Fun run SOS

Cottage Hospital would like its banner back. On May 5, the hospital sponsored its annual Fun Run for health and fitness. Stretched across the street near the hospital was a heavy-duty banner that read "Cottage Hospital Fun Run-Start."

Somebody took it after the race. The banner was originally put up by the Farms fire department with the help of their hook-and-ladder truck and was connected to a tree and a light pole. "We don't know how they managed it, but someone shimmed up the tree and pole to take it down," said Jan Duster, director of public relations. "We made that banner ourselves just last year. It was heavy-duty fabric and was weighted on the bottom with a chain to keep it from flapping too much. We'd really like it back, no questions asked, since it represents a lot of time, effort and money on our part."

Jan says the banner can be dropped off at the information desk, or call her at 884-8600, ext. 2456.

C'mon gang, the fun run was a benefit for the community. Bring back the banner.

Looking for hip lips

If you have a hairy growth located just below your nose, this story is for you.

The March of Dimes is sponsoring a "Mr. Michigan Moustache" contest Wednesday, June 19, at 8 p.m. at the Red Parrott in Southfield.

The moustaches will be judged by a panel of celebrities looking for the following characteristics: general appearance and upkeep, personality, smile and charisma, showmanship and moustache antics.

Joe Neussendorfer, president of the Michigan Moustache Hall of Fame, says all entrants will be inducted into the hall, which includes the likes of such luminaries as U.S. Congressman Bob Carr and WCZY radio personality Dick Purton.

Entry fee for contestants is $5 and the grand prize is four days and three nights in West Palm Beach, including airfare, meals and lodging. There will be a $3 admission fee for spectators.

Another aspect to the competition will be a Tom Selleck look-alike contest. Thank the Lord it's not a Tom Greenwood look-alike contest.

The competition is open to men of all ages, according to the March of Dimes. But I'll just bet if you're a woman with a decent moustache, they'd let you enter too.

Flash! update

Apparently there's been more than one Pointer appointed to the Point.

We ran a story in the May 30 edition about a South High School senior who had to turn down her appointment to West Point because of an athletic injury.

In the story, we pointed out that Joey Ann Johnston was the first female cadet from Grosse Pointe. Apparently that's not accurate. The story brought a call from Robert A. Pope, of the Woods, who informed us his daughter, Patti Anne, a 1978 graduate of North High School, went to West Point after graduation.

According to her father, Patti Anne stayed at the Point one year, then left and enrolled at Michigan State University.

Even though she left the Point, Patti Anne apparently took a little of it with her. She married West Point graduate Robert Brooks Brown, who incidentally is a 1977 graduate of North High School, and they have a daughter and live in Colorado Springs. Brown is a company Commander stationed at Fort Carson.

Voters turn out incumbent in board election

By Mike Andrzejczyk

There will be two new faces around the Board of Education table come July 8.

Carol Marr and Carl Anderson outpolled incumbent Ernest Buechler and challenger Cindy Pangborn Monday for the two, four-year terms on the school board.

Running a low-spending, high-tech campaign, Mrs. Marr, 37, from the Farms, was the top vote-getter with 1,937. The mother of two won four of the seven precincts: the Park, City, Woods and Shores. She tied for the most votes in Harper Woods and took the second-highest number of absentee ballots.

Anderson, a special needs teacher in St. Clair Shores and a Woods resident, won in the Farms but consistently out-pollied incumbent Buechler to take the second four-year slot.

Buechler, who successfully defended himself last year against a recall campaign, was at the central board offices Monday night with his wife and one of three sons to watch the votes come in. When results from the first three precincts were reported, he had fallen behind Anderson by 130 votes, a deficit he could not make up in the final four precincts.

When the unofficial totals were announced, Buechler shook the hands of some of the board members present and left the building, saying he would talk about the election the following day.

A principal at Detroit's Wayne Elementary School, Dr. Buechler said he was disappointed by the results, but added, "I have called both winners to congratulate them, and told them I will make myself available to help them in their transition. I wish my opponents all the luck in the world."

He added there appear to be some hard feelings still in the community from the past two years' activities, adding that a large percentage of the voters took the election for granted.

Buechler said he will remain active in the school system and didn't rule out a possible return bid for the school board in coming years.

The vote, certified later that night by the Board of Canvassers, dergarten, a seven-period day at the high schools, and changes in elementary and secondary curriculum. The board also raised graduation requirements, made improvements to its vocational and special education department and most recently started a review of new student policies.

Ironically, the two top vote-getters are the two candidates who were embroiled in the most controversy during the campaign. Mrs. Marr faced accusations that she misrepresented her role in last year's recall work, while Anderson phone solicitors were accused of making scurrilous comments about another candidate.

Also, last week, the United States Postal Service told a political committee that opposed Proposal C last fall that it would have to pay $678.75, the difference between the non-profit rate it used for mass mailings and the bulk rate it should have paid for about 13,500 pieces of literature it sent out to defeat the tax limiting proposal.

Anderson was president of Citizens Against Proposal C and called the use of the non-profit rate (Continued on Page 21A) showed Mrs. Marr garnering 1,937 votes, Anderson, 1,896; Buechler, 1,743; and Pangborn, 1,517. Total votes cast were 3,831, about 8 percent of the more than 45,000 people in the Pointes and Harper Woods who are registered to vote.

Like Catherine Brierly, who did not seek re-election to her second term this time, Buechler leaves the board after four tumultuous years. During his term, the board closed Barnes Elementary School, fought off a recall campaign of three of its members, moved the sixth-graders into the middle schools, hired one superintendent and faced the problems of dealing with the death of its interim choice as well.

The system also embarked on a computer education program as well as developing a full-day kin-

Police catch armed robbers

By Nancy Parmenter

Police from the Park and the Farms converged on three alleged armed robbers and caught them within four minutes of their getaway June 4. The three had allegedly held up Rand Drugs in the Farms, robbing the cashbox, the store owner and a female employee.

Charged with three robbery counts each are David Lee Byrd, also known as Grover Roscoe, 31, and John Webb Jr., 30, both of Washington, D.C., but currently staying in Inkster, and Sheila Owens, alias Angetta Webb, 30, of Highland Park. Byrd is also charged with possession of a firearm and Webb with second-degree criminal sexual conduct. All three are being held in the Wayne County jail on bonds ranging from $100,000 to $500,000.

Police said the two men entered the Rand drugstore from separate entrances on Tuesday and ordered the owner and employee to lie face down on the floor "or be killed." Webb allegedly thrust his hand up the skirt of the female employee and grabbed her buttocks. She reared up to stop him and he struck her on the back of the head and forced her back on the floor.

One of the men, later identified as Byrd, was allegedly carrying a .25 caliber nickel-plated automatic pistol. They demanded morphine, desoxyn, percodan, Tylenol 4 and cash, according to the police report.

They took some Tylenol 4 and approximately $100 from the two victims and several hundred dollars from the store's cash box. The exact amount is "kind of a mystery," according to Farms Det. George Van Tiem. "We were told $317 and $400, but there wasn't near that found on them. Maybe they were stuffing it in their pockets as they ran down the alley and some fell."

The men warned the victims not to look up as they left the store. Within less than a minute, one of them came back in to check that they were still on the floor. Then they ran down the alley and fled in a copper-and-white Cadillac driven by Owens.

Within four minutes, the victims had telephoned the Farms police, who broadcast a description made by customers who had entered the store just as the alleged thieves were fleeing. Police from several Pointe communities converged on Mack Avenue, where the car had last been seen.

Park police saw the Cadillac with a lone woman driver (Webb and Byrd were hiding in the back seat) and stopped it at Mack and Audubon.

"It was a good catch," said Farms Det. Mark Brecht. "They were identified in a line-up and both of them admitted the robbery to us. It was a good, strong case."

"What really did the trick was Foto-faxing the prints to Lansing," agreed Van Tiem. Foto-fax is a method of electronically transmitting fingerprints or photographs to a central location for identification. Both the Michigan State Police and the FBI are connected to the system.

The Foto-fax turned up information that Byrd is wanted on several charges in Alabama. Officials there are currently going through extradition procedures, but Farms detectives said they expect him to be tried in Wayne County first.

There is a possible life sentence for armed robbery, police said. Using a gun to commit a felony automatically adds two years to whatever other sentence is imposed. Second-degree criminal sexual conduct is punishable by up to 15 years.

Both men insisted that Ms. Owens was not aware of the intent to rob the drugstore. She was charged on the same three robbery counts, however. "In Michigan, all parties are charged as principals," said Brecht.

Police suspect that the copper-and-white Cadillac has been used in other metropolitan-area robberies.

Traffic study delay irks residents

By Nancy Parmenter

Dissatisfaction with progress on the Farms study on traffic flow seems universal. Following a preliminary public meeting May 13, the firm of Goodell and Grivas, which prepared the report, was sent back to the drawing board to correct numerous inaccuracies.

The report was filled with "glowing mistakes," Farms Police Chief Robert Ferber told the council May 20. He said some of the data were incorrect and that some of the recommendations contradicted each other.

Ferber said he was particularly unhappy that he had not received the report early enough to give his staff time to look it over. "It wrecked my credibility," he said. "I want to be able to look at it and make my own recommendations."

Ferber requested that the final report be delayed for error correction and review. The presentation is now scheduled for Aug. 26.

Several residents of McMillan and McKinley roads attended the subsequent Farms council meeting, June 3, to express "dismay" over the delay. They were representatives of the Moran-McMillan Steering Committee, which petitioned for street closings and traffic remediation in September.

"The factual accuracy of the report is our first concern," resident Michael Clyne told the council. He said the group is also concerned that Hill expansion plans were not taken into consideration.

"We may have development occurring before council has the opportunity to review the plan," he said, referring to plans by Cottage Hospital to build a parking structure at Muir Road.

Cottage's plan hinges on a certificate of need, which it has not yet received.

Ferber defended the omission of the development plans. "The study was designed to give us a data base — show us what exists now," he said.

Clyne explained later that there is a significant amount of morning truck traffic feeding businesses on the Hill, as well as commuter mini-rush hours in the morning and afternoon and heavy traffic on Saturdays.

"The problem is that officials consider weekends atypical," he said. "They always base traffic counts on weekday traffic." Clyne said residents of corner houses and families with small children are most bothered by the traffic.

Clyne said the group of residents attended the meeting to let the council know "we're still around and genuinely interested. The council is trying to do the right thing; they're being conservative, but that's good."

Resident Barbara Stanley challenged the statistical data in the traffic report. Several counts were taken with widely differing results which were all defended by the consultant, she said.

"I deal in statistics," she said. "I believe something is wrong. . . The figures, I believe, are accurate, but

Street closings off for now, Park says

By Pat Paholsky

The issue of street closings is closed, at least for the time being, the Park council decided Monday.

Accepting the recommendation of the planning commission, the council agreed to take no action regarding street closing requests in the 1400 blocks bordering Mack Avenue from Cadieux to Balfour. The planning commission and the administration will concentrate instead on seeking solutions to traffic problems in the 1400 blocks from Balfour to Wayburn.

The resolution adopted unanimously by the council Monday night further directed the planning commission and city administrators to continue studying all six sub-areas singled out by the ad hoc committee appointed last September to look into the problem. The committee submitted its report to the planning commission May 21 and concluded that Area 3, bounded by Mack and Charlevoix and from Balfour to Wayburn, had the most problems.

Councilman David Gaskin, who also serves on the planning commission, said his personal feelings were that "the city ought to clear the air on street closings in areas 1 and 2 (Cadieux to Balfour)."

"In Area 3 all possibilities are open, including street closings," he said. "There's a definite statement being made in (areas) 1 and 2 — the closings are off. We will look at ways to alleviate the problems."

Gaskin said the planning commission reached its recommendation when it determined that closing one street would place a burden on other streets. He said even if a closing were desirable, the commission felt it would not deter crime. He added that services such as police and fire, snow removal and garbage pick-up would be impeded with a closure.

"The commission feels it's not in the best interest of the community to close streets," he said. "The commission believes the city should not enhance one neighborhood over the detriment of another."

Resident Jim Robson told council members he was disappointed with their action. "I wish you would have considered cul-de-sacking at least on a temporary basis."

The next regular meeting of the Park council is rescheduled to Monday, June 17, to discuss public safety. There will be no meeting June 24.

Rule No. 1 in firefighting

Nobody expects the harbor seaweed to catch fire, but that's what it did a week ago Wednesday down by the Farms park. Folks on the scene tried to extinguish it with sand, which just filtered through the seaweed and fell to the lake floor. But the Farms firefighters came to the rescue and put it out with — what else? — water.

St. John Hospital opens $60.5 million addition

More than 8,000 people toured Saint John Hospital's new $60.5 million Concentrated Care Building addition Sunday, June 9.

Formal dedication of the 246,000 square-foot, five-story facility opened a major segment of the $117 million building project that includes renovation of the existing hospital and a new 525-vehicle parking deck.

"This is a firm commitment to providing the northeast side with state-of-the-art medical excellence in a most convenient, comfortable and pleasant facility," said Glenn A. Wesselmann, president of Saint John Hospital and its not-for-profit holding corporation, St. Clair Health Corporation, which is sponsored by the Sisters of St. Joseph.

As the flagship of the corporation, the 607-bed hospital is recognized as a major referral center for southeastern Michigan, providing a broad spectrum of health care services to the community.

The new Emergency Center will have 23 stations to meet the needs of thousands of patients yearly. The Emergency Center is at the hub of activity at Saint John Hospital — one of the few designated trauma centers in the state.

Adjacent to it will be the new Express Care Center. There, patients with minor injuries and illnesses will be treated faster and at less cost than the more serious ailments, which must be handled in the Emergency Center.

Also located in the new Concentrated Care Building will be labor and delivery suites and special facilities supporting family centered birth experiences. The hospital is a regional referral center for high risk pregnancies.

Located next to Labor and Delivery will be an ultra-modern Neonatal Intensive Care Unit, which will care for up to 30 critically ill infants, brought in from hospitals throughout the area.

New Pediatrics and Pediatric Intensive Care Units will open to meet the special needs of very sick children.

New and expanded laboratory and radiology areas will support the 12 new operating rooms — including two for open heart surgery — as well as the hospital's other patient care areas.

A new unit specially for ambulatory surgery patients will open, with facilities for adult and child procedures and recovery as outpatients.

Critical Care Units will move into the new addition, with 30 beds for coronary, surgical and intensively ill patients.

A $111,515,000 tax-exempt bond issue was supported by the donation of additional millions of dollars by hospital employees, medical staff, trustees, Pontbonne Auxiliary, Men's Guild, foundations and the public.

Information about the hospital is available by calling 343-4000.

Farms court defends OUIL sentences

By Nancy Parmenter

The dust is still settling in the aftermath of a May 12 Detroit News study rating Grosse Pointe Farms the most lenient court in the state with reference to drunk drivers. Court officials are calling the study inaccurate, not so much in its statistics as in its interpretation.

The News study looked at fines, plea bargains and jail sentences to determine the ranking of each court. Farms Municipal Judge Robert Pytell agrees that he allows plea bargaining and tends not to rely on jail as a sentencing option, but insists he is still strict.

"We're very oriented toward therapy," said Grosse Pointe chief probation officer Suzanne O'Shea, whose department is responsible for screening offenders and providing the court with treatment recommendations. "I've never seen any evidence that punishment stops a disease. Alcoholism is a treatable disease; therapy is the best way to stop repeat offenses."

Pytell pointed out that one of his sentencing options is a suspended jail sentence with mandatory inpatient treatment at an alcohol treatment center. "Hospital is a form of incarceration," he said. "I know the state doesn't see it that way, but (the offender) is in violation of his probation if he leaves before his 28 days are up. He can go to jail."

According to the News study, Pytell sentenced only 1.4 percent of his cases to jail. The judge argues that the statistical sample used was too small.

The Farms had 205 OUIL (operating under the influence of liquor) arrests during 1984. Not all of them made it to court during that calendar year, however. Because of the delay in getting cases to court, the News study counted only cases in which the offenders were both arrested and convicted in 1984. In the Farms, there were 74 such cases.

Ed Mozam, of the Secretary of State's department, keeps statistics on courts in southeastern Michigan. He said that although the study used only about one-third of the Farms cases, the same would hold true for most court jurisdictions, for the same reasons. He also said that a sampling of one-third is statistically accurate.

"But there's a problem with averages," Mozam said. "You can't compare small courts and large courts. If you send 100 people to jail for 10 days, your average jail time is 10 days. If (a small court) sends one guy to jail for 90 days, the average is 90 days."

Ms. O'Shea said it is easier to sentence offenders to jail in smaller counties because of the space factor. "There's a six- to eight-month waiting list at the Wayne County jail," she said. "It works better to give suspended sentences with inpatient or out-patient treatment or community service."

Pytell said he does not frequently sentence drunk drivers to community service, but that is useful for the "truly remorseful person." When he does use the community service option, it is always in addition to the fine, he said.

The Farms ranked 121 out of 374 in the severity of fines. OUIL convictions are punishable by a maximum fine of $500, while the lesser offense of OWI (operating while impaired) carries a maximum fine of $300. The Farms' average fine in 1984 was $240.41.

Farms court clerk Marge Foster estimated the typical cost, including fine, court cost, oversight (for probation), screening fee, and therapy at about $600, at the high end of Pytell's ballpark guess of $400-$600. Sample cases she checked included one offender charged with OUIL and bargained down to OWI with a total cost package of $580, plus one day in jail (for the dryout period), a suspended license, and six months' probation. A second sample, a similar plea-bargained case, cost the offender $300 plus unspecified out-patient therapy costs and a suspended license.

Pytell said he routinely accepts recommendations of reduced charges from the city prosecutor, Peter O'Rourke. For one thing, "it is common practice to reduce charges for the first offense," he said. Asked if he would consider a refusal to reduce the charges unduly punitive, he said, "As a defense attorney, I would think it was." Court officials agree that a large percentage of Farms OUIL cases are first offenders.

Firm statistics are hard to come by. Neither the courts nor the probation department keep statistics on reduced-charge convictions. The information is available on the individual case sheets, but would have to be manually counted, Ms. O'Shea said.

Ms. Foster began the job of breaking down the statistics for the Farms, but said time constraints prevented her getting past July 1984. She declined to release a partial compilation, citing possible statistical inaccuracy.

However, her partial list showed 101 OUIL arrests and 94 convictions through July, "most" of them on the reduced charge of OWI. "Already in 1985, there were 93 OUILs and almost all of them were convicted — that's fresh in my mind," she said. She made the statement before the May 29 caseload of 45 OUILs hit the court docket.

A huge increase in OUILs is blamed by court officials for a corresponding increase in plea bargaining down to OWIs. In June 1984, the caseload took a dramatic surge upward, Pytell said.

"The number of cases has a direct bearing on negotiations," he said. "(Prosecutor O'Rourke) is doing an outstanding job with a tripled caseload." Pytell anticipated that the larger caseload will result in greater delays in coming to trial. At present, Farms cases require about three months, including sentencing, Pytell estimated.

The reduction of charges has a direct bearing on the fines levied. Because the maximum fine for OWI is $300 and the majority of convictions are for OWI, the Farms' average is pulled down. At $240, it remains higher than the 10 jurisdictions rated most lenient by the News (from $137 to $225), but substantially lower than the 10 strictest courts. The range of fines in the strict courts, $519 to $739, shows that those courts either have a high percentage of second or third offenders or that they do not make a practice of reducing charges, or both.

Not all courts reduce charges. According to the Detroit News, Centreville, the toughest court, fines all first offenders $200 plus $10 for every point of blood alcohol level. Midland, the second toughest court, fines all first offenders $500 with no exceptions.

Farms prosecutor Peter O'Rourke said he uses guidelines to decide whether to recommend a reduced sentence. There will be no reduction if there is a prior offense, if the blood alcohol level is high, or if there are aggravating circumstances such as an accident. "I believe the legislature intended (negotiation) to be available under those circumstances," he said. O'Rourke also cited the high volume of cases, but added, "by far, most are first-timers. Most people learn their lesson."

O'Rourke said that the Farms has a high rate of arrests and convictions on a per capita basis and that it has the toughest enforcement of the five Pointes. The other Pointe communities were not included in the Detroit News study because the number of OUIL cases was too small.

Local arrest and conviction figures suffer from the same problem that the Detroit News study encountered: Many of the cases are not arrested and convicted in the same year. Nowhere does this become more evident than in the statistics from the Woods, where 1984 convictions outstripped arrests.

Figures from the offices of the prosecutor and probation show that in 1984, the City had five arrests and three convictions, the Shores had 21 arrests and 14 convictions, the Woods had 69 arrests and 73 convictions, and the Park had 70 arrests and 70 convictions.

O'Rourke said the Detroit News' interpretation of the statistics "really distorted the true exercise of enforcement responsibilities. We need more uniform enforcement in the five Pointes," he added. "I'd like to see all the communities take a strong stand on this serious social problem. Maybe that is something positive that could come out of that article."

Trees fall to vandals

Students and faculty members at North High School are upset over the recent destruction of eight ornamental trees on school property. According to officials, vandals cut down five flowering trees — plum, crab, pear and locust — sometime around midnight June 4. The school said it would cost $2,025 to replace the eight trees, but because of budget restraints, the replantings would not be accomplished in the near future. John Kastran, principal, said the school was treating the destruction as vandalism and not as a senior class prank. Kastran said the seniors were upset over the incident and felt it was committed by persons intent on discrediting the seniors.

School board holds public hearing on next year's $40 million budget

By Mike Andrzejczyk

The Board of Education is expected to adopt its 1985-86 fiscal year budget in about the same form as was presented at a public hearing Monday, June 3, in the administration building.

The school board met Tuesday night, after press time. School officials said no requests from board members have come to them asking for amendments in the proposed budget, which forecasts spending of $40.6 million on its general, library, debt and building and site funds.

The hour-long hearing saw numerous requests by residents for increased spending to fund another special education teaching position and a right-field fence for North's baseball field. Only school board candidate Cindy Pangborn challenged spending figures and asked the board to cut spending.

Also speaking at the hearing was library director emeritus William Peters, who asked the board to consider a clearer reporting of costs to the library fund. Peters noted that because libraries Director Charles Hanson was administrator not only of the public libraries but of school libraries as well, his salary should be pro-rated to the library and general fund to reflect the amount of time he spends in each area.

Likewise, a $10,000 budget expense for a consultant's development of a computer program for the public and school libraries should also be pro-rated to the separate accounts, Peters said. Such accounting would hold faith with the electorate that expects a certain amount of millage to be spent on its public libraries, he added.

Peters found a supporter in Jon Gandelot. The board vice president said it was a good idea from an accounting point of view to split costs between the library and general fund to reflect the true expenditures taken from each. Gandelot also asked for a review of the history of the district's decision to separate its general fund and library millages.

A number of residents spoke to the board, asking for an additional speech and hearing disorders specialist for the special education department.

John Whelan, speech pathologist chairman for the system's special education services, asked the board to consider extra funding to avert the layoff of a special education teacher.

Current staffing levels are such that each of the students involved in speech, language and hearing disorder therapy receives eight hours of attention a year, the same amount of time a student in a normal classroom receives in two weeks, Whelan said.

Speech, language and hearing disabilities are a relatively new area where changes in the law have changed the class of student involved in the program, bringing the more severely handicapped to the program for help, he added.

Speech pathologists already serve 21 special education classrooms and a couple dozen other programs, Whelan said. In the past, when a special education teacher has been laid off others have been able to pick up the caseload. That no longer seems possible, he added.

"We must provide the best possible education for the handicapped and reconsider the price of that one salary to see if that savings is worth the effectiveness of the program," Whelan said.

Five other parents spoke to the board, requesting their consideration of the the additional salary to fund an extra instructor. Cost of the position, with fringe benefits, could run from $28,000 to $36,000, school officials said.

School board candidates Carl Anderson, Carol Marr and Mrs. Pangborn spoke at the budget hearing.

Sharp words were exchanged between Gandelot and Mrs. Pangborn when the question about savings from closing Barnes Elementary School came up.

Mrs. Pangborn asked the board how much money was saved by closing the school and asked why taxes and spending were increasing when the board had said closing a school was going to save money.

Gandelot shot back that the closing wasn't a simple dollars-and-cents issue, and misrepresentation of the board's position had been done by opponents to school reorganization.

Further argument was quelled by board President Joan Hanpeter, who reminded the board that Monday's meeting was to gather information.

During her time before the board, Mrs. Marr asked for a clarification of teacher-student ratios at the elementary level and the requirement for in-service programs for teachers in elementary applications of computers.

Anderson asked for clarification of the proposed tax increase, wondering how much was caused by a decrease in property values.

None of the increase was caused by the 4 percent drop in property values because the district calculated its increase on the amount of extra revenue the tax levy would raise, Director of Business Affairs Christian Fenton said.

Although the budget has been approved, the board doesn't have to begin the process for setting a tax rate until August, when a truth in taxation hearing will have to be held. Setting of a tax rate will come in September.

The board will have all summer to possibly amend the budget and may indeed find a way to offset any tax increase, officials said. That possibility was spurred by a final amendment to this fiscal year's budget, which shows the district ending the school year with a fund equity of more than $3.1 million, $300,000 more than when the budget was drafted.

The board has already used $1 million from that fund to cut any tax increase.

Resident begins 50th year of selling cars

By Pat Paholsky

When Dick Warner first started selling Fords, a tudor sedan, deluxe model, cost $651.66. For $222.66 down, the buyer had monthly payments of $41. That was for 12 months. And it included fire and theft insurance and $50 deductible.

Today that down payment is what car buyers are shelling out every month for 48 and 50 months. And insurance is not included.

But Warner, who began selling cars in 1935, said it was harder to sell a car then because people didn't have the money.

Now in his 50th year as a car

Ashland and Jefferson. Over the years, he remained on the east side of Detroit and is now with Roy O'Brien in St. Clair Shores.

A believer in his product, Warner said he'd always driven a Ford. He speaks with pride of the 1957 model that had a retractable steel roof. It cost about $2,700, a healthy sum at the time. The automaker only built about 50,000 of them, Warner said, and stopped production because they were too expensive.

He is now selling cars to the grandchildren of his customers. About 80 percent of his sales are through referrals and repeat customers, and Warner said he has with money that was curled up from being in a can.

Warner also sold a car to a man who came in the showroom with a paper bag. None of the salesman were paying attention to the man, Warner said, and when he sold him a car, the man paid the total amount out of the bag with $5 and $10 bills. The man then came back the next month and bought a car for his daughter, again paying cash.

Warner and his wife Madeline, who have lived in Grosse Pointe since their marriage in 1945, like to travel. They've gone to Europe six or seven times on War Memorial-sponsored trips. In 1964, he said they were in Edinborough, Scotland, on one of those trips, and they had stopped for breakfast at an inn.

"It was colder than the devil," he said, and as they walked through the room, he heard a voice saying, "I suppose you're going to try to sell me a car." The voice belonged to one of his customers and neither had any idea the other would be there in that place.

The Warners, whose two children are grown, live in the house his parents built in the Shores in 1941. His son and family now are living in what was their home in the Woods. A daughter and her family live in Ypsilanti.

While 50 years is a good long time to be working, Warner has no plans to retire.

"I enjoy what I'm doing. Why retire? It's interesting and I'm not chained down to a desk and I'm talking to people all the time."

A photo similar to this appeared in the May 9, 1957 edition of the Grosse Pointe News. It said that a number of new Ford Skyliners, with retractable hardtops, had been delivered to Pointe families. Dick Warner, a salesman at Adam-Simms Inc. and one of the new Skyliner owners, is shown here as the "swank car does its disappearing act," the article said. Seated in the car are his two children, Billy and Kathy, who had just returned from classes at Mason School.

salesman — "I've always been with Ford" — Warner has seen a lot of changes in the industry. The biggest change between then and now?

"The paperwork is horrendous," he says, "but you have far more choices now."

"Back in 1955, we had about six colors and two upholstery. All cars had a standard transmission and eight cylinders and everything after that was an accessory," he said.

And back then, customers did not order cars. They bought from whatever the dealer had on hand.

"There was no model selection," Warner said. "Now you have so many combinations."

Twelve months was the normal financing period, but a buyer could get payments spread out over 18 months if necessary.

"Now we're doing contracts for five years," he said. "Most of it is for 48 months and we don't often do 24 or 36 months financing anymore."

Warner started his long career with Peter J. Platte Motor Sales on had lots of fun over the years.

"In Detroit everybody is car-minded. People have a good idea of what they want to buy and we don't cross cars much. I'm not taking business from Chevrolet. Detroit's a little bit different in that respect."

Now he said, dealers are taking in cars on trade that are six and seven years old.

"It used to be in the Grosse Pointe area that people traded in a car every two years and three years was the living end," he said. "Those cars had 15,000 to 18,000 miles on them."

He recalls taking in a 1923 Model T in trade for a 1936 Ford. He delivered the car to the customer and had to drive the Model T back, which he had never driven before. Not only that, the customer had never driven a gear shift, so they were giving each other lessons. The customer then got in his new car, drove it up his drive and right through the garage.

"He wasn't worried about the car at all," Warner remembered, adding that the customer paid him

Workshops in arts offered

A summer workshop schedule with "something for everyone" is being readied by the Macomb Community College Fine Arts Department and the Macomb Center for Performing Arts on Center Campus in Clinton Township.

The list of workshops, most concluding with concerts and performances by all participants, includes the Summer Jazz Workshop, June 24-29; the Orchestra Workshop, June 24-28, July 1-3 and July 5-6; the Theater Arts Workshop, July 1-3 and July 5-6; the Summer Band Workshop, July 7-12; the Piano Workshop, July 22-26; the Northern Regional Show Choir Workshop, Aug. 4-9 and the Music Theater Choreography Workshop Aug. 11-16.

Workshop sessions are open to all high school, college student and adult participants, and the Choreography, Show Choir, Piano, and Theater workshops also encourage junior high and grade school level enrollments.

Professional and college level instructors in the area will lead the workshop sessions, including Professor George R. Cavender, noted University of Michigan conductor of bands and orchestras, on the Metropolitan Summer Band Workshop staff, and Rob McConnell, Grammy Award winning trombonist-arranger and leader of the Boss Brass big band, instructing students in the Jazz Workshop. Santiago Rodrigues, silver medalist in the 1981 Van Cliburn Competition, will play in a recital to conclude the Piano Workshop.

All workshop sessions currently have openings, but registration should be completed early to guarantee the dates selected will be available. Information regarding cost of each workshop and reservation forms for any of the workshops may be obtained by calling Brenda Maltese at 286-2175. Center Campus is located at Hall (M-59) and Garfield Roads in Clinton Township.

A summer workshop schedule with "something for everyone" is being readied by the Macomb Community College Fine Arts Department and the Macomb Center for Performing Arts on Center Campus in Clinton Township.

The list of workshops, most concluding with concerts and performances by all participants, includes the Summer Jazz Workshop, June 24-29; the Orchestra Workshop, June 24-28, July 1-3 and July 5-6; the Theater Arts Workshop, July 1-3 and July 5-6; the Summer Band Workshop, July 7-12; the Piano Workshop, July 22-26; the Northern Regional Show Choir Workshop, Aug. 4-9 and the Music Theater Choreography Workshop Aug. 11-16.

Workshop sessions are open to all high school, college student and adult participants, and the Choreography, Show Choir, Piano, and Theater workshops also encourage junior high and grade school level enrollments.

Professional and college level instructors in the area will lead the workshop sessions, including Professor George R. Cavender, noted University of Michigan conductor of bands and orchestras, on the Metropolitan Summer Band Workshop staff, and Rob McConnell, Grammy Award winning trombonist-arranger and leader of the Boss Brass big band, instructing students in the Jazz Workshop. Santiago Rodrigues, silver medalist in the 1981 Van Cliburn Competition, will play in a recital to conclude the Piano Workshop.

All workshop sessions currently have openings, but registration should be completed early to guarantee the dates selected will be available. Information regarding cost of each workshop and reservation forms for any of the workshops may be obtained by calling Brenda Maltese at 286-2175. Center Campus is located at Hall (M-59) and Garfield Roads in Clinton Township.

A surprising school election

The Grosse Pointe school election campaign, which apparently had aroused few issues until a last-minute flurry of charges and counter-charges, produced another surprise in the results, with the defeat of the sole incumbent in the race.

Carol Marr led the ticket in her first race for the board while Carl D. Anderson was successful in his second campaign. Dr. Ernest Buechler, who lost out in his attempt to win a second term, ran third and Cindy Pangborn was fourth in the race to fill the two board seats.

It was the charge by Anderson supporters that Mrs. Marr had contributed funds to the Committee for Responsible School Government in 1984 when it supported the move to recall three board members that set off the last-minute activity in this year's campaign. In an interview, Mrs. Marr had told the Grosse Pointe News that she had not played an active role in the recall campaign and later explained, after the charge was made, that she had contributed to the campaign fund of Dr. Bill Brownscombe and that her contribution to him had been mistakenly included in the committee's campaign finance report.

Anderson, on the other hand, had been a strong supporter of the group opposing recall and his backers sought to play up the contribution by Mrs. Marr as evidence of her support for recall. What apparently happened in the final week or so of the campaign was that the supporters of Mrs. Marr and Anderson became so energetic over the issue that both candidates ran ahead of incumbent Buechler and Mrs. Pangborn.

Whatever the reasons for the outcome, the election does bring to the board two competent and well-qualified new members. This newspaper had endorsed Mrs. Marr and Dr. Buechler, but it also had pointed out that all four were "excellent candidates." Mrs. Marr has been an active volunteer in the school system's activities and as a parent and former teacher understands the problems here in the Pointes. Anderson, a parent and a teacher, also has been long active in school affairs in the Pointes, and in effect replaces Dr. Buechler, another professional educator in a system outside of the Pointes.

With the campaign over, the board now can concentrate on the pending issues which include such matters as giving final approval to the budget for the coming year, working out relationships with the new superintendent, reviewing the seven-period day and curriculum changes, and considering ways to deal with the continuing decline in enrollment.

Fortunately, both new board members have kept themselves well informed about school issues and should be able to work closely with the incumbent members toward solutions of school problems in order to meet the community's needs and desires. They will bring new ideas and new approaches that deserve attention but in the larger sense they are just as supportive of excellence in education as current members are.

The number of votes cast in the election was distressingly light, but it can be argued that the small turnout reflected community satisfaction with the board's performance rather than apathy. Yet the turnout of only about 3,800 people out of an estimated 45,000 registered voters was hardly a compliment to the Pointes which have prided themselves on their civic virtue.

Tax rollback still an issue

The political jockeying over the timing of the rollback of the state income tax continues in Lansing with even the Democrats who control the House Taxation Committee now proposing an earlier date than the one called for by Gov. James Blanchard.

Without action by the Legislature, the income tax would not drop to the old 4.6 percent rate until Oct. 1, 1987. But the Republican-controlled state Senate has passed a bill to set the rate at 4.6 percent next Jan. 1. The governor countered with a rollback date of July 1, 1986, and now the House Taxation committee has come up with a compromise, May 15, 1986.

One way or another, the rollback date will be set for 1986. That is assured by the fact that next year is an election year and both parties are well aware of the controversies that were begun after the 38 percent increase in the income tax rate in 1983. Those controversies led to the recall of two Democratic senators, their replacement by Republicans and GOP control of the Senate.

With both houses of the Legislature as well as the governor facing the voters again in 1986, both parties are trying to defuse the income tax issue. One of the problems is that nobody has a crystal ball that will accurately forecast how the state's economy will fare next year and how much of the budget will have to be spent to meet the needs of the poor, the unemployed and others requiring state services.

State Rep. William H. Bryant Jr. of Grosse Pointe has suggested that the income tax be cut back to 4.6 percent on Jan. 1, 1986, as the state Senate already has recommended, but that the withholding rate for next year be set on the basis of the size of the state's surplus at the end of the fiscal year on Sept. 30, 1985. He then would have the final 1986 rate set at the end of the 1986 fiscal year after the actual size of the surplus could be determined.

Bryant's proposal may overcomplicate an already complex issue, but it would appear to assure adequate funds to support necessary state services even if the state economy goes into another slump. There still would be the usual argument over which services are necessary but that could be solved by the customary compromises between the Republicans and the Democrats.

The timing of the income tax rate cut is only one of the tax problems facing Lansing, but it could have a major impact on individual taxpayers and on the 1986 election. That is why the Legislature and the governor are engaged in such a spirited sparring match over the date on which income taxes will be reduced again in Michigan next year.

Good news from WCCC

A new report from Phillip E. Runkel, state superintendent of public instruction, indicates that Wayne County Community College is continuing on its road back to financial stability and educational respectability.

Runkel said that the U.S. Department of Education has lifted all restrictions on student financial aid programs for WCCC students. The restrictions had been imposed five years ago because of record-keeping discrepancies that occurred for several years prior to 1980.

"In its letter removing all restrictions, the U.S. Department of Education said WCCC has demonstrated through its accomplishments in financial aid program management and student accounting a commitment to administering federal funds in accordance with all regulations governing these programs," Runkel said.

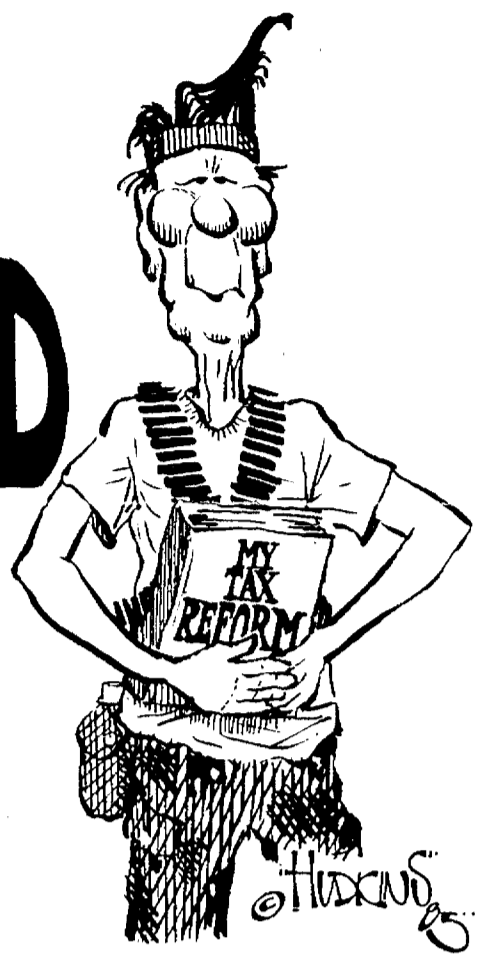

Earlier Runkel had announced that the academic credentials of more than 600 faculty members at WCCC had been documented during a nine-month review of the personal files of all active faculty members at WCCC. In addition, the new board of trustees has adopted a balanced budget and policies and procedures to strengthen the school's purchasing practices, travel and reimbursement policies, and payroll and personnel transactions.

With Runkel monitoring the college operations for the state, with a new board in place and with the college officials cooperating in the state's rescue efforts, the future of WCCC is noticeably brighter. As Runkel said, the removal of the federal student financial aid restrictions "is another significant step in efforts to bring credibility and respectability to Wayne County Community College."

As those efforts continue to bear fruit, the college also ought to be able to recapture some of the students who dropped out during its most troubled years. With both state and county funds dedicated to support of WCCC, county taxpayers have a right to expect their tax money will be well spent just as students have a right to expect their tuition and federal aid will be properly handled. The federal action lifts hopes that both aims now are being achieved.

Licensure will have positive effect

To the Editor:

In reading recent letters to the editor, we are struck by various misconceptions about the War Memorial's application for a liquor license.

This is not a wet/dry issue. Grosse Pointers have been legally consuming alcoholic beverages at the War Memorial for 30 years, and the War Memorial has successfully and responsibly sold and served alcoholic beverages with 24-hour licenses without problem or incident. Because the War Memorial is limited to only five 24-hour licenses per year, Grosse Pointe community groups and Grosse Pointe wedding receptions currently must physically "bring their own" and "take it out." As it stands now, the Center has limited control because it does not own the alcohol.

The question at hand is the matter of adopting a stricter policy. Under the new proposal, no alcoholic beverages will be available except through War Memorial channels. This will help stop the independent use of liquor at weddings, group functions, and the practice of brown-bagging. It is also a matter of facilitating our community's needs and interests in a more professional manner.

With our experience in observing and consulting other active community centers which are similar to our program and catering operation, the most professional and responsible manner of operation allows the host organization complete control over its usage and services including the control (ownership) of alcoholic beverages. It makes sense to have one closely regulated and restricted policy on alcohol dispensation rather than the various disjointed procedures that are currently utilized at the War Memorial. From a management standpoint, licensure would allow for stronger professional control and eliminate a multitude of problems that could arise if we continue under the current system. Patrons/groups would no longer be able to bring in their own alcoholic beverages thus giving the Center control over liquor consumption within the facility. Current policies are irregular, costly to groups; cumbersome, and really do not allow the professionalism that is expected from the War Memorial. Moreover, they are dangerous both socially and legally.

The community should understand that the War Memorial will not expand the number of functions with alcoholic beverages, will not relax its time of closing, and most certainly will not operate an open public bar — ever. License or no license, the War Memorial will not serve alcohol to youths. If the Center has ownership, no alcohol will be allowed to leave the premises or enter the parking lot after weddings or community group functions.

The board of directors has been studying this matter intensively for the past two-and-one-half years from the standpoint of ensuring that the Center meets its responsibilities to the community. We have met with, among others, municipal officials, user groups, community organizations, parents, surrounding churches, and all interested organized community resources that we were able to identify. Over half of the Grosse Pointe Farms households have responded in support of the War Memorial.

Our strict "Rules and Regulations Governing the Service of Alcohol" have been presented to the police chief and the Farms council, and we are willing to legally bind ourselves to them. We have also offered to compromise by offering an ongoing Community Advisory Committee to monitor and review these regulated restricted policies on a continuing basis.

The War Memorial is a dynamic community center whose primary mission is to facilitate the educational, cultural, civic, and patriotic needs and interests of our community.

If there were any doubts as to whether licensure would have anything less than a positive effect on the community, the board of directors would not have applied for a license.

Opposed to increasing liquor licenses

To the Farms Council:

As you know, the undersigned represent a committee on behalf of a substantial number of concerned longtime residents of Grosse Pointe Farms opposing the issuance of a public liquor license at the War Memorial Center.

Although there has been no organized solicitation, several hundred petitions have been voluntarily signed and are available for filing with the city council in opposition to such license and we understand that the council originally contemplated considering the Association's application at its council meeting scheduled for Monday evening, June 17.

We have now been informed by Richard Solak, city clerk, that before considering the War Memorial application, the council is going to first consider and decide whether it should reverse its previously adopted policy (reaffirmed in 1984) of limiting the number of Class C public liquor licenses to the five licenses presently issued.

While the several hundred petitions we have received specifically oppose the issuance of a public license at the Center, we are confident on the basis of the attitudes expressed that such petitions are in fact opposed to any increase in the number of public liquor licenses in Grosse Pointe Farms.

As we all know, there is a wide-spread movement to curtail the availability of alcoholic beverages, particularly to young people as indicated by the increase in the eligibility age from 19 to 21 years, and we are informed by police authorities that alcohol is the number-one drug problem with young people on the Pointes.

We are also well aware of the recent alcohol-related traffic fatalities in the Pointes, one this past winter involving two teenagers on East Jefferson Avenue in which a 17-year-old was killed instantly and another on Feb. 22 involving a young woman who drove her car into ice-covered Lake St. Clair and was drowned. During 1984 there was a total of five alcohol-related traffic fatalities in the Pointes.

Also, we have been provided by the authorities with the following interesting statistics:

1. During the first nine months of 1984 there were 139 drunk driving arrests in the Farms and for the 12 months of 1984, 205 drunk driving arrests — compared with 87 for the first nine months of 1983.

2. Grosse Pointe Farms presently has five Class C public liquor licenses issued — compared with Grosse Pointe Woods which has only four, although the most recent census shows a Farms population of only 10,551 — compared with a Woods population of 18,886. (Note: Grosse Pointe Woods has adopted an ordinance limiting the number of public liquor licenses to four.)

As so eloquently expressed by

Mrs. Barbara Thompson in her recent letter to the editor of the Grosse Pointe News, "What kind of message do we send to one another by indicating that no special occasion can be complete (and no encounter for a simple shared interest can be enjoyable) unless alcohol is part of the picture? What kind of message do we send to our young people?"

In view of the foregoing, it is quite obvious that the authorization of any increase in the number of public liquor licenses in the Farms would be most unfortunate and not in the best interest of the community.

Paul Marco and
Ralph T. McElvenny,
On behalf of Committees in Opposition to Class C Public Liquor License for War Memorial Association

P.S. The 139 drunk driving arrests in the Farms during the first nine months of 1984 exceeded the total drunk driving arrests (124) in all the other Pointes for the comparable period.

Show him you love him

To the Editor:

While strolling through the General Motors building this past week on my lunch hour, I came upon a sign in the lobby I thought was kind of cute. It said, "My Dad for President." How nice it is to live in a community where fathers are truly acknowledged of their worth in society.

A number of other slogans ran through my head when I was in the card shop, like "Remember Dad" and "Gifts for Dads and Grads." Thinking about my father intensely, I thought back to the good times I remembered sharing with him while I was growing up. All the trouble I got into, and how many times he forgave me. How he taught me the difference between right and wrong. Now, I thought, was the perfect time for all children as well as adults to tell their fathers how much they appreciate and love them. Some people I know don't appreciate their fathers as much as they should. Especially teenagers.

Fathers are special, and I realized that even before my father died over a year ago. My message is a simple one: love your father for what he is, who he is and show him you love him while you still have the chance to.

License will benefit community

To the Editor:
We have heard a great deal about the proposed War Memorial liquor license... a great deal too much, frankly. This issue has been blown all out of perspective. It's a shame.
I am a member of the Board of Directors, and if I thought for a moment that the War Memorial's intention in applying for a liquor license was to increase the use of liquor; or to maintain an open bar; or to serve liquor to young people; or to have liquor available where young people were present; or even more importantly, if I thought for a moment that there wasn't a very positive reason for having a liquor license, I would have been a most active dissident on this issue.
Today, alcohol is served at the War Memorial over 250 times per year. But of those 250, only five are under the direct control of the War Memorial.

What happens when someone other than the War Memorial is responsible for serving alcohol? Like a host at a wedding? Well, he can serve liquor to whomsoever he wishes. He may continue to serve it for as long as the party lasts. And, when the party's over, he can give the leftover liquor to whomsoever he chooses. If the War Memorial had a license, the War Memorial would have charge of the party. Only adults would be served. Service would be stopped at the hour set by the War Memorial. And, leftover liquor would be locked up.
Much of this was covered in a pamphlet that was recently mailed to Grosse Pointe residents. Over 2,000 people in the Farms alone took the time to sign a card of support, to stamp this card, and then to post it.

There is a small, but very vocal group who oppose this license. The War Memorial has gone to this group and invited them to appoint a member to serve, along with the Farms chief of police, on an advisory committee to the board to assure that there would be no abuse of the license.

The opposition turned it down. I do not understand why as the issues they say concern them are the very issues that they would supervise as members of the committee.

I believe that the license would benefit, not hurt the community. I do not, frankly, understand the opposition, but I am concerned because I do not want this issue to become divisive to the community.

Certainly the War Memorial can get along without a license. It has done so for 30 years. But, is that really the best way to control the use of liquor, leaving it in the hands of anyone who has arranged for a party there?

The council will hear this issue on June 17. I sincerely hope they will listen to the people of Grosse Pointe, and not simply to a very vocal minority.

Applause for 'Mame'

To the Editor:
Less than two years ago I opened an office in Detroit and found myself making this area my base of operation. The genuine friendliness of the great majority of people in this area quickly opens opportunities professional, social and cultural.
I must share with you my delight in having been a member of the audience at the opening of the Grosse Pointe Theatre production of "Mame." What a wonderful job was done by this obviously talented and dedicated group of people. As a seasoned New York and London theater-goer, I must tell you that I view the stage through very critical eyes. What the Grosse Pointe Theatre is doing is a special treat, if "Mame" is a criterion of their efforts.

A round of applause to the cast!

Ordinance incenses resident

To the Editor:
I have just purchased a burglar alarm system for my house. I was told (my alarm system does not go into the police department in Grosse Pointe Farms — it goes elsewhere) to however call the Grosse Pointe Farms Police Department that I had installed it. When I called them to let them know, I was told I had to buy a license! And furthermore, it would cost me $100!

So I have decided that all the idiots are not in Washington!
How dare the mayor and the city council penalize me for taking care of my own property.

Such arbitrary, such nerve. Well, I'll tell you something — they may have to wait awhile for their money.

Mrs. C.D. Blessed
Grosse Pointe Farms

P.S. And who is the idiot who proposed such a scheme? You would think the police department would be pleased.

Editor's Note: Chief Robert Ferber said the ordinance is more than six years old and requires residents with burglar alarm systems to obtain a license for $100, good for five years. The ordinance was enacted because of phone lines to receive the calls. There is an elaborate filing system for residents with burglar alarms. Data such as how many people are living in the house, etc., is kept on file. Also Ferber said burglar alarms generate many false alarms, which is expensive and the cost is passed on to all of the taxpayers. Last year, the Farms department responded by 739 false alarms, he said.

Out of luck?

To the Editor:
For Secretaries Day I received a gift certificate for dinner at the Bronze Door. Less than two weeks later, and before I had a chance to use it, I found out they had gone bankrupt and had closed.

I tried calling and going there to get a refund, but had no success in contacting anyone.

I'm just very surprised and disappointed a business in Grosse Pointe would issue a gift certificate when they knew they'd be closed less than two weeks later.

I realize I'm probably "out of luck" in this situation, but I thought that possibly someone from the former Bronze Door management would see this and "maybe" do something about it.

Editor's note: Michael McConnell is a journalism major at Wayne State University who is serving an internship with the Grosse Pointe News this summer.

There is a long-standing enmity between the owners of sailboats and powerboats. Most powerboat owners don't take this undeclared feud too seriously — many sailboat owners do. Indeed, sailboat owners refer to powerboats as "stinkpots." My family owns a powerboat.

I have a hard-earned moniker given to me by my mother when I was 16. To my family and friends I am known as "the dock-side captain."

As a dock-side captain, I have used my parents' boat for almost every purpose except navigation. About all I know of nautical terminology is that the liquor cabinet is on the port side of the boat and the icemaker is on the starboard side, below deck, as they say. Make no mistake — I would rather lounge below deck with a frosty drink in my hand than sail the Great Lakes and have to learn about charting courses, tying knots and swabbing the decks. My stepfather and my brother are both very able seamen, but they have been unable to convert me.

My poetic sense is aroused when I can behold chrome-capped waters under a China-blue sky from the vantage point of a 40-foot deck, below which is plenty of ice and a full refrigerator. It gives me time to reflect on the eternal verities, such as the differences between powerboaters and sailboaters.

Unlike sailboating, powerboating affords the leisure time to enjoy the mariner's cocktail circuit, from Brownie's on the Bay in New Baltimore to Sinbad's in Detroit. Why waste time and energy hoisting sails, tacking and taking orders from some egotistical captain when you can relax and blow exhaust fumes over him as you come into port in half the time?

It is hard to escape the feeling that many sailboaters would love to ban powerboats from the open waters. If they could, they'd probably cut off the powerboater's drinking arm, destroy his stereo and burn his boat down to the waterline after blowing up his gas tanks. Such people are no better than killjoys. Arrogant and often hoarse from screaming orders, the sailboat captain offers a personification of rigid seriousness.

Remember, the sailboat may be all right for some but you can't water ski from behind one and you can't do any aggressive fishing from its deck.

Where would Hemingway be if he tried to build his macho fishing image from the deck of a sailboat? One can hardly imagine old Ernie tugging it out with a 1,000-pound marlin from the stern of a sailboat.

Bible school offered

St. Paul Evangelical Lutheran Church will offer a Vacation Bible School for children from 3 to 11 years old June 24-28 from 9 a.m. to noon. The church is located at Chalfonte and Lothrop.

The theme is "God's Word for Me." There will be Bible stories, crafts, games, refreshments and special events.

For more information, call 881-6670. The school is open to all children in the community.

I say

Powerboats versus sailboats marlin, Hemingway had the Wheeler Co. build him a 38-foot powerboat with a 110-horsepower engine in 1934. He named the boat Pilar and cruised the Gulfstream with her until the year before his death.

How many world-class fish are caught from the deck of a sailboat? Undeniably, there is an Old World elegance to sailing. But it doesn't appear that much of this manner has carried over to some of the present-day sailing captains.

Consider one of America's most notorious yachtsmen: Terrible Ted Turner. Ted is no slouch on the water, as he proved a few years back when he won the America's Cup. But he has never been above hitting a crew member with his fist if he felt his orders were not being carried out quickly enough. Put a couple of steel marbles in Ted's left hand, shave off his mustache and you end up with Captain Queeg.

There is something about Turner that reminds one of all the dictatorial weekend sailors. There is that inability to shut his mouth and a preternatural will to throw tantrums.

William F. Buckley Jr., the famous Anglophile and conservative, is a more sanguine sailor, but no less conceited in demeanor and in fact.

My own experiences with the sailing crowd are limited in terms of exposure but not in terms of disgust.

Last week I lost myself in the easy, joking atmosphere that always prevails when I step aboard my parents' boat.

I hit the deck just before nine in the evening with several friends in tow. We had a good start on the night with dinner out of the way.

After coming aboard I fetched everyone a round of drinks and sat down for a night of casual conversation. If I remember correctly, I praised a few friends and slandered some others. Just enough to keep things lively, if not entirely polite.

In the boatwell next to us was a sailboat. A few of us waved cheerfully to the owner. He chose to ignore us. Maybe he had other things on his mind.

After a while I retrieved a box of crackers from the pantry. I tossed some of the crackers out into the brackish waters of the canal. Soon I had an audience of 10 ducks and at least 30 seagulls. The ducks fed well until the arrival of the gulls.

The gulls came in out of the sun-burnt evening sky like a fleet of divebombers, spilling down in a tunnel of aerobatic teamwork. Circling and swooping low above the water, they would almost stall as they paused in mid-air to catch a broken piece of cracker. Cawing and screeching and fouling the decks of the nearby sailboat. It was entertaining sport while it lasted.

I saw a light go on in the cabin of the sailboat. Then there was the captain coming up from below, screaming about all the noise. Didn't I know what time it was?

Suddenly, in the middle of his tantrum, the captain stopped in his tracks, so to speak, and looked down at his bare feet. The gulls had done their dirty work. He looked back at me holding my box of crackers.

"This is your fault," he whined. "I have enough work keeping this boat clean without you bringing gulls around for dinner!"

Well, shucks, what could I say? He went below and came back up with an air horn, gave it a few blasts and scared most of the gulls away. Finally, he went back below, muttering: "Damn birds."

I was tempted to turn on the water hose and soak him down on the pretext that I was cleaning the deck. But my friends talked me out of it. The summer would be long and hot enough without stirring up the natural enmity that is always going to exist between the sailboaters and the powerboaters.

Monteith School: The best of both worlds

By Mike Andrzejczyk

In the lobby of John A. Monteith Elementary School hangs a sign, "We care about kids."

You don't really need a sign to tell you the staff cares for its 400 charges. It shows in the student work that hangs on the walls, the way office workers handle children's needs and how teachers make sure the end-of-the-year awards for perfect attendance or special citizenship are correct.

The school was named after the first president of the University of Michigan because of his contributions to education, according to Principal Joan Kubista.

The school was completed and occupied in 1951, the year four schools opened in the district to catch the first blast of the post-World War II baby boom. The site, 10 acres at the corner of Cook and Chalfonte, was purchased in 1949 for about $31,000, Ms. Kubista says.

When the doors opened in 1951, 688 students were ready to pile into the classrooms. Twenty-seven teachers were ready to handle the three and four sections of every grade level.

Photographs taken in the first year of the school show students working away while workmen on ladders finished putting up lights.

In some years, a classroom in the basement had to be pressed into service to handle the students, Ms. Kubista says. The school was originally designed to hold 775 students.

When the school opens again in the fall, there will be 400 children, before the 18 teachers at the building, Ms. Kubista says. It's an ideal size for an elementary school, because some matching of teacher and students can be done in each of the three sections of kindergarten through fifth grade, she adds.

Monteith is the most valuable elementary school the district owns, with a price tag of $1.8 million, according to the school district's annual report. Only the high and middle schools are worth more.

It is a wonderful school building, with 37 teaching stations and more than 60,000 square feet, Ms. Kubista says. It is also a building that maintains a sense of its own history through perpetuation of certain rituals and ceremonies as well as the keeping of scrapbooks.

The building holds a promotion ceremony for its fifth graders who will be moving on to either Parcels or Brownell Middle School next fall. "It's a very nice way for children to say goodbye to their school," Ms. Kubista says. The spelling bee and tree-lighting at Christmas are also long-standing events at the school, she adds.

It is appropriate that a school in touch with its history should house the offices of the Grosse Pointe Historical Society. The society has office hours Tuesday and Wednesday, 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. Classes from the school often visit the society's Room 201, Ms. Kubista says.

Monteith was the school that became home this year for the lion's share of Barnes School students when that building closed. While all the adjustment trouble can't be overcome in a single year, many of the Barnes students feel at home now in Monteith, Ms. Kubista said.

It has become the best of both worlds, Ms. Kubista says. Parents who were active at Barnes have brought their allegiance and activity to Monteith, making an excellent school even better, she adds.

Parents are active at the school in a number of ways; as drivers for field trips, hosts and chaperones for class picnics and volunteers for a variety of events. And this past couple of weeks has seen a lot of events at the school.

Besides the promotion ceremony today, the last day of school, there have been events like teacher appreciation day, room mothers' tea and kindergarten round-ups, held after school. Each class also has a picnic, either in the building, on the grounds, at a friends' home or at one of the parks, she adds.

With the arrival of Barnes students, the student body has taken on an ethnic mix, Ms. Kubista says. In addition, children from the Children's Home of Detroit are also mainstreamed at Monteith, she adds.

The addition of students from different ethnic and socio-economic backgrounds adds diversity to the school experience for students, Ms. Kubista says. The former principal of the Barnard Center at the Children's Home says that at one time, as many as 29 children attended Monteith from the home's grounds at 900 Cook Road.

The addition of students from different ethnic groups and those with emotional or physical handicaps is good for the student population, Ms. Kubista says. It brings all the children closer to what they will experience when they get into the real world beyond the schoolyard.

Besides its normal curriculum, the school has its High Ability program and adjusted study program. It also operates a latchkey program one hour before school begins and three hours after classes dismiss in the afternoon. There's also a community service jewelry class that has operated for years at the school, Ms. Kubista says.

The school and staff are very child-oriented, Ms. Kubista says. "We are here for children," she says. "It's very important that you get that across to them. You can't just tell them; you have to show them."

The school shows its orientation by displaying students' work throughout the walls of the building. It shows it in the help staff gives to children. "It doesn't matter when you come in, the school would always look like this," Ms. Kubista says of the art work by children on the walls.

The staff is also child-oriented and tend to stay at the school for a long time, she adds. The school has only had four principals since it first opened and Ms. Kubista has been in the front office since 1978. She was only one of two elementary school principals who remained in the same school after last year's reassignments.

This is her first assignment as a principal, Ms. Kubista says. She taught at each elementary grade level during the previous 18 years before moving up to the Monteith principalship. This is the longest time she has held the same position in a single building, she adds.

She likes to show the students that a principal is still a teacher by trying to get back into the classroom to do some group work, she says.

Running a school like Monteith is easy, Ms. Kubista says. Because it is a beautiful facility, with a staff that is interested and caring, going to work in the morning isn't like going to work, she says.

It's not all fun and games, however. There are discipline problems that have to be handled, Ms. Kubista says. Because the school is child-oriented however, discipline doesn't have to seem like discipline to the child involved, she adds.

Much of the trouble can be cleared up by talking with the student, and, if necessary, the parents. Communication is an important part of the school, she adds.

Parents and the PTO are also important parts of the school. The decorating of the front lobby was a PTO project and the spinning wheel and organ are both donations. One parent, after refurbishing the spinning wheel and learning to use it, did demonstrations for the students, taking them through the whole process, from carding the wool to spinning it on the wheel.

"The most important thing in your life is your early education," Ms. Kubista says. "You may be a good lawyer or a good doctor, but it's all a reflection of those early years. The most important thing is your education."

Letters to the editor Supports liquor license

To the Editor:
As a long-time resident of the Farms, I have observed with interest the extensive campaign carried on by the War Memorial management for a public liquor license at the Center.
In an effort to determine the real reason of the Memorial management for requesting a public liquor license, I have carefully read their supporting material which they have circulated and note in one of the association's memoranda the statement that the veterans organizations have been scheduling their activities where alcoholic beverages are readily accessible and that "the veterans organizations ... are unwilling to meet where alcoholic beverages are unavailable."

Also I have been informed that the Memorial Association's application for a public liquor license has the support of the veterans organizations.
As a World War II veteran, I can fully understand why the veterans organizations would prefer to schedule their functions where alcoholic beverages would be readily available, and if the Memorial Association obtains a public liquor license at the Center, the veterans organizations would then probably schedule many of their activities at the Center.

Views request with distaste

To James Dingeman,
Mayor of Grosse Pointe Farms:
The proposal for a liquor license for the War Memorial is scheduled, I believe, for Monday, June 17. As a resident of the area for many years and as one who has enjoyed the many cultural events there, I view with distaste the proposal. The original thought for the War Memorial was a center for many to enjoy meetings of many organizations and as stated, a cultural center. Allowing a liquor license will only be a temptation for misuse of its primary function. Any need for individual spirits at a party can be handled as they have in the past 35 years. Evidence of the worldwide use of liquor and the fights, murder, etc. are too evident.

I urge the denial of this request.

Henry Ledyard
Grosse Pointe Farms

Getting the facts straight

To the Farms Council:
The Committee in Opposition to the Liquor License for the Grosse Pointe War Memorial, through Mr. Paul Marco, have been shrewd in twisting our words around.
Being a member of the Board of Directors of the War Memorial and a Farms resident, I can assure you of the following:
1. At no time will there be an open bar on the premises.
2. As we've stated previously, the issuance of a liquor license is primarily to professionally control the use of alcohol on the Center's premises. Regardless of Mr. Marco's claim, the War Memorial can legally restrict the dispensing of alcohol at functions; the Center has been doing this with 24-hour licenses for years.
3. As you well know, we do not allow nor encourage youth drinking. The issuance of a liquor license would only help us to control the "brown-bagging" and carrying out of alcohol into the parking lot, particularly after wedding receptions.
4. Mr. Marco's claim that "several hundred" Farms residents have voluntarily signed petitions in opposition to the liquor license is rather interesting since he and his committee have been reluctant to share these names with us. The couple of thousand signatures in favor certainly should outweigh the so-called couple of hundred against.
5. It should also be noted that for over two years, the War Memorial has made every effort to consult with and inform our community about this matter. The Board of Directors has not received opposition or concerns from any community organization except for Mr. Marco's group.
The Board of Directors, like you, are concerned Grosse Pointe residents looking out for the betterment of the community in which we live. We volunteer our time in order to promote the civic, patriotic, cultural, and educational activities at the Center. Our objective is to enhance the quality of life in our community.

Also, Dr. Mark Weber has done an outstanding job as executive director of the War Memorial. We stand behind him fully in his efforts in continuing the War Memorial as a place of historical prominence and a showplace within our community. The community should be extremely grateful for the job that he has done and continues to do in providing well-rounded activities for the residents.
It is very disheartening to hear the rumors and misconceptions that have spread throughout the community. I only trust that you will get the complete facts and not the distorted and twisted ones before a final decision is reached.
James J. Schrage
Member of the Board

They know best

To the Editor:
As a citizen of Grosse Pointe Park for the past 18 years, I have enjoyed the facilities of the Grosse Pointe War Memorial. It is a unique institution.
I have never had reason to question its policies or management as set forth by the board of directors. These are men of ability and sound judgment who serve without remuneration for the benefit of those who use the facilities. I am certain sound reasons back their efforts to secure a liquor permit. It will enable the center to better control the use of liquor on the premises.

ARE YOU GIVING YOUR MONEY AWAY?

If you don't have an interest-earning checking account, like the kind you'll find at First Federal of Michigan, you're probably giving money away. Just handing it over to your bank—in the form of lost interest and monthly service charges.

A First Federal of Michigan interest-earning checking account actually pays you interest on the money in your account right up until the day the check you write comes back to First Federal. And every day until it does, you get 5 1/2 percent annual interest on your money compounded and paid monthly. To our average customer last year, that amounted to almost $70.

And if you maintain a minimum balance of only $300, you can do away with monthly service charges on your account. (If your present checking account doesn't have this no-charge feature, you know how much those monthly fees can add up to.)

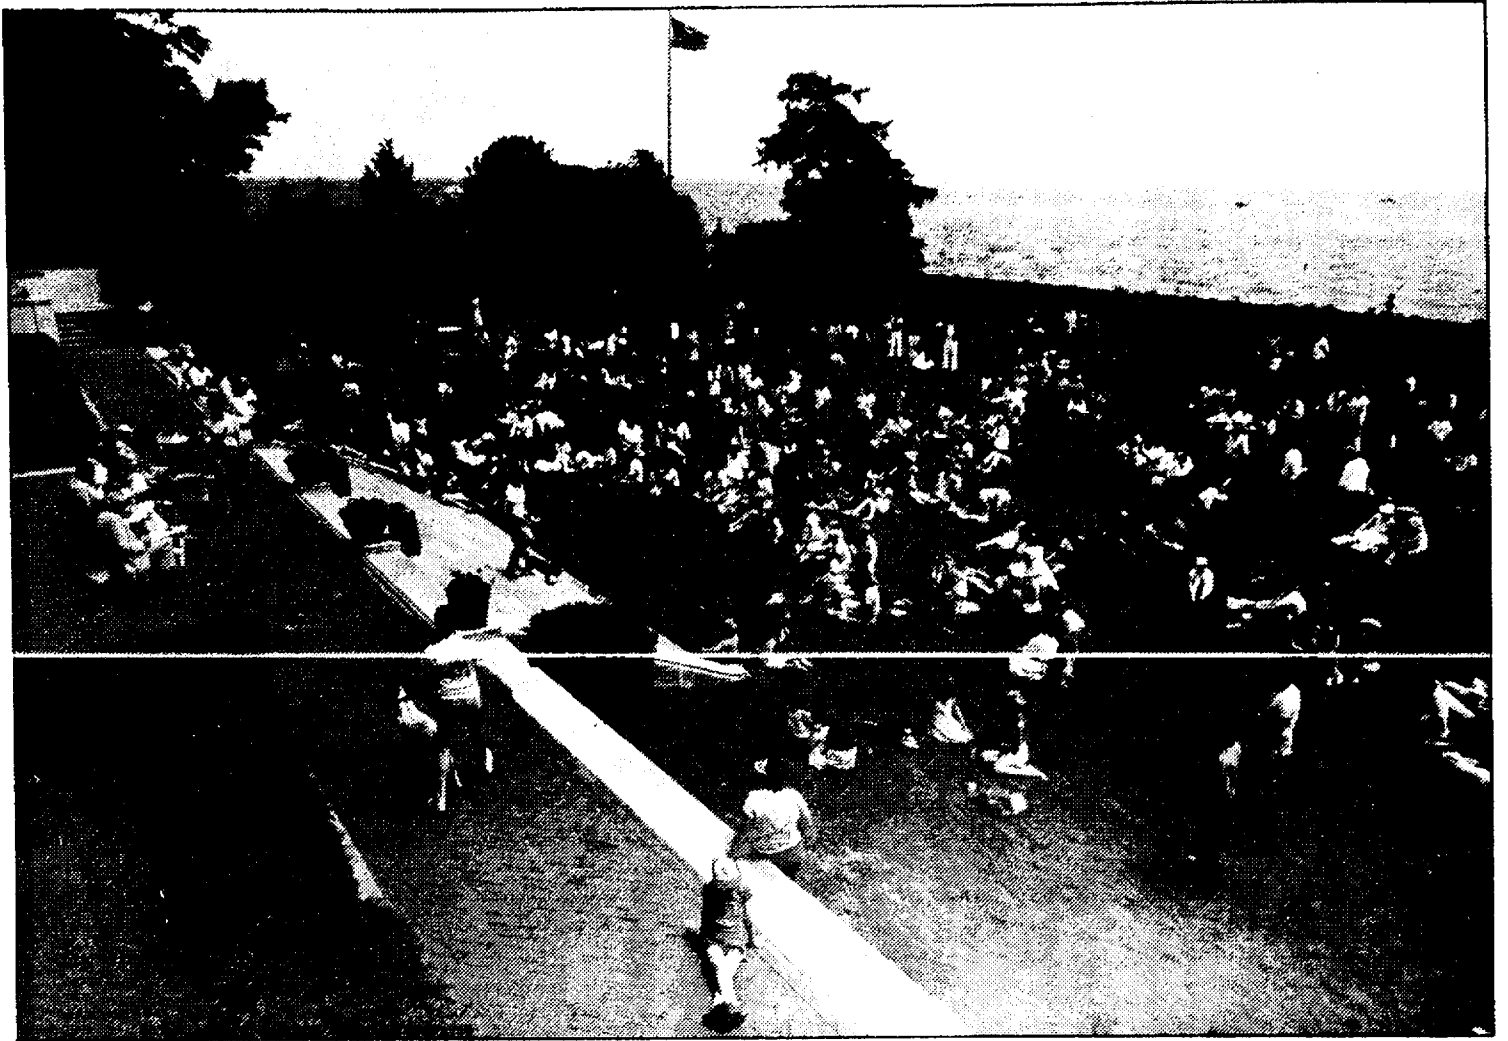

Why, we even start you off with the first 50 checks imprinted with your name and address absolutely free.

So why settle for giving your money away when you can make money with a First Federal of Michigan interest-earning checking account.

Con foiled

Officials at Michigan National Bank managed to foil an attempted pigeon drop last week. When an elderly Farms woman entered the branch at Warren and Mack June 10 to close out her $3,000 account, the teller became suspicious and notified Farms police and the woman's family.

The victim of the attempted scam agreed to help the police try to catch the confidence woman. Under the surveillance of six undercover Farms and Detroit police and her niece, she strolled around the parking lot of the post office diagonally across the street from the bank, where she had agreed to meet the women with the money.

"Two hours had gone by since they first approached her," said Farms Police Det. George Van Tiem. "You don't show up right away, they split. We knew the effort was fruitless, but you do what you can."

As Van Tiem expected, too much time had elapsed and the women never came back to the post office.

The confidence game started about 10 a.m. when the victim was approached by two well-dressed, well-spoken black women at the Kroger store in the Farms. They told her they had found some money, wanted to share it with someone and asked her to put up $6,000 in good faith money.

They drove together in the victim's car to a nearby Penney's store, and dropped off one of the women who said she was an executive there. The victim then dropped the other woman at the post office at Warren and Mack, where all three were to meet to divide up the money.

Van Tiem warned that the pigeon drop is a classic scam that continues to be worked. He warned that everyone, but especially the elderly who are often selected for victims, be cautious if approached.

Cities battle Berkshire fire

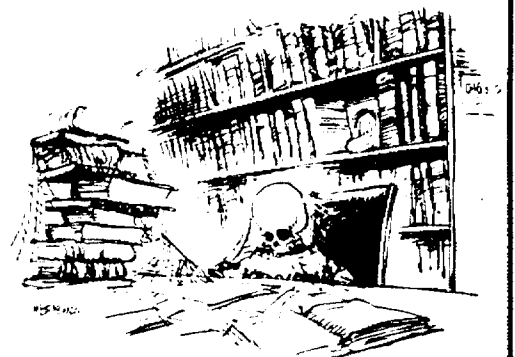

Quick response Monday morning by Park and City firefighters kept a two-alarm blaze from causing serious damage to a Berkshire Road home, according to Park fire officials.

"In a few more minutes, the fire could have spread from the basement," Park Fire Chief Phillip Costa said. The blaze was contained to the basement, although the rest of the structure was smoke-damaged, he added.

The first Park unit responded to a resident's call at about 8:30 a.m. Monday. Because of the intense smoke coming from the eaves and windows, a second alarm was called in, with a half-dozen City officers with apparatus responding.

The cause of the blaze is under investigation. No one was injured, Costa said.

A true entrepreneur: Scoop Murphy cleans up

By Tom Greenwood

Some are born to greatness, while others have it thrust upon them. The story of Sean Murphy and his quest for greatness is indeed a moving one.

Scoop, as he's known to friends and clients, is founder, president, chairman of the board, and sole employee of Canine Waste Management of Grosse Pointe.

You might say Scoop picks up what others leave off. That's right folks, we're talking about doggie doo, puppy poop, Bowser BM's, or as it's also known, canine cookies.

"The motto of our company is 'No job's too big,'" said Scoop, 26, resting from his rounds in his parents' Park home. "I'm in the process of moving into my own place, so the business has sort of been put on the back burner for the moment. But once my moving is finished, I really hope to cash in on this venture."

According to his infinitely patient parents, Murphy started his canine clean-up campaign about two years ago. Even though it's a wide-open field, they concede he's probably cornered the Grosse Pointe market. Perhaps even all of southeastern Michigan.

"The first time he told me what kind of a business he was going to start, I just giggled," Anne Murphy said. "It's just typical of Sean. He's got such a strange sense of humor. But when he had those cards made up... well, His father, who's a very easy going, laid-back person, accepts it a lot easier than I do."

"Whenever anyone asks me what my son does, I always tell them what his full-time job is. He's an operating room technician."

Instant replay time, folks. That's right. The king of canine waste management is a surgical technician at Providence Hospital.

"That's sort of how I got the idea for this business," Murphy said, with an infectious smile. "I was going to school and working at the hospital and my hours were really weird. I needed something to do that would fit within my schedule and didn't cost a lot of money to start."

"I was mowing lawns, and half the time, I was cleaning up the yards and before I knew it I hit upon this idea. It was perfect. My equipment consists of a couple of shovels, a trowel, a bucket I put a plastic bag in, heavy boots and gloves. And of course, my uniform here."

The uniform is white and reminiscent of a doctor's jacket. "I wanted it in white to give me a Mr. Clean appearance," Murphy said. "And I'm pretty proud of the logo I had imprinted on the coat. It was designed by a friend of mine who attends the Center for Creative Studies."

The logo is similar to the one designed for the movie "Ghostbusters," but instead of a ghost with a are involved and how many times a week or day he's expected to drop over.

"If a person has a couple of little dogs, it's a lot harder on me than if they had a big dog," Scoop said. "With little dogs you have to search carefully all over the yard. With a big dog it's a lot easier. They sort of stick up like icebergs. Spring is my worst season. The ground is wet and mushy and after all the snow melts and well, it keeps me stepping pretty high.

"Winter is best because everything is frozen. You almost don't need a shovel. You can just kick it in," he hastened to add. "But like most things, it's all in the wrist."

And what does Murphy do with the doo? "Pack it in the back of my Volkswagen," he said, referring to his Volkswagen. "I tie it up in a plastic sack and sling it in my car for disposal later. It backfired on me once. I was in Windsor buying hockey sticks and got stopped at the border. Since I couldn't find my receipts, they got suspicious and opened my trunk."

"Then they demanded to know what was in the plastic bag and sort of dove in looking for dope. Needless to say they sent me on my way. They tell you to declare guns, liquor and fruit, but nobody said anything about poop."

While Murphy is pretty serious about his business, he readily admits he gets a lot of kidding from his friends. In fact, the guys on his hockey team and at his favorite bar are always giving him a free load of what he charges others to remove.

"I just figure they're jealous because they didn't think of it first," he said. "I recently read where some other guy just started doing this in Minnesota. I didn't know there were that many weirdos around. I've been doing this for two years now. I guess I'm just ahead of my time."

Murphy also intends to start taking care of cat litter boxes as well.

"You've got to stay ahead of the competition in this business," he said. "Even if there isn't any. I've decided to start cleaning out litter boxes as well. You know what a pain in the rear that chore can be."

It's a terrible thing to say, but when business starts picking up for Scoop Murphy, it's just offal for everyone else.

Dairy Queen head, there's a pile of you-know-what with a Dairy Queen head. The logo is red and brown. "Scoop" is emblazoned above the odoriferous pile.

Murphy currently has nine full-time customers on the payroll. "It used to be 10, but one lady's dog died, so you might say my business has dropped off a bit."

There's no set price for his services. Everything depends on the size of the yard, how many dogs

Board hikes rent to teachers union

The Grosse Pointe Education Association had its lease renewed Tuesday night for the two offices it rents from the school system in Barnes School. The rent is being increased $25 a month.

The association was granted the lease for the 500 square feet in two offices across from the Barnes kindergarten rooms last February at $275 a month. The board Monday increased the rent to $300 for the new lease, which runs from July 1 this year to next June 30.

Outgoing association President James Garlough said the rent increase was expected. The rent for the offices and the full-time staff there are paid for by union members through their dues, he added.

The rent includes water, gas and electricity.

Register now for Summer Experience '85

Final registration for classes and programs of "Summer Experience '85" will be held Tuesday, June 18, at North High School and Wednesday, June 19, at South High School. Anyone wishing to enroll may do so from 8 a.m. to noon and from 1 p.m. to 3 p.m.

Dr. Kathleen Herschelmann, principal for Summer Experience '85, said that although some openings remain for all sessions, some people might be shut out if they wait until the last day.

"We're very pleased by the response of the community to our second year of expanded offerings," she said. "We have felt for many years that young people want to take advantage of different learning opportunities in the summer. The interest is there, and we are very happy to provide the service."

In addition to traditional review courses in elementary, middle and high school subject areas, Summer Experience '85 also offers enrichment programs in such areas as art, drama, music, foreign language study, computer usage, and typing.

"We know there isn't always enough time during the school year to explore every subject of interest. This program gives kids that chance, and they love it," Dr.

Herschelmann said.

"We will again be offering college credit classes in computers and accounting in cooperation with Madonna College, as well as a new 'College Catch-Up' program for students whose first year performance at college was not as strong as they had hoped," she added.

All programs will be held at North High School, with additional

Hertel seeks to keep stations open

Congressman Dennis Hertel (D-Harper Woods) said that an amendment he has been working on to help maintain U.S. Coast Guard operations in the Great Lakes will be offered to a supplemental appropriations bill. The measure will open up $15 million for operating expenses of the Coast Guard nationwide.

"The amendment will permit the 13 facilities in the Great Lakes region currently targeted for closure or reductions to maintain full service," Hertel said. "This means the two stations located on Lake St. Clair will remain open to continue their work of ensuring the protection of our citizens."

Hertel explained that the funding of this proposal would not come from the general treasury, but from the Boat Safety Account of sections of computer and typing classes to be held concurrently at South High School. Summer Experience '85 will begin June 24 and run through July 26. Special "mini-course" sessions will be held from August 13 to August 23, also at North High School.

Course fees and enrollment information may be obtained by calling 343-2248.

the Aquatic Resources Trust Fund. The fund, established by the Deficit Reduction Act of 1984, consists of money derived from that portion of the federal tax on gasoline that is attributable to the purchase of motorboat fuel.

"The amendment will not increase overall federal expenditures," Hertel said. "Instead, it will simply ensure that the $15 million intended by the Deficit Reduction Act to be made available to the Coast Guard will, in fact, go to this service and not be diverted to other purposes."

Hertel stressed that passage of the amendment would allow Coast Guard stations in the Great Lakes to continue to provide a variety of services that are vital to the security, safety, economy and environmental quality of our waterways.

Sidewalk repairs scheduled for Farms

New sidewalks are in the future of more than 500 Farms residents this summer. City workers were out two weeks ago marking slabs for replacement.

City Manager Andrew Bremer Jr. said 545 notices were mailed to residents. Immediate responses were received from 470 who either hired contractors or paid the city to do the replacement work. The remaining 75 will be billed for repairs.

Several residents attended the June 3 council meeting with questions about the sidewalk program. Most were concerned about possible penalties for not paying the assessment promptly. The council established a grace period lasting until July 15 before the penalty will be assessed.

One resident took the direct approach to his repairs. One of his sidewalk slabs was slated for replacement because it had sunk.

"I figured if they could raise the Zilwaukee Bridge, we could raise the sidewalk square," he told the council. He and several neighbors attacked the problem with crowbars and leveled the slab.

"It looks real nice," he said, "but do I have to pay for it after I fixed it?"

Farms officials promised to check it out, but it looks like sweat equity won the day.

GP Academy hosts Canadian students

Grosse Pointe Academy students hosted 70 students and teachers from the Hugh Beaton School in Windsor June 4.

The visitors toured the campus and divided into smaller groups for classroom visits. Academy students prepared a specialized version of Trivial Pursuit especially for Canadian students, and participants were asked questions such as, "What number does Wayne Gretzky wear on his jersey?"

After lunch, students participated in relay or foot races. Before their visitors left, the national anthems of both countries were sung and the Canadian and American flags were flown.

Prior to the visit, fourth- and fifth-grade students at the Academy had been studying about Canada for several months.

Schools

Ferry fifth-graders revive oral tradition

It's not unusual for a number of 10-year-olds in the fifth grade to have memorized a poem or two. What is unusual is a group of 21 fifth-graders who have memorized, analyzed and shared orally 10 or more poems — several of 25 or more lines in length. The Ferry Elementary School students, under the direction of Dyanne Apkarian, have revived a classic oral tradition while coming to know the works of such poets as Robert Frost, Lawrence Ferlinghetti, Elizabeth Coatsworth, Langston Hughes and Edna St. Vincent Millay among others. Each student has developed a repertoire of poems which they then recite and share with their classmates, teachers and family.

"The program has provided not only an excellent learning experience in the classroom," said Ms. Apkarian, "but has stimulated some important attention outside the school as well."

"Parents tell me that grandparents, aunts, uncles and friends of the family are encouraging these kids by sharing their own favorite books and verses," she said. "The students have even taken to calling distant relatives to recite for them."

Students are also discovering the joy of self-confidence that comes from being able to perform in front of an audience. Ms. Apkarian has noted an improvement in the students' posture, vocal expression and articulation since the project began.

"The quality of their written work has likewise improved," she noted. "It's been a very positive experience for everyone."

On that point Ms. Apkarian's students agree. When asked why he enjoyed his work with poetry, fifth-grader Scott Carson said, "I enjoy it because I can be proud of myself because I learned something new each day. It seems when I read and recite poetry it feels like I just met another person."

What began as a small assignment has blossomed into an exciting experience for the entire class.

Memorizing poems has created a few interesting problems, however. According to fifth-grader Candace Goss, "Instead of singing in the shower I recite my poetry. My mom always wants to know who I am talking to."

New Japanese 'Super Pill' Insures Rapid Weight-Loss

No Dieting — Eat All You Want, Pill Does All The Work

BEVERLY HILLS, CA — An exciting new "all natural" weight-loss "Super" Pill developed by the JMA (Japanese Medical Association) has just been approved for distribution in the United States. Reportedly, it can guarantee that you will lose more than a pound a day without dieting, from the very first day until you reach your ideal weight and figure. News of this "Super Pill" is literally sweeping the country. It's called Amitol and there has never been anything quite like it before.

"Flushes Calories Right Out Of Your Body"

What makes Amitol so thrilling and unique is its reported ability to flush calories right out of your body. Amitol is completely safe, it contains no drugs whatsoever. Its ingredients are derived solely from the Konjac root which grows primarily in Northern Japan.

Why the Konjac root? It has been used in Japan for over 1600 years to produce rapid and natural weight-loss!

Japanese studies verify that Konjac root actually prevents fat producing calories from being absorbed into your system. They say it does this by surrounding much of the fats, proteins and carbohydrates you have eaten with a protective viscous coating which is then gently flushed out of your system. And according to Japanese research this produces absolutely amazing results.

And who can disagree! Amitol (although brand new to this country) is already being called by many people, "the most exciting weight-loss breakthrough of the century." In fact, everywhere there are reports of easy and fast weight-loss from formerly overweight people (in all walks of life) who are now slim, trim, and attractive again.

Company Offers Extraordinary Guarantee

You now can purchase Amitol direct from the North American distributor, and it comes with an extraordinary guarantee.

If you place your order now and then follow the simple instructions for a period of 30 days, you must be completely satisfied with the dramatic visible results or just return the empty container and Dyna Labs will immediately send back your entire purchase price. This guarantee applies regardless of your age or current weight level. What could be better than that! It's just that simple. If you've tried to lose weight before and failed you no longer have an excuse. Amitol is available, it's easy and it works without dieting!

Best of all, ordering Amitol is simple, fast, and reliable! Simply call Dyna Labs Toll Free: (1-800-441-5454) and order with your credit card. If you don't have a credit card Dyna Labs will also accept C.O.D. orders right over the phone! All orders are shipped immediately by UPS, which means no delay and no orders lost in the mail!

$19.95—30 day supply, or $35.95—60 day supply. Operators are standing by and will be glad to take your order. You can order 24 hrs. a day, 7 days a week! Please don't wait to call. You really do deserve to be thin!

Acting workshop

A two-week summer drama workshop for young people will be held Monday, June 17, to Friday, June 28, at the Grosse Pointe War Memorial.

Classes will be arranged according to age and experience. Sessions for grade-school students will be held in the morning and high school and older members will meet in the afternoon.

All aspects of acting will be covered, ending with on-stage performances of scenes from plays. Emphasis will be given to stage movement, voice and diction, characterization, mime, animation and preparation for professional auditions.

Sally Reynolds will conduct the workshop. She has a bachelor of arts in drama from Michigan State University and a master's in drama from Wayne State University. She has done professional acting and directing and is director and producer of Grosse Pointe Children's Theatre, now in its 32nd year. Many students have gone on to Hollywood and Broadway and several appear on local television commercials. Mrs. Reynolds said.

Registration is Friday, June 14, from 4 to 6 p.m. Students should bring a resume and material for some short scene. Material will be provided for students who don't bring any. For more information, call 885-6219 or 881-7511.

FACTS OF LAW

by Ellen C. Wallaert

Even if you are apparently at fault in an accident, you may be able to recover damages, if the other person had the last clear chance to avoid the accident.

The theft of heating oil, gas or, in some cases, even electricity will be punishable as a larceny, and the thief can be liable to the utility or to the town owning the utility.

The legal boundaries of property are usually defined by official land surveys or maps, but they may also be defined by rocks, stakes, or other natural and artificial markers.

A bequest by will ends if the inheritor dies before the maker of the will does. The property involved will then normally pass by the residuary clause in the will, unless the will is altered.

The LAW DATE is the last day set by the court on which a foreclosure action can be prevented by redeeming the mortgage debt, recovering the real estate, and preventing it from being sold.

Saint John Hospital offers Alzheimer's Disease Program

Alzheimer's is a terrible, mind crippling neurological disorder that can hit any family, any person. It destroys memory and eventually results in total disorientation and helplessness. More than 60,000 families in the Detroit area are affected by this incurable disease. Dr. Mary Martinen will discuss the diagnosis of Alzheimer's, its current treatments, psychological impact on the family and community resources. Program will be held Monday, June 24, 1985 from 7:00 to 9:00 p.m. in the Hospital Auditorium. Films and literature will supplement the program. $3.00 fee. Registration necessary. Contact: Camille C. Klimecki, M.A., Director, to register: 343-3870.

Farms orders cleanup of 7-Mack nuisance

By Nancy Parmenter

The Farms city council has decided — again — that the parking lot at the Seven-Mack shopping area is a nuisance and should be cleaned up. The council voted June 3 to order the cleanup and assess center owner Jay Kogan for the cost.

As it turns out, the city is already sweeping the lot once every two weeks. It is the only privately owned lot in the Farms that is cleaned by the city. City Manager Andrew Bremer Jr. said.

Bremer said the lot is frequently full of blowing papers and empty oil cans left when people change their car's engine oil there. On windy days, the problem gets worse and the trash accumulates in the corners.

"We've had a problem over the years," Mayor James Dingeman said. "We're not dealing with one of the more amiable landlords — he's been quite uncooperative."

The Farms DPW crew spends two or three hours every other week sweeping out the debris at a cost of $110 an hour, Bremer said. Kogan is billed for the cleanup, but he is more than $3,000 in arrears, according to Bremer.

Several council members urged that Kogan be taken to court and ordered to maintain the property, but Bremer said there are difficulties with that approach.

"It's subjective," he said. "What may be intolerable to us may not be intolerable to the court. There's only so much the city can do — there's no way we can bluff and get them to do this."

Councilwoman Nancy Waugman asked the city to document the problem with photographs. "A picture is worth a thousand words," she said.

She also recommended that the store owners in the shopping center be asked to help with the maintenance. "If the people who shop there aren't conscientious, (the store owners) have to take the responsibility," she said.

The Grosse Pointe News checked the condition of the parking lot twice during the past week. On June 5, a Wednesday, it was fairly clean.

On June 10, a Monday morning, it was lightly littered with paper, mostly fast food trash. There was some trash blown against the sidewalks at the backs of the stores and two plastic garbage bags and other paper trash in Sears loading dock. A small heap of trash had collected in the fence corner nearest Moross.

Comments from Farms council members indicate that it is typical for the conditions to vary greatly from one day to another.

Jay Kogan could not be reached for comment.

Pair records first album

By Tom Greenwood

Pointers Gary Ortleib and Mike Wise have an image problem. They don't have pink and purple hair, they don't wear earrings and they don't stomp around in boots shaped like lizard feet, but they claim they're serious musicians.

So serious in fact, they've just recorded and released their first album, "Orchestrator," on the New World Music label.

Recorded at Detroit's Master Werks studio, the album is reminiscent of the lush, full orchestral sounds of the Moody Blues.

"We wrote all the music, lyrics and played all the instruments ourselves," said Ortleib, in his Park home. "Mike sang lead and I sang backup. We really like the effect we achieved."

Both musicians are 31 and are childhood friends. They've performed together in local bands. "I've sung in Detroit clubs for the past four or five years," Wise said. "I decided it was time to move out into the real world and see what I could do."

Ortleib left his six-year job at the Free Press as a promotion copywriter to record and promote the album. "We both wanted to devote 100 percent of our time to this project," he said.

In an effort to promote the album, Ortleib and Wise are planning on staging a local production of the recording.

"We're still working on the details," Wise said. "We wanted it with other band members behind us, but it's a lot easier to form a band when you're 18 rather than 31. I'm married and the father of two boys and Gary's married, too. We don't have the time to scout new members like when you're a teen. So we'll put on the entire production ourselves."

They recorded the album over a three-month period with guitars, synthesizer and drum computer for the orchestration.

"Synthesizers have a reputation for producing a cold, electronic sound," Ortleib said. "But we instead went for a fuller, warmer effect and I really think we achieved it. We're quite pleased with the pressing."

The initial press run was 1,000 recordings, of which perhaps 200 have been sold.

"That's not as many as we'd like," Wise said. "We certainly couldn't survive on it. Luckily our wives, Kathleen and Sandy, are working and are very supportive of us. The album is available at places like Sam's Jams, Dearborn Music, Car City Classics and Village Records and Tapes here in the Pointe."

"They've been the most supportive of all. They've pushed the album, displayed it in their front window and they play it in the store. They've been able to sell quite a few."

MUCC offers summer camp

Hundreds of young people from across Michigan will explore the natural environment and learn valuable outdoor skills during a series of one-week summer camp seminars being held at the Waterloo Recreation Area, located between Ann Arbor and Jackson.

Sponsored by the Michigan United Conservation Clubs (MUCC), the summer youth camp seminars run each week, Sunday through Saturday, from June 16 to July 27 for youngsters between the ages of 11 and 14. A separate advanced program is also available for 13- to 16-year-olds.

Kevin Frailey, camp director, said MUCC's 40-year-old summer youth camp program is designed to teach youngsters about ecology and the environment in a natural setting.

"Our goal is to give young people an appreciation for wildlife, nature, and the natural world," Frailey said. "The most important thing the kids learn is that all nature is interconnected."

The youth camp program, conducted by a carefully selected and well-trained staff, offers activities and learning experiences in the following areas: environmental awareness, canoeing, Michigan wildlife, riflery, ecology, fishing, orienteering, archery, first aid and survival.

Campers also will have an opportunity to participate in special night courses to obtain a hunter safety or boater safety card. In addition, every camper can participate in activities to earn an American Red Cross basic water safety card.

MUCC, a nonprofit organization, is the largest state federation of sportsmen's and conservation organizations in the nation. It is dedicated to improving the environment and promoting programs designed to educate citizens in natural resource conservation, environmental protection and enhancement.

Woods will hike taxes by 3 percent

By Tom Greenwood

The average Woods homeowner may expect to see about a three percent increase in taxes this year, according to Woods city officials who recently approved the city's 1985-86 general fund budget.

Goodwill to have mobile donation unit

Residents who have used clothing and household goods they would like to donate for a good cause may do so this coming Thursday, June 20, when Goodwill Industries of Greater Detroit stations a mobile donation unit at the War Memorial. The unit will be open from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. with an attendant on hand to issue a tax receipt.

Carolynn Andren, manager of the Roseville Goodwill Thrift Store, where the goods will be sold, stresses that only clean, usable items can be accepted. Linens, china, knick-knacks, books, tools, small appliances, kitchenware, toys and furniture are acceptable. Handicapped workers at the store will sort the goods for future sale.

Because of the small store size, large appliances, automobiles parts, building materials or bed springs and mattresses will not be accepted. Although pick-ups are generally not made, exceptions may be made for donations of partial or entire estates.

The store is located at 26510 Gratiot, next to Eastgate. For further information call the store hotline at 777-4410.

Orchestra workshop offered at MCC

Members of the Detroit Symphony Orchestra and Douglas Scripps, director of the Grand Rapids Ballet and West Michigan Opera, will be among the instructors on hand to conduct sessions of the Summer Orchestra Workshop at Macomb Community College Center for the Performing Arts June 24-28 and July 1, 2, 3 and 5.

High school, college and professional level musicians are invited to enroll. Cost for the complete session is $75.

The workshop will provide intensive contact with Scripps and Detroit Symphony Orchestra musician-instructors Derek Francis, violin; Vincent Lioni, viola; David Levine, cello; and Maxim Janowsky, double bass. Professor Thomas Cook, music director of the Macomb Symphony Orchestra at Macomb Community College, will also conduct workshop sessions and be available to work individually with participants.

A souvenir T-shirt will be given to all attending the workshop, and a concert featuring all students will be presented.

Additional information and reservation forms may be obtained by calling Brenda Maltese at 286-2175.

This is as opposed to a nearly seven percent increase in taxes last year and would amount to about a $12 increase for the owner of a home assessed at $40,000 in state equalized value, said Woods City Administrator Chester Petersen.

The total general fund budget for 1984-85 was $5,409,397 compared to the 1985-86 budget of $5,309,525.

"There was a decrease in the upcoming year's budget mainly because we transferred the street lighting budget from the general fund to the street budget, which is a separate fund," Petersen said. "We did this at the request of our auditors who argued that street lighting should be in the street budget."

Petersen said the tax burden was also reduced because the Woods showed a $140,000 surplus for last year's budget which was applied to the 1985-86 figures.

Petersen said the city was continuing on its ambitious capital improvements program for the Woods, with $2,156,254 set aside to upgrade the city and its services.

"This figure represents almost half the amount in our general fund, and is completely separate from that fund," he said. "The amounts we intend to spend do not come from the 1985-86 general fund budget."

Among the projects contemplated by the city are: $378,200 to repair and replace cement streets; $106,500 to repair and maintain asphalt roads; and $200,000 for sidewalk and driveway replacement and repair.

"We're also going to continue changing our street lamps from mercury vapor to high pressure sodium," Petersen said. "They're more energy-efficient and they provide more light."

Petersen said the city is in its second year of street light replacement and is substituting the lights on a 200-per-year basis. The program is expected to be completed in about six more years.

The Woods has also allocated $408,000 for water and sewer improvements; $400,000 for parking system improvements, which includes upgrading the parking meters and providing more off-street parking; and intends to plant another 12,000 trees along city streets.

Petersen also said approximately $200,000 has been earmarked to improving the operating departments inside the city with $75,000 set aside for computer equipment and $70,000 for public works, including the construction of a salt storage building and improvements and maintenance to city hall.

The Woods also expects to replace a number of city vehicles, including the purchase of a new fire truck which will cost approximately $120,000.

The Department of Public Safety will receive three new scout cars, two detective cars and will have one scout car rebuilt.

The Parks and Recreation Department will receive $31,000 to replace a station wagon, pick-up truck and a tractor. The city intends to replace one parking meter enforcement vehicle.

The Department of Public Works will receive nearly $330,000 to replace a number of its trucks and the city garage will receive nearly $15,000 for assorted equipment. Petersen said the total for vehicle equipment replacement and repair for the Woods was approximately $500,000 and the funds would be provided by the motor vehicle depreciation fund.

Although he preferred not to name a specific amount, Petersen said the Woods was again anticipating a surplus from this year's budget, which would be applied to reduce or help offset any tax increases for the upcoming fiscal year.

Woods to celebrate 35 years

Grosse Pointe Woods will celebrate its 35th anniversary in September and a steering committee that will plan the festivities met recently.

The event will be held Sunday, Sept. 8, and the theme is "Celebration of Service — 35 years."

The celebration will begin with a parade down Mack Avenue followed by a full day of activities at city hall and Ghesquiere Park. High-lights will include a tour of the city offices and the Department of Public Safety, refreshments and dancing.

All service organizations in the Woods are invited to participate. Call city hall at 343-2440 for more information.

Crash leaves one injured

A 28-year-old Saginaw man remains in very critical condition in Bon Secours Hospital after the car he was driving Friday morning, June 7, left the roadway and struck a tree on Essex in the Park.

Dion Latimer suffered severe head injuries, possible broken bones and internal injuries in the accident, which took place on Essex west of Berkshire, according to reports.

Police officers and an ambulance responded to residents' calls about the accident at 8:39 a.m. Friday, reports said. Latimer was found wandering a half-block away in a very confused state and was taken to the hospital by medics, according to police.

The cause of the accident is still under investigation. It is possible that Latimer was involved in some kind of incident in Detroit where he may have been injured, police added.

The most notable quote of the late Mae West was not just "Come up and see me sometime." It was "Come up and see me sometime. Come up Wednesday. That's amateur night."

Most biographers of Andrew Jackson say he was born in South Carolina in 1767. But recent research suggests he was born in 1755 on a ship bound to America from Ireland.

Jazz workshop set

Grammy Award winning trombonist-arranger and leader of the Boss Brass Big Band, Rob McConnell, will headline the roster of instructors assembled for a Jazz Band Workshop at Macomb Community College's Center for the Performing Arts, June 24-28.

The workshop is open to all high school, college and professional level musicians. Cost for the complete session is $75. Sessions will be conducted from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m.

The workshop will include intensive work with instructors in the area of instrumental jazz, with daily work covering style, improvisation, ensemble playing and sectional as well as group rehearsals. The week will be climaxed with a concert featuring all workshop participants on Saturday, June 29, at 7 p.m.

Additional information and reservation forms may be obtained by calling Brenda Maltese at 286-2175. The Center for Performing Arts is located at Hall Road (M-59) and Garfield roads in Clinton Township.

Film wins award

"Gateway to Opportunity," a film about Wayne State University, won a Silver Screen Award at the United States Festivals Association judging of industrial films in Chicago.

The Silver Screen Award is presented for those films judged "truly outstanding." It is the second award for the film produced by the university to inform the public about Wayne State.

"Gateway" also won an award in the public relations category of the 1984 International Film Producers Association Cindy Competition. The 18-minute film is narrated by WSU President David Adamany and it is available through the university library.

Drunk driving on waterways is invitation to tragedy

By Elizabeth Hanford Dole, Secretary of Transportation

Last year, an estimated half of all recreational boating accidents occurred because someone had too much to drink and got careless. More than 1,200 people died on our nation's waterways, many of them from alcohol-related incidents.

Drinking even small amounts of alcohol while operating a boat is more dangerous than most people realize. Even without drinking, the effects of wind, noise, glare and motion can cause fatigue and slowed reaction time after just a few

Penny, penny, who's got the penny?

It took a heap of huffin' and puffin' to haul all these pennies into the National Bank of Detroit in the Village recently to have them tallied in the bank's counting machine, but everyone agreed it was for a worthy cause. The eighth grade class of University Liggett decided to pitch in, without their teacher's help, to aid drought victims in Africa through a "penny lot" campaign. The class, here represented by Beth VanElsinger, Kendall Meade, Andrew Joel, Brad Stedem, Keith Wolter and Priscilla Webb joined NBD Second Vice President in Charge of Operations John Peltz and processing teller Tony Murton in counting the coppers. The final take — $1,667.35 which will be sent to aid drought victims in Niger, on the west coast of Africa. Arranging for the financial transfer will be Detroit News columnist Al Stark, who helped the students kick off the campaign after speaking to the students about Africa's problems and promise in a values class. Stark, who has extensively visited Africa, arranged to have the funds sent to friends in Niger who will, in turn, send photos back to ULS so the students can see their efforts in action.

hours on a boat. And if a boat operator has been drinking as well, these effects are compounded.

Drunk boaters not only endanger themselves: frequently they put other waterway users at risk. That is why the U.S. Coast Guard and state boating authorities are cracking down on alcohol abuse; they want to save lives and make boating more pleasurable for everyone.

You should be aware that the federal government and many states have recently toughened laws against drinking and boating. For example, boating accident reports must now state whether alcohol contributed to any casualties, and anyone convicted of operating a vessel while intoxicated in waters under federal jurisdiction faces a maximum penalty of a $5,000 fine and a year in prison.

The U.S. Department of Transportation, of which the Coast Guard is an important part, is working closely with the states to strengthen laws against drunken boat operation. All but one of the states now have laws against operating a boat while intoxicated. In addition, a growing number of states are setting limits on blood-alcohol content levels and requiring mandatory breathalyzer tests for those suspected of drunk boating.

The Coast Guard is also coordinating an ambitious public awareness program to educate boaters about the hazards of mixing alcohol while operating a boat. This includes a number of "safe boating" courses that are available all over the country. The courses are offered as a public service by groups such as the U.S. Coast Guard Auxiliary, U.S. Power Squads, the Red Cross, and individual states.

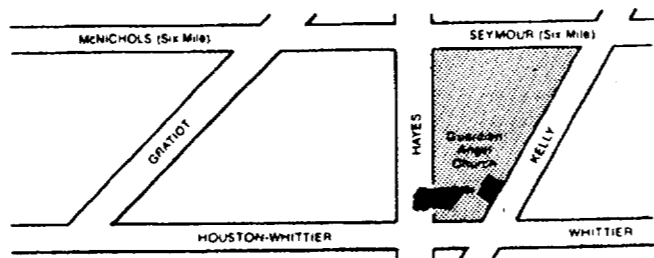

JESUS, OUR HOPE FOR FAMILY AND NATION

Date: Friday, June 14, 1985

Time: 8:00 p.m.

Place: Guardian Angel Church
12545 Kelly Road
Detroit, Michigan

You are cordially invited to attend Mass and receive Holy Communion in honor of the Sacred Heart of Jesus, on His Feast Day.

"When Our Lord appeared to St. Margaret Mary in the Visitation Chapel at Parey-le-Monial, France, June 16, 1675, He told her that all those who have a true devotion to Him and consecrate themselves to His Sacred Heart will never lose their souls. He is the source from which all blessings flow, blessings which He will bestow abundantly in every place where the image of His Divine Heart is set-up and honored.

Families divided by discord; He will bring together again. He will also be the shelter and help of any family faced with trouble that calls on Him with confidence."

In honor of the Immaculate Heart of Mary there will be a 1:00 a.m. Mass. There will also be an all night vigil immediately following Mass with the Exposition of the Blessed Sacrament until 8:30 a.m.

All are Welcome to Attend

Ballet recital

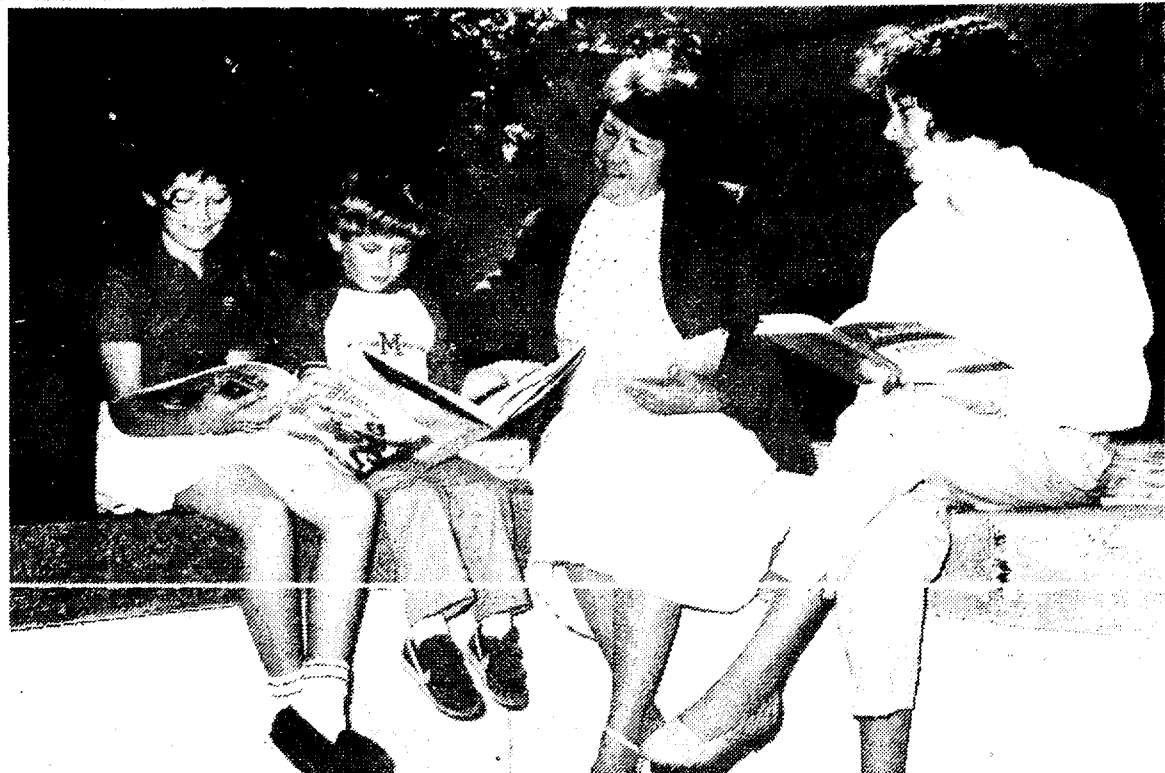

The Grosse Pointe War Memorial's Corps de Ballet, under the direction of Mary Ellen Cooper, will present its annual spring recital, "Ballet de Printemps," on Thursday and Friday, June 20 and 21, at 8 p.m.

The program will include five scenes from Constance Lambert's "Horoscopes" and will feature senior ballerinas Cathy DeRonne, Ruth Finger and Raelyn Mortier. Miss Cooper points out that though the scenes draw heavily on classical music, "they have a strong, modern influence on today's ballet."

Other parts of the program will include elementary and intermediate students as well, as in the performance of "Three Dances" by Dvorak. Debussy's "Children's Corner Suite" will also be performed, and will feature a solo segment by Cynthia Refaill.

The recital is open to the public and costs $2.50 for adult, and $1.50 for students under 12.

For those who become inspired watching the recital, Miss Cooper has scheduled a registration day for her summer workshops on Saturday, June 22, from 10 a.m. to noon, for children as well as for adults. Students are then assigned to one-hour time periods according to age and ability. The cost of the summer ballet workshops are $27 each for eight sessions.

Stage set for summer workshop

Auditions for a summer drama workshop will be held Friday, June 14, from 4 to 6 p.m. at the War Memorial, with openings available to youths from grade school through college. Students will be placed according to age and experience and classes will include emphasis on mime, stage movement, voice and diction, characterization and actual presentations from well known plays. Acting instructor for the workshop will be Sally Reynolds, center, here working with Kelly Babel, 11, Kenny Mazer Schmidt, 4, and Carey Crim, 13. Mrs. Reynolds has been director of the Grosse Pointe Children's Theatre for 32 years. For more information, call 885-6219 or 881-7511.

Teen dances

A "School's Out Summer Celebration Party" will be held Wednesday, June 19, at the War Memorial for all Grosse Pointe students who will have completed grades 6 through 8 by that time.

The entire eight-man crew of "J.R. Entertainment" will be on hand that night, along with a special sound and lighting system to add to the festive mood.

Another dance, for eight-grade students only, will be held Sunday, June 16, to celebrate their passage from middle school to high school. This event will also feature "J.R. Entertainment" and students are asked to make this a dressier affair: the young men to wear ties and the young women to wear skirts or dresses.

Both dances will begin at 7:30 p.m. and end at 10:30 p.m. Admission is by a $3 ticket purchased in advance only. No students will be admitted onto the grounds of the War Memorial the night of the dances without a ticket.

Parents are always needed to help chaperone teen events at the community center. Any adult who can volunteer an evening is urged to call 881-7511.

Book autographing

Harlequin Romance author Maura McGiveny will autograph copies of her late it book, "Almost a Bride," Saturday, June 15, from 1 to 3 p.m. at the Curious Raven Bookstore, 10745 Morang at Cadieux in Detroit.

PWP meeting

The Grosse Pointe Chapter of Parents Without Partners will meet Friday, June 14, at 7:30 p.m. at the K of C Hall, 25003 Little Mack, St. Clair Shores.

Guest speaker will be Jasper Fanalone of the Dale Carnegie Institute. His topic will be "Motivational Goals." An afterglow will be held at 10:15 p.m.

The meeting and afterglow is $3.50 and the afterglow only is $5. For more information, call 885-9467 or 775-3273.

Boblo, harmony

The Boblo boat moonlight cruise of Friday, July 12, will be taken over by barbershop quartets and choruses and anyone who just likes to sing and listen to barbershop harmony.

Open to the public, the 8:30 p.m. cruise is sponsored by the Detroit No. 1 Chapter of The Society for the Preservation and Encouragement of Barbershop Quartet Singing in America, the oldest chapter east of the Mississippi River.

Tickets, at $9 per person, can be obtained by mailing a check to "Detroit No. 1 Chapter S.P.E.B.S.-Q.S.A." along with a stamped, self-addressed envelope, to Mike Elbert, 19 Kemberton Dr., Pleasant Ridge, Mich. 48069.

Group rates are available for senior citizens groups of 10 or more.

Further information is available by calling 398-8365 or 326-3446.

Chicken dinner

Macomb County's Association for Retarded Citizens will serve a chicken barbecue dinner Sunday, June 16, from noon to 6 p.m. at the building at 49599 N. Gratiot, between 22 and 23 Mile Roads in Chesterfield Township.

Tickets are $4.50 for adults and $2.75 for children 12 and under. For more information, call 949-0151. Proceeds support programs for developmentally disabled persons.

Teen aerobics

Teen girls who participated in the War Memorial's special aerobics class, "Girls Just Want to Have Fun," had so much fun they asked that the offering be continued during the summer.

A new session, open to all local teens, will begin Tuesday, June 18, from 6 to 7 p.m. The class, led by Super Shape instructor Laurel Charvat, will meet on Tuesdays and Thursdays through Aug. 13. The 16-session course costs $32.

Participants, who will do aerobics to the latest music, should wear athletic shoes and either leotards and tights, shorts or sweats, and bring along a beach towel or mat. Neon colors and barrettes are a welcome addition to the fun spirit of this class.

Registration may be made in person or by mail with a check made payable to the Grosse Pointe War Memorial, 32 Lakeshore, Grosse Pointe Farms, Mich. 48236.

Rose Society show

The Grosse Pointe Rose Society will hold its Annual Summer Show at the Neighborhood Club, 17150 Waterloo, Friday and Saturday, June 21-22.

Set-up for exhibitors will be Friday from 7 to 10:30 a.m. Judging begins at 11 a.m.

The show will be open to the public from 1 to 5 p.m. on Friday and from 9:30 a.m. to 3 p.m. on Saturday. The public is invited to exhibit, as there will be a non-member category available. There will also be an Artistic Arrangements Division.

Admission is free. For more details or information on exhibiting, call Rick Moore at 881-7675, evenings.

Jung, retirement

Norman Penlington, Ph.D., emeritus professor of humanities at Michigan State University, will present a lecture, "Jung and Retirement: A Time to Create," at the Center for Jung Studies of Detroit Sunday, June 23, from 2 to 4 p.m. The lecture will be held at Miller Hall, Christ Church, Grosse Pointe Farms.

The lecture is free to members and costs $3.50 for non-members. The Center for Jung Studies of Detroit is a non-profit educational institution and membership is open to all interested persons. For further information, call Naomi Bowerman, registrar, at 885-8792.

Proposed student policies go to school board

By Mike Andrzejczyk
School board members Tuesday night took up for discussion revisions to student policies developed by a committee of students, parents, counselors and administrators.

The proposed policies would cover such areas as students' rights and responsibilities, admission of resident, non-resident and exchange students, attendance, conduct, assignment to class, involvement in decision-making and student council, detention, the right to distribute printed material, corporal punishment and alcohol and drug abuse.

In many cases, the proposals are for new policies where none now exist, Superintendent John Whritner said. Passage of policy statements will lay the foundation from which rules and regulations can be developed to implement a stated policy, he added.

Some policies are under review by the system's legal counsel to determine their legality, Whritner said. State law must be complied with in developing policies on equal access to facilities and suspension of students, he added.

Also under review is a ban of use of all tobacco products on high school property, school officials said. The policy would ban tobacco use by anyone, including parents and teachers, while on high school property.

Although the board is expected to act on the proposed policies next month, rules and regulations to put them into effect won't be formulated until after school begins in the fall, Whritner said.

Major changes in the proposed policies include allowance for employees under contract with the school system to send their children to Grosse Pointe schools if they don't live in the school district.

Also, the district is tempering its alcohol and drug abuse policy from a strictly punitive measure to one that stresses intervention as well as corrective actions.

A new policy covering students' rights and responsibilities has also been developed, which school officials say is an important cornerstone for other policies and regulations.

Under the proposed admission of non-resident students policy, students would be permitted to attend the public school system after paying tuition provided they meet three criteria: The student's family would have to have bought a house in the district but not relocated by the end of the semester, or the student would have to be a high school senior whose family is moving and the student wants to complete that senior year in Grosse Pointe, or the student would have to be a son or daughter of a staff member currently under contract with the school system to fall under the new policy.

Although school employees have asked to send their children to Grosse Pointe schools for tuition, it was decided the board should answer this question, Whritner said.

Under the proposed alcohol and drug abuse policy, the district says it "recognizes the serious societal problem of alcohol/drug abuse and dependency and also recognizes that the dependency state of chemical use is a primary illness."

The school system will undertake prevention through education and supportive intervention, which are to be considered appropriate objectives for the district, according to the proposed policy.

Under the proposal "intervention will include comprehensive student and employee assistance programs as well as educational programs for the entire community. Substance abuse curricula will be taught on a regular basis to all age groups, K-12. Staff and parents shall be educated not only of the preventative aspects but also on identification of and intervention in the addiction process."

The new policy, if adopted, will represent "the commitment of this school system to do the best thing for its students even if those things are not the easiest to do," according to Bruce Keegen, chairman of the committee that drafted the policies.

Unlike current policy, which is strictly punitive, the new policy seeks to correct substance abuse while still treating it as a violation of school regulations and something disruptive to the educational process, he added.

The 16-member policy formation committee had representatives from each school level as well as parent and teacher input, Keegen said. A representative from the Substance Abuse Community Council was also a member of the committee.

The committee may be asked to aid the administration in developing rules and regulations for certain policies, which could include helping develop an intervention and education program for students at the different grade levels. No such program currently exists.

The proposed students' rights and responsibilities would assure students the legal right they are entitled to under federal and state law while noting that for their part, students have certain responsibilities to the school system, including regular attendance, conscientious effort in class and conformance with school regulations.

Students rights would include the right to a free and full education, equal educational opportunities and freedom from discrimination, due process of law with respect to suspension, expulsion, unreasonable search and seizure or administrative decision that may have injured students' legal rights and a right to privacy.

Responsibilities include attendance and punctuality in class and other school functions, assistance of the staff in running a safe school for all students, dressing and grooming themselves to meet standards of safety and health and in a manner not distracting or disruptive to the educational process, expression of ideas in a manner that will not offend or slander others and avoidance of inaccuracies and obscene language in student publications.

The board is expected to discuss the proposed policies at its upcoming June meetings and consider their adoption in July.

Wearing a heart monitor

... for 24 hours recently was Scarfone, a bassett hound owned by photographer Betty Carpenter of the Farms. Scarf has a second-degree heart block and the monitor was to determine if the dog requires a pacemaker. She was fitted with a Hplter monitor at the Veterinary Clinical Center at Michigan State University. It is the only such monitor at the clinic and is valued at $3,000. Of more concern to Scarfone was its weight — 10 pounds — and the dog spent most of her time laying around, according to owner Carpenter, who snapped this picture when Sardine the cat came to inspect the contraption. The good news? Scarfone does not have to have the operation.

Mrs. Marr, Anderson win in board race through an account used by the Grosse Pointe South Mothers' Club an innocent mistake. "I will assume full responsibility... and will fund (the repayment) myself," he added.

 The Postal Service has asked that the difference between the 4.3-cent per-piece rate for non-profit groups and the 9.3-cent bulk rate that should have been used be repaid, school officials said. Reimbursement will be made to the Mothers' Club, which in turn will repay the Postal Service, officials said.
 The CAP-C group ended last fall's campaign with a $600 surplus, which it donated to the PTA/PTO council, Grosse Pointe South Key Club and Services for Older Citizens, Anderson said.

CAP-C operated openly and honestly and in no way attempted to circumvent the law, he said.
 Talking about his election, Anderson said he would not be reluctant to ask questions and hoped to become a very active member of the board.
 "I'm really looking forward to working with Dr. (John) Whritner, the administrative staff, the teaching staff and Mrs. Marr," Anderson said. "We have to become aware of why we are there."
 He wants to do all he can to further improve the quality of education delivered by the district, Anderson said, adding he has no specific agenda in mind as yet.
 At her victory party Monday night, Mrs. Marr said it was a wonderful feeling to have finished first in the balloting. "Last year is behind us," she added. "I think this proves that."

Mrs. Marr said she has no agenda in mind yet, but added she will work to open the lines of communication throughout the system and try further to bring together segments of the community.
 Faced with a small campaign budget, Mrs. Marr said she relied on decisions made by her campaign manager Steve Marr to use direct mailings to elementary school parents and consistent voters to get her message out. The campaign was run in a business-like manner to get the most of the limited dollars available, she added.

Aiding her in the campaign was a strong grassroots effort as well as name recognition, Mrs. Marr said. The family business has been in the area for years and the name is well known, she added.

Mrs. Marr said she felt she had won for the right reasons. One of the concerns consistently voiced by people she talked to during her campaign was concern about a tax increase, proposed in next fiscal year's school budget and an issue she addressed during her run for the school board.
 She added she hoped people were encouraged by her election.
 The board members-elect will be sworn in at the Monday, July 8, school board meeting.

Suzanne Kent is honored

The Historical Society of Michigan presented a Volunteer Recognition Award to Suzanne Dempsey

Suzanne Kent

Kent of the Grosse Pointe Historical Society last month. The presentation was made at the group's annual meeting and dinner held at the Edsel & Eleanor Ford House.

She has been a member of the Grosse Pointe Historical Society for four years. Most of her assistance has been in cataloging the archival collections as well as helping to obtain new acquisitions.

She is also president of the Grosse Pointe Woods Historical Commission.

Twice in this country's history, it was against the law for Americans to give gifts at Christmas. In colonial New England, local authorities outlawed Christmas observances. During World War I, the Council of National Defense thought gift-giving wasted materials.

By Peggy O'Connor

An international celebration benefitting our own Music Hall Center for the Performing Arts, and combining the excitement of the Detroit Grand Prix, the glamorous furs and exquisite fashions from world-famous designer Yves Saint Laurent, great music, and the presence of business and civic leaders, international guests and drivers of the sleek Formula One autos can only mean one thing: it's Grand Prix Ball time.

The Ball is set to take place this Wednesday evening, June 19, at Detroit's Westin Hotel. Hattie Belkin, president of Saint Laurent rive gauche of Birmingham, will present the American debut of Saint Laurent's 1985-86 fall/winter collection, flown in from Paris especially for the evening. Don Massey Cadillac has generously helped to underwrite the cost of the fashion show.

Following the fashion show, Ball guests will dance to the music of J.C. Heard and his orchestra. Heard has been honored with a Michigan Foundation for the Arts' award for his contributions to the music scene. His orchestra represented Detroit last summer at jazz festivals in Montreux, Switzerland, Holland and Finland.

Invitations to the Detroit Grand Prix Ball may be obtained by calling the development office of the Music Hall Center at 963-7622. Individual tickets are $150; tables of 10 are $1,500. Tickets are tax-deductible to the extent provided by law.

General chairman for this year's ball is Mrs. Donald E. Petersen, wife of Ford Motor Company's chairman of the board. Music Hall Center Board officer Mrs. Joseph A. (Ruth) Vance Jr., of The Shores, has teamed up with Mrs. R. Jamison (Betty) Williams as co-chairmen. Mr. and Mrs. J. Mason Reynolds will serve with Governor and Mrs. James J. Blanchard and Mayor Coleman A. Young as the Ball's honorary chairmen.

Mr. Reynolds is president of Allied Automotive and executive vice-president of Allied Corporation, which has provided a generous grant to underwrite costs of the Grand Prix Ball. Allied Automotive is also a major sponsor of Detroit Grand Prix IV.

Making sure the glittering event is every bit as exciting as it sounds are members of the Patrons Committee, including Dr. and Mrs. Maurice Belkin, Mr. and Mrs. Mark Beltaire, Mr. and Mrs. Richard Brodie, Kirk and Wendy Cheyfitz, The Honorable and Mrs. Michael Connor, Mr. and Mrs. Keith E. Crain, Mrs. Saul H. Dunitz, Mr. and Mrs. Bernard Fauber, Mr. and Mrs. Alfred J. Fisher III, Mr. and Mrs. Max M. Fisher, Mr. and Mrs. Edsel B. Art On The Pointe is 'on' this weekend Wondering what's going on in The Pointe this weekend? It's art, as in Art On The Pointe, the second annual juried art fair on the grounds of the Edsel & Eleanor Ford House on the shores of Lake St. Clair. The combination of 150 artists and artisans displaying their works for sale, and a variety of attractions and refreshments promises to be the perfect way to spend a summer weekend.

This second annual fair aims to become THE quality art show of metropolitan Detroit. The Ford estate, with its 90 acres, its Cotswold style, Albert Kahn-designed house and magnificent atmosphere, is the background for 150 artists — many from Grosse Pointe — who will be featuring a wide selection of works. Visitors may wander among booths displaying watercolor and oil paintings, pottery, photography, handcarved jewelry, pen and ink sketches, etching, fiber arts and much more.

Hours are 10 a. m. to 5 p. m. tomorrow, Friday, June 14, and Saturday, June 15. A $1 donation is requested to support mental health care programs of the Northeast Guidance Center. Parking is free and there will be shuttle vans available for the handicapped or for those who choose to ride. The walk from the estate's gatehouse, though, on a winding path past the children's playhouse and the lagoon, and toward the main house through the colorful booths, should be a real treat.

Refreshments will be served under striped tents and will include nearly everything to snack on from hot dogs to gourmet deli morsels. Beer and wine will also be available in a cafe-like setting under the trees.

Tours of the house, by the way, are available during Art On The Pointe, (with the usual fee addition).

Friday night's highlights will include an invitation-only Gala Auction in the Edsel & Eleanor Ford House. Refreshments, music and dancing, awards to six outstanding participating artists and a chance to bid on art, objects and services will be available.

Jurors for this exciting second edition of Art On The Pointe include Mary M. Dennison, Artist Director of the Detroit Artists Market, art consultant to corporations, board member of community cultural organizations such as Cranbrook Academy of Art, Detroit Institute of Arts, Oakland University and the Meadowbrook Art Gallery Association; Kathy Dombach, past-president of the Michigan Potters Association, a teacher at Eastern Michigan and Wayne State Universities and a local and national exhibitor; and Jim Gilbert, exhibition director at Pontiac Art Center. Mr. Gilbert teaches at the Cranbrook Academy of Art and Oakland University. His work is nationally acclaimed and he recently completed a 13-panel sculpture that graces the lobby of the San Francisco Hilton.

Lots of people have worked hard to make Art On The Pointe a success... which last year's Art On The Pointe-ers would agree might be difficult, given the hit 1984 edition made. Among those on the committees are:

Beth Moran and Betty Loehner, chairmen; Kathy Heitman and Beth Moran, artists chairmen; Liz Oates, food; Joni Neveux, concessionaires; Ellen Cooke and Sandi Seale, tea room; Toni Stewart, finance; Debbie Graziani, liquor; Mary Berschback, group reservations; Beth Kastner and Cheryl Nelson, chairman and co-chairman, respectively, of publicity; Ruth Kaal and Linda DiLaura, security and grounds coordinators; Mary Lamparter and Sharon Vasher, special events; Fran Pastoria, scheduling; Jayne Vallee, secretary; Sheila Crandall, mailings; Mary Bonten, T-shirts; Cheryl Waldeck and Mary Shammis, Friday Evening Gala; and Sue and Don Armbruster, group awards to artists.

Carol A. Sinclair strikes a playful pose with some of her artwork. Carol is among the local artists participating in Art On The Pointe at the Edsel & Eleanor Ford House this weekend.

They and their efforts merely await those in the Pointe... who are wondering "what's on" in Grosse Pointe this weekend.

It's Pointe Summer Music Festival time

Pointers know that summer is just around the corner when the Grosse Pointe Summer Music Festival Committee gets together, as it did May 30, to put the finishing touches on another summer filled with music.

Committee chairmen Alexander Suczek, founder and artistic director, of the event, D. Andrew Moquin, general chairman, Mrs. Ellwyn A. Gilbert, classical series chairman, Mrs. William R. Lafer, light series chairman, and honorary chairman Mrs. Sterling S. Sanford, have lined up a seven-concert series to include a variety of musical tastes.

The classical series will kick off the 28th annual Festival on Monday, June 24, when the Cleveland Baroque Soloists come to town. On July 8, David Strickland, this year's winner of the spring piano competition, will play in recital. And, on July 22, the New World String Quartet will complete the classical series.

The light series will be launched by James Dapogny and Carol Leigh on July 1, when they present a Cabaret Evening, "Singin' the Blues." On July 15, the Trinidad Tripoli Steel Band will make its second appearance at the War Memorial. And, on July 29, the Johnny Knorr Orchestra will bring back the sound of the "Big Bands."

Both the light and the classical series will climax on Aug. 5, when the Grosse Pointe Symphony Pops conducted by Felix Resnick, returns for another outdoor concert on the War Memorial green.

All of the concerts will begin at 8 p.m. on Monday evenings. The War Memorial grounds will open at 6 p.m. for picnickers who may bring their own suppers or order a specially prepared picnic supper from the Center.

Other committee members who joined efforts May 30 were Mrs. Anthony Rutkowski, Margaret and Roy Scharfenberg, Mary G. Fitzpatrick, Jennifer B. Lafer, Karen Bokram, Charity Suczek, Irene Frank, Mary Ellen Ruda, Cecelia and Ralph L. Mason, Mrs. Winfield S. Jewell, Kay Healy, P.B. Penoyer, and War Memorial board president William Monahan. Also on hand were War Memorial executive director Mark R. Weber and program director Jan Arndt.

One of the ideas adopted at the meeting was "A Festival Fling" package for ticket purchasers who want to save money and have maximum flexibility. So, this year concert-goers may purchase eight reserved seat tickets to the concerts of their choice for only $60. They may use all eight tickets for one concert, or split them up for use on several different dates. Specific tickets may be requested when the package is ordered, or by phone at a later date.

Tickets to individual concerts are based on availability and are non-refundable and non-exchangeable. For more information on the "Festival Fling" package, call the Center at 881-7511.

Get ready for AAUW annual Used Book Sale

It was Carlyle who said "The true university of these days is a collection of books." Grosse Pointers who have such a "collection" they are ready to retire from their households, can give it a second career by donating the books to the American Association of University Women - Grosse Pointe Branch annual Used Book Sale, scheduled for Oct. 8 through 13 at Salem Memorial Lutheran Church on Moross Road.

The AAUW already has its traditional Used Book Drop-Off Barrels in place at convenient spots in the east side area: at Damman's Hardware in the Village, Colonial Federal on The Hill, Kroger on Marter Road, and at two Farmer Jack locations: at Harper and Moross and at Mack Avenue near Vernier Road.

The AAUW welcomes any books in good condition - children's literature the children have outgrown; hard-cover novels you won't read again; cookbooks and paperbacks; encyclopedias and high school and university textbooks; biographies, mysteries and matched sets; cocktail table books. After the AAUW volunteers spend their summer sorting and pricing, the volumes will find their way to the October Sale shelves, ready for that second career to be set in motion.

Libby Van dePutte, who co-chairs this year's Sale with Ann Schumacher, says, "I have a Master's degree in Library Science and seeing all those books is like a treasure hunt for me." Folks with book donations too substantial to conveniently tote to the drop-off points can call the AAUW personal pick-up service through Monday, Sept. 16, at 882-0424, 882-7788 or 824-0307.

Some of the AAUW volunteers involved in the preparation for the Used Book Sale include Carole Tibbitts, winter collections; Suzanne Goodwin and Sue MacKechnie, barrels; Lynn Rask, Linda Trudell and Sandy Shauman, summer collections.

Telethon luncheon is today

March of Dimes Telethon hosts Jimmy Launce, Amyre Makupson and parapsychologist Jacqui will appear at a benefit luncheon at 11:30 a.m. today, Thursday, June 13, at the Detroit Golf Club. Pointers Edge Longyear and Stephanie Germack are chairman and co-chairman, respectively, of the benefit.

Tickets are $20. Further information may be obtained by calling 423-3207. Proceeds raised by the luncheon help the March of Dimes fight birth defects via medical research, educational programs and community service projects.

Jimmy Launce has hosted a morning radio program on WJR for many years and is also a producer of area dinner theatre. Ms. Makupson is WKBD-TV Channel 50's news and public affairs manager. Jacqui broadcasts on WXYT radio.

The luncheon is one of several events which call attention to the Telethon, which airs the last week-end of June on Channel 50.

Sweet Adelines meet June 18

The Greater Detroit Chapter of Sweet Adelines, Inc., invite women who like to sing to a special guest night, this Tuesday, June 18, at 7:30 p.m. in the Gabriel Richard Building on the University of Michigan-Dearborn campus, 5001 Evergreen.

Guests will be invited to participate in a typical Sweet Adelines rehearsal and learn a song in four-part barbershop harmony. A knowledge of music reading is not necessary. The chorus will also entertain.

Further information on Guest Night may be obtained by calling Dottie Lamarte at 541-7473 or Cyndi Peltonen at 288-0848.

Cottage Hospital Auxiliary lunches

Members of the Cottage Hospital Auxiliary will gather at 11:30 a.m. Wednesday, June 26, at the Country Club of Detroit for their annual spring luncheon. Following lunch, Johanna Gilbert will present a musical program. Guests are welcome.

Further information or reservations (which must be made no later than June 21) may be obtained by calling 293-3786.

A silver medal evening

Walter J. McCarthy Jr., of Grosse Pointe, chairman of the board and chief executive officer of the Detroit Edison Company, was among prominent area leaders honored for their contributions to the arts at the First Governor's Arts Awards Banquet at the Lansing Country Club May 23. At the silver medallion award presentation were, left to right, Mrs. Peter Stroh, Gov. James J. Blanchard, McCarthy, Paula Blanchard and Peter W. Stroh, chairman of the Stroh Brewery Company and of the Concerned Citizens for the Arts. McCarthy was honored as an outstanding leader who has supported the arts in Michigan, particularly as chief executive officer of the Detroit Symphony, chairman of the board of the Cranbrook Institute of Science and trustee of the Interlochen Center for the Arts and the Cranbrook Educational Community.

Newcomers plan cruise

The third annual Grosse Pointe Newcomers cruise on the Detroit River is set for next Saturday, June 22. The Duc D'Orleans yacht will set sail promptly at 9 p.m. from Windsor for a three-hour cruise. There will be a cold buffet, open bar and dancing. Cost per couple is $38.

"Captains" Mike and Eileen Shapiro and their "crew" — consisting of Dale and Julie Gallimore, Butch and Cindy Hill, J.D. and Marilyn MacKay, Nick and Joan Piccione, John and Evelyn Strader and Craig and Cindy Wheeler — have planned an evening of guaranteed fun.

Couples new to the area and interested in Newcomers are invited to contact the club's membership chairmen at 884-8870 or 886-2966 for further information.

Park Garden Club meets

Mrs. Howard Poppen opened her home for the Monday, June 10, meeting of the Grosse Pointe Park Garden Club. She was assisted by Mrs. Richard Mertz. After luncheon and a business meeting, Mrs. Poppen presented Mrs. Peter Biglin, who discussed "The Month of Roses."

Mrs. Mertz will continue as club president for the 1985-86 season, with Mrs. Poppen as first vice-president. Mrs. Ramon Brinkman will serve as second vice-president. The recording and corresponding secretaries, respectively, are Mrs. Walter Levick and Mrs. Hillaire Van Hollebeke; Mrs. John Ross is treasurer and Mrs. Frederick Schumann is the group's parliamentarian.

Fontbonne officers are elected

The Fontbonne Auxiliary of St. John Hospital held its general meeting and annual brunch on May 15. During the meeting the Auxiliary presented a check for $5,000 to Sister Elizabeth Veenhuis, for the retired Sisters of St. Joseph, and another for $235,000 to Glenn A. Wesslemann, for the St. Clair Health Corporation.

The checks represent proceeds from Auxiliary fund-raising events for the year, including the White Christmas Ball, fontbonnefair, Fashion Show and Renaissance Cuisine.

During the meeting the new 1985-87 officers and board of directors were installed. They are Mrs. Anthony Ostosh, president; Mrs. Murray Klimchuk, president-elect; Mrs. Richard Rinke, first vice-president; Mrs. Edmund T. Ahee, third vice-president; Mrs. John Staub, recording secretary; Mrs. Joseph Gasper, corresponding secretary; Mrs. Joseph C. Keys, treasurer; and Mrs. John E. Young Jr., assistant treasurer.

New to the board of directors are Mrs. Lee Andary, Mrs. Edmund M. Brady, Jr., Mrs. Thomas A. Cracchiolo, Mrs. William Ireland, Mrs. Robert LeFevre, Mrs. W. Peter McCabe, Mrs. William Shield and Mrs. John A. Tulloch.

Mrs. Robert E. Birk and Mrs. Rogert Stanton served as co-chairmen for the meeting and brunch held at the Grosse Pointe Yacht Club.

Mrs. James W. Snyder Jr., (middle) former president of the Fontbonne Auxiliary, presented Glenn A. Wesslemann, (left) president of St. Clair Health Corporation and St. John Hospital with a donation of $235,000 and Sister Elizabeth Veenhuis, SSJ, (right) president of the Sisters of St. Joseph (right) with a donation of $5,000 during the group's general meeting and annual brunch.

Flag Day Flea Market

Tomorrow, Flag Day, Friday, June 14, is the date of the Cancer Loan Closet Foundation's Flea Market at the Grosse Pointe Unitarian Church Annex, 17150 Maumee Avenue, from 11 a.m. to 4 p.m. Access to ample parking for the event is from either St. Clair Avenue or Neff Road.

Co-chairmen Mrs. Thomas Murphy and Mrs. John Cushmas and their committee have lined up an assortment of attic treasures, handmade and homemade items, baked goods, jewelry and more.

Call Ketchum Group Friday

The Elizabeth Ketchum Group of Grosse Pointe Memorial Church will meet tomorrow, Friday, June 14, at 12:30 p.m. at the Grosse Pointe Yacht Club. Mrs. Charles R. Beltz will serve as hostess. Devotions will be led by Mrs. J. Ross Bush.

Another lovely evening . . .

Before the Grand Prix Ball excitement begins, there's another lovely evening in the works. This one is tomorrow, Friday, June 14, the date of the Michigan Opera Theatre Guild's Grand Estate Sale. It's at the Historic Thompson House, which is the Wayne State University Faculty Club, at 19 West Hancock Street in Detroit.

The Guild has been collecting items for over a year and among the highlights of the sale are a French armoire, art work, fur coats, French love seats, and jewelry. The festivities begin with a "black tie optional" light supper at 7 p.m. The sale will be conducted over the course of the evening by the Edmund Frank Company. The evening will also feature a special lecture by WSU Professor Richard Bilaitis on the history of the Thompson House.

Tickets, which include dinner, wine and entertainment (a cash bar will be available), are priced at $35 per person; $50 for patrons. Tickets may be purchased at the door or by calling Carol Chadwick after 1 p.m. at 258-9332. On Saturday, June 15, the doors will be open to the public from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m., admission free, to allow purchase of the remaining items.

Honorary chairmen of the gala evening are Ms. Reva Kogan, Ms. Barbara Bóok and Dr. David DiChiera, General Director of the Michigan Opera Theatre.

Whatever happened to . . .

Last week in From Another Pointe of View, we told you about former Pointers Garnet and Dwight Nelson Jr., who recently returned from Stuart, Fla., to the Pointe for a visit and proved that you can "go home again."

Well, this week, in the Whatever Happened To . . . Department, we have the tale of Jeri Bandy, a Pointe widow and mother of three grown Bandys who was the Grosse Pointe News' Mother's Day front page feature in May, 1981. Readers will recall that Jeri's kids, knowing of their mother's innate sense of luck and absolute love of crap shooting, paid for her trip and entry fee into the 1981 Riviera World Championship of Craps in Las Vegas.

Jeri didn't win that year so she went back the next year . . . and for three years after that. In 1982, she came home with a trophy — a solid oak miniature crap table — and the "unofficial" title of women's international champ as bestowed upon her by the International Gaming Bulletin of May, 1982.

She goes back to Las Vegas to shoot craps but mostly to get a leg up on her new career: acting. Jeri is a member of Grosse Pointe Theatre and after losing 40 pounds, found herself dressed in an outfit which consisted of an inner tube and four layers of burlap for a character role in the March American Ballet Theatre production of "Romeo and Juliet" at the Masonic Temple. "I loved it," she says.

Her favorite part, though, was as an extra in the upcoming movie titled "Fever" starring Ryan O'Neal and Sammy Davis Jr. It was shot in Las Vegas — where else? — and Jeri still has the Xerox copies of her extra's paychecks to prove her participation.

When she's not starring in movies, shooting craps or singing in nightclubs, Jeri spends lots of time as an associate with Handlos Real Estate in The Woods. (She found the time to get her real estate license, too).

"I'm still waiting for my knight in shining armor to sweep me off my feet," Jeri writes. "On second thought, he doesn't have to be a knight or wear armor, just as long as he has personality, charm and is a good dancer," she laughs.

And now you know "what happened to."

Rose Society to meet

The Grosse Pointe Rose Society will meet at the Neighborhood Club, 17150 Waterloo, at 7:45 p.m. this Wednesday, June 19.

Rick Moore, vice-president, will present a program on how to get started growing roses. Moore started with seven rose bushes in 1981 and now has a total of 90 in his garden. He will touch upon the pitfalls and goof-ups that can befoul novices and offer information on what he feels works best for beginners.

Moore has taught in the South Lake School District for 19 years. He graduated from Wayne State University with a Bachelor of Science and completed his Masters in Education at Oakland University. He is a member of the National Audubon Society and has been involved with environmental projects and activities most of his life.

The meeting will also feature a display of sprayers that are available on the market and an explanation of each as well as suggestions on which type best meets individual needs.

During the social hour, several rosarians will be on hand demonstrating proper methods of exhibiting various types of roses and to answer questions on exhibiting in the upcoming Rose Show.

Hostesses for the evening will be Frieda Jossens, Gladys Gies and Hildegard Naumann. The Grosse Pointe Rose Society is co-sponsored by the Grosse Pointe Public School System.

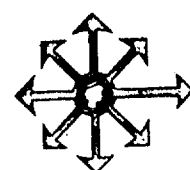

Dance Slimnastics summer sessions

Dance Slimnastics Ltd., a nationally recognized aerobic fitness organization, will conduct a six-week series of aerobic dance classes beginning the week of June 17. The summer session will give fitness-minded individuals the chance to work out as many times per week as desired at no extra cost.

Class locations and times are Monday and Wednesday and Tuesday and Friday at 9:15 a.m., babysitters provided, at the J.F.K. Library in Harper Woods; Monday and Wednesday and Tuesday and Thursday at 6:45 p.m. at the library; and Tuesday and Thursday at 9:30 a.m. at the New Dance Studio, East Warren and Yorkshire in Detroit, sitter provided.

Further information on Dance Slimnastics may be obtained by calling 886-7534 or 885-0515.

Local Cathedral Association members meet

Members of the National Cathedral Association of Eastern Michigan gathered at the Country Club Drive home of the Wilbur H. Macks on May 23 for their annual meeting, which included an address by The Reverend Provost Charles A. Perry. Mr. Perry is in charge of all Cathedral worship, program and financial operations.

He was houseguest of the Alexander Wieners, of Woodland Place, during his stay here and was honored at a Detroit Club luncheon hosted by Mr. and Mrs. Ralph McElvenny, of Stephens Road. There he spoke before a gathering of friends of the Cathedral before returning to Washington, D.C.

For the NCA's annual meeting, Mr. Perry showed the film which won an Academy Award for Best Documentary, "The Stonecarvers," filmed at the Cathedral and telling the story of the work of the Italian master stonecarvers who have created the building's beautiful stone sculpture.

Mr. Perry told NCA members of the work which is proceeding on the two West Towers of the Cathedral, which will complete the work on the building in the nation's capital called a "House of Prayer for All People," and designed to be the last great Gothic Cathedral. The Michigan Chapter is one of the most active support groups in the country working to see this project finished. The work proceeds as monies are raised, Mr. Perry said. Some of the money raised by the

NCA will go toward a National Cathedral Association Pinnacle, one of four topping each tower.

Provost Perry explained that anyone wishing to be a "tower builder" can add 100 bricks, ashlars, colonettes, tracery stones, single crocket stones or pinnacle finials as memorials or in Thanksgiving.

New Arrivals

Kassab, of the Shore Club and Boca Raton, Fla.

Mr. and Mrs. Tim Griffin, of East Detroit, announce the birth of twins, Christopher and Ashley, Dec. 10, 1984. Mrs. Griffin is the former Deb Stendel, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Stendel, of Ridgemont Road. Paternal grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. John Griffin, of Sunningdale Drive. The twins' big sister Melissa is 2.

Mr. and Mrs. Brian S. Mills, of Charleston, W.Va., announce the birth of their second child, a daughter, Amy Elisabeth, May 24. Mrs. Mills is the former Karen Bergeon, daughter of Mrs. Marie Bergeon, of Bishop Road. Paternal grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. Stanford Mills, of Madison Heights. Amy's big brother is Jeffrey Patrick, 3.

Mr. and Mrs. John Rouleau, of Detroit, announce the birth of their first child, a son, Michael John, May 31, which also happens to be Mr. Rouleau's birthday. Mrs. Rouleau is the former Kathleen Hohimer, daughter of former Grosse Pointe City resident Dorothy Hohimer, of Clearwater, Fla. Paternal grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Rouleau, of Detroit.

G.P. Artists tap officers

The Grosse Pointe Artists Association gathered Monday, June 3, for its annual meeting and election. Association president Hortie Senter thanked outgoing board of directors members Carol A. Sinclair, James Webers, Faye B. Anderson, Carl Hedeem, Barbara Carr, Clarence Day, Robert Frahm and Ann Newman.

She also welcomed the new slate of officers, which includes Cynthia Bowen, first vice-president; Carol A. Sinclair, assistant treasurer; Monica Locke, parliamentarian/yearbook; Barbara Wehby, historian; Isabelle Goosen, social chairman; Mary Caroline Barrett, Fries Auditorium Exhibition chairman; and Marie Browiski, Gallery Gossip columnist.

Music School earns grant

The Detroit Community Music School has received a $45,000 grant over three years from the Skillman Foundation for a special project: "The Use of Music Therapy and Education Methods in the Coordination of Community Support Services to Families of Handicapped Children."

as evaluating the impact of selected music therapy and education methods in the areas of early intervention and family coping.

The project will be coordinated by Mary W. Roberts, RMT-BC, director of the Music Therapy Division at the Detroit Community Music School. For further information, she may be contacted at: The Detroit Community Music School, 200 East Kirby, Detroit, Mich., 48202; or at 831-2870.

Call Five Pointes Club

Members and guests of the Five Pointes Garden Club will meet at noon this Monday, June 17, at the "Lido" on Jefferson Avenue, for their spring luncheon. Immediately following will be a tour of the Grosse Pointe War Memorial gardens.

Focus on older women

Salem Memorial will host an Older Women's Support Group: Double Jeopardy, led by therapist Mary Ann Collinson from the Northeast Guidance Center. The group will meet from 6 to 8 p.m. on Tuesdays in the church lounge from June 18 through July 23.

Members of the group will learn to look beyond the stereotype of older women and view mid-life and beyond as a potential for personal growth and enhancement. Putting change in the context of an opportunity to flourish and expanding one's ability while learning new skills, is the focus.

Fee is $30 for six weeks. Further information may be obtained by calling Ms. Collinson at NEGC, 824-8000, ext. 285.

Scoundrels will dance

The Lochmoor Club will be the setting Friday, June 28, for the 29th annual spring Dance and Banquet for members of the Sociable Scoundrels. Cocktails and hors d'oeuvres will be served at 7 p.m., with dinner at 8 p.m. Dancing to the music of Art Quatro will follow.

Arrangements chairman Ruth Doll promises a fun evening of dining and dancing. Guests are welcome. Assisting Ruth on the table decorations, favors and reservations committees are Addie Wickstrom, Peg Jordan, Edie Catalano and Bonnie Mannle.

A new slate of officers for the 1985-86 Sociable Scoundrels season will be presented that evening. Current officers are Nels Jorganson, president; James Anderson, vice-president; Virginia Mudie, treasurer; Laura Cowden, social secretary; and Beverly Hexham, bowling secretary.

Members are to be reminded of the group's annual golf outing in July.

Woman realtors gather Tuesday

The Women's Commercial Real Estate Associates will meet this Tuesday, June 18, at 11:30 a.m. at Jacques Restaurant in Bingham Farms. Installation of officers will be held with Judy Wittrup, Educational Director of the Michigan Association of Realtors, handling the ceremony. The luncheon meeting will continue with an informal discussion on networking.

Reservations may be made by calling Rusty Rosman at 363-1595.

Woman's Club honors scholars

The Grosse Pointe Woman's Club, which has given scholarship awards based on academic achievement, leadership qualities and involvement in extracurricular activities to outstanding Grosse Pointe high school graduates since 1954, last month honored this year's scholarship recipients. They are Kerry Bruce, of Grosse Pointe South High and Amelia Dugan, of Grosse Pointe North High, (left and right) in the center of the photo above, with club president Mrs. Milan J. Alexander (left) and scholarship chairman Mrs. Lampton J. Cardwell. Amelia is this year's class Valedictorian, first in her class with a 4.085 grade point average. She has studied honors math and physics for four years, as well as advanced placement chemistry. She also has been active on school committees and has been an All-American in youth soccer and an All-State selection for North's soccer team. Amelia will study liberal arts at Dartmouth University. Kerry is a National Honor Society member who has been active in sports at South High, winning varsity letters in basketball, track, volleyball and cross country. She has been an NHS tutor, worked on blood drives and is chairperson for the smoking awareness program. Kerry plans to major in education at Kalamazoo College.

June is Michigan-grown strawberry time

Fresh home-grown strawberries are the highlight of the June food outlook. Less firm but more flavorful than California strawberries, locally produced strawberries will be available most of June. Depending on the weather, look for supplies to peak soon.

Prices for the early shipped strawberries have been very attractive. Shoppers cannot realistically expect Michigan-grown strawberries to sell below the shipped-in berries. Michigan growers have more than a dollar in each quart before they leave the farm gate.

What consumers can expect are berries sold the old-fashioned way by the quart and by the case. Michigan strawberries are also likely to be a bit smaller this year — another sign of increased flavor. As for the size of the state crop, it's forecast to be about equal to those of recent years when 16 to 20 million pounds were produced. The limiting factor this year was a moderate fruit set.

Other Michigan fruit crops are also looking good. Barring inclement weather, cherries, peaches and apples will all top last year's crops. Conditions for blueberries look favorable too.

Check prices of crisphead lettuce and other salad greens weekly to determine the best value. Aside from tomatoes, other salad vegetables are likely to be selling at summer-low prices throughout the month.

Fresh sweet corn and green beans will increase in availability and decrease in price as the supply sources get closer to Michigan.

Eggs continue to be a super value for shoppers and a loss for producers.

The broiler supply is up and prices are attractive. Broilers, turkeys and other poultry and seafood items continue to displace more and more red-meat purchases.

Garden Club Council funds to beautify

More than $6,000 — from proceeds of last year's Grosse Pointe Garden Club Council Garden Tour — has been allocated for beautification of Grosse Pointe, according to the Garden Club Council.

Lakeshore planting has been one of the Council's prime interests for many years and this year, $2,000 has been given to the newly-formed Grosse Pointe Shores Improvement Foundation for its five-year Lakeshore planting. In addition, the Garden Club Council will replace several trees and shrubs on Lakeshore and in the Arborvitae at Grosse Pointe South High School. A total of $400 will be set aside for maintenance of the Lakeshore area.

Other targets of interest are: $500 to the Grosse Pointe Park Beautification Commission for five crabapple trees planted at the pumping station near City Hall; $1,500 for a landscaping project at Pierce School in the Park; and $2,000 to Grosse Pointe Farms for perennials to be planted at Richard Park by Richard School.

It is only through the efforts of 20 Grosse Pointe garden clubs and the community that the annual garden tours have been successful. The 1985 Garden Tour is scheduled for Friday, Saturday and Sunday, July 19 through 21.

Officers of the Grosse Pointe Garden Club Council for 1985-86 include Mrs. James Sanford, president; Mrs. M.P. Wiant, vice-president; Mrs. Carl Berndt, recording secretary; Mrs. Robert Krueger, corresponding secretary; and Mrs. Henry Ledyard, treasurer. Directors are Mrs. Max Gardner, Mrs. Howard Harrison and Mrs. Eberhard Mannen.

Miss Twardon speaks vows at St. Paul's

At home in Grosse Pointe Farms are Mr. and Mrs. Christopher Andre Bielski, who vacationed in Hawaii following their wedding at St. Paul's On-the-Lake.

Mrs. Bielski is the former Miriam Therese Twardon, daughter of Regina Engelhardt, of Detroit. Mr. Bielski is the son of Mr. and Mrs. George Bielski, of McKinley Road.

The 10:30 o'clock rites Saturday, May 18, at which Father Ronald J. Alder presided were followed by a reception at the War Memorial.

The bride wore a gown of white satin and lace. Her pearl-studded cap held white flowers and a cathedral length veil dotted with more pearls. She carried a bouquet of gardenias.

Elizabeth Twardon, honor maid for her sister, and bridesmaids Renee Gilchrist, of Houston, another sister, and Mary Hanks, of San Francisco, Calif., Diana Capron, of Minnesota, and Laurie Westfall, wore gowns of dusty pink and carried pink orchids.

Andre Bielski served as best man for his brother. Ushers included Larry Denomme, Paul Pellerito, Tom Liliensiek and William Doelle. Honorary attendants were Jeff DiGregorio, of San Francisco, and Al Devine.

The mother of the bride wore a pink chiffon dress and the bridegroom's mother chose a black dress. Each wore gardenias with her gown.

Wedding guests danced to the music of the "Sun Messengers," a local jazz band.

August vows are planned by Miss Biddle

Mid-August wedding plans are being made by Cornelia Teru Biddle and Ralph Joseph Basile. She is the daughter of Toyo Ann Biddle, of Takoma Park, Md., and Christopher S. Biddle, of Shrewsbury, Vt. Mr. Basile is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Basile, of McKinley Road. The bride-elect earned a Bachelor of Arts in Psychology from Kalamazoo College in 1981 and expects to receive a Master of Business Administration degree from the University of Michigan in May, 1986.

Her fiance received a Bachelor of Arts in Political Science from Kalamazoo College in 1981 and is western regional sales manager for Healthmark Industries Co. of St. Clair Shores, a business founded and owned by his father.

Miss Angelos to be bride

Making plans for an early June, 1986, wedding are Lorie B. Angelos and John W. Kamm, whose engagement is being announced by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. James M. Angelos, of Edmundton Drive.

The bride-elect is a 1981 graduate of Grosse Pointe North High School. She is expected to receive a Bachelor of Arts in Business Administration from Hillsdale College in December. She is an active member of Chi Omega sorority and a member of Phi Beta Lambda.

Mr. Kamm, son of Mr. and Mrs. William I. Kamm, of Huntington Boulevard, was graduated from Grosse Pointe North High School in 1980 and this spring received a degree in Business Data Processing from Western Michigan University, where he was an active member of Deita Chi fraternity.

July wedding plans are made

A late July wedding is being planned by Patricia Ellen Domzalski and Michael DeMeyere, whose engagement was announced last November at an election party hosted by the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Bruno Domzalski, at their Audubon Road home.

Miss Domzalski is a graduate of Grosse Pointe South High School. She attended Central Michigan University and Macomb Community College and is employed by Comerica Bank Detroit.

Her fiance, son of Mr. and Mrs. Henry DeMeyere, of Warren, is a Warren Cousino High School alumnus. He holds a Bachelor of Science degree from Oakland University and is currently enrolled in the Master of Business Administration program at the University of Detroit. Mr. DeMeyere is employed by Comerica Bank Detroit as a Personal Banker.

Rose Show is at mall

The Metropolitan Rose Society will host its spring Rose Show this Saturday and Sunday, June 15 and 16, at the Macomb Mall. Show hours are 2 to 9 p.m. on Saturday and noon to 5 p.m. on Sunday. There is no charge for the event.

Garden rose growers are invited to enter their roses in the non-member class. (Non-members should bring their roses to the mall's Community Room from 7 to 10 a.m. on June 15.) The winner will receive a year's membership in the Metropolitan Rose Society.

Further information may be obtained by calling 526-8655.

Miss McFawn to be bride

An early September wedding at Our Lady Star of the Sea Church is planned by Marili McFawn and Michael F. Brophy. She is the daughter of Mrs. William Arthur McFawn, a former Moorland Drive resident who now lives in St. Clair Shores, and the late Mr. McFawn. Mr. Brophy is the son of Mr. and Mrs. James G. Brophy, of Arlington Heights, Ill.

Miss McFawn attended Our Lady Star of the Sea High School and was graduated cum laude from Grosse Pointe North High School. She holds a Bachelor of Arts degree, cum laude, from Xavier University, Cincinnati, Ohio, and a Juris Doctor from Loyola University, Chicago. She is an associate with Schiff Hardin & Waite, in the Sears Tower in Chicago.

Mr. Brophy attended Xavier University and is now affiliated with N.K. & Company in Chicago. He is also a member of the Chicago Board of Options Exchange.

Ama Deus Circle gathers June 23

The Daughters of Isabella, Ama Deus Circle No. 616, will host their monthly card party at 1 p.m. next Sunday, June 23, at the Knights of Columbus Hall, 18000 East Warren Avenue. Donations are $4 and reservations may be made by calling Katherine at 885-5387 or Sandra at 884-4212.

Chairing the event are Katherine Williams and Sandra Nosotti and their committee, which includes Geraldine Hayes and Mildred McPharlin.

St. Clair Art Fair dates are set

The St. Clair Art Association will sponsor the 14th annual St. Clair Art Fair on Saturday and Sunday, June 29 and 30, at the Riverview Plaza in St. Clair. Over 60 artists from Michigan and surrounding states will display their work from 9 a.m. to 9 p.m. Saturday and 11 a.m. to 6 p.m. Sunday.

The art fair is a juried show and includes such special events as an Art Auction at 1 p.m. on June 30, a Children's Arts and Crafts Booth, and entertainment.

Elegant Eating

A selection of recipes from the low-calorie, low-cholesterol — and penny wise — collection of Thyra Grey Howard and Helena DeWitt Roth continuing, this week, a series on GREEN VEGETABLES.

GREENS AT THEIR BEST

All members of the greens family are really delightful eating when cooked by the following recipes. Types of greens are interchangeable. Develop your own flavoring and seasonings for each green.

- 2 cups cooked greens
- 2 Tbsp. margarine
- 2 Tbsp. diced onion
- 2 Tbsp. chopped pimiento
- 4 Tbsp. chopped green pepper
- 2 Tbsp. lemon juice (fresh)

Thoroughly wash greens to remove all sand. Cook in a heavy saucepan with water that adheres to greens in final washing — or — cook in a collapsible steam basket placed in a saucepan or Dutch oven. Greens should still be close to a leafy state, but tender.

In a skillet, saute onion and green pepper (or red sweet pepper, for extra color), for about 5 minutes. Add pimiento and continue cooking until onions are tender but firm. Add hot greens and blend gently. Add lemon juice and serve hot. Makes 4 servings.

VARIATIONS: Use 2 pounds of fresh greens, 2 tablespoons margarine and the following listed ingredients. Use above cleaning and cooking instructions. All make 4 servings.

- A:
- 2 cloves garlic, minced
- 2 Tbsp. lemon juice

Calories per serving about 106.

Cholesterol 0.

- B:
- 1/2 cup chopped green onions, including tops
- 2 Tbsp. chopped parsley

GARDEN PATCH SALAD

- 4 cups mixed greens
- 1/2 cup grated carrot
- 1/2 cup diagonally sliced celery
- 1/2 cup thinly sliced red cabbage
- 1/2 cup chopped parsley

2 Tbsp. grated Parmesan cheese

4 radishes, thinly sliced

1/2 cup bean sprouts

1/3 cup Low Calorie Herb Dressing

1 cup alfalfa sprouts

Toss together all ingredients except alfalfa sprouts. Serve on 4 salad plates with alfalfa sprouts.

Calories per serving about 46 without dressing.

Cholesterol about 13.

GREENS WITH BUTTERMILK DRESSING

1/2 cup skim milk buttermilk

1/2 clove garlic, mashed

1/4 tsp. sugar

1/4 tsp. dry mustard

1/4 tsp. salt

1/8 tsp. pepper

1 quart salad greens, (chickory, romaine, watercress and Boston lettuce)

1 cucumber, pared and sliced

4 red radishes, sliced

4 oz. low-calorie Swiss or cholesterol-free cheese, cut into matchstick pieces

For dressing: Combine buttermilk, garlic, sugar, mustard, salt and pepper in small bowl. Use small whip to beat thoroughly.

Wash, dry, and tear the salad green into pieces. Place in salad bowl with cucumber, radishes and cheese.

Pour dressing over all; toss to coat. Makes 4 servings.

Calories per serving about 79.

Cholesterol about 12 mgs.

Sports Week

By Peggy O'Connor

Something funny's going on over there on Vernier Road.

I'm not quite sure what, but there's got to be an explanation for the proliferation of professional baseball players whose roots are firmly planted in little old Grosse Pointe North High School. Not that North doesn't have a baseball program that speaks for itself; heck, the Norsemen's seven consecutive league championships do a lot of talking. But four players from one state championship team who end up signing pro contracts?

Back in 1980, a talented bunch of juniors and seniors won 29 baseball games for North High. That 29th win was the charm, though, because it gave North its first-ever state baseball championship. That 1980 team may not have even been the best. Coach Frank Sumbera's teams have won more since then (30 games in 1983 for example) and one member of that 1980 team says that he felt the 1981 team may have been just as good as the '80 squad.

But those teams didn't have what that 1980 team had: a state title and four of its alumni who have signed on the dotted line. First it was pitcher Bill Babcock, then Bob Brown, Tom Shook and now John Clem who joined the pro ranks. And it doesn't stop there. Something like 10 of those 1980 Norsemen have gone on to play college baseball at places like Cornell, Western Kentucky and Birmingham Southern.

Clem, who signed with the Seattle Mariners last week, had his own ideas on what made the '80 Norsemen tick.

"That 1980 team had a certain drive that a lot of teams don't have and would give anything for. Once we started state tournament play, it was over. We knew we were going to win."

The Norsemen of 1981, for whom Clem batted .595, hit nine homers and batted in 59 runs enroute to a spot on the All-State team, didn't have quite the same drive. But its members still had what it took to make a run at the title, which eventually went to Bishop Gallagher.

What made the difference for that 1980 team? Coach Sumbera has long praised that squad's power, pitching and overall intelligence. Clem says it was all in the fundamentals.

"We all played Little League and Babe Ruth League baseball at a time when coaching was exceptional. We had coaches like Werner Leuckhoff, my dad and Dave Marsteller, who taught us the fundamentals. Back then we practiced every day. It was a lot of hard work... but it paid off in high school and college and for the four of us who have gotten a shot at the pros," Clem says.

Add that fundamentally sound base to the good coaching and strong program at North, ala Frank Sumbera, and that might explain what's been going on at North. And at South for that matter.

As I watched South play in the recent baseball districts after winning 21 baseball games this season with a team of mostly juniors, all obviously schooled in the fundamental aspects of the game (sound familiar?) I listened as some of the players' dads and former Little League coaches recalled their charges' "basic training" on the Little League and Babe Ruth fields of Grosse Pointe. Wouldn't it be something, they said, to see the kids they were coaching right now, be on the North or South teams in a few years? After all, it's already happened that way for former Little Leaguers like Bill Adlhoch, Rico Cordova, Rick Leonard to name just a very few.

And wouldn't it be something if, like John Clem has thought about from time to time, some of these guys could end up facing each other on behalf of the Seattle Mariners or the Chicago White Sox or the Kansas City Royals? Right in front of all the coaches who made it possible, too.

Maybe it's not that they're doing something funny over at North (and in the youth baseball programs of Grosse Pointe). Maybe they're just doing something right.

Two of Grosse Pointe's other baseball pros, Bill Babcock and Tom Shook, have spent most of their seasons so far nursing injuries. Shook, in the Kansas City minor system, had thrown 10 innings of baseball and not given up an earned run this spring when he had to come home with tendon problems in his knee. And White Sox' property Bill Babcock had ligament release surgery on his left shoulder. It's coming along well, Babcock says. He undergoes rehabilitation three times each week and is doing "everything except what I want to be doing, except playing baseball." He's got his range and motion back, Babcock adds, and is working toward regaining his strength and stability.

By Peggy O'Connor
And John Clem makes four.

Clem, 22, is the fourth member of the 1980 Class A state champion North High baseball team to sign a professional baseball contract. The American League's Seattle Mariners drafted Clem, a switch-hitting outfielder for Western Kentucky University, in last week's free agent draft. He signed a one-year rookie contract on June 9 and on Monday, reported to the Mariners' low A-level farm club in Bellingham, Wash.

Three other members of that very good 1980 North High baseball team — Bill Babcock, Bob Brown and Tom Shook — have also signed contracts with pro teams since their days at North.

"It really wasn't a surprise at first because scouts are always around. I had a good idea that I would be drafted but it takes a lot more than just the word of a scout or two," Clem said last week. "They like to look at the whole picture."

Seattle did just that and apparently liked what it saw. Clem was an All-Sun Belt selection in 1984, batting .373 with 56 hits and 51 RBI. He hit .400 and had 25 home runs this year for the Hilltoppers, which placed him roughly fifth in the nation among collegiate home run hitters.

Clem was a little concerned that the Mariners, like most pro teams would do when faced with a 6-4, 205-pound switch hitter, might not let him remain at his natural outfield position.

"A lot of times a guy my size gets stuck at first base. I was glad to see that they felt my potential was in the outfield," he said.

The soft-spoken, articulate Clem knows exactly what he must do to move up in the Mariners' system. "It's really a matter of how well I perform and what the other clubs in the system need at the time. Hopefully, those things will come together and I'll move up quickly."

"I'm realistic. I was drafted as a hitter. I'm not a superfast runner or a defensive specialist. The most important thing for me is to hit. I have to hit to survive."

Clem is by no means weak defensively since scouts have told him they like his arm. But he says he wanted to cut down on mental mistakes, get used to the wood bats the pros use and try to decrease his strikeout ratio.

"I don't see myself hitting home runs right away," Clem admits. "It's important to just hit the ball consistently. But I do have some power and hopefully, the home run hitting will come along."

Clem has the experience that college (he's one semester away from a degree in business) has given him and that will help. He's also a bit older than most first-time drafters.

"Hopefully, when I step out onto the field I will feel I belong... and then I hope I have the confidence to know that I don't belong (in low A), that I belong at a higher level.

"I do know one thing. I'm not going to blindly chase a dream. If this summer, I see that I don't have the potential, I'll look at the whole situation again. I hope that by the time I'm 25, I've made it to AAA and at least been given a shot. I'm old enough that the minors are supposed to hone the finer points of my game and that's it," he added.

"The main thing is that I just enjoy myself, play to the best of my ability. Fight the slumps when they come and enjoy the streaks when they come. That's baseball. And that's what I've wanted for a long time. A shot at the pros. I'm kind of nervous about it... but when you get a shot like this, you take it."

South High seeks coaches

South High is accepting applications for non-teaching coaching positions. They are girls' basketball assistant coach, wrestling assistant coach and cheerleading assistant coach.

Interested persons should send resumes to Charles Hollosy, South High, 11 Grosse Pointe Boulevard, G.P. Farms, Mich., 48236.

Girls reap honors

They handed out high school soccer honors last week and the girls at North and South High were right there to get them.

Amelia Dugan of North High grabbed top honors, being named to the All-State Team and to the All-State Select Team. North's Stephanie Smith was named to the All-State second team. After three years as co-captain and three years a letter-winner, Smith is headed for Kalamazoo College on an academic scholarship and to play soccer.

Dugan, Smith and Shannon Armstrong earned All-League First Team honors on behalf of North's league championship team. Alexa Parmentier and Cindy Bowman were named to the All-League Second Team and Bridget Briery earned All-League Honorable Mention. League Most Valuable Player honors went to Amelia Dugan, who beat South's June Langs out by one point.

South's girls drew their share of honors. Langs and Claire Busse were named to the All-League First Team. Langs made the select travel team and had earlier been selected to the All-State Second Team; she and Busse were South's nominees to that team. Kim Wood was All-League Second Team and Joey Johnston earned All-League Honorable Mention.

"We did well in the All-League standings," said South coach John Case. "I'm quite pleased, actually, with the way things turned out."

South holds hockey tryouts

South High hockey coach Tim Zimmerman will conduct hockey tryouts next week for the 1985-86 varsity ice hockey season.

Tryouts are Monday, Wednesday, Thursday, Friday and Sunday, June 17, 19, 20, 21 and 23, at 9 p.m. each day at the Grosse Pointe Community Rink.

G.P. Little League

Park Majors

CARDS-TIGERS
Jim Pote's three-run homer led the Cards to a 10-4 win. Pitcher Lance DeBets got the win with relief help from Pote. DeBets (two hits), O'Donoghue (two) Peterson and Chris Holley knocked in the Cards' runs. DeBets and DeSeranno played well in the field. David Auld, Katie Kolp, Winingger, Glass, Miller and Dunlap led the Indian attack.

YANKEES-ORIOLES
Kyle Hoyer, George Petersmarck and Jason Bedsworth shared mound duties to hold off the Orioles, 8-6. Petersmarck and Bedsworth had two hits each for the Yanks, who also got RBI from Kevin Rauch and Pete Griem. Dan Minado, Matt Recht and Hoyer also had key hits. Jeff Schmidt's fine play thrilled the crowd. Kelly Graves and Matt Jacklyn pitched for the Orioles. Jacklyn homered and doubled, Mike Spanich had two doubles and a single and Aaron McNally, Forester and Graves had key hits. Joey Michael and Jason Bailey played well.

CARDS-WHITE SOX
DeBets and O'Donoghue had first inning homers in the Cards' 9-5 win. Dan Commor had two doubles and a single. DeBets added two doubles and O'Donoghue and McCartney had doubles. DeSeranno pitched all six innings and got help on defense from Bill Saylor, DeBets, Pote, Lulis and Chip Peterson. John Roberts and Fred Tucker pitched for the Sox, who were led by Jason Benavidez (double and single), Turner and Tim Nolan (doubles) and Ryan McCarroll. Brian Sampson made some fine catches in rightfield.

ORIOLES-ASTROS
The Astros' Bob Koenig and the Orioles' Tim Gramling each pitched complete games in this pitchers' duel, which went in favor of the Astros, 3-2. John Henry scored the winning run in the final inning; he and Bill Albrecht, Dan Wimsatt, Dan LeFebvre, Britt Stebbens, Gandelot and Koenig led the Astro attack. Gramling, Jacklyn (two hits), John Haise and McNally led the Oriole offense. Spanich, Michael, Graves and Forester played well.

CARDS-ASTROS
Pote and DeBets combined to pitch the Cards to an 8-3 victory as the Cards scored five runs in the fifth inning. Ed Dorda, Pote, DeSeranno, Saylor and DeBets led the offense and Commor, O'Donoghue, McCartney, Lulis and Peterson led the defense. Eric Mathews, Jay Berschback and Jim Bunn pitched for the Astros. Mathias, Mathews, Berschback, Reynolds, Wimsatt and Henry led the Astros.

ORIOLES-INDIANS
Graves and McNally pitched the Indians to an extra-inning, 9-7 victory. Spanich (three hits), Darren Havern, Bailey, Graves, McNally, Gramling and Haise were the hitters. Michael played well. Jay VanDeWingard's seventh-inning double scored the winning run. Mark Bonnani, John Jungwirth and Dan Teranes pitched for the Indians. Kevin Brennan, Blake Crawford, Mike Bell, Marty Gulewicz, Tom Kolojeski and Teranes led the Indians on offense.

DOGERS-YANKEES
The Dodgers took a 12-11 win in this see-saw battle. Jeff Schmidt doubled with two out and went to third on a wild throw, but was stranded at third to end the Yanks' comeback try. Dodger Tim Molloy struck out two batters that inning and got the last on a pop fly. The Dodgers scored five runs in the fifth but the Yankees came back with six in that inning. Kevin Rauch's two-run bunt had put the Yanks in the lead. Minado, Josh Christ, Hoyer and Griem also had RBI. Schmidt and Petersmarck had key RBI hits in the third. Bill Leins and Molloy were on the mound for the Dodgers.

Park Minors

MICHIGAN-WISCONSIN
Scott McCain allowed only two hits in pitching Michigan to a 13-5 win. He also added two doubles. Everham, Brennan and Sippola also had big hits. Hagland pitched for Wisconsin, which got key hits from Andre and Prom.

NOTRE DAME-MICHIGAN STATE
Notre Dame took a 6-5 win on just four hits. Pat Jarvis tripled, Matt DeBets and Tom Rajt doubled and Mike Tawile had the other hit. Jarvis got the pitching win. MSU had big innings in the third and sixth, but couldn't catch up. John Herman tripled and Fritz Coyro doubled. Brenn Schoenherr and Charlie Lickford had doubles.

MICHIGAN-MICHIGAN STATE

Michigan beat MSU, 12-9, in extra innings. Terry Campagna pitched the regulation six innings and was relieved by Ted Tedesco. Mike Stevens homered in the sixth for two RBI. Brian Brenner and Richard Spencer doubled. Lickford was on the mound for Michigan. Randy Aardema and Schoenherr pitched in relief. Coyro, Lickford, Jame McCormick, Paul Coyro, Aardema and Schoenherr hit for MSU.

Park Instructional

COAST GUARD-AIR FORCE
Coast Guard edged Air Force, 7-6. Ben Trombly, Chris MacKechnie, Chris Dettmer and Billy Summer pitched for Coast Guard. Chris Miliken, Alex Bieri and Jonathan Van Hoek pitched for Air Force; Bieri went 3-for-3 at the plate.

AIR FORCE-NAVY
Navy took a 9-8 win in a game characterized by good defensive play. Chris Pote and David Nelson homered for Navy. Corey and Kevin Schroeder each went 3-for-3 for Air Force.

COAST GUARD-RANGERS
Coast Guard slipped past the Rangers, 4-2, in this pitchers' duel. Mike Batts and John Moxey doubled and Tom Franzinger went 3-for-3 for the Coast Guard. Howlett tripled for the Rangers; Rangers John McNaughton, Brian Everham, Jim McGovern and Geoff Kimmel had solid hits. Tony Cavataio, Doug Fairbanks, Keith Miller, Brian Holliday, Dave Linn, MacKechnie, Jeff Peterson and Joe Williamson played well.

RANGERS-NAVY
The Rangers beat Navy, 15-13. Andy Brewer homered and Kimmel, Jake Howlett, Ian Boyd, Allen Mederos, Kenny McIntyre, Brian McClosky and Chris McDonald added hits. Navy's Jimmy Michael homered and Terry Holusha, Kurt Meyer, Pote and Paul Serra had two hits each.

ARMY-MARINES
Matt Weaver drilled a base hit which scored Joey Werner with the winning run in the bottom of the sixth to give Army a come-from-behind win over the Marines, 17-16. Justin Braun belted a three-run homer, John Griffin smacked a solo shot and Mark Campbell doubled twice. Amanda Lawrence, Joey Suski, Matt Edelstein and Chad Adams contributed key hits. The Marines' Carl Melchior hit a grand slam in the fourth and teammates Ryan McCain, Matt Markle, Alan Behler, Robert Berger, Edith Berube, Francois Berube, Matt Debski and Tom Chouinard had two hits each.

Farms Majors

INDIANS-DOGERS
The Indians came from behind to beat the Dodgers, 9-4, behind the pitching of Bonnani and Teranes. Mike Bell, John Jungwirth and Kolojeski scored in the fourth inning and when Blake Crawford scored on an RBI sacrifice by Jay Strobl, the game was tied. Peter Bourke played well, as did Gulewicz and Teranes (double play). Gulewicz tripled, Crawford doubled, Kolojeski had a double and Strobl had two RBI.

PIRATES-YANKEES
The Farms-City Pirates beat the first place Park Yankees, 10-1. Steve Bednarchik, Ned Johnson and Duncan McMillan pitched for the Pirates, combining for 11 strikeouts. Johnson had a home run over the rightfield fence at Elworth. Bednarchik went 2-for-4 with five RBI and David Scott was 2-for-2 with two RBI. Recht and Petersmarck pitched for the Yankees.

DOGERS-PHILLIES
The Dodgers took a 9-2 win over the Phils behind the pitching of Leins and Ken Prather. Leins was also 2-for-4 at the plate. Ted Stedam was 2-for-3, joining hitters Jeff Osborne, Bryan Crane, Tim Molloy and Andy VanDeWeghe. Jamie Mertz and Mike Oliver pitched for the Phils. David Vier had a two-run double and Mertz, Brett Browncomb, Joel Peterson, Oliver and Reed also had hits.

PIRATES-WHITE SOX
The Pirates topped the White Sox, 9-6. Duncan McMillan hit a grand slam in the second and added a solo shot in the fourth. He was walked intentionally in the fifth inning. The Sox had 12 hits, with Johnson and Downs going 2-for-3 and 2-for-4, respectively. Frank M. went 2-for-3 for the Sox and Turner had a two-run double.

PHILS-TIGERS
The Phils defeated the Tigers, 9-5. Eric Linsay, Oliver and David Reed got the win on the mound. Browncomb had a home run. Linsay and Vier went 2-for-3 each. Reed and Peterson had extra base hits. Oliver and Nick Johnston also had hits. For the Tigers, Tim Miller and Glass were on the mound. Winingger went 2-for-4 and Auld hit a two-run double. Glass, Miller, Kolp and Tracy had hits.

DOGERS-YANKEES
The Dodgers beat the Yankees, 13-12. Leins and Molloy pitched for the winners. Stedam's hit came in the clutch; Matt Hunt also had hits. For the Yanks, Hoey pitched well with help from Petersmarck and Bedsworth at the plate.

TIGERS-INDIANS
The Tigers beat the Indians behind Winingger's three hits, including a two-run homer. Miller, Jay Auld and David Auld had doubles; Kolp, Meehan and Barfield also collected hits. Crawford and Mike Bell led the Indians' offense, with Gulewicz, Brennan and Bell sharing the pitching chores.

The Farms' first half standings found the Phils on top with an 8-1 record, followed by the Dodgers (5-4), the Pirates (4-5), the Astros (3-6), the Tigers (2-7) and the Indians (1-8).

LOUISVILLE-SAN ANTONIO
Triples by Chris Cassell and Chris Oliver and a two-run double by Pete Spivak paced Louisville to a 9-4 win. Brandon Farmer and Robby Tiede combined for a one-hitter. Jason Hubbard blasted a fifth-inning homer for San Antonio. Andy Donnelly, Matt Suberati and Riley McCormack pitched well for San Antonio.

HAWAII-PHOENIX
Scott Cook, Jason Geidman, Skye Ho and Tom Best each scored two runs to pace Phoenix to a 14-8 win. Pat Alle had two hits for Phoenix. Mike Miller singled and homered for Hawaii and scored three runs. Chad Yates knocked in two runs with a first inning single. Allen Leitch, John Combs and Andy Lee had hits for Hawaii.

PHOENIX-NEWARK
Phoenix beat Newark, 10-6, behind the fine pitching of Beth Weyhing and the hitting of Mike Owens (four RBI, double and sacrifice), Tim Kazul (two-run homer, single), Geidman (RBI triple). Weyhing gave up only five hits in four innings. Tom Best had two hits for Phoenix. Stephen Measelle batted in a run for Newark and teammates Denny Egan, Matt Stentz, Richie Reynolds, Teddy Hanawalt and Jason Chevalier collected hits.

Farms-City Class C

COLUMBUS-ROCHESTER
A rare triple play highlighted Columbus' 10-1 victory over Rochester. Peter Messacar speared a line drive with Rochester runners on first and second, threw to first baseman Ryan Messacar, who tossed to second baseman Matt Galnor for the triple play. Paul Gentile hit a three-run homer for Columbus, while Jeff Smythe, Nathan Smith and John Vlasak had two hits each. Casey Ho batted in Rochester's run with his sixth-inning single. Geoff Prysak tripled and singled for Rochester and Clayton Busbey and Elizabeth Burke chipped in with hits.

ALBANY-SYRACUSE
Albany scored five runs in the fourth to take an 8-5 victory over Syracuse. John Wei led the Albany offense with three hits; Bryan Nugent doubled and singled and R.J. Morris added a triple. Ryan Allard had two hits and scored two runs for Syracuse. Billy Stars and Brad Pope had two hits each.

SYRACUSE-ERIE
Robby Zurschmiede's first inning homer paced Erie to a 7-5 win over Syracuse. Jason Santo, Karl Trost and Nino Melchior made plays on defense. Tom Heasley and David Shock led Syracuse with three hits apiece.

TOLEDO-ERIE
Jason Santo drove in five runs as Erie topped Toledo, 10-1. Trost played well on defense. Tofer Ollison and Ryan Locke ripped two hits each for Toledo.

ROCHESTER-MIAMI
Jason Roika batted in three runs with two doubles and a single to lead Rochester to a 12-4 win. Ho tripled and singled for the winners; Nathan Kuhl and David Gracey had two hits apiece. Matt Reynolds drove in two Miami runs with a triple and a single. Chris Tiede, Marc Davis and Todd Sandercott also had hits.

SAN ANTONIO-HAWAII
San Antonio beat Hawaii, 12-6, behind the pitching of Andy Donnelly, Matt Suberati and Riley McCormack. McCormack also hit a home run and Suberati had two doubles. John Broutin had a triple and a double; other hits came from Nick Kotsis, Donnelly, Kevin Elliott and Van Auken. Hawaii got doubles from John Combs and hits from Kelly Sanders, Billy Gerke, Greg Semack and Andy Lee.

SAN ANTONIO-DENVER
San Antonio took a 17-3 victory over Denver behind hits from Broutin (triple) Suberati and Jason Hubbard (doubles) and Kotsis and Elliott. Donnelly, Suberati and McCormack pitched. Denver got hits from A. Toledo and Young.

SAN ANTONIO-PHOENIX
San Antonio took an 11-8 victory over Denver, as Teddy Watts broke a tie with his homer in the sixth. Suberati and Donnelly shared the pitching duties. Van Auken homered and doubled, and Hubbard and Jeremy Gajewski hit doubles. Suberati, Phillip Kotsis, Broutin and Nick Kotsis also had hits. For Phoenix, Weyhing doubled and Reinke, Patrick Alle, Michael Owens and Scott Cook had hits.

Camp was baseball 'fantasy' come true for Woods man

By Peggy O'Connor

Whenever Detroit Tiger third baseman-of-the-week Tom Brookens, Chris Pittaro or Marty Castillo fields a grounder and makes a routine throw to first base, Tiger fan Roger Ricci tends to sit in the stands or in front of the TV wearing a knowing smile. That's because this past spring, Ricci, of the Woods, found out that routine throws from third aren't as easy as they look.

But that was just one of many things the 47-year-old Gehrke Mortgage Corporation vice-president discovered during his week at the Detroit Tiger Fantasy Camp. The Fantasy Camp offered 80 Tiger fans the opportunity to train with and play against the 1968 World Champion Detroit Tigers for one week in Lakeland, Fla., in February. It was an opportunity that Ricci almost passed up.

"I play softball and I'd always aspired to play major league baseball — who doesn't? — and when a friend brought up the idea of attending a fantasy camp, I was eager at first, but when I started thinking about all the ramifications like my business and my family

The friend didn't stop to think. He got all the information on the camp, which is run by former Tiger Jim Price and partner Jerry Lewis. The friend handed it all to Ricci and told him to make the call. "I felt this whole thing was one-sided, that I would be leaving my family out. But they were the ones who urged me to go. In my 12-year-old son's eyes, it seemed like I would stand 15 feet tall if I went down and played the Tigers. So I did it. The funny thing was, my friend who was so gung-ho wasn't able to go because of HIS business," Ricci laughs.

When Ricci got to Florida, he discovered that his "fantasy" of being a ballplayer was just about what he'd dreamed. Which isn't bad, considering that dreams don't always come true.

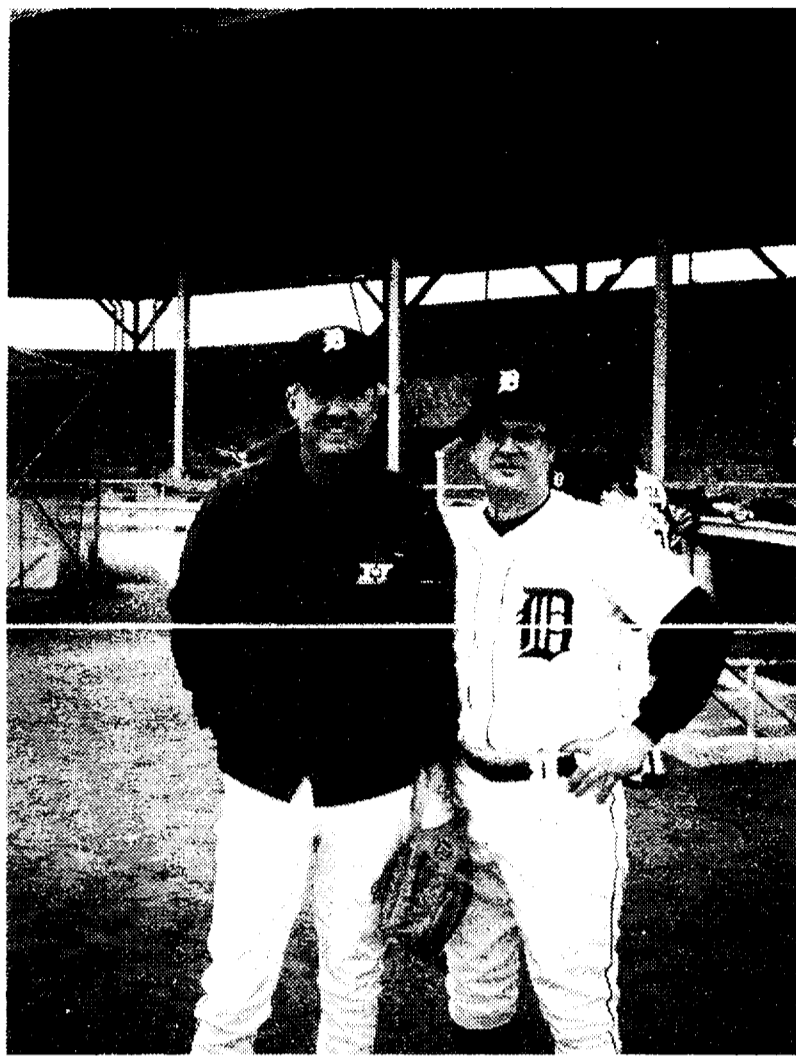

"It was everything and more than I thought it would be. I thoroughly enjoyed it. And the 1968 Tigers were a great bunch of guys. Maybe the whole thing was even more special because the 1984 Tigers had just won, I don't know," he adds.

Ricci's week started in a gigantic hall full of fantasy campers. After the campers had found their roommates — in Ricci's case it was Pointer Franklin McDonald, M.D. — they went to their rooms to find their Tiger uniforms laid out on the bed, complete with name and number.

"That was a great feeling, seeing my name on a Tiger uniform," Ricci says.

THE CAMPERS spent the week working out with the Tigers, eating with them in the dining hall, talking with them after practice. Tiger Willie Horton, famous for his parking lot barbecues while with the team, got his barbecue out for the fantasy campers.

"I didn't expect all the extras — the city of Lakeland treating us like real ballplayers and throwing a barbecue, the Tigers spending so much time with us, telling us stories and giving us batting tips long after the workouts were over. In fact, one of my greatest experiences of the whole week was in batting practice. I was concentrating because I hadn't tried to hit a hard ball since the 50s and I hear this familiar voice telling me to keep my arms straight. I turned around and it was Al Kaline.

"After that, I was absolutely intent on doing what he'd told me. And in the intra-squad game, I got a hit and an RBI my first time up. And Kaline was there to see it."

The 80 campers had been split into two squads and the culmination of the week was a Sunday double-header with the 1968 champs. Eleven of the Tigers were there: Gates Brown, Horton, Kaline, Jim Northrup, Price, John Miller, Hank Aguirre, Pat Dobson, Don Wert, Dick Traczewski and Dick MacAuliffe.

"MacAuliffe — he was in great shape and still a competitor. Horton — he was just like one of the guys, helping us out, talking to us. And Northrup, we heard some funny stories about him — most of which you couldn't print in a family newspaper," Ricci chuckles.

For Ricci, the Sunday game was almost anticlimactic after a week of baseball tips, stories and mingling with the 1968's heroes. With 40 men on a team, Ricci only was able to play two innings fielding at third base and have one at-bat. He hit into a force-out with bases loaded. "I'd forgotten how far that throw was from third to first. I remember my first throw was as hard as I could make it and it just died when it got a little past the mound. It really brings home to you what guys like Brookens and Castillo have to do."

The week flew by, Ricci says, and left him pondering further trips to fantasy camps. They may have to be with another group of ex-major-leaguers, since Tiger president Jim Campbell has said the Tiger organization would not be involved in future camps.

"That's too bad because it was a great experience. Maybe they can work it out so that the camps can continue. The week I was there felt like being a kid again. It was just like when you were young, no responsibilities to take care of, just baseball."

Even if the Tiger fantasy camps return, Ricci might just wait a while to be a camper again. He wants to enjoy the current Tigers and savor his week in the sun with the winners of 1968 for just a bit longer.

"My biggest thrill was when I opened the door and saw that uniform on the bed. That and when we were in the dugout and Ernie Harwell (Tiger radio broadcaster) called my name and I got to stand along the first baseline giving high fives and waiting for the national anthem.

"That's when it hit me, all those years of watching major leaguers and saying 'I wish it was me.' All of a sudden, it was. And that's fantastic."

Tom Temrowski, a Grosse Pointe South High School graduate who is a junior on the Florida South College baseball team, participated in the NCAA Division II baseball World Series with FSC, which won the two-game elimination series with four straight wins. FSC beat Cal Poly Pomona, 15-5, in the final game. FSC has a 50-10 record and is rated No. 1 in the nation. Temrowski had a home run, two triples, two doubles and five singles for 14 RBI and a .625 batting average in the series. He was named MVP of the series by FSC coach Chuck Anderson, and his name will be enshrined in the Baseball Hall of Fame in Cooperstown, N.Y., as series' MVP. Temrowski was FSC's power-hitting first baseman this season, compiling an overall record of 14 home runs and a .347 average. FSC played Eastern and Western Michigan, Villanova, Oklahoma State, Fordham, Dartmouth, New York University, George Washington University, and exhibition games against the Chicago White Sox and the Detroit Tigers. Tom is the son of Lee and Mary Temrowski.

Playing for the Albion College women's tennis team this spring were sophomore Lisette Wolfe, of the Farms, (top) and Amy Leverenz, of the Park Wolfe, a University Liggett School graduate and an art and speech communications major at Albion, played at No. 6 singles and was 3-0. Leverenz, who was graduated from South High, was 6-2 in dual matches in the series. He was named MVP of the series by FSC coach Chuck Anderson, and his name will be enshrined in the Baseball Hall of Fame in Cooperstown, N.Y., as series' MVP. Temrowski was FSC's power-hitting first baseman this season, compiling an overall record of 14 home runs and a .347 average. FSC played Eastern and Western Michigan, Villanova, Oklahoma State, Fordham, Dartmouth, New York University, George Washington University, and exhibition games against the Chicago White Sox and the Detroit Tigers. Tom is the son of Lee and Mary Temrowski.

Wesleyan University senior Liz Maher, of Grosse Pointe, received the Jones Award as the most valuable player on the women's volleyball team in 1984. As a setter for the Cardinals during their inaugural varsity season, Maher was co-captain, the team's only senior and the principal reason for the squad's winning record, coaches say. The daughter of Walter and Jacqueline Maher, of Three Mile Drive, Maher played varsity basketball and volleyball at South High. She is a candidate for a degree in history from Wesleyan this month.

Dave Fleming, North High's 119-pound, two-time All-State wrestling champion, has signed a national letter of intent to attend Miami University (Ohio). Fleming ended his high school career this past winter with 185 wins and 115 pins. He holds all of North's wrestling records.

Albion College junior John Bencie, of the Woods, was a member of the 1985 Briton track team this spring. He ran the 110 meter hurdles and recorded his season's best of 16.20 against Adrian. Bencie is a 1982 De La Salle High School graduate and an economics and speech communications major. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Bencie, of Sunningdale Drive.

Ohio State University senior Cathy Brown, of the Woods, closed out her tennis career with OSU's women's team last month when the Buckeyes finished ninth in the Big Ten tennis championships. Brown won singles matches against Michigan and Purdue and took a No. 4 singles win, 6-3, 6-4, over Iowa in the championships. She finished with a 20-10 singles record this season, including a 15-7 mark at No. 4 and a 3-2 record at No. 5.

PHRF-D: Windy 3, Jim Rapelje; Bravo, Frank Tenkel; Solar, Bob Munn.

JAM: Hawk, Frank McGuire; Mistral, Dave Niles; Voila!, Howard Packman.

The fourth race of the series saw 67 yachts participating. Following are the results of the June 5 race:

PHRF-A: Sure, Dave Naples; Micjay, Mike Roth; Tigress, E.J. Niederbuehl.

PHRF-B: Top Gallant, Saldan/Paschke; Wind Sprint, Mike Thomas; Marksman, Brian Lang.

PHRF-C: Windwalker, Bill Strigley; Freeway, Doug Carlson; Beverly M., Ron Magnuson.

MORC: Rugger, Matt Patterson; Kahuna, Jim Tepel; Jake's Hot Rod, Jake Scally.

PHRF-D: Windy 3, Jim Rapelje; Solar, Bob Munn; Clouseau, Tom Hughes.

JAM: Voila!, Howard Packman; Excaltibur, Dave Lawson; Seabird, Dave Edgar.

Babe Ruth Phillies win first half championship

The Phillies captured the first half championship in the Park Babe Ruth League, with a help of a forfeit decision over the Dodgers. The Dodgers used a pitcher more than the allowable number of innings, causing a forfeit of an earlier 11-10 win and averting a tie in the standings.

Marcus Wysocki tossed a no-hitter, fanning 10, as the Braves beat the Phillies, 12-2. Wysocki also chipped in with a double; Marty Saad had five hits and five RBI. James Cimini doubled and tripled.

The Dodgers nipped the Braves, 9-8, in nine innings. Winner Mike Paul went the final 2 1/3 innings, striking out seven, walking three and giving up two hits and no runs. Nick Saros had three hits and scored four runs for the Dodgers; Dave Salkowski, Doug Lucas and Ferit Nazarko had two hits and two runs each. Cimini, Jason Whelan and Joe Tedesco had two hits apiece for the Braves.

The Padres also trimmed the Padres, 17-2. Saros went the first four innings on the mound, giving up three hits and striking out five. He also had four hits and drove in six runs. Salkowski had three hits and two RBI. Eric Zihlman had two hits and three RBI and Mike Pote, two hits and an RBI.

The Padres downed the Braves, 6-4, with Chad McDaniel going the distance for the winners. McDaniel also had a double. The Phillies beat the Padres, 9-6, in the week's other majors action.

In the Park minors, Steve Murphy went the route for the Cardinals, as they beat the Angels, 12-5, in minor league action. Rick Foley and Lester Bybee went 4-for-4. The Cards dropped a 3-2 decision to the Rangers, with Kevin Reid taking the loss. Eric Napier's double led the Cards.

In the Farms, the Indians mercied the Red Sox, 10-0, as pitcher Mike Henry allowed just one hit (Matt Letcher's single). The Indians' six-run inning was the factor. Fleming, McMillin, Suzor and Bob Osborne delivered hits; Franco and Pangborn scored twice. Henry also reached base three times.

The Indians beat the Astros, 10-5, on June 8. Dan Monahan pitched the first five innings and struck out 10 Astros; he also had a run-scoring single. Jim Pangborn had a triple and a single and Franco added three singles and got the save. Taras Gracey had two hits, including a double, and Steve Horn, Bob Osborne, Mike Henry and Steve McCann each singled. For the Astros, Anderson had three hits and Vento, two.

In Farms-City Minor League action, the Rangers beat the Woods Rangers, 4-3. Paul Gryzenia and Mark Wimsatt pitched. Dan Connell, Ross Decker, John Bednarchik and Tim Golubic had RBI for the Farms-City Rangers. Eric Condon doubled. DeGrande, Gillaumin and Babel had RBI for the losers. DeGrande doubled.

The Farms Rangers topped the Angels, 4-2, behind the pitching of Tom Hoag and Gryzenia and the relief pitching of Wimsatt. David Rabbideau, Patrick Quinlan and Pat Hogan pitched for the Angels. Connell scored three runs and Golubic, one, for the winners. Rabbideau and Tom Bruetsch scored for the Angels.

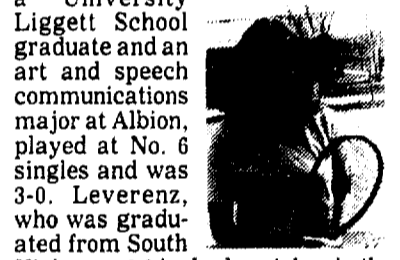

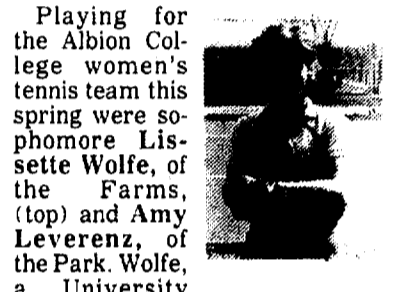

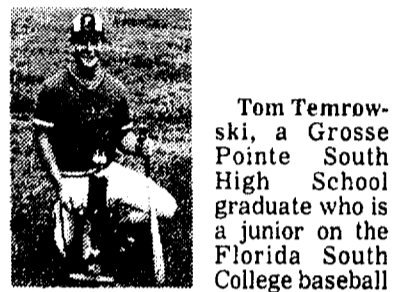

The Brewers topped the Twins, 7-6, as Scott Schultz and Phil Orton combined for a two-hitter. Ken Krausman pitched for the Twins. Dave Grundman had two RBI for the Brewers on two doubles; Keith Baer also doubled.

The Rangers doubled the Woods Tigers, 12-6. Gryzenia struck out 12 and walked five to get the win. Simon struck out 10 and walked 12 for the Tigers. Gryzenia hit a home run and Decker doubled; Connell, Wimsatt and Willison (two) each, Bednarchik and Golubic had singles. Simon doubled for the Tigers, who also got hits from Lucido, Cavataliss, Simon, Beane, Thomas, Aller, Gaca and Perke.

The Rangers edged the Cards, 3-2, in a pitchers' duel. Hoag struck out eight and walked four for the Rangers; Reid struck out 12 and walked six for the Cards. Decker homered, London tripled and Wimsatt and Golubic added singles. Napier and Bybee doubled for the Cards, who also got help from Slate, Foley and Reid.

The Woods Rangers beat the Brewers, 12-6, in other Babe Ruth action. Jim Gillaumin got the win and Orton took the loss. Gillaumin had a two-run triple for the Rangers and Mike Semack had two RBI for the Brewers.

The Farms-City Brewers beat the Park Cardinals, 10-8, behind the pitching of Schultz and Orton. Kevin Reid pitched for the Cards.

South High graduate Jeff Measelle has won his fourth Brown University varsity letter in swimming after finishing seventh on the team in overall dual meet scoring. The senior notched one first, six second, and five third place finishes and contributed 8.75 points on relay teams for a total of 36.75 points. He was 11th and sixth in the 100 and 200 yard freestyle events at the Eastern tournament and was a member of Brown's fourth place 400 medley relay team. He also anchored the third place 800 freestyle relay squad which received All-ECAC honors. Measelle is a history major.

Another letter-winner is John Briski, of the Woods. Briski took home his third varsity letter in golf from Washington University in St. Louis. The junior had an average of 79.4 strokes per 18 holes and was a three-time medalist for the Bears. He is a 1982 graduate of North High.

Albion College junior Dave Wittwer, a 1982 North High graduate, was Albion's ace pitcher this season when the Britons finished third in the MIAA with a 7-5 record. Wittwer posted a 3-5 record overall, with a 4.22 ERA in 56 innings. In the MIAA, he was 11th overall with a 3-2 record and a 3.89 ERA. Wittwer is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Alfred P. Wittwer, of Edmundson Drive.

The Woods' Bob Kiess captured top honors in the men's 55 and over age category in the Romulus 10K on May 18. His time of 45:47 also earned him 101st place overall in the fast-paced race. Coming off a strong showing at the Boston Marathon in April, Kiess anticipates one of his best running seasons in many years.

FREE BOOKS Looking for romance, so am I! Mr. Romance is now located at the former Mack Ave. book store. Since JAMES (the former proprietor) was getting old before his time and had obviously lost his sense of ROMANCE it seems only appropriate that the store be re-opened as a bookstore selling ONLY romance novels.

The store is open Friday-Saturday-Sunday, 11-5. Please stop in and see the extensive selection of romances at the BEST prices anywhere. All books are 50c each, that's right 50c each, for any book in the place. I need your old romances (in good condition of course) and will buy them or take them in exchange. Come in this weekend!

MR. ROMANCE 15243 Mack (Between Beaconsfield-Lakepointe) Open Fri., Sat., Sun., 11-5 *Introductory offer (2) FREE romances of your choice with this ad.

Detroit Towers . . . MICHIGAN'S FINEST CONDOMINIUM

Located on the water's edge 1,000 feet south of E. Jefferson Avenue and in the heart of Detroit's Gold Coast. This stunning historic landmark offers unequalled privacy, security, and spectacular views of Canada, downtown, and Lake St. Clair.

A FIRST OFFERING!

Due to an executive assignment to Europe a stunning 2,800 square foot, 12 room apartment is offered for public sale under $200,000 and available in July. 30x20 foot formal living room with natural fireplace, elegant 20 foot dining room with spacious butler's pantry, ultra-modern Mutschler kitchen, library, domestic quarters, laundry room, abundant closet and storage areas, and 2 formal bedrooms with private baths are among its features. All the conveniences of an elegant home with the carefree features of gracious high-rise living.

Riverside terrace, manicured gardens, valet parking in a heated garage, 24 hour elevator operator, and on-site resident manager makes this an alternative without comparison.

Details available by telephone or advance appointments.

Vanden Plas
From a heritage of coachbuilders to kings and the sporting aristocracy of Europe comes the most exclusive Jaguar sedan you can own.

Frankly created for the few, the Vanden Plas is a limited edition based on the classic Jaguar XJ6 Series III sedan. It shares the XJ6's superb racebred double overhead cam six, its athletic handling equipment, its uncanny smoothness and silence in motion. Inside, however, the Vanden Plas is unique even among Jaguars. It comes with soft leather exotic burled walnut panels and individually contoured front and rear seats. Custom throw rugs have been fitted into passenger footwells. Twin swivel-based reading lamps illuminate rear passenger seats. On the outside, special striping and a discreet Vanden Plas badge identify this as the most exclusive edition of the best Jaguar ever built. Come in today and indulge yourself in Vanden Plas.
