TRIPPING THE LIGHT FANTASTIC

Like Rainbow Arts last year, Code Masters have just announced the completion of a Compact Disk loader for the Spectrum, Commodore or Amstrad CPC machines, which loads games in around 40 secs. Garth Sumpter spent a day on the Code Masters farm to see how they did it all...

Okay, so everybody wants to load stuff into their computer faster than a tape, but nobody wants to shell out the money for a disk drive. Now Code Masters have come up with a solution - an adaptor which provides an interface between your computer and a normal compact disk player and turns it into a sort of disk drive, the only difference being that you can only load games - you can't actually save anything onto the disk. The interface comes with a CD-Rom (which is basically a normal CD) containing 30 Code Masters games, and costs just five pence under £20 - a bargain! So how does it actually work?

THE CD SIDE OF LIFE

The program is stored on CD in digital format, and when played the program whizzes down the wire

(you can listen to it if you like, but it's horribly screechy and will more than likely burst your ear drums). But the computer can understand it, and with its processor working flat out to interpret the signal into computer code, the end result is a loading time of well under half a minute in some cases!

MOVING IN STEREO

On the C64, to make things even faster the accurate stereo effect from the CD is utilised to send two separate signals - one which is the data and another which acts as timing pulse, telling the computer to read the signal at a point when it is strongest, making it more accurately interpreted by the processor as a 1 or a 0. Consequently loading is virtually error free, and code can be crammed into the machine even faster than the Spectrum!

INTO THE FUTURE

The application of the CD system is totally up to software developers. But one thing's for sure - it has plenty of potential. Hundreds of megabytes of information can be squeezed onto the disk - far more than a conventional computer disk - and since loading time is short, far more graphics and sound information could be stored for games. Imagine a game with minutes of digitised speech or amazing digitised graphics! It could happen. Keep watching this space.

NEWS

EMLYN NEWS

It's not every day that you get to meet a big star of the software reviewing world like Paul Rand. Recently it was the turn of this lucky young lad, who said his name was Emlyn. As you can see from the picture, cheeky Mr Rand likes nothing better than to entertain his fans, and even managed a cheery smile for the camera as he and Emlyn quaffed at The Hog's Grunt Inn, Cricklewood.

After a few jars, the conversation turned to software and, his tongue loosened by the vino, Emlyn revealed that he had actually starred in a computer game himself! Not only that, he said he was soon to appear in another one! Emlyn is licensing his (rather unusual) name to Audiogenic for their latest product, also pictured here. It's a general knowledge trivia quiz game similar to those "Give Us A Break"/"Suit Pursuit" machines found in public houses across the land, but with a bit of board gaming thrown in for laffs. The game is out on all formats at the end of January, and goes under the name of Emlyn Hughes' Arcade Quiz... Hang on... Emlyn Hughes! Didn't he used to be famous...? Blimey ...

DARIUS DUNCE

Teeny mistakelet in last month's review of Darius+. The Amiga version retails at £24.99, and not the £19.99 stated. Apologies to The Edge. No apologies to Paul Glancey, who made the mistake and has since been hung up in the Ed's garden to feed the blue tits.

WHERE'S THE KONIX?

Where indeed? After numerous telephone enquiries from inquisitive punters we decided to find out what had happened to the Konix Multisystem, which was supposed to be in the shops in time for Christmas. A spokesperson for Konix was only able to tell us that the machine with the original specifications would be on sale for £229. some time during the first quarter of 1990. "It was an ambitious project," said a Konix spokesman, and with ambitious projects complications tend to crop up and hence the delay." Oh dear.

MORE DOMARK BONDAGE

Our spies in the industry tell us that Domark have bought up the license for another James Bond movie, but unfortunately, because Cubby Broccoli isn't bringing out a new film for a couple of years, they've plumped for 007's outing of several years back, The Spy Who Loved Me. The game is currently in the story boarding stages, but you can expect to be skiing off cliffs and racing about in a missile-firing Lotus Esprit around next July or August.

As the people of the Bloodwych awake to a new dawn, they find a stranger in their midst – from one of many races he has come. His task; to halt the demon that lies dormant within the Castle of the Bloodwych.

Unification of the Crystals of Sanguis will secure the Behemoth in his lair for all eternity. Should they remain separate, then he shall rise to bring darkness into the world.

This unique role-playing fantasy game allows greater interaction with the environment than has ever been seen before. Argue, barter, negotiate – even lie through your teeth! The fully implemented personalities of all the characters in Bloodwych allows a rich style of role-playing that has only been dreamt of.

With one or two player simultaneous mode, this is the game that you've been waiting for. Bloodwych for those that dare!

SIM CITY

A strange, abstract game that keeps you playing

INDY 500

(PC)

The best race game I've played out-

PARADROID

A stunning game - I'm looking forward to the 90's version coming out on 16 bit later on this year.

DROPZONE

(ATARI)

The best 8 bit blaster of all time.

ANY SUPER MARIO GAME

(NINTENDO)

Simply perfect playability. Mario III is simply awesome.

Now we're into the 90's, the C+VG lads have decided to get together and reveal their favourite games of the last decade. You might agree with them. You might not. In which case why not write in to the YOB saying what your favourites are and why. There's a special prize for the best letter we receive on the subject...

The first game I ever bought for my Spectrum, and I STILL haven't finished

10. URIDIUM

Didn't really like this until a couple of years ago, but you couldn't get me off

PAUL GLANCEY

There's no doubt about my number one favourite game, but choosing the rest was a difficult decision.

1. DUNGEON MASTER

So cunning and so etmospheric. You really started to worry about what was lying in ambush around the next corner.

2. ELITE

The most exciting trip through space

3. SUPER MARIO BROTHERS

There's just so much in it!

4. GUNHED

A pyrotechnical delight and you can accumulate so much destructive power. which is just how a shoot 'em up

5. WIZBALL

Sensible Software's tour de force, a real treat for the senses.

6. INDIANAPOLIS 500

Astonishingly realistic racing simulation. Almost worth buying a PC for.

7. DELTA

Playing it in a darkened room with the music turned up is an experience not

8. TETRIS

The definition of "engrossing". The ultimate portable pastime

9. GHOULS 'N' GHOSTS

Simply because it's such an amazing conversion of an arcade machine.

10. UP 'N' DOWN

(C64)

It was just so jolly. It made me think happy thoughts.

THE RATINGS

When a game is reviewed, we give ratings for five different criteria:

GRAPHICS

Does the game look good? Is the scrolling smooth? Are the sprites flickery? Is the anima-tion realistic? This mark covers all visual aspects of the

SOUND

Sound and music that enhance a game are given high marks. The sound rating is low if the soundtrack or effects are inap-

VALUE

Here, we take into consideration the price of the game, the amount of entertainment it offers and the quality of the packaging. In other words - is it worth the money.

PLAYABILITY

This tells you how addictive and enjoyable the game is the higher the rating is, the more playable the game is.

OVERALL

The most important rating of all. This is what we think of the game as a whole, taking into consideration all the other ratings. In short, how good the game really is.

THE MARKS

A C+VG HIT! An outstanding game that shouldn't be missed.

70-85

A very good game that missed out on a higher accolade due to minor discrepancies. Should definitely be tried, though.

55-69

Average to fairly good. Could still appeal to fans of the genre.

40-55

Below average to average. Generally a disappointment.

15-39

Generally a poor game that mightn't even appeal to the most ardent fans.

Ugh! Binary sewage that's guaranteed to make your computer throw up.

t's Christmas Party time at the Nakatomi Corporation's new office block. Employers and staff make merry together on the 32nd floor of their high-rise headquarters, eating, drinking and dancing the night away, little knowing that a terrorist organisation has evaded the building's security systems, locked the doors and is about to gatecrash the function, guns blazing. Led by one Hans Gruber, the terrorists are demanding the $600m worth of bearer bonds, held inside the comwise a massacre will take place. The idea was flawless.

John McClane, an off-duty New York police officer is inside the building, visiting his estranged wife, Holly. Carrying nothing save his regulation pistol, he ducks into the bathroom on the 32nd floor to weigh up the situation. And what a situation! The only way to save the hostages and foil the terrorists' plan is to deactivate the security seal which is locking the door leading to the roof. Once on the roof, he must swing to a building opposite, then from that building crash through the window to level 33 of the Nakatomi offices, negotiating the Board Room to reach level 34, then back to the roof before climbing down to a lower floor to tackle head honcho, Hans. Throughout the building are terrorists which need to be eliminated, both to stop them from killing McClane and to collect the weapons and other useful objects which they possess. A vertical bar represents McClane's energy level, which decreases when shot or punched by a terrorist Extra energy can be gained by using the first aid kit on level 32, or by eating the food carried by some of the enemy. On reaching Gruber, McClane finds that the evildoer is holding Holly at gunpoint - precise pistol packing is the order of the day if Hans is to get his just desserts.

The most striking aspect of what could have been a fairly average arcade adventure is the amazing 3D graphics system implemented in Die Hard. Each room is littered with tables, chairs and other office furniture and, although these items are only there as adornment and cannot be interacted with, they add atmosphere and realism to the game. Frame update is very fast, even on slower PC's than the 26MHz one which we have in the office, and your character is quick to respond to joystick or keyboard movements. As bullets are in limited supply, McClane has the ability to fight unarmed which, while useful when against non-gun toting terrorists, makes life harder when confronting an Uzi-packing bad guy, so strategic elements also feature in Die Hard, insofar as deciding whether to boot the baddies, risking loss of energy, or simply to fire off a few rounds in the hope that you'll find more ammo later in the game.

The PC has seen something of a surge of quality releases lately, across a wide range of genres. What with last month's awe-inspiring Indy 500 and now the graphically excellent, not to mention highly playable Die Hard to name but two, PC owners are in for a very happy New Year and beyond. It's just a pity that the main sprite and, indeed, the bloke on the box. looks nothing like Bruce Willis at all! (Surely that's no disadvantage? - Ed)

Hello folks, and welcome to the first Mailbag page of the 1990's. YOB's here once again to sift through his bulging sack (mail sack, that is) and answer a heap of letters. If you've got anything to say, be it witty or not, questions or answers or whatever, send your stuff to: YOB'S MAILBAG, C+VG, PRIORY COURT, 30-32 FARRINGDON LANE, LONDON, EC1R 3AU.

THE EMPIRE STRIKES BACK

Dear YOB

Yes, I'm back and this time I've brought my Dad (as well as Yoda)! Well, you will probably be highly excited to learn that we have, in fact, swapped our Aquarius for a couple of Amigas (with change to spare). The main reason for this is that we have joined a "Cracking Team". We call ourselves the Street Tough Street Cred Bunk Bed Brain Dead Cracking Talent. Good, huh? We feel we must share our great cracking knowledge with Joe Public (hi Joe) so here is a typical page out of Yoda's Cracking Diary:

MONDAY, 27TH NOVEM-BER, 1989 AD

6:00 AM: Woke up. Phoned Darth Vader for his latest 6:01 AM: Started to clean up after last night's Copy Party. Like the Dutch Piracy Software Federation, our Research and Copy team did a great job too. Unfortunately they did not clean it up. 7:00 AM: Darth comes round for an early Copy Session. He still can't copy my devastating impression of Frankie Howerd.

7:02 AM: Phew! Just finished cracking my 30th game of the 10:30 AM: Just finished coding an arcade perfect version of NARC for the Amiga. Saved it to disk and gave it to Darth to crack. Yes, OUR copy team is so advanced that we write our own games to crack! Problem is, Darth cracked my game with a sledgehammer.

12:00 PM: Marco Van Basten MBA (My Balls Ache) of the Dutch Piracy Software Federation flew over especially for lunch. Had to pretend we were out by hiding under the coffee table until he went away to annoy someone else. I've decided to write in to ask ber of our cracking group? 5:30 PM: Began the huge, awesome task of answering our sacks of fan mail. 5:31 PM: Eat dinner and prepare disks for Copy Party to-

6:00 PM: Headed off in the general direction of Sweden for the party.

7:30 PM: A very interesting party indeed. Thank God Gremlin of Scoopex was present, as his mum brought the ice cream and jelly along. The party was stopped after Gremlin and his gang ate the lot and all the Cracking Groups present realised they had no coding abilities whatsoever. And to top it all we missed Wogan.

8:00 PM: Compacted the thirty games we cracked this morning with our Mega-Packer Super-Packer Shelf-Packer Kill-A-Hacker utility. Sent the disk to our many millions of followers around the globe.

9:00 PM: Tuck up in beddyland with Teddy and a nice mug of cocoa.

So, it just goes to show what an important job we crackers do, doesn't it, eh? Darth Vader and Yoda, Witham, Essex YOB: Hi guys. You're fab. Free software and t-shirts are on their way, I promise.

CHANGE THE NAME

Dear YOB,

you to explain why some English games have been renamed for the American market. I buy various magazines every month including "Compute" and have noticed the changed names e.g. IK+ to Chop 'n' Drop, Nebulus to Tower Toppler and Green Beret to Rush 'n' Attack. Sanjay Kapur, Victoria, Aus-

YOB: What's usually the case is that another product has the same name as an English game, so to export it to America, the English company has to change the name of their game. Silly, but there we go.

NAMING THE GAME

Dear YOB,

I am writing to see if you will answer a few of my questions, but firstly I would very much like to comment on a few things. In your June issue of C+VG (the one with Indiana Jones on the cover) at the Arcades section you reviewed an arcade game which you called "Game with no name". The game you were referring to was the Konami beat 'em up Crimefighters. You gave it a disappointing review. I though it was ****ing brilliant. I have completed it twice including the special stage after the last. And now for my questions:

- Do Konami intend to bring Crimefighters to the home computer?
- 2. What ever happened to the game 19 Part II - The Combat Zone?
- 3. Are the Nintendo games Gradius and Rush 'n' Attack really Nemesis and Green Beret?
- 4. Can you please give me a map and tips for Tusker like you did with Last Ninja II? I'd like to know how to get the map and how to get into the forest in the green foliage.
- Does anyone have a cheat for The Untouchables?
- Are the 3D glasses and Light Phaser available for the C64?

7. Are the Nintendo games Double Dribble and Life Force really Basket Master and Salamander? Nicky Norbury, Learnington Spa, Warwickshire

YOB: Crimefighters (it had no name when we reviewed it) is just another boring old Double Dragon clone. I certainly didn't think it was very good - there are loads of better fighting games in the arcades. Still, one man's meat... can be bigger or smaller than another's. To answer your questions 1: No. 2: What indeed. 3: Yes. 4: Hang on a sec (rummages through pockets). No, not at the moment. 5: Oh, I'm sure someone does. Keep watching the tips section. 6: A light phaser is apparently in the pipeline - we'll keep you posted. There are no proper 3D glasses. 7: Yes.

I WANNA LYNX

Dear YOB. I read the double-page Mean Machines article about the Lynx, but to my dismay it isn't to be released until next year sometime. I was wondering if you would please print the address of an American company that would send me details about the Lynx and then sell me it.

Justin Fabrizio, Clynder, Helensburgh

YOB: Well, Justin, me old mate, me old china, me old soup spoon, I'll be straight with you. I'm afraid, well, I don't know how to say this, but I, um, I... don't know of anyone in the USA who'd be able to help you. Why not wait a bit, and satisfy yourself with all the latest Lynx news in C+VG? I'm getting good at this plugging business, aren't l Ed? (Not bad, but still room for improvement - Ed). Anyway, it's coming to Britain soon, so just keep on hanging in there...

HOPELESS LIAR

Dear (?) YOB, I'm in a state; my FM Towns and my Acorn A3000 have just broken down. Help! I'm being reduced to playing on my PC Engine SG, my Konix, even my Sega Megadrive. I even stooped as low as playing on my Hard Drivin' cabinet situated at my bedside. But then, life's a bitch? Greg Thwaites, Streatham, London

YOB: Yeah. And then you

QUEST FOR XE-LENCE

Dear YOB, I'm wondering if you could tell me why I can't get many computer games for my Atari 65XE. Because I live at Cirencester and they don't do Robocop and all them good games like that for mine. Barry Evans, Cirencester, Gloucester

YOB: Yes, I asked several major games manufacturers and the fact is that they don't send any good 65XE software to the shops in Cirencester because you live there and they just don't like you because you smell funny. No, sorry about that but I couldn't resist it. Robocop isn't available for the XE. But there are plenty of Atari games that are - check out Silica Shop for a huge catalogue of games for your machine. ing doesn't mind an eyeball Send an SAE and a letter saying that you want a list of Atari XE games to: SILI-CA SHOP, THE MEWS, HATHERLEY ROAD, SID-CUP, KENT, DA14 4DX.

MR TV KELLY

Dear YOB.

I think you're right about us being misrepresented on television, so let's do something about it. Everyone reading this should sit up and write a letter to the BBC or ITV. Let's bombard them with letters until they give in and let us have our own programme. Outline the facts of what you want and put your age so we don't get put on children's television. You can contact the BBC at: BBC TV Centre, London, W12 8QT and ITV at: Thames Television Ltd. Viewer Correspondence, 149 Tottenham Court Road, London, W1P 9LL Darren Kelly, Ludlow, Shropshire YOB: Yeah, exactly, I mean what do we pay our license fees for? Come to think of it, what DO we pay our licence fees for?

HOWAY PET!

Dear Yob

I'll start by begging for one of your mega stonking T-shirts, so let us have one or I'll let you have one right on the nose - got it? Anyway, that's enough threatening blackmail so let's get on with what I really wish to know... Have you any pets? I myself have two delightful rhinoceroses, Gargantua and Goliath, and a suicidal lemming called Archie. If you do have any pets, what are their names and hobbies? My rhinos enjoy a bit of sky-diving and jogging. Actually, one of them's a star - remember the Jacobs Club advert with the "Rhino-tested for strength"? Well, that was old Goliath himself! As for Archie, all he ever seems to do is throw himself off bookcases and tables, but he's a lovely little fel-one? My rhinos do so enjoy a tender leg of Yob. The lemmler really. Also, what is their favourite food, if they have or two either. So if you do have any pets, tell us as I'm sure mine would like to eat yours - whoops, did I say eat? I meant to say meet yours as I'm sure they would go down well. Oh yes, nearly forgot. Thanks for a whoopy-do of a mag. Merle Riseborough, Fakenham, Norfolk YOB: I've got a Rottweiler

WHAT CONSOLE?

called Fang. He's a great dog, and loves children.

Dear Yob. Could you tell me which is the best console at the moment. I am thinking of getting a Megadrive, but the games are very dear. My mate keeps going on about how good Amigas are and they have better graphics than the Megadrive. Is that true? I would be very grateful for your opinion on them both. Mark Dennis, Hull PS Don't tell me to read Complete Guide To Consoles because I've bought it already. By the way, C+VG is totally and utterly mega. YOB: Read the book again, weigh up all the good and bad points of each machine, see which machine has the games you like best and buy that machine. An Amiga costs twice as much as a Megadrive, and in many cases, Megadrive conversions (Ghouls 'n' Ghosts, Super Hang-On, Forgotten Worlds, Altered Beast, Space Harrier, for example) are miles better than their Amiga counterparts. But then Amiga owners have their own great games in the form of Populous, Sim City, It Came From the Desert... If you're choosing between the two, check out your wallet, check out which games YOU like best and want to play the most and buy.

PLEASE STATE MAKE OF COMPUTER

PLEASE STATE MAKE OF COMPUTER

PLEASE STATE HAKE OF COMPUTER

PLEASE STATE HAKE OF COMPUTER

Into the new decade we go with loads of hints and tips on all systems. If you've got anything in the way of playing tips, maps, POKEs or whatever, send them off to me at: PLAYMASTERS, C+VG, PRIORY COURT, 30-32 FARRINGDON LANE, LONDON, EC1R 3AU. Don't forget that there's a big prize of £100 worth of software for the sender of the month's best tips. So write in - you never know, your tips could earn yourself a massive bag of brilliant new games. This month Steven Haw of Warley wins all that lovely software... now be able to complete the course without skidding or having to brake. Also if you run out of time you keep going at the same speed, even though the engine sound drops to tick-over.

Selecting neutral at any stage of the game stops you from skidding and you maintain your speed regardless of the amount of time remaining.

The above tip, apparently, works on the Speed Course, but can also be utilised on the Stunt Course. The only thing you have to remember there is to select 1st gear just before you go round the loop, and as you leave the loop accelerate and select neutral.

NEW ZEALAND STORY

G Ingham of Wootton Wawer (I think that's the name of the place, but I can't really tell 'cos the writing's all dodgy) has a tip for those who are having trouble getting past the giant octopus at the end of level 2.4. Stand at the entrance of the room in which it's located and fire to the right a few times. A warp appears which takes you to the beginning of level 3.1, missing the dreaded octopus entirely!

SPECTRUM ALTERED BEAST

If you fancy loading any level, and even the end-of-game message, just do what Steve Haw from Warley in the West Midlands does - press the whole keyboard while you're playing!

FORGOTTEN WORLDS

Here's a POKE for Multiface owners who really want to indulge in extreme laziness and make this game so easy you don't actually need to play it. Load the game, press the red button and type POKE 30271,0. It gets rid of all the enemy sprites and has an interesting effect in two-player mode. Thankyouvery-much Steven Haw.

AMIGA BEACH VOLLEY

This is one hell of a tough game, but Neil Wassell of Peacehaven in East Sussex has a useful tip to help those who are having trouble getting to later levels. Just type in DADDY BRACEY while you're playing and then you can press F1 to skip the level.

MEGA-DRIVE LAST BATTLE

Here's a useful tip for Last Battle owners from the Sega Mega Man and the Konami Kid. For a sort of level skip function, when you've finished a game, press the A, B and C buttons down together along with the start button. You're presented with a screen that lets you alter the order of the levels.

SUPER HANG-ON

Another great tip from the Sega Mega Man and the Konami Kid, this time for this superb motorcycle racing game. On the title screen hold down the A, B and C buttons together and press start and you're presented with a screen which lets you select the difficulty, time and sound test. Great, eh? By the way, we'll be reviewing this game next month - watch out for it!

GENERAL HARD DRIVIN'

I don't know what format this tip works on, 'cos sender Paul Ramsell from Kirkby in Ashfield didn't say, but try it out on your machine because it's quite neat. When the program loads, select manual shift with no clutch and start the game. As you move off up the hill get into 4th gear as quickly as possible (using 1-4 on the keyboard) and stay in the right hand lane. When you reach the top of the first hill your car should leave the road for a second, and when this happens the speedo goes to 140 mph. Before you land, press the N key to put the car in neutral. You will

NINJA COMMANDO

Another Steven Haw Multiface tip, this one slightly more useful than the Forgotten Worlds one - it gives you 255 ninja commandos. So, just load the game, press the red button on the Multiface and POKE 29076,255 for a immense supply of kung-fu ma-

STAR FARCE

Easy, this cheat. Just define the keys as T, R, O, N, I and C and infinite lives are yours to have and to waste for the rest of eternity, if you so wish. Cheers to Steven Haw from Warley.

COBRA FORCE

Another simple-to-enter tip. again from that fab Spectrum tipster, Steven Haw. All you've got to do is define the keys as S, I, M, O and N and you're awarded with unlimited

TURBO BOAT SIMULATOR

If you're a player of this "simulator" in the broadest sense of the word, you might like to know that if you pause the game and then press T you progress to the next level. That's yet another tip from Steven Haw

PETER PACK-RAT

When you're asked if you want to scroll the screen, type C, R, E, A, T, U, R, E and when you die you'll be able to start the game from where you left off. Thanks again to Steven Haw. Are there any other Spectrum gamers out there?

ALMIN MASSACRE

Steven Haw has all the passwords for this novelnamed ninja game:

LEVEL 5 SNOW LEVEL 10 LEVEL 15 RACK LEVEL 20 BLUE LEVEL 25 STAG LEVEL 30 HULL LEVEL 35 BEER LEVEL 40

BARD

NEW ZEALAND STORY

I'm sure you already know that if you type FLUFFY on the title screen you get infinite lives, so I won't bother to tell you that. But what I will tell you is that typing PHILLIP on the title screen gives Tiki the Kiwi mega firepower. And typing the same thing while you're playing the game lets you skip to the next level. Very useful indeed, so three cheers to Steven Haw of Warley for that.

FIGHTING SOCCER

Another one of those tips where the sender - Scott Brown of Hodderston, Herts in this case - has forgotten to state which format it's actually for. Please remember to say what machine your tips Keep an eye on the goose are for, because if you don't and you win the £100 worth of software, I won't know what games to send... Still, here's the cheat - see if you can get it to work on your machine. Always shoot straight from the penalty spot, because the keeper always dives to save the ball, allowing the ball to go straight in.

SILKWORM

Players of this great shoot 'em up will no doubt improve their highscores after reading the following tips from Oliver Davies of Halesowen in the West Mid-

- Never collect the point bonus tokens left by the geese until the very last moment as they serve as useful five-second shields. Also, activate smart bombs at the last possible moment as doing this kills more aliens.
- Each power-up token results in a stripe being added to your status area below your score, and they add up to give the following bonuse
  - FIVE POWER-UPS Stripes form a flag icon. TEN POWER-UPS Second flag item appears. FIFTEEN POWER-UPS Small bird appears. You keep rapid fire when you

TWENTY POWER-UPS Golden Eagle. You keep all your weapons when you die - a very useful fea-

- counter. Never shoot aliens if you're near the end of a level and the counter is low because this causes a goose AND the end of level guardian to appear.
- For double the weapons bonus, shoot the goose before it assembles with the grey bit - then it is most vul-
- When the black deathstars appear, don't shoot them at once, because after a few seconds they drop a shield token.

ARCHIPE-LAGOS

Another mini player's guide from Owen Davies of the West Midlands, this time for Logotron's weird and wonderful Archipelagos.

- Firstly learn to find your way around, as knowing where the Island stones and the Obelisk are is a great help to finishing the
- lsland stones can only be destroyed when they're connected by land to the Obelisk. You've got to use the map to determine this, connections are only valid if the land cells are adjacent (not diagonal). And Sand connections don't count, either.

 Collect as many energy pods as possible.

 To conserve energy, build connections between islands at the point where they're the closest.

EXOLON

This is an old one, but some might have missed it. Just type AD ASTRA instead of your name (or whatever) on the highscore table and you'll be granted with unlimited lives. Cheers to Paal Rydningen of Norway for revitalising that mini-hint.

CYBERNOID

Another oldie tip from Paal Rydningen of Norway, this time for this rather neat shoot 'em up. Type R. A. I. S. T. L. I and N on the title screen and press space for 999,999,999 lives. Now the big challenge is to waste them all...

C64

INDY II: ACTION GAME

Hold down F, I, S and H at the same time and you can then use 1-5 on the keyboard to select a level to play on. Cheers to Neil O'Brin of Feltham, Middx for that.

RICK DANGER-OUS

Neil O'Brin has been PO-KEing around, and has some useful machine-code changing chuckles for this superlative platform game. Just load the game, reset your machine and type POKE 27931,173 for unlimited lives, POKE 11193,173 for unlimited dynamite and POKE 10886,173 for unlimited bullets. When you've entered all of those, type SYS 2057 to restart the game. If you can't complete it now, you're a complete and utter wet nellie.

BLASTE-ROIDS

Another POKE from Neil O'Brin, this times for Imageworks' rock bustin' game. Load the program, reset the machine and type POKE 11571,173 for an infinite supply of space ships. Restart the game with SYS 25856.

PACMANIA

The last C64 POKE this month, again from megahacker Neil O'Brin, is for Grandslam's dot-gobblin' game. Just load the program, reset the machine and enter POKE 22459,173 to disable the sprite collision detection, or, if you want to make the game just a little easier, POKE 28520,165 for an infinite supply of PacMen. When you've made your selection, type SYS 14336 to restart the game.

AMSTRADE TREASURE ISLAND DIZZY

If any of you Dizzy players are having problems, check out this complete solution from Tony Silvre of Clacton-On-Sea, Essex and all your problems should be solved. And best of all, it works on all formats of the game.

First of all, get the empty chest and climb up the rock. Drop the chest next to the rock, go right and push the rock. Get the snorkel, video camera and the sword and go back to the beach. Drop all the stuff you've collected except the snorkel and go into the water. Get the spade and come out of the water again, and go back into the water so that the spade will be dropped first.

See the dancing rock?
Well, put the spade on top of it and go out of the water and fetch the video camera and sword. Go back to where the dancing rock should be and walk onto one of the bubbles. The bubble takes you up the cliff. Walk off the bubble and jump up the cliff. Go to the storekeeper give him the video camera and put the boat which he gives you on the end of the pier.

Go left and put the sword on the grave and fall down the hole. Go left, and get the dynamite. Jump down the place where the crab is. Get on the bubble and go back to the grave. Put the dynamite down on the grass and go back to the pier and get the golden key. Go back to the gravestone, fall down the hole again. Go right and jump over the barrels. When you see a little bit of a barrel sticking out of the floor, drop the key on it and go down the hole and get the microwave.

Get out of the tunnel the same way as last time. Give the storekeeper the microwave and he gives you a motor, so drop that off the edge of the pier. Go left and get the axe and holy bible and go down the water back to the bridge. Put the axe on the middle of the bridge and fall down. Go left and jump up the platforms so you will come out of a grave. Rearrange your bits (that's what he says - JR) and go down the bridge and get the cursed treasure. Don't drop the holy bible until you get back to the storekeeper. Give the storekeeper the treasure and take the fuel (which he gives you) and drop it off the pier. Get the dynamite and go back to the beach and get the infra red detonator. Go left until you get to the last scene. On the first rock drop the detonator and jump over the rock and go to the rocks which are blocking you from the gold. Put the dynamite there and go and press "enter" when you are standing on the detonator. Get the gold and go back to the storekeeper. Give him the gold and then take the key (which he gives you) and drop it off the pier. Quickly jump on the boat and keep walking on the boat. Jump onto the harbour and read the message. Hey prestol The game's complete!! Now find the gold coins.

LIGH SCORES

Welcome to the Official UK Highscore Table. where Britain's best players get the chance to display their record scores. We have literally thousands of letters a month, and each is checked by our panel of experts as to whether it's genuine or not. One discrepancy this month is a claimed score of 341,247,670 by Adam Took of Leeds on Fantasy Zone. Days of play would be required to get that score - so if you write in and tell us exactly how long it took you, and how you actually achieved that score, Adam, it'll be included in the table. If you don't ... no chance. If you've got a highscore, send it in to: UK HIGHSCORE TABLE, C+VG, PRIORY COURT, 30-32 FARRINGDON LANE, LONDON EC1R 3AU. It certainly helps us if you include details of how long you actually played for, and what level you got up to - if your scores are considered genuine, they'll be included into the table, and be prepared for instant fame and fortune.

▲ The bonus stage (obviously quite tough).

Another pipeline finished, and no bits wasted!

▲ Level 21 - through reservoirs and around hydrants!

▲ Level one - fairly easy, this.

Every so often a game appears that's laughably simple to play, yet is so unbelievably addictive you just can't stop playing it. Tetris was one such game. Pipe Mania is another.

At the start of a level you're presented with a simple grid of squares, one of which contains a tap. A timer starts to count down, and what you have to do is place pieces of pipe on the screen, each section of pipe occupying one of the grid squares, and form a pipeline. When the timer runs out, the tap opens and liquid slowly floods out and around your system of pipes. You can still continue to put down pieces of pipe, but the liquid flows relentlessly on until it inevitably reaches the end of pipe...

On each screen you have a set target which you must beat. For example, on the first screen the liquid must flow through 14 squares - 14 pieces of pipe in other words. If the flow reaches the end of a pipe before it has gone through the target amount, it's game over.

The pipe pieces come in a variety of shapes, and appear randomly one at a time - although you can see what the next four shapes will be. Sometimes it's easy to link them together and form an unbroken line, while at other times you really have to think

As you progress through the levels, things get tougher and tougher, with faster moving liquid, an ever-decreasing time limit, and things like oneway pipes, bonus pipes, holes, obstacles, and tunnels from one side of the screen to the other to help or hinder you. It gets very frantic indeed!

As I've already said, Pipe Mania is a very simple game. and on paper sounds a bit dull. But to put it bluntly, it's one of the most addictive games I've ever played. It's rather like Tetris in that respect. You can't really say why the game keeps you playing non-stop for so long. It just does. You go back to it time and time again. And just when you think you've finished, you go back for another go. And another. And another...

As well as the game being utterly brilliant, it's also superbly presented, with a password scheme to let you access higher levels and, adding enormously to the lasting appeal, a one or simultaneous two-player option, which is amazing fun, and two modes of play, normal mode and one where you have two lots of pipe shapes to choose from!

Pipe Mania is a fantastic piece of computer software. It's got that timeless quality that'll keep it fresh long after the latest big-name licences have gone off. It's a must.

JULIAN RIGNAL

UPDATE

Pipe Mania is out on just about every single machine going - Spectrum, Amstrad, C64, ST, PC, Apple Mac, BBC, Electron, MSX and looks like it'll even appear on the consoles. The simplicity of the game means that it'll translate to all the above machines without losing any of its addictive qualities - so no matter what system you own, make sure you don't miss this.

BY MICROPROSE

Top ho Ginger, an' all that stuff. It's back to the Second World War as you, in your small P-47 fighter, dare to brave the barrage of enemy flak and gunfire in a horizontally scrolling conversion of the Jaleco coin-op.

The mission starts over occupied Northern France, with nothing but a gatling gun and three backup planes to keep you going. Up against you is the ferocious might of the Nazi air force, packing a very large punch in the form of the very latest military vehicles and weapons systems. Luckily there are power-up weapons to collect to give you a hand combating all these aerial terrors.

At the end of each level, the Germans have deployed massive amounts of firepower, attached to either aircraft or ground-based vehicles, and little old you must dodge the bullets and blast the baddies before you can move on to the next area.

There are loads of on-screen baddies, and without any loss of speed, either, but the screen is so colourful that you begin to lose track of exactly what's firing at you, a situation which usually ends in your little plane erupting into a ball of orange flame. That's the big problem with P-47, the brightness of the screen making it difficult to keep track of what's going on, and that hits gameplay pretty hard, especially on the first couple of levels which should have been the most playable to sustain interest for the rest of the game.

P-47 is a fairly playable game, and quite a good coinop conversion too, but unless you've got 20/20 vision, have a look at what you're buying before parting with any of that graciously received Xmas cash.

PAUL RAND

UPDATE

P-47 is also to be released on Amiga, C64, Spectrum and Amstrad, at prices of £19.99 for 16 bit and £9.99 the rest. The Amiga version shouldn't be much different from the ST, and while we've seen nothing of the 8 bit conversions, they're being programmed by the makers of Silkworm, so they should be good. ST £19.99 orget all the guff in the manual about commanders being taken hostage and ace pilots rushing to the rescue after successful mis-sions etc, etc. Battle Squadron is a heavy duty shoot 'em up, the unofficial followup to the smash hit Hybris, in

Pilot a spaceship (or two, if you're playing in two-player mode) across a battlescarred planet in a vertically scrolling attack on hostile allen forces. You're up against an army of welltrained enemies, using the very latest defences to beat you back to whence you came, and each level contains numerous different forces, from small, bird-like fighter craft to ground-based missile launchers and, yup, you guessed it, intimidating end of level craft which spew out gunfire as if there was no tomorrow. Armed with only a single shot cannon at the outset of the battle, it's possible to upgrade your weapons dur-ing the game by destroying the mobile storage units patrolling the surface of the planet which eject the necessary equipment when they explode. Some of the waves of enemy ships leave behind a smart-bomb when wiped out very admirably indeed, but after only a few minutes a you get a nagging feeling of "Erm, haven't I seen this somewhere before?" In fact,

I've seen it in rather a lot of places before and after a while I began to get rather bored with the whole thing. Die-hard shoot 'em up addicts are bound to derive enormous pleasure from sending all those brilliantly presented baddies to king-dom come, as will most other gamers, for a while at least. Just don't expect to find any-thing that hasn't been done before, that's all.

PAUL RAND

A fair few months back, Lu-casfilm revived a bit of wartime nostalgia with Battle-hawks 1942. Now Lucasfilm have moved from the Pacific to the English Channel with Their Finest Hour, a game based around the aerial bat-tles over the green fields of Britain in the early years of WWII.

As with Battlehawks, the first task in hand is to choose a nationality by way of selecting from a list of available aircraft. While the Germans have a large amount of planes at their disposal, rang-ing from the small but nimble workhorse of the Luftwaffe, the Messerschmitt Bf 109E-3, to heavily-armoured, albeit sluggish, bombers such as the Heinkel He 111H-3, the poor old Brits have to make do with only two attack planes - the Hawker Hurricane and Supermarine Spit-fire

Missions vary depending on your choice of country. The British planes are mainly used for defence purposes, picking off invading Luftwaffe forces, while the opposition has a wider choice of either flying bombing runs into mainland airspace or guarding the bombers from British attack during their missions - your choice of German plane determines the type of missions available to you.

After you've fought a mission, a screen appears outlining the number of enemy and allied planes damaged and destroyed, and a summary of your current status. Medals and promotions are available to pilots worthy of reward, with a cold POW camp or even death awaiting those unlucky enough to fail. Pilots are saved to disk and used throughout the game until killed or retired, and whole campaigns can be fought, the computer stringing together a number of missions to simulate life as a serving airman.

Although Their Finest
Hour is obviously an immense piece of software, with an enormous amount of thought having gone into both the design and presentation of the package, it's slow to play. Even on our mega-speedy 386 PC play was verging on sluggish - and on slower machines, the action is reduced to a crawl.

But in spite of that, I did have fun playing Their Finest Hour - there's an incredible amount of game in there. If you have got a fast machine and enjoy big combat simulations with plenty of depth, check this out. Those who like their flying action faster should try F-15 II or Bomber instead.

PAUL RAND

TOWER OF BABEL

An intricate 3D strategy game involving an interconnecting network of towers, platforms and lifts all rendered in solid 3D with innovative light and shading techniques. Take control of robot spiders and program them to solve problems and puzzles and interact with other creatures, such as Pushers, Zappers and Grabbers. Alternatively, real time control is available to you at any time for instantaneous reaction to the game's developments. For the more adventurous among you, there is a complete game designer, allowing the construction of your own series of towers, platforms and lifts. Attempt to fox your friends with your own fiendishly difficult creations. More than just a game, more than just a puzzle – Tower of Babel is a whole new concept in strategy gaming.

Sprites are generally on the small side, but all are very well animated and have a realistic metallic sheen to them, and the end-of-level guardians are fantastic - especially the first one which looks as though it's been built using parts from an octopus and a dead horse's skull!

Batmania continues for another month, but right on the Batmobile's bumper is Stunt Car Racer which leaps into second place. Electronic Zoo get off to a good start with Battle Squadron, their polished but uninnovative blaster, and Anco's Kick Off add-on, Extra Time makes it into the chart's nether regions.

The festive present-buying season has meant that full price games have nudged out a lot of the budget tat. Batman finally displaces the rogue Paperboy to take top spot and the superla-tive Stunt Car Racer motors straight into the number three position.

PG'S TIPS

GHOULS 'N' GHOSTS: Remarkably good conversion of the Capcom knight-in-shining-armour romp.

I was after a brave paladin had been hung, drawn and quartered for slaying the last living dragon that the world's spellcasters found their magic failing. Since that day, turmoil had erupted with a multitude of disasters ravaging the kingdom. In the meantime, the good ship Shadrak, while on a trading mission, had become separated from its escort vessels when its powerless wind-wizard could not summon a breeze to fill the sails. Yet the ship was drawn northward by an unknown force, until it finally grounded on the shores of an uncharted island. Before the crew could investigate fur-ther, they were attacked and aimost wiped-out by an army of creatures, half man, half lizard, the Drakkhen.

The survivors of the battle were led to a huge palace where they were told of a Drakkhen plan to wipe out the human race and instigate a new age of dragons

But the resourceful band escaped their captors, returned to the Shadrak and sailed back to their homeland to alert their people of the plight which would soon befall them. The nation's four bravest adventurers were given the task of sailing back to the Drakkhen island and wiping out the whole race.

Doing so would be difficult. The only clue was in the wind-wizard's tale - while at the Drakkhen's palace, he nowed an immense reptilian As with the weapons, extra Morganna passes a dagger to her compatriot.

statue, it's eyes shedding eight tears for the dragon race. During the conversation with the Drakkhen High Priest though, it was discovered that nine tears were shed, the last one for the humans who were to suffer at the claws of the dragons. This tear, in the form of a jewel, would have to be found by the adventurers if mankind were to stand any chance of survival.

Starting on a path not far from a castle, you have to take the party across the length and breadth of the 3D landscape, finding clues and killing monsters in your search for the Ninth Tear Each member of the team begins with pretty puny wea-pons and armour, but these can be beefed up during the journey. As the dragons emit a massive amount of magical energy, a limited number of spells are available to the characters ranging from bolts of lightning to healing spells.

and palaces. While the four characters are usually controlled one at a time, they can be moved around as one group when outside, making for fast travel around the island's different areas which include grasslands, deserts and swamps.

The landscape is fraught with terrors. Drakkhen forces are everywhere, in all sorts of unspeakable shapes and sizes. Spending the night outdoors is very dangerous, as there's always the likelihood of attack from nocturnal winged creatures. But not all enemies are so obvious. What at first may appear to be an innocent, inanimate object such as a door or a fountain, could be a cleverly disguised demon, lying in wait to gobble up even the most fearless of adventurers.

There's a secret passage in here... somewhere...

The magic force field fades.

▲ This place is "desserted" (arf arf!)

Drakkhen has been described by many as a pretender to the throne sat upon by Dungeon Master, which is a silly thing to say as the two games have little in common, save for the fact that they're both viewed in three dimensions and both contain four main characters. In fact, Drakkhen is much more adventure-oriented than DM, which refuses to be anything but straight RPG.

The 3D effect while outdoors is very good indeed, with fast frame update and lots of objects around to break up the monotony of the otherwise flat earth.

Sampled sound effects add tremendous atmosphere to the game with a wealth of different noises including the rustle of leaves in the wind, crickets rubbing their legs together at night and the blood-curdling screams of monsters launching themselves at the valiant four-some.

On the subject of the creatures to be found in the game, some of them are absolutely enormous, with horrible, gnashing fangs and bloodshot eyes - I particularly like the wolf's head which springs from the fountains at the crossroads!

My one and only whinge is that the game lacks any sort of compass, which would have been extremely useful in finding your way around Drakkhen. I suspect that you need to use the positions of the sun and stars to plot your course. Very realistic, I suppose, but unfortunately I've never been very good at astronomy.

Drakkhen is a wellpresented, addictive piece of adventuring, which comes complete with an enjoyable novella containing lots of clues. As I said, lack of a simple direction finder is a problem, but if you can overcome this (say by learning how to chart the stars) then you'll soon find yourself being dragged into the dangerous world of dragon-bashing.

PSYCHO AYERS

eing the only honest cop-per on the streets of New York is just no fun any more. Your job is to round up a load of stolen gear, and blow away a formidable cast of street scum. Bazookas and other weapons are cunningly hidden in "trashcans", but BE CAREFUL, because some bins are booby-trapped, and muggers and hitmen hide in others, just waiting to leap out and stick yer with their switchblades.

To be honest, this isn't the paragon of 3D arcade adventuring. The action is slow and tedious, the hoodlums are nigh on invincible and the sound is horrendous. Spend the money on War Machine instead.

The Shark of the title is a new super-sub which you have to pilot into the Atlantic 5 seabase to rid it of the cheeky Snake brothers who have moved in without permission. In fact, they're so cheeky that not only have they moved in, they've invited a load of reptilian mates round as well!

The Snakes aren't the only cheeky ones, though. This is the second game by Players (the first being Task Force) which looks disconcertingly similar to the old Hewson blaster, Cybernoid. The screen layouts are similar, the controls are the same, even the extra weapons are practically identical. But of course the copy isn't as good as the original and Shark is made ridiculously difficult by the heavily armoured enemy ships which populate the corridors and are so tough that they have to be shot at least eight times before they explode!

The speech is probably the game's only high point, because the actual action is so confusing. Placing your player in a position from where he can return the ball is so difficult that more often than not whoever serves wins the point. # QUANAUT

UPDATE

Versions for the Amiga and PC are in the pipeline and they should emerge early on in 1990.

BY ADDICTIVE

Oh excitement! The Earth's being invaded (again), but this time the bugeyed space creatures have moved into the lost city of Atlantis from where they're planning to launch their final devastating attack on human-kind. Luckily for us, there's one man who knows NO FEAR(!) and that man is ace aquanaut, Ric Flair.

In the first section Ric plunges into the murky, sideways-scrolling ocean depths.
Swimming right, Ric has to dodge or rocket numerous hazards, including homing swordfish, tentacled jellyfish, barrels of nuclear waste and depth charges. A kindly quartermaster has dropped off some equipment pods, containing the tools you need to complete the game.

Graphically, this section is great - loads of big, well-animated sprites - and it's a pretty good blast too. My one complaint is that once a swordfish or a shark gets on your flippers you can have real problems getting rid of it because by the time Ric's turned around to shoot, he's been skewered.

The next section is a hunt through submarine caverns for the entrance to Atlantis. Useful items are scattered hither and thither, and it's up to you to work out what to use where.

The final load is set in the corridors of Atlantis, which are positively swarming with Ramanishi aliens. As well as torching the Ramanishi spaceship, Ric has to find and release the four remaining Atlanteans. Again, it's a case of finding objects and using them in the right places, but this time he has Ramanishi guards to deal with. Unless he finds a better weapon, this means chucking knives at them before they can touch him. Again, this section is made tougher by the fact that Ric can't turn and fire instantaneously, so aliens simultaneously approaching from both sides can be extremely tricky to deal with. The puzzles are fairly logical, but some of the objects are so alien that it's anyone's guess what purpose they could possibly serve. Still, I suppose it all adds to the mystery.

▲ Don't touch the nuclear waste!

Although it's not without its faults, Aquanaut is an entertaining sort of game. Each section has enough to keep you immersed ("immersed" geddit?) for a good few months, and there's even a handy game save to save you from swimming over old ground. If you're after something out of the ordinary, check it out.

BY ENTERTAIN-MENT INTERNA-TIONAL/READYS-OFT

mini-revolution occurred Ain the arcades during the early 80's when a chap called Don Bluth and coin-op giants Atari developed the Dragon's Lair coin-op, an awesome graphic extravaganza which used video-disk technology to give the player the impression that he was interacting with a cartoon show. It was very popular, and even though the technology was unreliable, Don Bluth developed a second laser game, Space Ace. By last year, computer technology had advanced enough to allow Dragon's Lair to be converted to the Amiga. Now Space Ace is here.

The first game was set in the mythical Dark Ages and starred a blonde, squarejawed hunk of a guy by the name of Dirk Daring. Space Ace, as you'll have guessed, takes place many years into the future. Ace, the hero, and his girlfriend Kimberly are off to crush the tyrannical alien Borf and his gang of weird hench-things, when the big, blue baddie himself appears, whisks Kimberly off in his spaceship and blasts laser bolts at Ace.

That's where the game begins, with you reacting to Ace's movements in an attempt to negotiate 33 different scenes, rescue Kimberly and defeat Borf all at the same time.

Control is simple: at certain points in the game you have to choose an action for Ace by pushing the joystick in one of four directions, or pressing fire. The correct decision moves Ace on to the next piece of animation, while failure results in the loss of a life. Timing is critical too - the right move at the incorrect time also spells disaster. Successful completion of each scene adds extra points to your total, an extra life being awarded at every 10,000 points.

Dragon's Lair suffered from the fact that the game-play was amazingly simplistic and that you could go all the way through the game in one sitting. Space Ace, unfortunately, is exactly the same, and in fact is even less challenging. It took me about 45 minutes to finish the game. And after that the appeal wanes.

The graphics may be aweinspiring, the sound cannot be faulted, the amount of disks has even been cut down to four, from the original's six, and you don't need a megabyte expansion to run it on. But strip away the visuals, and you've got an unbelievably simple game. Just choose one of five directions at any crunch point and you either win or lose. Utterly pathetic.

Space Ace is an amazing computer demo. But at £44.95 it's scandalously over-priced.

PAUL RAND

UPDATE

There is an ST version planned which will look, play and cost exactly the same as Space Ace on the Amiga.

AMIGA £44.95
GRAPHICS 94%
SOUND 95%
VALUE 33%
PLAYABILITY 38%

Cartoon-quality graphics and amazing sound make this a stunner to look at and listen to. But the gameplay is unbelievably poor, and it's possible to complete the game within an hour of purchase.

BEHARDH

WIN A LEATHER MOTORCYCLE JACKET WITH ACCOLADE!

Hands up all those who have always wanted to roar through the streets on a massive, 1100cc motorbike, scaring dogs and making old ladies drop their shopping as you zoom past. The dream of every budding Hells Angel is to own a smart leather biker's jacket of their very own, and that's exactly what is up for grabs in this fab compo.

To celebrate the release of their new game The Cycles, those veterans of the 3D computer racing world Accolade are offering not one, but TWO lucky readers the opportunity to pull on this marvellous example of black cow-hide (that's leather to you) and pose around the streets, looking really hard, being the envy of his friends and stuff like that.

If you want to be in with a chance of picking up such a lovely first prize, or one of the 10 runners-up prizes of a rather natty Cycles T-Shirt, put your thinking caps on and answer the following questions:

- 1. Name five makes of motorbike.
- 2. In which film did the young Marlon Brando don his leathers and rip up the roads on a powerful motorbike?
- 3. Name one motorcycle with a top speed of over 150 mph.

Write the answers on a postcard or the back of a sealed envelope, stating your chest size (so we know what size clothing to send) and deliver your entry post-haste to: THE "COR! DON'T I LOOK LIKE JAMES DEAN IN MY GROOVY BLACK LEATHER JACKET" COMP, C+VG, PRIORY COURT, 30-32 FARRINGDON LANE, LONDON, EC1R 3AU.

The closing date for the comp is 20th February 1990, so get your answers in by then or you'll be spending the year wearing nothing but your tatty old Parka jacket.

Suzuki 585 and staff writer not included.

AIDVE

Well, well. Three holes in the ground. Or is that an adventure column I spy with my little ear. Who knows the secret of the Black Magic box? Perhaps Keith Campbell does?

All those pressing prob-lems that you puzzle over as you play through the game are what make a good adventure addictive. And when you finally complete it, all will have been revealed, and the game can be put aside with satisfaction.

Or can it? Some adventures have been known to end without all the problems having to be solved. Take the case of Ste Crickett of Burtonwood, who recently finished King's Quest I. In so doing he never did discover the name of the gnome on the bridge who asked him to guess his name. And now it's driving him mad - Ste still desperate ly wants to know the name of this little-known gnome!

Frank Dolmans is another addict of Sierra adventures, and he managed to complete Space Quest III in fifteen days flat without any help - no mean feat! But Police Quest II is a different story. Frank, trying to get inside the Smuggler's Inn, gets shot to pieces every time he kicks the door in!

I make a point of trying to answer every letter that arrives at the Helpline, but that's not always possible. Take Paul S, for example, hav- first sewer in Bard's Tale I, ing trouble with a drunken driver in Police Quest I. I wrote a reply, and was just about to address it, when I realised that his full name was not the only thing he'd failed to give. Somehow I don't think "Queensland, Australia" would find Paul S! So here's what to do with the drunk: Ask for the driver's licence, tell him to get out of the car, and smell his breath. Administer an FST test, handcuff him, read him his rights, and then get him into your car and drive him off to the

A Mr X wrote a couple of months ago, asking how to pick up the stool in the clockmaker's in Jinxter. "Easy!" I told him, and went on to explain. Mr X wasted little time in writing back to complain! "I beg to differ that my problem was an easy one! Your re-sponse may be the correct answer, but this can, of course, only be done if one actually possesses the relevant charm, which unfortunately I do not." Which just goes to prove that what you think is holding up your progress may not be the real problem at hand. So if you write in for help, make sure you list all the things you know that you can't do or haven't obtained.

ROLE CALL

Placing an eye in the Mad God, as suggested in the November issue, did not help Paul Stephenson of Finchley to enter the first tower in Bard's Tale. Paul would like to know exactly what to say to the priest, and also how to find the gates in the sewers, which are eluding him. Jesper Kallesoe of Randers in Denmark, has mapped the but found nothing of interest. Has he missed something? Jesper is also seeking the words he should say to the priest in the Mad God's Temple. And in general, Jesper wonders if there are any places he can go to score a decent number of experience points and collect a worthwhile amount of gold?

You want gold my boy, you shall have it! Here is a way to get it that may make you wish you'd never asked! Go to the bank and list the accounts, and you should find one with just asterisks in it. Close it and you'll get one billion gold pieces - enough to make you popular at the inn for the rest of the game! Thanks to Jason Watson of Wellington, New Zealand for this outrageous swindle!

Meanwhile, Kevin Thompson of Lanarkshire is very close to finishing Bard's Tale. It is only the whereabouts of the Silver Circle that is holding back. Who can help him polish it off?

Jan Farmer believes he was one of the first players in the UK to complete Pools Of Radiance after its release here. And he has some info on the Tyranthraxus! The one in the SE corner of the hedge maze is a human imposter. Go to the NW corner, and into the room where earlier you may have found a priest. Walk through the south wall it is an illusion.

Jan disagrees with Jim Laver, who last month told us he thought the vampire had died before the start of the game. So for Patrick Halm and anyone else still looking for it, go to the NE corner of the graveyard. "If you beat him there, he flees to the cross-shaped building. You can kill him there, too, says Jan.

Finally, Jan says that the Kobold colony will be found by looking at Journal Entry

WRITE IN

Telp welcomed and dis-1 pensed here! Write to me at Adventure Helpline, C+VG, Priory Court, 30-32 Farringdon Lane, London EC1R 3AU, about Adventures and Role Playing Games. If I haven't got a ready answer to write back to you, there's thousands of readers out there who are just waiting to help you!

HOME GROWN

t is my practice not to include reviews of home grown adventures that are of poor quality, and thus, when about a year ago I received a copy of an adventure entitled Dead End, written by Martyn Westwood, I returned it to him. There were a couple of basic faults with the way the game worked, and I enclosed some suggestions that might make it more playable.

Thinking it was unlikely I would hear any more of the game, I was slightly surprised when it resurfaced just a few weeks ago. And on playing it, I was amazed!

From the sort of game adventure enthusiasts would contemptuously switch off after just five minutes of play, Martyn has turned Dead End into a highly playable adventure, full of atmosphere.

Inspired by the 1944 RKO film Farewell My Lovely, the game has all the atmosphere of an old black and white private eye movie, particularly on the ST version, which includes digitised stills from the film itself. There are other differences between the ver sions, too, notably the much faster response time on the ST (even when displayin graphics), and in the structure itself. For example, on the 8 bit versions your gun is in your inventory at the start, whilst on underneath.

With the cassette or disk comes a professionally printed handbook with glossy cover, containing loading
and playing instructions, together with the background to the story.
The whole package is so well executed and the ST, you must pick up your raincoat (nonexistent on 8 bit) to reveal your holster with gun in it presented, that in happier times for the adventure market, Dead End would undoubtedly have been snatched up by a publisher and be on sale in the shops. As it is, Martyn has set up his own company, Interactive Technology, through which to sell the game. And already two more titles are planned: A Dark Sky Over Paradise, and the first of a fantasy series, Doom, due in March.

A little pricey for the 8 bit versions, but superb value for what you get on the ST, Dead End is available on cassette for 48k Spectrum, Commodore 64, at 7.95, and on disk for Atari ST at 9.95. Order by mail direct from Interactive Technology, PO Box 146, Sheffield S13 7TY.

Note: The ST version comes on double sided disk. It MUST be run from Drive A, and the computer MUST NOT be connected to a hi-res monitor, or it will cause a system crash when executed. If you have an internal single sided drive plus an external double sided drive, you will not be able to run the game without a utility that enables Drive B to become Drive A.

SPELLBREAKER

The price of Spellbreaker, the adventure fanzine mentioned last month, has had to be increased to 1.50 due to increases in postage costs. Up to 12 issues may be ordered in advance, from: Spellbreaker, 19 Napier Place, South Parks, Glenrothes, Fife KY6 1DX

CLUES

More or less all you need to solve Hitch Hiker's Guide To The Galaxy, in more or less the right order...

BULLDOZER: Lie down in front of it to stop it advancing. Ignore Prosser's yelling, and wait until Ford Prefect arrives.

PUB: Drink the beer three times, and buy a cheese sandwich. Leave the pub and feed the yapping dog with the sandwich.

DARKNESS: This is a puzzle that links other puzzles throughout the game. Type SEE, HEAR, TASTE, FEEL, SMELL, in turn. Finally, retype the sense that is missing from the list of things you cannot do, and you will get a new message. Then do what you are able.

BABEL FISH: Put the gown on the hook, and the towel over the drain. Cover the panel with the satchel and put the mail on the satchel. Press the button on the dis-

ATOMIC VECTOR PLOT-TER: Press the switch by the case, and note which word of the captain's poem you need. Wait until the guards take you to the Captain, and wait until he has read four lines of verse. Then tell him you enjoy poetry, and he will begin the second verse. Note the word you need. When you are taken back to the hold, enter: TYPE followed by the required word enclosed in double quotes. The case will open and you can take the plotter.

IMPROBABILITY DRIVE: Go there, LOOK, and take everything you see. Ignore messages that suggest you can't either get there or look around - just keep trying until you succeed. TEA SUBSTITUTE, THE PLOTTER, AND THE DRIVE: Press the pad on the Nutrimat to get the tea substitute. Insert the small plug on the drive into the small receptacle on the plotter. Put the dangly bit into the cup, and press the switch.

BUGBLATTER BEAST:

When it asks your name say "Arthur" and go east. Put the towel over your head to confuse it into thinking it can't see you. Carve "Arthur" on the stone. On reading this, the beast will think he has already eaten you, and proceed to sleep his meal off.

COUNTRY LANE: Give the towel to Arthur who is lying down in the road. He will refuse to take it. Go to Prosser and tell him to lie in the mud, Go to the pub, and buy peanuts and beer. Drink beer, and tell Arthur to drink beer. Give him the satchel fluff. THE PARTY: Drink the liquid, open your handbag, and examine Arthur. There is a piece of fluff clinging to his jacket - take it and put it in your handbag, then wait until Phil takes you away. SPEEDBOAT: Steer the boat towards the spire, take the toolbox, and examine the seat. Look under the cushion and take the key and the fluff. Go to the dais, and wait until Trillian grabs you. When the guards rush up to shoot, tell them to drop their rifles, take the blaster from Trillian, and shoot the rifles.

MICROSCOPIC SPACE FLEET: Get the awl and listen to the conversation.
When you are put in the maze, continue south until you reach the particle. Take it
- this is common sense.
REAL TEA: Go to the nutri-mat and open the panel at the back. Get the board and insert the interface, then press the pad. The nutrimat is now totally occupying Eddie, the on-board computer. When the missile attack starts, insert the large plug into the large receptacle, and press the generator switch. Return to the nutrimat where there should be tea in the slot. Take tea and no tea, return to the bridge and remove the dangly bit from the tea substitute and put it in the tea.

WHALE: When you feel a warm squishy liquid while you are in the dark, drink it to get to this puzzle. You are in a sperm whale, by a flower-pot. Get it, and plant each bit of fluff in it. Put the flower-pot into the thing your Aunty gave you, and put the thing in your pocket.

FLUFF TREE: Soon there will be a small plant growing in the flowerpot. Go into the sauna, and it will grow. Examine the plant and get the fruit. It is the fruit of foreknowledge - eat it and you will be told which tool Marvin needs to unjam the hatch. Take it.

SCREENING DOOR: It is possible to open the door if you are carrying both tea and no tea, and have removed common sense from the maze. Drink the tea to ward off the waves of depression coming from Marvin, and go west. Ask Marvin to open the hatch.

HATCH: Drop everything except the required tool, go east, down, and east, and wait for Marvin. Give him the tool he asks for, and he will open the hatch in three tenths of one second. To complete the adventure, go west, and then down through the hatch.

MEGA MAN

BY NINTENDO

When six evil and dastardly villains are all planning to take over the Earth, who're you gonna call? Not the Ghostbusters, that's for sure - Mega Man is the guy you dial. He's the hardest hard man in the entire Universe...

The six baddies are Cutman, Gutsman, Iceman, Elecman, Bombman and Fireman, and each lives deep in his own extremely wellguarded scrolling platform world. And it's into these which Mega Man must travel alone, armed only with a gun.

alone, armed only with a gun.

Each World has a theme pertaining to the character who lives there - Iceman, for example, is found in a cold world of slippery platforms and freezing baddies, while Bombman lurks in a world of walking bombs and guns! All the worlds are infested with baddies who attempt to wear away Mega Man's energy bar, and if it's depleted three times, the game ends.

times, the game ends.

And this happens quite a lot, because Mega Man is one tough game - much harder than the Mario games, for example. There are simply loads of horrible hidden traps, tons of very aggressive creatures and, at the end of each level, the big baddie himself. But although the game is very hard, it's also very addictive, and you come back to it time and time again for "just another go" - it's kept me up until the early hours for quite a few nights running!

If you're after a challenging and very addictive platform game, look no further than this - it's mega, man!!

WIZARDS & WARRIORS

BY NINTENDO

Wherever you go, there's always a damsel in distress, coveted by evil ogres and demons. The world of Wizards and Warriors is no exception - a gang of demons has captured all the king's princesses and now holds them captive in the over and underworlds.

Playing a knight who can control magic, you set off to the rescue. Each area is full of eldritch creatures, all out to reduce your energy and eventually kill you. Shoot them and they sometimes leave behind coins (for points) or magic gems (for special, temporary powers). At the end of the stage, you face a huge creature such as a Skull or a cavern full of bats: defeating them releases the damsel from bondage and sends you onto the next area.

Red, blue and brown keys are vital to success: they open corresponding chests and doors. In the chests you either find gems (worth loads of bonus points when you complete a level) or magical items, which you need to pro-

These include a Wand of Wonder (ring of flames). Shield of Protection, Potion of Levitation (handy for reaching parts other potions cannot reach) and Boots of Lava Walk - necessary for Level Three.

Wizards and Warriors is a very simple platform game with some neat extras bolted on. Just when you think you can't get any further or you're stuck in a tight corner, you find the solution and you're off again. The only problem is that it can become repetitive, and all the levels are similar in style, if not in graphics.

Track and Field appeared in the arcades about five years ago and was one of those coin-ops in which you hit the buttons as fast as you can to make your on-screen athlete run, jump or throw. Track and Field II is the follow-up, but as well as lots of button-bashing, some skillful factics are also required.

There are twelve different events in all: fencing, triple jump, freestyle swimming, high dive, clay pigeon shooting, hammer throw, taekwondo (arm wrestling), pole vault, carioeing, archery, hurdles and horizontal bar, and each requires a different approach.

At the start of the game one of three modes of play can be selected: Training, which lets the player practice events, and Olympic in which the player embarks on a full Olympic tour, with the option to choose which country he wishes to compete for. All events have a qualifying time or score, and failure to qualify on enough events on a paror score, and failure to qualify on enough events on a particular day results in the end of the game. Finally, there's Versus, where two players are given the opportunity to participate in the two-player events of taekwondo and fencing without the hassle of entering the Olympics or the annoyance of being thrown out of the game in Training should either player lose.

Track and Field II combines large, brilliantly animated sprites and well-drawn backdrops and great

MACHINES MACHINES MRHEII

BY IREM

Mr Heli is a fat, orange helicopter with short, chubby legs. He gets his kicks in life by flying around his world, liberating each country he enters and collecting loads of crystals on the way. So imagine his delight when, courtesy of Irem, he's given the opportunity to do just that in a fab conversion of the coin-op machine.

The multi-directional scrolling levels which make up the six countries in Mr Heli's world are inhabited by manic machines, controlled by a big metal contraption at the end of each stage, and all of them are gunning for our happy helicopter's blood (or should that be petrol?) in the hope that they can defeat him before he reaches their masters. Should they fail, the big lads themselves are all heavily armed and waiting to deal a fatal blow to the chubby chopper. Although Mr Heli begins with only a weedy singleshot gun, one missile tube and a few bombs, more powerful weapons can be bought at vending machines situated throughout the levels, using money gained by picking up the crystals which are hidden inside the disposable scenery.

If you enjoyed playing Mr Heli in the arcades, then hesitate not in purchasing this accurate Engine conversion of the game. Mr Heli and all his adversaries are nothing short of pixel perfect, compared with their arcade counterparts, and all of them are animated superbly. Music and sound effects are all tip-top too. Playing the game demands high levels of concentration, joypad-deftness and first class arcade skills, as the baddies keep you on your toes from beginning to end. and some of those end of level guardians are a real pig to defeat!

The PC Engine comes up trumps yet again with a corker of a conversion in Mr Heli. It's a difficult game, but one which you'll find almost impossible to leave alone until you get to the very end a task which will take a long time, believe me.

ver wanted to take to the water in a mega-powerful speedboat, armed with an onboard cannon and missile launcher, and blast everything out of the way? If so, Cobra Triangle is the game for you.

It's a multidirectionally scrolling 3D forced perspective game with 25 different levels, varying from racing sections and target shoots to defusing mines and rescuing swimmers from being towed away by enemy ships!

First up is a twisting river down which you must race. There are other boats on the water, which can be blasted out of the way, and also power-up pods which can be picked up to give extra speed, missiles, faster shots, shield or turbos.

Finish that and there's a bonus stretch of the river to negotiate: jump over ramps to collect suspended add-ons and mystery extras before the timer runs out.

Next is mine defusing, where four mines, guarded by an enemy boat have to be dragged to a detonation area and exploded within a time limit. Fail and you lose a life. Then there's defending swimmers in the middle of a lake from marauding enemy boats. The boats attempt to tow the swimmers away them away; blast them before they reach the side of the lake and tow the swimmers back to the middle and they're alright - let the enemy reach the bank and that swimmer is lost.

Finally there are two very tough races upstream dodging logs and whirlpools, only to find yourself transported to the lair of a sea monster which must be destroyed by repeated blasting - and there's still twenty more levels to go!

Cobra Triangle was programmed by Rare, better known to computer game players as the legendary Ultimate Play the Gamel And like their old games, this is utterly superb.

The graphics are amazing, with smooth scrolling and utterly convincing sprites, but it's the playability that makes Cobra Triangle one of the best Nintendo games around it's incredibly addictive, and once you've started playing it's really difficult to tear yourself away.

Put it at the top of your shopping list.

FORGOTTEN WORLDS

When two dudes fly into with a couple of laser rifles and towing floating grenade launchers, you know that there's trouble brewing.

And indeed there is.
These two guys are on a mission to hunt down and destroy an evil villain who is plotting the destruction of the entire universe. Between you and him are horizontally scrolling levels that are packed with all sorts of horribly aggressive baddies and, of course, a huge end of level creature.

When aliens are blasted, they sometimes leave behind blue Zenny, the local currency which can be picked up and added to the player's cash total. Occasionally a shop pops up from underground, and the two fighters can enter and spend their dosh on the latest weaponry, better armour or even extra energy to heal their battle scars.

Although Forgotten Worlds is a very slick program which grabs you instantly and keeps you playing, it has two annoying little niggles: in two-player mode you have unlimited credits (which means you can finish it first go, even if you do get a pathetic score), and if you play one-player, the game is just a little too easy on the standard setting. To get a decent challenge you have to set the difficulty level on the option screen to "hard", instead of "normal". Why not have "hard" as the "normal" level and have the "normal" level as "easy", so rubbish players could switch to it if they get nowhere? Still, the action isn't ruined by these annoyances, and as long as you remember to select the hard difficulty level when you play. Forgotten Worlds is a superb shoot 'em up which should keep Megadrive massacre maniacs more than happy.

DRAGON
"Skillful programming has taken the superb graphics and addictive game play of the monster arcade hit, and faithfully reproduced it on the home computer."

R-TYPE

"Here at S.U. we think it's about as close to an ultimate space blast as anyone will ever get. Fab."

DRAGON NINJA

"A sure winner with the official conversion to the home computer." COMPUTER GAMES-WEEK. "A very enjoyable and addictive game ... The best conversion I have seen on the Amstrad." AMSTRAD ACTION.

Palace have really put everthing into this one ... It's all done with such enthusiasm, skill and style that I found

RETALIATOR

"Astounding just to look at, with the fastest, smoothest, most detailed and realistic 3D graphics seen . . . but it's the sheer depth that makes F29 the best combat/ flight simulation I've seen.

"Think of what you get in Falcon and double it ... brilliant action and a scenario depth that'll leave you gasping in awe; there are 99 different missions ... Retaliator is even better than Falcon, and it's certainty much bigger ... A brand new, and rather brilliant fighter/bomber simulation." Zero 94%.

"Utterly mouth-watering graphics and an amazing depth of play ... the best flight simulation I have ever seen (and there's nothing on the visible horizon that looks set to come close). It's not a simulation, it's an experience ... Ocean's first flight sim in the best out!" Zzap 97%.
