lay my diploma and feed awhile and rise to fight again."

Taxes is getting to be a religion amongst them folks we elect to public office. I see where the U. S. Tax Foundation says there's 151 different taxes on a loaf of bread, on an egg, 116 on a man's suit, and around 600 on a house. And when they run out of regular taxes they come up with a "temporary" tax fer some emergency when the emergency is over they just make the tax permanent and hike it a little. It's got so I never ask the price of nothing no more, just ask about the tax. I figger that if I can pay the tax they'll credit me for the balance. A feller that's up at the Quiz says they hire three girls, two wait on trade, one to figure the gov't's share. From the looks of things right now, Bill, I figger ulcers is in fer a good, long run in this country.

A feller said out that when-ever they're signing men gize together in this country, sooner or later they form a company and one is president, one is vice-president, and one is treasurer. And it looks to me like ever time they elect three candidates to office, one gets to be a tax collector, one assistant tax collector, and one tax inspector.

Well, I got to quit now and get back to Item 4 Minus Item 3. It's a funny thing to me that when we owe Uncle Sam money he's got to have it right away, but he'll wait 30 year for England to pay him.

But, there was a problem. Guess what? The water of the new deep well is boiling HOT, and will have to be cooled before it can be used.

State Capitol News:

Potent Power Wielded by Statehouse Trio—The Railway Commis'—on Rates, Services

Three elected officials in the statehouse have more ordinary things in the daily lives of Nebraskans. They comprise the State Railway Commission, which affects the Nebraska citizens every time they ride a train bus, taxicab, or airplane. . . .

The commission regulates rates and service of express companies, telephone and irrigation firms. It completely supervises farm storage of grain, issuance of securities by public utilities, grain buyers, itinerant mechanics, and licenses and inspects public storage warehouses.

Other areas include construction methods and routing of electric transmission lines and rates of rural electric companies when complaints are involved. Commissioners are elected on political tickets for staggered six-year terms, receiving $8,000 per year salary. Current commissioners, all Republicans, are Joseph J. Brown, Wayne R. Swanson and Richard H. Larson.

Larson will be up for reelection this year. Brown's term continues until 1965 and Swanson's until 1963.

Billboards A group of state senators will again wrestle with the problem of billboards along the Interstate Highway.

Legislation introduced in the last session to ban them within 600 feet of the super highway was defeated.

The question is one of many being considered by a group of senators, headed by George Syas of Omaha, which is studying outdoor recreation as a Legislative Council committee.

In the fall before the session starts, the senators prepare reports and submit them to the sessions for possible legislative action.

Advertising interests have proposed that a council be established that could control billboards along the Interstate, with the power to designate certain spots

Notes On Convention

To the Editor of the Quiz Dear Sir: A delegate to the next democratic convention must be a good horse trader and know when to jump on the band wagon. Since 1936, it takes a majority, which now is around 668 votes, to win the nomination. . . .

At present there are five avowed candidates. No one knows how many states will place in nomination favorite sons. Say Johnson, Kennedy, Stevenson, Humphrey and Symington, each receive 100 votes on the first ballot. The favorite sons 168.

Now for a recess until night session or next morning. Such funny men as Ted Skelton, Jack Benny, Bob Hope or Jimmie Durante will now take over to delight the delegates and galleries; of course many parades will fill the isles. Banners, bands and buffaney will delight the TV watchers; a mad scramble for taxi cabs by the leaders and delegates.

Highway Commission Ray Ogier of North Platte has again been named chairman of the Advisory State Highway Commission. . . . Commission members reelected J. R. McBride of Minden, vice chairman.

Ogier was instructed to take necessary steps to obtain a full time secretary. The commission has been without one since the death last summer of Owen J. Boyles.

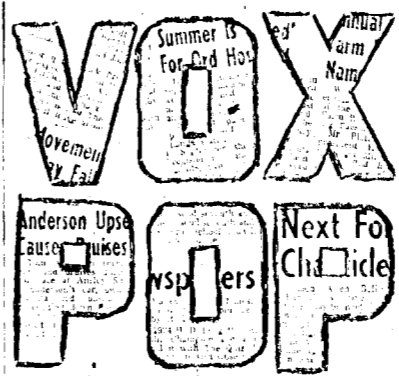

The commission also decided to continue meeting the fourth Monday of each month except in February when the normal Feb. 22 date was switched to Feb. 29 to avoid a conflict with Washington's birthday.

Politics The Republican party has launched a series of events designed to put some money into its treasury to aid for the 1960 campaign. Kickoff event was in Omaha at which Sen. Barry Goldwater of Arizona was featured speaker. The $50 per plate affair produced a gross of $77,250, party officials said.

National Committeeman Donald Ross of Omaha tabbed the dinner as the largest political fund raising dinner in history in either party in the state.

There were some 1,250 persons on hand. Democrats are not expected to be idle either in the gathering of money category.

Traditionally it's been tough for the party out of power to get funds to take over government control again. It is expected that two battles will produce a lot of spending on both sides — governor and U. S. Senate — in the general election next November.

The Quiz solicits letters for publication from its readers on subjects of general interest. All letters must be signed. Readers can however, have letters appear under a nom. de plume. Unwanted letters will not be published under any circumstances. Keep letters short and to the point.

Schuyler Says "Thanks"

To the Editor of The Quiz Dear Sir: With some school missed due to weather and a busy schedule at the semester's end, this letter has been delayed considerably. However, I feel that even at this late date I must get a "thank you" message off.

We of Schuyler High School certainly appreciate the manner in which you at Ord took care of our basketball team when they came to your city January 8.

Our boys and coaches all report that they were treated royally when they were taken into Ord homes to spend the night. I doubt that our overnight trip to Ord and on to Broken Bow would have been possible had not your boys and coaches taken it upon themselves to put our team up for the night. Only by winning the game could our team have enjoyed their trip more.

I hope this letter finds its way not only to your desk but also to the hands of your coaches who will see that its message of appreciation is relayed to the members of your team and the parents who took care of our boys. We hope that we might be able to return this hospitality when your team visits Schuyler next year.

Paul C. Baker Principal, Schuyler, Nebr.

A little horse trading in the various headquarters and hotel rooms is now in order. After the first ballot, only slight advances will be made; a vice president; cabinet officers, diplomats and other high offices will be trading material; no good trader will really show his hand until things get hot. Usually after the 4th or 5th ballot, coats now come off, hot coffee and bourbon steps in to keep the traders awake; the people have their show between trading; telegrams by the hundreds arrive from the folks back home, but no attention is paid to all this unnecessary annoyance.

Finally, some how, a man is nominated; the bands play Happy Days are here again. Love and Harmony speeches are made. The national committee meets; the finance chairman is elected to bring in the do re mi.

Clarice's Comments:

Like Worms, Man, 'Til the Chicks Make the Scene

I don't know Lulu Minerva Schultz personally, but I have much admiration for her aptness with words. The following is one of her works published in a tiny magazine called, Success Unlimited. I wish I had said it! But — since it is all Lulu's — I'll share it with you.

"Men are the things women marry. Men have two hands, two feet and sometimes two women, but never more than one dollar or one idea at a time."

"Turkish cigarettes, they are all made of the same material, the only difference being that some are better disguised than others."

"Generally speaking, they may be divided into three classes — husbands, bachelors and widowers. A bachelor is an eligible man of good character, common sense, faith, hope and charity — mostly charity. It is a psychological marvel that a small, tender, soft, violet-scented thing like a woman should enjoy kissing a big awkward, stubble-muzzed, tobacco and bay-rum scented thing like a man."

"If you flatter a man, you frighten him to death; if you don't, you bore him to death. If you permit him to make love to you, he gets tired of you in the end; if you don't, he gets tired of you in the beginning. If you believe all he tells you, he thinks you are a fool; if you don't, he thinks you are a cynic and that you don't trust him."

"If you wear gay colors, rouge and startling hair, he hesitates to take you out; if you wear a little brown beret or tailored hat, he takes you out and stares all evening at a woman in gay colors, rouge and a startling hat."

"If you join him at his gaities and approve of his driving, he swears you are driving him to the devil. If you don't approve of imbibing and urge him to give up his frivolities, he vows you are snow and ice."

"If you are the clinging type, he doubts whether you have a brain; if you are modern, advanced, and an intelligent woman, he doubts whether you have a heart. If you are silly, he longs for intellect; if you are intellectual and brilliant, he longs for a playmate."

"MAN is just a worm in the dust. He comes along, wiggles around for awhile, and finally some chicken gets him."

Mr. and Mrs. Ed Jablonski and Mr. and Mrs. Frank Zulkoski were Sunday supper guests of Wanda Zulkoski. Other guests in the evening were Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Zulkoski.

She wore a red and white carnation corsage, a gift from a daughter, Mrs. Bernard Beck, who also presented her parents with two red and white carnation bouquets. School News

The Loup Valley Dramatics Festival will be held in Scotia, March 8th and the school is getting ready to participate. The school's lunch program received sad news last week. The school was informed that Federal appropriations were insufficient to continue the present lunch reimbursement of six cents for milk per type "A" meal and four cents per 1/2 pint in the extra milk program. Unless additional appropriations are made the per plate reimbursement will be cut by two (2) cents and the extra milk program (milk between meals) will be cut by 1/2 cent. At present the North Loup-Scotia Lunch program is barely holding its own financially. If this cut is made, there will need to be an increase in the price of lunches.
