

THE BIBLE SPEAKS

Devotional Reading: James 1:22-27

Self-Portrait

Lenora for October 26, 1955

THERE are people who don't care how they look to other people; they have no particular long-range plan or pattern of life. We call such persons extroverts; they never stop to speak, long enough to look into a mirror. There is an opposite kind of person who is painfully interested in himself. He is forever looking into a mirror, as it were. He is the most careful and detailed plans and is quite upset when a detail goes wrong. We call such persons introverts. In between these types is a more bal. Dr. Foreman anced sort of person. If one could "type" Jesus of Nazareth he would be the balanced sort, by all means. He was self-conscious enough to know and care what he was doing, but not in the least self-centered.

Jesus had the opportunity, which to some young people is a rather frightening thrill, of speaking to a crowded audience in his own home town. He knew what he was doing, but not in the least self-centered.

Poisonous Snake Claims Obstretrical Championship

WASHINGTON — A six-foot snake, one of the most venomous reptiles on earth, which gives birth to 30 to 60 offspring at a time—each a foot-long serpent at birth—fully equipped with poison fangs—this is the for-de-lance. Lurking in thick jungle of Barro Colorado Island, the Smithsonian Institution's biological station in the Canal Zone, the for-de-lance is by far the most dangerous animal on the six-mile square densely wooded island in the middle of Gatun Lake. The snake remains most of the time in a creek jungle depths penetrated only by occasional biologists, and none of the hundreds of visitors each year ever has been bitten.

A visiting scientist, to whom the snake was not familiar, picked up a gravid female and carried it to the island's laboratory, according to James Zetek, resident manager of the station. The for-de-lance did not bite the man although females about to bear young are supposed to be especially nervous and vicious. She remains most of the time in a creek jungle depths penetrated only by occasional biologists, and none of the hundreds of visitors each year ever has been bitten.

Monotonously, one by one, 60 babies came into the world, each one-sixth as long as its mother, although much thinner. Each had fully functioning poison fangs and set of venom. From the instant of birth, each could have killed a small mammal and would have been dangerous to man.

Science Develops Super-Pure Metals

PITTSBURGH — Scientists at Westinghouse Research Laboratories are purifying titanium through a process of electrolysis. The process of electrolysis is being used to produce a metal which is purer than the original metal. The process of electrolysis is being used to produce a metal which is purer than the original metal.

When a bar of impure titanium is melted progressively from end to end, the impurities migrate to one end of the bar as the molten zone moves along.

Each time the process is repeated, more iron is carried to the end of the bar and then it is cut off and discarded, leaving the rest of the titanium bar more pure. The bar is then electrolytically purified by passing the bar through a coil which carries high-frequency alternating current.

Top Industry Wages To Aircraft Workers

NEW YORK — The average aircraft worker in the United States today earns $63 per year more than he did in July, 1950, when the Korean war started.

And he earns $720 more per year than the average U. S. manufacturing employee.

The aircraft worker's higher earnings resulting from wage increases granted by the industry in the past four years account for one-fifth of the industry's estimated $5.6-billion payroll for 1954. (These figures do not include "fringe" benefits.)

The combination of increased wages and higher employment has resulted in a sharp rise in aircraft payroll dollars funneled into the national economy. With 26,400 persons employed at the outbreak of the Korean war, total monthly payroll for U. S. plane builders amounted to approximately $16.5-million. Today with more than 303,000 employees, the industry's monthly payroll is approximately $25.5-billion.

Abraham was ready to play his son in the thick, and told to use the ram, and Abraham was proved to be the utmost and showed he was ready and willing to follow the Lord in any that deity commands. So in looking over the righteousness of Abraham we are reminded that the progenitor of the faithful was to perform. Even Paul referred to the faithfulness of Abraham when he was old and his wife was ninety years when she gave birth to Isaac, and Abraham was sure the promises to him would have to come through his son Isaac, yet he was commanded to offer this son a sacrifice instead of a lamb on the altar (he felt like the Lord would raise Isaac from the dead) but about the time Abraham was ready to play his son in the thick, and told to use the ram, and Abraham was proved to be the utmost and showed he was ready and willing to follow the Lord in any that deity commands. Dear Mr. Stroud—I have enjoyed your articles so much on the "Old Davs in Mocksville," and in keeping names and places you do wonderfully well, as you have not always lived here. But last week you made one mistake which I just must correct. You said that Charles P. Meroney was the brother of P. L. Meroney. He was P. L.'s (Philip Lee's) oldest brother instead of his father. (I knew better; just a slip of the pen.) Philip Lee's father was Philip P. Meroney. Since you are writing up old houses, my grandfather, Philip F. owned the "Fector" place where Boss Tutterlow now lives, and my father was born there in 1855.

In 1857 my grandfather sold that place and bought the plantation which is now known as the "Old Griffin place," from Baxter Clegg. The old house is still standing and is now owned by Mr. Sharp. Philip F. and his wife, Sophronia Hughes, spent the rest of their life and reared their family there. He died in 1882. Then it was owned and occupied by his son, Philip Lee and his family until 1892, when he built and moved to town. Then in 1893 he sold the place to Mr. Abe Nair. At that time it comprised all the land from just north of the old house down to the land on which the new hospital is being built, and was known as the old Meroney place until Mr. Nair sold it to Mr. Dolph Griffin, then it became the "Griffin place," to most people. (Miss LILLIE MERONEY.)

From Asheville

Hello, Col. Stroud—Charlie Meroney was not the father of P. L., but his brother. Charlie had two sons, C. F. (Flynn), and W. R. (Will). Charlie Meroney's home, on the corner of the street, was not a log house, and is about the same today as it was 50 years ago.

A small house with lot adjoining the home of Charlie Meroney, was worked over several times, and numerous families lived there along when the chair factory was started. This house was finally razed. The next building was the home of Phoenix Bailey. Mr. Bailey was sheriff of the county when John Eaton, (col.) was killed. John was locally known as "Beef John," as he peddled beef each week from a one-horse wagon over town. But Beef John had a bad habit of getting drunk and beating up his wife, for which he spent much time in jail. John put out the report that he would never go to jail again alive. The next time he acted up his wife sent for the sheriff. When sheriff Bailey arrived John met him at his cabin in door with a gun in each hand. The sheriff got cold feet and retreated. Back in town he deputized several men, who armed themselves with shotguns and rifles, and proceeded to John's cabin in North Mocksville. When they were in shooting range John opened fire on the crowd and emptied both pistols before he was cut down. He fell in his front door with his body riddled. After this Mocksville was sans beef until Mr. Bob Wilson went into the Burching business, and supplied both Mocksville and Colesmees with fresh beef once a week for many years.

The next building below the Bailey property was the Sanford & Williams tobacco factory, later the chair factory. This was the only three story building in town, and with the exception of Sanford's store, the only building to have an elevator. This elevator was a real old stoner, drawn up by a windlass, like a well. The tobacco factory was of wood construction, but was a real substantial structure, as was evidenced by the fact that it supported the machinery for the chair factory later.

In North Mocksville there were two homes that were outstanding for their time. The first was the home built by Mr. Jim Call, uncle of your bank cashier, Milton Call. Mr. Jim was an expert carpenter, and he put all he had in workmanship and fine trimmings on this house. Mr. Call did not live there long, but sold and went to Texas. I think that either Mr. John Johnson or Jesse Lee Clement later owned this home.

Some years later Mr. Phillip

Hanes, of Winston-Salem, erected a nice home in North Mocksville. This was considered by the "best and finest residence in town." The tragedy of this home was that just as Mr. Hanes got his family moved to Mocksville he was kicked by a horse, which caused his death. Some of his family still reside there, but I believe his two sons, Frank and Spencer, reside in Winston. R. S. MERONEY.

[My friend Meroney sometimes gets facts wrong. Mr. Hanes purchased the old Mart Booe house in North Mocksville in 1901, and remodeled it and moved his family here. He died in 1902. His daughter, Mrs. Blanche Hanes Clement, occupies the home. Ed.]

Birthday Dinner

M. G. York, of Booneville, Route 1, who is known to his friends as "Greenberry" was 80 years old October 16 and his children and grandchildren gave him a huge birthday dinner at the home of a daughter, Mrs. A. N. Adams, near Mt. Nebo, where he makes his home. He is in good health and goes about well for his age.

Sixteen children were born to Mr. and Mrs. York. Three of them died early in life, and the remaining 13 are all living. They have 38 grand children. All the children except one and all of the grand-children except three were present for the dinner.

The 13 living children are: Mrs. Lula Mickles, Will York and Mrs. Allie Adams, Booneville Route 1; Lewis York, Mrs. Paul White, Henry York, and Travis York, Mocksville, Route 5; Clarence York, Yadkinville Route 2; Mrs. Calvin Cline, Yadkinville Route 1; Mrs. Tom Caudle, and Mrs. Alva McBride, Winston-Salem; Alvin York, Clemmons; and Mrs. Melvin Potts of High Point.

Friend of Man

Lesson for November 6, 1955

PEOPLE describing themselves have a tendency to paint themselves handsomer than they really are. They do not like candid-camera shots of themselves. Even when a man has to admit that he has committed a sin or made a mistake, he will try to sell himself his motive was good, anyway. Now Jesus' self-portrait was extremely self-deprecating; but nobody ever called him a hypocrite or a show-off. What Jesus had said of himself in the Nazareth synagogues was just the simple truth: Dr. Foreman he was indeed the same kind of Friend of Man that God is. He made humanity his business.

Healing Bodies

One fact stands out, and Luke makes a great deal of it. Jesus was a healer. He never assumed that sickness or physical disability bound to be. He thought people's bodies were important enough to be sound and well. He never thought of himself as "spiritual" or "religious" or indifferent to people's physical needs and pains. Wherever he went, he brought health with him. We do not fully understand how he did this, but the Christian church has taken the tremendous development of hospitals in America and over the world is not today all in the hands of Christians or religious people; but it was religious people who started this kind of thing. The church of today is beginning to see how much harm another kind of illness does, and to work at curing mental diseases. Compare a Christian country like ours with a non-Christian country like Korea where the total Christian population is less than six per cent. There a cripple has ordinarily been something to laugh at. No one would give him a job, no one bothered with him. All he would do was beg, as he crawled or sat in the dust. Now, Christian hospitals there have been doing a work that the heathen world never thought of—rehabilitating amputees, make it possible for them to be self-sufficient. Persons against Christianity is teaching Korea a lesson. Where once diseases of all sorts were taken as a matter of course, Christian doctors and hospitals have shown the way to national health.

Healing Souls

Some people think that if a man is healthy that is enough. If a man's body is all right, he is all right. Christians know better—because Christ has shown us. Jesus did not think he had done all he could for a man if he got him on his feet and he discovered the fact. Jesus knew that men's most serious diseases are in their souls. He was the Friend of Man—but not friend of their bodies alone. Hospitals today are more and more making use of chaplains, and that is another Christian idea. In every mission hospital the medical missionary is an evangelist too.

What Friendship Means

To Jesus, friendship meant something deeper than what often goes by that name. How many people are "friends" only with the strong, the successful! How many people will be friendly only to those who can give them a lift up the ladder of ambition! This is the friendliness of a mosquito, who will suck close to you, but not here are any notions of doing you good. Then again, a common idea of being friendly is to take other people without criticism, take them as they are. A word much in use with psychologists, psychiatrists and counselors nowadays is "acceptance." Now Jesus accepted all kinds of persons who were by everyone else rejected—lepers, tax collectors, the "lower classes," foreigners. But while Jesus opened his heart to these people, in the very act of acceptance he changed them. Some "friends" are like chameleons that take the color of whatever they lie on. Jesus never changed his own colors. He was the friend of sinners, indeed; but by being their friend he led them out of their sin. To be Christlike in friendship is to have a goodness that is contagious.

Gloves

Short, fingerless gloves can look very dainty and feminine if the wrist is trimmed with seed pearls. Others have Mother-of-pearl buttons.

Longer length gloves have trimmings of fagoting and embroidery in eyelet fashion. These as well as the short gloves are available in white as well as deeper tones and pastels.

Many women will like the short stretchy nylon yarns. One size fits all types of hands and the gloves are very comfortable. Furthermore, there's no need ever to have immaculately clean gloves as these can be washed through suds and dried in no time at all.

Hats and Purse

If you can buy only one hat this season why not choose a natural straw? Then you'll have a hat that goes perfectly well with any dress before modern medicine rediscovered the fact. Jesus knew that men's most serious diseases are in their souls. He was the Friend of Man—but not friend of their bodies alone. Hospitals today are more and more making use of chaplains, and that is another Christian idea. In every mission hospital the medical missionary is an evangelist too.

WOMAN'S WORLD

Let Accessories Add More Interest To Summer Clothes

SINCE summer clothes are less expensive than fall and winter styles, you'll probably find that you can add those important little glamour notes in the way of accessories to your wardrobe. They'll dramatize your simple soup-and-water fashions and will give you a chance to display your own creative imaginative taste.

Hats, gloves, purses, jewelry and even glasses can come in for their share of attention, and hats can do a great deal to make you the best looking woman in your set.

Jewelry to Wear

If your wardrobe consists of a great deal of navy blue or black, gold is best to do the most for your dark colors. If you like, it can be gold combined with white enamel.

Another combination which is very effective during this season is that of pearls with rubiestones. These combined beautifully with gold. Necklaces in this type are best chosen in medium length so that they can be worn in the hair for a special evening occasion.

One of the new kinds of the fancy spools for evening, too.

From Napoli comes the inspiration for the smart and comfortable sun-steps which are a snug-back sandal with beaded brilliant bands and the wide-toe-shaped vamp. They're smart with gay summer costumes and wonderfully comfortable to achieve feet.

High heels are encased with brilliant, and dancer's younger feet will be especially delightful in them.

OPEN FORUM

In the last article reference was made to the meaning of the word Hebrew. We stated it meant a person from the other side of the river, which designated certain people because of their residence. Another word or title of certain persons is Gentile. The meaning of the word Gentile is another people, in other words another people from those across the river. According to this separation, Abraham was from across the river, and the Gentile was another people separated from the Hebrews. This is very pertinent to the traditions of these two races of people. Surely they are different or another people. So the Hebrew nation was the people of Abraham and have come from the descendants of the Hebrew Abraham the chosen people of the Lord; likewise has the Gentile race been chosen as the other people from those whom coveted with the Gentiles, Isaac and Jacob.

To fulfill the great promise made to Abraham, the Lord reconstituted the as a promise to Isaac. Then as we discussed in a previous article about the way Jacob outwitted and traded with his twin brother for the right to the promise made to both Abraham and Isaac, so he (Jacob) could inherit these promised blessings that had been sworn to by the Lord to these men he wanted to raise up a nation firm and steadfast in keeping the covenant the Lord desired to establish upon the earth for his believing children to enjoy. Jacob, as we are acquainted with, worked for two sisters, paying for each seven years hard labor, totaling 14 years, and he kept both wives and had children by each, and each of the wives gave him another woman for a common law wife, and he likewise had children by all four of these women. His favorite wife was the girl he first started out to obtain as his companion, but she seemed to be the less fruitful of all, but she gave Jacob two sons.

One was Joseph, the favorite son of all the household of Jacob whose name was changed by the Lord of Israel (which meant prince of God) to Israel (which meant prince of God) as we remember very well this boy (Joseph) received the favors from his father to the extent the older sons developed a hatred of this fine lad. One day it was suggested they murder him; but Judah suggested they sell him, so blood of a slaughtered animal was placed on the coat of Joseph and given to his father Jacob; so the Patriarch grieved and thought his son was murdered or devoured by animals. Time and space forbid tracing the life of Joseph throughout his life; but we remember how this lad rose from prison to become the prime minister of Egypt and providing food for the known world in time of famine; and how he recognized his brethren and gave them food free of charge, and finally brought the family of his father's household to the land of Goshen, a fruitful land, and gave it to them for their personal use. When they came to Egypt they numbered about 70 people, and they were favored and prospered in their new home.

Soon a new Pharaoh came into power who knew not Joseph and the household of his father. They fell into bondage to the people of Egypt, and for about 400 years they served Egypt and remained slaves until Moses was raised up to liberate the children of Israel, who numbered about 900,000 people. During this time, they took up the habits of Egypt and forgot the God of Abraham, Isaac and Jacob, and it took Moses to emancipate them with the true and the 100 God.

In writing these articles on what was happening in this town some 50 years or more ago, it is not as easy a task as some would think. Occasionally some fellow will hold me up on the street and say I was all wrong in saying that a certain house was so or a hundred years old. Much of the history I have jotted down was told me by a great-uncle, M. R. Chaffin, who was born in Calabash Township in 1827. He lived in Mocksville for many years and died at the age of 98 or 99 years.

In taking up the old houses on the left hand side of Salisbury street and going south, the next house to Dr. Rodwell's house, now owned and occupied by Mrs. Ed Sanford, was a house built by the late Milton and Jim Call. When the house was completed more than half a century ago, they decided to sell it. The late C. F. Meroney brought the house and he and his family lived there until about two years ago, when Mr. and Mrs. Meroney died. The house is now owned and occupied by Mr. and Mrs. William McClamroch.

Just south of this house, was the old Jesse Clink house, which was built of logs about 125 or more years ago. When I came to Mocksville in 1900 this house was owned and occupied by the late Mr. and Mrs. S. M. Call. The house was enlarged and remodeled a number of times in the past 50 years. It is now owned and occupied by Miss Martha Call, a daughter of the late Mr. S. M. Call, and Mr. and Mrs. James H. Thompson. Mrs. Thompson is a daughter of S. M. Call, son of Mrs. and Mr. S. M. Call, still living, William Call and Milton Call. The late Henry Call grandfather of the S. M. Call children, lived for many years in an old house on Lexington street now owned by Mrs. Wellman.

Traveling south and situated a about 500 feet from Salisbury street, was a large two story house. This house was known as both the Adams and Bell house. The writer lived in this house with Mr. and Mrs. R. H. Morris and two children, Frances and Cecil, for over a year in 1900-1901. This house was moved some thirty odd years ago, to its present location adjoining the house of Lee Carson on Salisbury street. The late John C. Sanford built a large two-story brick house on the site from which this house was moved, several years ago. Mrs. Sanford is still living in this house.

Just south of this house was an other cottage house, known as the Bell house, where the late Miss Margaret Bell lived for many years. She was a well-known school teacher, and taught the first grade in the Mocksville school for many years. Adjoining this house was the house of Lee Carson on Salisbury street. The late John C. Sanford built a large two-story brick house on the site from which this house was moved, several years ago. Mrs. Sanford is still living in this house.

Another house, adjoining this one, which was known as the old Brown house. I have my facts right this was owned and occupied by Thomas Brown, grandfather of R. E. Sanford, who is still living. The house was built in the early part of the 18th century. If I am not mistaken the Browns family moved to that in near Winston-Salem shortly after the Civil War.

There are many more old houses around the town which I may mention later.

CAN'T GO FAR

"Oh, doctor, I'm so upset," said the woman. "My husband seems to be wandering in his mind."

"Don't let that worry you," replied the doctor. "I know your husband, he can't go far."

WITH OR WITHOUT

The music teacher asked a little girl of six: "Can you play an E major scale without any mistakes?"

She could and did.

Then he asked, "How about an E-minor scale?"

The little girl hesitated, then asked, "With or without mistakes?"

IT WOULD RAIN

"Let's see," said the weatherman to his assistant, "you'd better put down rain as positive for this afternoon."

"But what makes you so certain?" asked the assistant.

"It's a cinch," the weatherman replied. "I've got a ticket for the ball game, I've lost my umbrella, my kids are giving on a picnic, and the wife is giving a lawn party."

MATCH FACTORY

"Your school is not a seminary; it's a match factory," said the smart young man to the girl student.

"You're right," said the girl. "We furnish the heads and get the sticks from the men's college."

CORRECT

Phil: Why is a baseball game like a buckwheat cake?
Bill: I don't know.
Phil: Because its success depends on the batter.

THEN ASKS HIM

"Mr. Garvin," a man asked his tailor, "how is it you have not called on me for my account?"

"Oh, I never ask a gentleman for money."

"Indeed! How, then, do you get on if he doesn't pay?"

"Why, replied the tailor, hesitating, "after a certain time, I conclude he is not a gentleman, and then I ask him."

A GOOD HAT

"That's a nice looking hat you got there, mister."

"Yes, sir, and you might not believe it, but that hat is 10 years old. I've worn it almost constantly, too. I dropped it in the river once, hid it cleaned and blocked once, and swapped it twice in a restaurant."

Our County And Social Security

By Louis H. Clement, Manager.

Perhaps there are a number of beneficiaries who could qualify for higher benefits by virtue of a provision of the law called the "drop-out." Those who qualify for this provision must file an application for a drop-out computation; it is not automatic.

Here is an explanation of the drop-out provision: Monthly benefits under social security are computed on average monthly earnings. Consequently, any year of low earnings or no earnings under social security would ordinarily have resulted in a lower benefit. The drop-out provision of the amended law, however, provides that as many as 4 or 5 years may be dropped when computing an individual's benefit. The years may be dropped when the individual has 20 quarters (about five years) under social security. This provision is automatic if you first become eligible for retirement benefits after August, 1954, or become eligible for retirement benefits (age 65).

For a person over 65, the provision for dropping out up to five years of lowest income will also apply if the individual has worked at least 6 quarters (about 1 1/2 years) after June, 1953. In other words, benefit status with social security and then returned to work and acquired a year and a half of social security employment after June, 1953, can apply at the near Social Security District Office for a recomputation of benefits upon again retiring from work. Employees age 72 should make application immediately even though still working (if they have 6 quarters after June, 1953) as employees age 72 can work for any amount of wages and keep their social security benefit checks.

If you have any question concerning your social security, you might write us at 361 Post Office Building, Salisbury, N. C., or see our representative who visits the Court House, Mocksville, N. C., on the first and third Fridays of each month from 12:30-1:30.

IF MY PEOPLE WHICH ARE CALLED BY MY NAME SHALL HUMBLE THEMSELVES, AND PRAY, AND SEEK MY FACE, THEN WILL I HEAR FROM HEAVEN AND WILL FORGIVE THEIR SINS, AND WILL HEAL THEIR LAND.

It is a mighty easy matter to promise a dozen people a job but sometimes hard to explain to the eleven that only one man can be taken care of when the said jobs are dispensed.

One of these days we are going to print the news that actually happens in Davie county. Before this glad day we will try to have all our insurance policies paid up, our accident policies in good shape and our old gun and butcher knife ready for business.

The people of Davie county are urged to buy Christmas seals and in this way help to stamp out tuberculosis. The money from the sale of these attractive little seals is used in your own county to help feed and clothe the hungry and destitute.

The pumpkins and persimmons are ripe, the sound of the hooter is heard throughout the land, both day and night, possums and rabbits have been frozen-bitten and ready to be eaten for folks who like wild meat.

A few of our subscribers have had their subscriptions cancelled because they couldn't stand the truth. A few other leading citizens—both Democrats and Republicans—have been marked off our books because they wouldn't pay their honest debts.

From California

Our old friend R. C. James, who lives at Merced, Calif., sends us the following clipping out of a California paper, with a Winston-Salem date line:

Navy News

Getting ready for another month of busy activity, Chief William M. Stoessel, MMC, USN, in charge of the Navy Recruiting Station Mocksville, N. C., is wrapping a revised "career package" at his post office address.

Chief Stoessel added that the revised career plan will offer the most attractive list of benefits and advantages ever assembled for the youth of America.

Highly enthusiastic about the improved living conditions in the Navy, Chief Stoessel said that the emphasis on this department, and that the men—now and those stations are as close to homelife as human ingenuity can make them.

Our friend "Rike" Willson, of Route 4, tells us that the old house on the corner of Water and Saltbury streets, was built and owned by his grandfather more than 100 years ago. We had been told that this house was built by one of the old Meroneys.

The Golden Rule Lesson for November 13, 1955

LIVING is an art, not a science. Jesus did not come to give us a heavenly rule-book. On the other hand he did not live and die merely to profess us with tickets to heaven. For others, as for himself, he felt the tremendous importance, here and now, of this present life. He lets behind him not rules but general principles for living in this world as sons and daughters of the Most High God. Jesus' principles were not the stuff of a sort of thing that only philosophers can understand. His disciples, who were all men of limited education, the plainest of plain people, if Jesus had tried any theological riddle-book on them, it would have gone clear over their heads. He said what he meant and carved on short tombstones, written in a postcard, any one sentence of his teachings. The one the church has nicknamed the "Golden Rule" is short, sharp, and in Jesus' own view very important—it alone worth long study.

"It's Too Hard" Luke's version of the Golden Rule (6:31) is clear enough: "As you wish that men would do to you, do so to them." Words of one syllable, but what words! It is so simple that even the most ignorant have been made to bypass this Golden Rule. One kind of by-passer will tell you this is much too hard. Some very clever people have fancied that Jesus did not mean this for here-and-now, but only for some "beatific life of Somewhere," sometime after judgment day. Other religious people have said that Jesus really meant to say, "You can't possibly do this—don't you feel ashamed?" Now we can be sure of two things. One is that Jesus was (to say the least) a man of common sense, an honest man, and honest men do not delibrate. The other is that Jesus knew what they know is impossible.

Daylight Saving Time Gradually Gains New Friends

WASHINGTON—Despite almost constant opposition, daylight saving time gradually gains a larger share of the nation each year. New York City has voted to join most of New England in 1956 to extending summer's hours ahead time through October. Instead of ending it on the last Sunday in September. Massachusetts, Rhode Island, Maine and New Hampshire, plus a few communities in Vermont, tried carrying daylight time over into fall last year and liked it. That hour of daylight shifted from morning to evening gives pleasure to millions, saves substantial amounts of power in lighting streets and homes, and cuts back traffic accidents, proponents argue. Daylight "saving" time, still less than 40 years old, has stirred interest in a businessmen named Robert Garfield. Garfield fought much the same battle in the United States. Congress passed daylight saving time in 1918, but it lasted only two years. President Wilson's war was not in accord, but the measure was repealed and did not turn up on view very important—it alone worth long study.

OPEN FORUM

Joseph, the son of Jacob, whom his brothers sold to the traders and was later the man next to Pharaoh the ruler of Egypt, was one of the outstanding characters in the Bible. His exalted position in the nation did not make him conceited and forget his spiritual heritage and the faith he was taught to have in God. And too, he knew that his father Jacob possessed the office of patriarch handed down to him from his father Isaac, and his grandfather Abraham. So he desired the blessing from the Lord that could be bestowed upon him by the laying on of Jacob's hands and pronouncing a blessing in the name of the Lord and in the authority of the priesthood held by Jacob. So Joseph went to his father for the blessing just before the death of Jacob. When the patriarch gave the blessings to the twelve heirs of his, we can see that the one given to Joseph was outstanding compared to the other ones. This blessing recorded in Genesis 49:26 to 28. He was told things that had been his experience in the past, and what he could expect in the future. "Joseph is a fruitful bough, even a fruitful bough by a wall, whose branches run over the wall; the archers have sorely grieved him, and shot at him, and hated him." In this we can see the statement where his brethren had hated him and sorely treated him to the extent of selling him to traders. Likewise we see his father told this fine man that he was a faithful bough even by a wall. In this promise he was likened to a vine planted close to the wall so he could obtain water and continue to grow, and he did grow so much his branches would reach over the wall. No doubt the wall was the ocean, and his posterity should reach other lands. Then we read again, "But his bow should increase in strength, and the bow of his hands were made strong by the hands of the mighty God of Jacob, (from thence is the shepherd, the stone of Israel)." In this verse Joseph is reminded of his strength coming from the Lord. In verse 26, we are informed that Jacob stated to Joseph, he Jacob had prevailed over the blessings of his father Isaac, and grandfather Abraham, and that his special blessing would be upon the head of Joseph, and his seed should reach unto the bounds of the everlasting hills. From this verse we can see that the seed or descendants of Joseph would reach the land of everlasting hills, which description fits this, the American continent, with its everlasting hills, and the verse wherein is stated branches shall reach over the wall or ocean. So the people of this land of the free and home of the brave, are the seed of Joseph, and are the posterity of the outstanding son of the house of Israel, and are to receive the blessings promised to Joseph by his father Jacob, the patriarch, who had been selected to stand at the head of the covenant race to receive the blessing of the gospel of Christ. It is thought by many people that the choice blessings be long to Judah, or the tribe of Jews, and that reading we find in the same chapter mentioned here the Jews blessing seemed to run in the line of earthly powers, while that of Joseph ran in spiritual powers, which are the greater after all. The powers used by the ancient patriarchs impress some people as fortune telling or go-se work, and it is a superstition. The Lord to the prophet, and he held the authority of God, knows as the priesthood to seal these blessings in the name of the Lord, and the person lived right they came to pass. (J. L. BENNETT, Durham, N. C.)

GOOD OLD DAYS

(Continued From Last Week) A town without a bank is like a ship without a rudder. When I arrived in Mocksville 55 years ago there wasn't a bank or building and loan office in the county. The few banking houses here did their banking in Winston-Salem or Salisbury. Some few men who had money to invest in building and loan stock bought shares in Winston, Salisbury or Statesville loan offices. Early in 1901 some of the business men in the town got together and decided that Mocksville needed a banking house. The Bank of Davie was organized and I think it was in May of that year that the bank was opened. The capital was $50,000, with a paid up capital of $10,000. W. A. Bailey, a well-known distiller, merchant and flour mill man of Advance, was elected president. T. B. Bailey, well-known Mocksville attorney and one of the leaders in the Masonic lodge, who was chairman of the Masonic plot vice-president of the bank. T. J. Beyerly, a young man from Davidson County, was cashier. E. L. Galtner, well known Mocksville lawyer, was attorney for the new banking house. The bank was located in the building now occupied by Leslie's Men's Shop. The bank officials bought the lot and had the two-story brick building erected. If I am not mistaken the late James Cole built the banking house. Just about a year after the bank opened a bunch of robbers entered the bank one night and blew open the safe. They did not get the second door open and got no money. I think that the late James McQuire and T. J. Beyerly were a scene and cashier Beyerly shot his pistol from behind the old counter house which was in the middle of the square. The robbers were later caught and convicted. James Lang, the leader of the gang, was tried in Davie Court and given two years in the penitentiary at Raleigh. After serving a few years he was given a pardon so he could go back to his home in New York to die. He was said to have been in the last stages of tuberculosis. Some time after his pardon it was reported that he was shot and killed while robbing a bank in New York. If I am not mistaken, the late Sam McNeel, of Charlotte, was one of Lang's attorneys. Attorneys for the bank were E. L. Critter, T. B. Bailey and A. T. Grant. In 1903 the Bank of Davie sold their banking house to the late Dr. W. C. Martin, and the bank was moved to the new Masonic building where it is still located. A few years after the bank opened Cashier T. J. Beyerly asked me one morning if I was going to Winston-Salem in those days—it was just plain Winston. I told Mr. Beyerly I was going to Winston early the next morning on the early morning train. He asked me if I would carry a bunch of money to the Wachovia Bank for him. I agreed to carry the money. The bank in those days opened for business at 8 a. m., and closed at 4 p. m. The next morning Mr. Beyerly gave me a package of 5,000 one dollar bills to carry to the bank. I arrived safe in Winston with the package of currency, wrapped in an old newspaper, under my arm. When I went into the Wachovia Bank I gave the package of money to one of the bank clerks and asked for a receipt which Mr. Beyerly told me to get. The young fellow gave me a peculiar look and asked me if I thought

SMART BOY Johnny giggled when the teacher told the story of a man who swam a river three times before breakfast. "You do not doubt that a trained swimmer could do that, do you?" asked the teacher. "No, sir," replied Johnny, "but I wonder why he didn't make it four times and get back to the side where his clothes were." PLENTY OF TIME The mother and daughter were busy with the wedding plans when the bridegroom-to-be called. He watched the preparations rather impatiently for a while, until his future wife noticed his look of annoyance. "Darling, we have such a lot to do," she soothed, "and if we want to make our wedding a big success we mustn't forget the most insignificant detail!" "Oh, don't worry about that," murmured the young man. "I'll be there all right!" SHE WONDERED The famous artist was painting in the mountains and wanted a live subject for one of his sketches. "I'll give you five dollars," said he to a languid native. "If you will let me paint you." The mountain girl's eyes gleamed but she said nothing for a moment or so. "That's easy money, stranger," "I'll have to admit. I was just wondering how I'd get the paint off afterwards!" HURRY THINGS UP Patient: "Since we've known each other so long, doctor, I'm not going to insult you by paying my bill, but I'll leave you a handwritten legacy in my will." DOCTOR: "That's very nice of you, I'm sure. By the way, just now there's a slight change I'd like to make in it." WATCH YOUR STEP Father: "My boy, do I see you wearing your good shoes?" Son: "Sure, pa. Gee, I can't wear my old ones on Sunday. They're all worn out." Father: "Well, all I can say is you'll have to learn to take longer steps. I can't be buying shoes every year, you know." WANTED INFORMATION A young bride was looking over the different meats displayed in the showcase at the meat shop. The clerk asked: "What can I do for you, madam?" She replied: "What do you have that I can make over if I don't cook it right the first time?" they had time to stop and count 1500 people were here. He said to tell Beyerly he would mail him a receipt. When I got back to Mocksville Mr. Beyerly asked for a receipt for the money. I told him what the young fellow said. It was two days before the receipt arrived. I didn't sleep much for two nights. Suppose the young fellow said he had never received the package of money. I didn't know his name and he didn't know mine. That was the last time I carried money for Mr. Beyerly to Winston.

Our County And Social Security

By Louis H. Clement, Manager. Parents past age 65 who have sufficient coverage to be eligible for old-age insurance benefits, but have not filed application for benefits because they are still working, are reminded that if their earnings in 1955 are sufficiently low they may receive full or partial benefits for the year. There may be people who could receive benefits for 1955 who have so far not taken advantage of their rights, because of misunderstanding or confusion as to the new retirement test in the law. In brief, an individual who was past 65 years of age the entire year of 1955, and who has sufficient covered employment or self-employment to be eligible for benefits can receive benefits for the entire year 1955 if his total earnings for the year do not exceed $1200. He can receive partial benefits if his total earnings do not exceed $2,080.00 even though he works throughout the entire year. In case of a self-employed person, the net profit from the trade or business is what is considered earnings. Regardless of the amount of his earnings in certain months of the year, a beneficiary can get benefit payments for those months in which he neither earns more than $80 in wages nor renders substantial services in self-employment. January 1956 is the latest time at which a person can file an application which could make him entitled to benefits for the full year of 1955. Persons who do not earn over $2080 in 1955, and who meet the other conditions for eligibility may secure further information and assistance in filing applications for benefits, by contacting the Social Security Office at Salisbury. If you have any question concerning your social security, you might write us at 361 Post Office Building, Salisbury, N. C., or see our representative who visits the Court House, Mocksville, N. C., on the first and third Fridays of each month from 12:30-1:30. Better call at this office now and get your land postcard before the supply is exhausted. Printed on heavy card board 50c. per dozen.

Powers of God

Lesson for November 20, 1955

JESUS no doubt did many ordinary things, such as paying his bills and eating his breakfast. It may well be that he "never did an ordinary thing in an ordinary way."

He can get into all kinds of stupid and endless arguments over the "miracles" of the New Testament. They are not always labeled as such, or labeled with any word.

What they all agree on is that Jesus performed acts of power which no one else could do.

He performed acts of power which no one else could do. He performed acts of power which no one else could do.

He performed acts of power which no one else could do. He performed acts of power which no one else could do.

He performed acts of power which no one else could do. He performed acts of power which no one else could do.

He performed acts of power which no one else could do. He performed acts of power which no one else could do.

He performed acts of power which no one else could do. He performed acts of power which no one else could do.

He performed acts of power which no one else could do. He performed acts of power which no one else could do.

He performed acts of power which no one else could do. He performed acts of power which no one else could do.

He performed acts of power which no one else could do. He performed acts of power which no one else could do.

He performed acts of power which no one else could do. He performed acts of power which no one else could do.

He performed acts of power which no one else could do. He performed acts of power which no one else could do.

He performed acts of power which no one else could do. He performed acts of power which no one else could do.

He performed acts of power which no one else could do. He performed acts of power which no one else could do.

OPEN FORUM

There is a story about a man who lives about the time the steam engine was invented who didn't believe anything could run without power of animal. He and his wife went to the railroad station to see the iron horse.

He turned to his companion and said, "Nancy, they will never start this thing, they will never start this thing, they will never start this thing."

Another of the older merchants who came here more than 30 years ago, was the late Leas Lee Clement who moved here from Lexington.

W. L. Call was another merchant who went here more than 30 years ago. He moved his family here from Advance and opened a dry goods and grocery store in the brick building on the east side of North Main street.

George G. Walker, a young man who owned a general store at Balfour, near the village of Balfour, also opened a store at Balfour when Mocksville began to grow.

Mr. and Mrs. R. S. McNeil and Miss Kathy Merope spent Sunday at Rock Hill, S. C., the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Hilton Rutz, who are the proud parents of a fine son who arrived at their home a few days ago.

GOOD OLD DAYS

In the spring of 1901, shortly after the Bank of Davie was organized and open for business, Mocksville began to take on new life.

He carried a good line of dry goods and notions and did a good business. He painted the front of his store a deep red and called it "The Red Front."

Another of the older merchants who came here more than 30 years ago, was the late Leas Lee Clement who moved here from Lexington.

W. L. Call was another merchant who went here more than 30 years ago. He moved his family here from Advance and opened a dry goods and grocery store in the brick building on the east side of North Main street.

George G. Walker, a young man who owned a general store at Balfour, near the village of Balfour, also opened a store at Balfour when Mocksville began to grow.

Mr. and Mrs. R. S. McNeil and Miss Kathy Merope spent Sunday at Rock Hill, S. C., the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Hilton Rutz, who are the proud parents of a fine son who arrived at their home a few days ago.

HE UNDERSTOOD

A young man called one evening on a rich old farmer to learn the farmer's story of how to become rich.

"You needn't go out," said the youth. "I understand."

Two women were discussing a third woman.

"Her husband was a judge, wasn't he?" one asked.

"Everyone thought so," replied the other, "until he married her."

NO SUCH PEOPLE

Say, dad, what are diplomatic relations?

My boy, there are no such people.

GOING HOME SOON

First Fisherman: It's getting late, and we haven't caught a single fish.

Second Fisherman: Well, I'm going home as soon as I let two more big ones get away.

NO SUCH CHANNEL

The geography teacher asked Bobby a question about the English Channel.

"I don't know about that one," answered Bobby. "There's no such channel on our television set."

WISE DECISION

Before the bridge was built, Uncle Adoniram ran the ferry at Coon River Crossing. The fare was five cents.

One day Shrimp Parker wanted to cross, but he only had three cents.

Uncle Adoniram chided on it for a while, then announced his decision: "If a man ain't got but three cents, it don't make no difference which side of the river he on."

A PTY

A school boy was making a speech about the national debt.

"It's too bad that future generations cannot be here at this time," he said, "to see the magnificent things we are doing with their money."

Our County And Social Security

By Louis H. Clement, Manager.

The year 1955 has brought social security to most farms and ranches in the country. The 1954 social security amendments extend social security coverage to self-employed farm and ranch operators for the first time in 1955, and more hired farm and ranch workers will be covered under liberalized rules in the new law.

Self-employed farmers and ranchers whose net income from agricultural operations is at least $400 in 1955 will be required to file a social security tax return early in 1956 as a part of their Federal income tax return and pay the social security tax at the rate of 3 percent. Optional methods for reporting agricultural income are provided in the law.

Hired farm and ranch workers are covered by social security beginning in 1955 if they are paid at least $100 in cash wages during the year by one employer. The number of days worked will no longer be involved. This does a way with the somewhat complicated test in effect through the end of 1954 which covered only "regularly employed" farm hands.

The tax rate on workers is 2 percent each from the employer and the employee. All self-employed farmers and hired workers should get a social security card right away if they do not already have one. The social security number must be shown on both the wage report and the self-employment report that will be filed with the District Director of Internal Revenue.

Applications for social security cards may be obtained at most post offices and should be filled out and mailed to the Social Security Office, 301 Post Office Building, Salisbury.

If you have any question concerning your social security, you might write us at 361 Post Office Building, Salisbury, N. C., or see our representative who visits the Court House, Mocksville, N. C., on the first and third Fridays of each month from 12:30-1:30.

From California

San Carlos, Calif., Nov. 20. Dear Col. Stroud—I am enclosing $2.00 for another year's subscription to The Record. I am not sure when my last subscription expires but it's not too far off, so I had rather be late than sorry as the old saying goes.

I see in my Record of Nov. 16th where the barbers there have raised the prices of hair cuts and shaves to 90c and 60c. Well if any of their patrons feel like they are being overcharged listen to this. Here in San Carlos, Calif., hair cuts are $1.75 and shaves $1.40.

The first hair cut I ever got besides the one's my mother gave was by Ed Griffin, who ran a barber shop in Mocksville before and after the turn of the century. I was 12 years old. I paid the fabulous sum of 15c for that hair cut, besides I got my hair all doused up with some sort of good smelling liquid that Mr. Griffin put on it so he could comb it good. All my folks took a whiff of it when I got home. That happened in the fall of 1897. Now, fifty-eight years later the same hair cuts are 90c and $1.75, depending on the geographical location.

Cotton Allotments Will Vary

WOMAN'S WORLD Entertaining Story Here Are Special Ideas For Snacks

His Demands Lesson for December 4, 1955

CHRISTIAN living is not a matter of vague general good will. A character in a movie remarked: "I'm not a mean man. If I hear that my neighbor's children had been eaten by wolves, I would feel some regret."

THIS is the time when meekness is coming to order again, and you will be serving as a business before long. Armed with some new ideas in the way of food, you can start your special season in a spirit.

Pickle Puff Shells (Makes 35-38 shells) Chicken Filling 1 tablespoon butter 1 tablespoon flour

Creamed chicken filling goes into these miniature puffs to make a delicious snack for the next time you entertain the girls for tea or club meeting.

Another demand Christ makes of us is decision. This in three ways: decision for him, decision about him, decision with him.

Gloves Will Save Your Busy Hands "I bless the day I determined to start using gloves to save my hands from a lot of roughness," says a woman who knows the countless hours that can be preserved from bringing hands to good condition.

Now if we have answered the first two demands, for discipline and for decision, we may be ready for the third demand. (This is the decision with him, spoken of just now.) We shall pay very little attention to this. If we have not rightly met the other two, if we are not true learners we shall not even hear this, or shall hear it with a heart that will not understand it.

Lotions and creams will benefit you a great deal, but you must apply these before donning a pair of gloves to let the creams and lotions do their best work without having them rub off.

SHORT STORY Little Ambassador By Jan Johnson

BOBBY moved stealthily through the thick bushes that fringed the winding, little trout stream. The appearance of his eight years of boyish dignity took place at the same time the stalker's eyes gleefully took a big, fighting trout.

3-Minute Fitness Bacon-Olive Tidbits 18 slices bacon 3 tablespoons peanut butter 1 teaspoon mayonnaise

"Don't worry, Irene," he said softly. "I know Bobby was fooling me."

"That was the biggest fish I've hooked all week," the stranger muttered at the fall, brown-haired man. Now what chance did he have in talking this young stranger into helping Irene finish the apple picking?
