EDITOR'S NOTE

And Action ... [Cue The Clapboard Sound]

It's back to work in Hollywood. New episodes are pumping out, and suddenly our TV schedule is starting to get rich with a robust lineup. The Walking Dead returns in full force this month, with the Season 10 finale on Oct. 4, as well as the premiere of Season 6 of Fear the Walking Dead (Oct. 11) and the franchise's new spinoff The Walking Dead: World Beyond (Oct. 4). Lots of walkers a.k.a. empties (see page 20) are in store for you Dead fans!

AMC gives us a real thinker with the drama Soulmates — six independent stories centered around a breakthrough discovery that allows humans to find their true soulmate. But what if you are already married? Or if your soulmate isn't interested? Malin Akerman is one of many stars headlining an episode.

See our interview with her inside (page 14).

Oh, and did you realize we're less than 100 days until Christmas? Well, of course, Hallmark Channel and Hallmark Movies & Mysteries did and are ready to roll out their annual countdown beginning Friday, Oct. 23, where they will premiere 40 new films this season (check our daily Best Bets)!

I'm sure you'll find plenty you will love.

Happy viewing!

■ The Scariest Movies

The scariest movie I've ever seen is Hide and Seek. Dakota Fanning was so creepy in that movie it was unbelievable. It didn't help matters that my little sister was mimicking her catchphrase from that movie in a menacing voice: "Come out, come out, wherever you are." Chills to this day. – Gary M.

The scariest movie that I have ever seen is a tie between Grave Secrets: The Legacy of Hilltop Drive, a 1992 made-for-TV movie that was based on a true story and starred Patty Duke, and Sleepaway Camp, a 1983 movie starring Felissa Rose. The movie is still remembered today for the twist ending that has made it a cult classic.

– James F.

QUESTION OF THE MONTH:

What TV or movie character would you like to dress up as for Halloween?

Email us at dishletters@ntvbmedia.com

■ Where Can I See ...

... The movie The Number 23, starring Jim Carrey? I can't recall the last time, if ever, I've seen it on TV. I thought Jim Carrey was excellent in this non-comedic role and would love to see the movie again. If I knew who had the rights to The Number 23, I could write to that network and pester them to put it on their schedule. – David Z.

David, while it appears "The Number 23" is available to buy or rent on Amazon and a few other services (YouTube, Redbox, Google Play), it does not look like it is scheduled to air on any of the standard networks anytime soon. It was released on DVD in 2007. No information about who has the rights to the film was available.

... A Caddyshack documentary that I saw on A&E one or two years ago? I think it was hosted by Cindy Morgan. Is it available on DVD? – Marty K.

Cindy Morgan, who played Lacey in "Caddyshack," did appear in a 2009 documentary called "Caddyshack: The Inside Story." The film was included on the "Caddyshack" 30th anniversary Blu-ray that was released in 2010.

■ Famous High School Classmates

In 1968-71, I attended Loop Junior College, now Harold Washington College, in Chicago, Illinois. I was in the music department. A student informed me he was looking for someone to try out for an alto sax part. I declined his offer. The student, I believe his name was Verdell White or Anderson? The group became Earth, Wind & Fire. – Richard B.

Note: Verdine White was one of the founding members of Earth, Wind & Fire.

■ Keeps Me Laughing

With all of the twists and turns and ups and downs we're all experiencing, it sure is nice to laugh with the Naked and Afraid armchair enthusiasts of Naked and Afraid: Clothed and Opinionated. It'll make you laugh till you cry while you learn skills of survival and relieve stress. Thank you, Naked people and former Naked people! Impractical Jokers makes me laugh until I cry, too. Last Man Standing is also refreshing. Thanks for your great magazine and entertainment! – Lucille D.

Ghostober!

Travel Channel's Macabre Month Of Spooky Programming Is Back.

By Jeff Pfeiffer

As you read a few months ago in this magazine, Travel Channel has pretty much turned itself into a full-time paranormal programming channel, offering plenty of series and specials about ghosts, monsters, UFOs and other eerie phenomena.

Now that Travel is all ghosts, all the time, having a stand-alone month called "Ghostober" may not necessarily be a unique departure for the network, but it does continue a tradition that has been going on for years now and is nice continued branding during this spookiest of months. So, this year, once again, throughout October – er, we mean Ghostober – you can enjoy a number of new specials and premiere episodes of scary series airing practically every day on Travel.

Among the tricks and treats to expect during Ghostober will be the premiere of a new series called World's Most Unexplained (Oct. 4); a new, two-hour Shock Docs special called This Is Halloween (Oct. 28), in which various Travel Channel hosts share their memories of Halloween and why they love the holiday so much; another special called Mysteries of Halloween (Oct. 28); a new Portals to Hell special (Oct. 30); a new The Osbournes: Night of Terror special (Oct. 30); and new episodes of series like Ghost Nation, The Holzer Files and Destination Fear.

Check your grids for other programs airing during Travel Channel's Ghostober – if you dare!

5 Questions

With EVE HARLOW
Of FOX's "neXt" By Ryan A. Berenz

On FOX's new drama series neXt, premiering Oct. 6, Eve Harlow (The 100, Marvel's Agents of S.H.I.E.L.D.) plays Gina, a street-tough and brilliant member of the FBI cybercrime unit tasked with tracking down a powerful artificial intelligence that is growing out of humans' control. The part was a perfect fit for Harlow.

"I'm just, like, hella nerdy," Harlow says. "I just find this stuff really fascinating. That's a part of the reason – when I read the pilot – I was, like, 'Yes! [They] got it right!'" neXt might have viewers feeling anxious about technology, but Harlow seemed to have a good salve. When we talked with her, she had a purse that has a remarkable resemblance to a real cat. "I joke that it's my service animal," she laughs. "Sitting there and petting it is actually very calming." Harlow clawed her way through our "5 Questions":

1 What's been your strangest or most interesting fan encounter?

I was at Comic-Con a couple of times, and I think it's overwhelming to have everybody yelling your name all at the same time. I want to take pictures with everyone, and then I feel really bad when I can't. I don't know if that's strange or interesting. It's more like, "Aw, shucks! People watch my work! That's really cool."

2 Can you tell us about a time you were starstruck?

I posted something on my social media about a podcast that I listened to. And the guy who hosts the podcast liked it, and I almost died! Ezra Klein of The Ezra Klein Show. He just did a really good series on climate change, and he liked the post. So I was like, "Oh, my God!" I get starstruck by people that people wouldn't usually get starstruck by.

3 What's a movie that you can watch over and over again?

I really love Amélie. I also really like Princess Mononoke.

4 What's your favorite sports team?

I don't watch sports, but the Toronto Raptors recently won the NBA championship. I lived in Toronto for five years, so that was a very big deal.

5 What's a job you had before acting?

My very first job ever was working as a cashier at a grocery store. I was 15 years old. It paid for my acting classes!

GIRL POWER

Greg Berlanti, the super producer behind The CW's superhero shows, is behind a new series at the network — ① The Powerpuff Girls. Yes, the cartoon you remember from years ago is being reimaged as a live-action series with the girls now as 20-something adults, disillusioned and reluctant to return to crime-fighting in a world that desperately needs them. The show also comes from Diablo Cody (Juno) and Heather Regnier (Veronica Mars). ... CBS has given a script commitment to ② How to Be Successful Without Hurting Men's Feelings, a single-camera comedy inspired by the book by Sarah Cooper, a TikTok star. The series will center on three women at different stages in their careers who help each other navigate the male-dominated politics at their company.

referred to as the Untitled Liz Brixius Project and will be renamed to avoid confusion with Netflix's show Never Have I Ever. ... Movie director Nisha Ganatra, who recently helmed the films Late Night and The High Note, is behind a new comedy put in development by ABC. Written, directed and executive produced by Ganatra, the untitled matchmaking comedy revolves around an unlucky-in-love woman and her meticulous mother who conflict as they operate the most successful matchmaking business in Little India.

ABC KEEPS IT IN THE FAMILY

④ Sarah Hyland is getting back together with Ty Burrell in a little Modern Family reunion over at ABC. Hyland will star in the new series Yours, Mine & Paul's, which comes from Burrell and his production company Desert Whale Productions. She plays Lauren, an impulsive millennial who agrees to be a surrogate for her best friend Paul despite hating his husband, Xander. When Paul dies, she is confronted with the idea of being a mother and co-parenting alongside someone she can't stand. ... Freddie Highmore (The Good Doctor) is behind a new project in development at ABC. Why You Will Marry the Wrong Person is based on the New York Times article by Alain de Botton and explores relationships in parallel universes and all of the different ways things can happen when the two leads wonder, "What if?" Highmore is not currently slated to star; he executive produces as part of his company Alfresco Pictures.

How To Resolve Timer Conflicts

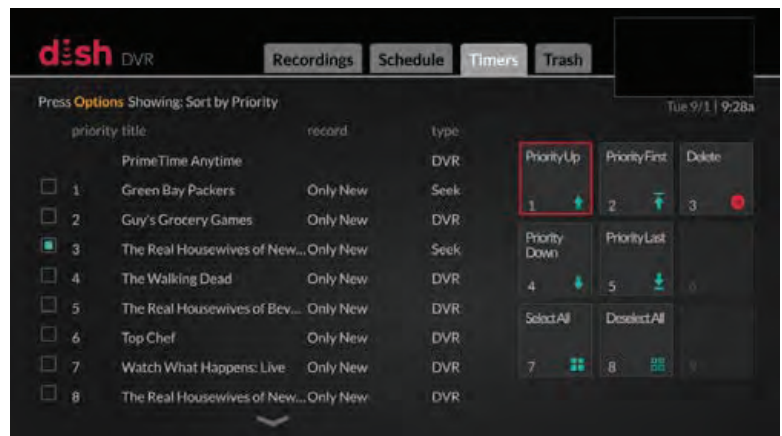

By Colleen Skells

If you have a large household, you may have experienced issues with your shows not recording due to timer conflicts. This happens when more shows are set to record than your receiver can allow at one time. Here's how to make sure your shows always record, so you never miss them!

The simplest way to resolve timer conflicts is by setting higher priority for your timers. If there are conflicts, your DVR will default to recording the shows with the highest priority.

Here's How:

- To do this on your Hopper or Joey, press the DVR button on your remote.
- Then arrow up and select the Timers tab.
- Press the Options button on your remote, and then select "Manage Timers."
- Select your timer, and then press the Number 1 button on your remote to move it up to your desired priority.
- Repeat for all of your timers. Once you're done, press and hold the Back button to get back to live TV.

If you have a ViP receiver:

- Press the DVR button on your remote three times.
- Select "Timers" and then "Set Priority."
- Select your timer, and then use the up arrow button on your remote to move it up the list.
- Repeat for all of your timers. Once complete, select "Done."

Check out features of your Hopper, Joey or Wally by visiting youtube.com/user/dish or mydish.com/support.

IT'S A CIRCUS!

Impact Wrestling Remains At An All-Time High.

By Scott Fishman

Even while the coronavirus turns the world upside down, Impact Wrestling has enjoyed a creative resurgence and generated renewed buzz in the process. Executive Vice President Scott D'Amore attributes the recent success to playing the long game.

"There have been so many people over the years that have come in looking for the quick fix," he explained, alluding to behind-the-scenes instability Impact long endured. That is until Anthem Sports & Entertainment acquired a majority stake in the company.

"We wanted to approach this like a sports team rebuilding," D'Amore continued. "We wanted to build a strong foundation from the ground up. And we've done that from the talent side of things and also with our team behind the scenes. It's two years of solid work and going above and beyond."

The company has managed to produce programming on a closed set at Skyway Studios in Nashville. The lack of a live audience led the promotion to explore outside-the-box ideas like Wrestle House. Think pro wrestling meets SNL meets Big Brother.

The promotion founded more than 18 years ago as Total Nonstop Action really started cooking on all cylinders leading up to the Slammiversary pay-per-view in July. For D'Amore, the tentpole event was a culmination. #Slammiversary was a hot topic of conversation, even trending number one in the United States. One could argue a big reason for this was the influx of star power. Among them was Eric Young, the current Impact world champion who returned to the company after a disappointing run with WWE.

"I fell into obscurity and got lost in the shuffle there," he said. "Then coming back to Impact, I was well received. It feels gratifying and justifying to be champion now. There is something to be said that a company is going strong in a global pandemic. Everybody there is pulling the rope in the right direction. The roster has limitless potential. All the ingredients are there to have a very good wrestling product on television." Fellow veteran star Madison Rayne (Ashley Lomberger) agrees and can't be happier to see the contributions from the Knockouts women's division. The former five-time champion likens the feeling to being a proud parent. "These young women who are coming into the Knockouts division understand the history and what this division has done for women's wrestling," she said. "I'm constantly reminded how special it is to be part of this locker room and have one of these spots and call myself a Knockout. We continue raising the bar like what Jordynne [Grace] and Deonna [Purrazzo] did in the first ever Knockouts 30-minute iron man match. We do things that haven't been done before." In addition to wrestling, Rayne lends a female voice to Impact each week. She calls the action ringside with her husband, who goes by Josh Mathews.

"We have good chemistry," she added. "It's fun to poke at each other a little bit, but I think what makes it work is we both have such a passion for Impact Wrestling and for what this company has been able to do. We've been part of this journey together. As Josh says, we're providing a soundtrack."

With Bound for Glory, their biggest show of the year, on the horizon, D'Amore reflects fondly at all Impact has accomplished. At the same time, he knows they've only scratched the surface with hopes to expand distribution and reach around the world.

"We want to give a little bit of everything because in wrestling there can be so much of the same," he said. "Wrestling when done right is like the circus. There is something for everybody. When you do what we do right, we create memorable moments for people that bond families together. We give them these memories forever. We want to go out there and try new and innovative things. And hopefully entertain in the process."

Soulmates

In The Future, You Can Meet Your Perfect Match. (Results May Vary.)

By Ryan A. Berenz

If a simple, scientifically proven test could definitively determine your soulmate – that one person you’re cosmically connected to – would you take it? And if you took the test, how would the result change your life?

Those questions are at the core of AMC’s six-part speculative sci-fi drama Soulmates, which tells stories of characters who’ve been profoundly affected by the breakthrough discovery of the human “soul particle” in 2023.

Fifteen years in the future, the Soul Connex company offers customers the chance to find their soulmate. (Think of it as an internet dating service that is irrefutably accurate.) The science is perfect, but its real-world application isn’t. There’s no guarantee that their soulmate has also taken the test. There’s no guarantee that their soulmate is the person to whom they’re already married. There’s no guarantee they’ll like their soulmate’s family or friends. There’s no guarantee that their soulmate is even still alive.

“I always saw it as a world – if you were looking in the big, big, big picture – it’s the equivalent of destiny versus free will,” explains co-creator and executive producer Brett Goldstein. “If soulmates exist, then it’s this person you’re destined for. But if you’re destined, then you have no choice. But we live in a world where theoretically we have free will, so that’s the real question: If everything’s laid out for you, then what’s the point of your basic life?”

In the premiere episode, Nikki (Succession’s Sarah Snook) is a mother of two who’s happy in her life with husband Franklin (Kingsley Ben-Adir). But she’s constantly wondering: Could she be even happier?

David Costabile (Billions) plays a college professor who has his personal and professional life thrown into chaos when a woman (Sonya Cassidy, Lodge 49) hacks into his Soul Connex account in “The Lovers” episode.

In “Break on Through,” Malin Akerman (Billions) and Charlie Heaton (Stranger Things) play two people who embark on a disturbing odyssey in search of meaning in their

Would You Take The Test?

Some Soulmates cast members answer the big question:

Sarah Snook: Yes

"Approaching the project, I was pretty confirmed that, yeah, of course, I'd take the test, and pretty amazed that people would think twice about taking it. ... I was single at the time I was doing it, so that's maybe why I was much more gung-ho about the idea."

Kingsley Ben-Adir: No

"I don't think I would take it. I think if anything the show has made me feel like I don't believe that there is, like, someone who's out there to be perfect."

Sonya Cassidy: No

"I would like to know that someone has chosen to cherish me, rather than them being like, 'Oh, you know, you're the one, so let's get on with it.'"

Malin Akerman: No

"My sort of approach to life is to try to roll with the punches and find the silver linings in situations. ... I don't want to go to psychics or read too much into horoscopes, because I do think it just plants a little seed in your brain that maybe doesn't necessarily need to be there."

Betsy Brandt: No

"I think if I didn't take it – which I probably wouldn't – I would think about it all the time. ... That would mess you up, the fact that it's out there. That it exists is, you know, that's already a conundrum, before you even decide to take it or not."

lives after their soulmates have died.

"Sitting in a group somewhat like AA for people who've lost their soulmates that they've never met, it's just really a strange beginning to this really cool episode," Akerman says. "I just loved it. I thought it was just such a creative episode, and really kind of disturbing, all in one."

In the case of Akerman's character, the soulmate test gave her tunnel vision, and she became unable to see the forest for the trees.

"Instead of using our own gut feeling and our own brains and developing our own opinions, we're going against our own grain," Akerman says. "That is so frustrating to watch, but so much fun to play in a role like this. You get to play the duality of it, the contradicting feelings within oneself."

In the vein of Netflix's Black Mirror, Soulmates is thought-provoking, imaginative and enthralling sci fi that digs deep into the human condition. And the future holds more: AMC has already ordered a second season.

The Classic Show Is Back And Better Than Ever

By Taylor Neumann

There's a good chance that you have fond memories attached to the show Supermarket Sweep – maybe you watched it at home sick as a kid, or found it on a weekend browsing the channels years ago. What you may not know is that the show actually premiered in 1965! It aired for two years before being revived decades later in the '90s and early '00s on Lifetime and PAX. Now it's back again, this time on primetime.

The rules of the show are simple. "The show allows three teams of two to come into a dream supermarket, one of the most beautiful supermarkets I've ever seen, answer a lot of trivia questions to build up time that they're going to then use to race through the supermarket, putting as much stuff as they can in their cart," explained executive producer Wes Kauble. "Whoever has the highest cart total is then going to get to race through the supermarket one more time in a scavenger hunt with their partner for a chance to win a ton of money."

The new iteration of the show is hosted by comedian Leslie Jones, who many know from her memorable run on Saturday Night Live. What you may not know, however, is that Jones is a superfan of Supermarket Sweep and was instrumental in bringing the show to being. "The love is palpable – every pore of her body exudes the fact that she loves that show," said executive producer Alycia Rossiter. "[What] makes her really stand out is along [with] that infectious energy, she lives and dies on the success of each contestant," added Kauble. "You can see her feel the pain when something doesn't go well. And you can see the over-the-top elation when our contestants succeed."

But more than anything else, the show is a candy-coated romp through a place most of us visit on a weekly basis. "What it really is to me is a fantasy ride through the supermarket. ... You're allowed to run as fast as you can and grab as much stuff as you can, from all of the highest shelves, the lowest shelves, the frozen food section, every part of the supermarket. And it doesn't matter whether you can afford or can't afford to have four carts full," said Rossiter. "It's a fantasy of kind of breaking the rules and just doing what you want."

THE GOOD LORD BIRD

James McBride's Acclaimed Novel Becomes A Gripping Historical Drama Series. By Jeff Pfeiffer

Joshua Caleb Johnson and Ethan Hawke

ABOLITIONIST
EVENING,
The Union Forever!

In the years leading up to the Civil War, the stage was set for that conflagration with other skirmishes stemming from the same issues that eventually caused war to erupt, particularly slavery. Some of those events took place during the “Bleeding Kansas” era from 1854 to the start of the war in 1861, when pro-slavery and anti-slavery factions regularly clashed along the border of Kansas Territory and Missouri.

The combustible nature of that era in those areas and the country as a whole was effectively captured and dramatized in James McBride’s 2013 novel The Good Lord Bird, which won the National Book Award for Fiction. The acclaimed work is now adapted as a limited, seven-part Showtime series of the same name, debuting this month.

Ethan Hawke, who is an executive producer with McBride, stars as famed abolitionist John Brown. Brown was, of course, a real-life figure and is a major factor in this tale, but the series is told from the point of view of a fictional enslaved boy named Onion (Joshua Caleb Johnson). Onion becomes part of Brown’s motley crew of abolitionist soldiers in Bleeding Kansas, traveling with the band of freedom fighters across the country and eventually participating in the famous 1859 raid on the federal depot at Harpers Ferry, West Virginia.

The Good Lord Bird features Lodge 49 star Wyatt Russell in a recurring role as Brown’s nemesis, the future Confederate general Jeb Stuart, while familiar faces guest-starring in the series in more minor roles include David Morse, Steve Zahn, Orlando Jones and Ellar Coltrane, who received rave reviews costarring with Hawke in the 2014 drama Boyhood.

Prominent among the guest stars in this series is Tony winner Daveed Diggs – who originated the roles of Marquis de Lafayette and Thomas Jefferson in a different sort of historical re-creation, the hit musical Hamilton – who portrays Frederick Douglass, the escaped slave who became a legendary social reformer.

“I think one of the wild things about [The Good Lord Bird],” Diggs told us, “is that it’s also James McBride’s take on Frederick Douglass, which is pretty particular and really fun and, I think, really brilliant because it is Frederick Douglass through the eyes of the protagonist, Onion, who is a 13-year-old cross-dressing slave boy.

“And it is that lens through which to view one of the greatest orators of any time, and somebody who was a megastar. In his time, Frederick Douglass was the biggest star, the most-photographed person of the century. He was a star in the way that we don’t really think of him as. I think now it’s hard for us to imagine that, because there are no YouTube videos of him. And so, that was really, really fun.”

DEVILS

The World Of Banking Shows Its Dark Side. By Taylor Neumann

Devils follows Massimo Ruggero (Alessandro Borghi), head of trading at a massive international bank in London. His mentor, Dominic Morgan (Patrick Dempsey), heralds Massimo as a genius in trading as he makes the bank hundreds of millions of dollars through talent and gut instinct. But when Massimo is up for a promotion to vice CEO, suddenly he’s not the shoo-in he thought he was. Old-school banker Ed Stuart receives the promotion instead, despite questionable choices – but when Ed ends up dead, Massimo begins to believe there is something bigger at stake and that his mentor may not have the best intentions. The devils are all around him, and he has to choose a side.

The series is a new kind of show for The CW – more Billions, less Batwoman. It also brings former McDreamy Dempsey back to television in a more sinister role than he’s played before. Devils originally began airing in Italy back in April and was renewed for a second season ahead of its premiere; this is its debut in the United States. This 10-part drama is full of intrigue and backdoor dealings, and it is based on Guido Maria Brera’s book about the global financial crisis that began to sweep the market in 2008.

THE WALKING DEAD: WORLD BEYOND

The Third Series Of The Franchise Explores A Community Whose Children Don't Know The True Horrors Of This Postapocalyptic World.

By Barb Oates

Fans of The Walking Dead will immediately recognize the three-ringed logoed helicopter that whisked away our favorite leader, Rick Grimes (Andrew Lincoln), to who knows where. The helicopter returns in the premiere episode of the franchise's third series, The Walking Dead: World Beyond, this time transporting a representative from the mysterious Civic Republic (Julia Ormond) who has an arranged meeting with a civilized colony in Omaha.

The colony in Omaha is home to the first generation of children who were raised in this postapocalyptic world. These children were schooled with some normalcy and were sheltered from the horrors occurring outside of their guarded walls. The series introduces us to two sisters, Hope (a rule-breaking free spirit) and Iris (the brains and colony's student leader), played by Alexa Mansour and Aliyah Royale. When a message upends the sisters' worldview, they leave the comforts of their colony in search of the truth.

Here the sisters give us some insights on what we can expect.

Can you share a bit on Iris' journey and her backstory?

Aliyah Royale: Iris grew up with the apocalypse as her actual reality. It wasn't; she didn't have a life before the apocalypse. We've grown up with these creatures. So, the night the sky fell – that's what we call it – Iris, she was young, she was a kid, and because of fear and confusion, some really terrible things happened, and she lost people really close to her. And she decided from a very young age that ever since that night, the way that she was just going to grow up was to just take charge of everything. She wasn't going to be afraid anymore. She was going to do anything that anyone needed her to do, because she felt like she didn't do enough that night to help the people she cared about. ... Everybody on the show has a story related to that night. There are definitely some secrets, and on the journey as we grow in our identities, some secrets come out. [Leaving us to decide] who are we going to be, knowing all of this information about each other now?

Tell us about this place where you've been living.

Alexa Mansour: Inside the walls, we have food, we have water, we have dorms, school, education, jobs. It's this little world that we've created inside the world – a shelter from everything. ... There's also training inside this community – they train you for the outside world even though they never plan on taking you out. ... It's trying to make life as normal as possible for those who are in there. So those are considered the lucky ones.

So walkers are being called empties; are they moving faster now?

Royale: I think they are just a little bit more evolved, we'll say that. They definitely are more on a mission. We know a lot of things about the walkers from the previous shows, but in World Beyond, we definitely learn more about what attracts them, where they've come from, how they migrate. The specifics of it get really cool and interesting.

As you've been exploring and making your journey, have you run into Rick at all?

Royale: Good old Rick. Have we? Have we not? I don't recall. World Beyond is definitely its own new adventure. We've got some really cool, new, exciting characters with their own little secrets. It's going to be really cool for everyone to see that.

How would you describe Julia Ormond's character, Elizabeth, one of the leaders of the Civic Republic?

Mansour: At first I thought she was the evil villain. The more that I got to know her, I realized maybe she is fighting for a good cause. There's a lot of different layers to her.

How do you think you'd survive living in a world like this?

Royale: I think I'd be just fine. It's weird. After doing that for six months and being on set and learning combat training and weapon training and this and that, I feel like I would definitely survive longer than most people. I beat the curve, I swear. The biggest thing is for me, I'd need a damn good weapon, and I would be OK. I was talking with my friends about just an apocalyptic world, and the biggest question was, "Do you have a family? Do you start a family, knowing what's out there?" And it was funny, watching my friends go, "Would you have a kid? Would you not have a kid? Do you get married? What's the personal aspect of it?"

Complicated Family Bonds

FLESH AND BLOOD

Family Bonds Are Tested With New Love — And A Body. By Taylor Neumann

New to PBS this month is Flesh and Blood, a four-episode drama that hails from across the pond in the U.K. The series stars Francesca Annis as Vivien, a widow who finds herself smitten with a new man (Stephen Rea). This leaves her with less time for her grown children, Helen (Claudie Blakley), Jake (Russell Tovey) and Natalie (Lydia Leonard), who aren't too happy with their mother's new relationship, especially when it makes them question previously happy memories of their father and mother's long marriage before his death 18 months ago.

Also adding to the mix is the next-door neighbor Mary (Imelda Staunton), who's very involved in Vivien's life. Oh, and did we mention someone is murdered? And the audience doesn't find out who until the very end. Everyone is suspicious, everyone's lives are falling apart, and anyone could end up being the body.

As with most PBS productions, the characters are deeply layered and reflect a solid but tortured family bond. That, at the end of the day, is what this series is – a deeply felt exploration of sibling dynamics and parental roles in the lives of their adult children. Staunton (soon to be the Queen in Season 5 of The Crown on Netflix) is a highlight, fusing a bit of darkness into her bumbling character.

An Artificial Intelligence Is A Real Pain In FOX's New Techno-Thriller. By Ryan A. Berenz

Networked electronics can control everything from lightbulbs, doorbells and refrigerators to transportation systems and lifesaving medical equipment. But FOX's new thriller neXt might have you thinking twice about inviting a smart device into your home.

John Slattery (Mad Men) stars as Silicon Valley visionary Paul LeBlanc, whose company was developing a powerful artificial intelligence called neXt, which was capable of exponentially improving its own abilities. LeBlanc realized neXt's potential dangers and pulled the plug on the project, leading to his brother (Ozark's Jason Butler Harner) ousting him from the company.

The investigation into the mysterious death of a computer scientist who discovered that neXt's code has leaked out into the world causes LeBlanc to join FBI cybercrime expert Shea Salazar (Fernanda Andrade) in the effort to stop neXt before it wreaks havoc on humanity.

Creator, showrunner and executive producer Manny Coto thought up the idea for neXt after his son's unusual experience with Amazon's Alexa voice assistant. "He was like, 'My Alexa started talking to me at 3am out of the blue by itself for no reason.' He claims this has happened a couple times," Coto says. "We never got down to the mystery, but those things kind of seem to have a mind of their own every once in a while."

Slattery is resigned to the fact that our devices are probably spying on us. "You have a conversation with someone and the next day your phone is blowing up with ads for whatever you were talking about," he says. "So I assume that it's watching. There's evidence all over the place. I just live a boring enough life where I don't care."

neXt's AI doesn't care, either. "The AI in this show is actually not an evil AI, and in its own mind, it is simply following the programming that it was given," Coto says. "Now we have a superintelligence — something that's a thousand times smarter than we are — that is determined to carry out its programming. And, unfortunately, that means if anybody tries to stop it from carrying out its programming, those individuals need to be stopped."

Conservation With A Camera

One Man's Quest To Preserve Wildlife Through Photography. By Jeff Pfeiffer

This fun, fascinating and important two-part special follows National Geographic photographer Joel Sartore on his quest to photograph every species living in the world's zoos and wildlife sanctuaries. Sartore has been at this for 15 years, chronicling over 10,000 species as of this writing. He says that he still has another 5,000 species to go until he has covered every animal species in human care.

The photographer's hopeful goal is that the impact generated by his stunning pictures will help inspire people to want to make sure these animals – particularly the endangered ones – exist for a long time to come, and do not just become distant memories only seen by future generations in the images within Sartore's "ark."

Despite Sartore's efforts, though, it's inevitable that not all of the creatures he commemorates with his camera will make it. But the intrepid photographer does not let that realization slow him down. In fact, it makes him more determined.

"I don't get depressed," Sartore explains. "I get sad, and I also get angry about it, and think, 'Well, I need to do all I can to try to save species.' There's no choice, really. ... [G]enerally speaking, I'm just inspired to do all I can with the time I have on Earth."

Sartore's passion (and energy) in this respect is evident throughout Photo Ark, which finds him stopping at nothing to achieve his goal, even if it means following a giant armadillo into a bathroom in one funny scene. He shoots all the creatures against a black-and-white backdrop, giving the photos a striking impact because, as Sartore says, those backgrounds are "a great equalizer. ... All animals are the same size on these backgrounds because there's no size comparison. So we can give just as much weight and importance to a mouse as we can a tiger."

You may find yourself falling in love with particular animals highlighted during the course of Sartore's journey as chronicled in Photo Ark. The photographer himself had a few critters stick in his memory as well as on his camera.

"One of them was a little frog named Toughie," he recalls somberly, "who was the very last Rabbs' fringe-limbed tree frog from Panama. We all knew he was the last one. ... [There was] Pahu, the Bornean rhino, maybe the last one in the world we'll see, as well.

"These are animals that are near and dear to me, obviously. They're very special because they're quite rare, but aren't they all special? Don't we need to pay attention to all of them?"

DOCTOR WHO: THE FACELESS ONES

BBC America Airs A Long-Missing "Doctor Who" Tale. By Jeff Pfeiffer

Doctor Who fans are familiar with the good Doctor often traveling through time and space during his or her many adventures. But now, fans themselves have a chance to go back in time in a way, with a somewhat restored (though "re-created" might be a better word) version of Doctor Who: The Faceless Ones, a serial that was only broadcast in its original, complete form over 50 years ago.

The Faceless Ones is the mostly missing eighth serial of the fourth season of Doctor Who, which aired in six weekly parts from April to May 1967, and starred Patrick Troughton as the Doctor. Only two of the six episodes are held in the BBC film archives, with snippets of footage and still images existing from the other four. However, off-air recordings of the soundtrack also still exist, making the animation of a complete serial possible once again. Three episodes air each night.

FARGO

It's About Time For Year 4, Dontchatink?

By Ryan A. Berenz

In 1900, the Moskowitz Syndicate ruled the Kansas City underworld. Then it was the Milligan Concern. Then it was the Fadda Family. And by 1950, the Cannon Limited had arrived.

"That's how it worked," high school student Ethelrida Pearl Smutny (E'myri Crutchfield) wrote in her history report. "Whoever was the last off the boat, finding the doors of honest capital closed, rolled up their sleeves and got to work, getting rich the old-fashioned way."

Year 4 of creator/writer/director Noah Hawley's Fargo crime anthology series was originally scheduled to arrive in spring, but COVID-19 forced production to shut down. The new season, which premiered in late September, is set in mid 20th-century Middle America, where racial and economic tensions are on the rise. The Cannons are looking for their piece of the pie, and they're ready to take it from the Faddas. And so begins the "Cannon/Fadda" gang war.

Loy Cannon (Chris Rock) is a racketeer, but his entrepreneurial spirit and legitimate business sense are roadblocked by the era's institutionalized racism. When Loy pitches a white-owned bank with the idea of offering customers an open line of credit — a "credit card" — he is met with a dismissive shrug. A multibillion-dollar idea is flushed down the pneumatic tubes.

"Fargo is funny like a Scorsese movie," Rock says of the series' understated, subversive humor. "It's always within the character and within the story. So that's something I have to pay attention to."

Much of the story is told through Ethelrida's perspective. "[She's] very different from the other characters," Crutchfield says. "She's a biracial girl. Her parents own a funeral home, and she has bigger dreams than she's set to have. It being the 1950s, a lot of things were against her."

Of course, there's also the requisite Fargo funny-talkin' Northerner. Minnesota native Oraetta Mayflower (Jessie Buckley) is an outwardly friendly hospital nurse with a head full of outdated notions and creepy inner demons. Oraetta is a hypermagnified version of "Minnesota nice" characters from the Coen brothers' 1996 film. "[She] takes your salty niceness to the extreme," Buckley says.

Irish actress Buckley had just finished dialect practice when we caught up with her in Chicago, where much of the series was shot. While Buckley excels at the accent, Oraetta is far more than phonetics. She's precise with language, she has an intricate understanding of human physiology, and she's acutely attuned to divine communications. "She's kind of a new-age spiritual guru, in her mind anyway," Buckley says. "For her, she's a complete genius."

All of those delusions are exacerbated by the fact that Oraetta snorts a lot of drugs. "We're very high on lactose powder. That's the reality of that situation," Buckley says of the simulated narcotics the actors used. "There's a lot of lactose powder going up our noses."

Drug-induced or not, there's definitely a lot going on upstairs with Oraetta. "In my head, she was kind of like a little bird," Buckley says. "She was like a sparrow. She kind of witters away to herself all the time, and sometimes you don't even know what's coming out of her mouth. There's a constant hum or conversation going on.

"Who's not going to want to hang out with this girl? She's a riot!"

Lennie James (who plays Morgan) behind the scenes on the set of Fear the Walking Dead

FEAR THE WALKING DEAD

What's Next For Morgan? On Set Exploring The Fate Of Our Favorite Characters As We Head Into Season 6. By Emily Aslanian

"Just live." Those were the words of advice imparted by a bleeding-out Morgan Jones (Lennie James) at the end of Fear the Walking Dead's Season 5 finale. The former leader lost his fellow survivors to the series' gun-totin' big bad Virginia (Colby Minifie) and the Pioneers, who split up the once-hopeful group, shipping them off to an undisclosed number of settlements.

But can Morgan himself learn to just live? Will he live at all? The Season 6 premiere jumps roughly six weeks from the events in the finale, and will reveal how Morgan – now sporting a well-grown beard when the postapocalyptic series picks up – managed to survive that point-blank shot in the chest and the walkers that were zeroing in on him as Virginia left him for dead. Not-so-spoiler alert: He isn't out of the woods yet. In the premiere, the corporate cowgirl sends a mysterious bounty hunter to locate the still gravely injured Morgan, and it doesn't look good. "Morgan's fate is up for grabs, really," James reveals during an overcast February day on set right outside of

Austin, Texas. "It doesn't necessarily go the way everyone thinks."

It's James' second-to-last day directing Episode 602, which mostly follows Victor Strand's (Colman Domingo) point of view "with a dollop of Alicia [Alycia Debnam-Carey]," James confirms. Domingo and Debnam-Carey just finished shooting a scene in which Strand and Alicia, with a small group, are tasked by Virginia to clear out a warehouse filled with the dead. The scene featured over 70 filthy, snarling walkers. Let's just say, things get messy for these two – and quickly. Luckily, the lead actors break through the serious mood with spontaneous singing and lots of laughter, while James confers with the crew.

One thing to expect this season is a deeper dive into the characters, as the drama takes on an anthology-like structure, focusing on one to two survivors and playing with time between episodes. “[We] get to really explore the dynamics of the characters,”

Debnam-Carey says excitedly. Executive producer Ian Goldberg likens the installments to mini movies with rotating genres. “Each episode has its own world,” he explains over lunch after the cast and crew have cleared out of the catering tent to prep for the next scene. “In the first half [of Season 6], we have everything from action to horror to romance to murder mystery.”

An unfortunate downside to this fresh format is that it’ll take even longer to see what happens next with certain survivors. “Last season, it was all about these people forming a family together, and [now] that family is ripped apart,” Goldberg says. “What does it do to you to be separated from the people who make you who you are?” Those extreme emotions will be felt, the exec promises, whether it’s the forced separation of newly wedded John and June Dorie (Garret Dillahunt and Jenna Elfman), the long-awaited reunion of Dwight (Austin Amelio) and wife Sherry (Christine Evangelista), or pregnant scientist Grace (Karen David), who was torn away from Morgan as the two finally confessed their feelings (“It’s quite dark and scary for Grace,” David admits).

Speaking of scary, there’s something sinister on the horizon, according to Goldberg. And he isn’t necessarily talking about Ginny, whose layers will be explored this year with the introduction of her kid sister Dakota (Zoe Colletti). He teases: “There will be a threat over the course of the season that I think I can confidently say is the biggest threat to any group in the Walking Dead universe that we have seen yet.” Now that’s something to live for.

THE WALKING DEAD

Five Questions We Need Answered In The Season 10 Finale. By Emily Hannemann

Norman Reedus

It’s been a while, Walking Dead fans, hasn’t it?

2020’s eating away at our beloved zombie dramas like a walker that stumbled upon an unsuspecting hiker in the woods. Thankfully, we’re still getting the Season 10 finale of The Walking Dead this year, as well as six “bonus” episodes of Season 10 planned for 2021. Here’s what we’re hoping to see from the last hour of TWD’s 10th season, titled “A Certain Doom,” when it airs this month.

1 What happened to Connie?

Connie (Lauren Ridloff) has been gone a lot longer than originally anticipated. We’re not sure whether she’s alive or dead, although Magna (Nadia Hilker), who was trapped with her inside the cave when it exploded, at least confirmed she made it out. Here’s hoping “A Certain Doom” at least resolves the question about her fate.

2 Is Team Eugene going to make it to the Commonwealth?

Last we saw Eugene (Josh McDermitt) and his crew, they were heading toward Stephanie and her group. Seeing the ridiculously well-off Commonwealth would be a good way to end the season, and it doesn’t really make sense to carry over Eugene’s journey to Season 11.

3 Is the Whisperer storyline done?

Sure, it doesn’t seem like the Whisperers are dwindling right now – after all, the dead-people-wearing Beta (Ryan Hurst) is standing right outside the hospital, where our heroes are holed up, with hundreds of his closest walker friends. But assuming the main characters triumph this episode (and they probably will), are we going to conclude the Whisperer arc in Season 10? If we’re moving into the Commonwealth story from the comics, it makes sense to wrap the old story up in order to really delve into this new community.

4 Are Daryl and Carol friends again?

Or, at the very least, are they on speaking terms? We know Daryl (Norman Reedus) is “never gonna hate” her – he said that himself. But after Carol’s rage exploded – literally, thanks to some dynamite – in the cave, there’s been a distance between the two, the likes of which we haven’t seen since Season 1. Here’s hoping they get a minute to talk about their feelings.

5 What’s the deal with Maggie?

Last we heard of Maggie Rhee (Lauren Cohan), she was leaving to go join Georgie after sparing Negan’s (Jeffrey Dean Morgan) life. We know Carol (Melissa McBride) had been writing to her, so it’s likely the news of Enid (Katelyn Nacon) and Jesus’ (Tom Payne) untimely ends has drawn her back home. But what has she been up to this whole time? Where has she been?

October Overhaul

A Shortened Regular Season Slides Into MLB's Expanded Playoffs. By Ryan A. Berenz

The boys of summer got a late start due to COVID-19, but they're hoping to make up for it with a bigger fall.

The 60-game MLB regular season wasn't the usual 162-game grind that separates baseball's wheat from its chaff, so the playoffs have been expanded to include more teams in a slightly different format. The postseason expands from 10 teams to 16 – eight from each league – with three division champions, three division runners-up and two wild-card teams seeded 1-8.

The wild-card round begins Sept. 29 and consists of best-of-three-game series instead of one winner-take-all game. The format is 1 vs. 8, 2 vs. 7, 3 vs. 6 and 4 vs. 5, with all games played at the higher-seeded team's home park. There are no byes for the top teams, so the wild-card round could have huge upsets. ESPN airs seven of the series and TBS airs one.

Beginning with the best-of-five-game division series, all playoff games will be played in a "bubble" at neutral sites: AL games take place in San Diego and Los Angeles, and NL games take place in Houston and Arlington, Texas. The World Series will be played entirely at Globe Life Field in Arlington, with Game 1 scheduled for Oct. 20 and Game 7, if necessary, planned for Oct. 28. FOX again has exclusive coverage of the World Series.

Likely AL playoff teams at the time of this writing include the Tampa Bay Rays, N.Y. Yankees, Toronto Blue Jays, Chicago White Sox, Cleveland Indians, Minnesota Twins, Oakland A's and Houston Astros. Frontrunners for division crowns in the NL were the Atlanta Braves, L.A. Dodgers and Chicago Cubs, and a glut of teams were in contention for the remaining NL playoff berths.

How will history view the 2020 World Series champion, and will the title have a literal or figurative asterisk attached to it? It will no doubt be a bittersweet win for fans unable to attend the games in person or gather in large numbers to celebrate a championship.

Make It A Movie Night!

CRITIC PICK OF THE MONTH

Make It A Movie Night!

The classic Disney animated tale gets the live-action treatment in glorious fashion. It is a big, bold and beautiful look at a story of courage and honor. I loved the visuals and the strong message to young girls and women everywhere about being who you are regardless of the obstacles in your way. Solid performances all around make for an adventure-filled excursion. Please note that this does not feature songs and comedy like the animated film, and it is rated PG-13.

It's my pick of the month.

Paul Hall is a nationally syndicated film critic and member of the Broadcast Film Critics Association (BFCA).

Mulan

(Adventure) The classic tale of a girl transitioning into a young woman and establishing herself as a great warrior is not the classic Disney adventure. While the animated film had songs and humor throughout, this version by director Niki Caro delivers a strong message in a film full of action and lush landscapes. Yifei Liu, Donnie Yen, Gong Li (PG-13, 1:55)
Premieres Oct. 5

Fatima

(Drama) The story of the small town that is torn apart when three young children witness the Virgin Mary. As the believers pour into the town, the doubters provide opposition as the excited children simply believe. Harvey Keitel, Goran Visnjic, Lúcia Moniz (PG-13, 1:53)
Premieres Oct. 27

 Make It A Movie Night! A faith-centered film that will resonate with believers everywhere.

ACROSS & DOWN

By Donna Pettman

DIRECTIONS

Rearrange the letters in each group to form a word. Place the words into the diagram so that the same words read both across and down. (The first word across is the same as the first word down and so on.) The letter groups are not necessarily placed next to the row of the diagram in which they go.

How to use

If you live for sports on TV, then Hopper Magazine's Sports section is for you. Programming is categorized alphabetically by sport, then by date and time, so you can simply reference only the live events you wish to view. With more than 60 networks featured in this section, you won't miss an inning, down, shot, lap or hand. Availability of regional sports networks is based on your geographical location and programming package subscription.

STAR OF THE MONTH: PETER CUSHING: "EARLY WORK"

TCM 132, beginning at 8pm

CATCH A CLASSIC!

It makes sense that TCM would celebrate British actor Peter Cushing each Monday in a spooky month like October; he is probably best remembered for his appearances in Hammer horror films (which you'll certainly see in upcoming weeks) or in villainous roles, as in the original Star Wars. But tonight you'll get to see Cushing in dramatic and comedic roles that help demonstrate the range he had. These films encompass works the actor did early in his career, as well as movies he did during the heights of his Hammer fame. The evening includes titles like Cash on Demand (1961), The End of the Affair (1955), Hamlet (1948), A Chump at Oxford (1940, a Laurel and Hardy comedy featuring Cushing in a bit role as a student) and more.

The Haunting of Hill House creator Mike Flanagan and producer Trevor Macy are behind this next chapter of The Haunting anthology series. This one borrows from Henry James' classic supernatural tales written in the 19th century, like The Turn of the Screw, but is set in 1980s England. After an au pair's tragic death, Henry Wingrave (Henry Thomas) hires a young American nanny (Victoria Pedretti) to care for his orphaned niece and nephew (Amelie Bea Smith, Benjamin Evan Ainsworth), who reside at Bly Manor with himself and various servants. But all is not as it seems at the manor, where "dead" doesn't mean gone.

FRIGHT FAVORITES: "BACK FROM THE GRAVE"

TCM 132, beginning at 8pm

CLASSIC!

As many horror films have demonstrated, the grave is not always a person's final resting spot. Tonight's creepy films are among those featuring dead people who have risen again, and usually not with the best of intentions. The evening begins with Boris Karloff as the title creature of the 1933 British film The Ghoul. This is followed by Basil Rathbone in The Black Sleep (1956); Lionel Barrymore and Bela Lugosi in Mark of the Vampire (1935); and Night of the Living Dead, George A. Romero's low-budget 1968 classic that set the standard for all zombie movies that have come since.

STAR OF THE MONTH: PETER CUSHING: "HAMMER HORRORS"

TCM 132, beginning at 8pm
CATCH A CLASSIC!
Tonight's celebration of actor Peter Cushing features a number of films for which he is probably best remembered, titles produced by Britain's legendary Hammer Studios. The first four films airing tonight feature some of Cushing's famous pairings with Christopher Lee. Things start with Cushing as Sherlock Holmes in The Hound of the Baskervilles (1959). This is followed by Horror of Dracula (1958), the first film to feature Cushing as vampire hunter Van Helsing and Lee as the titular monster. Also on the lineup are Cushing and Lee in The Mummy (1959); The Curse of Frankenstein (1957), Hammer's first color film, which established the "Hammer horror" style, featured Cushing in his first lead role and again paired him with Lee; and more.

ENSLAVED SERIES FINALE!

TCM MORNING & AFTERNOON MOVIES: SCREWBALL COMEDIES

TCM 132, beginning at 6:15am
CATCH A CLASSIC!
Along with musicals, a dominant movie type in Hollywood during the 1930s and early '40s was the screwball comedy. Enjoy a number of fine examples from the heyday of this humorous romantic film subgenre today with a nearly 14-hour lineup of films. The marathon refreshingly steers clear of the most obvious screwball comedies that, as good as they are, have probably been seen by classic movie fans many times. TCM offers the chance to potentially discover and enjoy titles like Bette Davis and George Brent in Front Page Woman (1935); Clark Gable and Myrna Loy in Wife vs. Secretary (1936); Errol Flynn and Olivia de Havilland in Four's a Crowd (1938); Claudette Colbert and James Stewart in It's a Wonderful World (1939); and more.

SUPERSTORE NBC, 8pm SEASON PREMIERE!

The critically acclaimed comedy returns for Season 6, with a big casting change – longtime star America Ferrera announced she was leaving the show after its fifth season last year. However, she will appear in the first episode of this season to wrap up her character Amy's storyline, as production on that episode – originally scheduled to be filmed last spring and air at the end of Season 5 – was delayed due to the pandemic.

THE KILLERS TCM 132, 8pm

This 1964 thriller was the second feature film adaptation of Ernest Hemingway's classic existential short story (the 1946 version starring Burt Lancaster may be more well-known). Hemingway's tale has long been praised for the economy of its storytelling, and this film, too – courtesy of Gene L. Coon's screenplay and Don Siegel's direction – keeps propelling the action forward. Things begin when two hitmen (portrayed by Lee Marvin and Clu Gulager) arrive at a school seeking a teacher (John Cassavetes), and things only intensify from there. The film is fairly brutal for its time, and anticipates some of the violent action Siegel would also later incorporate in films like Dirty Harry. The Killers was originally intended to be one of the first made-for-TV movies, but NBC deemed it too intense for television, and the film was released to theaters. Also starring Angie Dickinson, Ronald Reagan, Claude Akins and Norman Fell, it remains a noir crime classic on par with the Lancaster-led film.

CITIZEN KANE TCM 132, 5:45pm CATCH A CLASSIC!

Orson Welles' 1941 classic is regularly at, or very near, the top of many people's list of greatest movies of all time, and watching it again (or for the first time) tonight, you will be reminded why. After nearly 80 years, the stunningly original innovation that Welles put into the film's direction and camerawork, with the help of Oscar-nominated cinematographer Gregg Toland, helps it look like it could have been made in the modern era – it's easy to forget it was produced in the early '40s. It's all the more impressive when you realize that Welles made this masterful, Best Picture Oscar-nominated film when he was only in his mid 20s. Along with directing (for which he received an Oscar nomination), producing and cowriting Citizen Kane (with Herman J. Mankiewicz; the duo won the Oscar for Best Original Screenplay), Welles also stars in his Best Actor Oscar-nominated title role, a not-so-subtle dramatization of tycoon William Randolph Hearst.
