Humphrey Holds Optimism, China Threat Worries Him

WASHINGTON (AP) — Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey returned from his Asian Pacific mission with growing optimism about prospects for peace in Vietnam, but at the same time, he expressed concern about the threat posed by Red China across Southeast Asia, plans for "racial reconstruction" in South America and throughout the Western Pacific region.

Humphrey convinced himself that the plans are generally sound. But the vice president is under no illusions that the execution of those plans will be unproblematic, particularly because of the military and political officials at various South Viet Nam is short on trained technicians and specialty knowledge on-the-job observations, and from hard to talk to Ky about curbing black marketing and currency which undermines public confidence in the Saigon government. Ky assured him he intended to act, and he did shortly after Humphrey left. Moving to other countries in the critical Asian area, Humphrey sought to plant the idea that these nations must work in harness in facing the common menace of Red China.

He held leaders in Bangkok, Vientiane, Karachi, New Delhi and elsewhere that they must

Civil War Threat Lessens in Syria

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — The threat of civil war in Syria lessened today after army units in the north reportedly declared themselves for the new military government.

Northern military leaders earlier had denounced Wednesday's pro-Damascus coup and threatened to fight to restore the government of Gen. Amin Hafez. But the threats never materialized.

Radio Damascus said today the rebel regiments, which dispersed Parliament and arrested leaders of the Baath Socialist party, now had the support of northern Syria military leaders including commanders of the Aleppo District, and the Air Force Academy.

Barthier the radio said the rebels also had the support of the National Guard and key units in central Syria and along the Israeli frontier.

The radio report of northern military support came this morning, one hour after a news broadcast that had omitted any mention of the northern units or counterrevolutionary activities.

Radio Aleppo, the mouthpiece of the counterrevolutionaries, said Wednesday for the counter-revolutionaries.

Johnsons Each Back Beautifying Projects

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Johnsons — President and wife — picked the same day to promote special beauty projects for the nation.

He sent a special message to Congress Wednesday urging passage of a clean rivers bill. She flew all the way to Denver to urge roadbuilders to make the nation's highways more beautiful.

In Denver, they shared lunch headlines in the newspapers. He was larger.

The president and his wife returned after midday, and she travels to talk over the day's efforts.

Mrs. Johnson had flown 3,000 miles for her 23-minute speech to the American Road Builders Association. She spent 45 minutes shaking hands with all 300 guests after a two-hour luncheon.

With all that, Mrs. Johnson still felt she hadn't put in enough time on beauty. So, she took a 23-mile drive into the snow-capped foothills of the Rockies and Lookout Mountain, scenic spots and landmarks near traffic jams.

She makes another trip tomorrow — to address a leadership conference at the University of Alabama at Tuscaloosa.

Youth Held For Murder In Mineola Hotel Fire

MINEOLOA, N.Y. (AP) — A 20-year-old youth was held for murder in the Mineola hotel fire which claimed one life.

Pulver said Chary George Jr., 20, a resident of the hotel, was charged with murder in the first degree during the commission of arson.

George came into the hotel about 11:30 a.m. Tuesday and stayed in room 104. He was discharged from his job as a machinist Tuesday, had lived at the hotel for four to six weeks.

The day before the fire he had been discharged by the manager, Frances Anderson, for his appearance and irregular hours.

George was held in the county jail for arraignment in First District Court in Mineola.

Korb fell asleep and woke up later as George was walking back into the lobby. About that time the hotel's fire alarm system went off and Korb sent him upstairs to remove the other residents.

The flames gained swiftly, sweeping through the 40-year-old wood and stucco hotel, but 26 of the 27 guests managed to escape.

One unidentified body was found later in the smoldering ruins of the three-story structure. Three persons jumped from windows and four others were treated for burns.

Manassas Hospital admitted three of the victims. Their conditions were described as satisfactory.

Hall Seeks Unity For Communists In United States

NEW YORK (AP) — An effort will be made to unite the Communist Party in the United States, says Gus Hall, the party's chief spokesman.

At a news conference Wednesday, Hall announced a "new predicted" that the Communist Party in this country, and said its first national convention since 1959 will be held in New York June 22-28.

Hall, 55, called for unity among left-wing elements and predicted that the Communist Party will become the "real alternative and third party in American politics."

He said the party was now a long-range program designed to achieve socialism by majority vote.

Hall announced that he had applied for a passport to make a "world tour of inspection" that would include trips to Cuba, North Viet Nam and Communist Africa, four times as much coal and twice as much electricity.

McNamara's Retirement Signals Michigan Fight

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — Sen. Patrick McNamara's decision to retire from the U.S. Senate opens the way for what could be a party-splitting battle for the Democratic nomination.

If Detroit Mayor Jerome P. Cavanagh and former six-term Gov. G. Mennen Williams both seek the nomination it could bring the most acrimonious Democratic split in Michigan since the 1900 gubernatorial primary.

McNamara, 71, announced in Washington Wednesday that he would not seek re-election this year.

Michigan's senior senator, hospitalized off and on in recent years, is expected to announce a long-range program designed to achieve socialism by majority vote.

South Windsor Main St. Zone Changed North of King St. Line

The planning and zoning commission has granted a zone change from R-2 rural to A-40 for all land in the Main St. area between the industrial and commercial zones on Rt. 5 and the Connecticut River on the north side of King St.

The zoning line comprises a line drawn perpendicular to Main St., along King St. out to the industrial zone on the east and the river on the west.

At a public hearing Feb. 15, the commission considered the zone change from the existing boundaries to the East Hartford town line. However, the commission decided not to extend the zone area that far.

The commission decided that the rural land south of the new boundary has a mixture of residential, commercial and farming uses and does not lend itself to the requirements of an A-40 zone.

It further stipulated that farming and agriculture uses are considered a permitted use in a residential zone.

A public hearing will be held March 15 to modify regulations concerning farming and agriculture uses and to clarify the regulations to allow farming and agriculture uses in residential zones without reference to ownership or date of adoption of regulations.

Nimitz Recalls Pearl Harbor Attack May Have Saved Lives

EXECUTIVE NOTE—Shortly before he died, Adm. Chester W. Nimitz gave a long interview to a radio newsman Fred Goetz in connection with a projected biography. The admiral stipulated that the material would not be used until after his death. This article, from a copyright story by the Navy, Chief, Register, and nearby our editor, presents the admiral's reminiscences of men and events of World War II.

Nimitz added:

"The Japanese strategy had not been an inflexible, dogmatic one. It was a strategy that might have struck at Pearl Harbor again and again. We had nothing to stop them. It could have reduced the island to the point that a Japanese invasion would have been entirely feasible."

"No, Pearl Harbor was not a disaster. It was a stroke of good fortune that a Japanese invasion would have been entirely feasible."

"I just answered a letter the other day from a mother who still hopes her son was able to reach some island, and has survived over the years. That, of course, is impossible. Every day I receive letters from mothers who hope their sons are still alive. I tell them that they are not."

Tiede in Viet Nam Much Courage Discovered Here

By TOM TIEDE

MERCONG DELTA, Viet Nam (NHA)—There is a courage displayed in time of war that is so unique in human experience that it defies the prescribed language and is definable only outside the dictionaries.

We call it "guts."

Everyone serving on this rolling finger of land has a portion of the asset, but a marvelous few subscribe to more than their share.

Jerry Levy, for example. He was a medic. Twenty-one years old, from Meriden, Conn. The Army gave him eight weeks of first-aid training before shuffling him off to this place . . . to save lives, not to take them.

He had wrapped up wounds of combat plastic.

Bunche Favors UN Membership For Red China

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—Dr. Ralph J. Bunche says he favored admission of the Communist Chinese to the United Nations.

He commented: "It is better, I think, to have them inside an organization than to have them outside on the outside with a veto, a virtual veto."

Bunche, U.N. undersecretary for special political affairs, spoke Wednesday night to about 700 students and teachers at the University of Miami. He made his remarks on Red China, in answer to questions.

"The United Nations cannot attempt to achieve peace without universal representation and this is why we have seen over the years a change in the role to admit Red China," Bunche declared.

In his speech, the 61-year-old Nobel Peace Prize-winner said that the United States wishes to bring the Vietnamese war to a honorable end.

"It seems nothing from the fighting other than a peaceable solution," Bunche said, adding that he thought everything should be done to check escalation of the war.

End Nearing For Boltoll

The wheels were put into motion today for the dissolution of the Boltoll Corp., bringing to an end the seven years' activities of the Manchester Country Club holding company.

The State Secretary of State's office has revealed the preliminary steps for dissolving the company, which was formed in 1959.

The action fulfills a vote, taken yesterday by the directors of Boltoll Corp.

The action also meets the conditions which the town board of directors has indicated it would consider in the granting of a new 25-year lease for the country club.

The directors, on Tuesday night, will conduct a public hearing on the company's application to grant the club a lease which would run until March 1, 1967.

They would also consider the first year's rent, which would be $24,000 for the remaining 25 years, and which would provide for town ownership of the buildings at the end of the 25-year period.

Taylor Resignation Surprise for Many

Town political leaders and officials have expressed surprise and shock at Republican Harlan Taylor's sudden resignation yesterday, from the board of directors.

rounding town charge for individual some change applications. At present, there is no charge for these in Manchester, although there is a $2 per charge for subdivision applications.

Costs of advertising the zoning change applications "are an out-of-pocket expense to the town, and the individuals who benefit from them should be prepared to pay for them," said Weiss.

Weiss questioned a $100 fee for equipment repair, and when Tansky was not quick enough to substitute a $200 fee, he chopped the request to $50, commenting that "every dollar is going to count (in the overall budget)."

Probate Court Judge John Walker's $200 budget, which was $73 less than last year's $278, found quick favor with the manager. The mayor item of $100 for office supplies. Walker's salary is paid from Probate Court fees.

Weiss Hears More Budgets

Continuing hearings on town departmental budgets yesterday afternoon, General Manager Robert Weiss scrutinized requests for 1966-67 of $25,000 for the Special Downtown Taxing District, $11,725 for the Town Planning Commission and Zoning Board of Appeals, and $2,025 for the Probate Court.

Weiss probed the justification for even slight rises in individual items with department heads, but in the end seemed satisfied generally with the budgets as presented.

In opening the afternoon yesterday meeting, he had announced his general policy would be to allow no more than a five per cent increase in departmental budgets, to keep them in line with the five per cent increase in the town's new tax rate.

Weiss told Bruce Waldman and Joseph Garman, representing the downtown merchants, he had no quarrel with their cost would be offset, for example, from last year's $24,400—"as long as you don't exceed your income."

The merchants had told Weiss the rise was necessitated mainly because of an increase in the cost of leasing the Purnell Parking Lot, which is privately owned, but that provision of the Home for the Elderly, Senior Citizens and retired residents performance. Werner Egl Work Heard In Premiere

The American premiere of a most significant German opera was given before a capacity audience in Millard Auditorium of the University of Hartford last evening. Werner Egl's setting of Beethoven's "Peer Gynt" was presented to enthusiastic response, by the opera department of Hartford College of Music.

Mr. Egl, one of Germany's outstanding conductors and composers of opera, provided a score of beauty and excellence, while the students, under the musical direction of Moshe Parvany and stage direction of Blomer Nagy, gave the score an excellent performance.

It was not the stupendous production that might be expected, but it was a thoroughly professional job, calculated to display the serious intent and genuine accomplishment of the students and faculty alike in the field of opera.

The composer, who had flown here from his home in Berlin, was thoroughly pleased with what he saw and heard. He was given a standing ovation by the audience at the close of the presentation.

Blomer Nagy, four performances this week, two casts will alternate in the production, making arrangements for the students to have evening quite impossible without neglecting the other set of performers. Indeed, the parts could scarcely be mentioned in any event.

Mr. Egl, who adapts his own libretto, managed to strengthen Beethoven's rather diffuse drama, by judicious pruning as well as adaptation of the famous Norwegian's ideas. Chief change was Egl's idea to make the trolls into "frightening embodiments of human fears" rather than the fairy-tale denizens of the original.

By giving them a credo, "Do whatever you please and the end is the same," the composer-librettist included the principal character, Peer Gynt, among the trolls, thus giving coherence to his work which is not encountered in the original.

The libretto having become virtually anarchistic instead of satirical, it was surprising that the music was not anarchistic, too. Written nearly 30 years ago, it was conservatively and by the standards of those days and last night seemed easy to assimilate by performers and audience alike.

This is no odd score in the manner of the "tabernacles" either is it a "classical" or a "modern" work. It is a carefully wrought and thoroughly well thought-out composition that deserves performance throughout the country. There are decisive scenes which will tell you the score is "dated" and obsolete. Musically, it may be less sophisticated than Strauss' "Elektra," which antedated "Peer Gynt" by decades, yet Egl's opera remains a very solid and rewarding example of the phenomenon of artistic endeavor which we know as opera.
