THEODORE M BANTA,

BROOKLYN, N. Y.

PREFACE.

THE Constitution of The Holland Society of New York, organized in 1885, prescribes that members must trace their lineage in the male line to Dutch citizens who were resident in the American Colonies prior to the year 1675. In investigating his claims to membership in the Society the writer became interested in the subject of genealogy, and the present work is the result thereof.

At the start he had but little idea of the amount of labor involved, nor of the numbers represented in the family. He had not then heard of the Bantas among the Kentucky pioneers, whose numerous descendants have so greatly multiplied the name in that State and the West. Nor did he at first appreciate the benefit of eliciting information in regard to items of personal history other than a mere list of names and dates. In consequence, the circulars and blank forms first sent out did not provide for replies on subjects which subsequently appeared to him as quite interesting in a family history, and this work is, therefore, not as complete as he deems desirable. It has been a gratification to find how ready the response has been for information requested, for though some have made no answer to repeated letters, yet the exceptions have been comparatively rare where persons have ignored all requests.

The work was much facilitated by the fact that the earlier generations of the family in this country were generally all connected with the Reformed Dutch Church, and that the marriage and baptismal registers of that Church in New York, Hackensack and vicinity have been preserved, which furnished quite full records of the first one hundred years. Again, it was very fortunate that so many old Bibles were found containing family records extending for more than a century. It is quite remarkable that among all the hundreds who have sent statements to the compiler of this work there has been but one family bearing the name of Banta which it has not been possible to connect with the original progenitor, Epke Jacobse. This exception is descended from Jacob Banta and his wife, Mary Van Allen, who were resident in New Jersey during the latter part of the last century. There are several Jacob Bantas who appear in these records, one of whom may be the one in question, but it has not been possible positively to identify him. This family had an old Bible containing a record which would have cleared up the difficulty, but it passed out of their possession some years ago, during the craze in regard to the "Holland fortune." In common with many others of the old families of the country, many of the Bantas were victims of unscrupulous claim agents, who led them to believe there was in Holland a fortune to be distributed among them, and quite a number of valuable documents were lost by transmission to these agents.

As an amusing illustration of the isolated and believed by many, extracts are given from the in widely separated parts of the country, and at different times reads :

"Let me premise, however, by giving you the tradition of our family as concisely as possible. That we are descendants of a King of Holland—that a large amount of money was in Holland belonging to the family—that a man had been sent over to Holland during my grandfather's time to obtain it, but he was never heard from—that my grandfather's house, together with valuable papers, was burned during the Revolutionary War by Indians and Tories."

The other account is equally absurd, setting forth that a rich Hollander by the name of Banta, being exasperated by his two daughters marrying without his consent, had so tied up his property that it could not be divided for several generations—that it consisted of valuable buildings in Amsterdam (the writer of the letter had seen photographs of the buildings!) and other property now amounting in all to over fifty million dollars, which had been in the possession of the government of the Netherlands and was now to be distributed among the Banta heirs.

These ridiculous stories would be simply amusing were it not that they were accepted as facts by scores of persons throughout the country, who, on receiving the circulars requesting information in regard to their lineage, assumed that the object was in connection with the "Holland fortune," and it has been with no little pain that the writer has had to reply—to so many who were in lowly circumstances, and who had been long cherishing hopes for improvement from the riches beyond the seas—that there was not the slightest foundation for any expectations from such source.

So numerous have been the inquiries at the government offices at Washington in reference to unclaimed estates in Europe, that the Secretary of State issued a series of circulars in reply to them, and the one in reference to estates in Holland is here inserted as a matter of general interest:

ESTATES IN HOLLAND.

DEPARTMENT OF STATE,

WASHINGTON, D. C., 188

Your letter of the has been received. Your inquiry belongs to a numerous class, and the frequency with which applications for information with regard to supposed estates in Holland have been made to this Department for several years past, has led to patient and careful investigation thereof, in several instances where the information furnished by the applicants seemed to be specific enough to warrant such a proceeding. In no case has the existence of the supposed estate or alleged unclaimed fortune been verified. Moreover, the legislation of the Netherlands is such as to effectually and without appeal dispose of all claims, even if inherently just, and founded on an actual and known heritage, which were not presented and proven prior to 1852.

For your further information on this point, I append a copy of a dispatch on the subject from the United States Minister at The Hague.

I am, your obedient servant,

.....
Assistant Secy

[Mr. Birney to Mr. Everts.]

[No. 63.]

LEGATION OF THE UNITED STATES,
The Hague, March 1, 1878. (Received March 18.)

SIR: I am in receipt, since my residence at this post, of a great many letters from citizens of the United States, asking information in regard to supposed claims to estates in the Netherlands, and requesting suggestions as to the best method of establishing them. They come from all parts of the country, from Maine to California. The demands range from $12,000,000 down to a more manageable sum, and extend over a period embraced within the past 200 years.

Although neither the presentation nor prosecution of private claims is among the duties devolving upon me, I have been disposed to contribute such information to inquirers as I could conveniently find. But the letters, whether from lawyers or laymen, are almost without exception so entirely vague and indefinite that they rarely furnish any clew to an investigation. As there is little prospect of a cessation of such inquiries, and no doubt much time and money has been and will be uselessly expended, through the imposition of a certain class of a speculative turn of mind, who work upon the credulity of those who think they may have interests that can be realized, I have thought it might be well to address you a note containing a brief general statement upon the subject to which such letters relate, and, if it meets your approval, to put it in print, that I may attach it to more special answers sent to future inquirers.

It is altogether probable that most persons in the United States who write for information do so under the impression that it can be readily had, after the fashion in their own country, by stepping into a surrogate or probate office and examining the records. But in Holland there are no such offices open to the public for the record of wills. Wills in this country are deposited by the testator in the custody of the notary whom he requested to officiate as his draughtsman. He may select any notary he pleases. Notaries in Holland are usually appointed from the legal profession, and are functionaries of reliable character. Trusts of great value are safely committed to them. They are not admitted to the office until they have stood the test of a rigid examination as to their proficiency in the duties incumbent upon them. The will is filed in duplicate in the office of the notary, and its custody descends to his successor. The notary enters upon his register the title and subject matter of each paper filed with him, with a corresponding number. This is examined each month by the procureur-general or district attorney, and, if found correct, is indorsed by him.

Ordinarily, there is no difficulty whatever, on the part of those concerned, in finding the notary who may have possession of a particular will. The friends and members of the family will remember very well who officiated in that capacity. But when a quarter or a half century has elapsed since the death of the testator, and inquiries come from abroad, accompanied by no statement as to the locality of the property and former residence of the deceased, or the time of his death, it is no easy matter, often, to find the officer or the successor sought for. Extensive advertisement is sometimes the only means of discovering heirs. Wills are so carefully drawn that contests about them seldom occur, and it is very rare that heirs prefer to have the testator proved not of sound mind and memory.

In numerous instances inquiries have been made by attorneys as to the judicial proceedings customary here upon the assertion of such claims. I will, as succinctly as possible, refer to their history and present course.

Many years ago the courts of the country exercised the right to appoint guardians for the persons and property of minors. In the fourteenth century there were established what were styled orphans' courts. To them was delegated the care of the estates of deceased persons. At that period the courts had almost supreme power in their respective districts. The first mention of such delegation of power by any of them is that found in the statute published by the Countess of Margaritta on the 10th of May, 1346. At that time cities acted as distinct sovereignties, according to the authority bestowed. In 1351 Philip of Burgundy granted to the city of The Hague such an orphans' court. On the 13th of May, 1355, Count William of Bavaria bestowed upon the city of Delft the right to establish a chamber for orphans' court. In 1485 Maximilian, by a statute proclaimed on the 16th of November, extended more generally this right.

Under this system such claims were settled until 1809, when all orphans' courts were abolished by the introduction of the French civil law throughout the kingdom of the Netherlands. The methods of procedure under this code were concluded by the principles laid down in Grotius and Van Leuwen, who were to Dutch law what Blackstone has been to English and American law. On the 5th of March, 1852, the Staats General, or Parliament of the Netherlands, passed an act providing for the organization of a state commission, whose duty it became to settle claims against the estates of deceased persons as well as against the government. All the funds heretofore under the care of the orphans' courts, or other officials, and undisposed of, passed into the custody of this commission. This act also provided that for any sum not paid over, and which had been within the jurisdiction of the orphans' court, the municipality in which it was appointed should still be liable to any one establishing his right to it.

The rules of this commission require that all persons making demand for funds under its control shall make a full statement of the case in writing, with proofs of descent and identity. A receipt is given for the papers, and within two months the commission announces its decision; if adverse, the claimant has the right of appeal to the courts.

This act also provides that, as soon as practicable after its taking effect, an advertisement should be inserted in the official journal known as the Staats Courant, notifying all claimants to any portion of the funds in their hands to make demand and proof; also, that after an interval of six months from the first there should be a second advertisement, and that after the lapse of five years from such second notice all estates to which claims had not been established should escheat to the State.

This law would dispose of such estates as were in the hands of the commission prior to 1852. It is scarcely reasonable to suppose that any government would hold itself responsible without limitation as to time for all waifs that may have fallen under its protection.

There are persons, however, who expend large sums upon travel and attorneys under the belief that this government has held in its treasury vast amounts, and is only waiting to welcome some one who will come and claim it. Not many months since, a respectable, zealous, and intelligent old lady from Brooklyn, N. Y., called upon me to inquire how she should approach the government to induce it to pay over without delay what was honestly due her as one of the heirs of a Dutch general who expired suddenly on horseback while engaged in a grand parade that occurred 200 years ago. She was accompanied by a French advocate whom she had engaged in France to prepare her brief in the case. He already had it printed in the shape of a large pamphlet. The lady claimed that the government had taken charge of the property, and had since been in the receipt of the usufruct. She admitted that the claim had become of such magnitude that if ordinary interest should be added to the principal no government in Europe had the ability to pay it. She was, however, willing to accept the principal and allow further time for the interest. She was fully determined, as she said, if Holland did not meet her expectations in doing what was right and just, to have the government dishonored in the eyes of all Europe. She called upon several of the embassies here to induce them to form a sort of alliance of the powers to bring a pressure to bear. This she did because there were heirs in Germany, France, England, and the United States. She was determined that her petition should be laid before the highest authority. For this purpose she waited at the door of the palace, and, when His Majesty the King appeared, she presented it in person. He referred it to his minister of finance, who very soon addressed a note to the applicant informing her that the whole matter had several times been thoroughly examined in the courts and decided adversely to claimants. I advised her that it would be more judicious to save the money she was expending upon steamers, hotels, and advocates.

A recent mail brought me a letter from a citizen of Marysville. He sets out by saying that he had written to President Hayes, asking him to interpose in regard to an estate left him in Holland, and that in reply my address had been sent to him. He goes on to state that several newspapers had notified him that his ancestor, who died 100 years ago, had left a large amount and directed that it should be put at interest for 100 years and then divided among his heirs; that this time having arrived it was read to be distributed, and that the sum total was now $12,000,000. He desired the matter to be sifted to the bottom, and offers, on realizing premises, to compensate liber-

This was followed by letters from persons of the same name, written, one from Lebanon, N. J., one from Ulster County, New York, another from Washington, all solicitous about the same interest. But in no one of them was there mention of the time or place of death of the testator, nor the location or description of the property, nor was a copy of the newspaper notice inclosed; in fact no clue by which investigation could be commenced.

Of one thing such inquirers may be certain, and that is, the Holland Government never has ordered its notices to be inserted in foreign newspapers. Not long since a gentleman of fair intelligence called upon me and represented that he had just arrived from a voyage across the Atlantic, having been employed by parties who supposed they were heirs to an estate somewhere in Holland. I discovered that he had undertaken this business and made an expensive trip without the slightest knowledge as to the locality, or province, or part of the kingdom in which the testator had lived and died. I referred him to a competent barrister, by whom he was told that he would have to advertise in several of the leading newspapers for the notary who had the will. That discouraged him and he took his departure, no wiser than when he set off from New York. Advances may have been made sufficient for the trip, but not for advertising. I mention such instances to show that much is expended in such inquiries without avail.

I may add, however, that if any one in the United States has a bona fide claim against the Government of Holland, or any of its officials, which can be clearly and satisfactorily shown, he may rely upon it that there is no government that will more promptly and fully meet the demand.

Hoping that these hints may not be without some service to the many persons in the United States who look wistfully to the fortunes coming to them from Holland, I have, &c.,

JAMES BIRNEY.

Since the chapter on "The Origin of the Name" was printed, it was learned that there was a hamlet in Hungary by the name of Banta. This was the more singular because, in the History of Bergen County, by Clayton, page 188, it is stated that the Banta family was of Hungarian origin, the foundation for which statement could not be ascertained. A letter of inquiry to an intelligent gentleman in Budapest elicited the following reply:

BUDAPEST, December 10, 1892.

THEODORE M. BANTA, Esq., New York.

DEAR SIR: Your esteemed favor of the 22d ulto. came duly to hand, and in reply I beg to remark that very often when I have read your name I thought that your family might be of Hungarian origin, as the name sounds Hungarian.

On receipt of your esteemed favor, I addressed myself to Prof. D. Simonyi, who is the first linguist in the country, and Professor of the Hungarian Language at the University of Budapest.

I send you herewith enclosed his reply in Hungarian, and give you the translation of the letter, as follows:

DEAR DOCTOR: There is no town named Banta in Hungary, but we have a village named Banota (with short "a" and "o") in the Department of Zala, near Also Lendva, and it is possible that this name was abbreviated as a family name from Banota to Banta, as, for instance, Halvany from Halovany, etc.

But we find "Bonta" also as a Hungarian family name in the sixteenth century (written "Bontha") as it was published in the "Hungarian Nyelvör," in 1880, on page 364. It is very possible that from "Bonta" it changed to "Banta," as has happened in our language, from Mogyoro to Magyaro (hazelnut). In some parts of the country they use the word "bonta," which is an adjective, signifying "many-colored."

I am, dear sir, (Signed) SIMONYI Zs.

I addressed myself also to the brother of Prof. Simonyi Zs., Dr. Eugene Simonyi, who is the first geographical authority in the country, in order to find out whether there is such a village near Veszprém, and I send you herewith his answer, the translation of which is as follows:

DEAR DOCTOR: I don't know anybody by the name of Banta. There is a "puszta Banta" (puszta is estate) in the County of Veszprém, between Var-Palota and Osku, and a village, "Banota," in the County of Zala, in the neighborhood of A. Lendva. The "a" in Banta, with western pronunciation, is certainly not the Hungarian "a," but a short "a." Yours truly, (Signed) SIMONYI.

I have never heard of the name of "Banta" in our country, but it is true that your name sounds quite Hungarian, and nobody here would hesitate to take it for a pure Hungarian one.

I shall also have searched the registers of marriages and baptisms, which extend 200 or 300 years back, and shall inform you of the result at a later date. These registers are in the hands of the municipality in every town, and are kept by the respective clergymen. I need not mention that in regard to any information you may desire I am entirely at your disposal.

When I was in New York, in April of this year, I remember to have had the pleasure of seeing you on the day you occupied anew your position.

I am, dear sir, yours truly,

D. ARANYI.

To add to the puzzle as to the origin and meaning of the name, it may be mentioned that Banta or Bantu is applied to a group of African races and languages, extending over a large part of Eastern, Central and Southern Africa—the language differing greatly from the true negro language.—Lippincott's Universal Gazetteer, edition of 1893, page 584.

The Encyclopædia Britannica, 9th edition, in interesting articles on the Kaffres and Zulus, thus refers to the language: "The word abantu, or abanta, denotes 'people.' Philologists speak highly of the beauty and flexibility of the Bantu languages, and of their grammatical structure."

There is a Post-office by the name of Banta in Johnson County, Indiana, a few miles from Franklin, named in honor of Judge D. D. Banta, Dean of the law school of Indiana University.

There is also a post village by the name of Banta in San Joaquin County, California, on the Central Pacific Railroad, seventeen miles southwest of Stockton.

The plan upon which this genealogy has been prepared will be readily understood. A separate chapter is devoted to all the information obtainable concerning each of the sons of Epke Jacob, all of whom were born in Holland, and came in early childhood with their parents to America. A succeeding chapter gives similar information regarding the descendants of these sons for each succeeding generation. The names are numbered consecutively for the purpose of identification, and a small figure affixed to each name indicates the generation in which the person belongs. The head-line on each page shows the line of descent of those mentioned thereon. For example, on page 313 will be found No. 2758 John⁷ Banta, and below is 4577 Isaac T.⁸ At the top of the page the head-line reads, "Eighth Generation; Isaac⁶ David⁵ Henry⁴ Hendrick³ Hendrick² Epke¹," indicating that Isaac T.⁸ is of the eighth generation, and that he is the son of John,⁷ who was the son of Isaac,⁶ who was the son of David,⁵ who was the son of Henry,⁴ who was the son of Hendrick,³ who was the son of Hendrick,² who was the son of Epke.¹

This volume contains descendants to the eleventh generation of Epke Jacob, the progenitor of the Banta family in America, showing an aggregate of nearly nine thousand persons who might claim him as their forefather. The number herein enrolled represents probably not more than one-half of his posterity, as in general the offspring of the daughters have not been recorded beyond one generation, and many in the male line also have been lost sight of. The numbers in the several generations which appear in the volume, separated to show the descendants of each of the sons of Epke Jacob, are as follows, calling Epke as of the first generation:

Generation.	Cornelius.	Seba.	Hendrick.	Dirck.	Wiert.	Total.
2	1	1	1	1	1	5
3	14	10	6	7	4	41
4	65	55	32	40	24	216
5	148	130	61	30	90	459
6	214	189	232	7	181	823
7	354	392	495	5	270	1516
8	570	547	1336	7	349	2809
9	313	381	1427	..	255	2376
10	47	72	414	..	54	587
11	1	..	33	34
Totals . .	1727	1777	4037	97	1228	8866

It is an interesting study also to trace one's pedigree back through both the several paternal and maternal branches.

In the first preceding generation a person has two ancestors; in the second generation he has four; in the third, provided there are no intermarriages of cousins, he has eight, in the fourth he has sixteen, and in the fifth he has thirty-two ancestors, and so on increasing in geometrical progression. A chart has been prepared and is here inserted, showing the genealogy of the compiler of these records through the various branches as far back as he could ascertain the facts. On his father's side all his ancestors in this country were of Dutch or Huguenot extraction and connected with the Reformed Dutch Church, and the records of that church have been so carefully preserved that they furnish quite a complete chain for five or six generations. Of his thirty-two ancestors in the fifth generation preceding his father, there will be found the names of all except five.

On his mother's side his ancestors came from England in 1638 and settled in Lynn, Massachusetts; subsequently were among the founders of Southampton and Southold, Long Island, and later of Elizabethtown, New Jersey. They were connected with the Congregational and Presbyterian Churches, the records of which antedating the Revolutionary War, are no longer in existence, and other records also have been destroyed; the lineage on the maternal side, therefore, is not so complete as in the other case.

It may be mentioned as a rather unusual circumstance in this country of mixed races, that there is not a drop of blood in his veins that has come from any ancestors whose lineage in America does not go back for a period of more than two hundred years.

The writer will be pleased to have pointed out any errors or omissions which may be noted in these pages. It is possible that a second edition may hereafter be issued, and in view of this contingency he will be happy to correspond with any persons who may be able to give information that will make the record more complete.

SOLDIERS IN THE WARS, OF THE NAME OF BANTA.

The following lists are probably far from complete. The lists of Revolutionary soldiers in New York are taken from the volume recently published at Albany, those of New Jersey from a similar work in that State, and those of Pennsylvania from the Archives at Harrisburg. The lists of soldiers in the War of 1812 and the Mexican War are made up mainly from statements made by their descendants. The reports of the Adjutant-General of Indiana, giving the names of all soldiers in the Civil War from that State, were examined, and a compilation made therefrom shows that nearly fifty bearing the name of Banta were enrolled in the regiments of that State. Some of these names are not found in this volume, indicating that many families have not sent their records for insertion in this work. As in the earlier circular sent out soliciting information specific inquiry was not made as to what members were in the army, it is quite probable that many more names should be added to these lists of the Bantas who were numbered among the soldiers in the recent conflict:

CHAPTER I.

THE ORIGIN OF THE NAME.

As is well known, the use of family names was not common among the early emigrants from Holland to New Netherlands. To distinguish one John, for example, from another, there was added to the name the baptismal name of his father, usually with the addition of s, se, or sen, indicating the relationship. Thus: Epke, the son of Jacob, was known as Epke Jacobs, or Epke Jacobse.

Sometimes a surname was derived from the place of birth. Thus: Jan, from the town of Wyck, was called Jan Van Wyck to distinguish him from Jan, from the city of Norden, who was called Jan Van Norden. Frequently the surname represented the trade of its bearer. For instance, Jan, the cooper, was known as Jan Kuiper, and Jan, the mason, was Jan Metselaar.

The progenitor of the Banta family in America did not bear this surname on his arrival in this country. In all the records yet found his name appears as Epke Jacobs, which, as above stated, means simply Epke, the son of Jacob. Epke is a Frisian name, nearly corresponding to the English Egbert. The sons of Epke Jacobs, namely, Cornelius, Seba, Hendrick, Derrick (or Dirck), and Weart, appear in the earliest records as Cornelius Epke, Seba Epke, or Epkese, etc. The first appearance of the family surname Banta, so far as known, is in the records of the Dutch Reformed Church of Hackensack, Bergen County, New Jersey, August 22, 1696. On this date in the Marriage Register is the following record:

Johannes Meyer, from New York, with Jannetie Cornelese Banta, from Ackinsack.

The bride in this case was the first-born child of Cornelius, probably the eldest son of the original immigrant, the marriage being the first solemnized of any of the Banta family who were born in the New World.

The following records subsequently appear:

July 5, 1697. Twins of Cornelis Epke and Jannetie De Pree were baptized; one of the witnesses was the wife of Dirck Epke. (The Cornelis Epke here mentioned is the same person alluded to as "Cornelies Banta" in the previous record, Dirck Epke being his brother.)

July 10, 1698. Received into membership in the church, Antie Sibese Banta (she was a daughter of Seba Epke).

May 21, 1699. There was baptized a child of Seba Epke; a witness was Jacob Hendricks Banta, who was a son of Hendrick, brother of Seba Epke.

Nov. 18, 1699. Cornelese Epke Banta, widower of Jannetie De Pree, married Magdalena Samuelse Demarest. (It will be observed that the groom in this case is the same person called Cornelis Epke in the record of July 5, 1697.)

For a short time thereafter the surname of the sons of the immigrant appeared sometimes as Epke, and at other times as Banta, until after a few years the latter surname only was used.

We cannot determine whether the family ever bore the name in Holland, and if not, why they assumed it in this country. Advertisements have been published in the newspapers of Amsterdam and of Friesland, but they have not brought information of any persons now bearing the name in the Netherlands.

The name itself is very ancient. Rev. William Arthur, in his work, "Origin of Names," states that Banta is from the Gaelic, derived from Beaunta, hills or mountains. Others suppose it is derived from bandt, a ban.

The earliest appearance of the name which has come under our notice is in Kemble's "The Saxons in England," published in London, 1876. We quote from page 149:

A very remarkable document of Eadberht, King of Kent, is preserved in the Textus Roffensis; after the King's own signature, in which he calls himself Rex Cantuariorum, his nobles place their names, thus: "Ego Wilbardus comites meos confirmare et subscribere feci;"* and in the same words Dinrheahac, Hosberht, Nothbalth, Banta, Ruta and Tidbalth sign. Now the fact of these persons having comites at all is only conceivable on the supposition that they were all royal, kings or sub-kings.

The document here referred to is given in full in "A Hand-Book to the Land Charters and other Saxon Documents," by John Earle, published at Oxford in 1888. It is a charter by which Eadberht gives land in the Bishopric of Rochester. Earle remarks: "After the signature of the grantor, several other signatories follow who use the same royal style, in that they make their Comities to confirm and subscribe." Mr. Kemble has dwelt on this deed as conclusive evidence of the plurality of kings in Kent at this date, April, 738. This fact has probably not been published before in this country, and in view of it, the tradition mentioned in the introduction to this work has a curious interest.

It is worthy of mention that Friesland, from which the Banta progenitor came to the New World, was the original home of the Saxons. In the fifth century, a band of the Frisii joined the Saxons and Angles in an invasion of Britain. Motley, in the "Rise of the Dutch Republic," says, page 20:

The free Frisians, whose name is synonymous with liberty, were the nearest blood relations of the Anglo-Saxon race.

The Frisian language is intermediate between the Anglo-Saxon and Old Norse. Of all the Teutonic dialects, it shows the closest affinity to English. There is a Frisian literature from the twelfth century.

It may be noted that as early as 1671, a name nearly identical with that of Banta, but which belonged to an entirely different family, appears among the records of the Dutch Church in New York City. October 1st, 1679, appears the baptism of a child of Jan Pieterszen Bandt and Maria Pieters. The marriage of these parents is recorded April 1, 1671, and three other baptisms are recorded in which the name of the husband and father is given simply as Jan Pieterszen. This person's name occurs in the records of the Register's Office, New York, Liber 23, folio 159, where in a deed it appears as John Peters Bant. His descendants' names appear under the same patronymic, but in some cases they have altered it to Bond.

The name of Bant also appears early in the Boston records, the baptism of a daughter of Gilbert and Mary Bant being recorded April 28, 1689, and the marriage of John Grantham and Martha Bant being solemnized Dec. 8, 1690.

* I, Wilbardus, have made my comites confirm and subscribe.

One of the Directors of the Dutch West India Company, residing in Zieland in 1652, was D. Bant or D. Bante, the name appearing with both spellings.

Bant was the ancient name of an island north of Friesland, of which we find this account in an old Dutch Cyclopedia:

Bant—Alfridius III, Bishop of Munster, who has also written the life of Ludgerus I, calls by this name an island of Friesland, which lies between the Ems and the Lauwers; the fact that he names it as one of the six prominent districts into which he divides the country, is a certain proof that the Burchana of the Romans had not been diminished at the time of Ludgerus, i. e., in the ninth century, so that it was yet attached to BANT, which formed the easterly part of it. As the Romans called the whole island Burchana, after Bozchem, the principal village on the west side, so Alfridius gives it the name of Bant, after another village which lies on the opposite side. After both of them had been very much decreased this common name also has been abandoned, and the western part has been called Borkna and the eastern part Bant. Now-a-days it has become so small that it can hardly be an abode for rabbits, much less for men.

In the life of the holy Ludgerus, just mentioned, reference is made to the "presbyter Bantus and his brother Beatus, by name and in works," who lived on the island a hermit life.

CHAPTER II.

THE FRISIAN EMIGRANT.

The ancestor of the Banta family in America, Epke Jacobs, was a farmer who lived in the vicinity of Harlingen, an important seaport of Friesland, the most northern of the provinces of Holland.

Harlingen is at the entrance of the Zuyder Zee, 65 miles north north-east from Amsterdam. It stands on the site of a former town which was engulfed by the sea in the year 1134. It is protected by a dyke forty feet high, one of the largest in Holland.

On the register of the Dutch Church at Bergen, New Jersey, in recording the marriage of Seba Epke (son of Epke Jacobs), he is stated to have been born at Oosterbierum, and in a similar record of Hendrick, Dirck and Weart (other sons), their birth-place is given as Minnertsga. These are small villages within a mile of the Zuyder Zee, and about six and nine miles respectively, northeast of Harlingen. Epke Jacobs probably lived between these two villages. They are within the district of Barradeel and opposite the island of Schelling. Near them, and about a mile east from Oosterbierum, is an old convent called Lidlum. This part of Friesland is flat, much of it below the level of the sea and protected by dykes. A view of Harlingen copied from an ancient print, and views in the two villages named from photographs taken specially for this work, will doubtless be regarded with interest.

The inhabitants of Friesland still retain that strong passion for liberty which distinguished their ancestors, together with their old customs and manner of living, even to the ancient Frisian dialect and accent, which latter circumstance renders the language, of the country people in particular, unintelligible to the other Netherlanders.—Busching.

The Frieslanders are noted as a tall and muscular race.

It may be observed that the baptismal name "Epke" is very uncommon. Mr. James Riker, author of the History of Harlem, stated that he had searched in vain many old Dutch chronicles and histories (full of christian names) for that of Epke. The compiler of these records has examined almost all of the early Dutch church records of this country and has found it only when borne by a descendant of Epke

Jacobs, the progenitor of the Banta family. Mr. Riker thought it hardly found its English equivalent in Egbert, but came nearer the Teutonic Epikur (Epicurus). It may be observed, however, that the eldest son of Cornelius Epke Banta, who was baptized by the name of Epke, is mentioned in his father's will as Egbert.

The existing marriage records of Harlingen date from 1611 and the baptismal records from 1613. The baptismal records of Minnertsga date from 1655, and those of Oosterbierum from 1694. These records were searched in the hope that they might disclose the name of the wife of Epke Jacobs, the date of his marriage, the baptism of his children, etc., but the examination proved fruitless.

In volume 14, page 90, of the Colonial Manuscript in the State Library, at Albany (copied into N. Y. Documentary History III: 52, 53), there is preserved the first record we have found of the forefather of the Bantas, being the bill of charges for passage to America. Translated from the Dutch, it reads as follows:

EPKE JACOBS, from Harlengen, farmer (boumann) Debet.
For passage and board when he came over in the ship De Trouw , Jan Jansen
Bestevaer, skipper, Feby. 12, 1659,	Fl. 36
For his wife and five sons of $\frac{3}{4}$, 2, 3, 4 and 6 years,	108
Cash received from the Lord Directors,	15
	Fl. 159

Upon arrival in the New World he probably settled at Flushing, on the north shore of Long Island, about eleven miles from New York. Unfortunately, all the town records of Flushing were destroyed by the burning of the town clerk's house in 1789, so that we are cut off from information which these records might have revealed. Neither his name nor that of his wife appear on the records of any of the Dutch churches here that have been preserved. Valentine's Corporation Manual for 1863 contains a page headed, "Fac similes of the Original Autographs of the Burgomasters and Schepens, and many other distinguished individuals, in the early history of the City of New York." Among these names is that of Epke Jacobs, though it is incorrectly stated to be "Sibnd Jacobs." Mr. James Riker, author of the History of Harlem, had seen the signature of Epke Jacobs on an original deed dated in 1685, conveying a farm in Bergen Co., N. J., to Hendrick Jorese Brinckerhoff, and recognized this signature of Valentine's Manual as of the same person. Accordingly, the records of the Clerk of the Common Council, in the City Hall, New York, were searched, and the following mentioned document was brought to light. It became of special interest to us because it made known the residence and occupation of the forefather of the Bantas in this country, and gave us a specimen of his handwriting, the signature in the volume being his own sign-manual.

The book is labelled:

No. 4.
BURGOMASTERS AND SCHEPENEN.
1661—1663.

On the fly leaf is an inscription in English:

HIGH COURT BLOTTER.—DUTCH.

Both the label and English inscription, however, are erroneous, the volume really being the record of transactions with the notary, Solomon La Chaire. The records, of course, are in Dutch, and the penmanship so poor that several words could not be understood. Translated, the record as found on pages 83 and 84, is as follows:

Appeared before me, Solomon La Chaire, Notary Public, admitted, etc., and before the after-named witnesses, the worthy Epke Jacobs, innkeeper, living at Flushing, on Long Island, known to me, the notary, and acknowledged for himself and his heirs really and lawfully to owe to Mr. Nicolais De Meyer, merchant of this city, the sum of one hundred and four guilders in good braided commercial sewan, and besides fourteen schepels (bushels) of peas — for divers delivered wares received by the said Epke Jacobs of the said De Meyer in the — rights, and received in a satisfactory condition: He, the said Epke Jacobs, therefore promises to pay the aforesaid one hundred and four guilders sewan to the aforesaid De Meyer or his order, upon demand, and the aforementioned fourteen schepels of peas, on or before the first of October next. The said Epke Jacobs pledges his person and goods, movable and immovable, present and future not excepted, submitting all of them to the jurisdiction of all — courts, rights and judges under lien of voluntary condemnation before the Hon. Court of this city, Consenting to — the notary Tiedeman Van Vleck, and to — therewith, the notary Mateus Devos, consenting to the above without any exception.

Executed and delivered in a lawful manner, without fraud, at Amsterdam, in N. Netherlands, in the presence of Claes Marichael and Meyndert Barents Van —, trustworthy witnesses, who were invited for the purpose, on the 20th day of June, 1662.

Epke Jacobs
June 20 1662

In 1669, he was yet residing at Flushing. From Liber A, of Wills, page 69, in the Surrogates office, New York, we find that in September of that year he served with John Lawrence, as appraiser of the property of Elizabeth Partridge, deceased. Lawrence, subsequently Mayor of New York, was the most prominent and influential man of his day in the neighborhood, and from the fact that Epke Jacobs was associated with him, it is a fair inference that our ancestor was not without consideration among his townsmen.

Two years later he bought a mill in the adjoining town of Jamaica, as appears from the following extracts from the Town Book. The agreements signed by Coe and Epke are copied verbatim:

January 20, 1669. The town voted to make a dam for a mill, and when it is sufficiently made, Benjamin Coe agreed to maintain it, and to build and maintain a mill, and to grind the town's corn for the twelfth part; further, Benjamin Coe engaged to grind the town's corn before strangers, and the town engaged to bring their corn to the mill such day in the week as he shall appoint. Further, the town gave to Benjamin Coe ten acres of salt meadows upon the furthest East Neck, and five acres of boggy meadow about the place where the mill stands, and upland to it, according to the rest of the town, upon the account of the building of the mill.

The following record subsequently appears:

Know all men by these presents that I, Beniaman Coe ynhabitant of the towne of Ynecah due by these presents firmly bind and ingage myself my heires executors administrators or asines to mak and set up a good softient mill upon the river which is betwene the old towne neck and the Long Neck and to maintain in good Repair so as that he may grind the townes corn well and likewise to sarve the towne before strangers and take but the twelfe part for tousel the towne coming in at such days as the said Beniamin Coe shall apoint them to bring in their corn to grind and likewise the same beniamin coe do ingage that the land the towne gave me that lies abought the mill shall remain to the mill and either that ten acres of meadow the towne gave me or so much meadow in another place shall likewise remain to the mill but if in case that the streeme prove insofitit for a mill then the land to be the said beniamin coe's own proper right and likewise when the dam is mad sofitiently according to the judgment of such workmen as shall be made chois of to vew it y the said beniaman coe do ingage upon my owne cost and charge to keep it in good Repair from time to time so that the towne shall not sufer for want of grinding and likewise if y the said beniaman coe do sell the mill the towne shall have the first Refusale of it.

In witness whereof y have set to my hand the 21st September 1671.

Beneath the preceding agreement is the following:

Know all men by these presents, that whereas y Ebkey Jacobsen have bought the mill of Benjamin Coe with the consent of the towne, y the said Ebkey Jacobsen do firmly bind myself, my heirs, executors or asingnes, to perform the covenants above expressed to the utmost of my power, in witness whereof I have set my hand this 29 of December, 1671.

The signature in the New York City Hall had the date affixed, as had the signature on the deed to Hendrick Joris Brinkerhoff, mentioned on page 7, and this appears to be a peculiarity of Epke Jacobse's signature. It may be observed that the above signature in the Jamaica Town Book is at the extreme bottom of the page, leaving no room for date underneath.

The following records are also taken from the Jamaica Town Book:

Jan. 24, 1675. The town made an agreement with Joseph Carpenter and Caleb Carman to build a sawmill and corn mill where the old mill stood, on condition that they perform the covenant made with Benjamin Coe.

Towne Meeting, 22 September, 1680.

The towne did give liberty to Benjamin Coe to selling a grist mill upon the river between Seller Nek and Plunder Nek, soe far as the towne hath right thereunto.

Subsequently, Epke Jacobs removed to New Jersey, settling at Bergen, opposite New York City. At what date this removal occurred we are not advised, but from the above extracts we infer it was prior to 1675. Most of the early records of the Town of Bergen are lost. Two of his sons were married at Bergen in October, 1678. February 18, 1679, he was appointed one of the Special Court of Oyer and Terminer to be held at Bergen, beginning the first Tuesday of March, 1679, the other members of the Court being John Berry, President; Lourens Andriesen (Van Buskirk), and Elias Michaelson (Vreeland). (Winfield's History of Hudson County, page 100.)

In 1681 he purchased land at Hackensack, and with his sons became among the earliest settlers of that ancient village.

The first deed to Epke Jacobs that we find on record is in Liber 2, p. 141 of Deeds, at Trenton, for land located June, 1681, consisting of 183 acres, extending from Hackensack river to Overpeck creek (now known as English Neighborhood creek). The settlement here was known as Old Hackensack. A similar tract adjoining it on the south was located at the same time by his son Derrick, or Dirck, recorded Liber 2, page 142.

The following abstract of a deed, recorded in the office of the Proprietors of East Jersey, at Perth Amboy, in Patent Book A, folio 175, seems to refer to the foregoing, though it is dated four years subsequently:

1685. Deed. Made in the 37th year of the reign of Charles II. The Lords

A deed, not recorded, for property at what is now called Ridgefield Park, on the east side of the river, two miles below Hackensack, was in existence a few years ago. It was dated June 17, 1685, and was made by Epke Jacobs to Hendrick Joris Brinckerhoff, in the possession of whose descendants the land remained for two hundred years. Mr. James Riker, before mentioned, examined this deed, which was kept in an old oaken chest in the Brinckerhoff homestead, and recalled the peculiar signature of Epke Jacobs, with the date 1685 underneath. This land was purchased by Epke Jacobs, of Mrs. Sarah Kierstead; at what date is unknown.

June 9, 1686, Gawen Lawrie, Governor, deeded to Epke Jacobs, 240 acres on the west side of the Hackensack river, north of what is now known as Cherry Hill, and extending westward to Wynocksack brook, being $14\frac{1}{2}$ chains in breadth on the river and brook by 170 chains in length. This covered what was formerly known as Sluckup and is now named Spring Valley.

A copy of this deed is here appended as found at Trenton, Liber A, folio 323:

This farm came into possession of Cornelius,² who was doubtless his eldest son and, under the law of primogeniture then prevailing, inherited the real estate of his father, who died without leaving a will (at least no will has been found of record). Cornelius, during his life-time, gave the west half of this farm, if not all of it, to his son John, some of whose descendants have continued in possession of a portion of it to this day.

The latest notice we have found of Epke Jacobs is in the "Journal of the Proceedings of the Governor and Council of the Province of East Jersey," pages 137 and 138, under date of 23 October, 1686, a verbatim account of which reads as follows:

The High Sheriffe of the County of Bergen brought here the boddyes of Rowley Vanderhide (Ralph Vanderlinde), Andresse Lawrenson, Lawrence Lawrenson, Dericke Eptkeyes, Cornelius Christianson, Hans Christianson, Eptkey Jacobs, and Weart Ephkey—pursuant to a proclamac'on issued out to the s' High Sheriffe for a Riote by them committed in the s' Countv. and for Refusing to obey the King's authority there. and sundry Depositions being here Read, and also sundry warrts, and the Sheriffes Retorne thereupon, wherein appeares the great insolency of the s' p'sons in breach of the Kings peace, and Contempt of the Lawes of this province—the pr'misses being duly Considered and upon mature Considerac'on, It's unanimously agreed and ordered that the above s' p'sons, and every of them stand Close Comitted to ye Com'on Gaole of Woodbridge there to Remaine untill they shall give good and sufficient security, and that in the sune of Each of them one Hundred pounds, before some Justice of peace in this County, for their p'sonall appearance att the next Court of Com'on Right to bee held att the Towne of Amboy Perth the second Tuesday in the month of Aprill now next ensuing, to Answer the p'misses, and that in the meane tyme to bee of the good behaviour, &c; and also that Im'ediately bee Committed to the hands and Custody of the High Sheriffe of middx, who is hereby Required in the Kings name to take the said p'sons into his Custody and them safely keepe untill the shal give such security as above, or bee Discharged by due Course of Law.

It's also agreed and ordered that Major John Berry issue out his warrt to the sheriffe of the County of Bergen, to take into his Custody the boddy of Lawrence Andress of Bergen and him safely keepe, soe that hee may have his boddy att the next Court of Com'on Right to bee held at Amboy the second Tuesday in the month of Aprill next, to Answer to such Articles and things as shall be objected agt him upon the p't and behalfe of our Lord the King &c.

We have not been able to find any further particulars of this affair. The records of the Middlesex County Court from 1683 are preserved in the County Clerk's Office at New Brunswick, N. J., but they contain no reference to the matter. Remembering that all authority in the Province at this period was vested in the Proprietors, the Governor even being appointed by them, and that the title to the land was derived from them, usually under a stipulation to pay a small annual rental, it would seem probable that the difficulty was in reference to a dispute about the title to land. Lawrence Andress was one of the Governor's council, and all of the persons named were large land-holders, owning adjoining farms on the east side of the Hackensack whose title was derived from the Proprietors. We feel warranted in concluding, therefore, that Epke Jacobs and his two younger sons, with the other sturdy Dutch farmers, were not engaged in a lawless riot, but were standing up manfully for what they deemed their rights, and this view seems to be supported by the fact that all proceedings against them were abandoned.

Possibly the following reference may explain the matter—

In one of the "rent books" of Gawen Lawrie, Governor at the Proprietors' office, Perth Amboy—called "Reseats and Pardon's Books"—William Pardon being collector of the rents, appear the following entry:

"Apke Jacobs" and others in payment of rents received by the Proprietors 1673-1685, in which Jacobs is credited £13. 1. 9. [He and his associates had 2,260 acres.]

It is conjectured that the persons named had declined to pay rent to the Proprietors, but their arrest caused them to think better of it, and that this "reseat" is an acknowledgment that they paid up all arrears.

The name of the wife of Epke Jacob Banta nowhere appears, and the only mention of her is in the passage receipt given on p. 4. It is probable that she died prior to the removal to New Jersey, as otherwise her name would likely be found as witness to the baptism of her grandchildren. Neither her name nor that of her husband's appears as members of any of the churches whose records are extant. It may be observed that there was no Dutch church at Flushing nor at Jamaica at the time of their residence there.

As we have not been able to find the record of baptism of any of the children of Epke Jacobs, we are not certain as to the order of their birth. The account for passage given on page 4 states the ages of his sons, but does not give their names. In the church register at Bergen and Hackensack we find the names of five sons, and assume that these were the children who came with their parents from Holland. As only twenty-two years elapsed between the time of their arrival in this country and the marriage of the last one of their sons, it is not probable that any of the young emigrants died here in infancy and other sons were born after arrival. We have given the year of birth of the sons, however, on the assumption that they were all born in Holland, and have used our best judgment in arranging them as to seniority.

CHAPTER III.

THIRD GENERATION.

2. CORNELIUS² EPKE BANTA married for his first wife Jannetie, daughter of Jan de Pré and Jannetie de Ruine, who was baptized in New Amsterdam Dec. 3, 1662. Mary Peeck, wife of Jan Peeck, made a contract for the sale of a house and lot in Smith's Valley, New Amsterdam, August 19, 1660, to Jan de Pré, as appears from the records in the Register's Office, New York. Jan de Pré resided in Flushing in 1661, and was a member of the church at New Utrecht at its organization in 1677. The church record states that he removed to Staten Island and Bergen, without mentioning dates. It is probable that Cornelius and Jannetie were married at New Utrecht; the early marriage and baptismal records of that church, however, are missing.

By his first wife he had seven children, and by his second wife he had six more. We do not find the record of the baptism of the first born. We think it very probable that one or two of these were baptized at New Utrecht, and the others, as well as those children of his brothers born between 1682 and 1694, were baptized at the Huguenot church at Kinderkamack, above Hackensack, which existed for a brief period only, and whose records have entirely disappeared. (See Dr. David D. Demarest's interesting pamphlet, "The Huguenots on the Hackensack.")

We are not certain where he resided when he first removed to the vicinity of Hackensack. Many deeds in those early times were never recorded. That part of the present Bergen County west of Hackensack river belonged to Essex County prior to 1709, and the first book of Deeds of Essex County covering that period has for a long time been missing. We think it probable that he owned land on the east side of the river opposite Hackensack, at what is now known as Bogota, as well as west of the river.

In 1695, with his three brothers and six other men he bought a large tract of land running from Overpeck creek to the Hudson river, and more than two miles in breadth from north to south. It comprised about three thousand acres, for which the sum of one hundred pounds was paid. It included within its bounds a large portion of the present townships of Englewood and Palisade. We give a verbatim copy of this deed as recorded at the office of the Secretary of State at Trenton, N. J., in Liber E of Deeds for East Jersey, folio 245:

The Proprietors of the province of East New Jersey, To whom these presents shall come Greeting Know yee That we have Granted released and confirmed And by these presents doe grant release and confirme unto Sibah Eptke, Cornelius Epke, Hendrick Epke, Derrick Epke, John Cornelius, Ruliph Johnston, Martin Powlson, Hendrick Yorson, John Lotts And Ruliph Westervelt, All of the Toune of Hakinsack In the Countie of Bergen And in the province aforesud In consideration of the sum of One

King, Andrew Hamilton, O. David Mudie, James Dunday, Thomas Warne, George Willoks, Thomas Boell, John Bareley, John Reid, Thomas Gorden, Samuel Dennis, John Bishop.

Dec. 3, 1702, Cornelius Epke Banta bought of Richard Pope 240 acres of land on the west side of the Hackensack river, extending to Wynocksack brook and adjoining on the north a similar tract which had been bought by his father in 1686, and which undoubtedly had now become his by inheritance. This tract of 240 acres Cornelius gave to his oldest son, Epke, by endorsement on the deed, September 7, 1711.

The first wife of Cornelius Epke Banta died after giving birth to twins, July 5, 1697, and on November 18, 1699, he married at Hackensack, her cousin, Magdalena, daughter of Samuel Demarest and Maria De Ruine, who was born in New York City, April 21, 1680.*

For a third wife he married, March 1, 1719, Abeltie (or Ablech), daughter of Pieter Jansen Slot, and widow of Adam Van Orden. Cornelius Epke Banta died in May, 1719. His will is the only one we have found of the five brothers who came from Holland, and we give it in full, verbatim:

3. SEBA² EPKE BANTA, married at Bergen, N. J., Nov. 6, 1678, "in presence of the Court," Mary, daughter of Arian Sip.

Winfield's Land Titles of Hudson County, page 79, states in reference to a patent granted to Casper Stymets, that lots, 81, 95 and 116, comprising over 200 acres, were sold by the patentee to Seba Epke Banta, who sold them April 6, 1693, to Elias Michaelse Vreeland. Many deeds in those early times were not recorded. Many of those for lands in Bergen were recorded in the Bergen Town Book, which has been lost, and it is probable that Epke Jacobs and others of his sons beside Seba owned land in Bergen of which we have no record. Seba Banta, with his brothers, bought in 1695 a large tract of land on the Palisades, as mentioned on page 11. In the year 1700 his name, together with his brother Hendrick and Weart (probably his brother Weart's son), appears among the signers of the Remonstrance of Inhabitants of East Jersey to the King against the Acts of the Proprietors, and asking for the appointment of a competent Governor. — N. 4. HENDRICK² EPKE BANTA, married at Bergen, N. J., Nov. 17, 1678, Maritje Lubbertse Westervelt, "in presence of the Court." He united with the church at Bergen, March 29, 1680, and at the organization of the church at Hackensack in 1686 he was chosen one of the Deacons, and installed into office July 25, 1686. May, 1705, he was chosen an Elder of the church. He married a second time, Angenitie Hendricks. In 1700 he signed the Remonstrance to the King before referred to. April 13, 1740, the names of Hendrick Epke Banta and wife appear as witnesses at the baptism of a child of Weart Banta. If this is correct he lived to be at least 85 years of age, but we are inclined to think there is an error in the record, and that it was intended for his son or grandson.

A deed dated June 10, 1708, acknowledged July 19, 1717, and recorded in Book A of Deeds, p. 85, at Hackensack, sets forth that Hendrick Epke Banta, Yeoman of Hackensack, in consideration of provisions in his last will, bearing even date, has sold to his son, Jacob Hendrick, the following pieces of land: First, a lot now in possession of Jacob, bounded west by Hackensack river, east by the Queen's road, north by Henry Joris Brinkerhoff and south by John Cornelius Bogert. (Brinkerhoff's land was the tract bought from Epke Jacobs.) This deed indicates that Hendrick owned land adjoining on the south that sold by his father to Brinkerhoff in 1685.

He bought a share of the land between the Overpeck creek and the Hudson river, in connection with his brothers and others, as set forth on page 10.

5. DERRICK² (or DIRCK) EPKE BANTA married at Bergen, N. J., Oct. 7, 1681, Ester, daughter of Hans and Margriete Dedrick. Hans Dedrick kept an inn at Bergen, which was the second one licensed in that town (Feb. 13, 1671). He was a Lieutenant of the Bergen Militia, and was one of the patentees of Acquacknonck, May 28, 1679.

The record on the Bergen Church Register states that the marriages of Derrick and that of his brother, Weart, on the same day, were the first celebrated "in the new church." He joined in the purchase, with his brothers and others, of the large tract of land on the Palisades already referred to. He and his wife united with the church at Hackensack, May 1, 1689. He was elected Deacon, May 4, 1699, and Church Warden in 1707.

In the minutes of the Consistory under date of May 1708, appears the following entry:

As Church Warden Dirck Epke Banta to keep his office yet for this year, to whom has been added Joost De Bane, which two aforesaid Church Wardens caused in this year, 1708, the steeple to be built on the Ackinsack Church which has here been recorded in their praise.

In May, 1715, he was chosen an Elder. October 15, 1717, he was appointed Surveyor of the highways "by two of His Majesty's Justices." At that time he lived at Winkleman, which was on the east side of the Hackensack River, between Old Hackensack and Hackensack.

The records of the Dutch Church in New York contains the publication of the banns, Sept. 15, 1681. It was the custom of the times to proclaim the banns of marriage in the church on three successive Sundays. All the children of Weart² Epke were baptized in New York, though they were born at Hackensack. The witnesses at the baptism of Elsie in 1687 were Jan Pieterszen and Maria Bon, to which attention is called because Jan Pieterszen was doubtless the ancestor of the Bant family, which, though of somewhat similar name, had another origin.

Wiert and his wife joined the church at Hackensack, May 1, 1689. He died within a very few years thereafter, as is evident from the fact that the will of Jullis Mandeville, dated Sept. 15, 1696, describes his daughter, Gerretie, as "now the wife of Pieter Meet." July 21, 1699, Gerretie married a third time, Increase Power, born near Boston, by whom she had several children who were baptized at Hackensack.

CHAPTER IV.

FOURTH GENERATION.

Cornelius² Epke.¹7. JANNETIE BANTA MEYER,³ see page 21.

8. EPKE³ BANTA, called Egbert in his father's will which gave him his sword as a birthright, received from his father a deed for 240 acres of land (on survey found to contain 254 acres), extending from the Hackensack river to Wynocksack brook (now called Sprout brook). His father had bought this property from Richard Pope, Dec. 3, 1702, and conveyed it to his son Epke, Sept. 7, 1711, by endorsement on the back. As was quite common in those days, the deed was not recorded, and we became acquainted with the fact in this wise. The original grantor of the land was Peter Sonmans, one of the "Proprietors," who gave a deed for it 30th August, 1686, at which time he was under age. To cure the defect in the title, Peter Sonmans executed another deed Dec. 2, 1728, to Cornelius⁴ Banta, called therein the son and heir of Epke³ Banta, who was the son of Cornelius² Epke Banta, and this latter deed, recorded at Hackensack in Liber B; folio 308, sets forth all the facts.

Epke,³ born at Hackensack, married Jannetie du Rye, April 3, 1707. He died prior to Dec. 2, 1728, his widow marrying Thomas Outwater, June 28, 1730. His two sons died unmarried, and the farm was inherited by his two daughters who divided it between them.

Liber C, folio 52, at Hackensack, records a deed from Francyntie Earle, wife of Nathaniel Earle, blacksmith, of Stein Rapie, to Henry Mayer, Yeoman of Quacksack, for 127 acres, house, barns, orchards, etc. The deed recites that the farm of 254 acres descended jointly to Jannetie Van Zaen and said Francyntie heiress and "juberitrix" of the said land and now equally divided between them—land bounded on the south by John Banta, on the north by Jacobus Van Voorhees and Hannis Losier, on the east by the Hackensack river, and west by the Sprout brook. Liber C, folio 54, records a conditional deed of the property by Henry Mayer to his loving son-in-law, Nathaniel Earle—land bounded on the west by Jacob Van Zaen, which indicates that the original farm of 254 acres was divided by a line running north and south, midway between Hackensack river and the Sprout brook, Van Zaen taking the westerly half and Earle the easterly portion.

He is not mentioned in his father's will, having already received the gift of a farm adjoining on the south the farm given to his brother Epke³. He died subsequent to 1750, as we learn from a paper in the nature of a will dated in that year, in the possession of his descendant, Cornelius H. Banta of Spring Valley, N. J., a copy of which is here given verbatim:

John Banta, of Hackensack, in consideration of £60, d., give and grant to my four daughters, Eva, Jannetie, Francintie and Margrety, that piece of land on West side of Shall remain in the possession of s^d John Banta and Cornelia, his wife, for her maintaining during her lifetime.

Dated May 1, 1750.

Jan Banta lived west of the present Spring Valley road, about two miles north-west of Hackensack. All his children except the youngest, were baptized at Hackensack. She was baptized at Schraalenburgh.

14. JACOB³ BANTA married Rachel, daughter of Stephen Terhune and Lydia D. Demarest, at Hackensack, April 13, 1728. He built a house at Winkleman, on the east side of the Hackensack river, opposite Hackensack, near the present R. R. station of Bogota. His children were all baptized at Hackensack, except the eldest who was baptized at Tappan. In 1726, with Henry Brinkerhoff he bought of Marmaduke Earle, 63 acres of swamp land and upland at Quacksack and Moonachie. He and his wife united with the church at Hackensack in 1731. His will, dated September 3, 1771, is recorded at Trenton, in Liber K, folio 405, March 23, 1772, and reads as follows:

7. JANNETIE³ BANTA, born in Hackensack, married at that place, Aug. 22, 1696, Jan or Johannes Meyer, who was baptized in New York, June 12, 1667. He was a son of Martin Janszen Meyer, from Elsvliet, Holland, who probably is identical with Martin Janszen Van Breuckelen, who resided in New Amersfort as early as 1653, and who was Schepen there in 1656, 1657 and 1658. He was married Nov. 19, 1662, to Hendrickye Hermans, from Amsterdam. He and his wife made a joint will, dated March 16, 1693, which is recorded in the Surrogate's office, New York.

The baptism of the eldest and the youngest of the children of Johannes Meyer is recorded at Hackensack, while the record of the others is found on the books of the Lutheran Church, formed in New York in 1674, now located on the corner of Broome and Mulberry streets. These books indicate that the minister was accustomed to go to Hackensack and other places about New York to baptize children whose parents were in sympathy with the Lutherans.

The will of Johannes Meyer (many of his descendants adopted the spelling Myer) was dated March 25, 1742. He is described as of "Sadol (Saddle) river in the County of Bergen and Province of New Jersey." The will was proved in Newark, N. J., and filed in Trenton, N. J., and letters were granted to his son, Johannes, April 10, 1755. The children mentioned were Martin (the eldest), Cornelius, Johannes, Isaac, Jacob and Abram Myer, Marijtje Prevoost (Brevoort) and Rachel Labagh.

 Hendrick³ Hendrick² Epke.¹

161. HENDRICK⁴ BANTA married at Schraalenburgh, Aug. 12, 1738, Rachel Brower, daughter of Abram Brower and Leah Demarest, who was baptized at Hackensack, Dec. 9, 1716. He was a member of the church at Hackensack in 1741. His wife died about 1750 and he married again, Antie Demarest, daughter of Samuel David and Lea Demarest, who was baptized Dec. 23, 1733, and who survived him. He removed from Bergen County to Somerset County, N. J., and was an Elder of the church at Bedminster, Oct. 25, 1758. The baptismal records of that church have not been preserved, but at least four of his children were born while he was living in that county, whose date of birth we cannot determine. About ten years later, with a colony from New-Jersey he removed to Conewago, York County, Pa., near the present site of Gettysburg, and was a member of the church there at its formation, and probably an Elder. The oldest document on record in York County is a deed given by one Van Arsdale in 1768 for land described therein as adjoining land of Henry Banta, which fixes the date of emigration to Pennsylvania as early as 1768. The only records of the Conewago church that have been preserved are a few scattering items of the Consistory, and the baptismal register which is partially illegible. The latter begins Oct. 23, 1769, and on this date, among others, a child of Henry Banta was baptized. About 1780 with a colony from Conewago he migrated to Kentucky, and located at first near Boonsborough, on the Kentucky river, to which place Captain Daniel Boon had moved with his family four or five years previously and made a settlement.

Collins' History of Kentucky, p. 521, says: "White Oak Spring, sometimes called Hart's Station, one mile above Boonsborough, was settled in 1779 by Capt. Nathaniel Hart and some Dutch families from Pennsylvania." * * * "Not far is a spring twelve feet square at the top and one hundred feet deep, boiling up pure, cold and fresh and flowing off in a large and constant stream."

P. 529: "White Oak Station was settled in 1779. The settlers were composed principally of families from Pennsylvania—orderly, respectable people, and the men good soldiers. But they were unaccustomed to Indian warfare, and of some ten or twelve men all were killed except two or three."

P. 523: "The first Dutch emigration to Kentucky in a company was in 1781, to White Oak Spring Station, on Kentucky river, Madison county, one mile above Boonsborough. Among the immigrants were Henry Banta, sr., Henry Banta, jr., Abraham Banta and John Banta. A little later the colonists went where Harrodsburg now stands, but in the course of a few years they established themselves permanently about a village now called Pleasureville, then Six Mile, in Henry County. There some of them purchased twelve thousand acres of land which they called the 'Low Dutch Tract,' and divided it among themselves."

Those whose attention has not been directed to the subject, can have no adequate idea of the hardships and the perils of this long journey from eastern Pennsylvania to Kentucky. At that period Conewago was almost at the western limit of settlement, and between it and Kentucky was an unbroken wilderness of over six hundred miles. The road by which these pioneers travelled was doubtless that known as "The Wilderness road," which passed through the valley of Virginia, between the Blue Ridge and the Alleghanies, and across the mountains by Cumberland Gap to Fort Harrod. The road was really only a "trace." No wagon passed over it until at least fifteen years later, and these colonists were compelled to journey on foot and with pack-horses. The "pack-saddle" was a forked branch of a tree fastened on the horse, upon which were hung all the household goods and provisions. One of the early accounts of such a journey in 1779, describes the "men on foot with their trusty rifles on their shoulders, driving stock and leading pack-horses, and the women, some walking with pails on their heads, others riding with children in their laps, and other children swung in baskets on horses, encamping at night, expecting to be massacred by Indians, subsisting on stinted allowances of stale bread and meat, encountering bears, wolves and wild-cats in the narrow bridle-path overgrown with brush and underwood." Another account mentions that a colony, migrating to Kentucky in 1783, had reached within half a dozen miles of the first settlement in the territory, when seven families of the train stopped to encamp for the night, the others passing on. That night the Indians attacked the families who had encamped and all were killed except one man. One of Henry⁴ Banta's sons was killed by the Indians in Kentucky.

At the time of removal to Kentucky, Henry⁴ Banta was the father of twenty-one children, of whom three had died in infancy, and his oldest son had recently died leaving nine children, who were brought up by their grandfather. Five or six of his sons were married, two of whom, Samuel and Peterius, remained for awhile in Pennsylvania, as did his three married daughters. His family, who accompanied him in this toilsome, dangerous journey of several months' duration, consisted of his wife and twelve children, five of whom were under twelve years of age, and nineteen grandchildren, almost all of whom were under twelve years of age.

An account of the settlement of the "Low Dutch Tract," written by Mr. George W. Demaree, was published in the Shelby Courant, Shelbyville, Ky., May 15, 1873, and so much of it as refers to the Banta family is quoted therefrom, to illustrate some of the difficulties these hardy pioneers encountered in building their new homes on "the dark and bloody ground":

I propose to devote this chapter to the origin of the purchase and final settlement of the Dutch tract, together with incidents connected with the men who figured in this part of our history.

About ten years before the final settlement was effected—i. e., about the year 1785, Capt. Daniel Banta, Cornelius Banta and John Banta, Sr., followed the "trace" leading from Harrod's station in Mercer County to Hoagland's station, in what was afterwards Shelby County, till within a few miles of the latter place where they boldly plunged into the wilderness, and built a cabin about two miles north-east of Hoagland's station and what was afterwards known as the old Magruder farm, now the property of Thomas Eaton, Esq. This was, beyond doubt, the first cabin built in the limits of the Dutch tract. It was constructed of blue ash logs, and was torn down but a few years ago, after having braved the storms for more than eighty winters. The Bantas, while on their hunting expeditions, doubtless saw a considerable part of the tract of land afterwards purchased by the Dutch Company—though hardly all of it, as it was no child's play to explore so vast a wilderness. I have no means at hand of knowing the precise number of acres contained in the original survey, but from my knowledge of the boundary thereof I presume it could not be less than fifteen or twenty thousand acres. The Bantas had enjoyed their novel position but a short time when one of those periodical storms of wrath burst in upon the frontier settlements, and they wisely retired to Hoagland's station. This station was poorly manned and provisioned at the time, and was threatened daily with an attack from the redskins. So squally did the times become that the little garrison determined to send to Harrod's station for re-inforcements, etc. Jake Banta, an officer of the fort (brother to the other Bantas), volunteered to perform the dangerous mission. The wilderness being full of prowling savages, he chose the darkness of night to pass through the "narrows" on the waters of Benson Creek, near where Hardinsville now is. But poor Jake never reached Harrod's station. As he crept silently and all alone in the darkness of night through the dreaded "narrows", the redskins pounced upon him from ambush and cleaved his skull with the tomahawk. They left Capt. Banta on the tragic spot with his own tomahawk buried in his skull as a token of their fierce vengeance. The loss of this brave man was deeply felt by the frontier settlement. As soon as the storm had subsided our three heroes, who had taken an active part in the exciting scenes with which they were surrounded, went back to Harrod's station fully satisfied that their attempt to take possession of an isolated wilderness at that time was immature. It can hardly be doubted that their good report of the excellent quality of these lands, carried back to the Dutch Company of which they constituted a part, led to the purchase and ultimate settlement of the same. The Banta family was both dreaded and hated by the Indians. Being men of wonderful strength and constitution, and brave to a fault, they had taught the savages many lessons in their own mode of warfare. If all their conflicts with the Indians, the heroism of their women, etc., were traced by the pen of an able writer, a book of truly thrilling adventures would be the result. The writer remembers hearing the old folks talk of "Shaker John Banta." This circumstance led him to inquire into the origin of the appellation, and his researches have satisfied him that the Shaker Society of Kentucky had its origin in the limits of the Dutch Settlement — i. e., in Shelby County, about the year A. D. 1804. The first Shaker meeting held in Kentucky, beyond doubt, was held at the house of John Banta, who was one of the original members of that sect in this State, hence the name Shaker John Banta. Some of the Voorhees and Montforts adopted the Shaker system at the same time.

I doubt not that the long custom of the Dutch Company to have certain things "common," such as tools, farming implements, mills, etc. (the writer has seen the "Dutch Company sledge hammer" many times, and he doubts not that it is now in use in Henry County, where he last saw it), had no little to do in preparing the minds of those good men to receive the friendly, though absurd, doctrine of Ann Lee. The doctrine of Ann Lee met with but poor success, however, with the mass of the company, hence John Banta and his few associates separated from them and returned to Mercer County, and purchased the present site of Pleasant Hill. The result is familiar to everybody.

The following extract from a Kentucky paper on the same subject is also given. Among the purchasers mentioned will be found several of the sons and sons-in-law of Henry⁴ Banta:

AN OLD COLONY

WHO SETTLED NEAR PLEASUREVILLE AND PURCHASED LAND FROM SQUIRE BOONE.

[Eminence Constitutionalist.]

While this section of Kentucky was all forest and inhabited by Indians, the "Low Dutch colony" came and located on land now in and around where Pleasureville is now situated. The land was then owned by Squire Boone, brother of Daniel Boone, the famous pioneer. The colony purchased about 10,000 acres in 1774, and it is as remarkable as true that some descendants of this colony now reside on a portion of the original purchase. The company had a trustee whose duty it was to look after all the estate, as the thirty or more settlers with their families resided in a fort built of logs and stones. The hostility of the Indians forced the "Low Dutch colony" to remove to Mercer and Clark Counties in a short while, but they returned in 1786. The Bantas, Bergins and Shucks still own the land of their ancestors, together with many old relics and papers which they value very highly.

Papers show that thirty-four lots of land were purchased by the company, varying in size from two hundred acres and upward, which was paid for in pounds, shillings and pence. The following is the number of each lot, purchaser, and price paid:

Mr. Richard Shuck showed us a deed for a section of this land which was signed by Jas. L. Whittaker, Shelby County Clerk, on July 22, 1833, which was a conveyance to Geo. Bergin and Tunice Vannise as Trustees, the land being originally settled by Abram Banta. The old spring of water which used to supply the colony with water is still in use.

We give, also, a letter preserved in the Theological Seminary, Reformed Church, at New Brunswick, N. J., which shows the religious condition of the State at that early period, and evidences that the venerable Elder, then seventy-six years of age, was still earnest in his Master's cause:

EXTRACT OF A LETTER FROM A FRIEND TO THE DUTCH CHURCH AFTER HIS RETURN FROM A VISIT TO KENTUCKY, DATED JAN. 20, 1794.

As I viewed almost every settlement in the Kentucky country, and tarried some time at different places, I had a very good opportunity to learn the state of religion and what progress the Gospel had made there, an account of which I doubt not but will be acceptable to you.

The concern and works of ministers of various denominations which I saw there, to form congregations, was such that I was astonished. The people in general seem to be more concerned about their eternal welfare than any place I have been in. I have seen much devotion among them and heard many of their preachers, some of whom made use of expressions that would by no means be acceptable to our congregations. I have never seen more preachers and travelling preachers in my life than I did there for the term of time—consisting of Presbyterians, Regular Baptists, Separate Baptists, Methodists and two Universalists, with several of whom I had the pleasure of conversing and thus got much intelligence, the particulars of which would be too much for a letter. I shall therefore be particular only in regard to our Low Dutch in that country, with the most of whom I am acquainted and with whom I principally resided while there. They are very numerous, scarcely credible considering the time the country has been settled. There are nearly 500 families, the major part live well, and if formed into a society they might make up £150 annually to support a minister, besides a good parsonage. These people are at present in a good deal of confusion, and no wonder they consider themselves as a people forsaken by the church to which they formerly belonged and from which they have long waited for help. They would before now have fallen in with other denominations, but many of them are firm friends to our church constitution and very loth to part with our church forms, besides still entertaining some hope that our Synod will yet provide for them. They have at present no public worship of their own excepting the lecturing of old Mr. Henry Banta, and praying societies, which is not attended to by many, especially when within reach of preaching of any kind whatever. They are much exposed to be led astray by heterodox preachers, viz.: Separate Baptists and Methodists who are doing all in their power to gain them over to their churches, but have not as yet been able to effect it. They gained one person, viz.: Mr. ⁴⁵Albert Banta, who joined the Separate Baptists, and without license commenced preaching, and for some time made much disturbance among them, some favoring but the greater part opposed him, and by what I could learn he would no more be permitted to officiate for them. The opposition he met with made him move to a considerable distance from the Dutch settlement. But notwithstanding this, some of their leading men entertained sentiments which, to me, were altogether new and strange, and which I firmly believe the presence of an orthodox minister would easily remove. A particular affair to which I was an eye-witness I cannot help mentioning:

A number of them had children to baptize; they procured a minister of their own choosing on condition he should use our Form of Baptism, though only as far as he should think proper. He only read the explanatory part and then, without answer or promise of any kind, baptized seventeen children.

Some of the people present expressed their dissatisfaction at this; but one of their leading men, and the principal one among them, stepped up and said that the minister had done right, and that it was wrong to cause an unconverted person to make answer of that nature. After hearing and seeing what I have mentioned, and especially the trouble and cost of other denominations to extend their churches, I was astonished and much dissatisfied at the conduct of our Synod—that they have never sent one missionary into that country. This led me to question myself in the following manner: Whether other denominations had not more concern for their churches than we have for ours? whether our young ministers have not the same courage and resolution, and zeal for the cause of Christ that others have? whether our Synod could not do a part of the same trouble and cost that others do? and whether that rising generation in the Kentucky country, originally of our church, were to be a forsaken people?

I heard several ministers of different denominations, who were acquainted with the situation of these people, express their surprise at the conduct of our Synod—saying their people are in general very moral, they are strict in their observances, they have their church forms of which they are very tenacious, and yet we see no provision made for them. Other preachers there, especially Separate Baptists and Methodists, often endeavor to break their attachment to our church by saying that our Synod have sufficiently shown by their conduct that they pay no attention to them, and that waiting longer will only be in vain—and in reality they are almost out of patience. However, they have now sent a call to the Classis of New Brunswick for any minister of our church they can get, but in my opinion one is required who is very well qualified for the business. Many of these people have not subscribed for this call, giving for reason they might hear him first. I sincerely pray they may be successful, for if they do not get one soon, or if nothing else is done for them, they are without doubt lost to our church; but I am persuaded that if our Synod were acquainted with their real situation they would do more for them than they have hitherto done.

The following communication, published by Rev. Dr. David D. Demarest, of New Brunswick, N. J., in the Christian Intelligencer, of New York, March 26, 1890, will also be of interest:

THE MEMORIAL OF THE KENTUCKY SETTLERS.

Mr. Editor: Many of the readers of the Intelligencer have expressed great interest in the accounts you have been pleased to publish of the Dutch emigration to Kentucky in the last century. I know that the publication of the following memorial addressed to Congress, and of the letter of introduction by Dom. J. M. Van Harlingen, will be a great gratification to them. Copies of the originals were obtained by me through the kindly aid of Prof. Scott, of Rutgers College, from the State Department at Washington.

Mr. Theodore Roosevelt, in his fascinating work, "The Winning of the West," says that 150 heads of families of Low Dutch people came in a body to Kentucky in 1780, and he refers to this memorial as authority. But he made a mistake by failing to notice that only one-third of the 150 names attached to the memorial were names of actual residents at the time; the other two-thirds were names of their friends who intended to come and settle with them on the lands that should be acquired, but who were at the time in their homes at Conewago, Pa., as the baptismal records of that church show, and perhaps some were still in New Jersey.

The emigration to Kentucky was by detachments. A few families went as early as 1771. We have no reason to think that a church was organized until the arrival among them of the Rev. Peter Labagh in 1796. But they had a meeting-house long before that time, located where is now the village of Pleasureville, and they doubtless held regular services under the direction of the Voorleser, and of Hendrick Banta, the Exhorter.

The reader will notice that in some instances a name is spelled in various ways. I have in several cases presumed to try to aid those who are not skilled in interpreting signatures of that period by inserting modern forms in brackets.

I also call attention to the fact that no date is attached to these documents. The copyist, in an accompanying note, assigns them to 1783. He must have had some authority for saying so, and we feel sure of his correctness when we call to mind that we learn from other sources that a grant of 12,000 acres of land was obtained which was divided among the settlers in 1784.

New Brunswick, Feb. 17th, 1890.

D. D. DEMAREST.

To the Honourable President and Delegates of the Free United States of America in Congress Assembled.

Gentlemen: A Memorial and Petition of a number of Inhabitants of Kentucky Settlement of the Low Dutch reformed Church Persuasion in behalf of themselves and other intended Settlers was brought to me by one of those Petitioners desiring me in the Name of the rest to give a Testimonial of their Character to the Honourable Congress, because I was Personally acquainted with them. Some have lived amongst us and belonged to my Congregations. They were a Plain, honest, peaceable, Sober and Industrious People remarkable for Agriculture, and by Current reports we have of them they are all hearty friends to our Glorious Revolution and the Honourable Congress.

Gentlemen, I remain with due Respect, Your Most Humble Serv't,

J. M. VAN HARLINGEN,

Minister of the Gospel at Sourland and New Shennick.

To the Honourable President and Delegates of the Free United States of America in Congress Assembled:

The Memorial and Petition of a number of Inhabitants of Kentucky Settlement of the Low Dutch reformed Church persuasion in behalf of themselves and intended settlers, Humbly Sheweth,

That in the Spring of the Year 1780, they moved to Kentucky with their families and effects with a view and expectation to procure a Tract of Land to Enable them to settle together in a body for the convenience of civil Society and propagating the Gospel in their known (own?) language; when they arrived there, to their sorrow and disappointment they were, thro' the dangerousness of the times by a cruel Savage Enemy, obliged to settle in Stations or Forts in such places where there was the most appearance of safety; notwithstanding all their precaution numbers of them suffered greatly in their property, several killed and others captivated by the Enemy, living in such distressed confined way, always in danger, frequently on Military duty, it was impossible for them to do more than barely support their families with the necessaries of life, by which means they are much reduced; and what adds more to their disappointment and affliction is that, contrary to their expectations, before their arrival and since, the most or all the Tillable Land has been located and monopolised by persons that had the advantage of your Memorialists, by being acquainted with the country. And your Memorialists, being strangers and confined as aforesaid, and being so reduced, are rendered unable to purchase Land at the advanced price, and especially in a body conveniently together agreeable to their wishes. Whereas, Providence has been pleased to prosper and support the virtuous resistance of the United States in the glorious Cause of Liberty, which has enabled them to obtain an Honorable Peace whereby they have obtained a large extent of unappropriated Territory. And whereas it is currently and repeatedly reported amongst us that Congress has broke or made void Virginia's right or claim to Land in Kentucky Settlement.

Your Petitioners therefore humbly pray (in behalf of themselves and other intended settlers of that persuasion) the Honourable Congress would indulge them with a grant of a Tract or Territory of Land in Kentucky settlement, if the Virginia claim thereto should be made void, or otherwise in the late ceded land on the Northwest side of the Ohio river, whereto there is not any prior legal claim, to enable them to settle in a body together, on such reasonable terms as Congress in their wisdom and prudence shall see just and reasonable, they complying with, and performing all reasonable conditions required, to enable them to put their intended plan and purpose in execution, they having principally in view the Glory of God, the promotion of Civil and religious society, Educating and instructing their rising generation in the principals of religion and morality. Hoping the Honrable Congress will give all due encouragement to such a laudable undertaking; The Premisses duly considered. Your Petitioners as in duty bound shall ever pray, &c.

The following letters referring to the early settlers of Kentucky will be of interest to the descendents of the Dutch pioneers:

TO THE CLASSIS OF NEW BRUNSWICK.

*Beloved in the Lord, Grace,
 Peace and Mercy—Amen.*

Having at this time made a call for a minister of our Low Dutch Reformed Church, by the consent of our Low Dutch Society at Salt River, Mercer County, in the State of Kentucky, we hope it may have its desired effect. Therefore we do in the name of our Lord Jesus desire of you, our Rev. Classis, to aid and assist us with all possible speed.

It is further the sincere wish and prayer of us that in case you could not send us a minister agreeable to our wish—that is, one that can preach both English and Dutch, that we then have a speedy supply, either in the Dutch or English language, to establish a consistory, to preach, to baptize, etc., as there are at present upwards of 40 children to be baptized. And further, as we are like to be a scattered people, we hope a speedy remedy may take place, so that our desires are great, our case is distressing, our church affairs and religion in many respects lamentable. Though we have through the blessing of God yet so far united, and as it is the desire of our Society to send us a minister who can preach both languages, we hope we shall be blessed with such a man, and if not to be expected in a short time, then we pray for a supply as above mentioned, and we, the subscribers, shall reward him well for his cost and trouble; and once more we crave a speedy remedy, as we have reason to fear that we will soon be scattered—which we hope God will forbid.

We shall add no more, as that we hope that God will grant us His blessing, that our Rev. Classis may aid and assist us as soon as possible, that our Society may be established and religion flourish in this and all other places, is the sincere wish and prayer of us, the subscribers, who being chosen as the voice of the people.

Given from under our hands this 13th of August, in the year of our Lord, 1795.

TO REV. JNO. H. LIVINGSTON, D. D.

Reverend Sir: On request of a certain minister of our Reformed Low Dutch Church, together with our lamented circumstances in the cause why we, your humble petitioners, take the freedom to acquaint you with our present calamities, which we hope, kind sir, you will pardon when you have examined your suppliant's petition.

We are, reverend sir, at present in a precarious situation in regard to church affairs, and have been so for a number of years past. We are surrounded by a number of societies who are of different confessions. We are a numerous people who are destitute of divine service. We are a people who scarcely know the difference between our and other church constitutions, which makes it difficult to keep them united. We are so situated that we can have supply at almost any time on making application, which we allow is dangerous, as we shall mention hereafter. We are a people who have the same feeling and possess the same degree of ambition as these, our neighbors. We are hurt that there is no more done for us; we suspect that it is caused among ourselves by men who formerly have intimated that we were not like to become a church or nation; we are satisfied and must reasonably suppose that all future efforts will be of no effect unless a speedy remedy takes place.

Therefore we pray you, in the name of Him who has all power to will and to do, that you will assist us if in your power. With submission we crave your aid and assistance with all possible speed. We have sent a call to the Rev. Classis, of New Brunswick, likewise a letter of exhortation, and wrote to some others of the clergy, which we hope may have the desired effect. If not, we are a scattered people, as there are numbers among us at present that say we cannot wait longer—our children should and must be baptized, besides, great numbers that have been baptized by parents to whom it was a matter of indifference by whom it was done. Others have the boldness to say that, when there is no regard or attention paid to us, why should we wait longer? Others say: our neighboring societies, and some who are much inferior to us, are great care taken of, such as missionaries sent and churches established, etc.,—and we, who are superior, there is nothing done for us. Our neighboring clergy have made several offers, and have sometimes preached, which only serves to weaken us and break the bond of unity; but wonder how we have united as long as we have—we may view it as something almost supernatural.

Therefore, Rev. Sir, we have thought it a duty incumbent on us to inform you with our present circumstances, to enable you to form a just idea about us; and further, we are almost become a reproach by other nations on account of persevering and adhering to our church forms, constitution, etc., and not as much as a supply.

It is needless to tell you the reflections we endure; but our nation here in general are liberal and generous, and look upon themselves to be superior to a number of others. They are daily increasing; we expect soon to be able to make up 500 dollars yearly as a salary.

We have now made up 300 dollars and if well united might do more, but we hope that God shall forbid that we should be any longer without a minister. This much for your consideration, praying that if you have it in your power to help us, to let no means pass by, so that we might once more become a church and nation. On expectation of your aid and assistance, your petitioners shall ever pray.

November 2, 1795.*

HENRY⁴ BANTA died in 1805, aged 87 years, and was buried on George Bergen's farm in Shelby Co., being the last burial in that graveyard. His will, recorded in Shelby Co., devises his property to his widow, Ann. It is published verbatim herewith:

In the Name of God, Amen, the thirteenth of December, in the year of our Lord one thousand seven hundred ninety-nine.

I, Henry Banta, of the County of Henry and State of Kentucky, being weak in body, but of perfect and sound mind and memory, thanks be to God, and knowing that it is appointed for all men once to die, do make and ordain this my last Will and Testament. That is to say: I recommend my soul in to the hands of God that gave it, and my body to the Earth to be buried at the discretion of my Executors, and as touching such worldly estate wherewith it hath pleased God to bless me in this life. I give, devise and dispose of the same in the following manner and form = Imprimis: It is my Will, and I do order that in the first place all my just debts and funeral charges be paid and satisfied.

Item: I give and bequeath unto Anna, my beloved wife, all and singular my lands, as also all my personal estate of every sort and kinde I die so posses^d of, to have the same to her, her heirs and assigns forever —

Item: I do hereby constitute, make and ordain Albert Voris, and Cornelius Banta, and John Voris, my only and sole Executors of this, my last Will and Testament. And I do hereby utterly disallow, revoke and disannul all and every other former Testaments, Wills, Legacies, and Executors by me in any ways before this time named, Willed and bequeathed, ratifying and confirming this and no other to be my last Will and Testament.

In Witness Whereof, I have hereunto set my hand and seal, the day and year first above written.

Signed, sealed and delivered by the said Henry Banta as his last Will and Testament in presence of us, the subscribers,

CHRISTOPHER BERGEN,
SIMON VANOSDAL,
RACHAEL VANOSDAL.

Shelby County Sct.

At a Court held for Shelby County, the 14th day of October, 1805, this last Will and Testament of Henry Banta, deceased, was produced in Court and proved by the oaths of Christopher Bergen and Simon Vanarsdale, two of the subscribing witnesses thereto, and ordered to be recorded.

Henry Banta was the father of twenty-one children, and is said to have left a larger number of descendants than any other man in Kentucky. We have been able to ascertain the names of nineteen children only. It is probable that two others were born while he was living in Somerset County and a member of the church at Bedminster, the records of which church have been lost.

* NOTE.—The following account, contributed to the Shelby Courier, Shelbyville, Ky., May 15, 1873, by George W. Demaree, refers to this William Gordon: "A hunter, named William Gordon, married a sister of Daniel Banta and became a member of the Dutch community about the year 1800. Among his many adventures with wild beasts, I give the following, which are every way reliable: Gordon and his brother-in-law, Dan Banta, were out hunting and had separated temporarily, when Banta heard the crack of Gordon's rifle, and knowing that the latter never wasted his powder and lead for nothing, hastened to the spot from whence the sound came. When he arrived, he found Gordon lying on the ground terribly mangled and nearly lifeless. A few feet from him a large bear wallowing in his own blood was already stretched in death; and a short distance from the two, Gordon's faithful dog was whining and running about by the usual use of his nose, and with a most anxious and courageous look. Banta's first thought was to be that his friends sent to Shelbyville for Dr. Morse—if I am not wrongly informed, the first physician located in that place—who dressed his wounds, and gave encouragement of his recovery. As soon as Gordon was able to converse, he gave the following version of his adventures: He had left Banta but a little while when he met the bear and shot him, but the ball failing to do its work completely, he was attacked furiously by the bear before he could reload his gun. He drew his hunting-knife, and the fight commenced in good earnest. When the bear would close on Gordon, the dog would assault him in the rear with desperate courage and force him to divide his attention between him and his master. After several rounds in this way, Gordon, cutting and hacking all the while, got to a deadly thrush with his knife and ended the conflict—but not till after himself and dog were terribly used up, as above described. He always gave his faithful dog the credit of saving his life. Some time after the above occurrence Gordon was a few steps in advance of his wife, when he heard a scream behind him. On turning around he espied a panther crouched on a limb of a tree in the act of springing on his wife. He commanded her to stand still, knowing that his wife's life depended on his skill as a marksman. Gordon was equal to the emergency; raising his gun, with quick eye and unerring touch, a sharp report, and the once dangerous animal tumbled to the ground harmless at his wife's feet."

239. PAULUS⁵ BANTA, married in New York, June 5, 1756, Francyntje Minthorn, daughter of Philip Minthorn, who was born January 22, 1738. He was admitted a freeman in New York in 1765. He was a carpenter and builder, and his name appears frequently in the records of the Register's office in New York, in connection with the transfers of real estate. His father-in-law, Philip Minthorn, owned a farm of over one hundred acres, east side of the Bowery, extending from about First Street, north, to the Stuyvesant farm, and easterly to the East River. Oct. 16, 1776, Paulus Banta was among the Loyalists who signed the address to General Howe, then in command of the British troops in New York. After the death of Philip Minthorn his farm was divided among his nine children, by lot, the map showing the division being recorded in the Register's office in Liber 50, folio 370. An advertisement in the New York Weekly Gazette, in 1768, reads as follows:

For Sale, a house and lot in Batteaux Street. Also, a lot of ground in the meadows, facing Captain Smith's. Apply to Paulus Banta, in the Bowery.

In March, 1775, in Rivington's Gazette, appeared the following advertisement of Paulus Banta:

To be sold, a lot of ground containing about 8 acres; one acre and three-quarters in salt meadow, being in the "Out Ward" of this city, in the Bowery Lane, whercon is a good dwelling house and barn, &c.

A week later another notice of a sale appeared of a house in "Dirick Dye's Street, apply to Paulus Banta at the said house."

Thomas F. Devoe, in his Market Book, page 331, makes the following mention of the wife of Paulus Banta, according to the "Oswego market," which was built in 1772, at the corner of Broadway and Maiden Lane, he says:

One of the principal market-women, who daily attended at this market both winter and summer, was Mrs. Frances Banta (usually known as "Aunt Frankey"), one of the daughters of Philip Minthorne and a sister of Mangle Minthorne. (Mangle Minthorne's daughter, Hannah, married Daniel D. Tompkins, afterward Governor of New York and Vice President of the United States.) On some eight or ten acres left to her by her father, near the present corner of Third Street and the Bowery, she lived and grew her produce or market truck.

Each market day found "Aunt Franky" ready for an early start, with her produce placed in her market-cart over night, and before daylight next morning she was on her way down the Bowery road, and into this market, ready to serve the then early risers, who were anxious to get the choice. She raised a large family, two of whom were daughters whom she taught the same accomplishments, or rather habits of industry, so peculiar to those early days. No doubt one of these daughters even exceeded the mother, as will be perceived in a sketch of her history in the Union Market (see No. 637); the other is also noticed in the Centre Market (see No. 638).

Paulus Banta died Oct. 18, 1791, his widow surviving him nearly thirty years, and dying March 18, 1821.

259. WIERT⁵ BANTA married at the Dutch Lutheran Church in New York, January 3, 1766, Elizabeth Milleberger. During the Revolutionary War he sided with the adherents of the King, and held a commission as Lieutenant in Captain Peter Earl's company of the "King's Militia Volunteers"—received from Sir Henry Clinton, bearing date 2d February, 1779. He served under Lieut.-Col. Abram Van Buskirk in an engagement at "Hoebuck" (Hoboken) near Paulus Hook, N. J., where, in March 23, 1779, he received a wound by a musket ball in the knee, which permanently disabled him, rendering him a cripple for the remainder of his life. In October, 1787, he was living in Shelbourne, Nova Scotia. In a memorial addressed by him to the High Honorable Lord Cathcart, dated London, September 12, 1788, appealing to the Crown for aid, he recapitulated some of his services, as follows:

During the command of his Excellency Sir Henry Clinton, at New York, I was frequently employed in procuring intelligence, and was the person who was sent into Bergen County, N. J., for the express purpose of taking the infamous Brouwer, who had murdered Captain John Richard, which I effected and brought him into New York. That among other services I was sent into New Jersey to intercept the rebel mail, in which I was disappointed, but at great risk I took the rebel General Ward Munter, Muster-General to the rebel army, etc., Colonel Bradford, and seized the general's papers. When I returned to New York, I delivered the papers to your Lordship personally one morning early, and if your Lordship can recollect, I requested to have two boats from one of the king's ships lying in the North river, in order to take off my party, with the prisoners there in the woods concealed. That your Lordship was pleased to inform me the papers which I had brought had given Sir Henry the utmost satisfaction. * * * * * I beg leave to inform your Lordship that at the evacuation of New York I went to Nova Scotia, where I endeavored to settle my family; that in 1786 I was examined before the Commission for American Claims, Colonel Dundas and Jeremiah Pemberton, Esq., who were pleased to give me the following certificate (certificate enclosed), with which I have now come to London, in order to petition for the half pay of a lieutenant, or such military compensation as has been allowed to others in the like predicament with myself. I therefore humbly beg leave to request your Lordship will be so kind as to honor me with your certificate of the activity and zeal I showed towards his Majesty's service in America, and of such particular matters as your Lordship may recollect, and your Lordship's recommendation in such manner as you shall think proper for the bounty and relief of Government, which will greatly relieve my distresses, as I am now reduced to extreme poverty and have nothing to depend upon in this country, where I am a stranger, to the great inconvenience of my family in Nova Scotia, who, with myself, unless I succeed to that benevolence which has been extended to many of my fellow countrymen and sufferers, must inevitably be involved in utter ruin and distress. I beg leave to mention to your Lordship that during the war I recruited 62 men for the corps commanded by Lieut.-Colonel Bayard and Lieut.-Colonel Buskirk, that I was sent to reconnoitre Fort Montgomery by Sir William Howe, which I did to his Excellency's satisfaction, and was at the taking of it when I received two wounds. That I went as guide to the Light Infantry, under the command of Colonel Abercrombie, to Tappan, where Washington's Light Horse were defeated; that being constantly employed on these kind of services was the sole reason of my not getting a Commission, to which I was entitled by raising my quota of men of one of the new corps—all of which circumstances were proved to the satisfaction of the Commissioners at Halifax.

Accompanying this memorial were testimonials from William Franklin, late Governor of New Jersey: from William Bavard, who refers to the fact that he remembers Weart [sic] Banta being on crutches for many months in New York, from the musket wound already mentioned (he mentions also that Wiert Banta had a large family to support); and from Lieut.-Col. Abram Van Buskirk, late N. J. Volunteers. That he was successful in obtaining recognition for his military services appears from the following bill of exchange, made by his widow, which also indicates the date of his death:

Newark, 27 February, 1796.

Gentlemen: When you receive the moneys due to the estate of the late Weart [sic] Banta, pay this, my first of exchange, second of same tenor and date unpaid, to the order of Andrew Heron, ——— Sterling, value received, being in full of her military allowance from 25th of June to 29 August, 1795. I am your humble servant,

Messrs. Phyn, Ellice & Inglis, Agents, (Signed) ELIZABETH BANTA.
London, Eng.

Wiert Banta probably died August 29, 1795. His widow lived with her grandson, ¹⁸⁸⁴Weart⁷ Banta, in New York City, and died at the house of the widow of the latter in Christopher Street, New York City, April 19, 1833, at the age of eighty-four years. She was buried in the family vault of the Mildeberger's in the church-yard of "St. Mark's in the Bowery." The children named below were baptized in the Lutheran Church in New York. One child, whose name does not appear in the records, was baptized at Paramus, February 27, 1769 — the parents' names given in this latter case are "Weart Banta and Elizabeth ———," and it is possible that these were others than the Wiert Banta now referred to. It is probable that other children were born, as the certificate of Col. Bayard mentions a "large family," but the church records during the war are missing.

485. ALBERT⁵ BANTA married Styntie Monfort, who was baptized December 8, 1751. The first five children named below were baptized at Conewago, Penn.; the others were probably born in Kentucky.

A LETTER FROM JOHN COZINE TO REV. G. G. BRINKERHOFF,

Dated Mercer County, Ky., August 30, 1805, has been preserved, in which is the following reference to Mr. Albert Banta:

Mr. Demaree goes on to tell his friends what happened twenty years ago. At that time a Mr. Banta was predominant ruler here. * * * * * And after that, if I am rightly informed as to time, Mr. Swope came among them. * * * * * At this time Mr. Albert Banta rose, and did much as you have been informed; but please to understand that when Mr. Banta came forward with his heavenly call, Mr. Demaree said he also had a call. It was agreed on by the Society that they both might exhort, and go on as probationers and improve their talents, and he who was the most approved of by the Society should go on to the Synod for approbation and license. Nevertheless, although Mr. Banta was most approved of, our Society still thought it would not do, and expressed themselves to that import. Thus said, Mr. B. left them and joined the Baptists.

In the letter on page 53, will be found another reference to this Mr. Albert Banta. Some time later he removed from Kentucky to Preble County, O., where he died.

488. SAMUEL⁵ BANTA married Dyna Dorland, who was born April 7, 1753, and died May 25, 1812, in the Shaker Community. Three of the first four children named below were baptized at Conewago, Penn. He did not remove with his father and others to Kentucky. In the memorial already referred to he appears among the "Intend Frinds." On the records of York County, Penn., under date of May 8, 1790, appears a sale of three slaves by Garret Dorland to Samuel Banta. At what date he went to Kentucky does not appear. In March, 1807, he joined the Shakers at Pleasant Hill, Kentucky, and signed the Covenant at the first organization of the church among them. He left them April 24, 1827, at which time he was 74 years of age. A suit was brought by him to recover a farm which he had given to the society, which was decided against him in the Court of Appeals of Kentucky, in the Spring Term, May 5, 1834. The facts stated in the opinion of the Court are of sufficient interest to be given in full:

Spring Term, 1834. } COURT OF APPEALS,
Chancery. May 5. } of Kentucky.

GOSS AND BONTA against WILHITE AND OTHERS, A SOCIETY OF SHAKERS.

Appeal by plaintiffs from the Circuit Court of Lincoln Co.

Proceeding in Chancery in behalf of Goss and Bonta, two seceding members of the religious society called Shakers, resident at Pleasant Hill, in Mercer Co., for the purpose of obtaining a division of the property belonging to the society, and of having their shares allotted to them, either upon the principle of equality, as two of the covenant members, or according to the amount of property each carried with him into the society. The following is the substance of the "Covenant," or Articles of Association:

Preamble: The preamble recites that "all who come into membership do freely and voluntarily dedicate and devote themselves and all they possess to the service of God forever; and it being their faith that the union and relation of the church in one joint interest, is a situation the most acceptable to God, and productive of the greatest good of any state or situation attainable on earth," they therefore covenanted and agreed by these Articles:

I. To gather themselves together and be constituted and formed in the order of a church.

II. Creates an office of "trustee" or "agentship," and appoints three of the brethren thereto.

III. New members allowed to come in and devote to the joint interest of the church all such property as they justly hold. "The joint interest of the church thus formed by the free will offerings of the members, respectively, shall be possessed and held by the whole body jointly, as their natural and religious right." Every member of the church to enjoy equal privileges in the use of the church property, "according to their order, and as every one has need, without any difference being made on account of what any one has brought in." It is the duty of all the members to support and maintain the joint interest of the church, according to their several abilities as members, for the good of the whole.

IV. Provides that the trustees shall take and hold the property in perpetual succession. In case of vacancy in the trusteeship, successor to be appointed.

V. "As the whole end and design of our thus uniting in church relation is to receive and diffuse the manifold gifts of God, to the mutual happiness of each other, as brethren and sisters in the Gospel, and for the relief of the poor, the widow and the fatherless," the members covenant and agree to give up all their property to the church, for charitable uses, etc., and relinquish all claim upon the society, or its members, for property contributed or services rendered.

Held, That the third Article precluded a division of the effects according to what the members brought in.

It was equally clear to the court that upon the whole covenant the intent was that the whole property and labor of each shall be devoted to the "church," as a quasi-corporation, for charitable purposes, the support of members, etc., forever. The question was whether such a covenant was valid in law. As to this it was Held, That the use was not void as a superstition; that the trust being a "charitable trust," it was not void for indefiniteness; that it was not void as violating the rule against perpetuities, as this rule does not apply to charitable trusts and uses.

(Opinion of the court given by Judge Nicholas — Judge Underwood dissenting.)

In the application for a pension on file in the Bureau of Pensions appears the following:

Samuel Banta, 1776. In May, 1833, he was residing in Mercer County, aged 80 years, where he had lived for more than forty years.

He entered the service in December, 1776, at York County, Pennsylvania, under Captain Van Arsdale, marched to Philadelphia; from there, in ten or twelve days, he was ordered to Trenton, N. J., and when about eight miles from Philadelphia they met some Hessian prisoners who had been taken at the battle of Trenton (December 26, 1776). He joined the army of General Putnam, whose head-quarters were at Princeton, N. J., at which place and at Kingston he was stationed as guard on the lines, and was out in scouting parties to protect the inhabitants from the incursions of the British occupying New Brunswick.

About 1784, however, he also followed and bought a farm three miles south of the old Harrod Fort, now the site of the city of Harrodsburgh, which has remained in the possession of some of his descendants until the present time. The log house built by him, and occupied by four successive generations, was only recently removed to give place to a modern dwelling. Near it stand three very large locust trees which are supposed to have been planted by the sturdy pioneer over one hundred years ago. He died May 11, 1832. The first four children named below were baptized at Conewago. On the baptismal register there, the father's name appears as "Peterius."

490. JOHN⁵ BANTA married Polly Riker, daughter of Abraham Riker, who was born in New Jersey, January 29, 1760, and died March 7, 1838. During the Revolutionary War he was a drummer in Captain Hugh Campbell's Company of the Second Battalion of York County, Pennsylvania, commanded by Col. Robert McPherson, and did duty at Perth Amboy, N. J., in 1776. He removed with his father to Kentucky, and was one of those who purchased the "Low Dutch Tract" already referred to. He was one of the first to unite with the Shakers in Kentucky, who held their first meeting at his house. A brief statement of the origin of Shakerism in Kentucky may be of interest:

In the year 1800 began that extraordinary movement known as the "Kentucky Revival," during the progress of which religious meetings were held attended by as many as twenty thousand persons at one time, the meetings being continued day and night for several days. The most singular manifestations characterized these meetings. Boys and girls of twelve years of age exhorted with wonderful eloquence and power, and many of the worshippers were so affected that they shouted and leaped for joy, while others fell upon the ground "like those who are shot in battle," and lay for hours as in a trance. A history of the time (the Kentucky Revival, by Richard McNemar, p. 24.) says of one of the meetings: "On this occasion no sex nor color, class nor description, were exempted from the pervading influence of the Spirit; even from the age of eight months (!) to sixty years, there were evident subjects of this marvellous operation." As an outgrowth of this awakening, Shakerism had its rise in Kentucky. A delegation from the Community at New Lebanon, N. Y., visited the State and found a hospitable reception at the house of John Banta, who was one of the first to embrace their teachings. The work just quoted says (p. 85), "The same faith produced by the preparatory work of God, began also to break out at Eagle Creek, some time in the sixth month; which gave occasion to the testimony being opened there. A few at first embraced it with full purpose of soul, as the only way of God. Through the faith and special light of Matthew Houston, Samuel Henry, John Banta, Elisha Thomas, &c., the testimony entered and was received on the south side of Kentucky (river), about the middle of the eighth month, and continued to spread until it embraced as many as were willing to embrace it in Mercer, Shelby, Paint-lick and Long-lick. In each of which places there are a number of families who have denied ungodliness and worldly lusts, taken up their cross, live together in the unity of the Spirit and bond of peace, and while with open eyes they are travelling from death into life, they shine as lights in the world."

The Shaker records at Pleasant Hill, Kentucky, make this mention of John Banta: "Believed in August, 1805. Removed to Pleasant Hill in December, 1807. Removed to South Union, Logan County, Ky. (one of the branches of the Shaker church), perhaps in 1811, before the church was organized in Pleasant Hill. Died at South Union, in the latter part of 1815, or the beginning of 1816." He gave a very valuable farm to the Shakers at the time he united with them in 1807.

492. DANIEL⁵ BANTA married Anna Shuck, widow of Peter Durie, who was born Nov. 2, 1759, and died June 10, 1829. He was known as Captain Dan. In the account by G. W. Demaree in the Shelby Courier, Shelbyville, Ky., 1873, quoted on p. 51, reference is made to Captain Dan and some of his brothers. We copy further extracts from the same paper, May 15 and 22, 1873. The incident in reference to Mrs. Annie Durie is also mentioned in Historical Sketches of Kentucky, by Lewis Collins, p. 422:

HEART-RENDING TRIAL OF MRS. ANNA BANTA.

This famous woman was first married to S. (Peter, Jr. See Collins' History of Kentucky, page 422) Durce, in the State of Virginia, in the year 1771, and remained in that State till 1777-8, when Durce and his wife joined a small company of emigrants and "struck" for the territory—Kentucky—and landed safely at a place then called Lime Stone, now Maysville, Mason County. Remaining here a short time, they broke ground for a settlement about eight miles from the fort. Having made the necessary preparations, Durce, his wife and three children, and an unmarried sister and two young brothers of his wife, attended by a small guard, went ahead of the other families to build a cabin. As soon as they reached the location selected they went to work, and at the end of three days had a cabin up and finished, which was to answer for dwelling-house and fort. The guard now returned to Lime Stone to conduct out the other families. On the fourth morning Durce and his two brothers-in-law went a short distance from the house to cut a block to make a mortar to "bruise" their corn in, and were attacked by the savages; at the first fire one of the young men was killed on the spot, and Durce himself received a ball through his chest, inflicting a mortal wound, notwithstanding he ran to the cabin door before he fell. The other young man was cut off from the cabin by a fleet-footed Indian and tomahawked. Durce's sister, hearing the fuss, ran to the door and was shot dead. Durce's wife saw the whole tragedy through a port hole, with her three little children at her side. The Indians, either becoming alarmed at something or supposing they had killed all the "pale faces," disappeared without breaking into the cabin. Durce's wife dragged her dying husband into the house and used every effort in her power to stop the blood which was flowing copiously from the wound; every other remedy failing, she literally corked the artifice of the wound with her handkerchief. Durce revived sufficiently to entreat his wife to take the children and flee to the fort, telling her that he was bound to die and that she could be of no further service to him. As the poor woman stood gazing at her dying husband, surrounded by death on every side, her three little children cling to her, and he pointing to the door and uttering with feeble voice: "Save yourself and children, go, go!"—the conflict was short but terrible—the awful decision was made. Now let us drop the curtain while the sad parting takes place, while the faithful wife turns her back on her dying husband forever—not for her own life, but for her children. Having made up her mind to try to reach the fort, she mounted one child on her shoulders, taking another in her arms and the third at her side, was soon flying with all possible speed along the blazed way towards Lime Stone, distance about eight miles. A blinding storm of rain and sleet setting in, she soon lost the trace and wandered in the trackless wilderness till late in the evening, when she again discovered the blazed track, and although she had traveled all day she found herself not more than a mile from the bloody scene from which she was fleeing. She had gone but a short distance, however, when she met the other families coming out to join them, and told them the sad story. While they were parleying over what was best to be done the Indians raised the war whoop in the distance. It appears they were on the track of Durce's wife, and in a few minutes more she would have been murdered with her helpless babes, without mercy. The men saw the situation at a glance; to make a stand there in the wilderness with the women and children was out of the question, hence they cut their packs from the horses and let them fall to the ground, and mounting the women and children, the race back to the fort commenced in good earnest; the horses, maddened by the fierce yells of the redskins, went tearing through the thick undergrowth, lacerating the lower limbs of their riders badly, besides which no accidents occurred, and they all reached the fort safely. The next morning they sent out a force sufficiently strong to drive back the Indians and bury their dead.

A few years afterwards the brave and somewhat reckless Capt. Dan Banta met the widow Durec; having heard of her fame, she exactly suited him. It is enough to say he courted and married her, and bravely did she stand by him while he played a conspicuous part in reclaiming Shelby County from the wildness of nature. Daniel Banta died Dec. 15, 1827.

512. DANIEL⁵ BANTA married at Schraalenburgh, N. J., February 21, 1784, Mary Van Voorhees, daughter of Daniel Van Voorhees and Marya Taclman, who was born May 14, 1763, and died 1829. He was a soldier in the Revolutionary War, and while fighting in New Jersey was wounded in the leg. In 1786 he moved to Kentucky, and in 1794 removed to Ohio, locating three and a half miles east of Lebanon, Warren County. In 1788 he was in the Indian wars, and stationed at a block house on the present site of Cincinnati. In the application for a pension on file in the Bureau of Pensions, Washington, appears the following statement:

Daniel Banta was born 1762 in Bergen County, New Jersey, and in October, 1832, he was residing in Warren County, Ohio.

In the Fall of 1777 a British force was near New Bridge, Bergen County, N. J., and he volunteered to watch their movements, to prevent their foraging through the surrounding country; in scouting, and in guarding provisions and war stores for the use of the Continental army.

In 1778 he served one month with Capt. Christie (see No. 616) at a point in the road to Gloucester (Closter?) about five miles from New Bridge, where he was taken prisoner and carried to New York City. While in the presence of some Tories, one of whom aspersed the character of his father, he promptly resented it and was himself assaulted by them. In about a week he was exchanged and returned to his company.

He continued from time to time in similar service until early in 1781, when he enlisted at Hackensack for one year, marched under Col. Dye to Fort Lee, on the Hudson River, which the Americans captured—the enemy making their escape. In the attack on the fort he received a wound from a ball which passed through both thighs, rendering him unable to help himself until September, and in October he joined his company at Hackensack.

His services prior to 1781 indicate a service in the classified militia, a sort of reserve for alternate duty on alarm, patrolling a prescribed district, guarding the lines, &c.

In 1834, under the act of Congress then recently passed, he received a pension of $80 a year for his services, which he drew until the date of his death, September, 1837.

1719—DAVID,⁶ b. Dec. 29, 1796, died unmarried.

580. ABRAM D.⁵ BANTA married first, Gertie Ryerson; she died February 21, 1784. He married again, Hyla (Helen) Van Sÿs, September 9, 1786, at the True Reformed Church of Hackensack, of which he was a member. She was born October 10, 1769, and died December 21, 1834. He died February 17, 1835.

In an application for a pension on file in the Bureau of Pensions, Washington, appears the following statement concerning Abram Banta:

He was born January 22, 1762, one mile above Hackensack, Bergen County, where he continued to reside until 1779 when his father, having been much annoyed and injured by the British and Tories, proposed to exchange his farm in Hackensack with Cornelius Lozier—a Tory—for his farm at Paramus, and to furnish a substitute for the latter's two sons during the war (named John and David). His father moved with his family to Paramus, where he lived three years; and Abraham served as a substitute for the two sons of Lozier, besides performing the military duty for which he was liable when sixteen years old. In 1819 he removed to New York City, where he was residing in October, 1832.

In May or June, 1776, his brother John D. (son of 1752, to be dead) was drafted. He took his place under Capt. Beard in the "Flying Camp" which was stationed immediately below Bergen town, on the east side of Newark Bay. His next service, in 1776, was as a substitute for his brother John, under Capt. Staggs of Hackensack, at the time the enemy were moving inland from New York City (which was occupied by them September 15, 1776) towards Fort Washington, to assist in building Fort Lee in New Jersey, directly opposite to the former Fort (which was captured by the British November 16, 1776, immediately followed by the evacuation of Fort Lee and retreat of Gen. Washington through New Jersey to Trenton, from thence crossing the Delaware river into Pennsylvania).

In 1778 he served with Capt. Outwater, who was stationed at Aquackonock, guarding the lines, watching to counteract the movement of the enemy near New Bridge and Schrawlenburg, seeking opportunities for foraging incursions, and to attack the Fort on Brower's Hill, now New Bridge. His company marched within three or four hundred yards when the enemy fired cannon upon them while they were going into the Fort, and Gen. Wayne, on account of the inequality of his force, retreated to where his brigade remained three or four weeks. During the latter period he "was out" with scouting parties around Hackensack.

The British, commanded by Col. Boskirk, a refugee, came from New York City or from Hoboken in the night to Hopperstown, about two miles from the residence of Banta, and burnt it, when all the militia including himself "turned out" to attack them, but were not organized under any captain, and pursued them to Fort Lee, killing some of them. The enemy were called "green coats" (from the color of the dress adopted by the refugees and Tories around New York City).

He was stationed (year not recollected) under Capt. Romaine at the English Neighborhood, and a Capt. Bowman arrived with a company of Light Infantry, to whom Banta was detailed as a pilot to conduct him through the place to the lower part of the country. Col. Boskirk had the night before brought some troops from Hoboken up to near the English Neighborhood, both officers being ignorant of the proximity of the other. Capt. Bowman had proceeded but a short distance when he fell upon the hostile party and drove them back to Hoboken. During the same year he again acted as pilot to the same officer, at the same place, going as far as Bergen without meeting the enemy; then he marched to Bull's Ferry and the next day retreated to Liberty Pole.

Under Capt. Blanch he "was out" in pursuit of a body of refugees who came from New York City and burnt Chester, taking all the cattle, which were recaptured. During the war he served as a substitute under Captains Demarest at Newbridge, Ward at Schrawlenburgh, Romaine at Liberty Pole and English Neighborhood, Huyler at Chester, Church and Harrington. He could not recollect the years in all cases, or the duration of the service.

The character of the service appears like much of that of the New Jersey militia which was classified for alternate duty as the emergency required; viz: guarding the lines, scouting, patrolling the country to protect the inhabitants from incursions, foraging parties, etc. The duty sometimes was necessary for each class in alternate months.

637. CATHARINE⁵ BANTA married John Barr. He was a butcher in the Old Fly Market, New York, and lived on the south-east corner of Grand Street and the Bowery. He died of yellow fever in 1798. His widow kept a vegetable stand in Collect Market, when that market was opened in 1810; in 1817 its name was changed to Centre Market. In 1850 she removed to Union Market in East Houston Street, and continued there until her death, October 21, 1858.

Devoe's Market Book, a history of the Markets of New York City, speaks as follows of Mr. and Mrs. Barr:

Yet living (1858) and nearly ninety years of age, is the active, intelligent widow of one of the victims of 1798, who told me the following facts. She said her husband, John Barr, was a butcher in the Old Fly Market, where he took the yellow fever. He came home to his residence, then at the south-east corner of the Bowery Lane and Grand Street, and with the assistance of his wife, dismounted from his horse—no carts being allowed after a certain time around the markets,—when his relatives and friends deserted him, all except his affectionate wife, and she for two days and nights was at the bedside alone with her, at times, deranged husband; and when in his senses, his wishes were, if he died, that he might not be taken by Parker, in his horrid dead-cart, to "Potter's Field." His faithful wife promised he should not, if she lived. The humane Vogel heard of his sickness through the doctor (Underhill, she thought he was a doctor), and hurried there to find that the husband was speechless and the wife worn out. He stayed and did all that man could do, but the poor distracted wife knew he could not live, and she knew also that no other help could be obtained; she prepared his winding-sheet, that he might have the christian burial she had promised him.

He died, and Vogel, having previously procured a coffin, laid him out; then, before the expected dead-cart came along for the body, he harnessed the dead man's favorite horse before his butcher cart, to be at last used as his hearse, and in this he conveyed the body, followed by one, the chief mourner, to the family burial ground in the Dutch Reformed church-yard, at the corner of Eldridge and Houston Streets, where he wished it to lie. There the noble-hearted Vogel dug the grave, and the faithful wife redeemed the last promise made to her once affectionate and her only husband.

In an account of Union Market, page 584, there is this following reference to Mrs. Barr:

Among these new faces here was one, a most remarkable character, previously noticed in the "Old Fly Market," in connection with her husband, John Barr, who died of yellow fever in the year 1798.

"Aunt Katy Barr" was known to many of our old citizens for the last half century, first, as an occupant of the "Collect Market," when that first opened for business in 1810, in which she sold her vegetation for seven years, or until the occupants were transferred into the "Centre Market" in 1817, where I, while going with my mother to this market, became acquainted with her and her sister, "Aunt Fanny Watson," both market-women, or hucksters, whom I thought in my boyhood stood in that relative relation to me and everybody else who addressed these remarkable women. I had lost sight of and forgotten her from about 1825 to 1857, when I heard of the "old market woman" in the "Union Market," whose recollections of the past were most wonderful; and when I visited her, and first heard the sound of her voice and quick answers, it told me it was the same "Aunt Katy Barr." Then, although almost ninety years old, she recollected my mother and her "wild boys." She had stood in the "Centre Market" from its first opening. * * * * * About the year 1835 she removed into one of her houses in Second Street, near Avenue C, with her married daughter (her only child), which created a longer distance to travel at an earlier hour in the morning. She was, however, among the first in the market, always ready for business; and on Saturday nights after a long, tiresome day's work, sometimes as late as twelve o'clock found her traveling through deep snows and cold storms towards her welcome home. This active life she continued up to 1850, when she in sorrow parted from the old associations in the Centre Market and entered again upon new ones in this (Union) Market. Here she passed eight years in her business, and on Saturday night, the 17th of October, 1858, she left here for the last time, as she, after a short illness of only four days, expired, and her body was borne to that final resting-place where she, just sixty years before, had followed her only husband, being a wife for a few short months and a widow of sixty years, always treasuring in her memory her young and loving husband.

638. FRANCYNTJE⁵ (Fanny) BANTA married Robert Watson, May 10, 1800. She had a stand in Centre Market, where she was known as "Aunt Fanny." Devoe's Market Book, page 461, says concerning her:

Among the other occupants removed from the "Collect Market" into this were two remarkable sisters, daughters of Mrs. Frances Banta (noticed in the "Oswego Market"), who early taught them to know how to earn a livelihood, instead of not to know how, as is the fashion of the present day. They were early in life left widows, with families to support on small incomes; and although they had wealthy relatives, they felt not like receiving dependent charity, but rather preferred to call their early teachings into action, and earn an independent livelihood.

A sketch of the life of one of the daughters will be found in the "Union Market," and the other, Mrs. Fanny Watson, or rather Aunt Fanny, was long known in this market, in fact, until her death, which occurred in 1841. She was a large, well-formed, as well as a well-informed woman, very sprightly, quick, and a general favorite here, where she spent many years in accumulating a property, of which a part was unfortunately destroyed by fire. She, however, succeeded in bringing up her family in such a manner as to give her pleasure; and when she died, she left a snug property and a good name for industry, intelligence, and honesty.

1521. REV. HENRY D.,⁶ BANTA married his cousin,¹⁴⁸⁴ Eleanor Van Arsdale,⁶ June 23, 1803. He was born in Kentucky, and removed across the Ohio into Switzerland County, Indiana, prior to the War of 1812. He enlisted, and served from April to August, 1813, as a ranger under Captain W. Dunn. He was a farmer. For many years he officiated as a minister of the Baptist denomination—"old school"—declining all pay for his services. He died Jan. 21, 1867. His widow survived him more than twelve years, dying April 22, 1879. A sketch of his life, and that of his wife, written by his son, was published in a local paper in 1878; it is given in full, and is a quaint narrative of the pioneer life in which so many of the Bantas participated:

AN OLD PIONEER.

MRS. ELEANOR BANTA—A BRIEF SKETCH OF HER LIFE—NARROW ESCAPE FROM THE INDIANS—HARD TIMES—REV. HENRY D. BANTA, ONE OF THE EARLY PIONEER PREACHERS OF SWITZERLAND COUNTY—INTERESTING ALLUSIONS TO EARLY TIMES.

Vevay, Ind., May 4th, 1878.

Editor "Reveille":—Having some time since promised you that I would give you a short history of the life of one of the oldest settlers of this county, viz., that of my mother, Eleanor Banta, I therefore proceed to redeem that promise, and as much as possible will give it in her own language.

She was born in Ketcham Station, or Fort, in Shelby Co., Ky., May 4th, 1786, and of course is 92 years old to-day, this being her birthday, and therefore as suitable a time as any for such history. When she was nine days old the Indians drove her mother, with the other women in the Fort, six miles back to the nearest settlement at that time, and they had to retreat in the night for fear of being shot down or tomahawked and scalped by the Indians, as she was afterwards informed by her parents. She resided in that section of the country until after her marriage. She married Henry D. Banta, and lived with him until his death, which occurred at the age of 81 years, they having lived together 64 years. Many of your readers will recollect him as the old regular Baptist preacher. Being a regular Old School Baptist, he never did, or would, receive a salary for preaching, believing it to be wrong to do so. He preached regularly, as health permitted, for 41 years and 6 months, both in this State and Kentucky. He was pastor of Four-mile Church in Kentucky for years, and pastor of the Baptist Church in Vevay for 7 years; was pastor of Brushy Fork, Grant's Creek and other churches—I know not how long. His membership was in Bethel Church, in Craig Township, for 41 years and 6 months, all of which time he was the regular pastor of the same up to the time of his death. He was buried in Bethel Cemetery. But I have left the history that I commenced writing, and have given part of that of another. I know, however, that your readers will pardon the digression, and I will return to the subject upon which I started out—that of the history of Eleanor Banta. She says:

"My parents told me that the morning I was born one of my uncles was shot near the Fort, and the woods around the Fort was full of Indians. They were driven off, however, and we had peace for a spell again. We remained in that section of the country until the year 1817, then moved to the State of Indiana, County of Switzerland, in Pleasant Township, near or perhaps on the farm now known as the George Hotchkiss farm. There we erected the first horse-mill in the settlement, which for many years was called the Old Dutch Settlement. We had to pay $4 per bushel for salt then, and carry it in sacks on the backs of mules from the salt licks, or furnaces, as they sometimes called them in Kentucky, and we had to pay in proportion for many other things. Before we built the horse-mill we had to grind all of our corn on hand-mills. They were a very simply constructed affair. The hopper, as it was called, would be a portion of a trunk of a large tree, two or three feet in diameter and three or four feet high; one end of this block would be chopped out or burned out deep enough to receive the mill-stones; the bottom stone would be securely fastened in this hopper, and a small hole cut in the side of the hopper, just at the top of the bed stone, and a small spout attached to carry off the meal; the top stone, or runner as you would call it now, had two holes in it, one in the center to receive the grain to be ground, the other near one side, in which was placed an upright pole, two or two and a half inches thick; the top end of the pole was placed into a timber or beam overhead for that purpose, and the operator would take hold of this pole and turn it round, much the same as the apothecary would his pestle in a medicine mortar, turning with one hand and feeding the mill with the other at the same time. Many and many times I have ground my meal on the hand-mill, and that was the way we got all our corn ground in those days, for we had no wheat then. If we had had wheat, we had no mills but the hand-mills to grind it on, and I think they would have made bad flour.

"I recollect of hearing my parents tell that my uncle Samuel Dure and his brother and his brother's wife were out some little distance from the house, and two uncles were cutting a tree for the purpose of building a hand-mill, when they were surprised by the Indians and fired upon, and all three fell mortally wounded and died in a few minutes. Dear me, folks now-days know nothing about trouble and hard times, for the Indians would frequently come into the settlements of nights and kill the milch cows and cut out a slice or chunk from their hams, and leave the balance for an aggravation to the owners. Talk about hard times, you know nothing about it. After the Indians were driven from the country, so there was not so much danger, I used to take my little spinning-wheel and go many times of nights and spin flax and tow by the light of the brush heap fires that my husband was burning in the clearing.

"In 1825 we moved from the Dutch Settlement to Craig Township. We bought 173 acres of land from George Craig, one mile from the Ohio River, now known as the farms of the Widow Elizabeth Banta and Zachariah Cotton. There we remained until the year 1840, when we moved to Vevay, and remained in the vicinity of Vevay eight years; then moved to the neighborhood of Allensville, in Cotton Township, and remained there nine years, and then moved back to Craig Township, near Braytown, on the farm now occupied by Dallas F. Banta; remained there until the death of my husband.

"I am now living with my son-in-law and daughter, Justus Thiebaud and Mary Thiebaud, on the Ohio River, three miles below Vevay. I live half of the time with my son and daughter-in-law, Jacob and Sarah Banta."

She was the mother of thirteen children, and raised twelve of them to have families—one died at the age of two years—leaving six girls and six boys. Now there remain but six children, viz.: Daniel, Jacob, Abraham, Mary Thiebaud, John W., and Eleanor Beach. She has had ninety-one grandchildren and eighty-one great grandchildren. She reads well without glasses, having her second sight, but prefers glasses for steady reading. She says she can sew very well and knit just as good as ever, but not quite so fast. Takes great pleasure in reading the Bible and Spurgeon's Sermons, and is a good Scripturarian for one of her age. She has been a faithful member of Bethel Church ever since its organization, which is now upwards of fifty years. Her health is very good, and she retains her mind remarkably well for a person of her extreme age.

Respectfully,

[Signed] J. W. BANTA.

1598.⁵ ALBERT⁶ BANTA was born in Mercer County, Ky. In the year 1831 he went with his father to Illinois, with a view of locating a farm. In the following year they bought land at Holland's Grove, on the Illinois river, and Albert returned to Kentucky, where he married, Oct. 16, 1833, ⁴¹⁷¹Rachel B. Comingore,⁸ who was born in the same county, Dec. 22, 1815. They then removed to Illinois, driving with their possessions in a big farm wagon drawn by three horses. He had lost the sight of one eye four years previously at a fire, and on this journey to Illinois by an accident the other eye was injured so that he became blind. In those early days there were few oculists in that part of the country, but fortunately in the following spring a Dr. Van

Zant, from Utica, N. Y., removed to that State, and by his skillful treatment the sight of one eye was partially restored. He owned a farm at Partridge Point, one mile from Metamora, Woodford County, Ill., where he died Nov. 21, 1850. His widow is yet living, 1892, at Metamora, a cheerful, active life.

The traditions in Mr. Bonte's family are to the effect that an ancestor, Demarest De La Bonte, an eminent Huguenot, was executed in Paris, December, 1550, as a heretic, his estates confiscated and his family driven out of France. Some of them settled in Holland, where they lived until the departure of Hendrick Hudson, with whom they sailed for the New World in 1609. This story is quoted as a curious illustration of the little value to be placed upon tradition, as we know positively that the first of the family to reach New Amsterdam arrived half a century later than the date assigned, and we have no information of the family during their residence in Holland except as to the birth of the children.

"At the age of seventeen years Peter C. Bonte entered the cordage works of his father as an apprentice, and learned all the practical details of the business. Upon the death of his father, which occurred when the son was only twenty-two years of age, he took charge of the business in connection with his uncle, John Bonte, and conducted it with the greatest success. It is said to have been the largest establishment of the kind in the West, employing more men and material than any similar works. After some years Mr. Peter C. Bonte withdrew from business and devoted his time and energies to the improvement of his own property, and to the interests of the city of which he may be considered one of the pioneers. He was twice elected to the City Council from a district in which his own party had always been in a minority, and his public duties were discharged with assiduity and zeal, and characterized by unswerving fidelity to the public good. He has always been active in the work of reform, and has been a constant friend of the common schools of the city and State. He was for several years Captain of the 'Jefferson Greys,' a private military company composed of the most substantial and patriotic citizens of Cincinnati. This company volunteered for service during the Mexican War, but their offer was not accepted inasmuch as the Ohio quota had already been filled." May 3, 1843, he married Imogene Augusta Blanchard, a native of Cincinnati, who was born March 28, 1825. They reside at 16 David Street, Cincinnati.

2492. JACOB⁷ BANTA married, December, 1831, Sarah Demaree. She was the daughter of Judge David Demaree, a son of Samuel Demarest and Susanna Brouwer, who were married at Schraalenburgh, N. J., December 1, 1768. He is referred to in the following extract from the Shelby Courant, Shelbyville, Ky., May 22, 1873:

But then, if the Dutch Company had its heroes and heroines, it also had its men of talent as well as legal ability. Among these, perhaps, Judge David Demaree excelled. He was born at Hackensack, N. J., October 15, 1769, and participated in Gen. Harmer's campaign in 1793. He was appointed by the Governor, in 1801, one of the six magistrates of Shelby County, and was elected Presiding Judge in December, 1804, which position he held for several years. Having married a daughter of Jacob Bruner, one of the signers of the original Constitution of Kentucky, his acquaintance with the leading men of the day was quite extensive. That he was regarded as a man of more than ordinary ability is evinced by the fact that at his death, which took place in 1814, many officials and members of the bar of the State honored his memory with their presence at his funeral, riding on horseback many miles for no other purpose.

Jacob Banta was captain of a militia company in Kentucky, and moved to Johnson County, Indiana, in 1832, where he made a farm among the woods. He died in his twenty-fourth year, of malignant fever.

2529. ALBERT⁷ BANTA was born in Miamisburgh, Ohio. He married Mary Jane Brower, Dec. 24, 1824. She was born April 24, 1803, and died Dec. 23, 1870. For his second wife, he married Mrs. Mary Jane Gilkison Parks, Oct. 3, 1871. He died August 12, 1886. An obituary notice in a local paper gives the following account of his life:

In Ligonier, August 12, 1886, ALBERT BANTA, Sr., aged 81 years, 5 months and 6 days.

Another of our fathers has passed away after an illness of nearly ten months, during which he suffered greatly. Deceased was born in Miami County, Ohio, and was the oldest of ten children, three of whom are still living. His first marriage was to Mary J. Brower, and to them were given nine children, four of whom with the mother having preceded him to the home above. Mr. Banta came to Indiana in 1837 and located in Benton, Elkhart county, where he entered into the dry goods business. While he was at Benton he was elected a Justice of the Peace and served for some time as postmaster. In 1840 he was elected sheriff of the county and served in that capacity for two terms. In 1862 he took an active part at Bluffton in recruiting men for the War of the Rebellion, for which service he was commissioned as First Lieutenant. In 1866 he returned to Kendallville, but two years later he again went to Bluffton where he remained until the death of his wife in 1870, after which he came to Ligonier and made his home with his daughter, Mrs. D. W. Green, until his marriage with Mrs. Mary J. Parks, October 3, 1871, who survives him. Deceased was a charter member and was elected first treasurer of the Masonic Order in this place, having joined the fraternity at Goshen in 1844. He was an earnest worker in the temperance cause, for which he delivered several able lectures—but most of all, he was a devoted Christian. Beginning his religious life in 1848 he retained his integrity to the end. As said above, during the last ten months he suffered greatly, but during all that time he bore his pain with the fortitude of a child of God, while the loving heart and kind hands of a companion and children did all that mortals could do to alleviate his sufferings until the worn out body let go and the spirit was set free to be borne by angels to its final resting place in Paradise.

A large number of the F. & A. M. fraternity assisting in the funeral rites of the Order with hundreds of others present, attested the esteem in which he was held by one and all. Truly a good man has gone to his final rest.

Pastors of the M. E. and U. B. churches assisted in the funeral ceremonies, which were held on Sunday afternoon.

2548. SOLOMON⁷ BANTA was born in Montgomery County, Ohio. He lived with his parents on the farm, and received a limited education in the log school-house of the period. When about twenty years of age a teacher from the East came there and taught the Classics, and Solomon Banta, under his directions, studied Greek and Latin and other branches—pursuing his studies at night after the farm work of the day was over, by the light of the fire of wood on the old-fashioned hearth. He studied law in the office of Thomas Corwin, Governor of Ohio, at Franklin, and was admitted to the Bar. He married December 25, 1828, Malinda Small, who was born in Preble County, Ohio, February 10, 1800, and moved to Danville, Illinois, where they resided three years. During the Black Hawk War he volunteered in the army and served in the ranks with Abraham Lincoln, and was in the battle of Bad Axe. In 1837, they removed to Eaton, Ohio, where he practiced law. He served two terms as Prosecuting Attorney of Preble County, and several times was elected Mayor of the City of Eaton, Ohio. He was for many years Justice of the Peace and Commissioner of Insolvent Debtors. In politics he was a Democrat. He was social in his disposition and warm in his friendship. He was a Mason of high degree. After the death of his wife, which occurred Sept. 12, 1870, at Eaton, Ohio, he removed to Topeka, Kansas, and lived the rest of his days with his daughter, Mrs. Auster, dying April 29, 1879, in the 78th year of his age.

Mr. Bonta is a wealthy farmer in Mercer Co., Kentucky, owning an estate of one thousand acres. This includes the farm of his grandfather, Peterius Banta, three miles from Harrodsburg, which has been in the family for more than a century. The old log house built by the pioneer was yet standing a few years ago, and in the front yard of the modern dwelling which has taken its place lies a relic of "ye olden time." His elder daughter thus writes concerning it: "It is a large mill-stone which was used by my great grandfather, Peterius. It was doubtless placed there by him when our home was first settled. That which supplied my great grandfather's table with bread has, in the fourth generation, become only an ornament, as I always plant in the centre of it a bunch of flowers. This summer a clump of daisies has made it quite festive. How I do love everything that has come down to us from those days when our forefathers contended against all the hardships of the early times! The grand old clock which has been ticking away the moments in our family for more than a hundred years has the place of honor in our hall to-day, and is as faithful now as a century ago in its warnings that 'Time and tide wait for no man.'"

A. B. BONTA,

Mr. Bonta has been for nearly twenty years President of the First National Bank of Harrodsburg. He has been for forty years a devoted member of the Methodist Church, and has held the positions of Steward and Trustee for nearly all this period.

He was for many years connected with the postal service at Frankfort, Ky., where he is now a house and sign painter. He married Eliza Hampton, Feb. 22, 1840. She was born in Frankfort, Ky., May 10, 1811, and died July 3, 1892. A Frankfort paper made this reference to her: "Early in life she joined the Methodist Church, and has always lived a consistent Christian life. In her case it can be truthfully said another sainted soul has been called to rest, for as wife, mother, neighbor and friend, she had no superior. The greater portion of her life has been spent in practicing the 'Golden Rule,' and she never tired in doing for those around her. She possessed all the traits that make a perfect Christian lady, and seemed to live only to comfort her husband, children, grandchildren and neighbors. She died as she had lived, in the hope of a blessed immortality beyond the grave. The writer of this has for more than a quarter of a century lived in, and been permitted to enjoy her love and the sunlight of her bright face and character."

CHAPTER XXIV.

NINTH GENERATION.

John⁷ Peter⁶ John⁵ John⁴ Johannes³ Seba² Epke.¹

3686. JOHN HARMON C.⁸ BONTÉ was born in Circleville, Ohio, but grew up and was educated mainly in Cincinnati. He was prepared for college in the classical academy of Dr. Colton. He studied one year in St. John College, Cincinnati—an institution that soon perished,—but he was not strong enough in health to continue in any class elsewhere. Under private instructors, however, he pursued successfully the study of courses unusually broad for that day. He studied law with Judge Bellamy Story, of Cincinnati, passing one year in an Eastern law college, and was admitted in the Supreme Court of Ohio as "Attorney and Counsellor-at-Law and Solicitor in Chancery," before he was twenty-one years of age. He practiced law in Cincinnati three years, reaping large pecuniary returns, continuing at the same time the study of history, philosophy, and the Hebrew language and literature. He then passed three years at Kenyon College in the study of Divinity and other subjects, and received the degree of

A. M. in 1857, and subsequently the degree of Doctor in Divinity. He was admitted to the Diaconate in the Episcopal Church in July, 1856, and to the Priesthood in July, 1857. He was subsequently elected one of the Trustees of Kenyon College. During the Civil War he served for nine months as Chaplain of the 43d Ohio Regiment, under General Pope.

Thereafter, Dr. Bonté continued in the active duties of the ministry, and in June, 1870, he became Rector of the Episcopal Church in Sacramento, Cal., where he remained until his voice failed him; during this period he officiated for four years as Chaplain of the State Senate.

August 1, 1881, he became Secretary of the University of California, at Berkeley, Alameda County, and shortly after was elected Professor of Legal Ethics in its Law Department, positions still filled by him.

Dr. Bonté is widely known on the Pacific Coast as a writer on religious, literary and scientific subjects.

Some of the Dutch Baptismal Names appearing in this volume are here given with their equivalents in English. It may be mentioned that there is no uniformity of spelling of most of these names in the ancient Dutch Church records, the first one given, for example, being spelt indifferently, Aeltie, Aaltje, Aaltie, etc.

INDEX.

EXPLANATION.

FORMERLY it was quite unusual to give to a child more than one baptismal name, and as the variety of names in most families was quite limited it was common, to distinguish between two persons of similar name, to affix the father's cognomen to that of the child—For instance: the son of Jacob Banta who was christened simply as John, would frequently be described as John Jacob, to distinguish him from John, the son of Henry, who would be designated as John Henry. Similarly, Mary, the daughter of Aaron, would be referred to as Mary Aaron.

As so many persons of similar names are mentioned in this volume, it has been deemed expedient in preparing the Index to Banta surnames to add the father's name also, where only a single name would otherwise appear, and in general, a comma has been inserted to indicate that the father's name has been so affixed. Thus, John, the son of Henry, has been indexed as John, Henry; and Mary, the daughter of Aaron, as Mary, Aaron.

In the Records of the Hackensack Reformed Dutch Church, which were prepared by the present writer for publication as the first volume of Collections of The Holland Society of New York, he called attention to the great variety of spelling of proper names current among the early settlers in this country, and gave a page or two of illustrations of such variations. One of the names which appears in the Hackensack Records as Cammega, Kamga, Kammegeer, Kammiga, etc., will be found in this volume as Commingore, Comingo, etc., and this example will serve to illustrate the difficulty of attempting to decide as to correct spelling of any name.

In indexing surnames other than Banta, the rule has usually been followed in this book of including families of well-known common origin under one heading instead of under the various spellings adopted by different persons. Thus, the Demarees are indexed among the Demarests, the Bogarts with the Bogerts, the Van Osdolls with the Van Arsdals, etc.

The names of persons included in this volume who were married and had issue are usually mentioned on two different pages; the first, where they appear in the account of their parents' family, and the second time as the head of a new family. The paging in this index refers to the latter notice, the former can readily be found by reference to the numbers affixed to the names, which are consecutive. For example: Aaron, son of George Banta, will be found on page 145, numbered 1313. By turning backward this number will be found on page 80, where George Banta's family is recorded.

A * affixed to a number of a page indicates that two or more similar names will be found on that page.

The names to which a double star  is affixed will be found on the chart showing the compiler's ancestry inserted in the Preface.

KINSHIP.

INASMUCH as the inquiry may arise in the minds of some who find their names in this volume as to the relationship they bear to others mentioned herein, it may be well to state a simple formula by which some of the inquiries may be answered.

Persons are first cousins who have a common ancestor in the second preceding generation; they are second cousins when they have a common ancestor in the third preceding generation; they are third cousins when they have a common ancestor in the fourth preceding generation, etc.

Bearing in mind this fact, it will not be difficult to determine the relationship between two persons of the same generation—reckoning from Epke—by using the following formula:

Take for example, 2024 on page 128 and 2037 on the same page, both of the seventh generation, and whose lines of descent are as follows:

2024—Samuel⁶ Abram⁵ Samuel⁴ Abram³ Cornelius² Epke.¹

2037—Thomas⁶ Abram⁵ Samuel⁴ Abram³ Cornelius² Epke.¹

These persons have a common ancestor, Abram,⁵ in the second preceding generation, and they are first cousins.

Take 1865 on page 118 and 1906 on page 122; their lines of descent are as follows:

1865—Petrus⁶ Jan⁵ Cornelius⁴ Jan³ Cornelius² Epke.¹

1906—Wiert⁶ Hendrick⁵ Cornelius⁴ Jan³ Cornelius² Epke.¹

These persons have a common ancestor, Cornelius,⁴ in the third preceding generation, and they are second cousins.

Take 2014 on page 127 and 2024 on page 128:

2014—Joseph⁶ Joseph⁵ Cornelius⁴ Abram³ Cornelius² Epke.¹

2024—Samuel⁶ Abram⁵ Samuel⁴ Abram³ Cornelius² Epke.¹

These persons have a common ancestor in Abram,³ of the fourth preceding generation, and they are third cousins.

Take 1865 on page 118 and 1956 on page 126:

1865—Petrus⁶ Jan⁵ Cornelius⁴ Jan³ Cornelius² Epke.¹

1956—Albert⁶ Jacob⁵ Cornelius⁴ Jacob³ Cornelius² Epke.¹

These persons have a common ancestor in Cornelius,² of the fifth preceding generation, and they are fourth cousins.

Chapter III., page 14, gives the names of the children of Cornelius² Epke¹; these of course, are first cousins of the children of Seba,² Hendrick,² Dirck² and Wiert,² on pages 15 and 16.

In chapter IV., all the persons mentioned of the fourth generation in the line of Cornelius,² pages 17 to 24, are second cousins of all the persons of the same generation in the lines of Seba,² Hendrick,² Dirck² and Wiert,² on pages 24 to 36.

In chapter V., all the persons mentioned in the fifth generation are third cousins of all the persons in the same generation in chapters VI., VII., VIII. and IX.

In chapter X., all the persons mentioned in the sixth generation are fourth cousins of all the persons in the same generation in chapters XI., XII., XIII. and XIV.

In chapter XV., all the persons mentioned in the seventh generation are fifth cousins of all the persons in the same generation in chapters XVI., XVII., XVIII. and XIX.

In chapter XX., all the persons mentioned in the eighth generation are sixth cousins of all the persons mentioned in the same generation in chapters XXI., XXII. and XXIII.

For example: 1959 on page 126 of the seventh generation, in the line of Cornelius² Epke, is fifth cousin of 2626, on page 169, of the line of Hendrick² Epke. Their fathers, Albert⁶ and Garret,⁶ were fourth cousins; their grandfathers, Jacob⁵ and Peterius,⁵ were third cousins; their great grandfathers, Cornelius⁴ and Hendrick,⁵ were second cousins; their great-great grandfathers, Jacob³ and Hendrick,³ were first cousins, and their great-great-great grandfathers, Cornelius² and Hendrick,² were brothers.

These observations may be helpful to those who may be curious to trace other degrees of relationship between different persons mentioned in this work.
