

I BELIEVE RIO IS THE FUNNEST CITY IN THE WORLD.

Ten years ago I put together a guide for my foreign friends from Chicago and Vienna to read before arriving in Rio, so they could have the best possible time, in case I were out travelling.

They loved it, so I published it. I have been updating and improving it ever since.

I hope this demo version helps convey all the thought and care that went into letting you know where and when to be at every moment of your trip.

If you like this demo, get the full version, it will be the best investment of your trip to Rio.

Sincerely,

Rio is split into 4 zones: the South Zone, the North Zone, the West Zone and the Downtown area (Centro). As far as general tourism is concerned, the only zone of interest is the South and the Downtown area.

North Zone

The North Zone is mostly poor neighborhoods, with very little appeal for tourists. With the exception of the Tijuca Forest, Maracana and the Salgueiro samba school rehearsals, no other visits are necessary.

West Zone

The West Zone includes everything after Barra da Tijuca (commonly referred to as Barra). Barra is a new middle-upper class neighborhood with tons of shopping areas and nightlife. It is, however, mostly modelled on the average American suburb, with large avenues, strip malls and ample parking. Unless you have never seen an American suburb in your life, we recommend limiting your visits here to Pepe Beach, Nuth dance club, Joatinga beach and Barra Shopping mall.

BARRA

SÃO CONRADO

CITY OF RIO AT A GLANCE

Downtown

From a tourist's point of view, the Downtown area is a zone of interest due to its historic and cultural buildings (museums, churches, colonial architecture etc.) Although very active during the day, the downtown area (with the exception of Lapa and a few happy hours), is shady at night.

South Zone

The South Zone is the richer and prettier part of the city, with dozens of hills and mountains, the lagoon (Lagoa) and marvelous beaches. It is also safer than other areas, but care must be taken in the slums covering its hills. It is in the south zone where most of your day tours and nightlife will take place, so this is the area where we most recommend staying.

10 Rio Commandments

1 DO STAY IN ZONA SUL

Trust us on this: most of your day and nightlife will revolve around the neighborhood of Ipanema. Try to stay as close to it as possible.

2 DON'T WALK AROUND WITH JEWELRY

Ladies and Gentlemen! This is not your turf, so no matter how much clout you have at home, it is not worth shit here. Necklaces, rings, expensive watches, bracelets etc. are not to be worn except when you are off to a swanky event or club. Otherwise, keep it down low.

3 DON'T ARGUE WITH COPS

The cops here are instructed to take action, as opposed to discussing who is right. It doesn't actually matter who is right, who stole what from whom, or if you didn't know she was under 18. If they want to arrest you for anything, let them, then call your consulate. If they want to fine you for something you did, usually for a driving offense, (a good reason not to drive), then it is up to your slickness to implore them not to give you a ticket.

4 GET CHANGE FOR A 50

The surest way to end up in hell is to walk around with a R$50

note thinking that the beer guy, bus or taxi will have change. Whenever at a restaurant, shop or bar, pay with the R$50. Five R$10 bills can be worth more than one R$50.

5 DON'T TRY TO DO CULTURAL STUFF IN BARRA

Even though Barra is a nice neighborhood it is, in summary, a taste of American life. We do, however, recommend Pepe beach and Nuth dance club.

6 DON'T STAY FAR AWAY BECAUSE IT IS CHEAPER

Okay, you have a Brazilian connection you met back home or on the Internet. He is the one who begged you to come, and you did. After arriving, you realize he lives in bumble fuck. What to do? Stay at his place and please him rather than enjoy the practicality of staying in Ipanema, as this guide suggests? Or should you tell him that you want to explore Rio by yourself during the day (while he works or goes to school) and that you two can hook up at night? Go for the second option. You will waste time and moolah on cabs traveling to and from his place.

7 DON'T TRY TO DRIVE

Don't rent a car and try to figure out Brazilian road signs. Ok, believe this: not even Cariocas (people from Rio) know how to get around this maze-like city. So unless you've got a very good reason, don't try to drive around. One wrong turn and you can end up in the slums, being fined by the cops, or stuck in rush hour traffic. Even if it seems more economical, stick to taxis.

8 DON'T TRY THE PEPPERS

I beg you! Your stomach is not used to the chemistry in Brazilian peppers. Even if you can handle them, your intestines are bound to react in an explosive way for days after, ruining your trip.

9 AVOID THE HILLS.

Most of Rio's slums are on the hills, so with the exception of Santa Teresa, Cosme Velho and Joatinga, hillsides should be avoided for your own safety. Only go on trails with a tour guide (see page 74).

10 DON'T ASSUME THE WEATHER WILL STAY NICE

The weather in Rio, as in most tropical cities, can change drastically within an hour. If it's sunny, don't waste your time doing indoor tours like museums or shopping.

Stuff Near Ipanema

The commercial zone is along Visconde de Pirajá Street. The "young" beach spot is within a block's radius of the #9 lifeguard station (Posto 9). Ipanema is extremely safe, day and night.

WHAT TO BRING

SUMMER CLOTHES

It is constantly hot and humid during the summer months, when you may not even want to wear a pair of pants, let alone a sweater at night. Ladies stick to shorts, skirts, summer dresses, tank tops (vests) and T-shirts. Men stick to sandals, Bermuda shorts and T-shirts.

WINTER CLOTHES

Winter (June to August) in Rio feels like mid-May in the northern part of the US and Europe, or like the beginning of April in the southern part of the US and Europe. Dress accordingly. During a cold night in mid winter, temperatures drop to 60F, 15C

EQUIPMENT

- Sunglasses
- Cheap watch
- Digital camera (the smallest possible)
- Disposable camera (for street events)
- Anti-diarrhea medication
- Sunscreen and after-sun
- Cap
- Travel-socket adapter

GSM MOBILE PHONE

A GSM ready cellular phone will help you stay connected with the world by using the roaming service from Brazilian carriers. If your phone has a built-in camera, even better: take and send pictures and videos to make all your friends instantly jealous. (To learn how to activate your phone in Brazil, see page 28)

BUDGET AND MONEY

Cheap spending (eating at the hostel, few restaurants, no hardcore clubbing, basic tours): US$75 a day.

Average spending (restaurants and street food, hostel or cheap hotel, most of the tours): US$130 a day

All-out good living (nice hotel, restaurants, all the tours, clubbing, shopping, massages etc): US$250 a day

You should bring half of your budget in cash and have the other half available on your credit card.

PETTY CASH

If you are in a group, instead of each person paying for his or her beer, taxi, entrance and other small stuff, why not choose someone to carry the petty cash. Each morning, each member chips in R$50 or R$100.

IDS AND CARDS

- Passport
- Student ID
- Driver's License
- Tourist Visa
- 2 Credit Cards (Visa & Mastercard) Call your card company and let them know you'll be travelling to South America, as they sometimes freeze your card on seeing irregular activity, till you call in to explain.

WHAT YOU DON'T NEED TO BRING

- Towel or swimming gear (you'll look silly, buy it in Rio instead)
- Snorkel or Hawaiian shirts
- Winter jacket
- Laptop
- Black socks

BEFORE FLYING TO BRAZIL

Call the closest Brazilian consulate and check with them about the required vaccines and visas. Check the listing of consulates worldwide at: www.brazil.org.uk

Joatinga Beach (pg. 36)

Emergencies

A visit to Rio is no trip to Disney World. It is a big city, with its fair share of problems. Should you get into an emergency situation, be sure to follow these procedures to get things back to normal.

ILL OR INJURED

Although Rio has some free medical assistance offered by the state, most 1st world visitors may not like the response time Brazilians have become accustomed to. Long waiting lines and lack of English speaking attendants may worsen your medical problem.

Luckily there is a clinic devoted to working with tourists 24 hours a day and in several languages (English, Spanish and French).

They have the necessary infrastructure or partnerships with other clinics to cure what ails you, from simple colds to minor surgery.

Should you need to, they can also visit you at your hotel. What's more, they work with most international health plans and traveler's insurance.

STOMACH ACHE

You ate the peppers, right? Or was it the street caipirinhas with the questionable ice? We bad mouth it so much, people get curious about them...oh well. What my buddy, who was travelling through India, used to do whenever he got the runs would be to mix a finger of vinegar with a finger of water and gulp it down. That would kill whatever was wreaking havoc in his stomach. He would later drink some yogurt to replace his intestinal flora. Soon he would drink a few coconut waters (agua de coco) to rehydrate. Has worked for him and others, but naturally this is something I can't recommend because I'm not a doctor...just a trick I heard.

RIP OFFS

Should you get tricked by any establishment in Rio, whether a tampered taxi, a restaurant waiter or a bait & switch shop, contact me. The only things that boil my blood are poor customer service and paying for dumb movies. I live for this and will try to use all my god-like-powers to put them in their place.

cris@rioformpartiers.com

Always remember to keep the Emergency Contacts Card (see back cover flap) in your pocket.

ROBBED

First say your prayers if you weren't physically assaulted or attacked. Second, hop over to the Tourist Police Station in Leblon (Av. Afranio de Melo 159 or tel: 3399-7170). They may not be able to recoup your belongings, but can issue a police report for insurance purposes and issue an alert to patrol cars to better serve that area.

ARRESTED

Were you a bad boy (or girl)? Or were you set up by "the man"? In either case, nothing like a slick lawyer to squeeze you out of trouble. To find the best one for your needs, contact your consulate (listed in the back cover).

LOST PASSPORT

Should you lose your passport (it shouldn't have left the hotel in the first place), be sure to contact your consulate, as they can produce a quick fix. Check the back cover for a list of local consulates and numbers.

MISSED FLIGHT

Overslept? Unless you are here during high season, you may be able to extend your stay for US$75 or so. Check the list at the back for the local offices of the major airlines.

Travel Health Tips

INSURANCE

The most common recommendation I hear from doctors that deal with foreign patients is that everyone travelling should have traveller's health insurance. This foresight helps you get attended at hospitals that may come up with excuses as to why they don't want to treat someone who is "promising" they will pay later.

YOUR PILLS

Take your special medication in sufficient quantities for slightly more than the length of your stay, should you get stranded in Rio due to a volcano in Europe or whatnot. Your medication may not exist here, or may have stricter control. If it is very strict or controversial medication, get your doctor's prescription translated to Portuguese, to avoid getting stuck in customs or by the police.

Make sure the medication has your name on it and bring it with your carry-on luggage.

EATING

Take it slow: even though it may all look beautiful and well made, different cultures have slightly different water, oils, climate and seasonings. When all these change at the same time, your body may not know how to adapt in time.

Seafood is great, but only go for it when you feel confident about its quality and freshness. When in doubt, ask to visit the kitchen (Brazilian law gives all customers this right).

COMMON MEDICINES

- Headache (Dor de cabeça) - Aspirin (aspirina)
- Hangover (Ressaca, Mal estar) - Hangover pill (Engov)
- Fever (Febre) - Paracetamol (Paracetamol)
- Nausea (Enjôo) - Dramamine (Dramin)
- Pain (Dor) - Dypirone (Dipirona) or Paracetamol
- Diarrhea (Diarréia) - Floratil (Floratil) - Imodium (Imosec)
- Cut (corte) - Band-Aid (Band-Aid)
- Sprain (Contusão) - Ice (Gelo)
- Bruises (Hematomas) - Heat pack / cold pack (Compressa água quente/ Compressa água fria)
- Vitamin C effervescent tablets (Cebion)

TIPS:

Wash your hands regularly.

Only drink bottled water.

Go easy on seasonings and street fried foods.

When it looks sketchy, stay away from fruit and vegetables and of course, mayo and cream.

Beware of vegetables if the town you are visiting is far from farm areas, like it's in the middle of a dense forest, desert or savannah.

During intense street festivals, opt for manufactured foods and drinks, as the street food might be as old as the festival and the sellers' storage procedures for such high demand may be too lax.

In situations where the food quality looks doubtful, like interstate bus-stations, opt for snacks from major brands like Nestle, Kraft and others. A safer bet may also be cakes, breads and the like, that don't involve meat.

VACCINES

Recommended for Brazil: hepatitis A and B, Tifoid, Yellow Fever, Rabies, Tetanus, Mumps.

Yellow fever is obligatory in Amazonas, Mato Grosso, Mato Grosso do Sul, Amapá, Pará, Roraima, Rondônia, Acre e Goiás.

Carry your health plan card with you at all times. After being treated keep the records and receipts for your refund process.

SAFETY TIPS

As a general rule, gringos are somewhat untouchable by drug-lord rules. Your chances of being kidnapped, held hostage, etc are a lot smaller than that of an upper class Brazilian. The small fish, such as young pickpockets and out-of-town criminals, take their chances.

Beware on empty streets just as much as at overly crowded events. The new trend in pick pocketing (some new Eastern-European techniques are now arriving in Brazil) is to create a situation in a crowd where your hands are distracted while they go for your pockets.

A good example is the Russian mustard trick, where they put mustard on your head in the subways. While you check to see what the heck is on your head, they go through your pockets.

Another common trick here in Brazil is the “fight breaks out” trick, when right in front of you there is a scuffle in the middle of a crowd. While everyone is being pushed away from the scuffle and while you are holding someone who is being pushed onto you, someone behind you (sometimes a woman) goes through your pockets.

Don't be a hero: if you are held at gun point, slowly pass over the money and leave it at that.

Get the hell out after any dangerous situation: if you manage to stop a pickpocket in his tracks, get out, as his partners may come after you.

Another very common technique is for the crook to rob you while on a bike. They can snatch your cellular phone, necklace or purse while passing by at high speeds.

If you are passing a shady character on an empty street at night, wave an eager “Hi! I'm over here!” to your imaginary friend who's a block away. This should throw a monkey wrench in his scheme at the last second.

Don't trust the cops' intelligence or integrity: if you get pick-pocketed, say “what the hell!” and go on with your tour instead of getting caught up in reporting incidents and other red tape.

Not only is that an exercise in futility, but it will eat up your time and mood. Like a friend of mine said after getting $200 pick-pocketed in the north of Brazil, “F*ck it! I consider it a small tourist tax” and went back to drinking. Not the best point of view as a long-term philosophy, but it worked fine for that week.

How to avoid being a target

As a general rule, you want to dress down. The grungy look will do you good. Since you are on vacation, you don't need to worry about your reputation. Here are some general rules to abide by to better guarantee your safety:

BASEBALL CAPS

Dead give-away.

HAIR CUT

Leave the “bed-head” hair style for the trendier clubs.

ACCENT

When in a crowd of dubious types, keep your talking to a minimum.

SHIRT

T-shirt instead of a Hawaiian shirt, also leave the Brazilian soccer team shirt for when you get back home.

MONEY & IDS

Don't bring too much or too little money, as they will shake you down till they get something. Don't carry a passport, nor all your credit cards or more than R$200. Bring one major CC and one form of ID: student or state ID or driver's license. Don't trust your pockets, keep them zipped or buttoned up.

CAMERA

Don't walk around thinking the strap will guarantee your camera's safety.

BERMUDAS SHORTS AND FLOOD PANTS

You can wear bermuda shorts, but wear the styles the Brazilian boys wear, not what's in style back home. Flood pants never caught on in Rio, so forget it.

SANDALS

Wear tennis shoes or flip-flops instead. And, Lord, no black socks!

Fashion Crimes in Rio

BLACK SOCKS WITH BERMUDAS AND SANDALS

You are not in France.

SAFARI HAT

Come on! Brazil has already been discovered! 512 years ago!

BACKPACK AT THE BEACH

What the heck have you got in there that is so important? Black socks? Go to the beach with your beach clothes and that's it. It's the beach experience, not an expedition.

LARGE WATERBOTTLE

There are juice stands and bars on every corner...do you really prefer your warm water over a freshly blended iced mango juice?

BEAN NECKLACES ON MEN

That's so 90s... and not yet retro. Wait 7 years.

Rio For Partiers

BRAZILIAN FLAG CANGA (SARONG)

Yup, muggers love it when you wear those, cause they can rob you, then indirectly sell the sarong back to you, how's that for irony?

THE LATEST ITALIAN FASHION

It hasn't caught on yet in Brazil, so it will just make you look scandalous.

CROCS

Unless you are under 8 years old, you'll just look silly. (Personal opinion)

PANTS WITHOUT BUTT-CRACK

Just not sexy...

FLIP-FLOPS AT NIGHT

Rio is not Club Med... put on shoes like everyone else, specially if you are going to restaurants or clubs.

TOWELS AT THE BEACH

The sun will dry you faster than the towel, so why bother?

MOTEL FLIP-FLOPS IN PUBLIC

The best way to look clueless. Leave them at the motel.

BRAZILIAN SOCCER TEAM SHIRT

Only during World Cup games.

ARGENTINIAN SOCCER TEAM SHIRT

Threat to your existence.

GETTING AROUND

Getting around Rio is easy: just get in a cab! 1 out of every 3 cars is a taxi (or so it seems). What's more: it's cheap. You can go from downtown to Ipanema for about R$30 (US$17). From Ipanema to Barra for about the same. The meters have 2 rates (bandeirras): "1" for daytime (6am to 9pm) and "2" for nighttime, weekends, holidays and the month of December. The "2" bandeira charges 20% more than the "1", so check. Just remember to ask the taxi driver if he knows how to get to where you want to go before you step in "voce sabe chegar no ...." "pronounced "vo-say sa-bee shay-gar no [insert place here]...". If he doesn't know, hand him your hotel card or take the next cab.

CAR RENTALS

Driving a rented car has become easier with the advent of the GPS. It does become helpful if you are planning on visiting the Off-Zona Sul attractions (see page 54), or if you plan on visiting Buzios, Petropolis or Paraty (cars are not allowed on Illa Grande) (see page 170).

SUBWAY

Check the Rio Big Map attached to the back of this book.

FRESCÃO

A safe and comfortable option if you are going to or from the downtown area is to take the "Frescão", an air conditioned passenger bus that serves the business commuters.

They go for R$7 and run more frequently during rush hours.

CHAUFFEUR SERVICE

The classy option is always a chauffeur service, available outside most 5 star hotels. Although their rates start at R$80 an hour, some chauffeur services are also accredited tour guides, making them an excellent alternative to guided group tours.

Marcelo Esteves
9984-7654 or marafes@terra.com.br

VANS

Another option, if you master a little Portuguese or even some Spanish, is to ride the vans on the beach routes. For R$6, you can go from Ipanema to Barra. Just signal a van that has the name of the neighborhood you are heading to, shuffle your way in and tell the driver when he should let you out. Of course, if you are in a group of 4, you are better off taking a cab.

BUSES

The other, less recommended, transportation method are the public buses. Although a lot cheaper, these take longer (up to 55 minutes from downtown to Ipanema, where a cab would take 20 minutes).

WHAT'S THE DEAL WITH?

EVERYTHING BEING SO GODDAMN PRICEY?

The dollar and euro are weak and the Brazilian Real is strong. Most of the world's wealthy are parking their money in Brazil, expecting the high interest rate local banks offer, while being somewhat unaware of the real rate of inflation. So, large influx multiplied by the difference in currency strength and you get a standard chesseburger costing US$20, just about everywhere. What's worse is that apartment prices have skyrocketed to Manhattan prices, to a point where US$500k won't buy you anything decent in Zona Sul and US$2500 won't rent you a 3 bedroom apt in Ipanema.

BEACH VENDORS?

Just like the street vendors, the beach vendors tend to offer more practical stuff like snacks, ice cream, beer or sunglasses. Forget the hammock guy.

Rio For Partiers

FLANELINHAS?

These are guys that watch your car for a few R$. You pay them R$2 and they don't kick your rear view mirror off; fair and square. Each one owns a block and is responsible for whatever happens to your car. Since that is where they will permanently work for a few years, should something go missing, you can find them the next day and open a can of whoop-ass.

RUNNING STOPLIGHTS AT AFTER MIDNIGHT?

For safety reasons, most people slow down at red lights, check for traffic, then speed up again, as stopping at a red light in the dark can be dangerous, due to car robbery.

STREET VENDORS EVERYWHERE?

Selling mostly stuff made in China, street vendors account for about 1/3 of Brazil's work force. This type of business is illegal but frequently overlooked, as most escape the regulating street cops.

DOG TV?

These are rotisserie chicken ovens, referred to as television for dogs. For around R$18 you can get diced chicken to go.

POOR PEOPLE IN RICH AREAS?

They come to nicer neighborhoods to beg from the rich (makes sense), but donation is not recommended unless they have an obvious condition. Many of them are in a condition to work but choose to beg. Don't give them anything, as this doesn't help anybody. If you want to help, check page 76 on how to give back.

RECKLESS DRIVING?

Since most Brazilians bought their license, or forgot most of the rules and regulations, everyone drives like its Super Nintendo.

LACK OF TRIBES?

Where are the punks? The nerds? The hippies? The heroin addicts? The emos? The rastas? Rio doesn't have visible factions of any of the above. It is mostly preppies, jiu-jitsu fighters (pit bulls), artsy-fartsy (neo-hippies) and normal people. You can find more tribes in São Paulo.

SHANTY TOWNS ON THE HILLS EVERYWHERE?

Why do the poor have the views, while the rich are locked down to the flat areas? A law from when Brazil was still a colony is still in use, prohibits anyone from building on the hillsides, allowing Cariocas to have a green view from wherever they live. In the last 40 years, the hills have been overtaken by the poor however, and the government has had little luck in stopping them.

THOSE MINI

"WASHINGTON MEMORIAL MONUMENTS" IN THE MIDDLE OF THE SIDE WALK.

Those are placed by the city to prevent pig-parkers from parking on the sidewalk.

EXCESSIVE WAITERS?

Given that the minimum wage is R$670 (US$320 per month), most businesses can afford a large staff to improve service. Unfortunately, most of this staff is under-trained, which lowers the quality.

HOT WOMEN BY THE SIDE OF THE ROAD?

These tall, hot prostitutes are state-of-the-art transvestites or transsexuals. Don't fall in love.

YOUNG PEOPLE HANGING OUT IN GAS STATIONS?

Gas stations have become a gathering place for different groups to hang around, blast music and sip beer, probably because they are one of the few convenience stores open late at night.

THE LACK OF LUXURY CARS?

Brazilians get hit with 120% tariff on imported cars, so a BMW325e goes for about US$80K.

WHAT'S THE DEAL WITH CONSUMING BEER ANYWHERE?

I know, isn't it great?

Relax: Ipanema

The first thing anyone arriving in Rio should do is sit on Ipanema beach for at least a few hours. But of course, you can't just "go" to the beach - there is a ritual to follow. Estimated Total Time (T): 8h Estimated Total Cost (C): R$ 130 Best on: Sunny Weekday

1 BEACH GEAR

First, buy yourself some fashion conscious swimming gear, as Brazilian beach fashion is different from other countries: swimming trunks are wide on the side and bikinis are medium-small triangles with horizontal straps.

2 BREAKFAST

Go for a juice and "pastel" (see page 161) at any of the juice bars on Visconde de Pirajá street.

Rio For Partiers

3 IPANEMA BEACH

You can now go to the beach. If you want the hip young spot, look for "Celebridade" tent by the big tall coconut tree between Joana Angelica Street and Maria Quiteria. If you want to eat good food and drink world-

Mate tea w/ lemonade: A must rocking caipirinhas, opt for Uruguai's tent just to the left of the Posto 9 life-guard post. Tell the beach tent vendor you are a Rio For Partiers reader and you would like special treatment. He will find a chair for you upon request (R$4). Plunk down and let the view sink in.

Ipanema girls

Don't order a beer just yet. Butt-watch instead.

You are in one of the world's most blessed cities and you are on vacation. Now you can order a beer. Ask for a beer holder (isopor) as the heat can warm up your beer before you get half way through it.

You can try most of the stuff the beach vendors have to offer, with the exception of the shrimp, which tends to go bad under the sun.

If you want to try something different, go to the "Uruguai" beach tent. He makes probably the best chicken sandwiches in Rio, using his own "chimi-churi" sauce. Don't add the peppers though.

4 After the beach, wash off the sand at the lifeguard station and head over to A Benkei (sushi), B Garota de Ipanema (steak and fries), C Delírio Tropical (salads) or D Big Nectar (sandwiches) for a late lunch.

5 EMAIL

Walk across to Visconde and check your email at the closest internet cafe. Be sure to visit the updates section of our site: www.rioforpartiers.com/updates.html

WINDOW SHOP VISCONDE

Check out the shops along Visconde de Pirajá, walking counter-traffic till sundown. Cut through to the beach and hopefully catch the sunset in Ipanema, drink in hand. Head back to the hotel for a late siesta.

Relax: Joatinga & Barra Beaches

Joatinga is one of Rio's most charming yet hidden, beaches. It is only visited by locals during weekends, or weekdays in January, when surfers are on school vacation.

Estimated Total Time (T): 7h Estimated Total Cost (C): R$ 120 Best on: Sunny Weekend

1 BREAKFAST

A suco de mamão (papaya juice) with a kibe (Arabic beef snack) or misto quente (toasted ham & cheese sandwich) at your closest juice bar.

2 JOATINGA

Hop into a cab and ask for Joatinga. Although the cab fare may be expensive (Ipanema to Joatinga=R$29), it will make sense once you check out the view from up above.

Walk down the precarious path to the beach. There are one or two beach tents to offer you chairs and drinks. They charge more than others because of the remote location. Shadows are cast early, due to the stone walls around Joatinga, so once that happens (usually around 3pm), get back up and call a taxi from the nearest phone booth, or ask a Brazilian with a cellular phone to dial 2434-0553 and call a cab for you.

3 PEPE BEACH

Take the cab to Praia do Pepe in Barra. Once there, sit on the sand and for the next few hours check out the hard-bodied people around you.

WILD BEACHES

If you also want to visit other famous, distant blue water beaches, like Grumari, Prainha and Guaratiba, we suggest you get a guided tour. Jungle Me offers a hike to deserted beaches, and saves you money on taxis.

Relax: Soccer Game

Wimbledon to tennis, Madison Square Garden to basketball, Maracanã to soccer. An extremely exciting experience. Estimated Total Time (T): 4h Estimated Total Cost (C): R$ 60 Best on: Sundays

Maracanã, formerly the world's largest stadium, is officially capable of holding 120,000 people, yet it has seen over 150,000 at some popular soccer finals.

SOCCER GAME

As soon as you get to Rio, ask around to see if there is a game going on and if it will be good: meaning big teams or championship finals. This will be an experience like you've never had.

BREAKFAST

First you will need a strong breakfast to line your stomach. It shouldn't be beer, as you'll be pounding them in the next 30 minutes.

TAILGATING

After the good boys from Brazil Expedition pick you up from your hotel, you'll be taken to outside the stadium where you should get yourself a T-shirt of the team you will be rooting for (Flamengo, Botafogo, Fluminense and Vasco are the better ones from Rio). Try the food from the vendors, even the filet-meow. (meat kebab possibly made from street cats...) The air is charged, as enthusiasm and hope are conjured on both sides.

MARACANÃ

Once inside, you'll experience Rio at its most religious: 100K+ people independently stopping to wholeheartedly pray for their teams. Moments after "Amen", you'll be playing "Simon Says" for the next two hours: a little guy acting like a maestro sitting all the way down there will be showing 10,000 fans what to do, sing and shout. This is called an "organized fanclub" since that faction of fans all have their chants, stadium-sized flags and sneaked-in fireworks. The most common chants involve the "judge's ass" or "mother". Once a goal is scored everyone has an orgasm and the chants get re-energized. If you see the beer vendor, get 2 at once as they are scarce. After the game, stick together to go home.

Note: Maracanã is undergoing remodelling, and won't be ready before 2014. All games are being played in other stadiums around Rio.

Hang Gliding & Paragliding

Hang-gliding and paragliding are by far our highest recommendations, as Rio is one of the few tropical cities in the world where you can fly over the city and land on a beach.

A tandem flight is an instructional flight, where you can get a taste for the sport without needing any previous experience. On this course, each person gets a personal trainer, grade A equipment and service within an hour.

Regardless of the weather, you should call as soon as you arrive in Rio to ask to be on standby and request for more information about the climate conditions. There are various factors that determine whether you can fly and this analysis is included in the service. Don't book your your flight for the last day of your trip in Rio, if weather conditions don't allow, you may end up losing out on the chance to fly over the Marvelous City.

To learn more about the sport, contact RioCharm Tours, who work solely with professional instructors and have safety in mind first and foremost, a huge differential.

Rock Climbing

Rio is the largest urban rock climbing center in Latin America.

There are many mountains and hills to climb, specially the two most famous postcards of Rio: Sugar Loaf and Corcovado mountain.

Rock climbing tours are available to everyone moderately fit, even if you've never climbed before.

The safety harnesses, ropes and helmets help guarantee you go back home in one piece. What's more, imagine how cool it would be to make a poster from a picture of you climbing up to the Christ the Redeemer Statue, with the rest of Rio in the background!

Ocean Kayaking

Ocean kayaking is one of the best ways to explore Rio's beautiful coast and enjoy unique views of the city and its forested mountains.

You'll start your trip at Praia Vermelha, where Sugar Loaf Mountain is located and paddle for one hour to the Cotunduba Island, a few miles off-shore. There you'll stop for snacks, swimming and snorkeling, appreciating the beauty of Rio from a totally different viewpoint. Back at the beach you can shower and change at the Kayak Base. No previous experience is required. Snorkeling equipment, hotel pick-up and drop-off are all included.

Tijuca Peaks and Waterfall Hiking

TIJUCA PEAK

This dramatic mountain is a well-known Rio landmark and also an under-explored tourist attraction. Why not try the unique experience of reaching the summit on your own two feet?

Discover the nature and history of the park, its amazing scenery, experience nature and adventure as you hike through peaks and waterfalls with landscapes not featured in classic tours. Understand the history of Brazil and learn all about the coffee farms that used to exist there, in its golden years before reforestation started in XIX century.

The Jungle Me hike is designed for us, the regular people, who workout when guilt mounts up, so the hike is relatively light, picturesque, educational and entertaining. The guide knows how to make a walk in the woods very interesting, going over the history of Brazil and how that pertains to this urban forest (one of the largest in the world). He will drive you up halfway up the Tijuca mountain, to where the hike will start, then you'll hike for 2 hours till you get to the peak. You'll stop for lunch, which you brought in your backpack, then head to the waterfall down below, for a revitalizing shower (bring swimming gear) before heading back home.

Cultural: Downtown

Although Rio has a lot of history and cultural attractions, we have narrowed down our recommendations to include only the essentials, doable in a 2 day tour of the center. Est.Total Time (T): 5h per day Estimated Total Cost (C): starts at R$ 100 Best on: Cloudy/Rainy Day

As far as museums, churches and historic areas go, our recommendations are to spend a day or two visiting as many of the following as quickly as possible (1 hour visits):

Day 1

1 MUSEU DE ARTE MODERNA

MODERNA

The Modern Art Museum is in itself a work of modern art by one of Brazil's great architects Eduardo Affonso Reidy, also responsible for the Flamengo park project (together with Burlle Marx) and the Catedral (Cathedral).

2 MOSTEIRO DE SÃO BENTO

BENTO

Rio For Partiers

The Monastery of Saint Benedict boasts one of the most elaborate baroque style churches in Latin America, with tons of gold work.

LUNCH

Esch Cafe: Rua do Rosario 107

Delirio Tropical: Rua Assembleia 36

3 CENTRO CULTURAL BANCO DO BRASIL

BANCO DO BRASIL

The Bank of Brazil Cultural Center hosts different technological, art and cinema events throughout the year.

4 PAÇO IMPERIAL

The Imperial Palace, now transformed into an art museum.

Day 2

5 ESCADARIA SELARÓN

The 80 meter Selaron stairs are composed of tiles from all over the world and a true work of art. Over the past 20 years the Chilean-born creator Selaron painted different cartoons on ceramic tiles, the most famous being the pregnant favela women (see page 72).

6 CATEDRAL

The City Cathedral is another one of Reidy's works. Although unattractive from the outside, inside it has very powerful lighting and acoustics.

7 BIBLIOTECA NACIONAL

One of the largest libraries in the world, the National Library stores over 4 million works.

8 TEATRO MUNICIPAL

Inspired by the Paris Opera, with the outside walls inscribed with the names of some of Brazil's most famous artists, the eclectic style Municipal Theatre has recently been restored to its former beauty and shit.

GUIDED TOURS

You can't really "wing" a cultural tour anywhere, and Rio is no different. You visit and see it all, but where's the context, background, significance and anecdotes? We recommend:

Cultural: Tour of a Favela

One of the most unforgettable tours you will ever take! The tour through a Rio de Janeiro favela shows how many lower class Cariocas happily live in minimal, yet organized conditions. A must for everyone.

Touring a Favela is obligatory if you want a better understanding of Brazilian society. The tour is very safe and not voyeuristic at all. There are different operators proposing different types of tours in favelas and they are not all the same: some offer a closer and deeper analysis of the social aspects involved.

Most tours introduce you to Rocinha, the biggest favela in Brazil, next to the affluent area of São Conrado. Most are three-hour tours, partly walking and partly driving through these two communities. You'll get the chance to visit the commercial area and the handicraft center in Rocinha and the local school in Vila Canoas, as well as taking in some impressive views over the city.

The tour changes the reputation of favelas, all too often related to violence and poverty. Don't worry, you are very welcome there and your presence is important to help them finance local schools. If you want a better understanding of Brazil, don't leave Rio missing this unique experience.

As a great primer, rent "City of God" (Cidade de Deus), and Elite Squad (Tropa de Elite) and the sequel, chilling movies around the control by the drug lords in the favelas in the past. But don't be misled as it has changed drastically: Most favelas have now been pacified by the mayor's new plan to re-integrate them.

SÃO CONRADO BEACH

The hang-gliding landing area on Sao Conrado beach where the hang gliders land after they take off from Pedra Bonita.

TIJUCA NATIONAL PARK

From there, the mini-bus will take you to the Tijuca National Park for a glimpse of this famous Atlantic rainforest.

CHRIST STATUE

From the forest you will take the bus and arrive at the Christ The Redeemer Statue. The biggest wow factor of the day.

SELARON STAIRS

Lastly a visit to the Selaron stairs (see page 79) where Snoop

Dogg shot his famous video "Beautiful". To finish your day, why not opt to be dropped off at Sugarloaf mountain (ticket not included) in time for sunset.

What to do in Rio when it's Raining

FRUIT TASTING SESSIONS

South America is the origin of the biggest variety of fruits in the world. Coconut, passion fruit, avocado, pineapple, cocoa, açaí, custard apple, star fruit, guava, cashew to name but a few... There are literally hundreds of them and dozens are part of everyday Brazilian life, specially in or near the Amazon or the Cerrado.

This fruit tasting session introduces you to over a dozen of these exotic fruits. You can cut open, smell, taste and drink them, whether as fruit, juice, ice cream or jam. The presenter will talk about their nutritional value, culinary uses and economic importance.

Each session lasts 1 hour and the cost of R$60 per person includes everything you'll be tasting.

BRAZILIAN FUNK

Nothing like American funk, Brazilian Funk is the biggest musical revolution that Brazil has seen in the last 35 years. All the others get dwarfed by the advancements in it's empowering ability. Up until this you would have to have a voice, a band, a producer, a label, a marketing plan etc, etc to become famous and heard. Now the marginally oppressed, poor and vocally limited all have a chance to make a social commentary on any topic, exposing their new reality. Isn't that what art is about? Showing us what we somehow don't see? So mix simple electric piano loops with dirty lyrics and what do you get? Wild fire. Girls love dancing to it, guys love singing the naughty lyrics and parents hate it. In other words, just the way teenage music should be.

One of the most famous songs is "The p***y is mine and I give it to who I want" which became a war-cry for new-age feminists.

YEARLY EVENTS

JANUARY

VACATION MONTH

January is vacation month for schools and government offices, so everyone is partying it up day and night. Most of the upper class won't be in Rio this month, but can be found in Buzios, Ilha Grande and Paraty, as well as other parts of Brazil. The samba club rehearsals are heating up, so attend as many as you can.

20TH OF JANUARY

Saint Sebastian Day: Only in Rio

CARNIVAL SCHEDULE

To get the most up-to-date info on the carnival parties, visit our site at www.rioforpartiers.com/samba.html

FEBRUARY

CARNIVAL

Carnival is also the largest party of the year here: 190 million people partying for a week. If you are here during carnival, be sure to get tickets for the Samba school parade held at the Sambodromo, or wait till the Saturday after carnival and watch the top 5 winning schools parade for the second time (Desfile das Campeãs). See page 106 for more info.

MARCH

CELL-PHONE COMPANIES' MUSIC FESTIVALS

Different international brands have been sponsoring music events bringing huge international bands to perform.

BRAZILWIDE

Carnaporto- off-season 6 day music fest/street party in Porto Seguro – BA

APRIL

PASCOA-EASTER

Easter is a big event in Brazil, as this is a 90% catholic country. A national holiday occurs on Good Friday, so people tend to take the whole week off. Everyone goes somewhere, so if you are in Rio, it is a fun time to visit Buzios, Paraty or Ilha Grande.

21ST OF APRIL

Tiradentes Day (Independence hero)

23RD OF APRIL

Saint George's Day (Only in Rio)

SKOL BEATS

A music festival sponsored by Skol, the beer brand. Lots of national and international DJs playing dance music.

MAY

1º DE MAIO- LABOR DAY

May 1st is Brazil's Labor Day, when no one works. Some larger parties and concerts may be sponsored by clubs or rave-promoting companies.

PETRÔ-FANTASY

Just like Terefantasy: a costume party 1 hour outside Rio. Mostly frequented by Rio's college students. Beautiful venue, music and shows.

JUNE

Festa Junina

Festa Junina is a hick fest. Everyone dresses like hill-billies and goes square dancing, Brazilian style of course. Usually these events are held between large groups of friends (100 or more), but some are run by party promotion companies. Worth a visit. Ask your concierge for the public ones sprinkled throughout the city.

CORPUS CHRISTI

Shifting in June.

BRAZILWIDE

LEAVE RIO DURING NATIONAL HOLIDAYS

When planning your trip, watch out for national holidays, checking to see if they land close to a weekend. If so, be sure to make reservations to check out Buzios, Paraty, Ilha Grande or Petropolis, as Rio's elite flock to these places, making it much more fun than during off-season.

TO GET MORE INFO ON THE ABOVE:

To find out when the next one is on, check for flyers outside clubs like Six or Casa da Matriz. Also, check the "A2" adult store in Ipanema, as they tend to carry most of the flyers for the weekly parties and events.

You should also get the Friday edition of O Globo newspaper with the "Rio Show" insert magazine or ask your concierge to find out what is going on as far as one-off events, shows and festivals.

CASA ROSA- SAMBA DA ALICE

Hidden in Laranjeiras neighborhood, Casa Rosa, an ex-bordel, is the most fun place in this part of the city. It is a large house modified into a party club, with rooms, garden, pool tables and lots of places for you to be naughty. On Sundays, they have the samba and pagode circles, where different bands will perform while more down-to-earth visitors will crowd around and sing along. A very different and relaxed atmosphere. # GAY

RIO

 by Guy Halliday

Welcome to Rio, recently voted the most popular gay destination in the world! Apart from the stunning beaches and incredible landscapes, there's far more to catch the eye, starting with the Cariocas themselves - an exotic mix of sensual, passionate and mostly gay-friendly folk who love nothing more than a party.

Being Brazil's main tourist city, you won't just meet locals and foreigners - there's a constant stream of Brazilians on holiday from all over the country and being on holiday means that most are in an adventurous party mood.

GAY RIO BY DAY

The focal point is the gay beach in Ipanema, just in front of Rua Farme de Amoedo, perhaps the gayest street in Rio. Don't worry if you can't speak Portuguese, body-language is universal.

On weekends the beach in front of Copacabana Palace attracts a mature as well as a bear crowd.

There is more to Rio than just beaches, however. There are top attractions like Sugar Loaf Mountain, the Christ statue and the Botanical Gardens and if you're a culture vulture then Rio, as former capital and current hot spot, offers lots of history, architecture and GLBT cultural events, like a film festival, theatre and many fascinating museums.

GAY NIGHT

If it's parties you're after, then you're in for a treat. Every night you can club and party, the only problem is choice. Occasional Circuit Parties such as B.I.T.C.H, R:Evolution, the Original Pool Party and Maxima are all spectacular (get the flyers on the beach) and events like Carnival, Pride and New Year's Eve all attract many dancing queens.

SUNDAY

If it's sunny, it's a beach day. After, where better than Rio G Spa to wash the sand out of those tricky places. Just across from the gay beach in Ipanema, this is by far the most popular Sunday post-praia meeting place. You just might bump into the very person you've been admiring all day at the beach. But don't linger for too long, as everyone else has gone for a drink at To Nem Ai on Farme. You can't miss it, it's where the gay crowd bursts out onto the street. You might like to dine later at 00 (Zero Zero) in Gávea - the chiquest club with the hippest crowd. If you want something beefier, the go-gos at

Le Boy may be your thing.

MONDAY

A quieter evening in town and a chance to recover from the excesses of the weekend. Fancy a coffee and boy-watching? Head for Cafeina on Farme. For the girls, La Girl is open with a line-up of DJs. Le Boy also opens a smaller part of the club on Mondays.

TUESDAY

Having had a relatively chilled out Monday you are ready to party. One choice is to hang out around Posto 6 bars (Copacabana) and then move on to Le Boy's Strip Night. Here you can dance all night to the latest tunes and watch a show of Rio's best strippers.

WEDNESDAY & THURSDAY

Great days to hang out in Ipanema. Around midnight, leave Farme and walk one block away to Teixeira de Melo, to Galeria. Whether outside or inside, there's always a friendly crowd and tonight it's POParty with VJ LC Ambient. Alternatively, you could try Dama de Ferro for excellent house and alternative tunes. If you prefer Copacabana, try the TV Bar followed by Fosfobox.

STEAKHOUSE

Churrascaria Palace

The legendary Churrascaria Palace was one of the bossa-nova artists' hang-outs in the 50's. Today it is considered the steakhouse in Rio with the best cost/benefit ratio. Their specialty is picanha, cupim (hump) and lamb ribs. Ask the maitre D' to serve you "tuti", the softest, most succulent part of the rib. Also ask for "picanha borboleta" and the Amazonian fish steaks. They also offer calamari, shrimp, sushi, oysters and salmon, as well as scores of side dishes, anti-pasti and salads. (R$78 for all you care to eat)

Sobrenatural

You have got to check out Santa Teresa during the day and at night. You just have to. And the highest recommendation we can think of for a decently priced, superb meal is Sobrenatural, which has some of the freshest fish in Rio. Go on a Monday, Wednesday or Friday, when they have live Samba and Chorinho music by renowned local artists. As for food: consider their beer battered shrimp as an appetizer, followed by fish or shrimp moqueca (from Bahia, a must) or coconut surubin fish with brazil-nut rice and plantains. Afterwards, bar hop the neighboring spots. (entrees from R$40 to R$80 pp)

Brasileirinho Copacabana

SPECIAL DEAL FOR OUR READERS CHECK FRONT FLAP

The two regions in Brazil that have their own, authentic and traditional cuisine are Minas Gerais and Bahia. The other regions have a limited number of recipes or are heavily influenced by foreign food, such as the German recipes in the south of Brazil. Brasileirinho in Copa is the deluxe version of the Brasileirinho in Ipanema, and their focus is on Bahian and Mineiran food. What to order: the moqueca, the bobo de camarão (cassava stew with prawns), tutu a mineira (the best bet here, refried black beans with pork chops and kale). The view, by itself, is worth the visit! (entrees from R$30 to R$60)

JAPANESE

Sushi Leblon

Japanese food is huge in Rio and Sushi Leblon has been a runaway success for 20 years. Unless you show up before 8pm, you'll have to wait in line however, and no, tables don't free up at midnight... the place boils till 2am! Their success stems from their innovations in sushi and Japanese dishes as well as from their hip Leblon address. Note: it is customary for Japanese restaurants in Brazil to over fill your sake box, as a sign of generosity. Be sure to try the strawberry caipisake, to get the night started.

FEIJOADA

Casa da Feijoada

Casa da Feijoada's specialty is probably the most typical dish from Brazil: a black bean stew with hearty sausages and sun-dried beef, served with rice, collard greens, cassava (manioc) flour and orange slices. This may slow you down on the dance floor. A "must" experience. Feijoada with caipirinha go together like Starsky & Hutch, sticks & clutch. Ask for a caipirinha made with their oak-barrel aged "Vendaval" brand cachaça. (R$79 for all you care to eat feijoada)

Azul Marinho

There are two dishes in this restaurant that make it worth coming back: the first is the "pargo" fish in a rock salt mount, served with rice or potatoes. The rock salt is not used to season, but to cook the fish at an even temperature, allowing the meat to end up white, soft, moist and flaky, as opposed to dark, dry on the sides and under-cooked in the middle. Pargo no sal grosso is the name. The second is the Bahian Shrimp Moqueca, a shrimp-coconut milk stew to die for. Worth checking out day and night, as it's outdoor tables overlook Ipanema and Leblon beaches. # FRUITS AND JUICES

The fastest way to try all the various fruits is to participate in Fruit Brazil's fruit tasting session page 80. Alternatively, any of the juice bars have most of these and others in juice form.

MANGA –MANGO

Considered by many the one fruit they would take with them to a desert island. Sweet and creamy. Vitamin A and C.

MARACUJÁ- PASSION FRUIT

Slightly bitter to a point that it makes your cheeks pucker, but very refreshing. Rich in complex B vitamins, iron and has natural soothing properties.

CAJÚ- CASHEW

Sweet and refreshing with a very distinctive taste and dominating smell. Rich in vitamin A, C and complex B.

GOIABA- GUAVA

Thick, sweet and smooth, just like me. Vitamin A, C, complex B and other minerals. Not recommended for those with digestive problems.

CANA-SUGAR CANE

The sweetest of all things on God's green earth. Always squeezed on the spot for best flavor.

ABACATE - AVOCADO

Thick and creamy it has the largest number of nutrients and vitamins. Great for breakfast.

MAMÃO - PAPAYA

Just as healthy as avocado, papaya is great for your intestinal works. Vitamin A and C, a natural laxative and stress reliever. Try it as a "vitamina", a smoothie.

ACEROLA

The king of vitamin C (each has more Vit. C than 40 lemons), acerola juice is refreshing and slightly citric.

AÇAÍ

Blended together with guarana, acai shakes (or very thick smoothies) should be consumed with a spoon and optionally a side of granola for sprinkling. Very caloric yet rich in proteins, fiber, vitamin E, minerals and is a natural cholesterol controller.

COCO - COCONUT WATER

The best thing when you are dehydrating under the sun. Drink 2 to cure your hangover. Rich in minerals, potassium and sodium.

GUARANÁ

Sold normally in concentrate juice form (refresco), guaraná could be considered a distant cousin of root beer, but, like every juice in Brazil, a lot sweeter. A stimulant and digestive. And dig this: clinically proven to enhance sexual performance.

PITANGA

Healthy fruit with citric yet milky taste. Rich in calcium, iron and phosphorus. A natural stimulant and anti-diarrheal.

FRUTA DO CONDE - CUSTARD APPLE

Ugly on the outside (looks like a grenade), sweet on the inside. Talk about philosophical dualities! Very milky juice. Vitamin C and complex B.

JABUTICABA

A distant cousin of the grape, yet sweeter and thicker. Great in fruit form, specially when frozen. Bite, spit the seed and skin out. Rich in complex B vitamins.

AMORA

Dark South American blackberry. A highly effective cholesterol reducer.

CARAMBOLA - STARFRUIT

Star shaped football with a juicy, citric zing to it. Great in fruit or juice form.

MATE

Slightly caffeinated herb used to make iced tea, with a deep rich flavor.

CAMÚ-CAMÚ

Great name, but that's it. Terrible. dirt-like taste. Good for practical jokes. Rich in vit C.

GREAT DESTINATIONS CLOSE TO RIO

There are two ways to extend your vacation in Brazil. One way is to visit the neighboring tourist spots in the state of Rio; the other is to take a plane or bus to other popular tourist destinations. If you intend on coming back on future trips to different parts of Brazil, we highly recommend staying in the state of Rio. It offers a little of everything Brazil is known for, namely parties, beaches, jungle and colonial history. All these spots take under 3 hours to get to, by bus or car.

If you are staying longer than 7 days in Rio, we highly recommend checking out these neighboring areas, as they each offer things that Rio doesn't: Búzios is a party town with great beaches, the Petropolis area is great for mountainous sports, Ilha Grande has the best eco-tourism in the state and Paraty is knee-deep in culture, history and charm.

Paraty 👍👍👍👍
Historic town with beautiful beaches

Ilha Grande 👍👍👍👍

Petropolis & Itaipava 👍👍👍

BÚZIOS

Búzios is a claw shaped peninsula, with about 27 beaches, making it the St. Tropez of South America, with all the snobbery. Between December and March you can find the trendy 30 somethings there, as well as the young crowd, mostly partiers and surfers.

It has a complete tourist infrastructure that allows you to stay a week without getting bored.

Reservations are recommended for the week around Xmas, New Year and Carnival. Otherwise, finding a place to stay won't be hard, as it accommodates thousands of people during high season. Look for a pousada at Geribá (the coolest beach and where you will be spending your daytime) or downtown, close to "Rua das Pedras" (Centro) where you will be spending your evenings. Other areas will be too out of the way and not worth the savings.

To get to Búzios, take the 1001 bus from Novo Rio Bus Station, which takes 3 hours. Alternatively you can hire a car service for speed and comfort. Once there, you can rent a dune buggy or a car. Other good dates to go are during national holidays, should they land on a weekday, as everyone in Rio takes a sick day and makes it a 4-day weekend. Check: www.buziosonline.com.br

ACTIVITIES:

Surf lessons and body board rentals (Geribá), wind surfing (Manguinhos), wake boarding (Ferradura Beach), jet skiing (Centro Beach)

NIGHTLIFE:

Different clubs and bars along Rua das Pedras.

QUICK DECISION MAKER:

Main activities: Partying, dancing, beach, eating, surfing, windsurfing, jetskiing, snorkelling, etc.

Who usually goes: Singles, couples, groups

When to go: All year round on weekends, all week December to March. How long to stay: 3 to 10 days.

HOW TO GET THERE:

Rent a car from Localiza, type in the GPS "Buzios" and follow the directions. There will be 2 or 3 tolls on the way, so bring cash. Drive time from Rio: 3 hours.
