New Council Directives Provide Role for Laity

BON VOYAGE — Off to Rome for the second session of the Ecumenical Council are, left to right, Auxiliary Bishop W. Stanton, Archbishop Boland and Auxiliary Bishop Joseph A. Costello. They sailed Sept. 12 on the Independence. This will be the first visit to the council for Bishop Costello, who was consecrated last January.

VATICAN CITY (NC) — Pope Paul VI has directed that Catholic laymen be admitted to the second session of the ecumenical council and that non-Christian as well as other non-Catholic representatives be welcomed as observers.

Pope Paul disclosed the following decisions:

- Admission of some Catholic laymen and some representatives of the major international Catholic institutions into the council.
- Reinvitation of non-Christian observers at the council, increasing the number, and also inviting the representatives of non-Christian religions who were not invited to the first session. The invitations would be extended through the Secretariat for Promoting Christian Unity.

- Abolition of the present council Secretariat for Extraordinary Affairs and the appointment of Cardinal delegates or moderators who will have the task of directing the work of the council.

The disclosures were contained in a letter dated Sept. 12, addressed to the council president, Eugene Cardinal Tisserant.

THE COUNCIL press bulletin specified that the Catholic laymen who will be selected to attend will act in the capacity of auditors of the council. As "qualified representatives of the Catholic lay apostolate they will be able to assist in the conciliar work and eventually they may even be called upon to give their advice to the conciliar commissions."

Regarding the change in operation of the council, Pope Paul's letter noted that he has already named to the college of the presidents of the council three of the Cardinals who had been members of the now abolished Secretariat for Extraordinary Affairs. They are Stefan Cardinal Wysynski, Primate of Poland; Giuseppe Cardinal Siri of Genoa, and Albert Cardinal Meyer of Chicago.

The Secretariat for Extraordinary Affairs in fact had been superseded by the Commission for the Coordination of the Council's Works, which Pope John had instituted at the end of the first session. L'Osservatore Romano, Vatican City daily, reported that the posts of moderators will be held by Gregorio Cardinal Agagianian, prefect of the Sacred Congregation for the Propagation of the Faith; Giacomo Cardinal Lercaro of Bologna; Julius Cardinal Döpfner of Munich, and Leo Cardinal Suenens of Brussels. Cardinal delegates or moderators will direct all the work of the council, but the Council of the Presidency will continue to preside over general congregations.

THE OPENING passages of the letter were devoted to praise of Pope John for calling the Second Vatican Council, and to the wish that it be concluded and crowned with the success he wanted.

The Pope noted that the projects have been "re-edited and newly developed in a briefer form, with this criterion that the general principles above all be considered, leaving aside non-pertinent questions in fact bringing before the ecumenical council that which deals with the Universal Church."

"In the reworking of the projects the preeminence of the pastoral nature of this council was kept in mind. In fact it is necessary that the sure and unchangeable doctrine of the Faith declared and defined by the supreme

Bishop Asks Cooperation

Setonia Plans for Campus In Saddle River Outlined

SOUTH ORANGE — Auxiliary Bishop John J. Dougherty, president of Seton Hall University, this week addressed an open letter to the citizens and Borough Council of Saddle River bringing them up to date on the university's plans for a campus there.

Seton Hall two years ago revealed it had purchased a 181-acre tract in Saddle River for the purpose of establishing a co-educational college. After the plans were announced, the borough amended its zoning ordinance to prevent the school from being built.

SADDLE RIVER has a history of opposition to private education facilities within its border. Several years ago, it attempted to keep out the Saddle River Country Day School but lost a court fight in which the Newark Archdiocese intervened.

The borough is comprised chiefly of large estates and almost 90% of the roads are private. Residents have claimed that the introduction of a college into the community would greatly alter its present nature.

In his letter, Bishop Dougherty noted that "our decision in the matter of location was not a hasty one, but was arrived at after more than two years of site study in various sections of the county."

HE POINTED out that Seton Hall had enjoyed a century of complete harmony with the residents of South Orange as a "result of mutual cooperation in planning and active participation in village endeavors." He said that the population growth in Bergen County — 32,000 in two years — necessitates increased educational facilities.

"As the president of a university I cannot turn my back upon the problem of providing adequate college facilities. Seton Hall University has always accepted her responsibility as a chartered institution of higher education of the State of New Jersey. We have met many challenges in the past and feel that the challenge now presented must be met. We propose to meet it in a manner that will be acceptable to the residents of Saddle River."

Other Education News
 Pages 4 and 5

THE BISHOP noted that the planned campus buildings will cover only 4.62 acres and that the entrance and exit will be from Route 17. He added that the natural contour of the campus would provide buffers between the college and surrounding residential areas.

"I can safely state that no other community would have the opportunity to develop an area equal to that proposed by Seton Hall with less change in the character of the community," he concluded.

"There will be no increased required in the local school tax rate, since the Seton Hall campus offers no family units. Our South Orange campus is protected by our own private police force and the same situation will prevail in Saddle River."

THE LETTER included an architect's drawing of how the campus would look after a gradual 25-year development program. Also included was a map of the borough showing the location of the Seton Hall property and pinpointing the area selected for development and the proposed roads.

The Bishop said that the master plan calls for a self-contained water supply and that consultations with the New Jersey State Bureau of Geology "indicate no adverse effects on other wells in the area."

The university does not plan a "skyscraper campus," he said, adding that all structures will be limited to "no more than three stories."

Opens Sept. 20

Charities Office In Shop Center

NEWARK — Associated Catholic Charities will officially inaugurate its Bergen County regional office at a luncheon Sept. 20 for priests, public officials, and representatives of social agencies and industry. The luncheon will be held at 12:15 p.m. in the auditorium of Bergen Mall, where the new office is located.

SPEAKER WILL be Msgr. Raymond J. Gallagher, secretary of the National Conference of Catholic Charities, on the topic, "The Role of Catholic Charities in the Community."

Msgr. Robert G. Fitzpatrick of Corpus Christi, Hasbrouck Heights, dean of Bergen County clergy, will preside at the luncheon. Master of ceremonies will be Msgr. Patrick J. Traimor, acting executive director of Catholic Charities in the archdiocese.

Msgr. Traimor said the luncheon will introduce the new office to those people in Bergen County concerned with social welfare. All priests of the county have been invited to attend.

The office, to be supervised by Catherine McGann, will have a full-time staff of seven people.

'America' Article Draws Informal Holy Office Reply

VATICAN CITY (NC)—An article appearing in the Sept. 14 issue of America, U.S. weekly published by the Jesuit Fathers, has occasioned a statement of principle by the Sacred Congregation of the Holy Office.

The statement was made privately and was not in official form. Furthermore, it was not given as a direct reply to the article because the "Holy Office has no direct knowledge of the article reported in the daily press," it was said.

Part of the statement, however, was in direct opposition to points made in the article, written by Rev. Robert A. Graham, S.J., an associate editor of America.

FATHER GRAHAM said in his article, "Civil Rights in the Church," that he has heard in recent years the following complaints against the Holy Office by Catholic scholars: "Books or articles are judged without the author's being heard in his own defense. Teachers are ordered to be removed from their posts without having any specific charge made against them, much less being given a chance to defend themselves.

"Notice of the condemnation of a book is sometimes made public before the author himself is informed.

"The reputation of authors is not adequately safeguarded. Little effort is made to differentiate between a writer with a distinguished record of service to the Church and another who is a declared enemy of the Faith. Calumnious accusations against authors are not punished when their falsehood is discovered.

"EVEN THE Bishop whose imprimatur has been granted to the edition condemned or ordered to be withdrawn from sale is not consulted or informed.

"Grounds for the condemnation are not given, except perhaps in an unofficial and allusive form, without a shred of canonical force, in L'Osservatore Romano.

"In disputed areas, such as modern philosophy, which require specialized knowledge, the decision is taken without consulting experts in the field as to the exact meaning of the writing under examination."

THE TWO BASIC principles contained in the Holy Office statement were:

The object of the judgment which the congregation passes on books "is the written word of the author and not the author himself. It is the doctrine or opinion that he has put in print that is judged, and not his intentions as such when writing."

The judgments of the congregation are not arbitrary but are the results of exhaustive

New Parishes, Pastors in Paterson

PATERSON — Bishop Navagh this week announced the creation of two new parishes in the Diocese of Paterson, the elevation of another from mission status and the appointment of nine pastors.

There were also five diocesan appointments: Msgr. Henry J. Zolzer as head of the department of religion at St. Elizabeth's College, Msgr. Joseph R. Brestel as director of the Diocesan Expansion Fund, Msgr. Christian D. Haag as dean of Sussex County, Rev. John E. Morris as associate superintendent of schools and Rev. Richard Rento as as-

THE NEW PARISHES are both in Wayne: Our Lady of Consolation in the northwest section of the township and Annunciation in the northeast section. Our Lady of Good Counsel, in nearby Pompton Plains, was raised to parish status. Wayne now has five parishes within its border.

Rev. Joseph Ducas, pastor of St. Hyacinth, Paterson, was named pastor of Annunciation, while Rev. Carl J. Wolsin, pastor of St. Simon's, Green Pond, was named pastor of Our Lady of Consolation. The pastor of Good Counsel is Rev. Daniel A. Vecchillo, who was named administrator when the mission was created a year ago.

OTHER NEWLY-appointed pastors include Rev. William J. King at St. Joseph's, Lincoln Park; Rev. Sigmund Rovinski at St. Hyacinth, Paterson; Rev. Louis J. Gallo at St. Joseph's, Mendham; Rev. Edward R. Phalon at St. Simon's, Green Pond; Rev. John J. White at Immaculate Conception Seminary, Darlington, being ordained in 1933. He served as pastor of Holy Spirit, Pequannock, from 1950 until his appointment at St. George's in 1954.

Msgr. Zolzer has been pastor of Immaculate Conception, Franklin, since 1945. He was born in Elizabeth and ordained for the Diocese of Newark in 1924. He served in several North Jersey parishes before being appointed chaplain of St. Mary's Hospital, Passaic, in 1934. When the Diocese of Paterson was formed in 1933, he was named an examiner of clergy and censor librorum.

MSGR. BRESTEL is the pastor of St. George's, Paterson. He is a native of Paterson and a graduate of Immaculate Conception Seminary, Darlington, being ordained in 1933. He served as pastor of Holy Spirit, Pequannock, from 1950 until his appointment at St. George's in 1954.

FATHER DUDAK is a native of Hibernia and attended Bayley High School, Morris-town; St. Charles Preparatory Seminary, Baltimore; Seton Hall University and Immaculate Conception Seminary. He was ordained May 26, 1963, by Bishop McNulty.

Since ordination, he has served at Our Lady of Mercy Whippany, and at St. George's, Paterson.

Two Priests Volunteer

Paterson to Establish A Mission in Peru

PATERSON — Rev. George A. Dudak of St. George's, Paterson, and Rev. James F. Jannucci of St. Anthony's, Hawthorne, have been accepted as volunteers for a new South American mission in Ica, Peru, to be served by priests from the Paterson Diocese.

Bishop Navagh announced the appointment of the two priests this week and said that they would leave for their new assignment after Jan. 1. Paterson already supports two parishes in Bolivia and staffs one of them in Caranavi.

THE NEW MISSION is located on the coast of Peru about three hours drive from Lima. The Sisters of St. Joseph of Carondelet from St. Louis, Mo., have opened a grade school there. Ica has a population of about 5,000 people and a small usable church, but no priests.

Father Dudak and Father Jannucci have volunteered for five years and will receive two years of seniority for each year in the mission. The parish will be financially supported by the Paterson Diocese.

Paterson's current mission in Caranavi was established last year.

What They Expect From Council

Eastern Rite Catholics Emphasize 'Universality'

VATICAN CITY (NC) — One effect of the Second Vatican Ecumenical Council is the fact that it has given a worldwide audience to the voice of Eastern Rite Catholics.

What are some of the problems involving the Eastern Rites that may be heard in the council? What do the Eastern Rite Catholics want from the council? What do they not want?

Although Eastern Rite Catholics are split among themselves, some positions are common to all of them.

ONE IS THAT Eastern Rites resent being looked on as a kind of "foreign cousin" by the Latin Rite majority of the West. They stress that the Church is neither Latin nor Eastern, but rather, essentially universal.

The fundamental claim that the Eastern Rite Fathers will make in the council is for a confirmation of and a return to the autonomy of the local church. It is in this connection that they have and will again raise the charge of "Latinization."

On this point hang other positions taken by Eastern Rite Catholics: the declaration, for example, that the Holy See cannot hope to invite the Orthodox churches to unity until it has proven that it will respect the autonomy of the Eastern Rites.

Consciously or unconsciously, Eastern Rite Catholics claim, the Holy See has failed to honor the autonomy of the local churches which was officially promised to them when they return to unity with it. This fact creates the first fear in the hearts of the Orthodox, they say, when invitations are made to them.

WHAT THE Eastern Rite Catholics do not want from the council, according to the same source, is to have the council pass specific legislation for their local churches. They are interested in the council, he said, only in its universal applications and in the general principles it will establish for the universal Church.

According to the local level. According to the local level of the Eastern Rites in Rome, this is what the Eastern Rite Catholics want from the council: a confirmation of a legitimate and healthy pluralism.

They will not seek this in any specific decrees, he said, but will look for it and encourage it and vote for it in all council pronouncements.

WHAT THE Eastern Rite Catholics do not want from the council, according to the same source, is to have the council pass specific legislation for their local churches. They are interested in the council, he said, only in its universal applications and in the general principles it will establish for the universal Church.

What about the Orthodox question? Why have they not sent observer delegates to the council? The Orthodox Churches want to act as a unit. Because they have not succeeded in agreeing as to what their action as a unit should be there has been a delay in their sending delegates.

A pan-Orthodox conference has been scheduled to be held on the Mediterranean island of Rhodes to discuss whether and how the Orthodox churches will send representation to the council.

Only the Russian Orthodox Church sent observers to the council's first session. They explained their action by saying that no steps had been taken up to that time for unity of action.

A TYPICAL example of the strong feelings of the Eastern Rite Catholics was expressed by Melkite Rite Patriarch

Maximos IV Saigh of Antioch: "We must be convinced that Christianity can never accomplish its mission in the world unless it is catholic, that is universal not only in law but in actual fact. If someone cannot be a Catholic unless he gives up his own liturgy, hierarchy, patristic traditions, history, hymnography, art language, culture and spiritual heritage, and adopts the rites, philosophic and theological thought, religious poetry, liturgical language, culture and spirituality of a particular group, he is not a great gift of God to the whole world but a faction, however numerous, and a human institution subservient to the interests of one group."

To Beatify Four

Extraconciliar Acts Scheduled in Rome

ROME (NC) — A series of extraconciliar activities are scheduled during the second session of the ecumenical council — including several beatifications, Pope Paul VI's consecration of 14 missionary Bishops, and his taking possession of his cathedral church.

Although none of these events has been officially announced by the Vatican, plans for them are well under way.

THE FIRST following the reopening of the council Sept. 29 will be the beatification of the Ven. John N. Neumann, Bishop of Philadelphia from 1852 to 1860. The Czech-born prelate is to be declared blessed on Sunday, Oct. 18 on Oct. 20, Pope Paul is expected to highlight Mission Sunday by giving episcopal consecration to 14 missionary Bishops in St. Peter's.

For Oct. 27, the feast of Christ the King, is slated the beatification of the Ven. Dominic Barberi, Italian Passionist who died in Reading, England, in 1849, four years after receiving the late Cardinal John Henry Newman into the Catholic Church.

On Oct. 28 there will be a solemn commemoration of the late Pope John on the anniversary of his election to the papacy.

On Nov. 3, Rev. Leonard Murialdo, Italian founder of the Pious Society of St. Joseph of Turin who died in 1900, will be beatified.

POPE PAUL in his capacity as Bishop of Rome will take possession of his cathedral church — St. John Lateran — on Nov. 9, and on Nov. 17 Italian Rev. Vincent Romano, who died in 1831, will be beatified.

Although the council is scheduled to close Dec. 4, another beatification is scheduled for the following Sunday, Dec. 8, when the Italian boy Nunzio Sulprizio, who died at the age of 19 in 1836, will be declared blessed.

On Nov. 4 there will be a solemn commemoration of the fourth centenary of the Council of Trent's decree on the establishment of seminaries.

Notes on the Council

Predict Third Session to Complete Work

Opinion is growing that there will be one more session at least before the Vatican Council is able to complete its work.

Among the latest to express that view are Joseph Cardinal Ritter of St. Louis and Auxiliary Bishop John F. Whealon of Cleveland.

As Bishop Whealon points out, there are 17 schemas to be considered, the number having been reduced from 77. "Even if the council should move so swiftly as to act on one draft a week — which is not possible — we still would be only about half way through when the session is scheduled to end Dec. 4."

Cardinal Ritter expresses his opinion in an question-and-answer interview with Msgr. Daniel Moore, editor of the St. Louis Review, in the Sept. 14 issue of Ave Maria Magazine.

He discusses a number of topics of interest to Americans and asserts that it will take about 10 years before council decisions are put into practice on the diocesan and parish level.

The Hungarian government this time will permit a 15-man delegation to attend the council. Among the 15 will be five Bishops — three more than were permitted to attend the 1962 session. Among the 15 will be a layman, Miklos Esty, vice president of Catholic Action, and a physician.

In Zaragoza, Spain, Archbishop Casimiro Morcillo, one of the council's five undersecretaries, said a number of newspapermen will be admitted successively to the council hall day after day, to see the council at work.

In an interview, he also said he was virtually certain that a number of laymen would have a chance to sit in on the deliberations.

He said, too, that it is his opinion that it could take as many as five sessions to complete the council's work and that it is probable that the council Fathers will receive two reports on the projects put before them. One would be a majority report from the preparatory commission, the other a minority report from commission dissenters.

Projects on the nature of the Church, Church teaching on Mary, the authority of Bishops, the place of the laity in the Church and the ecumenical movement are already in the hands of the Bishops, he said.

A special committee to welcome and aid Bishops attending the council is once again busy in Rome. Teams have been assigned by the committee to greet the Bishops at airports, train stations and harbors and a large staff of interpreters has been recruited.

The American Bishops are going to revive the briefing sessions which assisted American newsmen covering the council. The press panel will provide clarification and background material on matters discussed at the council and will hold forth at a USO club near St. Peter's Square.

After each day's session a dozen experts on various aspects of Church life will assemble at the club to answer questions. Limited library service and documentation will be provided. Directing the panel will be Elmer Von Feldt, news editor of NCWC News Service.

Spanish Bishops were among the national hierarchies which met in their homelands to prepare for the council. The Spaniards held one of the longest meetings of any group, sifting council topics for a week. These preliminary meetings are expected to speed proceedings.

Among the "newsmen" covering the council will be Dr. C. Stanley Lowell, editor of Church and State, organ of Protestants and Other Americans United for Separation of Church and State (POAU).

In making the announcement, Glenn L. Archer, POAU executive secretary, said the organization is particularly interested in action on religious freedom. He promised that Lowell would provide "straight-from-the-shoulder" reporting.

As it did last year, the Brazilian government is chartering a special plane to take the Brazilian Bishops to Rome. The plane, with 140 prelates aboard, will leave Rio de Janeiro Sept. 27.

Guards Sworn In

VATICAN CITY (NC) — Five recruits have been sworn into the Swiss Guards, bringing the number of the Pope's personal bodyguard to 98. Full complement is 100.

The recruits will take a special course of studies for a month. After a year they will become full members.

fortunately are so widespread as to generate new disasters and often provoke irritated minds to the spilling of their brothers' blood."

The Pope urged Catholics to give their assistance to Christian charities as a form of the good works to be offered for the success of the council, naming especially those that help the poor and the sick.

IN LETTERS officially summoning council Fathers to the second session, Pope Paul reaffirmed Pope John's intention that the council rejuvenate the Church "in its perennial vigor."

Pope Paul sent identical letters to each of the Fathers. The text, made public Sept. 16, was dated Sept. 14.

The Pontiff referred to the council as the "majestic work" of John XXIII. He said: "You know the purpose of this council, which has more participants than any other. As it was expressed by our illustrious predecessor, the Church must appear in its perennial vigor, the instrument of salvation for all; to her Our Lord Jesus Christ has entrusted the deposit of the Faith, to be guarded faithfully and in an apt and convenient way."

"This energetic vigor of the Church, which illuminates, attracts, moves souls, can take new strength from the council, which meets at the tomb of St. Peter."

gree Knight of Columbus, has been elected national commander of the American Legion.

'Nature of Church' First Council Topic

VATICAN CITY (NC) — The session of the ecumenical council which starts Sept. 29 will open discussions with a revised draft on a controversial subject — the nature of the Church — the council secretary said here.

The draft was revised by a coordinating commission which coordinated and combined drafts prepared for the council, cutting the total number of projects from 70 to 17.

A DRAFT on the subject, entitled De Ecclesia (Concerning the Church), was taken up in the final general meetings of the council's first session last fall, although Alfredo Cardinal Ottaviani, president of the Theology Commission which drew up the project, had urged that its discussion be postponed because of the short time left before the end of the session.

The project was criticized. One speaker said that the draft's form was too juridical. Other critics said that the draft did not cite the Fathers of the East enough and that it did not quote enough from Scripture.

It was also urged that the doctrine on the relations between Church and State should be formulated in a way which takes into account realities of the present day and in such a way as not to be unduly offensive to the State.

Orthodox Primate Scores Unity Talks

ATHENS (NC) — Archbishop Chrysostomos, Primate of the Orthodox Church of Greece, sharply attacked the Catholic Church here and said that reunion between the two churches is unattainable.

The Archbishop spoke before a scheduled pan-Orthodox meeting on the island of Rhodes called by Orthodox Patriarch Athenagoras of Constantinople to decide whether or not to send observers to the second session of the ecumenical council. Archbishop Chrysostomos told newsmen the meeting, scheduled to begin Sept. 19, is futile.

"UNITY OF THE Eastern

Orthodox Church and the Roman Catholic Church is unattainable on doctrinal and other grounds," he said.

"The Orthodox world," he added, "will never be disposed to accept the infallibility of the Pope." He also declared:

"The Orthodox Church breathes always with democratic principles, while the papal church is centralist and absolutist."

Archbishop Chrysostomos accused the Catholic Church of trying to win converts among Orthodox believers and said that "at the first step toward beginning (unity) discussions with the West the Greek (Byzantine Rite) Catholic community should be immediately abolished." Byzantine Rite Catholics in Greece number only about 2,500. Their community came into existence in the 19th century.

AT A PRESS conference in New York, Orthodox Archbishop Iakovos of North and South America said that while it would not be proper for him to comment on the remarks of Archbishop Chrysostomos, he hoped the Greek Patriarch would reconsider his position.

Archbishop Iakovos also said that he hoped the Rhodes meeting would discuss the matter of holding a meaningful dialogue between the Orthodox and Catholic Churches.

Episcopalians Hosts For Fellow Clergy

NEWPORT, R.I. (NC) — The Episcopal clergy of the Newport Convocation will be host to the Catholic and Protestant clergymen of the Newport area at a Sept. 30 buffet supper and evening of fellowship.

A similar evening was held last December, at which Newport's Catholic clergymen were hosts.

New Stamp Issue VATICAN CITY (NC) — The Vatican City post office will issue a new series of stamps Oct. 16 commemorating the coronation of Pope Paul VI.

The letter disclosed that the council Fathers will convene five days a week, with Saturday and Sunday off.

THE HOLY FATHER, in a separate Apostolic Exhortation to the world's Bishops, urged prayer and penance for a happy outcome of the council.

Pope Paul said that he places his trust first of all in the help of the Lord and then in the prayers of the faithful. He asked that every Bishop take measures to see that his faithful are spiritually prepared for the great event.

"All that is humanly possible must be done to prepare for the council. However, neither the ordered assembly of the council, nor the penetrating power of the debates, nor the studies diligently prepared by the council Fathers which will have the most important part in the council — none of these will produce the fully and stably determined purposes of the council, but only long and attentive prayer, corporal and spiritual mortification offered to God, and holiness of customs and pious works."

POPE PAUL recommended especially the prayer written by Pope John for the success of the council, and he recommended that the Collect prayer to the Holy Spirit be ordered inserted in all the Masses of the Latin Rite (oratio imperata). He urged also that priests, seminarians and members of religious institutes take the lead in his call for special prayer and penance.

Of the faithful, he asked that they "willingly perform mortifications, especially by abstaining from certain entertainments which too often are immoral and censurable. Let them pardon offenses received. A spontaneous extinguishes the tragic flames of discords in such a way as to silence hatreds and quarrels which today unfortunately are so widespread as to generate new disasters and often provoke irritated minds to the spilling of their brothers' blood."

The Pope urged Catholics to give their assistance to Christian charities as a form of the good works to be offered for the success of the council, naming especially those that help the poor and the sick.

Report Nazis Plotted To Seize Pius XII

MILAN (NC) — Nazi Germany plotted to invade the Vatican during World War II to seize Pope Pius XII and exile him to a monastery outside of Italy, according to a leading Italian magazine.

Oggi, weekly published in Milan, reported that Adolf Hitler himself initiated the plan. It said the German dictator was dissuaded by Gestapo chief Heinrich Himmler, who convinced Hitler that the action would be a propaganda disaster.

Oggi said it documented its revelation of the Nazi project by the testimony of three Germans who are still alive and were in Italy at the time. They are Rudolph Rahn, former German Ambassador to Italy, Eugen Dollmann, one of Himmler's SS unit leaders, and Albrecht von Kessel, war time secretary of the German Embassy to the Holy See.

ACCORDING TO the article, Hitler entrusted details of the plan to seize Pope Pius to Martin Bormann, his vice fuhrer and trusted aide. Bormann in turn devised a tactic labeled "Operation Pontiff." Under it, German troops in Rome were to march into neutral Vatican City at a given signal and capture the Pope Pius XII who was then to have been deported.

The article said that Hitler ordered the plan put into effect a few hours before Mussolini fell on July 26, 1943. The three surviving Germans interviewed told Oggi that Himmler was informed of Hitler's orders by his deputy in Italy and convinced him that the scheme was impossible.

Books Ruled 'Trash' —But Not Obscene

NEW YORK (RNS) — An indictment accusing three firms of possessing pornographic literature for sale was dismissed here by a State Supreme Court justice who ruled that trashy novels "have a place in our society."

Justice J. Erwin Shapiro of Queens said in a 13-page memorandum that though the 25 books involved in the case were "disgusting," they contained no "four-letter" words and "in all their erotic descriptions they maintain a clever and apparently deliberate avoidance of socially unacceptable language."

HE SAID there are people who, "because of lack of education, the meanness of their social existence or mental in sufficiency, cannot cope with anything better.

"Slick paper confessions, pulp adventure and 'comic book' type of magazines provide them with an escape from reality."

The Queens justice said that "in an era of bikinis," and in view of daring motion pictures and lurid newspaper descriptions of vice, "one must legally conclude that these books in the mores of these times do not constitute hardcore pornography."

"Coarse they are," he wrote, "but so is much in our civilization."

Management's Moral Duties Described by Cardinal Siri

NEW YORK (NC) — Persons in managerial positions must not look upon man as a tool for technical progress but should show concern for his moral and intellectual welfare, a Cardinal from Italy said here at the 13th International Management Congress.

"He who manages must not consider himself solely as the author or controller of a technical progress but as a leader and inspirer of men," said Giuseppe Cardinal Siri of Genoa.

"THE FIRST spiritual need of man in the face of modern enterprise," the Cardinal said, "is that of entering into it as much as possible as 'man' and to remain in it with a perspective of gradual development; not to be merely a generator of physical energy but to express himself intellectually and morally in management."

Cardinal Siri said that "the sole preoccupation for technical progress and for an ensuing output is not satisfactory and, in the long run, not just." He added that only "preoccupation for man's total progress is satisfactory."

Court Hearing on Sept. 23 To Decide Prayer Issue

TRENTON — The Hawthorne Board of Education will have to reply to a court order Sept. 23, showing why it should not obey the U.S. Supreme Court ruling banning prayers and Bible reading from its classrooms, or else face a temporary injunction against the practice sought by the New Jersey Department of Education and the state attorney general.

Hawthorne's board has ordered its schools to continue the practices as long as the New Jersey statutes requiring the Bible reading and permitting recitation of the Lord's Prayer remain on the books.

IT IS THE contention of the state, as expressed in its suit, that the Supreme Court decision automatically inval-dated the statutes. The board holds that they remain valid until a New Jersey court makes a ruling or until the legislature repeals them.

The state board of education voted 6-2 to direct compliance with the Supreme Court decision. However, this group's action is not final, as was demonstrated recently in New York when a court upset an integration plan for a New York City school. Thus, the attorney general stepped in to ask for the injunction.

Gov. Richard J. Hughes took the occasion to again state that while he was "disappointed" by the Supreme Court decision, he felt that there should be no change in the First Amendment to the Constitution because it protects even more fundamental civil and religious liberties.

MEANWHILE, in Pennsylvania, one of the states directly involved in the Supreme Court case, 10 school boards were warned by state officials to cease ordering their schools to continue Bible reading in defiance of the court. Administrators under such boards were also advised not to enforce the "illegal regulations."

Even while the order was issued, an 11th district, Chambersburg, voted to continue the practices enjoined by the Supreme Court — reading 10 verses of the Bible and reciting the Lord's Prayer. Another district, New Cumberland, withdrew a Bible-reading order on threat of court action by the American Civil Liberties Union.

However, Pennsylvania Att. Gen. Walter E. Alessandroni said that he regarded enforcement of the ban a federal matter and said that, since state law was not being violated, state subsidies could not be denied to the defiant schools.

The ACLU in New Jersey has demanded that state aid be withdrawn from Hawthorne schools.

Medical Education Aid Bill Reaches President's Desk

WASHINGTON (NC) — President Kennedy has before him for his signature a bill to launch a three-year, $234.4 million program to aid public and private medical education.

The measure (H.R. 12) was sent to the President's desk after approval in the Senate, 71-9. It passed the House last April, 288-122.

THE BILL would help finance, through matching grants, construction of teaching facilities at medical, dental and collegiate nursing schools. It also would start a low-interest loan program for medical students.

The measure stipulates that federal funds cannot be used for the construction of a facility to be used for sectarian instruction or as a place for religious worship.

Of the 86 accredited medical schools, 45 are run by private groups, including six under Catholic auspices. Of the 47 dental schools, 28 are conducted by private groups, including eight by Catholics.

The bill would also extend federal funds for construction by collegiate schools of nursing. The 1963 Official Guide to Catholic Educational Institutions lists 48 Catholic collegiate nursing schools. There are 243 covered by the bill.

THE MEASURE authorizes matching grants totaling $175 million to cover up to two-thirds of the total cost of building classrooms and other teaching facilities at medical and dental schools.

It also authorizes $30.7 million to start a program of loans to students — plus an additional $30.7 million to phase out the program in the second three-year period.

Under pressure from President Kennedy and Senate leaders to adopt the bill as it passed the House, the Senate rejected several amendments, including a 39-37 defeat of a proposal to bar racial discrimination in schools which receive Federal funds.

The issue of aid to church-related institutions did not arise during the brief debate of the bill which was held on the Senate floor.

There's Still Time To Order Advocate

Attention school principals and teachers: There's still time to take advantage of The Advocate's offer to provide bulk subscriptions below cost for supplemental work in school.

Last year more than 1,000 North Jersey Catholic students — on both the high school and grammar school level — were using The Advocate in school work. Many of the schools which participated then are giving us a second whirl because of their success with the program.

UNDER THE PLAN. The Advocate will provide as many copies of the paper as you wish for as long a period as you wish at a cost of 5 cents per copy. The only restrictions are that 10 or more copies must be ordered for four or more weeks.

With the second session of the Vatican Council opening on Sept. 29, you won't want to miss this opportunity to keep your students abreast of events. Call The Advocate (Market 4-0700) and place your order with our circulation department.

North Bergen Board Says 'No' to Church

NORTH BERGEN — The North Bergen Board of Education again turned down the request of Rev. George A. O'Gorman, pastor of Our Lady of Fatima Church, for the use of the Horace Mann School auditorium at a stormy meeting here Sept. 12.

With one member absent, the board voted 2-2 on a resolution to grant Father O'Gorman the use of the auditorium from Nov. 1, 1963, to June 30, 1964. The tie vote constituted a refusal.

OUR LADY of Fatima parish was created last June and extends from 72nd St. to the Bergen County line. Horace Mann School is located at almost the geographical center of the parish and its auditorium is twice as large as the present Sunday Mass site, North Bergen Gardens, in the extreme southeast corner of the parish.

Father O'Gorman had first requested use of the school a few weeks after being appointed pastor, but did not hear from the board until last week when he was notified by mail that it had voted 3-2, at a private meeting, to turn down his bid.

THE PRIEST then notified the board that he would be present at its Sept. 12 meeting with a group of parishioners to ask why the action had been taken without public hearing. Some 150 people attended the meeting, almost all of them strongly opposed to the board's action.

After a two-hour closed caucus, the board voted on the resolution with chairman Joseph McKeon and Joseph Tighe voting yes and Arthur Bigler and Dr. Concetta Mango voting no. The fifth member, Dr. Sidney Woltz, was ill.

PROTESTS of the spectators, including former mayor Charles Weaver and Fairview superintendent of schools John E. Cullum, eventually led to a suggestion by McKeon that a private meeting be held with Father O'Gorman and his architect, Charles Kenny, Sept. 17 to discuss the plans for the building of the new parish church.

Challenged by the spectators to give reasons for their negative votes, Dr. Mango said that the period of eight months was too long and Bigler said it was not an emergency situation.

The North Bergen board of education is appointed rather than elected. Its action is contrary to the pattern normally followed in this state of allowing new parishes, Catholic or Protestant, to rent school auditoriums for periods which usually run through an entire school year and sometimes longer.

News of Education

Major Test for Public Aid to Colleges

WASHINGTON (NC) — A public education organization has launched what it hopes will be a major test case challenging the constitutionality of public aid to church-related schools.

The Horace Mann League kicked off its effort by holding a press conference here and simultaneously filing suit in a circuit court in Annapolis, Md., against four state laws granting $2.5 million in construction funds to four church-related colleges.

A spokesman said the Mann League plans to carry the case to the U.S. Supreme Court.

TARGET OF the league's drive are laws enacted in 1962 and 1963 by the Maryland General Assembly. They give matching grants to Hood College, Frederick Western Maryland College, Westminster, the College of Notre Dame, Baltimore, and St. Joseph's College, Emmitsburg. None of the money has actually been spent yet.

Under the laws, Notre Dame and St. Joseph's, both Catholic schools, were to get $750,000 each for new science buildings, while $500,000 each was earmarked for Hood (United Church of Christ) and Western Maryland (Methodist).

The Mann League suit alleges that public aid to the four schools is unconstitutional because of their religious affiliation. It charges violation of both the Maryland and U.S. Constitutions.

LEO PFEFFER, a constitutional lawyer known for his support of rigid Church-State separation, is chief attorney for the league in the suit. Other members of the league's constitutional law committee taking part in the conference included Edgar Fuller, the chairman, John L. Buford, the league's president, who is school superintendent in Mt. Vernon, Ill., and Willard E. Givens, education director for the Scottish Rite Masons.

Fuller described the Mann League as an invitation-only organization of "several hundred" members, most of them public school educators, devoted to the ideals of public education pioneer Horace Mann.

Turned Away

ST. LOUIS (NC) — About 5,000 youngsters were turned away from Catholic schools in the St. Louis Archdiocese this fall. They will take their religious instruction in the newly organized "Parish Schools of Religion," which operate on weekends and are taught by trained laymen.

The archdiocese has put into effect a strict "holding" policy

Parochial Aid Opposed in Poll

WASHINGTON (NC) — Pollster Lou Harris said here a survey by his firm on whether federal aid should go to parochial schools showed 54% opposed, 33% in favor and 13% undecided. His report appeared in the Washington Post Sept. 9.

The Harris poll is in contrast to a February Gallup poll which showed a majority of persons favoring federal aid to parochial and other private schools.

Bus Rides Halted

LAKE CHARLES, La. (NC) — The Calcasieu civil parish (county) school board has refused to grant bus transportation for parochial school pupils in one ward and voted to end it in two other wards after the current school year.

Prior to the action, the (POAU) held a public meeting in opposition to the bus transport.

CCD Recommends Doctrine Courses

NEWARK — A series of advanced courses for confraternity of Christian Doctrine teachers has been announced by Msgr. Roger A. Reynolds, archdiocese director.

Seven courses will be given at various sites throughout the archdiocese. Some are individual parish lecture series and two are being sponsored directly by the CCD. They are recommended for teachers who have their CCD certificates.

THE CCD courses are "The Bible Today," which opens Sept. 24 and continues for five Tuesdays at St. Joseph's Boys School, Oradell, given by Rev. James C. Turro of Immaculate Conception Seminary, and "The Liturgy and the Mass," being given at Seton Hall University, South Orange, by Msgr. John Mahon of St. John's, Newark, for five Wednesdays beginning Sept. 25.

The first of the parish lecture series open Sept. 19 at Mt. Carmel, Bayonne. Rev. John Olaszewski will speak 10 weeks on "Theology for Today," while at St. Rose of Lima, Newark, Msgr. Henry

G.J. Beck of Immaculate Conception Seminary will speak for eight weeks on "Church History Through the Ecumenical Councils."

On Sept. 20, at Mt. Carmel, Rev. Eugene Casper will begin a series on "Guide to the Bible," while on Oct. 1, Rev. Frank J. Nead of Seton Hall University will lecture on "Christian Passover." The final series begins Nov. 3 at St. Thomas School, Bloomfield, where two lectures will be given for each of five Sundays by Rev. John H. Koening of Immaculate Conception Seminary on "The Liturgy" and by Rev. William Keller of Seton Hall University on "Church History through Comparative Religion."

Further information on the series sponsored by the CCD can be obtained by contacting Msgr. Reynolds at the Chancery Office.

Ohio Ruling Perils Bus Ride Practices

COLUMBUS (NC) — The Ohio Attorney General has ruled that local public school boards lack the power to give parochial school pupils transportation on tax-paid school buses.

William B. Saxbe held that action by the Ohio Legislature is necessary before such transportation may be arranged.

HE ISSUED his opinion at the request of James W. Foreman, prosecuting attorney of Medina county. The Medina School Board voted in mid-August to provide bus transportation for 114 pupils of St. Francis Xavier School there.

The only previous ruling on the issue by an Ohio attorney general came in 1927. That opinion held that providing tax-paid bus rides for parochial school pupils would be illegal.

However, many local school boards apparently regarded the 1927 opinion as purely advisory and have provided bus rides for parochial pupils.

In Medina, the parochial pupils are transported from their homes to a public school about a half mile from the Catholic school. The children walk from the public school to their own.

Albin Gattas, superintendent of public schools, said the pupils will continue to be transported until he receives formal instructions from the school board to discontinue the arrangement.

Late Vocations Seminary Has Variety of Applicants

BOSTON (NC) — A former Anglican minister is among students enrolled for the new $4 million seminary for delayed vocations being built in nearby Weston to open in September, 1964.

Other students in the initial class will include two physicians, a superintendent of schools, a chemical engineer, a high school headmaster and a high school teacher, according to Msgr. George A. Schlichte, director of the seminary.

Planned by Richard Cardinal Cushing of Boston, the seminary will serve on a nationwide basis men who have advanced beyond the usual age of seminarians and believe they have a late vocation. The seminary will be named in honor of the late

A Matter of Survival

Schools have reopened throughout the nation. The Catholic Church in America finds herself educating over six million children. This is being done through the generosity of American Catholics who, recognizing their parental rights in education, are willing to make a great economic sacrifice.

MANY FOREIGNERS who come to America are astounded at the Catholic educational system and they become more confounded when they discover that this is being done without governmental aid. No greater compliment could be paid to Catholic parents.

However, warning signs are appearing on the Catholic educational horizon. How long will our Catholic parents be able to meet this educational burden? How much longer will the Church be able to expand her educational program? With increasing Catholic population and the proportionate decrease in religious vocations, will we be able to continue to expand, much less maintain, our present educational system?

The government turns a deaf ear to

The Drop-Out Season

The reopening of elementary and secondary schools across the nation marked the start of the "drop-out season." The frightening record of the past few years shows that nearly one-third of those who drop out of high school do so in the first six weeks of the first term, and thereby not only doom themselves to the bleakest type of employment, but also create an explosive economic-social problem for all of us.

MANY DROP-OUTS cannot obtain the few poor jobs that are available to the unskilled. Some of these unfortunate cannot even write, spell properly or do simple arithmetic. Those who do get some sort of employment are often victimized by heartless employers who look upon them as so many "hands." In effect, they live and work under conditions amounting almost to peonage.

Many of these young people, although basically they have only themselves to blame, would not have taken such a step if they had been warned beforehand of the almost complete finality of the consequences. This is an area of public need to which modern media of publicity can and should be applied with great force and benefit.

Our Diplomatic Fiasco

On July 21, 1954, at a conference table in Geneva, Vietnam was cut in half. It was the U. S., though not a party to this division, that set up the present Diem government in South Vietnam as an anti-communist bulwark. Now U. S. policy in Vietnam is so tangled up, confused, and baffling that we wonder if Capitol Hill knows what it is all about.

WE PLEDGED not to interfere in the internal government of South Vietnam. But the American Central Intelligence Agency which helped set up the present government is now accused of plotting a coup to overthrow the government. President Kennedy's television broadcast added fat to the fire when he said, "changes in policy and personnel" might benefit the country.

We are still ranting about an alleged persecution of Buddhists which has since proved to be phony. We committed an incredible blunder in allowing the Voice of America to broadcast a message to Vietnam inviting the army to take control of the government and we looked stupid when the invitation was spurned in anger.

The U. S. State Department is well aware that communists are active in Buddhist organizations throughout Asia. In Ceylon, Burma, Thailand, the Buddhists are openly supporting the Reds. In South Vietnam we are giving generous aid to the Diem regime to win the war against the communists; that is our policy, yet we blast the government for not conciliating with the Reds.

Believing Christ Or Destroying Him

By FRANK J. SHEED

Not having much idea of what God in Himself is, scribes and Pharisees concentrated upon the commands God had given men and men's duty to obey them. And as the centuries went by, this meant more and more regulations upon ritual and ceremonial generally.

In origin, rules of this sort were necessary, and in the best of the Pharisees these rules could operate nobly for asceticism.

But it seems that in the time of Our Lord ritual had become for too many Pharisees almost an end in itself.

THERE WAS another danger. Israel was unique among peoples, the Pharisees were unique in Israel. Only heroic humility can bear its own uniqueness; and in any religion heroic humility tends to be the virtue of a minority. In too many Pharisees a misunderstanding of the nature of Israel's uniqueness led to a contempt of the Gentile.

Had the Carpenter of Nazareth merely neglected to observe the rituals, merely failed to make due study or been charitable about Him, or at worst perhaps mildly contemptuous.

But He affronted their most cherished convictions on such matters as washing, eating, fasting, avoiding contact with sinners and the ritually unclean, rigorously observing the Sabbath. He made it clear in the face of the world that He regarded much of what they held dear as a barrier to religion.

Even Pharisees who fully realized that the rituals were only secondary, still saw them as willed by God.

the warnings of the Church and Catholic parents about the impending crisis in Catholic education. Could we not pose the questions: How long will our Catholic schools be able to survive with the rising cost of modern education? How long will our government ignore what can be an impending crisis in education in America?

WARNING SIGNS are evident everywhere. Already, five dioceses have announced violent changes in their educational patterns. Spiraling living costs are necessarily affecting contributions to our educational system. Large families found amongst Catholics have brought about diminishing contributions to school endeavors.

But perhaps the greatest crisis is our educational system's need for lay teachers. They have become the backbone of our system.

Not receiving salaries commensurate with their public school counterparts, but carrying on in a spirit of dedication, these devoted men and women are the stalwarts of Catholic education.

How long can we survive?

Through these media, parents, interested adults and the young people themselves, can be made to realize that the economic future of the drop-out is dismal. The "pot of gold," the jobs and the money just do not exist. It is important, it is vital, that this terrible truth be driven home to our young people.

THESE FIRST few weeks of the fall term is the time when crash publicity programs to encourage our youngsters to stay in school should get into high gear. In New York City, crash programs are going on, other programs are being accelerated and they are having an impact. In the last two years the annual drop-out rate has declined 2%, against a national average decline of 1%. The New York program consists of intensive radio and TV promotion and personal counselling to potential drop-outs based on the strong economic theme: "the more you learn, the more you earn."

It is to be hoped that similar programs will spread across the country. For the tragedy of the drop-out is not only the loss of earning power and money — it is the loss of human resources and human dignity. The human race is the ultimate loser.

The repressive measures of the government, which no one condones, might not have been necessary if the U. S. had not shown such sympathy with the outcries of Buddhist extremists. As tools and dupes of Chinese communists, they were emboldened by us. Washington must have known that many South Vietnam Buddhists attended a communist congress in North Vietnam last year.

AFTER WORLD WAR II we made the colossal error in China of pulling back aid to Chiang Kai-shek and thus abandoned the country to the communists. Now Congress wants the same thing done in South Vietnam. Washington is also prodding for a coalition government to replace the Diem regime. This is just what the communists want. We left Laos to the mercies of a communist-dominated coalition. Are we to repeat the same mistake? Capitol Hill doesn't seem to learn even from history.

The top anti-government leader, Buddhist monk Thich Tri Quang, now enjoying an air-conditioned refuge in the U. S. Embassy in Saigon, said of us: "I believe the Americans have good intentions, but sometimes they are stupid." The Reds and the Buddhist Pinks think we are stupid. Admit it or not, the fact remains that our score for diplomacy so far is zero. Perhaps if Washington would just keep quiet for a while and let our experienced ambassador, Henry Cabot Lodge, engage in some quiet diplomacy, the situation would not look so hopeless.

Secondly, von Kuehnelt-Leddihn's statements about equitable distribution of national income find little, if any, support in any social encyclical and none at all, of course, in Mater et Magistra. Here is what the latter document has to say:

"Our heart is filled with profound sadness when we observe, as it were, with our own eyes a wretched spectacle indeed — great masses of workers who, in not a few nations, and even in whole continents, receive too small a return from their labor. Hence, they and their families must live in conditions completely out of accord with human dignity. This can be traced, for example, to the fact that in these regions modern industrial techniques either have only recently been introduced or have made less than satisfactory progress.

"IT HAPPENS in some of these nations that, as compared with the extreme need of the majority, the wealth and conspicuous consumption of a few stand out, and are in open and bold contrast with the lot of the needy. It happens in other places that excessive burdens are placed upon men in order that the commonwealth may achieve within a brief span, an increase of wealth such as can by no means be achieved without violating the laws of justice and equity. Finally, it happens

Have Social Encyclicals Lost Some Meaning?

By MSGR. GEORGE G. HIGGINS
Director, Social Action Dept., NCWC

In an article in Extension magazine, Erik von Kuehnelt-Leddihn reopened the old question as to whether or not the social encyclicals of the Popes apply any longer to Western Europe and other highly developed areas of the world.

He points out initially that "encyclicals dealing with non-ecclesiastical problems are almost always couched in general terms" and "are commonly addressed to the world at large and not to any area, social layer, or organization."

He reaches the equally self-evident conclusion that the application of the principles outlined in any given encyclical calls for the combined skills of the moralist, the sociologist and the economist, and will necessarily vary from one nation or region to another. So far so good.

BUT IF von Kuehnelt-Leddihn's introductory points are well taken, his substantive conclusions are open to serious question. He seems to be saying that the social encyclicals really don't apply any longer to Western Europe and other highly developed areas of the world, even to Latin America and other so-called underdeveloped regions.

The implied premise for this sweeping conclusion is that the social encyclicals are concerned almost exclusively with the distribution of national income. Von Kuehnelt-Leddihn argues that national income is being equitably distributed at the present time almost everywhere in the world. Logically, then, it follows — or so he seems to argue — that the social encyclicals no longer apply even in the so-called underdeveloped nations.

THIS STRIKES ME as an invalid line of reasoning. First of all, it is not accurate to say or to leave the impression that the social encyclicals are concerned almost exclusively with the distribution of national income and the exploitation of workers.

Secondly, von Kuehnelt-Leddihn's statements about equitable distribution of national income find little, if any, support in any social encyclical and none at all, of course, in Mater et Magistra. Here is what the latter document has to say:

"Our heart is filled with profound sadness when we observe, as it were, with our own eyes a wretched spectacle indeed — great masses of workers who, in not a few nations, and even in whole continents, receive too small a return from their labor. Hence, they and their families must live in conditions completely out of accord with human dignity. This can be traced, for example, to the fact that in these regions modern industrial techniques either have only recently been introduced or have made less than satisfactory progress.

For Vocations

Members of the Apostolate for Vocations can gain a plenary indulgence under the ordinary conditions on:

Sept. 21 — Feast of St. Matthew

Once a week for reciting daily, with piety, any prayer for vocations approved by the ecclesiastical authority.

A partial indulgence of 300 days can be gained for each act of charity or piety performed for the intention of fostering vocations to the priesthood.

elsewhere that a disproportionate share of the revenue goes toward the building up of national prestige, and that large sums of money are devoted to armaments.

Moreover, in the economically developed countries, it frequently happens that great, or sometimes very great, remuneration is had for the performance of some task of lesser importance or doubtful utility.

Even if it were true to say, then, that the encyclicals are concerned almost exclusively with the distribution of national income, one would have to conclude that they still apply — in varying degrees, of course — not only to Western Europe, the U.S., the Scandinavian countries and other highly developed regions of the world but also to those regions in which "modern industrial techniques either have only recently been introduced or have made less than satisfactory progress."

End of Debate On Fr. Kueng

By JOSEPH R. THOMAS
Managing Editor

Well, maybe it wasn't the same as being at the Vatican Council. But the debate between Msgr. Shea and some of our readers regarding the theories of Father Hans Kueng was about as close to participation in the council as we're going to get.

However, we're going to exercise the same prerogative as did Pope John when he cut off discussion on the sources of revelation. Msgr. Shea ended his presentation last week and after this issue of The Advocate we are not going to publish any additional letters on the subject—barring comment from Father Kueng himself.

MOST OF WHAT can be said has been said, and continued debate would probably prove repetitious. We've already had some letters indicating that the discussion was starting to wear thin. Further, reader reaction has been such that during the last couple of months we've had to sidetrack comment on some other issues.

This is not to say we did not welcome the discussion. However, it has served its purpose. For those who favor Father Kueng's views, Msgr. Shea's articles should help them buttress the weaknesses that were exposed. Those who agree more with Msgr. Shea at least had an opportunity to note the impact Father Kueng's views have had. And those who were on the theological fence had the chance to gain a deeper insight into the arguments used by both sides. If at times the discussion veered off into such irrelevant issues as rhetorical limitations in theological debate, it still managed to be instructive and even entertaining. Who said a good Catholic newspaper has to be dull?

For example, the father of firms that the Pope is Vicar of Christ while the mother says that the Roman Bishop is in error, the father affirms the Real Presence of Christ in the Eucharist while the mother resists adoration of the consecrated bread as idolatry. Obviously the religious education of children is imperiled.

But the Church insists that all these children have been baptized unto eternal life in her bosom, are truly her members and have a right to the pure and integral Gospel of Christ. In fact, it is the Church's duty to protect her children from false and contradictory instructions.

The Question Box

Reasoning Behind Marriage Laws

This week we continue our discussion of the pros and cons of the Church's laws on mixed marriage.

Last week we outlined the Catholic-Protestant case against retaining our present legislation on mixed marriages. The crux of the question, we saw, is whether the requisite of "canonical form" (namely, that a Catholic can marry validly only in the presence of a duly authorized priest) should be abolished altogether, or at least mitigated.

Now let's hear the other side of the story. There are many theologians who insist that the present law is a necessary one; it merely spells out in practical detail the divine law obligations already incumbent on those who contract marriage with a non-Catholic. The reasons alleged in favor of retaining the law are:

(1) The necessity of protecting the faith of the Catholic partner. There is no more effective way of precluding dangers to the faith of the Catholic partner than the promises made by the non-Catholic fiancée — and promises in writing can best achieve the desired clarity and firmness. But this written "protection" hinges on the canonical form which is the only way the Church can ascertain all cases without exception, for the simple reason that, without it, there is no valid marriage. By abolishing the obligatory form, it is argued, the Church would default in her duty to protect the true faith.

Theologians of this persuasion note that the promise to respect the Catholic conscience means much more than simply tolerating Catholic worship at home and in church. It means, at least in practical day-to-day living, the submission of the non-Catholic spouse to the Catholic Church on many crucial matters: the unity and indissolubility of marriage, conjugal chastity, birth control, etc. These are serious and life-long obligations assumed by the non-Catholic; their fulfillment must be certified in advance, the universally binding form is the only practical way for the Church to provide this protection for the Catholic party.

(2) The Church's duty to protect the faith of her children. Divine law itself imposes the obligation to raise all children of a mixed marriage in the Catholic religion. The present system of promises and form eminently helps the fulfillment of this obligation.

A mixed marriage, it is argued, suffers a radical defect: There is community of life but diversity of faith. This defect leads to grave problems in the religious education of children. If the father and mother are not united in faith and each insists on the parental right to religious education, the child will receive conflicting instructions.

For example the father affirms that the Pope is Vicar of Christ while the mother says that the Roman Bishop is in error, the father affirms the Real Presence of Christ in the Eucharist while the mother resists adoration of the consecrated bread as idolatry. Obviously the religious education of children is imperiled.

But the Church insists that all these children have been baptized unto eternal life in her bosom, are truly her members and have a right to the pure and integral Gospel of Christ. In fact, it is the Church's duty to protect her children from false and contradictory instructions.

matters of faith, hope and charity. No one can serve two masters, especially if they contradict one another.

In the education of children, therefore, a mixed marriage necessarily results in a conflict of rights: the Catholic spouse and children on the one hand, the non-Catholic spouse on the other. The Church has no choice but to decide in favor of those persons whose rights are founded in objective truth. She regrets the appearance of intolerance, but her love of truth and her children must prevail.

The canonical form with the solemn promises is the only practical way for the Church to discharge her solemn duty in this regard.

(3) Special pastoral advantages. The present formalities on mixed marriages, it is said, greatly aid the pastor in establishing lasting ties with the couple, and in instructing the partners as well as demonstrating the goodness of the Church towards both parties.

(4) The necessity of certitude of a valid union. Without canonical form how can the existence of a true and valid marriage be known to the Church? And, if the mixed marriage can be validly contracted outside the Church, what form (Protestant? civil? natural?) would be required?

The point of this argument is that no other form is sufficiently certain, public and documented to ensure the proper intention in the couple contracting marriage. Further, future judgments on marriage cases and claims of nullity become impossible or hopelessly complicated if the form of contract is not controlled by the Church.

For example if the civil law permits divorce, who is to say that the parties using the civil form did not allow for eventual divorce? If they did in fact, exclude the essential property of indissolubility, the marriage was not valid. The present canonical form, therefore, avoids the difficulties and multiplication of processes of nullity, and protects, rather than inhibits, the parties.

Next week we will evaluate the issue and express our personal views.

Report From Honduras

Latins Realize 'Newark Is Here...'

NEWARK—It was after an evening trip over a sharply curved dirt road, and a night spent in a small room in a church that Rev. John P. Egan arose to the noise of fireworks to prepare for his first Sunday Mass in the Republic of Honduras.

The men of the village clustered around the altar during the sacrifice and a dog watched undisturbed from the center aisle, Father Egan wrote. The fireworks, he explained, were set off by the sacristan at 6 a.m. to arouse the people for the Mass which finally began at 7:15 a.m. "The church was almost full (about 100 people)" he reported, "but only nine people received Communion."

FATHER EGAN, lately of St. Francis de Sales parish, Lodi, is the newest priest to be assigned to the mission of the Archdiocese of Newark in Tegucigalpa, Honduras, and its outlying areas. He joins Rev. Vincent J. Presteria, the superior, and Rev. Frederick M. Eid, to minister to at least 50,000 people in the city parish of Holy Family in the impoverished Belen section, along with a dozen village missions.

A priest from Kentucky, Rev. Charles M. Garvey, who visited with them recently, reports that they have made great impact on the area since their arrival last February — celebrating Masses as regularly as possible in the outlying areas of the parish, establishing a catechetical school, organizing the men into community action groups, laying plans for adult education via radio and for cooperatives, and demonstrating leadership in religious and socio-economic organizations and movements.

"Latin America knows that Newark is here," reports Father Garvey, "and the people are all learning of Archbishop Boland's interest in Catholicism south of the border."

"MY FIRST SUNDAY in Honduras was a day of wonderful experiences," Newark's Father Egan wrote. He told of reaching the village of Zambrana at 8 p.m. on Saturday after a 35-mile mountain drive from the rectory in the company of the Honduras mission's lay assistant, Paul Morrissey.

"The people were glad to see us," he wrote. "The children laughed when I tried to pronounce their names. The children are very lovable. So are all the villagers. They have a simplicity which must please God an awful lot..."

"When we got to the village the bell of the church rang out over the countryside. I heard confessions and we said the rosary."

AFTER MASS the next morning the people gathered around the car to see Father Egan and Morrissey off to the next village — San Francisco, seven miles away, over a rock-strewn road.

"Again the people were glad to see us and again the bell rang over the countryside," he wrote. "When the doors of the church were opened two calves peeked their heads in the door; they were as curious as the people, who keep looking and looking at the priest..." Father Egan explained that the visit of a priest is a new experience for these people. "I love the people of San Francisco," he added, "again, because of their simplicity and childlike-ness."

After Mass Father Egan and Morrissey breakfasted on coffee and homemade bread ("real good") in the home of the sacristan. "After breakfast we baptized two baby boys, Carlos Herminio and Gustavo Daniel. Also we blessed holy water (in the presence of) many people," he recalled.

They departed to a chorus of "adios" and returned to Tegucigalpa, where the day closed with an evening

Mass. Frankly impressed with his new assignment, Father Egan commented, "Could you think of a day better spent?"

FATHER GARVEY reported on some of the inconveniences endured by Newark's missionaries — "the inevitable penetrating fleas, the chairless factory in which they hold meetings with the people, the perilous climb up the side of the mountain to visit parishioners."

He pointed out that their apostolate is a complex one which involves them first of all in uniting the people in a common effort. In Tegucigalpa, he explained, "The priests have conceived the idea of forming a society of caballeros who will work for their own spiritual formation and for the social and economic betterment of the community. They meet to plan such projects as getting light, water, latrines, titles to property, schools for the children..."

"As they grow accustomed to working together, their projects will grow more sophisticated, developing cooperatives, work projects and consumer stores," he pointed out.

"By a slow process the material level of the community must be raised," he explained, "and Christian values will take on more meaning. At the present time the Wednesday night community meetings are much better attended than Sunday Mass..."

A SIMILAR project, Father Garvey reports, is the radio schools being organized by Morrissey for the people of the villages. He is currently visiting the villages, selecting and training teachers, stirring up interest in learning by radio.

Trained in the cooperative movement at St. Francis Xavier University of Antigonish, Nova Scotia, Morrissey sees the radio schools "as a unifying device from which to begin economy boosting cooperatives in each of the villages," Father Garvey noted.

Describing the religious education program, Father Garvey said, "There are 8 or 10 small centers in private houses and buildings in Belen itself. Every Saturday and Sunday they are bulging with children, 5 to 7 years old, who receive simple instruction for about an hour. The teachers are enthusiastic high school girls who receive spiritual formation from Father Eid and educational guidance from a lively Honduran Oblate."

THE RECTORY of the Newark priests in Tegucigalpa has begun "a part of call for most of the important people who come through Honduras," Father Garvey noted. He explained that Father Presteria has made two trips through Latin America, establishing contacts with leaders in "Christian revolutionary movements" such as the Christian Democratic Party, the Christian Labor Movement and the Christian League of Campeones.

"The problem now," Father Garvey said, "is to bring local leaders of economic and social movements in Honduras into contact with the larger organizations and to involvement in Newark's mission territory. As a result, when you sit down at the table in the rectory, you may find yourself talking to a revolutionary leader who is swaying between Castro and John XXIII, or a sprightly priest who organized Honduras' radio schools, or a Catholic Actionist from Chile, or a priest specializing in co-ops."

"Much is accomplished over coffee."

Father Garvey commented: "I must congratulate Archbishop Boland and the good people of Newark for sending this dynamic unit into Honduras. I am sure the country will not be able to withstand the vigor of this new attack launched by Christianity for the souls of the children of God."

Youths Gave A Summer Of Service

NEWARK — The U.S. effort to change its image in Latin America was aided considerably this summer by the "people-to-people" help given by some North Jersey youths.

Twenty-three volunteers members of the Young Christian Workers from St. Paul's, Ramsey, and 13 Notre Dame students including one from Westfield spent the summer with the people of El Salvador and Mexico, respectively, sharing their diet of rice and beans and hard work.

It was hard for the Latin Americans to recognize in these youths the old stereotype of the U.S. as a too wealthy, arrogant and unsympathetic neighbor to the north. The YCW, under the direction of Catholic Relief Services-NCWC, sent their group to El Salvador to help the people by establishing medical dispensaries, schools and missions. They built homes and distributed food and clothing to the poor in the barrios of San Salvador, the capital of El Salvador.

And in the mountains of Mexico, George Keenan of Westfield and 12 other Notre Dame students spent the summer tearing down and rebuilding the wretched hovels of the people of Tacambara under auspices of the Council for the International Lay Apostolate.

THE YCW YOUTHS traveled by bus and plane to El Salvador at their own expense. The group included teachers, nurses, technicians and students — all willing workers. They trained successors to carry on after they left.

"It was a tremendous and enjoyable experience," they said on their return. Rev. Edward Cooke, their chaplain who spent two weeks in El Salvador with them, said the most important fact was that they went "as Catholics" not just as U.S. citizens. "The Peace Corps was there for the U.S. . . . but we were Catholics, and that was the first thing we told the people."

Joseph Leto, coordinator of the group, reported that while they were in El Salvador they had the rare and satisfying experience to live with all stations of the society. He said, "At first we were shocked at the poverty, but then we grew used to it, the more of it we saw..."

"The country is almost too poor to believe," said one of the girls who worked in the three permanent medical stations the group set up.

"It is a beautiful land, on top, but underneath it is a poor country. It was wonderful to be able to go down there and see the food and clothing that we helped collect for the Catholic Relief

POVERTY — The YCW found El Salvador's people living in wretched hovels like this one, shared their impoverished existence this summer.

Services being distributed, and what is more important, they used and appreciated," Father Cooke said.

THE "PEOPLE-TO-PEOPLE" nature of the project was stressed by all the YCW volunteers. "We learned a great deal from them," one girl commented. And they even had the help of some of San Salvador's rich in their projects. One of the wealthiest women in the country, they reported, spent days in the infirmary sharpening hypodermic needles.

"We taught them language, religion, distributed food, worked in schools and hospitals and taught hygienics," one girl noted. "Some of them were afraid to wash their own babies."

KEENAN AND his Notre Dame colleagues, who were accompanied by a priest on their summer jaunt, taught English and religion to the people of Tacambara, in addition to constructing buildings for them.

Keenan recalled that Tacambara is built 10,000 feet up on the side of a mountain in the Sierra Nevada chain, commanding a beautiful view of a vast valley. But even the scenic beauty cannot obscure the wretched living conditions.

So poor was the construction of one house, he reports, that "it took only five minutes to tear it down."

Both groups consider what they did last summer as a beginning toward solution of the problems of an impoverished people. Both the YCW and the CILA plan to continue the work next year.

But Who Discovered Columbus Day?

NCWC News Service

Any fifth grader can come up with the answer to the question of who discovered America. But answers are few when the question is who discovered Columbus Day.

The Christian Brothers of St. Mary's College, Calif., claim that Angelo Noce, who was a member of the college's first class 100 years ago, is the "father of Columbus Day."

TODAY IT'S easier to name the jurisdictions which do not celebrate Oct. 12 as a legal holiday than those which do. The do nots are Alaska, Hawaii, Idaho, Maine, Mississippi, New Mexico, North Carolina, Oklahoma, South Carolina, South Dakota, Tennessee, Virginia, Wyoming and the District of Columbia.

In Alabama, the date is celebrated as Fraternal Day. In Indiana and North Dakota they call it Discovery Day. In Wisconsin it's Landing Day, while in Arkansas, Iowa and Oregon it's commemorated as a memorial day.

After his graduation from St. Mary's which then was located in San Francisco, Noce pushed on to Denver where he became a journalist and printer.

In 1905, after completing a lot of spade work, he succeeded in having a bill introduced in the Colorado Legislature making Columbus Day a legal holiday. The measure was passed in 1907 and Colorado had the distinction of being the first state to celebrate Columbus Day legally.

NOCE, 80 the story goes had become a (Christopher Columbus buff quite naturally. Both were born in Genoa, Italy — quite a few years apart.

Noce had maintained a great interest in the famous explorer ever since his boyhood when he was a flag bearer in a parade honoring Columbus.

After his success with the Columbus Day idea in Colorado, Noce pushed on to Montana, then to other neighboring states, beating the drums for legislation recognizing Columbus Day as a legal holiday.

When he died in 1922 Columbus Day was observed as a legal holiday in some 35 states.

Noce is buried in Jackson, Calif., where his family settled after making the trip to America some 350 years after the celebrated Columbus voyage.

Center for Visitors

A Pilgrim to Rome Stayed On . . .

ROME (RNS) — An American came to Rome as a pilgrim in 1950. Now a permanent resident, he spends much of his time making the visits of hundreds of tourists more enjoyable because of a conviction that all should get the most out of a visit to the Eternal City.

Vince McAloon, a native of Pawtucket, R.I., and a 1934 graduate of Notre Dame University, as director of the Notre Dame hospitality center, extends to visitors this invitation: "When in Rome, take advantage of our hospitality."

THE NOTRE Dame hospitality center, situated in the heart of Rome, midway between St. John Lateran and St. Mary Major, is located in a palatial building in the basement of a palace.

The 300-room palace at Largo Brancaccio 82 was built in 1870 by Marshall Field Sr., of Chicago, whose sister married Prince Brancaccio.

The site of the center itself was formerly just a space under one of the many beautiful staircases in the regal residence. Today, it consists of a cozy sitting room with plenty of comfortable chairs where guests are welcomed with "ecumenical punch" and McAloon's office "wallpapered" with newspaper clippings, snapshots (including one of him and other Notre Dame alumni presenting a car to Pope John), copies of letters, pennants and post-cards.

WHITE-HAIRED stocky McAloon is a teacher and public relations director at the Notre Dame International School for Boys. The rest of his time is spent at the center.

Stationed here during World War II, he got the "remote" idea for such a center when he served as a soldier guide for GI's coming into Rome. In 1949 when the announcement came that the following year was designated as a Holy Year, he decided to go back to Rome.

"I decided to go not as a tourist, but as a pilgrim. And like a pilgrim, I walked to Rome," he said, "to gain the spiritual benefits and prove that there is no break in the European's memory of a pilgrim."

He started his pilgrimage in Lisbon. It was some 900 miles from Rome, he estimated. "I took no money and arrived in Rome without spending a cent," he recalls. He knocked on the doors of farm houses, monasteries, institutions and rectories to beg for "bed and bread."

During the Holy Year Vince McAloon "was convinced of the need for a dozen places for the rank and file visitor which could serve as home away home." Working with the USO that year, he put "his hospitality idea into practice." Then he convinced the local University of Notre Dame alumni club of the worthiness of the service project. They've been involved since 1950.

THE BIGGEST number of queries at the center deal with papal audiences, he said. Many ask help in their attempt to find people in the area, relatives with whom they need a translator and especially the "nebulous Sister Mary" who came to study in Rome from their home town.

Recently a woman from Kansas who was traveling to Europe as a nurse for an American high school brass band, wrote she would have a free half day to spend in Rome between the band's engagements in Milan and Genoa. "We were able to set up a nice 'bug in a rug' schedule and upon her arrival set in motion the process for procuring a ticket to see the Holy Father during a general audience," McAloon said.

And of course, Americans, being Americans, want to know where they can get a "decent American meal or a real cup of coffee."

The hospitality center is completely supported by voluntary contributions. The director is assisted by about 15 volunteers, priests, Religious and students in Rome, who staff the center which "is open every day, all day until late."

A number of Notre Dame Alumni also help.

Reinstate Priest At Maryknoll

MARYKNOLL, N. Y. (NC) — Rev. Felix McGowan, M.M., priest associated with American students who visited Cuba without authorization and who was suspended by his superiors, has returned to Maryknoll and declared his willingness to follow instructions of religious superiors.

Maryknoll announced Father McGowan will make his annual spiritual retreat and then will be given new assignment.

ON SEPT. 17, a few days after the suspension was announced, it was indicated that Father McGowan agreed to refrain from speaking about Cuba and would return to the society.

A statement from Maryknoll apparently set the stage for his return. "It is understood," the statement said, "that Father McGowan regrets the publicity that has been raised in the last few days and that he wishes to return. If Father McGowan comes up to Maryknoll headquarters and speaks to his superiors and if his attitude is correct his superiors will do all that is possible to help him return."

Mission Data Center Planned

ESSEN, Germany (NC) — Key mission experts from five continents met here to lay the groundwork for a world center for the collection and exchange of data.

The new organization is to be known as Pro mundi vita, with an initial information center at Tilburg, the Netherlands.

Purpose of the center is to provide Catholic organizations with information on areas where the Catholic Church's development is dependent on foreign aid.

The five couples who will recite the pledge are Mr. and Mrs. Hubert Campfens of Toronto, Can., who will work with Catholic Charities in Paterson for the next six months while taking additional training at AID headquarters; Mr. and Mrs. Larry Dodge of St. Paul, Minn., who will remain here indefinitely as Dodge joins the AID staff;

Mr. and Mrs. John Hobenstein of Philadelphia, who are leaving next month for Cochabamba, Bolivia, and Mr. and Mrs. Robert Caswell of Detroit, and Mr. and Mrs. John Sullivan of Buffalo, who will leave next month for Rio de Janeiro.

AID is an organization of Catholics dedicated to assisting underdeveloped nations.

Israel Apologizes For Mission Riots

JERUSALEM, Israel (NC) — The leaders of Israel's Latin and Melkite Rite Catholic communities have expressed their satisfaction with the Israeli government's prompt denunciation of attacks on Christian mission schools by ultra-Orthodox Jews.

More than 100 youthful fanatics were arrested after staging simultaneous demonstrations Sept. 10 at six mission schools — both Catholic and Protestant — in Israel's three biggest cities: Tel Aviv, Jaffa, Jerusalem and Haifa. The rioters were charged with criminal trespassing and most were released on bail.

MELKITE RITE Bishop Georges Hakim of Acre — who reported he had been "molested and grossly insulted" by demonstrators — and Msgr. Hanna Kaldany, Vicar General for Israel of Latin Rite Patriarch Alberto Gori, O.F.M. of Jerusalem, received apologies and assurance that steps would be taken against the organizers of the incidents.

In Jerusalem, the courtyard of the convent of the Sisters of St. Joseph was invaded by a mob of more than 100 fanatics belonging to Haver Hapellim (Circle of Activists), a group of ultra-Orthodox students who agitate for anti-mission laws.

New Nepal Law Bars Conversion

GENEVA (NC) — A sweeping new legal code promulgated in the Himalayan Kingdom of Nepal provides for three-year prison terms for foreign missionaries seeking to make converts, it was reported here.

The Ecumenical Press Service here said also that the code provides for a missionary's banishment from Nepal after imprisonment.

Traditional Hinduism and Buddhism are the religions of the bulk of the Nepalese. Christian missionaries were not admitted to the country until about a decade ago, and since then only if they promise not to attempt conversion.

THE ADVOCATE is the "extension school" of every Catholic in the Archdiocese of Newark and the Diocese of Paterson.

PATERSON — Five married couples will take part in the annual reception ceremony for new members of the Association for International Development to be held Sept. 19 at St. Boniface, Paterson.

There will be a ceremony at the church at 6:30 p.m. where the five couples will recite their pledge to Bishop Navagh. The Bishop will give the sermon.

AT A DINNER which will follow in St. Boniface Hall, the main talk will be given by a member of AID's advisory board, Andre de Saint Phalle of New York City.

The five couples who will recite the pledge are Mr. and Mrs. Hubert Campfens of Toronto, Can., who will work with Catholic Charities in Paterson for the next six months while taking additional training at AID headquarters; Mr. and Mrs. Larry Dodge of St. Paul, Minn., who will remain here indefinitely as Dodge joins the AID staff;

To Receive 5 Couples In AID Mortifications Help Save Souls

To Receive 5 Couples In AID

All those who aspire to an apostolic life find a definite reason for seeking mortification. It is through His mortification or death on the Cross that Our Lord saved the world. It is likewise through mortification and suffering that we are able to cooperate with Him in the salvation of souls. The intensity of our zeal will grow in proportion as we share in Our Lord's suffering.

This is the motive that in the past has sustained and even now sustains many souls who consent to be victims — that God may be glorified and that souls may be saved.

If we prize the worth of our own souls and the souls of others, can we make so much of a few sacrifices for the sake of a glory that will have no end? It will be a sacrifice in union with Our Lord, as our share in His work of saving souls.

Make a sacrifice this week for the souls in mission lands. Send your offering to the Society for the Propagation of the Faith, and it will be forwarded to some missionary needing help the most.

Syria: Rich in Biblical Memories

SYRIA IS A COUNTRY rich with memories of St. Paul, St. Barnabas and St. Mark. They preached at ANTIOCH, the center from which so many of the liturgies have developed. . . . At MACHYA-AZAR, a village of 300 persons, the 150 Melkite Catholics are trying to repair their church damaged badly by winter rains. Mostly farmers, extremely poor, can give only their hand labor. . . . The cash needed—$1,000—is beyond their means. Many non-Catholics attend services in this, the only church in the area. . . . They have appealed to us. This would be a fine way to further the spirit of fellowship just as the Ecumenical Council re-opens. . . . Any amount will be welcomed and you will have their prayers. But soon, please, before winter comes again!

THOSE STRINGLESS GIFTS

A BIG PART of our job is seeing that your donations for special projects are forwarded immediately to their destination! But the space of this column permits publication of only a few such appeals. . . . Many other stories just as urgent must remain untold. That's why your "undesignated" donations mean so much. . . . They bring help where it is most needed. How long has it been since you sent one of those precious STRINGLESS GIFTS?

"READIN,' RITIN' and REFUGEES"

DID YOU KNOW that our diocesan school system was founded by JOHN NEUMANN, fourth Bishop of Philadelphia, back in the 1850's when the United States was still mission territory? This holy prelate will be beatified next month by Pope Paul VI. . . . In many parts of the world, however, a Catholic education is not so easy to obtain. No school bells will be ringing for the REFUGEE CHILDREN IN PALESTINE unless we provide their tuition costs. . . . $25 pays for a school term for one child. Won't you help?

SOMETHING FOR YOU!

SEPTEMBER brings most of us a new season, new interests, new demands! But the need for food has no season. . . . It is always there, imperative, unrelenting! A FOOD PACKAGE for an Arab refugee family still costs only $10, will stave off hunger for one month. . . . And as a thank-you to each donor, we will send a lovely ROSARY made of OLIVE SEEDS, a keepsake from the HOLY LAND!

TO HEED HIS CALL . . .

A Church official in Rome has stated there are 120,000 more priests needed. But in our mission lands are many young seminarians anxious to help fill the ranks, and many young women wishing to become nuns. . . . Only they cannot pay for the necessary education and training. Shall PHILIP and GEORGE ever be priests? Or can SR. ANNA JOSEPH and SR. MARY THOMAS be Sisters? Not unless you adopt them! The cost: $100 a year for the seminarian's six years; $150 a year for two years for a Sister. It can be paid in installments.

HAVE WE FORGOTTEN SOMETHING? Please remember us in your will. Our Legal Title: THE "HOLIC NEAR EAST WELFARE ASSOCIATION. AND our 18,000 priests welcome your MASS OFFERINGS. Kindly remember them when you wish Mass offered for your intention!

Pontiff Voices 'Anxiety' Over Vietnam Situation

An Advocate News Summary South Vietnam's complex internal strife bobbed up on newfronts throughout the world this week, involving the Church in a variety of means. Major developments included the following:

● Pope Paul voiced his concern for civil and religious peace in the crisis-stricken nation.

● Archbishop Pierre Martin Ngo Dinh Thuc of Hue, brother of South Vietnamese President Ngo Dinh Diem, paid a brief visit to New York for reasons not altogether clear.

● Another Vietnamese prelate, Bishop Michel Nguyen khac Ngu of Long Xuyen, said that communists who infiltrated Buddhist ranks are responsible for the disorders in his country.

● In Belgrade, Madame Ngo Dinh Nhu, sister-in-law of President Diem, told reporters that Pope Paul "gets easily worried" and that President Kennedy is "misinformed" about Vietnam.

principles of justice and evangelical charity as a guarantee of peace and progress for all."

Pope Paul also urged Vietnamese Catholics to work even harder to bring internal peace back to their country.

THERE WERE many puzzling aspects to Archbishop Thuc's one-day visit to New York, which ended as suddenly and surprisingly as it began.

The Archbishop said he had come to New York to "meet with some friends," among whom he named Francis Cardinal Spellman. But Msgr. Timothy J. Flynn, director of information for the New York Archdiocese, said he had no previous knowledge of the visit, and the Archbishop left without visiting the Cardinal.

A New York Times report quoted the Archbishop as saying he had a 2,000-word statement which he was sending to the NCWC News Service, with the request that it be printed in all Catholic newspapers.

"We have not received any new statement from the Archbishop," NCWC said the following day, "and it is our belief that he was referring to the copies of the speeches which he had already made, rather than to a new statement."

Schaefele of Freiburg, Germany, that religious freedom "has always been respected in South Vietnam," but that its government had to act against the Buddhists because through them the communists were hiding "their political struggle behind the mask of religion."

Bishop Ngu also stated that the Buddhists and the "real bonzes (monks)" are beginning to realize they were duped and have decided to seek a compromise with the government of President Ngo Dinh Diem.

Rededication Near

BERLIN (RNS) — Reconstruction work on war-damaged St. Hedwig's Cathedral in the Soviet Sector of Berlin is nearing completion. Rededication ceremonies are planned for Nov. 1, the 190th anniversary of the cathedral's dedication.

Race and Religion

Ask 'Positive Stand' on Race

PHILADELPHIA (NC) — A newly formed area association of Catholic laymen dedicated to racial justice has called for Catholics to take "a positive stand" on the issue.

The St. Martin de Porres Association cited the racial violence which broke out in suburban Folcroft when a Negro family moved into a previously all-white neighborhood.

"Recent headline events have focused the attention of Catholics to the need for all men of good will to enter the public arena and to take a positive stand on interracial justice," it said.

The association, whose members were among those who helped the Negro family start restoration of its damaged house, also said it is launching a fund-raising drive to help the couple, Mr. and Mrs. Horace Baker, finish repairing the damage.

to preserve racial peace. The interfaith conference sent a letter to each of Chicago's 50 aldermen urging backing for the fair housing ordinance.

The conference is an organization of religious leaders, sponsored by the Archdiocese of Chicago, the Church Federation of Greater Chicago and the Board of Rabbis.

FOR EYE STUDY — Eston V. Welch, president of the Lions Club of Newark, turns over a binocular ophthalmoscope to Sister M. Felicitas, S.F.P., of St. Michael's Hospital. It was purchased with proceeds from a recital sponsored by the Lions for the hospital and is part of the service club's broad activity in the field of aiding in hospital optical programs.

U. S. News Roundup

Bishops Score Bracero Law

CHICAGO (NC) — The U.S. Bishops' Committee for Migrant Workers has issued an "S.O.S. on Public Law 78," the legislation under which Mexican workers called "braceros" are imported to work on farms in this country.

The committee urged citizens to write their congressmen opposing any extension of the law, which it called "a thoroughly bad piece of legislation."

UNDER ACTION taken by the House of Representatives in May, P.L. 78 was slated to die at the end of this year.

In mid-August, however, the Senate approved a one-year extension of the program. The Senate bill (S. 1703) carried amendments to give American farm workers the same working conditions and protection guaranteed to foreign workers.

But on Aug. 21 the House Agricultural Manpower Committee passed over the Senate bill and voted for its own measure (H.R. 8195) — a straight one-year extension.

In its appeal for opposition to extension of the law, the Bishops' Committee said the program "takes advantage of the poverty and ignorance of a depressed people."

Critics of the bracero program charge that it puts domestic farm workers at a disadvantage by placing them in competition with foreign workers who are able to accept lower wages.

Ask Birth Study

ALBANY, Ga. (NC) — The Albany city commission has recommended unanimously that the Dougherty County Board of Health launch a study of possible birth control programs "in order to reduce charity and welfare."

Commissioner James Champion, chairman of the finance committee, said the commission is aware of a problem of illegitimate children "which poses an ever-increasing strain on welfare funds."

Population Studies

WASHINGTON (NC) — A new government survey on reproduction research shows many more projects getting much more money than did a preliminary report issued last year.

The federal government is far and away the largest backer of "research on reproduction related to birth and population control," according to the report. Federal agencies are providing $5.2 million, some 64% of the total, to aid projects listed.

THE EARLIER report, issued last December, listed 382 projects receiving more than $6 million. The new report shows almost twice as many projects—758—whose support costs over $2 million more.

Both surveys were prepared by the National Institute of Health, research arm of the Public Health Service.

The earlier report covered data received and processed by Dec. 1, 1962. The new report contains data available as of Jan. 1, 1963.

Sudan Jails Catechists

BONN, Germany (NC) — Seven Catholic catechists have been sentenced to seven years each in prison in the southern Sudan for giving religious instruction, it was reported here by KNA, German Catholic news agency.

KNA said the sentence, imposed by local police authorities, was allowed to stand without discussion by the highest police magistrate of Juba, who is a Moslem.

In its drive to Islamize the predominantly Christian and pagan southern Sudan, the Moslem dominated Sudanese government has ousted more than 160 Christian missionaries and closed the 350 mission schools in the south.

Province to Move

SYRACUSE, N. Y. (NC) — The offices of the Buffalo province of the Society of Jesus will be moved here from Buffalo to facilitate administration.

THE POPE referred to the clash between the Vietnamese government and Buddhists in a letter received in Saigon by Archbishop Paul Nguyen van Binh of Saigon. He said: "In the sad events that trouble and afflict the peaceful community life of these people, may our words be received as an assurance of our great solicitude for the reestablishment of peace of minds in civil and religious accord."

Pope Paul continued: "We have followed with fear and anxiety the news that has come to us on the special situation in your country in recent months and on the bloody events that have marked it."

"We are consoled by the fact that the Catholic Church in Vietnam has kept itself outside the conflicts of a political order, as its mission requires, and has undertaken and will continue to undertake, through its Bishops, priests and faithful, so many attempts at conciliation by calling the attention of the government and citizens to the value and efficacy of the

THE ARCHBISHOP arrived in New York with little advance notice Sept. 11. He departed the following evening on a flight which goes to Paris and Rome.

He had previously cut short a visit to Rome, telling newsmen he had been requested to make no further public statements about the Vietnam situation. He had been quoted earlier as saying that the U.S. had spent about $20 million toward possible replacement of his brother's government.

He denied that statement, however, saying that while he had spoken with an Italian reporter, "I never mentioned America's position on my country's policies."

BISHOP NGU of Long Xuyen declared in a letter to Archbishop Hermann

False K of C Oath Complaint Settled

WILSON, N. C. (NC) — A Baptist preacher and a member of his church were ordered to pay $1 and court costs here for passing out a bogus Knights of Columbus oath in the 1960 presidential campaign.

The two also were permanently restrained from distributing a pamphlet, "Will America Vote Away Her Freedom?" The bogus oath was among anti-Catholic accusations made in the pamphlet.

bogus oath, that is what we wanted most," he said.

Judge Larkins ordered the two to pay $1 to the Knights and to meet all court costs.

The K of C charged the two included in the pamphlet a spurious oath demonstrated many times in the past half-century as a fraud. It purports to show that members of the knights pledge to use violence against non-Catholics in promoting Catholicism.

Midst a Metropolis, a Mission

By SUSAN DINER
NEWARK — In a fan-shaped area of approximately six blocks there stands a housing project, each building 12 stories high with a total population of about 25,000 people, 3% of whom are Catholic.

The parish it lies in — Queen of Angels — is a mission in the midst of a metropolis. Last year four priests and a full-time volunteer devoted their time to the care of these people. The volunteer was Dorothy Davidson of Euclid, Ohio.

Rev. Thomas J. Carey, pastor, met Dorothy at a convention in Madrid in 1962. The needs of the parish intrigued her and soon after she wrote to Father Carey and offered her services for a year.

THERE WERE no set duties, but there was much to be done. She acted as a moderator hearing the religion exercises of many of the first graders. She taught six of the more advanced students while a Sister devoted her time to the slower students.

Ohioan Found Work Gratifying

Noon found Dorothy assisting with the lunch program, and on the housekeeper's day off she occasionally became rectory chef. Saturday mornings it was CCD.

Yet in all the things she did, she wasn't exceptional, although, says Father Carey, she was deeply "motivated."

"SHE WAS A young lady with a sense of a mission and a desire to do something with her life while she was able. She fulfilled a great need in our parish," he said, "and she was an example to the children. They liked her because she sincerely liked them."

This sense of mission, her affection and outgoing personality, made her well liked whether she was acting as an assistant Girl Scout leader, directing the after-school recreation program or simply befriending the children.

The recreation program was divided into age groups each coming a particular day. The 20-year-old brunette was part of the group, whether the activity was swimming or softball, decorating the parish hall or cleaning it up. She supervised and worked at the same time.

SCHOOL HAS opened and the children are again filling the halls and the area around Queen of Angels with laughter but this year something is missing — Dorothy. She returned to Ohio and will soon be married. Dorothy wrote to Father recently and said, "I love the children very much and I know I will miss all of them."

The parish now needs someone — or many — who want to give a little of their heart to others. Part of the field has been plowed, seeds have been planted, some fruit has been harvested but much of the field remains untouched and is waiting for able hands. The job, all or part of it, is still open.

I Was Thinking... Church, Parents Chart Course

By RUTH W. REILLY

I was troubled reading in the September McCall's an article entitled "Sex and the College Girl." One section, by Gael Greene, gives the outlook of the girls themselves; the other, "Has Chastity a Chance at College?" is by Ashley Montagu.

"If we're really emancipated why aren't we happier? Why do we suffer over such dreary self-recrimination?" One girl wondered. Another said: "It was easier when a girl had taboos all set up for her the way our mothers did."

What I found particularly heart-breaking was the failure on the part of the parents of the girls: "I shall never forgive my parents for giving me no restrictions at all," one girl said. "It seemed to me that they couldn't care the least about me. It wasn't until just recently that I realized it was their idea of being modern and that they really did love me."

Montagu said, "The concern over morals on the campus has both college authorities and parents quaking." He mentioned the National Council of Churches which "Makes no compromises in its support of premarital chastity." He says in recent decades parents have progressed in giving appropriate answers to biology. "Now they must be courageous enough to move on to what has become a more embarrassing sphere, the question of sex ethics." He ends up, "Chastity must have a chance. Sex is too good to squander."

a terrific impact our young men and women would have on their contemporaries, in and out of college, if each one knew and intelligently practiced his Faith.

That is where we come in. The home is the basic unit of society, the parents are the prime teachers. It is up to us to teach our children the solid nourishing truths of our Faith, by the simple living of them and by our availability to explain them, day in and day out, from the time they are born. We are the ones whose job it is to equip our children to meet the challenge of life in our 20th century.

They must know with certitude what many of their contemporaries question: that the sexual act is a holy thing, raised to the material of a sacrament, and that apart from marriage the enjoyment of sexual pleasure is sinful.

MARRIAGE is not, as the world sees it, a way to legitimize sex. It is a sacrament through which children are brought into this world and saints into heaven. Through this sacrament the husband and wife give grace to each other and strengthen each other to be holy and happy.

After doing all in our power to teach our children these important truths, we must pray that, with God's help, they will have the stamina and courage to live by these truths.

McCall's article said there is no simple solution to what educators now publicly concede has become "a national problem unacknowledged, unsavory and unsolved."

AS I SEE IT, the solution lies largely with our children. It will not be easy, but it is through them that today's America, with its increasingly casual acceptance of divorce and almost consequent winking at pre-marital intercourse, must regain its moral perspective if it is to remain strong and free.

By word and example they must bring solid answers to the confusion in the minds of so many of their contemporaries who are torn between their dream of sex as a sacred relationship, and the way sex is bandied about in all types of advertising, in much of modern literature, and in the bad example of many of their peers and elders.

Our children have a mission to fulfill. While they are little and ours, let us do all we can to prepare them for it.

With our Catholic colleges overflowing, more and more of our Catholic youth is being absorbed into secular colleges. It is true that young adults have much the same drives and seem to be the same on the surface. However, in Catholic universities there is an emphasis on religion and philosophy, on the "whole man." In secular colleges the atmosphere is generally amoral, and many of the students look with disdain on those who practice their religion or adhere to a moral code.

Many secular colleges have Newman Clubs which are doing a fine job of uniting and strengthening our Catholic youth and inspiring them to make their presence felt.

New Men Named

Saints Lose Two Top Coaches

By ED WOODWARD
KEARNY — Two coaches who had brought six New Jersey State Interscholastic Athletic Association championships in soccer and basketball to St. Cecilia's High School have resigned their positions, it was announced today by Rev. Joseph A. Carroll, pastor.

Joe Palermo, who guided the Saints to three state basketball titles in eight years, and John Kurszwicz, who directed the soccer team to three state crowns in nine seasons, have both left for new jobs.

IN PALERMO'S case it means a coaching promotion. In a joint announcement by Don Kennedy, St. Peter's College athletic director, Palermo was named assistant basketball coach at the Jersey City college.

Kurszwicz was forced to leave because of duties involved in a shift of his municipal job in this town.

Father Carroll immediately appointed Francis Raftery, a St. Cecilia's graduate, to succeed Kurszwicz and Maurice O'Sullivan, freshman basketball coach for the past three years, to replace Palermo.

PALERMO WILL continue to coach the St. Cecilia's baseball team, which he has also led to three state championships. He is a teacher in the Hoboken public schools system where he attended high school. He was graduated from St. Michael's College, N.J., and is currently studying for his master's degree at Seton Hall University.

His most recent success with the Saints' quintet came last season when they won their third state crown, defeating Wildwood Catholic in the final game after an upset of Holy Family, the defending champion, in the semi-final.

"We certainly hate to lose him," remarked athletic director Rev. John A. Merity of Palermo. "He was more than just a coach. He did so much for them I think his record is outstanding, 135 wins and 57 losses."

Kurszwicz also came in for praise for his efforts in bringing St. Cecilia's to the top among all soccer teams in the state, both public and parochial. His most recent triumph also came last year, when St. Cecilia's defeated Notre Dame of Trenton, 1-0, for the state parochial title.

RAFTERY PLAYED on state championship soccer and basketball teams at St.

Cecilia's under both Kurszwicz and Palermo. He is a graduate of Jersey City State College, where he played with a team which won the New Jersey State College soccer championship in 1961. He teaches in the Moonachie public schools system.

His name is a familiar one at St. Cecilia's, where his brother, Bill, gained statewide and national fame in basketball. Fran pointed out that he isn't the first Raftery to coach at St. Cecilia's. His sister, Sister Francis Marita of St. Thomas School (Bloomfield), coached the girls' basketball team while she was assigned there.

O'Sullivan played basketball at St. Patrick's High School and as a freshman at Villanova University, where he graduated in 1957. After two years service in the Army, during which he played basketball in Germany, he began teaching at St. Cecilia's.

He teaches English, history and mathematics and will handle the intra-mural and grammar school basketball program as part of his head coaching assignment.

Immaculate Conception Leads Big Eight Threats

WAYNE—Before last year, DePaul was always among those teams clamoring to make it to the top in schoolboy football competition. The Spartans made it in 1962, sweeping to their first undefeated season and winning the Big Seven Conference.

Now the locals find themselves the target of attack for the other members of the circuit—which has been expanded to the Big Eight this year with the addition to Morris Catholic.

THAT ATTACK will be many-pronged as almost everyone in the conference can make out a case for itself as a contender. But the primary obstacle for DePaul and every one else may be Immaculate Conception.

The Lions have 16 lettermen, most of them regulars last year, and a balance of size and experience which would make them the front-runners from their opening game with St. Mary's (R) Sept. 29.

Although it lost the majority of its starting squad, DePaul will again be in the pennant race as will Our Lady of the Valley, St. Luke's, St. Mary's, Bayley-Elard and possibly Morris Catholic. The status of each of these teams in the chase depends upon question marks being erased.

A team-by-team rundown, with 1962 records in parentheses, is as follows:

BAYLEY-ELARD (5-3)—You'll never get the optimistic outlook from veteran coach Pat Russo so when he doesn't appear too enthusiastic about his team's chances, it is no indication of its ability. However, he does have at least one good reason for concern. That is the departure of Bob De-Venezia through graduation. The hard-driving fullback was a standout both offensively—with 66 points in all games—and defensively.

Despite that loss, the Golden Bishops will have regular quarterback Mike Guarino returning along with junior halfbacks Frank Ochs and Larry McCann, who saw some duty. Steve Olear, a center, is one of the key men returning. Russo will be trying to build his forward wall around Olear.

DE PAUL (8-0)—Coach Fred Kell will be placing a 14 game victory streak on the line and he hopes that spirit and a defensively-strong club can offset a lack of experienced offensive men. Quarterback Dave Gleason and halfback Jim Koshap, regulars last season, will spearhead the attack with Rick McNally and Earl Ewing rounding out the backfield.

Up front, there are five lettermen, but their experience was limited. These include Larry Finnegan, Jim Gleason, Bob Griffin, John Iacono and Bob Moyle. Newcomers Bob Thumell and Paul Franzak (the Spartans' biggest man at 230 pounds) will draw starting assignments.

IMMACULATE CONCEPTION (4-5)—Quarterback Bob Reilly leads a poised veteran backfield which includes speedsters Pat Quarto (who scored 60 points last year) and Ed Vay at halfbacks and Bill Doyle at fullback.

Jim Pascutti (190 pounds) heads a big and seasoned line which includes Joe Ferrel (230), Jim Mirenda (220), Gerry Juliano (200), Dan Mount (195), Jim Wojtal (180) Bill McMickle (190) and Bob Pelligrino (160). Don Paniello will be going into his second season as head coach.

Fico is going to reverse the losing trend he's going to have to do it with the minimum of experienced hands—just halfback Tom Lanahan is returning from last year.

Three other seniors, Ed Cahill, Larry Hurley and Frank Ferrante, are trying for starting berths, but the team is primarily a sophomore-junior unit.

O. L. VALLEY (5-4)—As usual, the talent is spread thin for coach Vinnie Carlesimo, but the quality of the boys available is good. That applies especially to Terry Cunningham, a quarterback last year who may see most of his action at halfback in 1963. Just a junior, this speedster figures to team with another junior, Rick Kettell, to make the Valley offense go.

Lettermen on the line will be Jack Gilsean, Jack McNichol, Bob Long and Joe DeMartino. Among the newcomers, Bill Sari and Larry Farley should step into starting jobs in the backfield and Matt Sellito and Bill Bray will take guard posts.

ST. LUKE'S (5-3)—Unlike some past St. Luke's teams, there is some good size in the line, mainly from tackles Bernie Bross (218 pounds) and John Gunther (230). It's veterans all around for coach Ron Basil with the exception of quarterback where Vin Bucellato, who has graduated, is bound to be missed.

However, Bob Profitko, Rick Pitteruti and John Hackett were all big scorers last year and they give the backfield a great deal of experience. Bob Foran and Bill Downs will battle for the quarterback nod. Other returnees up front will be Greg Bushman, Joe De-Buono, Doug Martini and Bill O'Reilly.

ST. MARY'S (1-8)—After sharing the conference's first title with Valley in 1960 and winning it outright in 1961, the Gaels slipped last season. While coach Nick Castro isn't expecting his club to climb into the unbeaten class this year, he has to be confident that it will recover its winning ways. Much of the St. Mary's hopes is built around all-conference quarterback Jim Dull, who should be one of the league's top performers.

There are 23 other lettermen—with varying degrees of experience—and most of them are juniors, which means 1964 will be the big year for St. Mary's. The backfield assignments will be shifted until a solid unit develops, but the line is a little more decided with players like Tom Ryan, Pete Fox, Jim Keeney, Don Rohrbach, Ralph Lombardi and Joe Wagenhofer slated for regular action.

Essex Catholic Breaks Away

By ED GRANT
ELIZABETH—Jim Rebenack of Essex Catholic sounded the keynote for the 1963 New Jersey Catholic Track Conference cross-country season at Warinanco Park Sept. 14. He was the first of three weekly development meets.

The only Eagle regular to take part in a thinly-attended race, Rebenack toured a refurbished state championship course in 13:30.4. Since he is only rated the number five man on coach Fred Dwyer's powerful squad this fall, it's easy to see why many rivals are conceding the season's major honors to the Newark school.

A SECOND development meet is scheduled Sept. 21 at 11 a.m. with freshman, junior varsity and varsity competition. This will also be at Warinanco Park, as will a third race Sept. 28. The NJCTC championships will be held here Oct. 26.

Aside from this indication of Essex Catholic power, there was little to be gleaned from the race. Few of the major contenders for individual honors took part and one of them, Tim McLoone, ran out at the finish line along with his Seton Hall teammates and was not counted in the official standing.

Second to Rebenack was Jerry Bowdren of St. Joseph's, (Metuchen).

Peacocks Set Soccer Slate

JERSEY CITY—St. Peter's College will inaugurate a 10-game soccer schedule Oct. 2 at Montclair State. It has been announced by athletic director Don Kennedy.

The Peacocks, who will be coached by Phil Kutt, have scheduled three home games, the first of which will be played Oct. 30 against Seton Hall at Lincoln Park here. Other home opponents are Fairleigh Dickinson and Bloomfield.

The complete schedule is as follows:
 Oct. 2, at Montclair State, 5, at Newark State, 12, at Drew, 16, at Wagner, 23, at Rider, 30, Seton Hall, Nov. 2, Bloomfield, 5, Fairleigh Dickinson, 5, at Jersey City State, 12, at C. W. Post.

Close Games Mark Debuts

JERSEY CITY — If first impressions are true indications of the future, the Hudson County CYO Football League race may go down to the wire this season.

As the league opened its fifth campaign last weekend, four of five games were decided by a touchdown or less. In the other contest, Sacred Heart (JC) topped Our Lady of Victories (JC), 20-0.

ST. MICHAEL'S (UC) emerged with Sacred Heart as the early leader with a 13-6 victory against St. Paul's (JC). The losers, 1962 champions, carried a nine-game winning streak into the game and suffered their first opening-day loss ever.

Queen of Peace (North Arlington) played on even terms with Mt. Carmel (Bayonne) for almost four quarters before breaking a scoreless deadlock in the final minute for a 6-0 triumph. In the other games, Holy Rosary nipped Star of the Sea (Bayonne), 6-0, and St. Paul of the Cross (JC) and St. Aloysius (JC) tied, 7-7.

ST. MICHAEL'S, which had standout efforts from Bobby Hooks, Joe Light and Steve Smith, will seek its second win Sept. 22 against Star of the Sea in the afterpiece of a doubleheader at High School Field. In the 2 p.m. opener, Our Lady of Victories will meet Mt. Carmel.

St. Andrew's (Bayonne), which was idle on the opening weekend, will debut Sept. 21 against St. Paul of the Cross at High School Field in the last game of a tripleheader. Sacred Heart and Holy Rosary will collide in the first game at 2 p.m. and Queen of Peace will face St. Aloysius in the middle contest.

In CYO Baseball

Cilento Fires Perfect Game

NEWARK — Ed Cilento climaxed a perfect pitching effort Sept. 15 by fanning the last 14 batters he faced. That carried Sacred Heart Cathedral to a 2-0 victory against St. Thomas the Apostle (Bloomfield) in an Essex County CYO Junior League first-round playoff game.

The 16-year-old right hander registered 18 strikeouts enroute to his no-hit masterpiece. Losing pitcher Dennis Sasso also was outstanding with 11 strikeouts. The victory kept alive Sacred Heart's hopes for winning the first round crown.

Let's Try It Again

There'll be a number of predictions made in this department between now and Thanksgiving Day, but one of them will not be our chances of making the .800 mark. A closing rush fell just short and the final average came up .798 for 1962.

With Oratory making an early debut in a game at Morristown School Sept. 20, the picking will begin a little early. The first choice is below.

Father Giblin Takes AD Post

SOUTH ORANGE — With the transfer of Rev. Joseph J. Vopelak to a position as assistant superintendent of schools for the Newark Archdiocese, his post as athletic director and dean of men at Seton Hall Prep has been filled by his assistant, Rev. William N. Giblin.

Father Giblin has been at Seton Hall since 1961.

Bishop Baptizes, Confirms Quints

ABERDEEN, S. Dak. (NC) — The Bishop of Sioux Falls flew here by private plane to baptize and confirm quintuplets born in St. Luke's Hospital to Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Fischer.

Arriving less than 12 hours after the four girls and a boy were born to the couple Sept. 14, Bishop Lambert A. Hoeh donned a surgical mask and gown to administer the sacraments in the hospital's nursery. The boy was named James Andrew. The girls were named Mary Ann, Mary Catherine, Mary Margaret and Mary Magdalene.

SISTER MARY Stephen, superintendent of the 225-bed hospital operated by the Sisters of the Presentation of the Blessed Virgin Mary, said both sacraments were administered because of the delicacy of the health of the five infants.

The parents of the quintuplets are members of Sacred Heart parish in this city of about 23,000 persons. The 38-year-old father is a wholesale grocery clerk. The Fischers have five other children, the oldest 8 years of age.

All Masses at Sacred Heart Church the day after the quintuplets' birth were offered for the Fischer family, as was the Mass celebrated at the hospital by Rev. Donald Glynn.

C.S.V., the hospital chaplain. Fischer attended Mass along with his three oldest children and his mother. He heard Rev. William Neurath, one of the assistants at the parish, deliver a sermon on the birth of the quintuplets.

The priest based his sermon on two Scriptural texts — God's injunction in Genesis to man to "increase and multiply, and fill the earth" and the parable of the talents in the 25th chapter of St. Matthew's Gospel.

MRS. FISCHER is a member of the parish Altar Society. The three oldest children — Daniel, 8, Charlotte, 7, and Julie, 6 — attend the parish school, where they are in the first, second and third grades. The school is also conducted by Presentation nuns.

The other children in the family are Evelyn, 4, and Denise, 3.

IN PHILADELPHIA, St. Joseph's College announced it has awarded a full scholarship to the one boy among the quintuplets.

Rev. James W. Moore, S. J., assistant dean for admissions, said the scholarship was awarded to young James Andrew to remove "one worry about the future" for his parents.

Press Drive On Catholics In Ceylon

COLOMBO, Ceylon (NC) — Extermist Buddhists are continuing their bitter anti-Catholic campaign here by demanding the expulsion of all foreign priests from this south-west Asian island nation.

At the same time, the campaign has led more moderate Buddhists to show their good will toward Catholics. The Catholic-Buddhist Friendship Society is holding its first meeting here Sept. 22 at a Catholic church.

THE DEMAND for the ouster of missionaries was made by L.H. Mettananda, a veteran anti-Catholic campaigner. Mettananda said he was calling for the expulsion as a result of what he, termed a top-secret meeting of foreign and Ceylonese priests at the American Jesuit Mission House in Trincomalee.

Jesuit sources have reported that on Aug. 15 a U.S. missionary took his final religious vows at a ceremony in the cathedral in Trincomalee. Ceylonese and foreign priests got together for a social gathering after the ceremony.

Mettananda's demand for expulsion is the latest move in the Buddhist extremists' anti-Church drive, fostered by communists, which has led in recent years to the government takeover of all but 42 of Ceylon's more than 700 Catholic schools, the denial of entry visas to missionaries, the ousting of nursing Sisters from hospitals and discrimination against Christians in government and even private employment.

WCC Deliberates Relations With Catholics

ROCHESTER, N. Y.—Three important areas commanded the attention of delegates to the meeting of the Central Council of Churches here.

One hundred members of the policy-making committee spent eight days deliberating on relations with Roman Catholics, Christian witness and service, and the impact of Christianity on the world.

THE COMMITTEE is the governing body of the council between meetings of the general assembly. The council is a world-wide organization of 209 Protestant, Anglican and Orthodox churches, nine of which were newly added at the Rochester conference. Its primary purpose is to advance the cause of Christian unity.

Relations with Catholics occupied a large amount of the delegates' attention. The satisfaction of the committee members at evidences of Catholic renewal brought about by the Vatican Council was heard on all sides.

The committee approved a policy report on "Relations with the Roman Catholic Church" remarkable for its recognition of good done by the Vatican Council, and its desire to advance dialogue on a wider scale than ever before.

Dr. Lukas Vischer, the council's observer at the Vatican Council, pointed up the importance of the report. He declared: "If a real renewal takes place in the Roman Catholic Church, the non-Roman Churches are bound to be affected by it. They will have to define their faith afresh, and to reformulate it by going back to its very roots in a certain sense."

Such a review could have far-reaching consequences for the cause of Christian unity since historical circumstances which no longer exist played such a large part in the formation of Reformation churches.

ANOTHER CONSEQUENCE in view of the Central Committee report, was new and exciting possibilities of dialogue between the Catholic Church and other Christian churches.

Such a dialogue, delegates inferred, would be on a more official and larger scale than the private and informal conversations that have taken place in the past. Dialogue between official representatives of other Christian churches and those of the Catholic Church could occur as one of the preliminary steps to full Christian unity.

The Central Committee was firm, however, in its conviction that a number of present difficulties must be changed if such a dialogue is to be "genuine."

FOR ONE THING, the Catholic Church, the World Council body insisted, must recognize other Christian churches as churches. One Catholic theologian attending the conference declared that such recognition could be given.

Catholics admit, he said, that these Christian churches have elements of the true Church, and Catholics do not have to refuse calling them "churches" even though they use the word in an analogical sense; that is, Catholics can say "church" but not the "true Church."

One of the difficulties brought up is the complaint that the Catholic Church puts non-Christians like Buddhists like Anglicans together when it uses the designation "non-Catholics" without distinction.

THE REPORT outlined means by which the WC might serve its members "if desired." It was stated that the WC could provide:

• Information and documentation regarding developments in the Catholic Church

• Means for consultation and the sharing of information among the member churches in respect to their relationships with the Catholic Church.

• Means for common action in matters of public and international affairs in cases where there is a desire that all churches including the Catholic should speak together.

Dr. Vischer appeared at a joint press conference with Rev. John B. Sheerin, C.S.P., editor of the Catholic World. They indicated that the Vatican Council seems likely to make a pronouncement on religious liberty, but that the subject of mixed marriages, also considered an obstacle to ecumenical relations, may be tabled.

Strike Halts Work

LIVERPOOL (NC) — Work at Liverpool's new $3 million Catholic cathedral has been hit by a strike involving 200,000 men at 1,000 building sites in England.

Some 140 workmen at the cathedral site have joined the strike.

European News

Ask Liberty for Czech Leaders

BONN, Germany (NC) — Catholic leaders in Czechoslovakia have asked that country's communist regime to restore full freedom to the Bishops, priests and lay people sentenced for alleged anti-state activity since the Red takeover in 1948.

According to the report received here by the German Catholic news agency KNA, the request is timed with the government's trend away from Stalinist repression toward "socialist legality."

LAST MONTH the Czechoslovakian supreme court announced its review of the cases against 481 persons tried in 1949 and 1954. Most of the persons involved were adjudged "fully rehabilitated." The list was made up exclusively of persons who once held government or Communist Party positions however. No Church leaders were included.

The current appeal by Catholic leaders mentions that even the Bishops who have been officially reported released by the government, including Bishop Stepan Trochta, S.D.B. of Lomeerice and Bishop Karel Otčenasek, Apostolic Administrator of Hradec Kralove, have not been listed as "rehabilitated."

A number of other Czechoslovak prelates are still in prison, including Bishops Stanislav Zela of Olomouc, Jan Vojtasek of Spis, and Ladislav Hlad, and the abbots of monasteries at Straehov and Broumov. Archbishop Josef Beran of Prague is also under government detention, reportedly at Neureich Monastery in southern Moravia.

Popular Sermon

LONDON — Copies of a sermon in which Poland's communist leaders were severely criticized by Stefan Cardinal Wyszyński are being distributed throughout the Polish nation, it was learned here.

The sermon, delivered Aug. 26 before 50,000 worshippers at the Shrine of Our Lady of Czestochowa, berates Red attempts to deny or restrict religious freedom and other rights.

Ignored by the national contrasted religious liberty in Poland with ideals outlined in papal encyclicals.

Copies of the full text are bringing high prices, reports here said, and in some remote villages joint readings of the sermon are being organized.

The Primate of Poland spoke out again against the government Sept. 7 in a sermon at the consecration of a new church in Warsaw warning the country's rulers to stop their anti-Catholic activity, he said there can be no coexistence and peace until freedom, truth and justice are respected.

Cardinal Wyszyński also spoke out against restrictions to Catholic church building.

He said that parishes in Warsaw which need about 40 new churches have been unable to get permits to build, even though they have sites and construction materials available.

"Someone has been planning that Warsaw shall become a city without God," he declared.

Pope John's Secretary Tells Why Pontiff Saw Adzhubei

ASSISI, Italy (NC) — The late Pope John XXIII thought his attempts to bring East and West closer together might lead to disappointment. But he thought those efforts might be the result of a "direct line of Providence which I have no right to break."

This was revealed here by Msgr. Loris Capovilla, who served as Pope John's private secretary throughout his 55-month pontificate. Msgr. Capovilla in a speech also disclosed details of the private audience Pope John gave last spring to Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev's daughter Rada and her husband, Alexei Adzhubei, editor of the Soviet government's daily newspaper, Ivestia.

DURING THE height of the controversy in Italy over Pope John's alleged soft-pedaling of anti-communist policies, Msgr. Capovilla said the Pontiff told him: "I might be disillusioned, but on the other hand this might be a direct line of Providence which I have no right to break."

Msgr. Capovilla, who is Pope John's literary executor, quoted some lines from John XXIII's diary for last Dec. 26: "I have consecrated to the Lord my whole self for this great enterprise of the conversion of all Russia to the Catholic Church."

There is "no mystery" about Pope John's assent to Adzhubei's request for an audience, Msgr. Capovilla said. As Apostolic Visitor in Bulgaria 35 years earlier he had promised that if any Bulgarian or Turk or Slav ever knocked at the door of his house, he would find the door "already open."

WHEN THE RUSSIAN

couple, entered the Pope's room, his secretary recalled, he took them on a tour of the photographs and paintings that lined the walls. He explained the entire gallery to them: SS. Charles Borromeo, Ignatius Loyola, John Chrysostom, and the symbolism of the key Christ gave to Peter.

Then the Pope invited his guests to sit. He produced a rosary and said to Mrs. Adzhubei: "Signora, I give this to you. All my collaborators here have taught me that I should give two coins or two medals to non-Catholic ladies."

"All the same I give you this rosary, because it is known that the Pope, besides the great prayers of the Psalms, has also this sweet family prayer that he learned to say at home around the fireplace while his mother got the meal ready — and it was a very meager meal."

"It is the prayer the Pope recites for all the children that are born, so that every one of them, Catholic or not, may have his greeting and his blessing."

THE POPE was speaking in French, Msgr. Capovilla recalled, adding that from time to time Mrs. Adzhubei would nod her head as if in agreement.

The priest went on to say that Pope John, still addressing Mrs. Adzhubei, remarked that of course he knew her children's names, because he always made it a point to learn something about people he was going to meet.

"But I should like to hear you say them," he said, "because the names of the children pronounced by a mother always have a great tenderness."

Mrs. Adzhubei then said her sons' names are Nikita, Alexei and Ivan.

"Three beautiful names!" exclaimed the Pope, who pointed out that Ivan is the Russian form of his own name. "When you return home," he continued, "give a caress to your children, but a very special caress for me to Ivan."

THE POPE then turned to Adzhubei, according to Msgr. Capovilla's account. John XXIII remarked that as a journalist, Adzhubei would have knowledge of the Bible and of the Biblical account of the world's creation in six days.

Then the Pope told him: "The first was that of light: Fiat lux. Now we are in that first epoch, that of the light. The light of my eyes meets that of yours. The Lord helps us on the path to goodness, if it pleases him."

IN A MOSCOW broadcast this week, Adzhubei recalled his meeting with the Pope and hailed his influence on the Church and the world. At the same time, Adzhubei referred to the "reactionary teachings" of the Church — teachings which "I have no intention of justifying."

Some Western observers saw Adzhubei's comments as a method of downgrading the Church and religion in the eyes of the Russian people at the same time that the government seeks to maintain good relations with the Vatican.

The U.S.S.R. is militantly atheistic and considerable publicity has been given here to the peace programs of both Pope John and Paul VI within the Soviet Union. Such publicity could have stirred sympathy for religion.

Pope Lauds Marian Devotion

ROME (NC) — Devotion to the Blessed Virgin Mary offers man spiritual riches with which he can face the crises and great problems of daily life, Pope Paul VI told some 5,000 members of Marian sodalities.

On his return from his summer residence at Castelgandolfo to Rome, the Pope stopped first at the Rome church of St. Ignatius to offer Mass for the members of the Marian congregations.

THE POPE said that devotion to Our Lady is among "the most authentic and fruitful of Catholic spirituality." Then he asked, "What do men seek in life?" Answering his own question, he said: "Men seek beauty, and Mary is the apex of beauty."

"They seek greatness, and Mary has surpassed every ordinary limit in the sense of true greatness and by reason of this she has become the only human creature who could say 'All generations shall call me blessed.'"

"Men seek joy, and the birth of Mary was for the whole world an occasion of joy, the passing from an 'economy' of damnation to an 'economy' of blessing, from a world in which blows succeeded on blows to a world in which one fully enjoys the liberty of an adopted son."

"Men seek love, and Mary who at Cana desired that nothing be lacking to honor pure love, shows men where they may contemplate the highest feminine ideal — in virginity and in motherhood enhanced by beauty and by fullness of grace."

The Pope counseled traditional Marian devotions, recommending the rosary in particular.

Slovak Greeting

VATICAN CITY (NC) — Pope Paul VI hailed the erection of the new Institute of SS. Cyril and Methodius for the training of Slovak seminarians in Rome as a "focal point of the religious life of the Slovak people" in the Eternal City.

The Pope received more than 500 Slovak Catholics from 12 nations Sept. 14. Among the U.S. Slovak organizations taking part were the Slovak Catholic Federation of America, the First Catholic Slovak Union, the Catholic Slovak Ladies Union and the Slovak Catholic Falcon.

'Vivid Experience'

CASTELGANDOLFO, Italy (NC) — Pope Paul VI paid a surprise visit to Rev. Daniel O'Connell, S.J., director of the Vatican Observatory here, on the 50th anniversary of his religious profession.

He presented Father O'Connell with a chalice, and the priest gave Pope Paul a copy of a scientific book he had written.

Msgr. Carroll-Abbing gave the Pope an album illustrating the 40 children's institutions his organization has built, and told the Pontiff about the support they have been given by Americans. Pope Paul indicated he would visit the Boys' Town soon.

Eastern Visitor

VATICAN CITY (NC) — Metropolitan Nikodim of Minak, head of the Russian Orthodox Church's external Church affairs department, visited Pope Paul VI and placed flowers at the tomb of Pope John XXIII. The private audience was described by the Vatican Secretariat for Promoting Christian Unity as "a visit of courtesy." Metropolitan Nikodim was accompanied by his 25-minute visit by two Catholic prelates who have been his guests in Moscow — Bishop Francois Charrier of Lausanne, Geneva and Fribourg, and Msgr. Jan G.M. Willebrands, secretary of the Christian Unity secretariat.

Visit From Premier

VATICAN CITY (NC) — Pope Paul VI has received an official visit from Italian Premier Giovanni Leone. During the 20-minute audience, the Pope acknowledged the Premier's visit as "a new proof of the deference of the Italian government toward the Holy See."

Pope Paul also had high praise for Premier Leone as a Catholic and a citizen in addition to expressing his personal esteem for the statesman's "probity, experience and dedication in the service of the public welfare."

2 Cardinals Back Treaty

NEW YORK (NC) — Twelve leading Catholic, Protestant and Jewish churchmen endorsed the nuclear test ban treaty in a joint statement on the eve of the start of Senate debate.

Two Cardinals — Richard Cardinal Cushing of Boston and Joseph Cardinal Ritter of

St. Louis — were among the signers of the statement, which called the test ban treaty a "first step along the road of peace."

However, Bishop Albert L. Fletcher of Little Rock, Ark., was among the signers of another statement opposing ratification of the treaty.

By ACLU Chaplains' Role Cited

CAMDEN (NC) — The American Civil Liberties Union chapter here is considering a court suit in an attempt to stop the federal government from paying chaplains to teach religion to servicemen and their dependents.

Charles C. Thomas, Camden attorney who is chairman of the South Jersey Committee of the ACLU, said the move is based upon the U.S. Supreme Court decisions in public school prayer cases. He said if public schools cannot sanction prayers "we do not know how the U.S. Army would have any more right to teach religion."

Thomas said he raised the question with Defense Secretary Robert McNamara and received a reply that military regulations require voluntary religious instruction be offered. Thomas said the reply ignored his basic contention that the U.S. Government should not employ anyone to teach religion.

If the government does not "terminate the chaplains' incursion into religious education," Thomas said, the ACLU would consider instituting a court case in an attempt to end the practice.

Aberdeen Bishop Resigns See

ABERDEEN, Scotland (NC) — Bishop Francis Walsh, W.F., of Aberdeen has resigned his See after announcing that he could not comply with an order from the Vatican that he dismiss his housekeeper.

L'Osservatore Romano, Vatican City daily, announced that Pope Paul VI, in accepting Bishop Walsh's resignation as Bishop of Aberdeen, had named him titular Bishop of Bithra.

THE 61-YEAR-OLD English-born prelate issued a public statement last July concerning his housekeeper, Mrs. Christine McKenzie, a convert to Catholicism and the divorced wife of a Church of Scotland minister. He said malicious gossip had been spread concerning his befriending Mrs. McKenzie, and that "the Sacred Congregation in Rome" had ordered him to dismiss her.

"I have from the beginning insisted that the order is unjust and cruel," he said. "Early on I thought I must obey. Now I have come to the decision that I cannot act against my conscience. I have informed my superiors to that effect."

Bargains Scooped Up in Lot Clearance

A Cherson-Carroll Release
STILLWATER (PFS) — Sales at Lake Success, the 1,500-acre vacation community located along the Appalachian Trail off Rt. 206, passed the quarter-million dollar mark for 1963 this week when the fall "lot clearance" program brought scores of buyers to the tract. They purchased more than $50,000 worth of vacation homesites in just two weeks.

The "lot clearance program" encompassed the sale at reduced prices of scattered odd sites in almost fully sold-out sections of the tract.

According to vice president Frank Aceto, there are still a limited number of homesites being offered at these special prices. They will be sold on a first-come-first-served basis.

Vacation sites are also currently being offered in the recently opened Overlook Section at Lake Success. Purchasers are being offered their choice of sweeping views of the Delaware River Basin, the Pocono Mountains, or northwestern New Jersey in this new section, which is approximately 1,600 feet above sea level, second in altitude only to High Point.

This is the third section of homesites to be opened this year at Lake Success where lot sales are fast approaching the $1.5 million mark.

Homesites at Lake Success totaling approximately 16,000 square feet are currently offered with special financing terms of only $99.50 down for a full four-lot site.

Every lot owner at Lake Success has full lake-front privileges anywhere on the 60-acre lake, which is the highest spring-fed lake in the state with private facilities.

Many year-round recreational activities are available to land owners here including swimming, boating, fishing, skin diving, picnicking, ice skating, hiking, horseback riding, and nature study. Hunting at nearby Stokes Forest is plentiful.

Site owners may fish from the 50-ft. fishing pier at Lake Success or in the many trout streams located nearby.

Salem Ridge Wins Award

A Kaylon Release
WASHINGTON TOWNSHIP (PFS) — The Upper Salem Ridge colony here has been cited in "Life" magazine as a Living Effects Award homes community.

Only 13 other communities throughout the country were honored with the award, presented by Emerson Electric of St. Louis, for what it termed outstanding and imaginative special features which make a home more distinctive, comfortable and convenient.

"We're very happy with the award," notes Hugh Johnson of Gabriel Johnson Realty Co. of Paramus, the sales agent, "because it is a special recognition of the extra time and money Parwood Homes, the builder, has used in providing these special features at Upper Salem Ridge."

The Paramus building firm is offering ranch, Colonial two-story and bi-level homes from $33,900 to $45,000. Featured is the eight-room Colonial two-story Hampshire priced at $35,900 and the 61 ft. long Chatham ranch priced at $33,900.

But in addition to the exhibit homes, the builder has nine blueprint plans from which buyers can seek out the custom touches to be included in their own homes. Plans are available for custom three- and four-bedroom ranches, four- and six-bedroom Colonial two-story homes, a four-bedroom Colonial Saltbox, and three- and four-bedroom bi-levels and split-levels.

Luxury Homes Open in Wayne

A Cherson-Carroll Release
WAYNE (PFS) — Tall Oaks is the name given to a new 83-home community being inaugurated this week at Alps and French Hill Rds. as another Robbins and Richards Community.

Offered here are luxury homes of Colonial, split level, two-story, and bi-level stylings which Maslow Associates of Elizabeth have designed with the assistance of the staffs of Better Homes and Gardens, Good Housekeeping, and House Beautiful magazines. The homes are priced from $28,690 on minimum 1.2 acre, heavily wooded sites.

Some design features include: oversized formal reception rooms with guest closets; glass patio doors off the dinette; master bedrooms with dressing suites, vanities, walk-in closets, and private baths; separate pantries and broom closets; and laundry and mud rooms directly off the kitchens.

Displayed initially is the Sycamore two-story model, priced from $31,890, which features an exterior of hand split cedar shakes, red brick with black mortar, and a covered front entranceway. This home has been designed so that the various "activity" areas of the home may be reached directly from the oversized reception hall.

Show Ranches, Bi-Levels At West End Community

A Kaylon Release
WEST END (PFS)—Models in ranch and bi-level ranch design will make their debut the first weekend of October when the 76-house Hollywood Hills community initiates sales here.

The tract, on Woodgate Ave. off Cedar Ave., is the former site of the Hollywood Hotel which was gutted by fire some years ago. It is being developed by builders David Shane and Marvin Stoloff of Lincoln.

The builders will be unveiling a nine-room bi-level ranch model with three baths and will later show an expandable ranch plan. The homes will be priced from $25,990.

Rumania Jails 8

VIENNA (NC)—Eight Hungarian Franciscan priests have been jailed in Red-ruled Rumania, according to reports reaching here.

The priests belonged to a friary in Dei, a city in the Transylvania area of Rumania whose population of some 15,000 is 90% Hungarian.

The Franciscans, convicted in February, were sentenced to from two to eight years in prison for criticizing the communist government in sermons and conversations and for aiding Byzantine Rite Catholics.

The communists crushed the Byzantine Rite Catholic community in Rumania in the years following World War II. In 1948 its Bishops were "deposed" by the government and many priests and faithful were forced to join the Orthodox Church.

By Polish Primate U. S. Visit Scheduled

CHICAGO (NC) — Stefan Cardinal Wyszyński, the Primate of Poland, will come to Chicago in 1968, Albert Cardinal Meyer announced here. He said that Soldier Field, with a capacity of 100,000, will be the site of a major address by Cardinal Wyszyński.

CARDINAL MEYER noted that 1968 commemorates the 1,000th anniversary of the introduction of Christianity in Poland and he said the Chicago observance would bring together Chicago area Catholics of Polish descent in a giant manifestation of Faith.

This will be a means of the Polish people to express their gratitude to God "for the heritage of their Christian beliefs, and as practical demonstration of their solidarity through the bonds of Faith with their Polish brethren now behind the Iron Curtain" he said.

Tito to See President

WASHINGTON (NC) — Yugoslavia's President Tito will meet with President Kennedy Oct. 17 during an "informal visit" to Washington.

A White House announcement said the two leaders would have "a full exchange of views on a number of matters of interest to both countries."

Tito will come here while en route to a United Nations General Assembly meeting in New York after a tour of Latin America.

The Yugoslav communist President met in 1960 with President Eisenhower at the United Nations. A scheduled 1957 visit to Washington was put off, reportedly because Tito was angered by congressional protest against his trip.

Bishop Ill In China?

HONG KONG (NC) — A former Belgian cabinet minister was quoted here as saying that Chinese communist officials informed him that Bishop James E. Walsh, M.M., is ill.

Bishop Walsh, Maryland-born Maryknoll missionary, was imprisoned in Shanghai in 1958. The communist regime announced in March of 1960 that he had been sentenced to a 20-year jail term for "espionage." He is now 72.

Reports reaching here said that onetime Belgian Economic Affairs Ministers Raymond Scheyven announced in Shanghai that he was refused permission to visit the Bishop. The reason given was the communist officials said the American prelate was sick. It was understood that Scheyven had met Bishop Walsh on a previous visit to China in 1957.

The Bishop's brother, Judge William Walsh of Cumberland, Md., was able to visit him in Shanghai's Ward Road Prison in August, 1960, but in the presence of guards.
