Pioneers Defeat Iowa State Eleven

Both Sides May Use Effective Air Offensive

Fresh from victory over the powerful Iowa State eleven, the Denver University Pioneers loom practically impregnable to the Hilltop as the locals prepare for the battle in Denver October 6.

Pioneer mentor "Cac" Hubbard has 15 insignia wearers, many reserves from the 1938 squad, and the most promising sophomore material in several years, reports from Denver indicate.

In reply to your most interesting letter of Friday, September 29, Khatali asks your indulgence for the remainder of this letter while we clarify, for your express benefit, the regulations for freshman men which you find so difficult to follow.

Before taking up your complaint point by point we wish to take issue with you on contentions which you made and which we believe are untrue. First, we have determined by investigation and not coercion that you were not speaking for the entire freshman group. Secondly fostering school spirit and good fellowship cannot be attained by working against Khatali and traditions of the University. Thirdly, we ask, indeed we beseech, you to cite one instance where Khatali has gone "too far" in enforcement of regulations. MONFORT, HUBBELL STAR AGAINST COWBOYS

The local Lobos ran rampant over the Cowboys of Wyoming U Friday night, 34-7, in a major intersectional clash which saw the first meeting of the two elevens. Penalties marred both teams' chances throughout. Monfort and Hubbell led the Hilltoppers to victory. Monfort's effective passing featuring the best part of the Lobo

Weight and relative inexperience told the story before the final gun. Passing to two touchdowns and running one over himself, Avery Monfort led the field in practically every phase of the game. Hubbell Stars
