Our Town:

In our town are the industries, services, churches and schools needed to make our area productive and resourceful for all that live here in every walk of life.

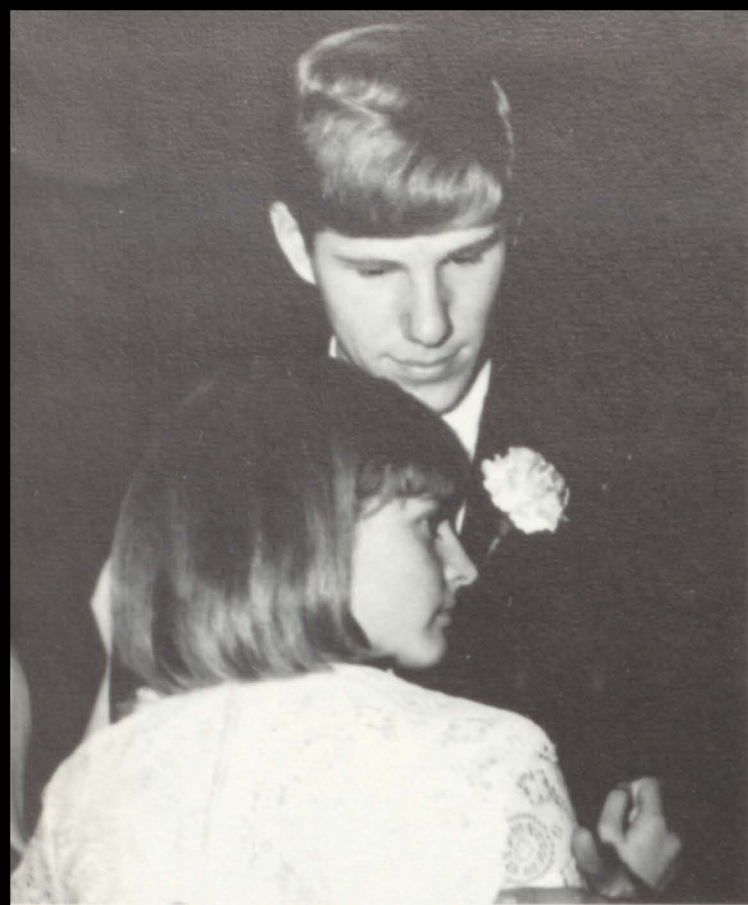

Our Activities:

Within our town we have many things to do. Lookout Mountain provides recreation for many adventurers. In our school, projects and sports fulfill our need for relaxation from this busy world.

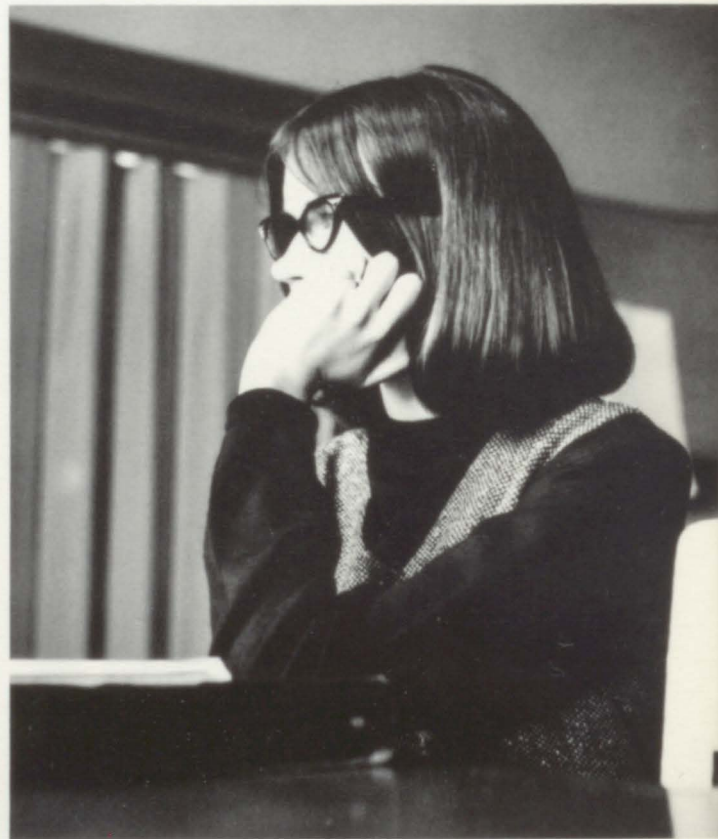

Our People:

In our town, as in every town there are many different kinds of people. Basically though they are all the same. They love, they cry for joy, they study for knowledge, they wonder, and they generally enjoy life as it is to be lived.

ACADEMICS

In Dedication

We, the class of 67, would humbly like to dedicate this annual to Floyd B. Moe, in appreciation of his untiring patience and service to our school system. In the past 44 years in our school system, especially the last ten years as our superintendent of schools, you have brought to us many ideals which have become a model for others. With the students in mind, you have fulfilled your duty and will remain as an outstanding credit to the city of Virginia. With respect and admiration we extend our thanks to you.

Superintendent Floyd B. Moe

Mr. Einar Anderson and Mr. Roger Schelfroup, our counselors, discuss pamphlets for colleges.

The Basic Tool: English

According to George Orwell in his book 1984, a person can only think of such ideas as his native language or knowledge of language can express. He uses this idea in describing his negative utopia where the government uses a language designed to keep the people from independent thinking.

George Bernard Shaw had a similar view in mind when he wrote the play "Pygmalion", which became the basis of the musical "My Fair Lady." He wanted to prove that a person is classified by the language he uses.

The vast majority of students at VHS do not have as serious an accent as Shaw's "murderer of the English tongue", Eliza Doolittle, or the ominous governmental threat of Orwell's character, Winston Smith, but the illustration will suffice to prove a point: without a formal, regimented study of one's native language to increase one's ability to communicate proficiently, a student would be ill-fit to live or prosper satisfactorily.

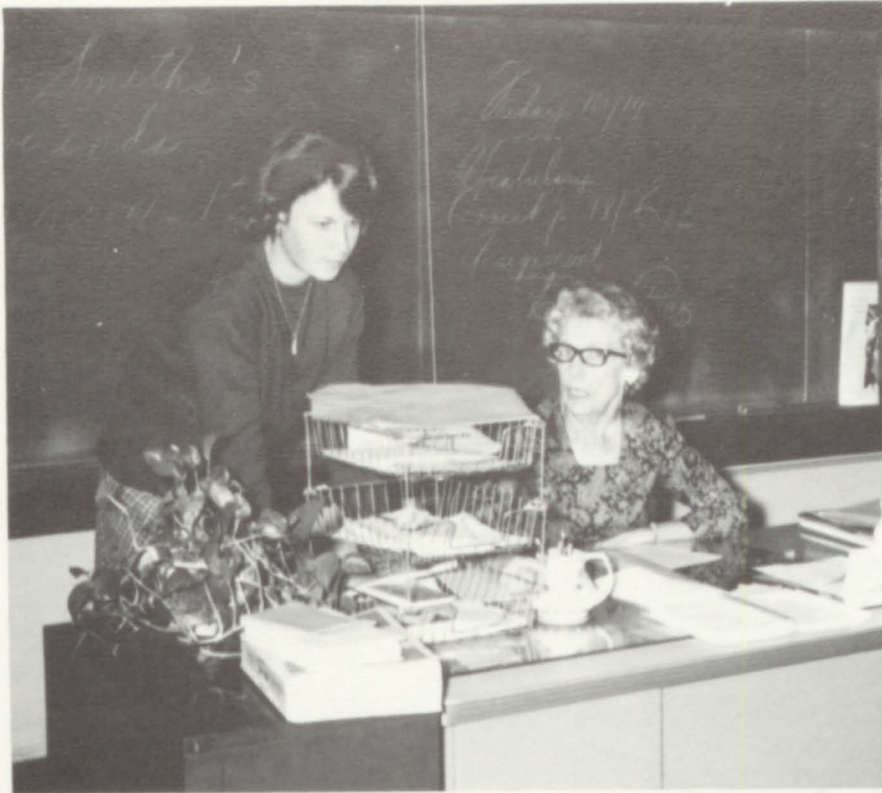

Mrs. Mary Harrington looks for articles of interest to her English students.

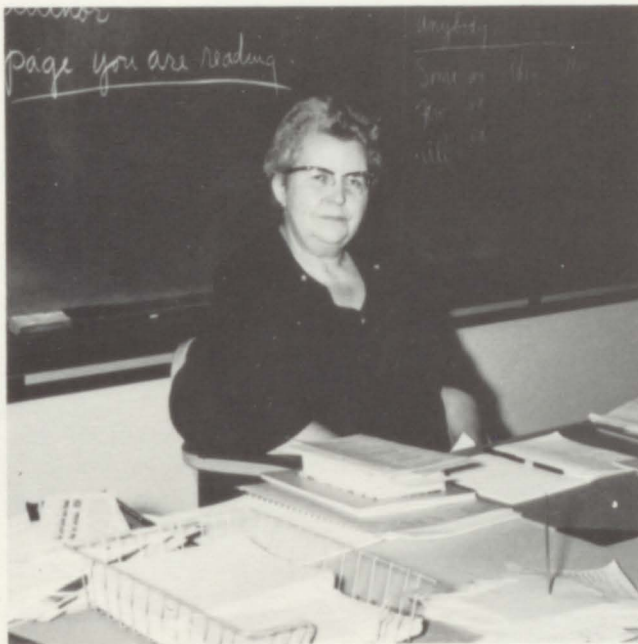

Barbara Ilse and Mrs. Harrington chat over an English problem in the Hall.

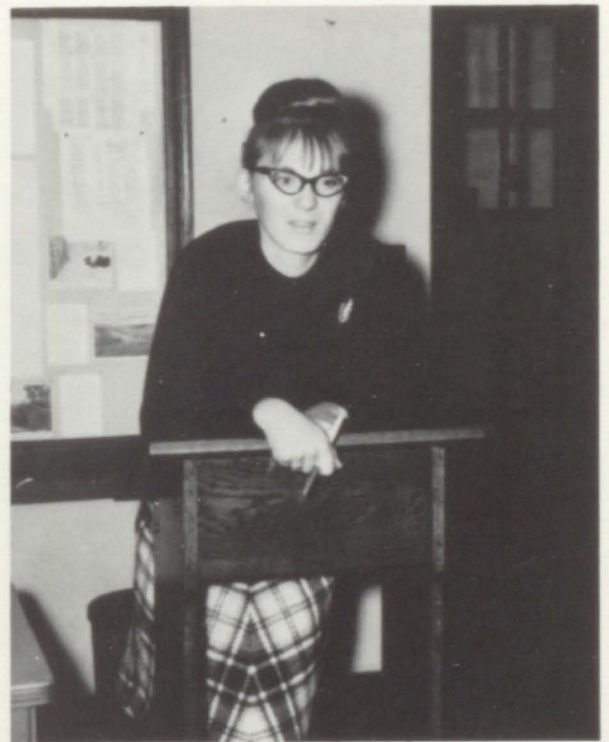

Miss Larson finds her students homework very interesting.

Mrs. Stolberg explains to Kathy Rowell the functions of our Senior Class.

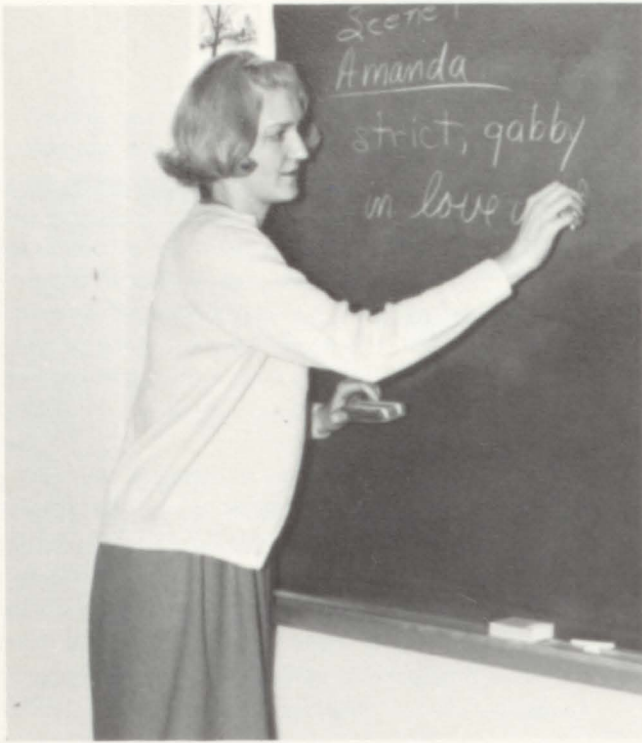

Miss Ellen Korpy rests for a minute from her busy schedule of classes.

It takes patience to try and put the word across as Mrs. Corrine Spector will admit.

Class for Creativity. . .

Illustrating a point on the board is part of Miss Eileen Willms job.

Mrs. Laverne Hurd corrects one of the many tests given to her eager students.

Mrs. Jean Stolberg finds the library a perfect place to prepare assignments for her English 12 classes.

Spanish teacher, Mr. Wayne Christiansen, ponders over an answer written by one of his students.

The Art of Language

German was offered for the first time at VHS this year. The course, taught by Miss Ellen Korpy, studied German and its culture through the help of records.

The Spanish classes were intrigued by skits put on by the members of the class. These illustrated how everyday Spanish can be used.

Parlez-vous Francais? French, the romance language appealed to many. It was a class which provided a challenge for many, and an interest for all.

Mrs. Patricia Proznik studies the lesson to be presented by her students.

Spanish classes put on many humorous skits to illustrate the meaning of the language.

*Bonne chance à Nadine.
Au revoir.

History:

Past and Present

Social Sciences as taught at the Virginia High School can be explained as going from the general to the specific. As a sophomore, the student is introduced to the broad expanse of world history. The panorama of Greece, Rome, and Europe as well as a glimpse of oriental culture are spread before him.

When the student enters his junior year, history becomes more specific as the chronicles of only the United States are taken up. The men, and the ideas, as well as the incidents, that made this country are studied in detail.

Civics, the study of how history affects the individual, is the social science for the senior. Here the student gets down to specifics to even a greater extent as he studies the role of government and history in his personal life.

Miss Amy Beckstrom uses the noon study hall to catch up on her various duties.

Miss Judith Behrendt, World History teacher, reads to her classes the story of England's royal family.

Mr. Frank Rukavina looks over a paper from an exceptional student.

What a chore it can be for VHS teachers to put marks on report cards!

American history teacher, Mr. Willard Miller, studies his notes on political parties before his next class.

In world history class, Mr. Jerome Vitse teaches the development of man from prehistoric time to the present.

Knowledge of The Past Is Essential for Better Future

When not teaching World History, Miss Amy Beckstrom is girls' advisor.

In Civics class, Mr. George Munig listens to opinions voiced by his students.

Ximena Lopez, our foreign exchange student, discusses a test score with Mr. Miller.

Speech = Poise

Where was the one place you heard fellow students trying to convince one another that school should last six days a week instead of five or hear a speech to ban popular songs? Why in Speech of course!

It was topics like these that helped to develop the confidence and skills necessary to delivering a speech with a punch.

The first few speeches a student gave may have dried his throat a little and gave a small case of the pre-speech jitters, but after a few turns at the podium it was a whiz. As he gained more experience all old speech-giving fears evaporated and it became as if he were talking to members of his family.

Speech wasn't all just speech-giving as the year flew by—students did pantomimes, took part in debates and entered group discussions.

By the time the end of the school year rolled around the art of intelligent communication had been learned, which students will use for the rest of their lives to communicate with friends and associates.

Miss Judy Seaton, speech teacher, comments on student speeches.

Blushing emphatically, Mark Majetich "sells his clothes" in a sales talk.

Daidre Larson describes her hair dryer, in an effort to sell it.

"So, that's a triangle!" sophomore Mark Nelson sighs as Mr. Rowbottom explains the fundamentals of the three sided figure.

Mathematics: The Language of The Sciences

During his free hour, Mr. James Rowbottom, a geometry teacher, prepares the next day's lesson.

New to VHS, Mr. Francis Sevcik makes good use of an overhead projector in one of his plane geometry classes.

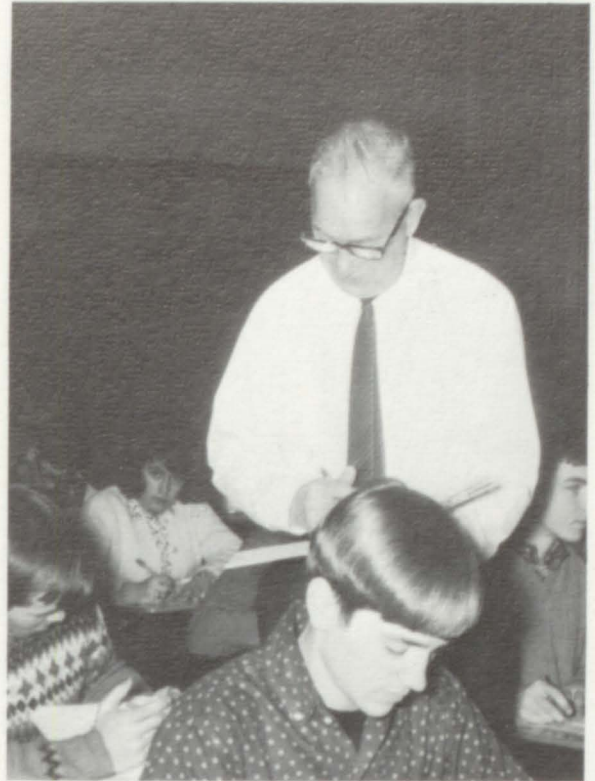

Mathematics is a science, a science of numbers. In high school, a student has a choice of many math courses; geometry, algebra, higher algebra, advanced mathematics, solid geometry and trigonometry.

Axioms and postulates, 30° - 60° triangles and parallel lines are all a part of geometry, the science of lines and angles.

Variables, the rectangular coordinate system or square roots may be confusing unless one has had higher algebra. For that matter, they are often confusing to those who have had it.

Advanced mathematics is a culmination of all previous math with more difficult problems added.

The more advanced math students also take solid geometry and trigonometry.

Checking daily assignments is part of Mr. Warren Sims' job in higher algebra.

Mr. Louis Knoll marks tests in his solid geometry gradebook.

Glancing over the quiz, Mr. Sevcik finds few errors.

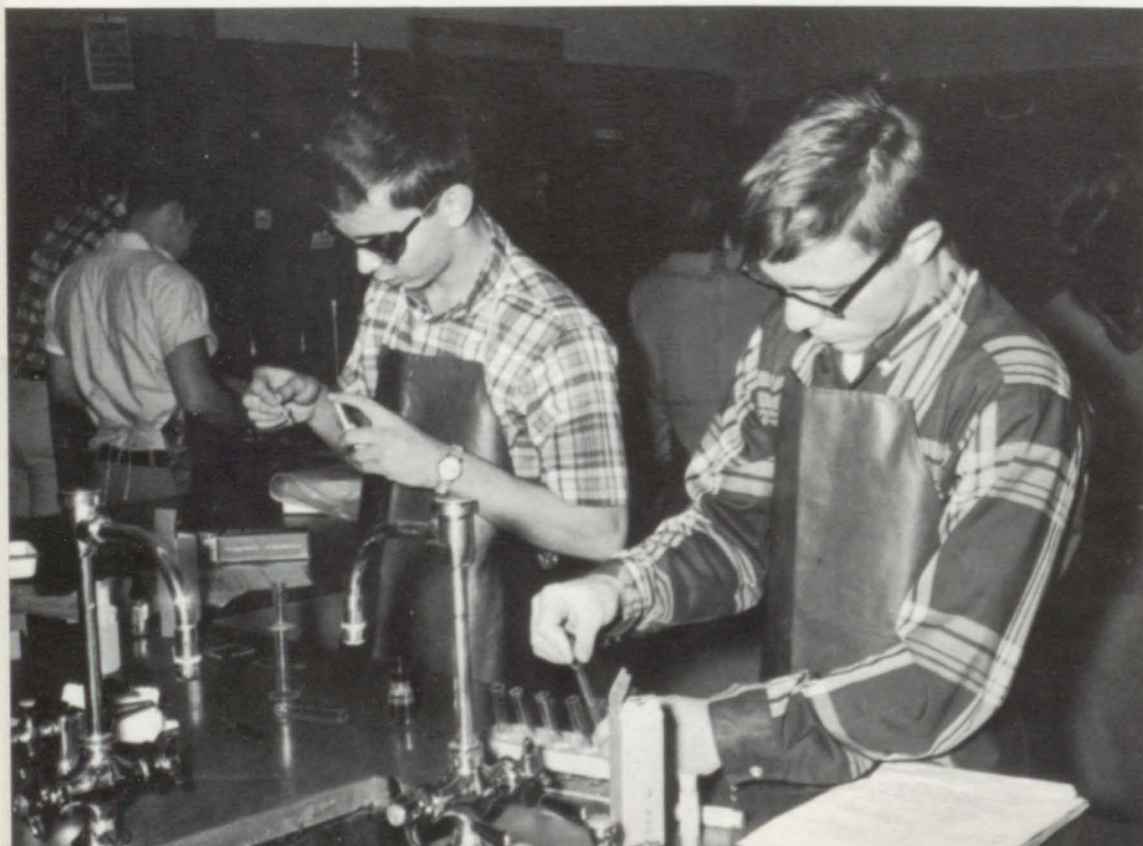

During a lecture, Mr. Sheldon Johnson, with a wry smile, wanders off on a tangent.

Mr. Harold Schmitke corrects his student's drawings of what they have seen under their microscopes.

The Challenge of Tomorrow

Causing reactions is a part of the chemical experiment performed by John Brimsek and Vince Novak.

Laurie Riach and Diane Salo discover that experimentation demonstrates the basic concepts of physics.

Asexual reproduction, valences and vectors. These words become familiar to all who study biology, chemistry and physics.

Most sophomores take biology, learning such things as the formula of glucose, the experiments of La Voisier, human reproduction and the Theory of Evolution. When the sophomores finish the year most of them know the definition of biology—the study of the growth and development of living things.

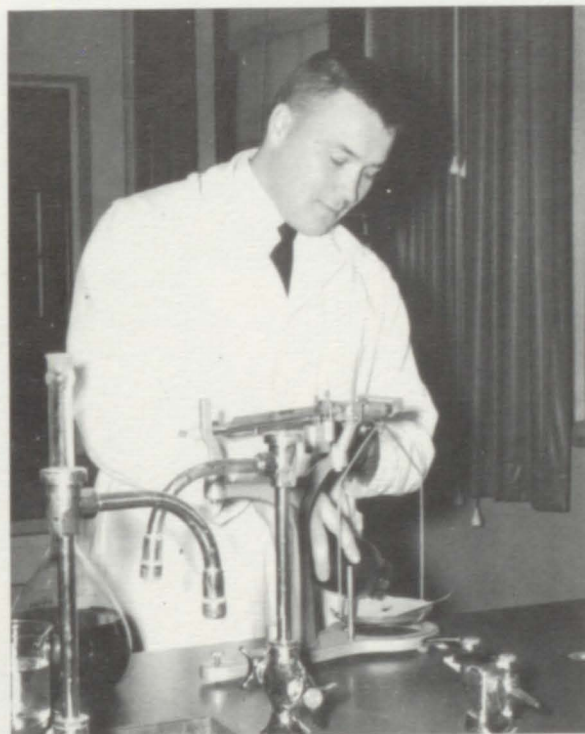

Chemistry, the science dealing with the make-up of materials and what happens to the composition under certain circumstances, is tackled by either by juniors or seniors. Valences, chemical equations and the periodic table are studied and memorized. Experiments are performed; and example of learning by doing, giving the student a change to work out his own methods of obtaining answers.

Physics, an understanding for only the mathematically gifted, teaches scientific phenomena. Here too, lab work is used to help the student better understand the how and why of physics; many students working out their own experiments.

Chemistry instructor, Mr. Phillip Kangas, explains the use of a balance scale.

New at Roosevelt High this year, Mr. Charles Elving teaches the properties of the physical world.

Hidden Talents Discovered by Art Students

If you are unusually creative, art is the class for you.

Art I examined art in general this year. Students scrutinized texture, color and elements concerning the basic arts. Each student worked with color in suggesting ideas and depicting moods. Constructing edifices of settings for stories and plays and studying a psychology unit associated with color also were included in Art I. The sculpture unit ended the year for Art I classes.

Art II was concerned this year with creativity, enabling the student to express himself in almost any field of art. This year students used the new acrylic paints, and with the use of their Minnesota Mining printing press they produced a variety of unusual prints. All students worked with water color, pen and ink, ceramics and sculpture, which were utilized on an individual basis.

Art classes were active in all special school activities other than the classroom projects. Homecoming, prom and school plays involved many art students. So now, the 66-67 art classes give way to a new year.

Miss Anne Moberg busily types up a test to be given to her art classes.

Gloria Samuelson, Trudy Simoson and Susan Edhom practice with scratch board in their Art II class.

Worried sick because Star of the North assignments haven't been done, editor, Karlene Ruthenbeck takes one last look.

Clarity and Accuracy Are Essential to Good Newspaper Writing

They were student reporters. Writing was their business. Their teacher, Mr. Chuck Muhich, worked for the city newspaper, The Mesabi Daily News. The information and learning came straight from "the horse's mouth."

Almost every day the students were given a collection of facts from which they composed a story that would be acceptable for a city newspaper. They were first taught the fine points of writing a lead, the part of the newspaper story which gave their readers the basic information of the happening.

They sometimes held panel talks on various matters while listeners wrote a story about it. They also were visited by people whom they interviewed. Among these were Coach John Beste in the sports light and one of our school's student teachers who told them about his job in our school.

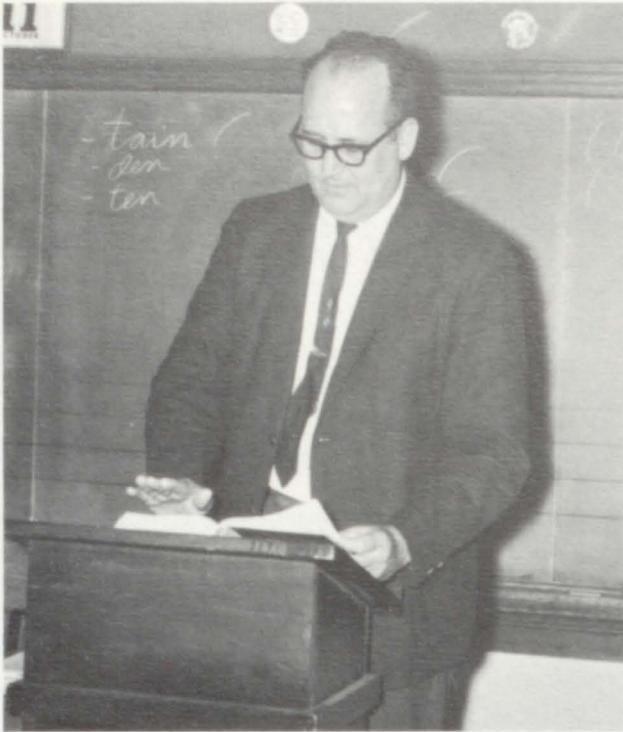

The class is a selective subject and it is offered to those students in grades 11 and 12 who wish to know the basic points of writing.

John Rebeau learns that to get an accurate story, you must take accurate notes.

Journalism and American history teacher, Mr. Charles Muhich, proofreads Rohian copy.

Mr. Willard Nelson dictates a letter to his shorthand class.

Typing, Office Practice, Bookkeeping, and Shorthand are the four essential subjects for preparation of a business career.

Typing is the foundation for a clerical position. This is where one learns the fundamentals.

Office Practice goes one step further. In this class you develop a refinement of what has been learned in typing. In addition, one receives special training in office machines, filing procedures, and just what is expected of a secretary or a general clerical worker.

Bookkeeping is geared for those who have a special interest in keeping records or who wish to go on to specialize in accounting. In this course one learns the bookkeeping cycle, which is basic for keeping records for any business.

Shorthand is taught on a two-year basis for juniors and seniors. Shorthand I is given mostly for teaching students how to write shorthand and also works a little on building speed. Second year shorthand concentrates on teaching the student how to build his dictation and transcription speed.

All of these classes can be used for preparation for going on to college to teach business education. These courses, if they are worked hard on, can also be used to secure a clerical position upon graduation from high school.

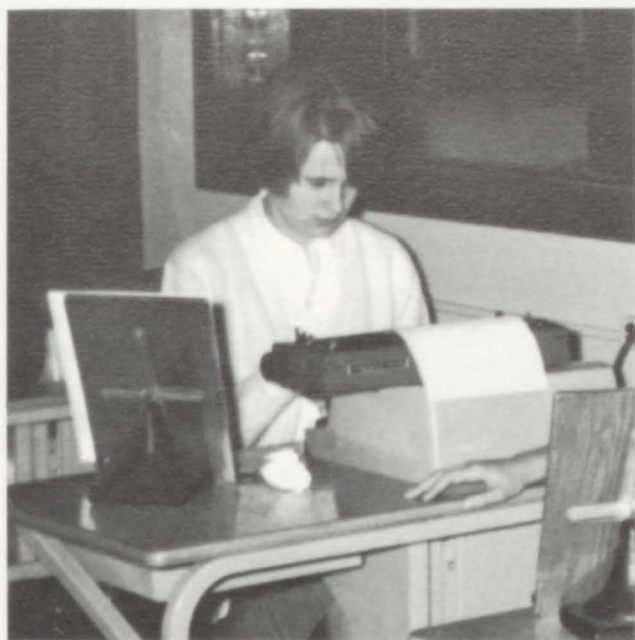

Sheila Erickson proofreads a problem for typing class.

Credit, debit and adding columns of numbers are all a part of bookkeeping.

Business Is The Axis of Our Modern World

The typing room serves many purposes. Here Kathy Miettunen types stories for the Rohian.

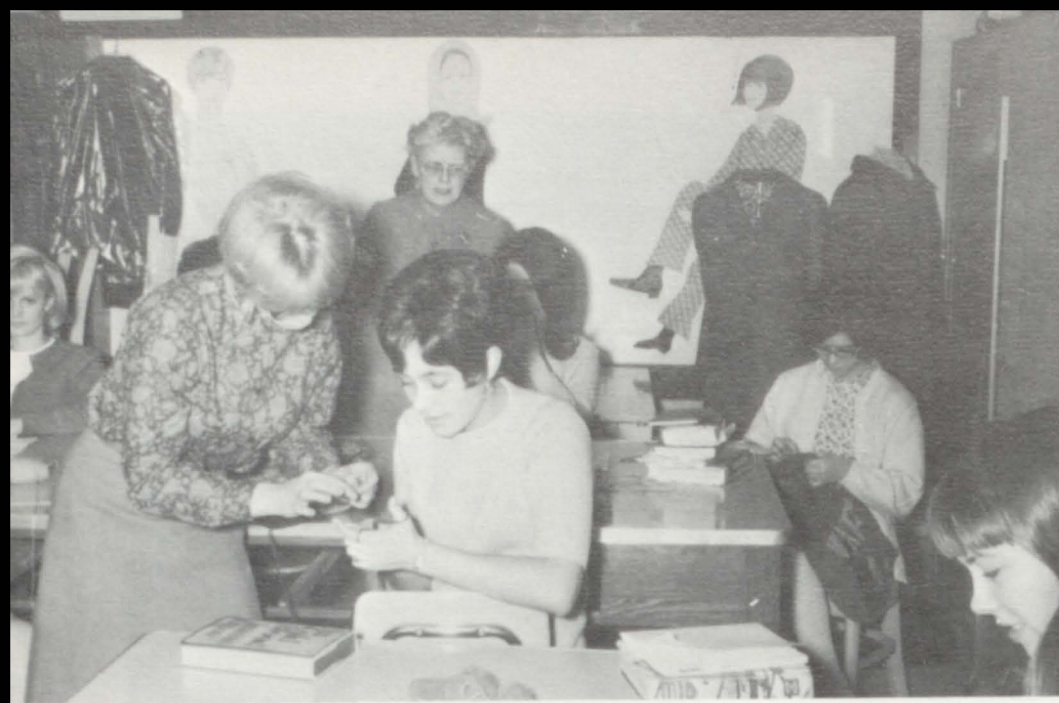

Mr. John Beste surveys his bookkeeping class.

Mr. Thomas Mehelich, office practice and typing instructor, plans advance assignments.

A pair of good ears and a quick mind are essential for success in taking accurate shorthand.

Kathy Niemeste tries to explain the fundamentals of knitting to Kathy Chiarello.

Home Ec Trains Tomorrow's Homemakers

The purpose of Home Economics is to prepare all young women to become good homemakers. Miss Nora Peterson is the foods and clothing class's instructor.

Needles, pins, tape measures, and yards of material all go into the many creations that come from Room 18 T. In clothing, girls learn how to plan their wardrobes and they also learn the basic construction of clothes.

"Advanced Clothing", involves clothes construction in more difficult areas. Whether it's a formal gown or a baby blanket made over from an old coat, the girls learn a great deal.

"Advanced Foods" involves purchasing and planning for a family diet. Several weeks are also allowed for the study of marriage and family problems.

Miss Nora Peterson, home economics instructor, pauses for a moment from finishing a seam.

"Knit one, purl two," Miss Peterson tells Donita Drobac.

Mrs. Mona Burgher takes a pause from checking in the influx of new books.

A Storehouse of Knowledge

"This year we have added a tremendous amount of new books which make the library even more profitable to the student," says Mrs. Mona Burgher, librarian.

Along with the regular budget, federal funds from Title II Bill 89-10 have helped to equip the library with new and better books.

Since the library was remodeled in '65, VHS students have taken advantage of the new facilities and enjoyed studying there.

One of the new facilities is the conference room where students can work and discuss class projects together. This room being soundproof does not disturb others in the library.

Along with her Junior College assistants, Mrs. Burgher assists VHS students in finding materials needed for individual and group assignments.

Tom Aho, Larry Paulsen and Bob Richards spend some time to do research in the new library.

Phy Ed Classes Stress Recreational Sports

In order to have a healthy body and a healthy more active mind, students must be physically fit. Physical education programs in Roosevelt High, help students obtain this valuable fitness, and also, it develops good sportsmanship.

High school students have a lot of energy stored in them that should be released. Sophomores go over to the boys' and girls' gyms to do just that, at least once a week.

The game follow a pattern with the changing of the seasons. In the winter, indoor games such as volleyball, field hockey, and tumbling are played. Spring and fall weather is usually reserved for the outdoors, in games such as football and baseball.

The gym is a good place to let off a little steam in the form of exercise.

"A variety of recreational activities including volleyball, badminton, and basketball make girls' gym fun," comments Mrs. Johnson.

Mr. John Ferkul, VHS gym teacher, calls all boys to keep physically fit.

Mr. Fred Swenson, swimming instructor, also is coach of the swimming team.

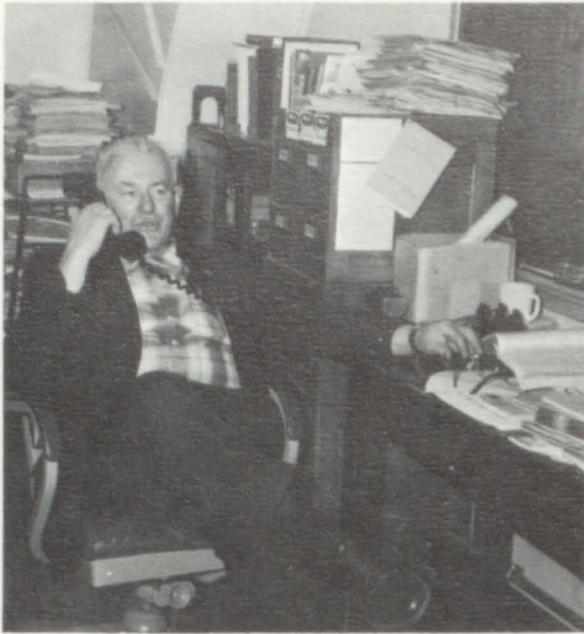

Anyone giving odds as to whether Gene Welander will hit the board or not?

Health and girls' phys ed teacher Miss Theresa Moroni, catches up on the next day's assignment.

Checking attendance in 6th hour study hall, is Mr. Richard Olson, boys' gym instructor and head basketball coach.

Shops manager, Mr. Walter Buntrock, casually chats on the telephone while his work waits.

Many VHS students found their future in the industrial arts section of our school. The "shops" have helped to mold everything from draftsmen to auto mechanics.

This past year students had an opportunity to begin their education in printing, woodworking, drafting, auto mechanics, welding, sheet metal, machine, and electricity.

Too often the industrial art courses are "skipped over" because students have picked up the idea that these classes are of no value. In our changing world this has been proven wrong as the demand for a highly skilled class of mechanics has been increasing.

"We build it with wood," Mr. Richard Johnson explains to his woodworking class.

What would VHS do without the help of our valuable printing instructor, Mr. Karl Ruthenbeck?

Mr. Laverne Braaten instructs students on the fundamentals of welding.

*The Craftsman
by His Work
Is Known*

Mr. Robert Chopp teaches the fundamentals of electricity.

Repairing automobile engines is a part of the auto mechanics course for Anthony Gerulli and Richard Askegaard.

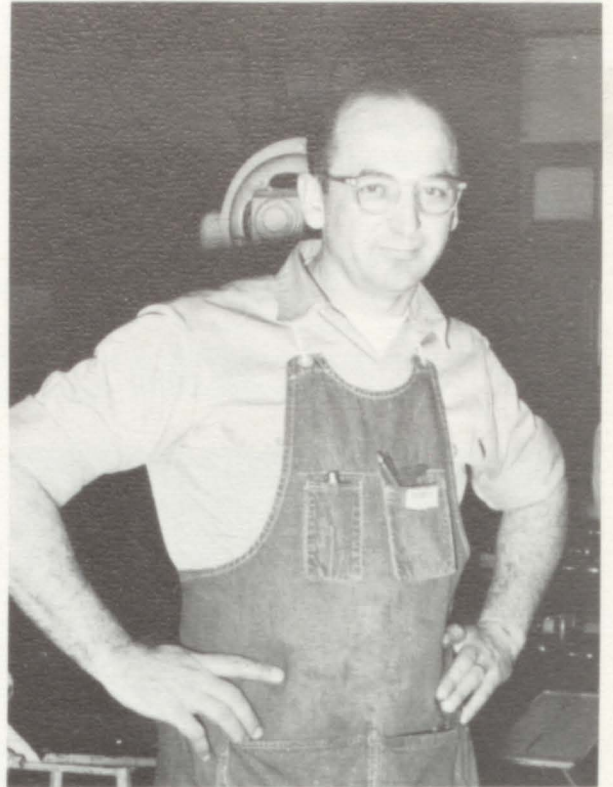

Mr. Norman Stockey is always willing to explain the finer points of woodworking to his students.

Welding instructor, Mr. Walter Buntrock demonstrates the fundamentals of welding to Bob Eilola.

Helping to provide VHS boys with advanced machine skill is instructor Mr. John Bicanich.

Mr. Joseph Dennie shows that clean equipment is essential to industrial arts' progress.

"Straight lines are the keys to good drafting measures," Mr. Joseph Froelingsdorf explains to Dan Richards.

The secretaries who make our trips to the office a pleasure are Mrs. Lois Schumann and Mrs. Doris Kymala.

SENIORS

Seniors Today: Leaders Tomorrow

That was the time for all good seniors to come to the aid of their class.

Homecoming was the first of a long line of jobs that awaited the new seniors. They took first place by showing off their artistic by producing a huge, colorful rooster for the annual homecoming parade.

Next, the magazine drive rolled around and this time they really came to the aid of their class. The $10,000 quota that was set, was easily made with money to spare. The money made from these sales goes into the class fund and it is used to help pay for various expenses during the school year.

The Senior Class Banquet was a success and a lot of fun for all. In the Senior Class Play, the hidden talents of many of the students was brought into true light.

As graduation came around, thoughts of the past year drifted through the minds and hearts of every senior.

Happiness Is . . . A Friend

When Ximena came into our school a new kind of happiness came also.

While here, she made speeches for local groups and attended many of our school activities including some of our hockey games.

Her laughter will be remembered for a very long time because it was so pleasant to listen to. She could brighten any day, even during a snowstorm.

Before returning to her native country of Chile, Ximena went to New York along with all the other AFS students from around the United States.

We sincerely hope that Ximena will find her way back to Virginia some day for she is someone too nice to forget.

Before she crowns the Turnabout king, Ximena and her date Jed Hejda watch the dancers from the sidelines.

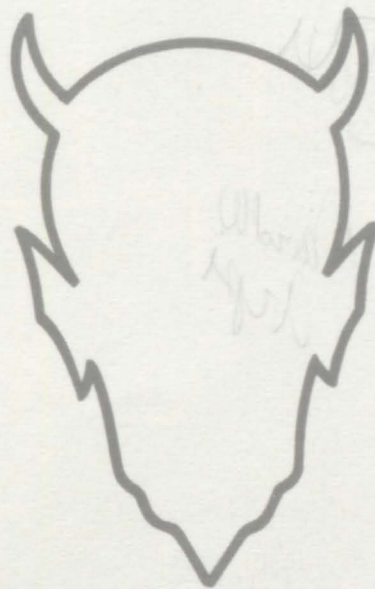

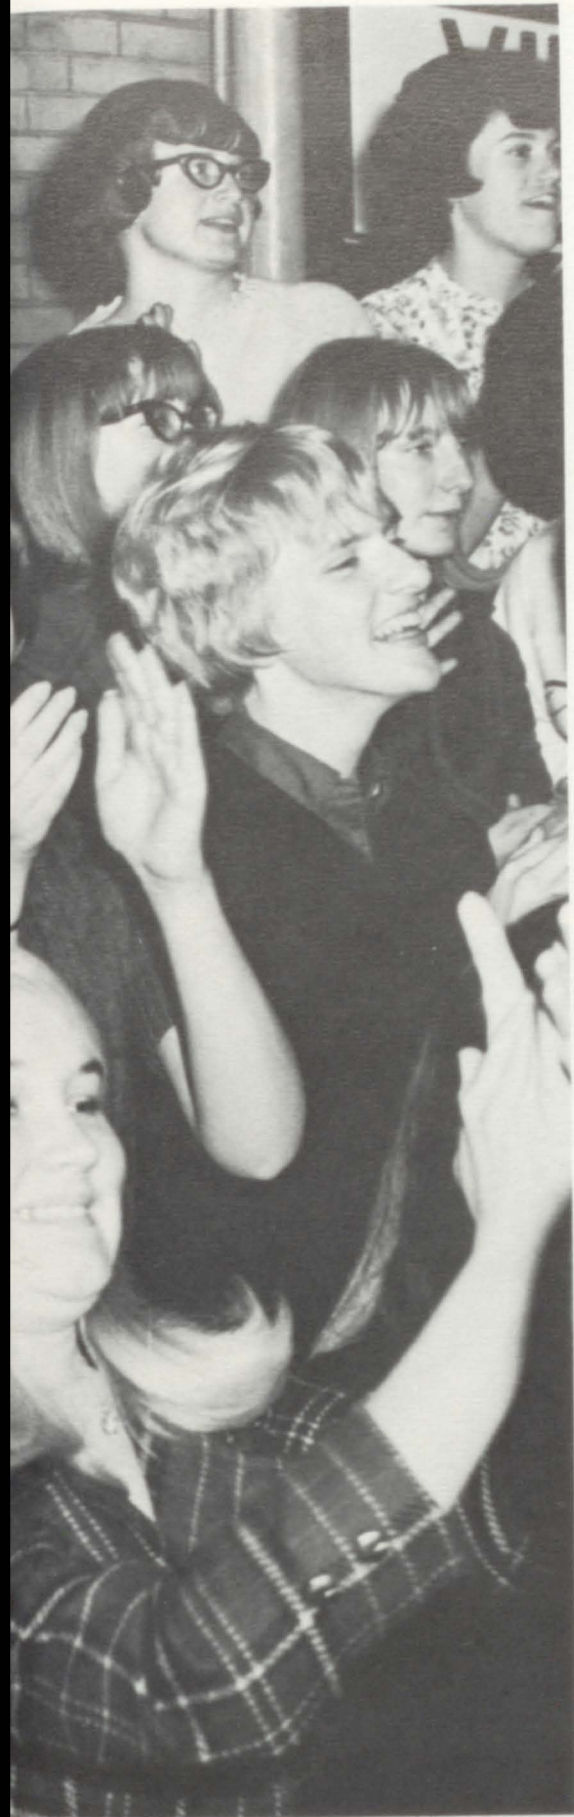

Ximena found decorating the Homecoming float to be a new and exciting experience.

*UNDER-

Plaid was the new look in boys' slacks as worn by Jeff Spolar.

Long hair was in again this year for boys as well as for girls.

This Was The Year Of...

This year will be remembered as the year of changes. The ever-popular poor boy sweater lost its popularity to the turtleneck; Brute replaced Jade East and English Leather at the head of the list of men's colognes; the Beatles slipped into the background while everyone talked about the Rolling Stones. Long hair for the boys was heard to stay, but very short hair for girls became just as popular as very long hair.

Odd-shaped pouches were seen around VHS.

Ingredients-Blue Jackets: Directions-Beat Well

Homecoming was upon VHS again, October 7 being the big day. The festivities started with the crowning of Queen Nancy Cope at the Homecoming Assembly.

Seniors won the class float competition with a float entitled "A Victory to Crow About". Flaming autumn colors made up the towering rooster crowing to all about the mighty Blue Devils.

The seniors, along with Debbie Taran's slogan "Ingredients: Blue Jackets; Directions: Beat Well", were a little hasty in their predictions of a victory for although the Devils valiantly tackled Hibbing in an extremely tough game, they could not stop the Jackets from winning by a score of 14-7.

1966 HOMECOMING QUEEN
NANCY COPE

VHS majorettes Sarah Wennen, Beth Scherkenbach, Jo Ann Klink, Pat Sertich, Laurie Riach, and Bonnie Kolocek hold the traditional hoop as co-captain John Niemi breaks through to begin the homecoming game.

Semi-finalists for 1966 Homecoming Queen were Cynthia Carlson, Kathe Rowell, Claudia Nelson, Donna Nelimark, Sheila Pernu, Peggy Hadersbeck, Kathy Chiarello and Nancy Cope.

Seniors proudly display, "PAROL the ROOSTER," their prize winning float.

Waving and smiling, Queen Nancy prepares for her royal ride in the 1966 Homecoming Parade.

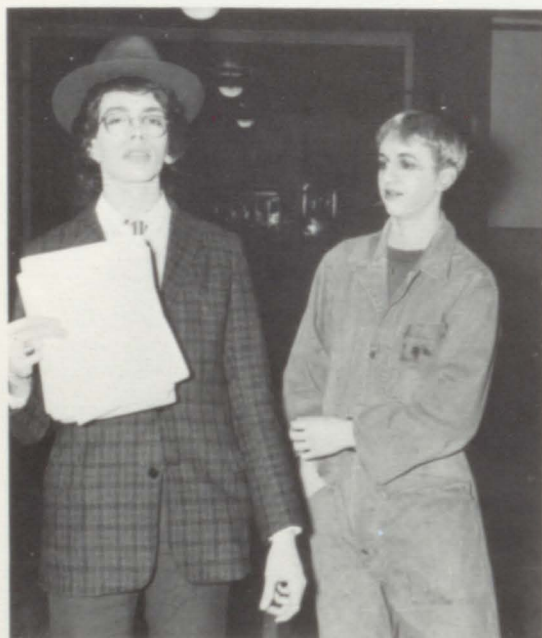

VHS Thespians Present "Our Town"

Sitting at the soda fountain, Emily Webb and George Gibbs played by Beth Scherkenbach and Jed Hejda, discuss their plans of marriage.

All set to go on stage are Randall Hill and Jim Lassila.

When George and Emily finally tie the knot, the parents and friends are pleased.

Before the performance, everyone crowds together in the dressing room to retouch make-up.

All School Play Deemed A Success

"Boy, is that George Gibbs a fool," the baseball boys Greg Gilness, Mark Hafdahl, and Pat Kearney comment to Stage Manager, Mark Willenbring when they hear of George's plans to marry Emily.

"Our Town, a play in three acts by Thornton Wilder, was the 1966 all-school play, presented on the evening of November 4.

Miss Seaton, director, said, "I have never worked with such cooperative and talented students before." After six weeks of hard work and cooperation from the cast and committees, "Our Town proved to be successful.

The Stage Manager was portrayed by Mark Willenbring. The Gibbses, included Richard Hardt as Dr. Gibbs, Mary Forecia as Mrs. Gibbs, Jed Hejda as George and Sandy Arnberg as his sister Rebecca. The Webbses included James Giblin as Mr. Webb, Patti Pavlowich as Mrs. Webb, Beth Scherkenbach as Emily and David LeClair as her brother Wally.

Other character parts were played by Jim Lassila, Carole Carlson, Randall Hill, and Jim O'Leary.

Girl's Clubs Join for Boys' Night Out

With close to 150 couples attending the 1966 Tournabout, held November 18, proved to be one of the most successful social events VHS has seen.

Colorful streamers of red, pink, yellow and orange carried through the theme of "Carnival", as did the featured "personalities" of a carnival: the Fat Lady, the Muscle Man, and the clowns. Dan Poupard for Tri-Hi and Bob Richards for Entre-Nous were king candidates, Dan winning the honor.

The awards this year included something new — a Mutt-and-Jeff prize for Donna Nelimark and Gus Josephson. Other awards included; tallest couple, Jack Barrett and Kathy Chiarello; shortest couple, Ralph Harvey and Denise Kovich; best dancers, Tait Johnson and Sue Snyder.

Dancing to the Smoothies are duo Tim Peterson and Elaine Anttila.

In order to capture that real carnival atmosphere, Denise Kovich, Jayne Welander, and Maribeth Perpich must blow up those balloons.

Tri Hi's candidate Danny Poupard is all smiles as Ximena Lopez crowns him king of the Tournabout.

Lettermen Sponsor Festival

The 1967 Winter Sports Festival formally got its start Thursday, January 26, when the Lettermen served their spaghetti supper, the proceeds of which are used for supporting various projects of the club.

At an assembly Friday, January 27, Letterman Lee Podpeskar crowned Claudia Nelson as the Letterman's choice for their queen to reign over the festivities.

The Virginia Blue Devils played a basketball game, a hockey game, and to swim meet over the week-end. The Lettermen truly played their best to impress the Royalty by winning all three games. The Blue Devils downed the Ely cagers 81-49, smashed the Ely pucksters 8-0, and edged the Cooper mermen 48-47.

The queen and her attendants were honored at a dance after the hockey game.

Cast members of "Annie Get Your Gun".

Wild West

Brought to VHS

Cowboys and Indians took over the stage of the Technical Auditorium the night of March 21, as the choir and Glee Club under the direction of Mr. Saari presented the Rodgers and Hammerstein musical "Annie Get Your Gun".

The plot centered around a shooting match and a romance between two sharpshooters, Frank Butler (played by Wayne Marshall) and Annie Oakley (played by Marcia Hill).

Amidst such songs as "You Can't Get A Man With a Gun" as well as endless comedy, these two characters feuded, dueled and finally came to an understanding.

Other characters included were: Jim Lassila as Charlie, Harlan Nelson as Wilson, Judy Dostal as Winnie, Richard Hardt as Buffalo Bill, and John Ziegler as Siting Bull.

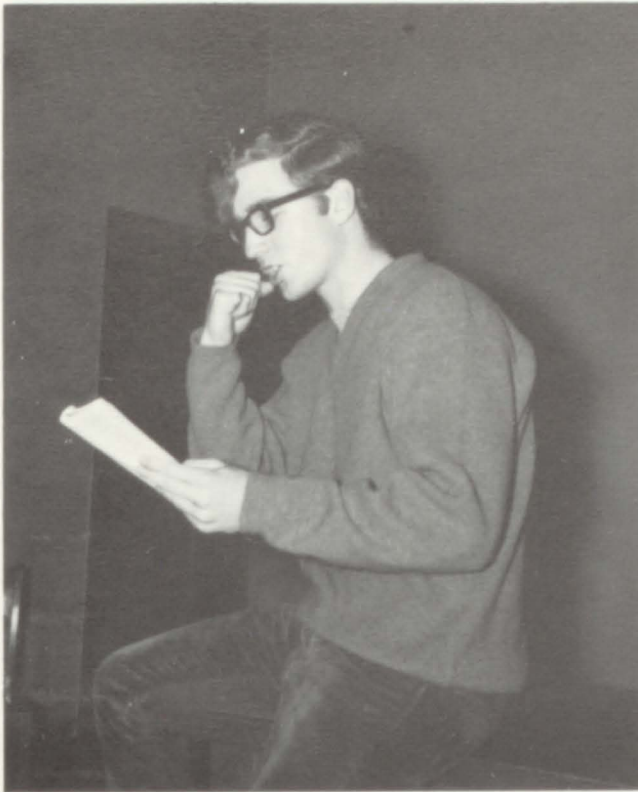

Sitting Bull, John Ziegler, smokes the peacepipe.

Jim Lassila and Lois Mansfield practice their lines.

Have to admit there's 90 a terrific resemblance!

Seniors Present "Solid Gold Cadillac"

Mark Willenbring reads over his lines during one of the many rehearsals for the play.

The roar of a car motor could be heard in the parking lot, it was Mrs. Partridge in her "Solid Gold Cadillac"

The theme of the Senior Class play was, can a woman succeed in big business. Mrs. Partridge, a stock holder in the General Products Company, becomes disgusted with the way the Board of Directors is running the company. To get her out of the way, the Board gives her a minor job. Ironically, it is Mrs. Partridge who gets control of the stock and ends up running the business.

To the seniors the Class play was an important event in the school year. It was one of the last projects they worked on together as seniors and united them as a class.

The cast of the play was: Don Gabrielson, Gus Josephson, Mike Riordan, Ken Rubenstein, Dick Perala, Carole Carlson, Corinne Rupert, Donna Nelimark, Mary Ann Forciea, Bob Lien, and Mark Willenbring.

C. Rupert, D. Nelimark, K. Rubenstein, C. Carlson, M. Willenbring and B. Lien take a break during rehearsal for the Senior Class Play.

Decoration Chairman Cynthia Carlson wonders, "How did I ever get into this job?" as hundreds of paper flowers are yet to be hung up.

"Beeland" Memories Linger On

Exaggerated flowers in tones of yellow and orange blossomed as the busy honey bees towered above the 129 couples who danced to the music of Jimmy Baldrice's orchestra at the 1966 Junior-Senior Prom.

Under the direction of Cynthia Carlson, the junior class transformed the VHS gym into a gay "beeland" with sparkling honeycombs, brilliant flowers, giant honey bees and a glittering beehive also used as a punch stand — all to stay with the theme "A Taste of Honey".

After climbing snowbanks, the guests passed through the rather unusual entrance — a honeycomb tunnel adorned with miniature bee.

As in years past, the post-prom sponsored by the Kiwanis Club was held at the Coates Hotel until dawn. As it started to get light, another prom came to a close.

Couple Lauren Lucarelli and Paul Higgs dance to the dreamy music of Jimmy Baldrice's band.

Joan Schwartz puts the finishing touches on the shimmering beehives to create a mystical "beeland."

Claudia Nelson and Nan Lemieux with their dates Tom Sersha and Bob Lien stop to admire the elaborate decorations.

Sheila Johnson, Sue Snyder, Renee Pentt, and Peg Fortun tape "honeycomb", the entrance motif of the Junior-Senior Prom.

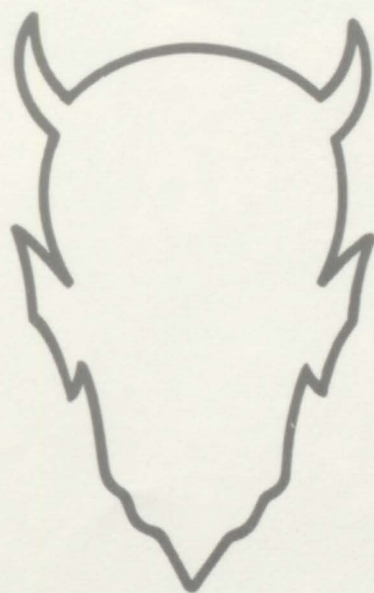

"Ain't I cute?" asks 'tweet' little boy Tom Sersha.

Hard work and the right spirit led the '67 Blue Devils football squad through a rebuilding year and to an impressive record of 3-4-2.

October 7 saw the mighty Blue Devils take the field against Hibbing in our homecoming game only to be defeated 14-7 after an exceptionally hard-played contest.

Coach John Beste and his staff once again did their usual good job of helping the team out at their practices and on the field.

The team was headed by co-captains John Niemi and Bob Eilola.

Junior Bob Cohn was invaluable throughout the season for kicking conversions.

We're The District Champs!

Though losing four tough games during the regular season, the VHS cagers proved themselves at tournament time by capturing the District 27 championship trophy.

Having a tall and experienced team with Gary Kober 6-4, Gus Josephson 6-6, Bob Richards 6-4 and the best backcourt combination in the District of Dan Poupard and Jack Urick, the Devils combined hard work and team spirit in revenging the 15 point loss to Tower by winning 59-52 in an exciting semifinal tournament game. VHS then exploded for a convincing win over Ely for the District 27 crown.

The following weekend, the VHS Cagers entered Region Seven play, upsetting Chisholm in 50-49 thriller. Though the Devils lost the championship game to Duluth Central, not for a minute did they lose the respect and praise of their schoolmates.

In mid-air Gary Kober retrieves a rebound to help bring the Devils to a victory.

Devils Capture Tenth Place at State Meet

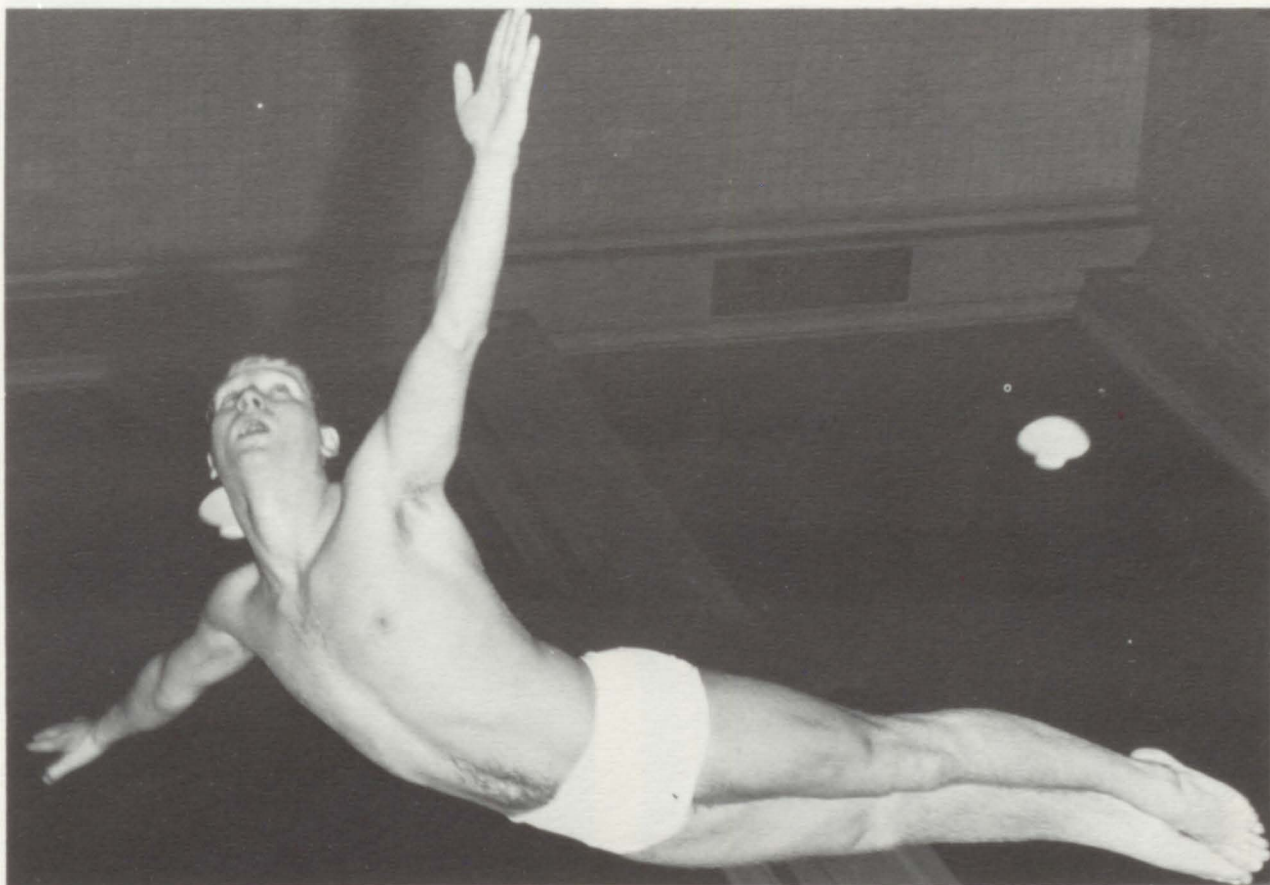

John Slade was a big point getter in the 100 yd. backstroke.

The 1966-67 season was a winning one for the Roosevelt High School tankmen. Lead by co-captains Tom Sersha and Tom Poznanovic they registered a 10-2 record. The Devil mermen captured both the District and IRC titles and placed tenth in the Minnesota State meet to cap a highly successful year.

Several team records were broken during the season. The Blue Devil medley relay team swam the 200 in a record-breaking time of 1:47.7 and also set a 3:40.8 record in the 400 yard freestyle relay. Peter Niemi, a sophomore, improved throughout the season and ended up with the outstanding time of 1:05.7 in the 100 yard breaststroke.

This year's team has a lot of depth and winning was an all-out team effort. Top point getters were Mark Majetich and Tom Sersha.

Gene Welander displays his superb form which won him the eighth place in the State diving competition.

They Were Young With A Lot Of Talent

With only four seniors on the VHS hockey team, the team was relatively young.

The front line of Bill Sipola, Mike Mohar and Brian Martinson were the top scorers for the season.

The two biggest disappointments of the season were the two losses to rival Eveleth.

When tournament time came, the Devils avenged a 5-2 season loss to Babbitt by beating them 2-1 in a two overtime game.

This year's captains were Goalie Terry Huusko and Defenseman Don Sipola.

High scoring Mike Mohar rifles a shot at the Eveleth cage.

Sophomore wing, Sam Aluni, breaks up a Bronco play.

Sports for All Seasons

This year's golf team hopes to make a repeat performance by again winning the District crown. All-around athlete Jack Urick gained a berth in the State meet because of his superb performance in the Region 7 Tourney.

"Success" sums up the record of the 1966 track team. By far, the most important event of the season was Tom Sersha's sprint to eighth place in the State meet.

The 1967 squad was coached by Mr. Hendrickson.

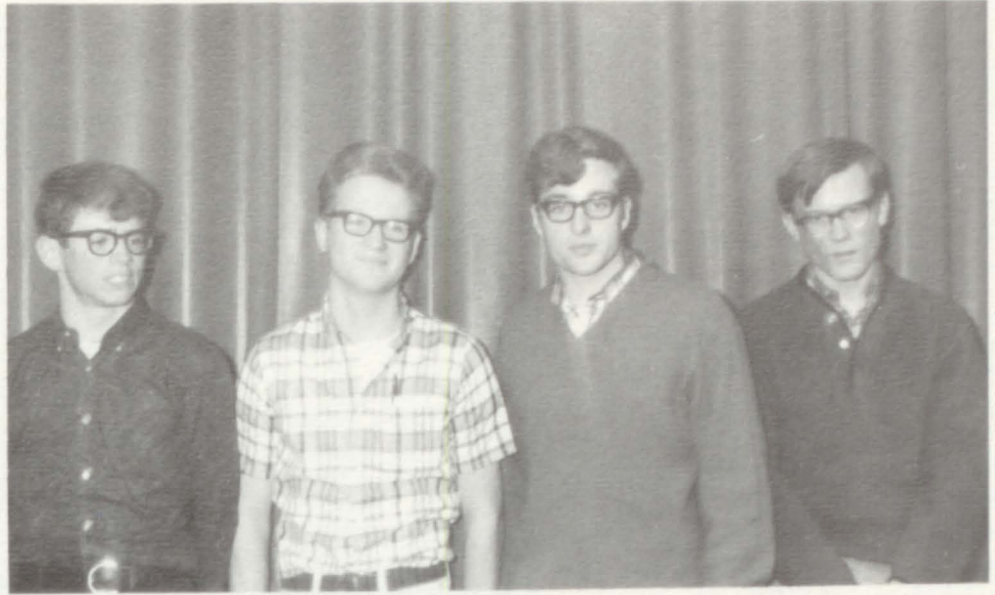

Senior co-captains Reid Davidson and Jeff O'Leary led the ski team through many meets this year.

Prospects for next year are Scott Neff in the slalom and the downhill, Tom Rukavina and Peter Mock in jumping, and Jed Hedja and John Luhlata in the cross-country.

Although hampered by several conflicts with CUSSA meets this year, the ski team looks forward to next year.

Tennis Team members are Scott Neff, Gene Welander, Mark Willenbring, and Bob Tingstead. Missing from picture are Ron Lanska, and Mark O'Leary

When The Snow Goes

The 1967 Blue Devil tennis team entered into District competition with six returning lettermen. This veteran team showed much strength and power. The boys are coached by Mr. John Ferkul.

After losing only three members of the '66 baseball squad to graduation, Coach Roger Sheldroup and the Blue Devils Baseball team offered keen competition throughout the district and the region. After playing many hard hitting teams, the Blue Devils still managed to hold their own.

Much of the team's success came from the fine pitching of Gary Kober and Dan Poupard.

Leaders of The Yell!

Leading the cheers for 1966-67 year were from left kneeling: Sophomores Mary Hahne and Gayl Staver, sitting: Seniors Lucy VonderHaar and Carol Seppi, standing: Juniors Sandy LoPresti and Bonnie Slade.

This year's sextet of good tidings, the cheerleaders, led the Blue Devils through a year of victory in football, hockey, and basketball, as well as providing entertainment at various pep assemblies during the year.

New to the Senior High squad this year were Mary Hahne and Gail Staver, two sophomores who did their job well.

Sandra LoPresti and Bonnie Slade completed their second year on the squad. As juniors this year, they stand a good chance of being next year's cheerleaders as well.

Luci VonderHaar, and Carol Seppi have been with the group for three years. They were graduated this year, stepping down from their places to make room for two new "leaders of the yell".

The cheerleaders did their job well, through victory and loss. Cold hands and feet, long bus trips and, occasionally, lack of support, did not deter them.

As the team sinks another basket, cheerleader Gayl Staver claps with enthusiasm.

During the football season three peppy cheerleaders arouse VHS spirit.

Majorettes Perform at Games. . . .

When Beth Scherkenbach, Bonnie Kolocek, and Sara Wennen aren't twirling their batons, they're yelling for their basketball boys.

The infectious high spirits of the six majorettes, Laurie Riach, Pat Sertich, Beth Scherkenbach, Jo Ann Klink, Bonnie Kolocek, and Sara Wennen, had an exuberating effect on spectators and players alike as they smartly marched through their routines at dozens of sport events.

But it wasn't all "fun and games". Many long, hard hours went into developing and perfecting the routines. Vacations were spent at each others homes, fourth hours were spent either at the band hall rehearsing with the band or at the Miners Memorial Building, where they tried out their hockey routines on the ice. Football season is a cold one anyway, but can be even colder in a uniform. To get any degree of comfort or warmth requires at least a sweater, but twirling is twice as difficult when a bulky sweater is in the way.

With all this in mine, they were then asked if it was worth it. The answer? An emphatic "YES!"

*Hi Nan,
I want to wish you good luck always because you're such a good kid. See you around. Take care,
Bon*

Girls Show Their Athletic Ability

GRA was organized for the prime purpose of emphasizing the need for girls' physical fitness. During the year 130 members participated in various sports. When fall rolled around, members took part in volleyball, badminton, and touch football. After the snow fell, basketball and bowling became popular. Finally baseball concluded a year's sporting activities.

Throughout the school year GRA members enjoyed playing touch football in the gym.

Honor Society Promotes Leadership

Leadership, scholarship, character, and service are the four qualities each member of the National Honor Society must possess, on equal basis. In the spring of each year deserving juniors and seniors are inducted into the Lafayette Bliss Chapter and initiated in a candle-lighting ceremony. Being a member of the National Honor Society is one of the highest honors a student can achieve.

Student Council Completes A Satisfying Year

Student Council members Grace Sacchetti, Janice Angelo, Kathy Chiarello, Kathy Norri, and Carolyn Peterson serve refreshments at the AFS coketail party.

Roosevelt High School Student Council consisting of sophomore, junior, and senior class officers and all club representatives completed a satisfying year.

Under the leadership of President Kathy Chiarello, members organized the American Field Service coketail party held in February. All 150 VHS students in attendance agreed that it was a huge success.

Working with the student council to help promote better school relationships were advisors Mr. Louis Knoll, Mr. Frank Rukavina, and Mr. Willard Nelson.

Entre Nous members Barb Wahlsten and Carnita Tuomela diligently work on decorations for the club's annual project.

"Tradition was the keynote for the girls of Entre Nous and their activities of 1966-67. Selling candy and pop at the football games, a service which has been part of the schedule for many years was first on the list.

A special precedent of recent innovation was followed as the club purchased a VHS sweater for the AFS student, Ximena Lopez.

District II Meeting Heads FHA Roster

Highlight of the school year for the FHA members was the annual District II FHA Convention, which was held this year in Virginia on October 15. District President Kathe Rowell presided during the morning session and Kitty Boese, Vice President, presided over the afternoon session.

The busy day was filled with interesting information for all 600 Future Homemakers. Starting out the day, Rev. Charles Stevens spoke on the human qualities of becoming a successful homemaker. Various workshops were held. In the afternoon a style show and reception for new officers took place.

During the District II Meeting, leprechauns Barb Mish, Elaine Sooger, and Chris Sather announce the new officers with four-leaf clovers.

FTA Aids in Preparing The Teachers Of Tomorrow

If you plan to be a teacher, Future Teachers of America should be included on your club activity list. FTA was organized as an opportunity for Roosevelt students interested in teaching to investigate the profession.

Fall activity of FTA involved distributing apples to the VHS faculty during American Education Week in November.

When the winter season drew closer, old members began planning for the initiation and formal banquet for new members.

In the spring the club's activities included inviting various teachers and people indirectly involved with the teaching profession to come to speak.

As Sue Sereno carries home her many books, she realizes to be a teacher, one must first be a student.

AFS Strives to Improve Understanding Among Nations

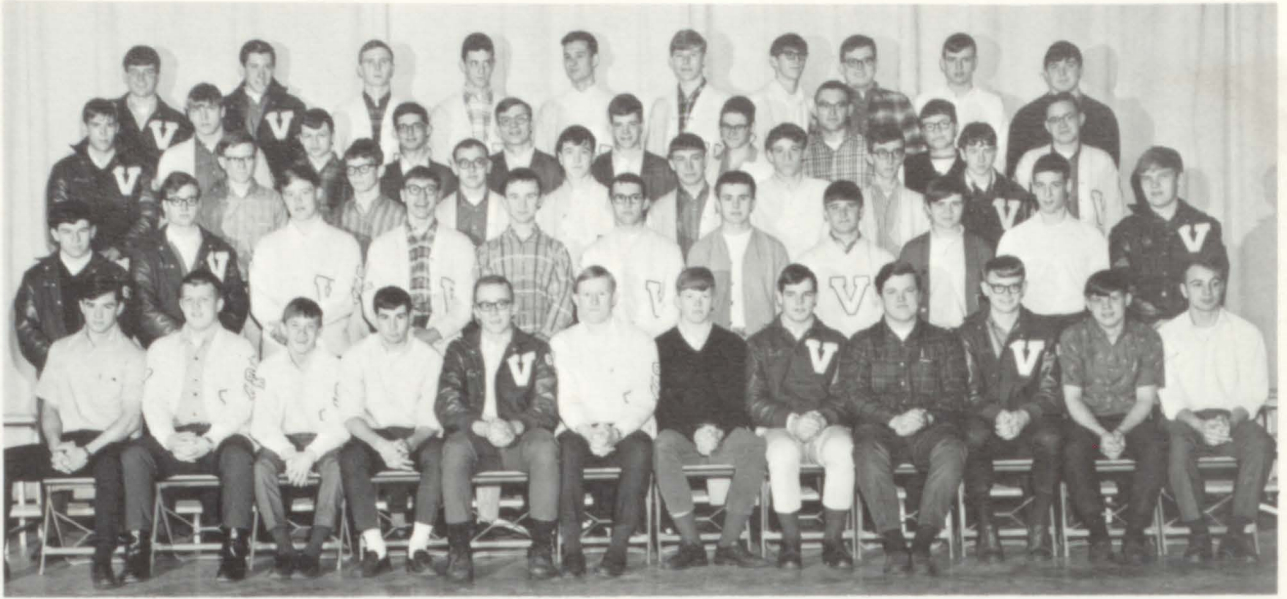

At the kick off assembly for the AFS convention, President Frances Blomgren welcomes exchange students to VHS.

A newly created club, the Virginia Chapter of the American Field Service had a successful year that climaxed with the three-day convention of foreign exchange students from throughout the area.

The countries of Australia, Thailand, Chile, Uruguay, Ethiopia, Uganda, Spain, Switzerland, and Afghanistan were represented in Virginia the weekend of February 3, 4, and 5. Each student spoke during the special assembly and juniors and seniors were invited to meet them at the reception held after school at the First Presbyterian Church. A hockey game, a party, a day at Lookout Mountain, and a dinner given by the Elks Club, were among the many activities in store for the AFS'ers.

The main aim of the AFS is to increase understanding among the peoples of the world. President Frances Blomgren and advisor Mrs. Stolberg, as well as the AFS, have done far more than their share to make this deal a reality.

Lettermen Choose The Queen

The 1966-67 Lettermen's Club under the leadership of President Jack Barrett enjoyed a very successful year.

The club's main project for the year was sponsoring the Winter Sports Festival in late January. The club members elected Queen Claudia Nelson to reign over the festivities. The traditional spaghetti supper, also during the festive weekend, was well attended by the public.

This serves as an example of what happens when there are men in the kitchen.

was "The Solid Gold Cadillac" by Teichmann and Kaufman. Both plays offered good public entertainment. Not only were the productions important, but also were the series of speech meets. Ro-Hi-Theps' member, Gus Josephson won a superior rating at St. Cloud in the fall. Some students were fortunate enough to participate in the Fall's Festival. In spring the district, region, and state contests were held.

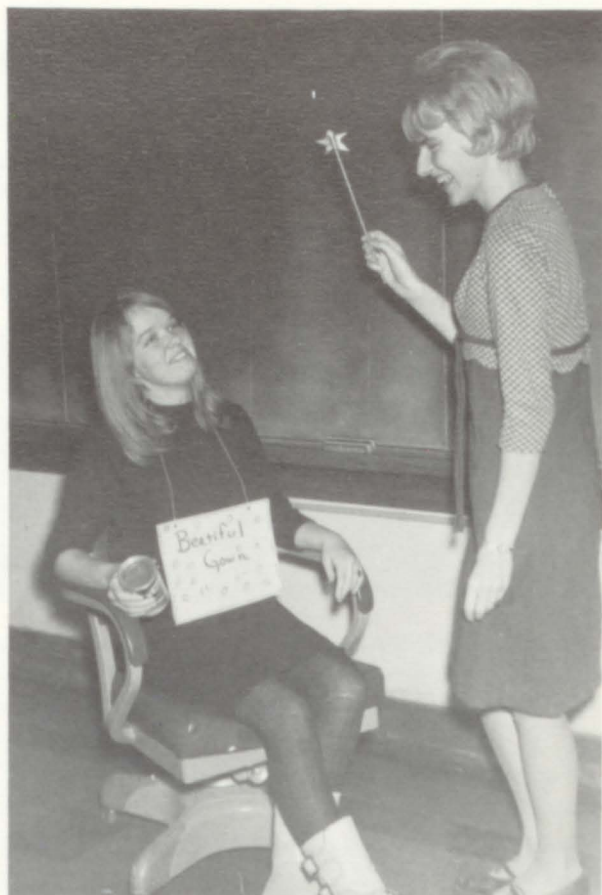

Language Club Offers Information on Cultures and People

French and Spanish culture and language can be better understood if you're a member of Spaenich. Highlighting the year was the Spanish Convention held at UMD in Duluth in November. All Iron Range towns were represented during the funfilled weekend. Tours were scheduled for the delegates each day. Special talks about different areas of Spanish were discussed.

Although the club membership is quite large, there wasn't enough participation to hold initiation for interested new members.

After a hectic year of meetings, Spaenich members gathered together once more for the annual spring banquet.

Red Cross Fulfills Numerous Obligations

During the 1966-67 school year the Roosevelt High Red Cross completed many worthwhile service projects. Starting off the year, members organized the enrollment drive for all VHS students. Because of the good response, Red Cross could carry out their yearly program.

Following the drive, club members began the project for oversea's servicemen. Making tray favors for the Pioneer's Infirmary was also included in the program. Volunteens, Red Cross' teenage volunteer group, fulfilled a rewarding year at the Infirmary too.

With the advising of Miss Korphy, the Red Cross concluded a successful year.

Each Home Game Means an Engagement for The Band

Mr. Wilbur Geary takes time to rest from his daily directing.

All set to play at the football game, the VHS band marches toward Ewen's Field.

Music, Music Everywhere

Music, music everywhere can very well be the theme of the instrumental department at VHS. Throughout the year the band and orchestra have provided Roosevelt High with music . . . at games . . . at sings . . . at concerts.

Under the direction of Mr. Wilbur Geary, the 60 piece band completed a busy year. From September to June the band faithfully supported football, basketball, and hockey games. In addition to performing at sports' events, the band also gave two successful concerts. Fall and spring seasons took the members out to practice marching for summer parades.

With different strains of music, the Roosevelt High School Orchestra presented a busy year too. After many hours of practicing, the orchestra demonstrated the beauty of music at its public performances at Christmas and Spring Concerts. Orchestra members finally displayed their talents and abilities at the district and regional contests.

MISSING FROM PICTURE—R. Johnson, G. Josephson.

"Star of the North" reporters Laurie Riach, Lynne Clubert, and Julie Antonow discuss features in the latest "Star".

Checking the picture arrivals are photographers Louise Pell and Cathy Anderson.

A Staff Member's Work

Few people realize that the hours spent on producing a high school annual and newspaper involve time, sweat, and worry.

During the 1966-67 journalistic year there were headlines to write, pictures to take, copy to read, deadlines to meet, and proofs to check. All the activity in the back room took time for both the annual and paper. With four deadlines to meet, the Rohian editors busied themselves long hours; some stretched into late evening. Star reporters furnished features for editors to proofread.

With the journalism department's new advisor, Mr. Charles Muhich, the job was equally difficult to adjust to assignments and responsibilities. At times journalists really sweat to make publications possible.

Pressure from here and there caused some worry among staff members. Finally after seven months of time, sweat, and worry, both staffs looked at the worthwhile results with relieved — but happy minds.

Before sending the paper to the print shop, "Star" editor Karlene Ruthenbeck and assistant editors Mary Bulver and Jan Pepelnjak make final proofreading.

Senior editors Mary Winter, Kathy Miettunen and Cynthia Carlson proofread Rohian copy for the first deadline.

Business manager Mary Salmi counts money taken in during the first day of Rohian sales.

Is Never Done

With a year of caption writing and picture cropping behind us, we would like to extend our thanks to Mr. Lind and his staff, Mr. McKenna of McKenna Studio, Mr. Perpich of Andrew's Camera Shop, and Mr Mehilich's fifth hour typing class for giving us their utmost cooperation.

We have worked hard this year to give you an annual that will retain memories of your high school years. We hope you will enjoy the 1967 ROHIAN as much as we have enjoyed working on it.

Co-editors,
Kathy Miettunen
Mary Winter
