People Have Less Regard For Debt.

Forrest Eskridge, cashier of the First National Bank, of Shelby, has been discussed with the editor of the Cleveland Star the changed habits of the people with relation to debt and the handling of money. It is an interesting discussion of a subject, which is coming more and more to the front in public thought. Mr. Eskridge is no alarmist; he doesn't voice radical sentiments, he is a conservative, who thinks through and hence his considerations have value. Especially when he talks money. He said he was observed a growing tendency of people to become indifferent to debt. And it is a bad sign he said. "People have got into the habit of running into debt," he declared; "and they are becoming more and more careless about debt. It used to be with most people if they contracted a debt it worried them until it was paid. They weren't accustomed to be cramped by obligation, and the rule was the folks didn't rest until they paid every cent they owned. "But that is so no more. Debt has ceased to worry us. We have become too accustomed to it. It used to be that when a man had a note coming due at a bank, he would attend to it promptly. It might be that he couldn't pay it, but he would be on hand promptly when it was due to make some arrangement about it. "Nowadays the falling due of a note is often overlooked entirely. We have to jack many people up with a second notice. And I observe that certain people get into the habit of perpetually borrowing from the bank. They seem to take the position that the bank just ought to carry them. "All of which represents a changed attitude of the public toward money. We have become too careless about debt habit, and that applies not only to the bank but to stores as well. It is so easy to run into debt; it is a habit so easily formed. "A man sees something he wants; it can be bought on credit; why not get it? He can't resist the temptation. "It used to be that we thought of money as a commodity to be saved now we think of it as something to spend. We are living too fast; our speedings anticipating our earnings; in other words, we are extravagant. "And individuals are not the only offenders," Mr. Eskridge supplemented. "Towns and cities, State and the nation persistently run into debt, and are a great spenders. "I do not wish to preach pessimism, or reaction. Debt is necessary and beneficial at times. And money, in the last analysis, is made to spend. Its purchasing power is its value. "But there certainly is occasion for thought in the changed habits of the people with relation to debt. They are contracting the habit entirely too easily, and it is a bad habit."—Ex.

Has Strange Hobby.

In the last thirty years Farmer Phil Hanna, of White county, Ill., has hanged 51 men for inexperience in four states. He asks no pay and in most cases has paid his own traveling expenses. In the closet of his home he keeps a supply of ropes, black caps and straps for execution. A moveable gallows would make his outfit complete. His relics include clippings from newspaper reports of every hanging and a box of letters from all parts of the country denouncing him and threatening his life. Hanna is said to be quiet, easy mannered man whose sole object in following his strange hobby is to perform executions, as long as they must be performed, in the quickest, most humane way.—Capper's Weekly.

Will Hold Reunion.

A reunion of the Weant family will be held in Mocksville on Sunday, Sept. 12th, at the residence of W. A. Weant. All relatives and friends of the family are invited to attend and to bring a well-filled basket, as a picnic dinner will be a feature of the reunion. Dublin reports a surplus of women so a young fellow who got married last June

"The Best People."

Lexington Dispatch. — "The best people" were lined up with Crauford the Stanly county chaingang boss, so the jury remained out only forty minutes to bring in an acquittal, after two and a half weeks of evidence. "The best people" were sympathizers with Nellie Freeman, Charlotte woman, who almost cut off her husband's head with a razor, and Nellie went free. In this case, however, two or three jurors seemed to have been slow in realizing what "the best people" wanted, and hung the jury for almost two days. Many of "the best people" sided with Cole, of Rockingham, who shot down his daughter's lover as he sat in his cheap little roadster. The sentiment of "the best people" prevailed in that noted trial. We will send folks to the penitentiary and some go to the electric chair, but these are foolish folks who do not know how to get "the best people" to sanction their murderous activities. Murder is still a costly business unless it can be given the proper standing in the community.

To Whom Shall They Go.

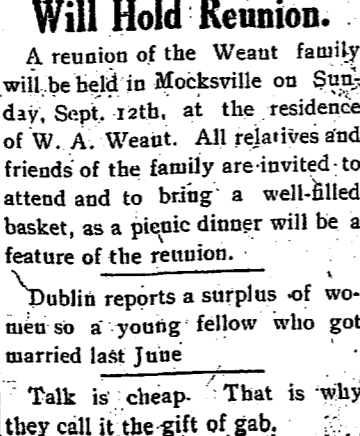

Already 500 more young women have been turned away from the North Carolina College for Women when the time to make entrance applications hardly got underway. Lists of students for the 1926-27 sessions have been made out for some time. Only in the case of the withdrawal of an admitted student will other applications be considered. We ask to know the reason of this closing of the doors against hundreds of the state's young women desiring a liberal education. The explanation is made by Dr. Julius Foust, president of the institution, that "we are choosing only the best prepared students. Those who would evidently fail if admitted are the turned away as we do not care to have those enter who are not certain to lag in scholarship." Some 1700 will be elected as a select group to try to make the grade required. What will become of the 500 or more who do not have sufficient high school preparation? Who is responsible for insufficiency? When will the condition be remedied? These are pertinent questions. If 500 young women of the state desire to continue their pursuit of education, there should be no attempt to limit their opportunities. Casting them aside because the state woman's college has raised its standard appears unfair. The educational mold of North Carolina should be curved to allow these young women to find a place. Where the trouble lies it should be corrected before the story is repeated.—Hickory Record.

Three Means of Grace.

A negro preacher walked into the office of a newspaper in Rocky Mount, North Carolina and said "Misto Edito, they is forty-three of my congregation which subscribe fo' yo' paper. Do that entitle me to have a church notice in yo. Saddy issue?" "Sit down and write," said the editor. "I thank you" And this is the notice the minister wrote: "Mount Memorial Baptist Church, the Rev. John Walker, pastor. Preaching morning and evening. In the promulgation of gospel, three books is necessary: The Bible, the hymn book and the pocketbook. Come to-morrow and bring all three.—The Christian Register.

The Omissions Interest.

They tell of a young man, minister by profession, they say, who was overtaken in serious fault in Asheville. He had 22 gallons of liquor in his car. The story runs that he was pastor of a church at Chapel Hill, is 30 years old and has a family; that he was en route from Chapel Hill to Charlotte for an operation when he was apprehended. There was testimony by wire as to the man's good standing. The police judge admitted sympathy for the preacher defendant, remarking that the humiliation was sufficient punishment. But to make sure that the preacher is not further tempted to turn bootlegger they kept his car and sent him on his way with twelve months suspended prison sentence attached. There are so many stores in which the most interesting details are omitted. How did the score of gallons of hoochinn get in the preacher's car and he on the way to the hospital at that? Also why the detour by Asheville in going from Chapel Hill to Charlotte? Was the preacher tempted to obtain easy money by the bootlegger route to meet the costs of a hospital bill? Was he taking his machine with him to the hospital? Or did an enemy put the hooch in his car? The preacher may have maintained silence on all these points—and probably silence was his best defense but just how it all came about would make an interesting story. He must have had some sort of line that appealed to the police court judge. The latter thought the humiliation sufficient punishment. Maybe. Inference is that if the preacher had been found out he would not have been humiliated. We are not much disturbed about our evil deeds until they are exposed to public view.—Greensboro News.

Business has been very quiet in this section lately. Most of the loose change is being spent for gas and oil.

Two years ago our Democratic friends said it would be impossible to elect a Republican ticket in Davie county. They have started the same old cry this year. Watch history repeat itself.

It is less than a month until the Center Community Fair. Let everybody get busy and try to have all their friends attend this fair. The dates are Sept. 29-30. Come prepared to spend both days.

It is only two months until the big election. The various nominees will be kept busy for the next 60 days shaking hands, kissing babies and helping the farmers with their tobacco and cotton crops.

With every Republican man and woman in Davie county standing square behind the Republican ticket there is no reason why Davie shouldn't elect a Republican set of county officers by not less than one thousand majority.

The good people of Davie county don't want an election law like the one that was sneaked through the legislature for Surry, Alexander and other Republican counties. If this law was good, wonder why it wasn't passed for some Democratic counties.

The rich and poor, the great and the unknown have got to die. They all occupy the same amount of ground space after passing off the stage of life. The rich and great get much newspaper space but that doesn't do them any good after they are dead.

Hon. Johnson J. Hayes, Republican nominee for the United States Senate for North Carolina, is making an aggressive campaign in Eastern Carolina. Large crowds are greeting Mr. Hayes at every appointment and he is giving them some facts and figures that his Democratic opponent wouldn't think about telling them. Mr. Hayes is one of the best speakers in the state and he will surprise his Democratic friends when the votes are counted in November.

The farmers in Davie county have been blessed with fine showers during the summer and prospects were never brighter for bumper crops. We should all be thankful for the many blessings we have received.

The city schools will open next Monday with an efficient corps of teachers. Both parents and children should co-operate with the teachers in making this the best school year in the history of Mocksville. The enrollment is expected to be about 400 this fall. Prof. E. C. Staton who has been superintendent for the past two years, will manage the schools again this year.

It is hoped that the Democratic and Republican candidates for office in Davie county can arrange an old-fashioned joint debate this fall and travel over the county together. This would give all the voters in the county a chance to size up the various nominees and decide as to which of them would fill the office better. Here's hoping that the two chairmen will get busy and arrange a joint debate.

The columns of The Record are open to the preachers, the teachers, the farmers, and the public generally to discuss any question that is of importance to the welfare and betterment of the town and county. Articles of a political nature will be severely censured by the editor, as our columns are not big enough to hold much of this kind of matter. The editor will be glad to have the views of its subscribers on all kinds of worth while topics.

Mr. Bramham, who lives in Durham, says he is in favor of Sunday baseball in North Carolina. Maybe Mr. Bramham is but there are thousands of the best people in North Carolina who are opposed to Sunday baseball, Sunday golf and Sunday swimming pools. The Lord commanded his people to remember the Sabbath day and keep it holy. If a bunch of baseball players and fans can keep the day holy by playing ball just as well open up all the stores, factories, garages, picture houses and everything else. When the people all over the world forget God then will the end of time be here.

An Old Family.

After reading an article in the Davie Record in regard to A. M. Richardson's family, thought I would give you a few facts in regard to this old family. The Richardson's are Scotch-Irish, and the ancestors of the North Carolina family come from the north of Scotland and settled in what is now known as the State of Maryland. John Richardson, father of A. M. Richardson, was born Feb. 7, 1777. John Richardson was married twice. One daughter by his first wife, then she died and he married Nancy Eingler and to this union was born 6 sons and 5 daughters. A. M. Richardson was born, Feb. 8, 1825, and his wife was Sarah Jane Blaylock, who was born July 18, 1826, in Halifax, county, Virginia. She was the daughter of Martin and Racnel Blaylock. They left Virginia and moved to this state and settled in Guilford county. A. M. Richardson and his wife were married in 1842 and to this union was born nine children, all living—the youngest 60 and the oldest 83 years. The children are G. W., J. T., Mrs. R. C. Chaffin, W. N., J. W., M. P. who live in Davie; J. M. Richardson lives in Iredell, Rev. J. C. Richardson at Roseman, N. C., Mrs. Osenath Hubbard, in Oakland City, Ind., and the writer of this article, who has many old relics that he inherited from his parents. A SON.

A Bad Auto Wreck.

There was a serious automobile wreck just south of Lisha Creek bridge about five o'clock Wednesday afternoon when a Diana roadster driven by Irvin Ridenhour of Coolemeec left the road and tore its way through the heavy fence that runs along the fill across the bottom, and landed about 20 feet from the highway. The car was badly torn up. The car was occupied by Del Davis, the owner of the car, of Salisbury, Irvin Ridenhour, of Coolemeec and Misses Winona and Ethel Poplin, of this city.

Mr. Davis was not seriously hurt, but the Ridenhour boy had one foot broken completely off, nothing but the flesh holding it to his leg. He was rushed to a Salisbury hospital. Miss Ethel Poplin also suffered a broken leg, the bone protruding through the flesh, and other wounds. The older Poplin girl was also slightly injured. They were carried home and Drs. Rodwell and L. P. Martin dressed their wounds. When the car left the road it is said it was moving at a fast rate of speed. It is fortunate that all four of the occupants of the car were not killed.

Miss Ethel Poplin was carried to the Baptist Hospital at Winston-Salem Saturday, where she remains very ill. It is hoped that her leg will not have to be amputated.
 Mr. Ridenhour, who was carried to the Salisbury hospital immediately after the wreck, had his foot amputated, and is getting on as well as could be expected.

One man ran when the officers approached the outfit, but he was not identified and no arrests have been made.

A Correction

A report has been circulated through the county that the county commissioners are going to put a new manager in the county home. This report is without foundation, and was started with the purpose of hurting the county commissioners. The board is proud of the manner in which the home is being conducted, and the present manager has had no trouble whatever with the board.

College Feet.

Somebody's always taking the joy out of education—and there is little enough joy in it at best. That the feet of college girls are steadily increasing in size is the latest bomb to be hurled in the line of march of fair ones on the way to knowledge.

The girls' feet should not act that way. There is no call for them to swell out just because their owners are crowding their brains with learning. The size of the shoe is not a variable, that moves with the size of the hat. Mental understanding should not necessarily be commensurate. It's all wrong!—Ex.

The SOUTHERN RAILWAY should be owned in the South

IN THE SOUTH there are many great industries which, with their products, are known the country over.

One of the greatest industries of the South is the Southern Railway System. It is one of the largest employers of Southern men and women, a large purchaser of Southern products, and one of the South's largest taxpayers. It is also foremost among the carriers of Southern products.

We who are devoting our lives in the service of this railroad like to call it ours. And you who travel on it and ship on it, day in and day out, are entitled to call it yours.

It will be a great day for the South and for the Southern when thousands of small and large investors of the South speak of the Southern Railway System as theirs.

One Way To Stop Bank Looting.

During the past five years fifty-seven State banks have failed in North Carolina causing the de-positors to lose something like $12-500,000. Is there no way to stop this thieving and embezzlement of the peoples' money entrusted to those whom they thought we honest?

One of the most effective ways to stop it is to adapt the Chinese method of punishing bank wreckers. It is said that when a bank fails there, the government immediately cuts off the head of the president and cashier and any other officers guilty of assisting in the looting, and as a result there has not been a bank failure in China
in more than a thousand years.

Another idea to be advanced regarding the safeguarding of the depositors money would be to force every bank doing business in the State to make a deposit of securities with the State treasurer similar to that made by the insurance companies. An insurance before it is allowed to do business in North Carolina must make a deposit with the State treasurer to offset any losses that may occur and a company that does not do this is classed as a wild cat concern and is not allowed to do business in the State,
if they do the policy holders are unable to collect should a loss occur.

Why not have a deposit from every bank in the State in the same manner? This would get rid of many banks that are doubtless today skating on thin ice and again
when a bank like the recent failure
at Winston-Salem goes to the wall
the depositors would have some redress.

There is something radically wrong with the banking situation
in the State today when a bank examiner will come along year after year and give a bank a clean bill of health and then all of a sudden close up the institution. The fact that the examiner felt shown when a few days after the that he had not done duty is recent big smash in the State he resigned and gave up the work. Probably he resigned and gave up the work.
Probably he would have been asked to resign anyway or would have had to do some tall explaining if he had not got out when he did.
But his resigning did not help the depositors get their money. It is no use to lock the garage after the automobile has been stolen.

North Carolina banking laws need reform and we trust the next legislature will pass us such weighty matters as the incorporation of Flea Hill and preventing hogs from running at large in Hog Wallow township and give the people of the State some relief in the matter of their banking laws.—Union Republican.

They Are Afraid.

Johnson J. Hayes sometime ago challenged Senator Gverman to a joint debate but the "old man of the sea" is too feeble to make a speech so he offered to take on Overman's spokesman William
Cicero Hammer, who misrepresents Hayes' district in congress but that old big bunch of bluff and bluster uttered a shrill shriek and immediately called on the Uwarrie mountains, of Randolph to fall on him and hide him from the face of Hayes and has not been heard of since. Hayes now offers to take on Garner, Morrison and McLean, either singly, doubly or in triplicate but there is a silence around Democratic headquarters regarding this challenge that is so oppressive
that it can be cut with a butcher
knife.—Union Republican.

Brandy From Water- melons.

Watermelon brandy is the latest product of Wayne county moonshiners according to Sheriff Grant,
who, with deputies raided a plant
making this new product before dawn Sunday morning. A 60-gallon still of New Hope township was going full tilt when the officers arrived, but the operators had made a clean get-away.
A two-horse wagon load of melons had been used in the new process, according to Sheriff Grant, who based his judgment on the riids scattered about the site.
"I understand," said the sheriff,
"that they don't use anything but the heart of the melon. They take this and squeeze the juice all out, rid it of the seeds, and make their mash this way. That is the way it looked from what we saw Sunday morning. It is the first time, however, that I had heard of watermelon brandy."

The "Off Year."

Politically this is the "off year."
There is no president to be elected,
no governor. True we have a United States Senator in the making, but even this, ordinarily, does not arouse much interest. Why then, this unusual interest in politics in this "off year?" That there is unusual interest no one can deny. That the dominant party is to some extent doubtful is evidenced by the recent unfortunate attempt of the Asheville correspondent through the medium of the one paper in the state that spurns ethics when party pretense is at stake in the judgement of many of its readers to inject into the campaign the so-called "nigger question." The Charlotte Observer knows that at the present time nine-tenths of the colored people vote the Democratic ticket—that the Republican party is free from any colored influence while the Democratic party or some of its workers appeal regularly to the element. As we said recently, no Republican office
holder has been compelled to resign because of his intimacy with colored women. The Democratic party cannot match that record in this state, and while we are not inclined to blame the party for the act of one of its members, the fact remains that at least one such offender is still high high in the councils of that party and for that the party must bear the blame. And herein lies the reason of much of the usual interest in the off year election. The people of the state regardless of party affiliation are demanding clean elections and to get these the first requirement is the elimination of all but clean men in the management of elections. The fight in North Carolina this fall is not really a party fight. It is not Republican against Democrat but rather honest citizen-

A Campaign Novelty.

A New Jersey congressman has introduced a new style of campaign,
fashioned somewhat after the front porch campaigns of some of the presidential candidates, not ably Mc-Kinley and Harding, Representative Randolph Perkins, Republican, of the sixth New Jersey district, seeking re-election, is undertaking to bring the mountain to Mahomet. Invitations were issued to republicans to call, in groups or delegations from different sections, at the congressman's estate at Woodcliff Lake, which is an attractive place. The political pilgrims are received by the candidate and his wife their five children. There are tennis courts, baseball field, pool table, swimming pool, croquet and other forms of diversion. Supper is served out of doors, to the accompaniment of music, and the entertainment of music is concluded with moving pictures on the spacious porch after nightfall. So far, it is said, the porch parties have been quite successful and they will be continued up to the election.

As the report mentions invitations to Republicans only it is assumed that if the congressman can interest
those of his own household of faith
he doesn't have to seek aid from those without the fold. Obviously it is a fine campaign scheme if enough people are interested to attend. The social courtesies will fix the voters. Few would have the courage to eat the congressman's bread and drink his tea and then go to the polls and vote against him;
and if the congressman and his family are adept in the social amenities,
as they no doubt are, they will send their guests away enthusiastic in a guess. The new style would seem to be more expensive, but it may be more economical, all things considered. The voters who are entertained at the home of their representative may not have the nerve to hold him up for contributions to all sorts of projects to ask him for a loan, or to demand cash payment for their services. But it is improbable that the candidate could escape usual financial demands simply by giving his supporters a feed a his home;
and the new style of his campaign is a novelty that will hardly become popular.—Greensboro News.

The watermelon days are over, but the pumpkin is getting ripe and the muscadine is ready to pluck. There is always something good to look forward to in the land of Dixie.

Whisky has been causing trouble ever since the days before the flood and will continue to do so as long as people persist in making and drinking it. No one can ever tell of the sorrow, suffering and heartaches caused by this one evil.

Everybody in Davie county should take at least one day off and visit the Center Community Fair, which will be held this year on Wednesday and Thursday, Sept. 29-30. This fair is going to be the best one in the history of Davie county. Our neighboring counties are given a cordial invitation to visit this fair.

A good Democrat told us a few days ago that a law that would turn a Republican majority of 1000 into a Democratic majority of 500, was the very law that Davie county needed, and that every Democrat should vote for Strowd, of Cooleemee, if he favored such a law. Of course the Democrats would like to have a law for Davie county but our good Republican friends are not going to vote for a man who stands for the brand of election law that was forced on Surry, Alexander and other counties.

Running a newspaper is a mighty trying job. The editor tries to please his readers and gets cussed, he tries to pay his debts, tries to build up his town and county and gets more cussing for trying. His pathway is lined with many thorns and but few roses. He writes long articles boosting the community and when the said institutions need printing they send it out of town. The editor's life is just one try after another. His days are full of trouble and he gets grey or bald before his time. When he passes away he takes nothing with him—for he has nothing to take.

A friend from Cooleemee tells us that Mr. Strowd, the Democratic nominee for the legislature, will ignore any questions The Record may ask him. Possibly so. Some of the brethren who ran on the Democratic ticket two years ago ignored what The Record said and when the first Tuesday in November came along they took a boat ride up salt river. So far as we are personally concerned it doesn't make any difference who ignores what The Record says, but our five thousand readers may take a different view of the matter.

Davie county is the best county in North Carolina despite the fact that our people have nearly two million invested in automobiles and only about one-eighth that amount invested in churches. Most of the folks pay their preacher and their gas bills whether they have anything left for the groceryman, the editor or the doctor. The amount owing for automobiles in Davie is almost equal to the county's bonded indebtedness. And yet, where can you find another county that has better people than Davie? There is no such county.

When our Democratic friends went into power in Davie county four years ago they didn't reduce taxes. Instead of reducing taxes they increased them and also had their commissioners to issue more bonds. Under the Republican administration in Davie the tax rate was raised 5 cents on the $100, but not a bond has been issued in the past two years. Davie has a set of commissioners that every tax payer in the county can be proud of. The voters are going to return them to office this fall by an increased majority.

To Erect Handsome Building.

The new Sanford brick block that is to be erected by Messrs. J. C. and R. B. Sanford on the western corner of the court house square, is going to be the prettiest and most up-to-date building in the city. The old wooden buildings are being removed, and work will start on the new building within the next few days. The building is to be three stories, with the post-office and Davie Cafe facing the square, and a store building facing Depot street, which will be occupied by Kurfees & Granger. The second floor will contain 12 offices, while the third floor will be used as a lodge room, by the different secret orders and the Lions Club. There will be a kitchen and dining room on the third floor. The entire building will be steam-heated with hot and cold water, and bath rooms. The building is to be completed by January 1st. This new block will add much to the appearance of this part of the city. With a few more old landmarks removed Mocksville will be one of the prettiest little towns in this section of the state.

For The Patrons of Schools in Davie.

I wish to announce, that for the benefit of the northern section of Davie county, beginning this week, I will maintain two office days, Tuesday and Thursday of each week, at my residence in Farmington. The other days I will be in my office at court-houses. Parents wishing permits for children to help with farm work will need to apply in person, and unless children are enrolled the first week of school they will not be entitled to permits. Last year we made a gain in attendance of 341 children, under compulsory attendance act, per day yet there was an average of 124 children in the county absent from school every day. This year we shall work for a better record and I am asking every child, every parent and every teacher to help make this the year of highest record of school attendance in the history of Davie county school.

MRS. QUEEN BESS KENNEN, Supt. Public Welfare.

Miss Pansy Walker and Jake Merouey are students at Draughon's Business College, instead of Edward Business College, as was stated in these columns two weeks ago. There is no such business college in the Twin-City as Edwards. The Draughon College is one of the best known institutions of its kind in the south.

Goods Box Whittler.

I have listened around and find that the Governor is not all to blame for pardening folks off the chain gang. Sometimes, good church members, and prominent county and other officials sign the petitions. Sometimes, the criminals, or their friends, not only control votes, but contribute liberally to the campaign fund. And that may have something to do with it.

But one can hear most anything now-days in this state where everything is stained with politics—schools, roads and taxes. The little road commission, for instance. It seems before one can make it up and get it to listen to any suggestion or complaint about roads, he or she must plunk down the cash to pay it for the little extra worry it might be to its leisure. So those who have no money can't be heard. If that be true, this is getting to be a government of the rich, by the rich and for the rich. It goes on the principle—help the rich, the poor can beg.

The Morgantou News-Herald is one of the States best weeklies. It is edited by a woman. It favors the real Australian ballot system. It knows the one we have, is not it. It is of the devil, by the devil and for the devil. It is also opposed to our absentee voting law. It wants that law repealed; and it should be. It would be as fair for one party as the other. It is being greatly abused by the leaders that stood in with the machine of this state.

The chameleon is a reptile in Africa. It feeds on air. And its color is varied. It is of the color of the objects it comes in contact with—red, white, green, etc. In this age we have a great many chameleon people—they feed on air, and hence; can only spout air. And morally, they have no one personal-color of thought, word and act. They think, talk and act like the company they come in contact with. In the church, they are christian; in a worldly, smutty crowd, they are hele-fellows well met. It is not only true with church and Sunday school workers, but I have seen a few preachers who are more like a chameleon than like Christ. Such are not unspotted from the world as the Bible requires. It a club, at a game, they are one of the gang. Such can never be used to save world, "the salt has lost its savor."

The big fiddlers convention will be held in the Cooleemee high school auditorium on Saturday night, Sept. 18th. This is a statewide convention and will be attended by hundreds of people from all sections. The prizes are bigger this year than ever before. The proceeds above expenses, go to the Jerusalem consolidated school. Remember the date and don't fail to attend. A big ball game will be played in the afternoon, picture show at 6 p. m., and fiddlers convention at 8 p. m. Plenty of fun for all. Editor J. C. Sell, of The Journal is president of the convention.

R. C. Click and Everett Horn, of Winston-Salem, were in town last week advertising the new tobacco warehouse in the Twin-City. Mr. Click is president of the new People's Warehouse, which will be open and ready for business when the market opens in that city on Oct. 5th. Mr. Click is a former Davie county man and would be glad for the tobacco growers of Davie and adjoining counties to bring their tobacco to the new warehouse, which has 40,000 feet of floor space and will be operated by men with fifteen years experience in the tobacco business. Watch for the sign in The Record.

C. B. Mooney of this city, has just been awarded the contract to build an up-to-date school building at Midland, Cabarrus county, to cost $15,000. Mr. Mooney was given this contract without any opposition. He is just completing two large school buildings in Mecklenburg county. Besides being a clever gentleman Mr. Mooney is one of the leading contractors in this section and The Record is glad that he is a Mocksvillian.

Mel E. Grose Takes Own Life.

Harmony, Sept. 9.—Mel E. Grose, well known north Iredeell farmer of the Sandy Springs section, killed himself with a shotgun at about 11 o'clock this morning. The load entered Mr. Grose's body about the heart and death was evidently instantaneous. He had told his family that he was going hunting in the hope of killing some squirrels. The people of the neighborhood believe the death a plain case of suicide but no reason for the act could be learned. It is said, however, that Mr. Grose had been in ill health for some time. The funeral services and interment will take place some time Friday at the Sandy Springs Baptist church and cemetery. Mr. Grose is survived by his wife and several children, Mrs. Ed Renegar, Mrs. Ida Renegar and Marshal, Charlie Carl and Robert Grose. The community has had several similar tragic deaths within the last few years. Guerney Wright and a man named Renegar ended their lives in the same way.

Revival Services.

A series of meetings will begin under the Masonic arbor on Sunday evening, Sept. 19th, at 7:30 o'clock, and continue through the following week. Services will be held each evening at 7:30 o'clock. Rev. C. R. Johnson, of Hillsboro, will do the preaching, and will have a good singer to take charge of the song service. Mr. Johnson wants the co-operation of all the churches in the town and county. He is a former citizen of Mocksville, having been pastor of the Turrentine and Cornatzer Baptist churches in this county.

The Farmington school opened Monday 9:30 a. m., with a large attendance of pupils and patrons. Frank Babson, Chair man of the school committee was master of ceremonies and made a very fitting introductory speech. Rev. Bradley gave a splendid short address on "corporation" Mrs. Kennen, presented the subject of school attendance and plans for this year's attendance campaign, L. L. Miller, committee man and other patrons made encouraging talks and suggestions for making this a banner school year for Farmington.

"After the birth of my little daughter I was very badly run-down. I could not think of going to a hospital, but grew steadily worse, being compelled to stay in bed two or three days each week. A friend of my sister's told of the good Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound had done her, and my sister bought me two bottles of it. I had not taken all of one bottle when I was up and able to do some work. I am truly a booster for Lydia E. Mrs. Hope L. Smith, a farmer's wife of Route 3, Floyd, Va., says she was ill for ten years with a good deal of pain in her side and so weak she could hardly work. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has helped her so much she is telling her friends about it. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is a dependable medicine.

What Is a Diuretic?

People Are Learning the Value of Occasional Use.

EVERYONE knows that a laxative stimulates the bowels. A diuretic performs a similar function to the kidneys. Under the strain of our modern life, our organs are apt to become sluggish and require assistance. More and more people are learning to use Doan's Pills, occasionally, to insure good elimination which is so essential to good health. More than 50,000 grateful users have given Doan's signed recommendations. Scarcely a community but has its representation. Ask your neighbor!

CHAPTER VIII

Prospects
Caleb secured an amiable, steady-gaited saddle horse for his trip the next morning.

He carried his creel, an awkward thing to a rider of his lack of experience. In it he packed his lunch and a survey instrument or two with notebook and drawing materials. In his rifle case, another cumbersome thing for him to carry, he included besides the joints of his pole a steel rod that he had secured at a blacksmith's in the upper valley, a tempered probe to be used for investigating depths of deposits. He had a geologist's hammer in one pocket, in another pipe and tobacco. His camera was tied to the saddle.

Lelsurely he rode down the valley, diverging sometimes and climbing a ridge, probing with his steel rod, taking photographs, making a contour sketch where the camera would not serve his purpose, marking closely the tip of strata, the character of rock formations, the general life of the country. Finally, close to noon, he rode down a wash, the sides of which were clothed in buckeye and oak, and lunched by the side of Boca creek, where the two sycamores made an archway for its waters.

He took the pendant from its packing and laid it in the palm of his hands. The artificer had done well. The tiny fishes, united by the ribbon, were delicately yet sharply cut.

Two fish united. A symbol of two living things that lived and moved in the same medium—water. Joined by a ribbon. Pisces and Aquarius. A swift suggestion came to him that the symbol might indicate more than he had intended when he ordered the trinket. He flushed a little as he wondered whether the girl might devise some intimate intention in the design. Then he laughed at his own presumption. It was her sign. Its connection with that on his own seal was fanciful, far-fetched.

He put the pendant back, got up, rolled his blanket, saddled and rode out into Calleste Sink, turning south along the creek, on through the canyon to the suspension bridge. There he dismounted and led his horse down the bank to the edge of the creek. He took off his roll and thrust the blanket and raincoat into the hollow of a tree that was masked with ferns, together with his creel and rod case. Unremembered, he looked on to El Nido.

"This is my party call," he announced to Betty, who came to meet him, after Padilla, with a smile of greeting, had led away his mount for a grain feed and a promised rub-down and Marla had shown him into the patio.

The girl looked grave, seemed quiet, he fancied. But she brightened at the gift and accepted it without reserve. "Is this really my sign?" she asked. "One would think that I was a twin. It was very thoughtful and original of you to choose this. I shall like it best of all my gifts. Something made for me, something that belongs, if we are to credit the astrologers. Do you know, we have an old volume that treats of such nonsense. Father will be pleased, too." Her own pleasure was so open and earnest that Caleb felt his satisfaction growing. He was glad she appreciated his taste.

They discussed the picnic and her friends, in friendly fashion. Thurston had returned to his Fresno vineyards. The Yedders, it seemed, had liked Caleb and wanted to see more of him. Carmen had reiterated her determination to insist upon a new beret from him. "If it was only a souvenir of the occasion," she had said. Betty appeared inclined to tease him a little about the impression he had made on Carmen.

"I am afraid I shall not see much of Miss Wilson," he said. "I expect to be very busy shortly."

She did not inquire specifically what he meant and he did not volunteer it. He did not mean to discuss his discovery with anyone until it was an accomplished fact—unless it became necessary in the order of business. Later he might have to broach the subject to Betty and her father.

At the end of an hour he rose to go and the girl ordered his horse saddled. She gave him her hand, cool and slim but with the grip that told of efficiency, and he rode off. He left the direct trail to the canyon and mounted to a low rolling ridge that paralleled the stream. His eyes roved the valley, looking again for the benchmarks he had noted on his first visit.

And then he saw from the height what his previous trails had hidden from him—the grove of cedars about a low white railing and, within the fence, some white headstones—the three-generations cemetery of the Clintons.

He frowned a little at the sight, remembering the girl's declaration. But he did not forego his present purpose. He was firm in his belief that public service was greater than private sentiment and he hoped that he could overcome the feelings of the father and daughter when the time came. If this obstacle had to be surmounted, it should be. He was strong in his conviction that he would overcome all hindrances to his great project, that already promised too much to be abandoned.

It was nearing twilight when he came to the gorge. He considered it best not to risk a fire. He did not want his operations observed until he had come to a conclusion concerning them. He bolted himself outside the bounds of the Clinton property, but he was not certain. If he was trespassing, he felt that Clinton and his daughter, in their present moods of resolution regarding any disposition of Hermanos valley, might resent what he was about, if they guessed its import, as a breach of hospitality.

He felt a little uneasy about his ethics. What he was about was for the public weal; it outweighed private considerations, he told himself, hammering home the argument. Hermanos valley was a private holding, yet, if public necessity demanded it, for dam site, public pressure, leading perhaps to legislative procedure, might insist upon condemnation proceedings. But, if Clinton did not yield gracefully, the affair would create quite a stir, and Caleb would appear to Betty and her father in the light of a treacherous guest who had taken advantage of their hospitality to spy out the land. They would hold him responsible for ultimate condemnation and the desecration of the little graveyard. The face of Betty Clinton, hurt, indignant, scornful, rose up before him. Perhaps he might be able to argue them to his standpoint, though he knew that idea was hardly tenable. He wanted her good will. Some instinct, entirely foreign to what he would have described as good Yankee common sense, whispered that his sentiment toward her was deeper-rooted than he imagined. That it might ripen into love. A love that might be reciprocated and that would be well worth while.

"I Am Not in Love With Her," Caleb Said Half Aloud.

"I am not in love with her," Caleb said, half aloud. And, as he said it, he knew that the girl could not be dropped out of his life without leaving a wound that would ache long after it had become a scar. He was in the grip of complex emotions. Brain pointed out the importance of the project, born of his own talents, made possible by his talents. And the sex instinct, the desire of one woman, wrestled with the offspring of his intellect. Brain and heart were at odds. But two things had come plainly out of the muddle. He wanted to carry out the work. That was a thing that should be done—if he did not someone else would, sooner or later, make the same discovery. And he wanted Betty Clinton. It was not that he merely did not want to lose her respect and friendship—he wanted her. The desire of her continually inhibited concentration on his project.

He woke before dawn, moved his horse to a better patch for browsing, took his probe and geologist's hammer and started to work, resolutely dismissing any afterthought of the night's problem. He had not brought wading boots with him and he took off shoes and socks and puttees, turned up the lace ends of his riding breeches and waded out into the gut where the pent-up waters of Hermanos, when the valley was a lake, had broken through.

The sun was two hours high before he came out of the creek, his pockets filled with rock samples, wet, tired, his purpose accomplished. He had still to refer to certain geological reports, to analyze his samples, but he was sure of the result.

His jaw was set and his face grave from concentration, but it shone with a certain satisfaction.

"That problem is solved," he said aloud as he mounted his horse at last and rode the willing steed down canyon toward the breakfast that both craved. He did not notice the man who came out on the suspension bridge and watched him until the foliage about him from view.

It was Padilla. The Mexican's face was puzzled, suspicious. He could not understand why el señor should have strayed the night at the head of the canyon. He descended to the creek bed, readily finding evidence of what Caleb had been doing, evidence that a day or so would have erased. He saw where Caleb had gone down into the stream and his quick eyes noted where the rocks had been chipped. A convulsion came over his face with the sudden conviction that the guest had been up to no good.

"The dam! Gringo, Yankee spy!" he muttered. But his thoughts were twisted. He remembered Caleb's gallant action with the bull. He could not justify the two affairs. And he could not comprehend what Caleb had been up to. Unless it was mining. And there was no gold on Gabilan, no silver or cinnabar. Save that, whatever he had done, he had accomplished secretly, deliberately giving out the impression that he had gone down into the canyon the night before. He decided to talk the matter over with Marla.

For four days Caleb worked day and night, almost unceasingly. Every night he practiced his qualities as Water Diviner. He cut his own hazel twigs and, as soon as the moon was up, he went out on the desolate surface of the Sink, with results that justified his first impressions. There was water everywhere. It backed up to the southern border and the presence of the water proved that clay lay under it. This he verified by finding clay on the side hills with his borax probe. His cistern had walls as well as bottom, a lining that was impervious. It was a giant clay saucer holding water for the population of a whole city.

At the end of the time he was worn and tired in body. Sleep had been snatched in catnaps through the day, before the moon came up and in the early hours of dawn. He returned to the hotel, gave up his horse and slept luxuriously for thirty hours. But, before he went to bed, he dispatched a telegram. It was to his lawyer in the East, to whom he had given certain powers-of-attorney concerning the possible sale of his house. In the message he urged an instant sale, even at some slight sacrifice, and asked for the wired remittance of the price through his Golden bank.

Quick with enthusiasm, he went back to Golden, fully rested, to complete plans for submission to Cox. The latter, he found, was out of town and not expected for two weeks. This suited Caleb, who had much to do. He hired a small office and equipped it with drafting table, desk, a small filing cabinet and two stools.

He had to get his plans on paper, to make drawings, put together rough estimates, and he resolved to make a working model of the whole project. He did not anticipate being able to do more than suggest the magnitude of the affair and its cost. What he mainly hoped for was to prove its practicability, and the model would go far toward that.

Russian Given Credit for Radio "Invention"

Who was the "inventor" of radio? The Soviet government claims the honor for a Russian, Prof. Alexander Stepanovich Popoff, and has adopted a characteristic method of telling the world about it.

A new Russian stamp came to the notice of the writer a short time ago. Above an excellent likeness, appear the words "Inventista de Radio-Popoff." The language of this inscription is Esperanto, though the other characters on the stamp are Russian.

The facts appear to be that Professor Popoff—admittedly one of the great pioneers of wireless—publicly transmitted wireless signals over a distance of 40 meters in 1895, the year before Marconi took out his first patent for Hertzian wave telegraphy.

But Branly and Sir Oliver Lodge had been experimenting for some time along the same lines, and the latter gave demonstrations in 1894 in which "coherers" (the earliest form of radio "detectors") were employed. It is not easy, therefore, to award the palm. Hertz, after all, was the first to produce the radio wave.

Parasitic Ivy

"At the moment when there is so much talk and action in the direction of afforestation," writes a correspondent of the London Times, "may I call attention to the awful destruction of many hundreds of thousands of trees, caused by that terrible scourge, the parasitic, pernicious weed, ivy? As I drive through the country, I regret to say that it is the exception to see a tree which is not having its life's vigor sucked from it and its ultimate obliteration and strangulation brought about by this scourge."

Dr. Caldwell's SYRUP PEPSIN

To Dr. W. B. Caldwell, of Monticello, Ill., a practicing physician for 47 years, it seemed cruel that so many constipated infants and children had to be kept constantly "stirred up" and half sick by taking cathartic pills, tablets, salts, calomel and nasty oils.

While he knew that constipation was the cause of nearly all children's little ills, he did not believe that a sickening "purge" or "physic" was necessary.

In Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin he discovered a laxative which helps to establish natural bowel "regularity" even if the child is chronically constipated. Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin not only causes gentle, easy bowel movement but, best of all, it never

Fire Island Is Due for a Change

Primitive Life of the Sand Spit Menaced by Motor Causeway. New York.—To returning ocean travelers Fire Island's long stretch of sandy beach is the first land sighted once Europe has been left behind. Its tall lighthouse has served ships that pass in the night for three-quarters of a century. Although its aspect is familiar to hundreds of thousands of transatlantic voyagers, and although its western extremity is only 40 miles from Manhattan, it houses in summer only a few hundred families and during the winter barely half a dozen.

Marketing With Handcarts. There are three clusters of cottages on Fire Island, the villages of Saltire and Ocean Beach, and the community of Point o' Woods. Ocean Beach has 375 houses, Saltire and Point o' Woods about 100. The only modern improvements in these three places are water mains and sewers. Sidewalks of wood and cement are laid between the shore and the houses. Electric lighting, except for a few private plants in residences, is unknown. There is no gas. Telephones have not yet been installed on this sandy stretch.

ALTAR STONE RECENTLY FOUND SOLVES A PUZZLE OF THE BIBLE. Explains Why Paul and Barnabas Were Dubbed "Hermes" and "Zeus" When They Visited Lystra. London.—An event in the life of the Apostle Paul which has long puzzled scientists and biblical students alike has at last been explained, according to an announcement made by two experts on Greek inscriptions, Prof. W. M. Calder of the Manchester university and W. H. Buckler of Baltimore. The puzzle question is, Why were Paul and Barnabas saluted respectively as "Hermes" and "Zeus" when they appeared in the town of Lystra, in Asia Minor? For answer, the two Greek scholars point to inscriptions and carvings they have found near the town, which indicate these were the two gods regularly worshipped by the natives of the valley of Lystra.

Tranquillity Threatened. Back in 1891 when there was a cholera scare and every steamer from Europe was considered a menace to public health, a state quarantine station was located on this spot. A ship from Italy containing several cholera suspects was not permitted to land in New York. The governor, with the permission of the legislature, purchased an old Fire Island hotel, the Surf house, famous in the '80s for its sea food, and there the passengers and crew were interned for a month.

In addition to the fifty song books for first prize there will be given a penant stating what the premium was given for.

It will be noticed in the special premiums that some of the values run higher than others. This could not be avoided as some premiums run higher than others.
There will be a play given by high schools of the County, the program will be announced later in the papers.

AUTUMN FROCKS OF MOIRE SILK; SILK OR RAYON BLOOMERS BEST

CONTRARY to the trend toward richer silk weaves, moire is believed as one of the forthcoming important fabrics for the coming season. Like everything else in the twentieth century program of progress, modern moire features improvements. That is, instead of being formal-like and
"stand alone" quality as in the old, the new moire silk is the place of one or more trunks.

Does it not provoke a smile to think of the yards and yards of embrodered flanne or stiffly starched petticoat our grandmothers, no, not our grandmothers, for they are keeping pace with the younger generation,
but let us say our great grandmothers, carried about with them, and the heavy-boned atrocious cage called a corset, and—well, what's the use of re-light as chiffon. As to colors! Not only of the beautiful shades on the fall and winter color card are mist. A "thing of beauty and a joy ever" is moire silk in the entrancing claret shade, which is now so smart. Then there is Chanel ed, mulberry, aubergine (eggplant purple) to be added to the list of s, also there are infinite shades of ary and royal. Jungle green and ple brown are also new and stylto an extreme, not forgetting that is taking on a greater prestige.

The trimming of black with delicate s has proved so successful, the elation is being repeated in the calling things so forgetful to our present common-sense idea of dress?

We of this age and day are learning to clothe ourselves healthfully and joyfully. This is why we are choosing our underwear of fine Italian silk and if we cannot quite afford that, then of rayon, which is a most delightful substitute. It is why we prefer bloomers
like the picture shows to petticoats, it is why we are so interested in the new three-in-one garments which include corset and all the necessary undergarments. These slenderize the figure, weigh but a few ounces, can be put on in less time than it takes to tell about it.

er modes. The stunning frock pic-ed is of black moire with ravishing
sies of pink disposed in facings collar and cuffs matched to the central front panel which is buttoned
to neck to hemline.
The last word from Paris is exposed in the styling of this dress,
the flowing cuffs such as graced the coats of the gay cavaliers who ruled the ladies in the days of
"when knighthood was in vogue." That this frock opens in reding fashion is also indicative of the ing mode. The belt treatment, sides find favor in the designing
of the majority of present-day frocks.
With this de luxe costume, milady
wears a chapeau of compelling style,
same being a fine imported colour
of the much exploited vagabond type.
Women do not carry nearly the amount of baggage about in their trunks as formerly. It is a fact, and companies prove it. Expressmen and traveling companies are complaining of a considerable falling off of business because the week-end bag or at least a capacious suitcase is taking and extravagance. Not so in this day of enlightenment; we have come to consider it a matter of economy to invest in silken night robes, and costume

slips, bloomers, vests and "step-ins."
Aside from excellent wearing quality and ever-fresh appearance, the bother some matter of laundering is vastly simplified. This, together with the fact that dozens of dainty silken garments can be packed into small space without crushing, makes traveling an unalloyed pleasure.
By the way, color contrast is the latest item in regard to new silk lingerie for this fall and winter. A flesh-colored garment bordered with pale blue, or green or maize is fashion's latest whim.

WHY DENY YOURSELF
THE BEST IN MOTOR CAR BODIES

The finest of the new cars in all price classes have now been announced—Cadillac, Buick, Chevrolet, Oakland, Oldsmobile and Pontiac.

All offer vastly greater values than ever before in motor car history.

All register amazing advantages in performance and ease and economy of operation.

But the greatest factor of their new glory is described in a single phrase—Body by Fisher.

Here is their supreme beauty—setting absolutely new standards in charm of design and interior fitting.

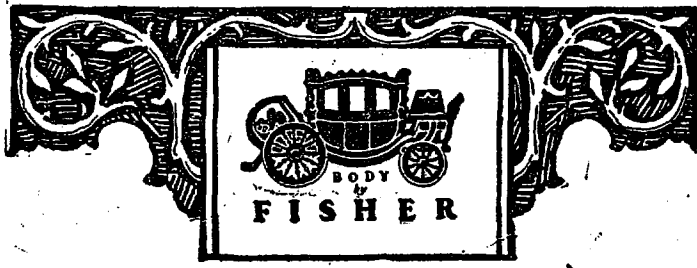

Here are unequalled factors of safety which add so much to your comfort and confidence.

Here are exclusive conveniences and niceties which do, indeed, make the car with Body by Fisher superior in its class.

No matter what mechanical developments may allure you, it is the body of your car with which you live most intimately—that is why the General Motors units, makers of the best of the new cars in all price classes, point so proudly to the emblem—Body by Fisher.

With the finest of the market to choose from there is no reason why you should deny yourself the greater safety, beauty and comfort which only a Body by Fisher can give.

Six-Year Food Tested
Food that had been canned for six years was opened recently and tested by a Dutch physician, Van Leersum. It was a meat hash, including onions and potatoes, and the doctor's conclusion was that the food was quite suitable for human consumption.

The essential thing in canning, Doctor Van Leersum decided, was that all the air should be exhausted from the can in sealing. Oxygen, he said, was responsible for any corrosion that occurred.

What Makes Life Successful.

It is not uncommon to hear those around you speak of how big such a man is in the eyes of his countrymen and you will naturally think of the man referred to as one of the real successors.

In the minds and eyes of many, prominence and riches mean success; but a man may be both rich and prominent and still his life is an utter failure.

The one who knows him best are those who are most competent to judge as to whether or not a man is a success. It has often been said that no man is a hero to his wife or his stenographer, and surely those intimately connected with a person should really know.

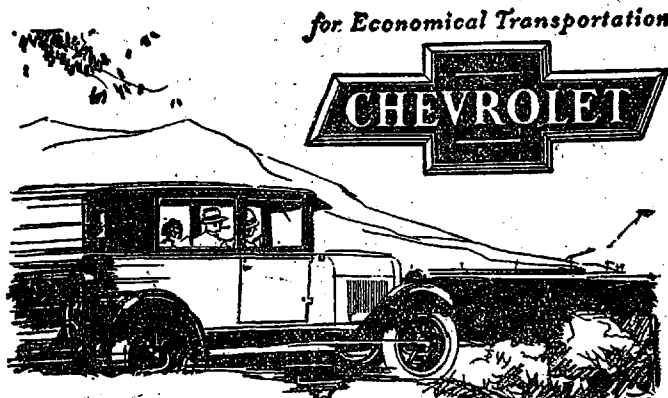

Real success in life constitutes the rendering of some service either to mankind in general or to a limited circle. You no doubt are familiar with many rich men who live a life of selfishness and greed and make the family circle a miserable group. He may be a good fellow and considered a success by those who know him not, but the measure of happiness in his circle really tells the tale. Money is not all, and summing the thing up in a few words we would say, the man who has made a good home for his wife and children is a success whether he has saved a dollar or not.

There will be no summer in 1927 says meteorological sharps, which will certainly be a great disappointment to our rosebush beetles.

QUALITY AT LOW COST

A continuous performance

Nothing is permanent in railroading.

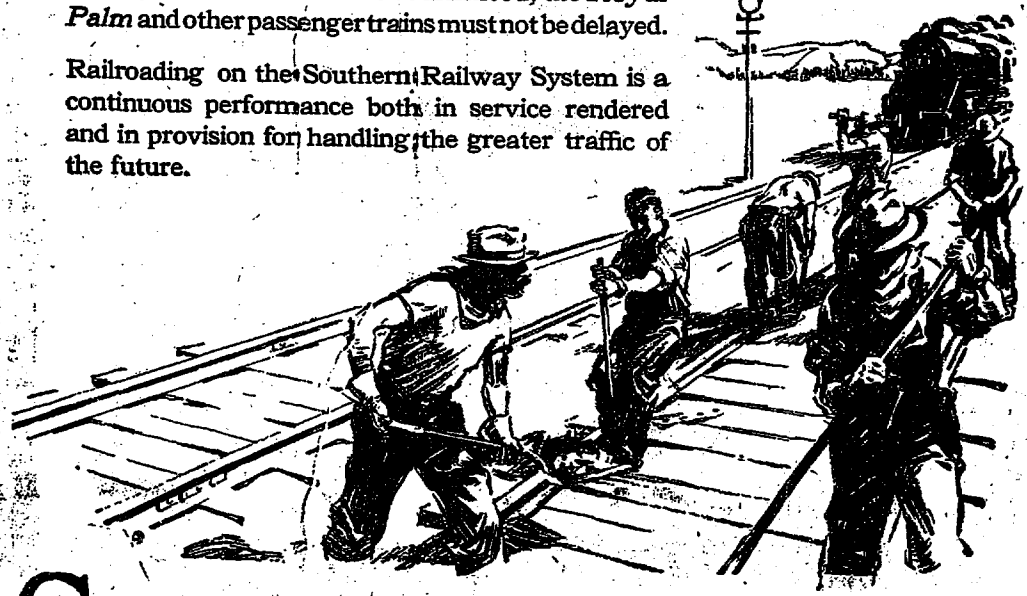

Larger cars and engines must be bought to handle greater loads; the roadbed must ever be kept in good condition, new ties and heavier rails must be laid to support heavier trains at high speeds; and in places the course of the line must be changed to reduce curves and grades.

Shop facilities must be enlarged, terminals improved and bridges rebuilt to carry the ever-growing trainloads. New signalling devices are being installed, and new tracks, yards and sidings built to handle the growing traffic of the South. This process of change, improvement and renewal goes on day in and day out throughout the year.

But the service must never stop. The way must ever be kept open for the great freights as they rush through the night carrying products of the South to distant markets, and the world's goods to Southern buyers. And the Crescent Limited, the Royal Palm and other passenger trains must not be delayed.

Railroading on the Southern Railway System is a continuous performance both in service rendered and in provision for handling the greater traffic of the future.

Everything used on a rail-road wears out. Last year about $60,000,000 was spent by the Southern in replacing things that had worn out.

The "Friendliest Fair."

You sure ought to go down to the Cabarrus Fair this year, they'll be lots of things you'll like to see. And it'll be the friendliest place you've ever been. Everybody is going to have a good time and expect everybody else to do the same. It'll kinda stir you up when you get into the big crowds and see the folks all about griffin' and cuttin' up. You'll surely like it.

At this time farm folks cut loose from farm duties and go the Cabarrus Fair for real pleasure and profit. Mostly it is playtime for them after harvest. As the crops ripen into cash farmers begin to think of the fun they can crowd into a week inside the Cabarrus Fair grounds.

There's always a big crowd because everybody goes there. The bigger the crowd the jollier it seems to be, the more eager it is to be entertained.

Catering to this spirit of friendliness and good will, secretary Spencer has worked out a program that serves to build up and to entertain the huge crowds from the first day to the last.

"Big doings" are on from October 12 to 16.

It Does Not Pay.

Mr. Rousseau Democratic candidate for Solicitor in this district, is credited with the assertion that "If I am elected I will prosecute the docket impartially. I have no law partner to sit by and tell me what case to not pros and what to prosecute hard." The inference is so plain that the people of Wilkes county will resent it even to the masses of the Democrats who know the sterling character of Johnson J. Hayes and of Mr. Jones as well. To assail the character of an opponent was common in years gone by, but in the present time, when the people have learned to believe in fairness and honesty in politics, such tactics will invariably return to the head of him who use them and Mr. Rousseau will find in the result in November a repudiation of such attempts to besmirch the character of gentlemen like those against whom his efforts was directed.—Tar Heel Republican.

They Asked For Bread and Were Given a Stone

For a number of years, the pure blooded white people of North Carolina, have felt the oppression of what is termed, Democratic Good Government. Particularly, is this true relating to one of their most prized privileges, the ballot.

In a number of counties the people seeking some relief, have asked the General Assembly for the Australian Ballot. What did they get? The Democratic machine got together and devised laws, purporting to be the Australian Ballot. These were enacted and put in to effect.

What is the result? The new laws have worked so well, that even some of the rock ribbed Republican counties were turned Democratic, much to the surprise of even honest Democrats. In fact, the honest results have been so glaring, that in some counties, where the dishonesty was so plain hundreds of Democrats who believe in giving even a Republican his dues, are leaving the party and joining the Republicans.

North Carolina needs a genuine Australian Ballot, but she will never obtain it under Democratic rule. Some day the Old North State is going Republican. Then, election laws will be put on the statute books that will guarantee to every man and woman a free expression at the polls, knowing that their ballots will be counted and cast.—Ex.

Poole Certified as Eighth District Nominee.

The autocratic state election board having heard the rumbling from the people have at last decided that O. F. Poole, of Alexander county is the rightful Republican nominee for congress in the eighth district against Bob Doughton and have certified to same as such.

Mr. Poole was nominated in a regularly constituted convention of the Republicans of the eighth district but when he filed his name as the nominee of his party before the all powerful state election board that body decided that he was not eligible and refused for a time to allow his name on the ticket. Now three months afterwards they have suddenly decided that he is the rightful nominee and his name will appear on the ticket.

There is a reason for all this. The eighth district has a normal Republican majority of 1,000 or more and Bob Doughton who has been given the certificate for several years is well aware of the fact that he did not get a majority of the votes cast. The Democrats are scared and knew if they deprived Mr. Poole of his rights that he would carry the contest to Washington and be given the seat. This will not be necessary as Poole's name will appear on the regular ballot and in the November election if given a free ballot and a fair count he will be elected and Doughton will be sent back home to attend to his cattle driving, an occupation he was engaged in before being accidentally counted in as the congressman from the eighth district.—Union Republican.

A Bakery Needed.

If The Record is not mistaken there are five different bakeries from the neighboring towns of Salisbury, Winston Salem, Lexington, that are sending their bread trucks here every day. This being the case it seems to us that a first-class small bakery would be a paying proposition in this town. If the neighboring towns can afford to send their trucks here daily to supply Mockville and other county towns with bread daily, there is no reason why Davie county couldn't support a bakery. If Mockville, Advance, Cooleemee, Farmington, Cava, and the other villages in the county would support a home enterprise it would be no trouble to make a bakery here a paying proposition. Think over this matter, gentlemen, and see if there is not a chance to start a bakery here.

Cleveland Baptist Hold Thanksgiving Service.

More than 3,000 Baptist gathered at Shelby, Thursday, in an all-day praise and thanksgiving service for the bountiful crops harvested in Cleveland county this year after what appear to be another distressing year of drought earlier in the season.

In every song, prayer and sermon there rang a note of gratitude. The large crowd joined lustily in the song and praise service, practically every one of the 40 churches in Kings Mountain Baptist association being represented. Dr. Zeno Wall, pastor of the First Baptist church Shelby, as the statesman-missionary secretary and Dr. Mad-dry, after speaking of the joy and gratitude of the people over the bountiful crop prospects, urged a program of consolidation of small rural Baptist churches similar to the consolidated school movement.

Dr. R. J. Bateman, of Asheville, expounded the progress and prosperity of North Carolina for which he gave thanks to the Creator. Dr. Bateman was introduced by O. Max Garner in a speech praising the citizenship of Cleveland and the citizenship of Cleveland and the Baptists who had seen fit to gather in a thanksgiving service for the bounties that have poured down from heaven.

A picnic dinner was served in one of the exhibits halls at the fair ground that evidenced the prosperity of the county. It was unanimously voted to hold a similar gathering next year.—Ex.

Big Cotton Crop In Prospect.

Unless upset by unfavorable weather conditions late in the season North Carolina will this year harvest the biggest cotton crop in her history.

The U. S. government estimated that this State will this year produce 1,137,000 bales. The record crop to date was 1,102,000 produced last year.

The boll weevil or the cotton hopper has so far failed to do any material damage and everywhere the fields are white unto the harvest. Picking is on in dead earnest in many places and "first bales" are being reported from all sections.

The price is low this year, around 17 cents a pound and it is feared it will not go much higher unless the sisters can be persuaded to wear more clothes made from cotton and less silk.—Ex.

Do the Democrats want the ticket elected that they nominated this year? Some think they will make no effort to elect but one man on the ticket. Republicans are not worrying over the outcome

Florida has suffered a severe blow, but she will rise again and build greater than before the fearful hurricane devastated her fair land. Thousands of new people will visit the land of flowers this winter that have never before traveled so far south.

The cotton market is pretty low but it hasn't touched the level that it did in 1913-14. As long as the country produces a sixteen-million bale crop and the folks wear wool and silk, just so long will the price of cotton remain low. Two or three yards of cotton goods make a dress today—twenty years ago it took two or three times this amount.

Many of our Democratic friends do not take the Record, but we are glad most of them read it, even though they are forced to borrow from their neighbors. We have no objections to their reading the best paper in Davie, but those who are sparing with their cash should also be sparing with their criticism. It's a mighty poor rule that won't work two ways.

This week is fair week in Davie county. Wednesday and Thursday, Sept. 29-30, is the two big days when everybody in Davie county should visit the Center Community Fair, which is four miles west of Mocksville on highway No. 75. The fair this year is going to be bigger and better than ever before. Our neighboring counties are given a cordial invitation to visit this fair.

Speaking of ignorance and intelligence, our good friends should bear in mind the fact that North Carolina stands nearly at the bottom of the ladder when it comes to illiteracy, while Maine is almost at the top of the educational ladder. We wonder if that if why North Carolina goes Democratic while Maine goes Republican? A good test of intelligence, for instance, Please, brother Democrats, don't all answer at once.

When a man reaches the point where he will deny his parents or his party, there is something wrong. Nearly two thousand years ago Peter denied his Saviour and since that time the practice has become more common as the years go by. We know lots of folks who seem to be ashamed to acknowledge what party they belong to, actually swearing there is no such thing in Davie county as a Democratic party. They may be nearer right than they think.

The Center Community Fair opens this morning. The Record hopes that everybody in this section who can possibly do so, will be present at least one of the days. The managers of this fair have worked faithfully for many months to make it a success. Much work and many cash premiums have been secured, besides hundreds of merchandise premiums that will be distributed to all sections of the county. We hope that in the near future this fair will grow so large that it will be necessary to erect fair buildings and move it to the county seat where it will be more centrally located.

The enrollment of the Mocksville school was a little more than 400 this fall—the largest in its history. Superintendent Station has a strong faculty this year and it is thought that this will be that Mocksville has ever had.

Must Have Been John.

An item in a newspaper of a neighboring county recently stated that a certain "staunch Republican" of a community in that county was in town making the voluntary declaration that he was going to work might and main for the Democratic candidate for sheriff of that county. If this is true then this renegade was not a very "staunch Republican" and the great Republican party of the state and nation have no room for such traitors. Let this man place the Democratic label on his coat and stop was quering as a member of the party of Lincoln, McKinley and Coolidge.—Union Republican.

Dempsey Has Finished.

The two million dollar prize fight between Jack Dempsey and Gene Tunney was pulled off in Philadelphia Thursday night. The fight went full ten rounds, and was won by Tunney. After the fight was over Dempsey hugged his opponent and then went to his hotel and she tears Jack got over a half million dollars for the beating he received. And yet we are living in a civilized country.

The Center Fair.

Some of our good people seem to be of the opinion that the Fair to be held at Center on Wednesday and Thursday, Sept. 29th and 30th is to be for that community only. This is not the case as the Center Community Fair is the only fair to be held in Davie County this year and it is held with the hope and belief that everyone within Davie county will take part in it by bringing exhibits or by attending this Fair.

We hope that you will stop work long enough to get your neighbor and visit Center Community Fair bringing with you any exhibit that you have which might be of interest to others.

Come to the Center Fair and meet all your friends Wednesday and Thursday.

Another Bad Wreck.

Automobile wrecks are getting too numerous in and around Mocksville. Another bad wreck occurred on North Main street about one o'clock Friday afternoon. Larry Emerson, who holds a position with the Davie Chevrolet Co., was driving a Ford touring car north. In the front seat with him was Miss Helen Stewart and in the rear seat were Misses Delia Grant and Polly Dwiggin. Mrs. Z. N. Anderson was driving out of her driveway in a Ford coupe, returning to the graded school, when the car driven by Emerson hit her car, smashing it considerably and also doing much damage to the car Emerson was driving. Mrs. Anderson received a number of bad cuts in her face and head. Mrs. Helen Stewart was cut in the face and had a severe cut on the arm. The other young ladies were not hurt. Mr. Emerson also escaped injury. Miss Stewart was carried to Dr. Rodwell's office where her wounds were dressed, and Drs. L. P., and W. C. Martin attended Mrs. Anderson at her home. It is fortunate that no one was killed.

Sheffield News.

Mr. and Mrs. Pink Edwards and family of Gibbville was visiting here Sunday.

T. A. Gaither has bought the Tommy Smith farm one mile north of Sheffield.

Ruby Parks of Statesville spent the week-end here with friends and loved ones.

Mrs. Grady James is on the sick list this week.

Jim Deese of Charlotte is visiting his mother Mrs. C. L. Clary.

People in this section are very strong against an eight months compulsory school they say they now are paying all the tax they can stand.

Money Richardson is building a new house on his farm near Ellis mill.

No the public road from Sheffield to the highway has not been top soiled, the top soil stopped over a mile from Sheffield and shade has never been cut off of this road they are places on this road the sun has never known to shine on.

If Mrs. B. I. Smith will call at The Record office she will receive two free tickets to The Princess Theatre.

"I kept the check. It was coming to me. And I'm going to have a good time on it. It won't pay up what I owe, or begin to. Square me with the club, though, for one thing."
He left and Caleb in turn changed his clothes and spent a couple of hours reviewing his plans. At the water company he noticed Mary Morgan driving away at her typewriter. Her expression was sullen and she did not look up, though she heard his name mentioned. Caleb wondered what she thought of the wedding.
He found his model set up on a long table in the directors' room that opened off Cox's private office. Cox and Hinckley were examining it. They greeted him cordially, Hinckley in particular giving him a cordial grip of the hand.

on the boulevard this afternoon would drive a man crazy in time, but that's all we can get."
"Look here, Ted, you're talking nonsense," said Caleb. He was beginning to feel nettled, the blood ran hot under the skin of his forehead. The day had gone too well to wind up in such fashion. He went into his own room to escape the threatened tirade. Baxter had set him, bent on argument, his mind set in a groove. He seated himself in a wicker armchair.
"I suppose you think I ought to marry the girl? The myself up with a whining wife and a kid?"
"Yours?"
"Maybe. I'm not even sure of that. No, I'm not. I can handle her if I do it right away," said Baxter with ever thickening speech. "But by the time my deal goes through it may be too late. Those things hang fire sometimes. Lend me the money, Cal. Twenty-five hundred 'll do it. She's ready to cut loose and go east. If I tell her it's fallen through she'll turn nasty again. Will you do it?"
"I can't, Ted. I haven't the money."
"You mean you won't. Why don't you come through and say what you mean?"
"I have. If I had the money, or could get it, I would lend it to you."
"Ah! That's what they all say, when it comes to a showdown. If you think you're going to force me to marry the girl, you're wrong. You seem d-d eager to take her side in the matter. If you're so anxious to save her good name, why don't you marry her yourself?"
Baxter got up, swaying a little. His eyes were now blood red. The poison he had been assimilating was forcing its venom to the surface. Caleb stepped forward to put his hands on the other's shoulders, partly to steady him, with the idea of coaxing him to lie down. Half blind with crudely doctored alcohol, Baxter mistook Caleb's intention and swung his fist viciously. Caleb's own temper had been mounting despite his efforts for control. He was tired and his nerves had been strung more than he suspected. He parried the blow and thrust Baxter back, meaning to plonk him in the chair while he talked some sense into his sodden brain.

But Baxter twisted. His weight went all upon one arm and the light chair overturned. Clutching at the rickety little desk, Baxter scrambled on the floor in a shower of papers as the desk toppled. The fall seemed to temporarily sober him. He scrambled to his knees and began picking up the papers. Caleb, startled, dashed and chair, ashamed of the bawling termination of the affair.
"Look here, Ted," he said, catching Baxter by the elbow. "This has gone far enough. We are both acting like a couple of clumps. If I've . . ."
But Baxter stood staring at one of the papers he had picked up. His face was contorted by a malevolent sneer.
"You haven't got the money, eh?" he said. "A fine friend you are. You rotten liar. I'm through with you!"
He flung the paper down on the top of the desk and flung through the door, his face livid. Caleb heard his slip. It was the telegram from his attorney announcing the closing of the debt and the forwarding of the money. For a second he stood irresolute. He did not want to explain to Baxter why he could not lend him any of this amount, or to what use he had already put it. Finally he made up his mind. His friendship with Baxter had been largely protective. He did not want to abandon that friendship now when Baxter most needed him. He knocked on the door, then tried it. The key had been turned on the inside. He called.

"Ted! Let me in for a minute."
"You go to h—l." A moment after, the door to the corridor slammed. Caleb went to his own and saw Baxter entering the elevator. He rang the bell, hoping that he might catch the other before he got too far down the street.
The colored boy grinned at him as the elevator came to rest at his floor.
"Want to catch Mist'her Baxter, suh? I reckon you's too late. His cyan's bin waitin' for him for nigh half an hour. He's gone a kitta'!"

Buttons Made Change in World's Fashions

It is remarkable what small things have revolutionized the habits of the world. The change from the loose, flowing robes of the ancients to the fitted garments of these days is entirely due to the invention of the button.

Once the new fashion was established, many substances were pressed into service as materials for button making. Birmingham, England, has held its own as the most important center of the industry; and though Birmingham has a magnificent town hall, old inhabitants say that it would pay to pull it down and dig up the foundations, for it is built on a retuse heap of mother of pearl.

About the middle of the Nineteenth century the manufacture of pearl buttons was one of Birmingham's chief industries, and shells were brought in from the Pearl Islands off the coast of Panama that manufacturers punched one or two buttons out of the best part of the shell and threw the rest away.

Useless Treasure

He has lived long enough, if he be wise, to have a mind to strip himself to go to bed; not to his very shirt, I confess, but to the remaining pumps, of which he has no further use, he ought voluntarily to surrender to those to whom by the order of nature they belong.

Touching
Wigwag—It doesn't pay to strike a man when he is down.

"It will be quite informal," wrote Mrs. Vedder, "but I think you will enjoy it and we hope you can come. Some friends of yours will be with us, Betty Clinton and Carmen Wilson among them. Don't dress. Come any time after eight o'clock."

Caleb accepted. He found himself eager to do so at the mention of Betty Clinton's name. The afternoon of the appointed day the spliation of the pipe problem came to him. It seemed to him that thoughts of the girl had blent with his tinkering and drawings and quickened his invention.
He sketched out his idea and made some specifications that he took down to a working machinist with whom he had got in touch. A model was to be made. The thing was simple enough though an entire novelty in such work. Caleb intended to make his pipe function flexible by designing a ball and socket joint so that the curving ends of one pipe should be clasped in coinciding curves of another, working in soft babbit metal, giving a play of almost ninety degrees. This would make the pipe line as limber as a sprocket chain, Caleb believed.

The Vedders lived on Semaphore hill in a house that consisted of one great room on the ground floor together with a kitchen at one end and a conservatory porch at the other. An open staircase led to the upper floor and the house was a Japanese servant met him at the door, which was screened off from the main room, and relieved Caleb of hat and coat. There were some thirty people in the room and they all seemed to be laughing and talking at once, split up in little groups, on divans, standing by the fireplace, by the grand piano, about a table where the Japanese was now serving punch out of a great bowl of mandarin ware. Smoke trailed everywhere, from pipes, cigarettes, cigars and from sticks of Chinese punk.

FIRST to adopt DUCO

THE General Motors Research Laboratories cooperated with E. I. du Pont de Nemours & Company, Inc., in the development of Duco—an achievement ranking in importance with the invention of the self-starter. DUCO is not only far more lasting than paint and varnish; it is finer, more beautiful and more economical to apply in factory production. DUCO was first adopted by Oakland, and immediately thereafter by the rest of the General Motors cars. BUYERS of General Motors cars have profited by the development of this finer, more enduring finish. Their cars wear well longer.

FAVORS FINE SILK WEAVES; HATS FOR COLLEGE GIRLS

THE smartly frocked Parisienne still adheres to the one-piece dress for daytime wear, that is, the sort in which bodice and skirt are joined at the waistline. As to just where that waistline should be is a subject much under discussion among the dress creators of France. Rumor has it that the waistline is moving up, even unto normal is the forecast. Be that as it may, many of the most stylish frocks snaphotted at the Grand Prix races expressed sentiment for the moderately low waist. There were interesting variations and varied, in some instances the waistline curved up at the front, drooping perceptibly at the back, and often the simple straight-around type was stressed. Both models in this picture instance the latter. Seamed-at-the-waistline modes necessarily involve the question of skirt fullness, a problem which the Paris stylist adroitly solves either by means of a circular cut or by plaiting, smocking and what is considered of vast importance at this moment, shirring. It is a fact that everything that will admit of shirring is being shirred. No fabric yields more gracefully to the seamed-at-the-waistline treatment than does a handsome silk weave, neat yet very effective daytime frock. At this particular time of the year when thoughts turn mostly to outfitting daughters of the household for "going away to school," it seems peculiarly fortunate that the new felts and sports velvet hats should be so apropos of the occasion—so typically collegiate in appearance. For that is just what the new draped crown and ripple brim felt and velvet hats are—the sort the college girl adores. There is everything in the way of detail to appeal to youth in this season's early headwear. Note for instance the intriguing little hat pic-and the wide grosgrain ribbon band. You can get such a hat in any of the new browns or beige, and it is perfectly stunning in either jungle green or burgundy shade. The crown of the aristocratic looking felt to the right is its special attraction. Notice how jauntily it is draped. It's wee brim answers to the call of the mode. Of velvet are the hats shown below in this collection, because velvet has been acclaimed a most popular and stylish medium for the sports hat. Stitched velvet especially is the rage and you make no mistake in selecting this, if you are looking for something other than felt or velours. The fact that the model pictured as a finale to this modish group is of two colors of velvet gives it prestige as a most fashionable example of the sort of hat outstanding among advance fall models. While the preparation is specially adapted to covering metals, it also may be used on fabrics and leather.

Too Much "Acid?"
Excess Uric Acid Gives Rise to Many Unpleasant Troubles. AUTHORITIES agree that an excess of uric acid is primarily due to faulty kidney action. Retention of this toxic material often makes its presence felt by sore, painful joints, a tired, languid feeling and, sometimes, toxic backache and headache. That the kidneys are not functioning right is often shown by scanty or burning passage of secretions. Thousands assist their kidneys at such times by the use of Doan's Pills—a stimulant diuretic. The night was black, the road unlighted so early in the morning. Suddenly the motor gave some convulsive sobs and the car stopped. Bill, much perturbed, made an earnest effort to start the engine but failed. After getting out and looking over the engine, he turned to Betty and said: "This is sad. The gasoline tank seems to be full of water and we can't move a foot." Betty was far less perturbed. She replied: "Come on inside and stop looking worried. This has happened to me before.
