McKee makes bridge crisis moves

Special SBA office remains open, moves to City Hall; Council pens letter seeking state assistance

BY MIKE REGO

mrego@eastbaymediagroup.com

Facing mounting scrutiny of his efforts in the matter, specifically, Governor Dan McKee had a busy few days responding to the ever-growing Washington Bridge closure crisis over the last week plus.

McKee announced earlier this week he had requested more aid, both financial and administrative, from the Federal Emergency Management Agency (FEMA). The governor's office also acknowledged the U.S. Department of Justice and the U.S. Department of Transportation's inspector general were both "seeking documents and records related to the Washington Bridge" from the R.I. Department of Transportation about its actions prior to and since the sudden closure of the westbound side of the span on December 11, 2023.

In addition, the governor said Joe Almond, his deputy chief of staff, would be his direct representative on the Rhode Island Department of Transportation staff, providing what the governor termed "cross-agency coordination" for the state's operations on the bridge.

Almond, a former police officer, joined the McKee administration after spending 15 years as Lincoln's elected Town Administrator. McKee cited Almond's experience overseeing both municipal construction projects and law enforcement as reasons why he was moved into the role.

The moves came after McKee and RIDOT Director Peter Alviti at a January 22 press conference admitted publicly for the first time the potential for a complete replacement of the west-bound portion of the 56-year-old structure.

SBA office move

Late last week, McKee said the U.S. Small Business Administration's Business Recovery Center in East Providence would remain open for the foreseeable future. The office will move from the Weaver Library across Grove Avenue into East Providence City Hall.

A press release from the governor's office noted the move would "allow businesses impacted by the Washington Bridge construction additional time to take advantage of the low-interest Economic Injury Disaster Loans and receive support throughout their application process should they need guidance in appeals or in providing additional information to the SBA."

The SBA will continue to monitor the number of businesses utilizing resources at the Business Recovery Center in East Providence and will adjust the hours and length of time the center is needed accordingly. SBA representatives are available to connect virtually, as well as in person at a separate Business Recovery Center located at the North Providence Public Safety Complex. As of January 25, 667 businesses had applied for the loans.

Economic Injury Disaster Loans are working capital loans, which will carry a 4% interest rate (3.25% for non-profits) with a term of up to 30 years to help minimize the impact on the business's cash flow. Applications for loans of up to $2,000,000 may be submitted online using the MySBA Loan Portal at https://lending.sba.gov/search-disaster/?disaster=RI-20001 or locally at the SBA Business Recovery Center.

As of Monday, Jan. 29, the SBA Business Recovery Center will operate at East Providence City Hall, located at 145 Taunton Ave., Monday through Thursday from 8 a.m.-4 p.m.., Friday from 8 a.m.-1 p.m.

Rodericks letter

At-Large member and body President Bob Rodericks made public a letter he penned on behalf of the entire City Council to McKee, calling for the governor to use his powers to immediately assist with East Providence's response to the bridge crisis.

Rodericks wrote in part, "...I respectfully request that you consider enacting a 'State of Emergency' declaration. Possibly the US Army Corps of Engineers can expedite the bridge repairs alongside our RIDOT. The Rhode Island National Guard could also help with traffic control to assist with local East Providence Police efforts during peak hours of gridlock.

"The State needs to pause all non-emergency DOT projects throughout R.I. and concentrate all its resources into fixing the Washington Bridge. All efforts need to be focused on this major catastrophe. The everyday livelihood has affected many city, state and regional residents.

It continued, "East Providence is bearing the brunt of this problem. I hope that an emergency declaration will help East Providence be reimbursed for the many expenses the city is incurring. Our neighborhoods, schools, emergency services, our overall infrastructure is suffering and not due to the fault of East Providence government or residents.

"I'm asking the state to reimburse East Providence for all expenses tied to this problem. Our streets are being worn down as many trucks and motorists in the East Bay and nearby Massachusetts are cutting through our side streets and neighborhoods looking for a bypass solution. The state needs to provide necessary resources to repair these streets ASAP once the bridge is repaired."

Police details

As part of the state's response to the bridge crisis, members of the East Providence Police Department who serve traffic details at detours and intersections will be gaining a few extra dol-

At its meeting last week, the Council approved an amendment to the current contract with the union of officers specific to the bridge-related details allowing for an across-the-board $20 per hour increase in the pay rate. For emphasis, the increase for details pertaining to traffic control measures due to the bridge crisis, nowhere else.

It was noted all of the bridge police detail expenses are being paid for by RIDOT. The city may pay the officers, but will be reimbursed by the state.

Travel advisory

Also of note from law enforcement, the EPPD issued a travel advisory for those motorists who attempt to access I-195 via the Freeborn Avenue ramp off Broadway.

When approaching from the south, police are asking drivers to use utilize the middle lane of travel in addition to the far lefthand lane. The department said it was alerting motorists of their ability to use the middle lane because drivers attempting to get left are creating a log jam that extends into the Warren Avenue intersection.

Second perpetrator finally sentenced in A'Vant murder case

Providence man will serve 28 years in state prison for 2024 killing in city

Post Staff

PROVIDENCE — Evan Watson, who has been incarcerated since 2016, was finally formally sentenced for his involvement in the 2014 murder of Yusef A'Vant in East Providence.

Attorney General Peter F. Neronha announced Watson, 39 and from Providence, was ordered to serve 28 years at the Adult Correctional Institutions (ACI) Providence County Superior Court Justice Robert D. Krause on January 22.

Watson pleaded guilty on October 18, 2016, to one count of second-degree murder, one count of conspiracy to commit murder, and one count of possession of a firearm without a license.

"These senseless acts of gun violence cause immeasurable pain and suffering to victims and their families," said Attorney General Neronha. "Yusef A'Vant's family has lived with his loss for nearly 10 years now. I am grateful that this defendant has been held accountable for his role in Yusef's murder and hope this sentencing brings some measure of peace to his family. I commend the East Providence Police and the entire investigative and prosecution team for their work on this complex case."

On February 28, 2020, a co-defendant, Thomas Mosely, 39, was found guilty of one count of second-degree murder and one count of discharging a firearm during the commission of a crime of violence, resulting in death, following a 12-day jury trial. On June 10, 2021, Mosely was sentenced to life in prison.

During the Watson trial, the state proved beyond a reasonable doubt that during the afternoon of April 13, 2014, the defendant both provided the gun and drove Mosely to the barbershop where the victim worked. According to the only witness in the barbershop, Mosley entered the business while holding a silver revolver and ordered the witness to get on the floor. Mosely confronted A'Vant and, after a brief struggle, shot him in the abdomen before fleeing from the scene. First responders rushed the victim to the hospital, but he succumbed to his injuries and passed shortly thereafter.

In the ensuing days, police released a sketch artist's rendering of the suspect, presumed now to be Mosely. The EPPD worked in concert with their counterparts from Providence and the State Police deliberately investigated the case for nearly a year before Mosely's arrest was announced on July 8, 2015. The pair were indicted on August 29, 2016.

Mosely entered A'vant's place of business on Pawtucket Avenue, "Krazy Kuts" barbershop and salon, and fired at least one gun shot at the victim, who was cutting a customer's hair. The patron of the business was uninjured. According to eyewitnesses at the time of the shooting, the suspect fled the scene by car, believed to be driven by Evans, heading towards Interstate 195 just down the road. A'Vant, a 42-year-old father, died as a result of his wounds.

"The East Providence Police Department works tirelessly to bring justice to those who commit terrible acts of gun violence," said East Providence Police Chief Christopher Francesconi. "I hope this sentencing helps POLICE REPORT

Trail car crash takes the lives of both driver, passenger

The Barrington Police Department identified the two victims of a car crash that happened Saturday morning in the southbound lane of the Wampanoag Trail, just past the East Providence/Barrington line.

Police reported out Monday, Jan. 22, the male driver of the car was Yusbel Rivero Hernandez, 33, a resident of Pawtucket. The female passenger was Adiena A. Pupo Quile, 23, a resident of Providence. Police were alerted to the accident at 8:13 a.m. on Saturday, Jan. 20, from the E 911 center of an "accident with possible injuries."

Barrington Police and Barrington Fire Department personnel responded and found a single car off the roadway in the woods. The vehicle sustained heavy damage. Both occupants were transported to Rhode Island Hospital, where they were pronounced dead. Both of the victims were using seat belts. Investigators have determined that speed appears to be a factor. Barrington Police accident reconstruction officers and detectives are investigating. In the statement released Monday evening, Barrington Police said they actively patrol the Wampanoag Trail to deter speeding, and they will be increasing those efforts. Per the statement: "In the last six months (June 2023 to December 2023) the Barrington Police Department has issued 208 speeding violations and 367 verbal warnings for speeding on Wampanoag Trail and parts of County Road (East Providence line to County Road and Sullivan Terrace). In order to continue to reduce speeds on the Trail, the Department will be adding one additional speed patrol, which is supported by grant funding."

Grand jury indicts alleged molestation perpetrator

On January 19, the Providence County Grand Jury returned an indictment charging Oliveiro Pereira, 35 and of Pawtucket, with two counts of first-degree child molestation, and one count of first-degree sexual assault. The alleged acts occurred on diverse dates between December 2017 and April 2023 in the cities of East Providence and Pawtucket. The East Providence and Pawtucket Police Departments conducted the investigation. The defendant is scheduled to be arraigned on February 7, in Providence County Superior Court.

Reached for further information, EPPD Public Information Officer Captain Michael J. Rapoza said the complaint originated out of Pawtucket with a sexual assault that occurred there. The EPPD Special Victims Unit investigated claims of sexual assault in the city as well. The victim was a minor child known to the suspect. It was a cooperative investigation between both agencies.

the victim's family to continue to heal. I am grateful for the work of our detectives and officers, as well as the Attorney General's Office, during the investigation and prosecution of this case."

Assistant Attorneys General Scott Erickson

and Robert E. Johnson IV of the Office of the Attorney General and the East Providence Police Department led the investigation and prosecution of the case, with assistance from the Providence Police Department and the Rhode Island State Police.

East Providence gets grant to fix Crescent Park coastal bluff

City receives $1.8 million for continued response to shoreline erosion

East Providence will receive a sizable share of the latest Rhode Island Infrastructure Bank "Action Grants," Executive Director Bill Fazioli and Gov. Dan McKee announced late last week, the city accessing $1.8 million for continued shoreline repair at Crescent Park.

A total of $12 million will be dispersed to 35 of the state's 39 municipalities for participants of the Municipal Resilience Program for the implementation of projects to increase their climate resilience. The funds comes from the Green Bond referendum approved by voters at the November 2022 election, which provided for $16 million for municipal resilience projects and was part of McKee's FY2023 budget.

"Investing in Rhode Island's communities isn't just a prudent decision but a crucial step in securing a resilient future. The impacts of flooding and storms have been wide-ranging throughout our state, but with this funding from the voter-approved Green Bond, we can mitigate those risks, improve our response, and adapt to meet the climate change challenge," McKee said.

Applications are screened and chosen by a selection committee composed of representatives from the Infrastructure Bank, the Rhode Island Department of Environmental Management, Statewide Planning and the Coastal Resources Management Council.

"In just the last few weeks, communities across Rhode Island have experienced the effects of extreme storms, severe flooding, and coastal erosion, all of which are anticipated to increase due to the impacts of climate change," said Fazioli, an East Providence resident and former Planning Department director in the city.

He continued, "Rhode Island needs to invest in resilient infrastructure solutions now, and that is exactly what this $12 million in 20 Municipal Resilience Program Action Grants will allow 19 communities across our state to do. We look forward to continuing to work with our city and town partners through the Municipal Resilience Program, and to partnering with our state and federal leaders to create a sustainable financial framework to address the mounting challenges posed by acute and chronic climate related events."

The Municipal Resilience Program also receives backing from the non-profit The Nature Conservancy. Municipalities are eligible to submit applications for MRP Action Grants with a 25% local match requirement. For this round grants, the Infrastructure Bank received 41 proposals from 30 communities, totaling $52 million in grant requests.

"As recent storms have once again demonstrated, municipalities across the state are already feeling the impacts of climate change – from severe flooding, to coastal erosion, to property damage," said Sue AnderBois, The Nature Conservancy's Director of Climate and Government Relations. "The Nature Conservancy is proud to have partnered with the Infrastructure Bank to bring these planning workshops to 35 of the state's 39 municipalities, and we are so pleased to see municipalities taking advantage of these action grants to implement the recommendations from their workshops"

Specifically, East Providence requested its funding for "Crescent Park Shoreline Protection & Slope Stabilization."

In its application summary, the city explained it will use the monies to "construct slope stabilization measures at the city's Crescent Park waterfront. This grant would fund Phase 2 of the city's planned efforts which includes construction of approximately 250 feet of hybrid shoreline protection measures to protect the coastal bluff. Protection will consist of a stone revetment backed by a coir log system and a vegetated slope."

According to industry descriptions, coir logs are an "erosion control fiber roll used for soil stabilization and erosion control applications on streams and slopes." They are designed to last anywhere from two to five years as permanent vegetation grows around them.

The city's summary also noted recent attempts to address the once-failing seawall at Crescent Park, specifically its use of federal COVID response American Rescue Plan Act (ARPA) funding and other sources to rebuild portions of the structure. The latest round of grant dollars are earmarked to "address crucial erosion issues with this hybrid approach to the slope immediately to the south."

Of the funding announcement for the city, Mayor Bob DaSilva said, "Preserving and protecting our treasured shoreline is of the utmost importance to our administration. We are experiencing more frequent and severe storms that have eroded our beaches. We are so grateful to the Rhode Island Infrastructure Bank for its support /investment in our city, which will go a long way in protecting this beautiful natural resource that we call Crescent Beach."

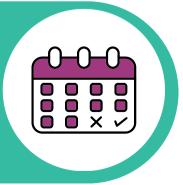

Added Ward 4 City Councilor Rick Lawson, in whose district the park is located, "Any investment is Crescent Park is a good investment. I'm grateful we have access to these funds to ensure Crescent Park will be enjoyed by Townies for many more years."

EP's Lawson lists legislative aims, talks new role as Majority Whip

State Senator is elevated to leadership role in upper chamber

mrego@eastbaymediagroup.com

Senate Majority Whip Valarie Lawson (D-Dist. 14, East Providence) recently elaborated on becoming a member of the leadership team in the upper chamber, saying she was "anxious to get to work addressing the urgent challenges facing our state, particularly with regard to education, health care, and housing."

Lawson, an instructor at East Providence High School and president of the state teachers' union, listed the following as among her priorities: Expansion of Temporary Caregiver Insurance, or TCI, from 6 to 12 weeks, which is the standard recommended time for bonding with a newborn. TCI is paid leave from work to bond with a new child or care for an ailing loved one; Make permanent the 2022 state law she sponsored requiring insurance coverage of PANDAS/PANS. This is a pediatric neuropsychiatric syndrome that can manifest following strep throats. Symptoms are very serious, and it is a nightmare for children and families; Reintroducing legislation to allow wineries to sell up to three five-ounce glasses and three 750-ml bottles per customer per day on their premises. Breweries and distilleries in Rhode Island are allowed to sell a limited amount of their product on site. That's true even though many of their ingredients come from around the world. Wineries, however, are not allowed to sell their product on site unless the fruit was grown in Rhode Island. This is a local issue brought to her attention by winemakers James Davids and Marissa Stashenko, owners of Anchor and Hope, a winery in Rumford. They partner with family farms to produce small batches of artisan wine, and because some of the grapes they use are grown out of state, they cannot sell their product onsite. The bill would change that.

Lawson added, "As legislators, we should be doing everything we can to support small businesses. This is a small change, but for these businesses, and for our community, it will have a big impact. Customers should be able to come see the wine being made and share a glass with the winemakers."

ASSEMBLY NOTEBOOK

Governor McKee submits FY2025 state budget proposal

Governor Daniel McKee submitted his FY 2025 state budget proposal to the General Assembly this week. The $13.7 billion proposal (2024-H 7225) was introduced by House Finance Committee Chairman Marvin L. Abney (D-Dist. 73, Newport, Middletown). Both the House and Senate Finance Committees will hold public hearings on the budget proposal over the next several months.

SNAP Pilot Program to reward purchases of fruits and vegetables

Senate Majority Whip Valarie Lawson (D-Dist. 14, East Providence) and Sen. Jonathon Acosta (D-Dist. 16, Central Falls, Pawtucket) attended the launch of the statewide Eat Well, Be Well Pilot Rewards Program. Senator Lawson sponsored the legislation (2022-S 2310A) that funded this program, the first statewide program of its kind in the country, which provides Supplemental Nutrition Assistance Program recipients with up to $25 a month in additional benefits for purchasing eligible fruits and vegetables.

Rep. Shanley introduces legislation to establish statewide secure choice retirement savings plan

Rep. Evan P. Shanley (D-Dist. 24, Warwick, East Greenwich), has introduced legislation that would establish a convenient, low-cost voluntary retirement savings plan for Rhode Islanders. The Rhode Island Secure Choice Retirement Savings Program (2024-H 7121), which would be administered by the office of the General Treasurer, would see retirement savings accumulated in individual accounts for the exclusive benefit of the participants or their beneficiaries. The bill would see no fiscal impact on the state budget. Under the legislation, the General Treasurer would be charged with collecting contributions through payroll deductions and investing these funds in accordance with best practice for retirement savings vehicles. The General Treasurer would also be responsible for setting minimum and maximum contribution levels in accordance with contribution limits set for IRAs by the Internal Revenue Code. The act would become effective for all eligible employers within 36 months of the opening of the program enrollment following a phased implementation period. Several other states, including neighboring Connecticut, have already established secure choice programs and others are currently establishing them. Among the biggest beneficiaries are small businesses and their employees. Approximately 70% of workers at companies with fewer than ten employees have no access to retirement savings through work. The legislation has been referred to the House Finance Committee. A similar measure (2024-S 2045) has been introduced in the Senate by Sen. Meghan E. Kallman (D-Dist. 15, Pawtucket, Providence).

Lawson, Giraldo bill would expand parental, caregiving leave

Senate Majority Whip Valarie Lawson (D-Dist. 14, East Providence) and Rep. Joshua J. Giraldo (D-Dist. 56, Central Falls) are sponsoring legislation (2024-S 2121, 2024-H 7171) to expand Rhode Island's Temporary Caregiver Insurance (TCI) program from six weeks to 12. That would bring Rhode Island into line with other states and allow new parents more time for parental leave and caregivers more time to care for a critically ill family member. Rhode Island became the third state in the nation to offer paid parental leave in 2013 when legislators created the TCI program. TCI, which is paid for through payroll deductions, allows new parents to take six weeks of paid leave to bond with and care for their child. It also allows individuals to take this time to care for a seriously family member. That can prove vital for a working adult who needs to care for their spouse after a surgery or a terminally ill parent. Since 2013, however, many other states have surpassed Rhode Island's leave offerings. Currently, 11 states and the District of Columbia offer paid parental leave, with two additional states set to offer it beginning in 2026. Most offer 12 weeks, while Rhode Island offers the least amount of time at just six weeks. Individuals on TCI in Rhode Island receive 60% of their normal salary. Of the ten states that offer similar programs, most workers receive at least 80%. In Massachusetts, workers receive 80% of their salary for 12 weeks. Workers in nearby Connecticut receive 95% of their salary for 12 weeks.

What's next on the bridge?

To the editor

So, it looks like East Bay's chickens are coming home to roost. Amidst swirling rumors RIDOT admits now that the 195 bridge, at best, will take several months to fix, if not need to be demolished and rebuilt. Millions of dollars of expense will blow a significant hole in the budget and commuters will be subjected to traffic tortures for months if not years.

How did we get here?

Last week our East Bay legislators filed a collective letter to RIDOT, demanding updates to themselves(!), so they can inform frustrated constituents. Why such a move from people, who are barely in touch with town governments, never mind voters? Well, elections will be upon us soon and maybe this time the electorate will see that our representatives do not represent us much.

For years, questions had been raised about East Bay (and the state as a whole) infrastructure — power, roads, flooding mitigation. And for years those were brushed aside as non-important, with budget money constantly allocated to everything else, from digital security labs to soccer stadiums. Meanwhile critical infrastructure, like the 195 bridge, was shoddily inspected and shoddily repaired. Here is the result.

When we had issues with Deloite, or child services, or when our legislature was in hiding during Covid and two governors acted like dictators, voters kept silent and put the same people in office. Now we have Issue affecting all of us, and our legislators once again proved to be useless, except to write a letter and have a Zoom meeting with the head of RIDOT.

Expect same behavior in the future, but what will fall apart next?

How is the economy so 'bad'?

To the editor:

How bad is reality right now? Unemployment down, under 4 percent for two years.

Employment up, with hundreds of thousands of jobs added every month.

Wages up, if only slightly, but recently rising faster than inflation.

Inflation down from nearly 9 percent to just over 3 percent; mortgage rates falling.

Gas down from nearly $4 to under $3, at least in Southern New England.

The stock market is doing very well, thank you, for those invested.

So tell me: how is the economy so

Well, housing is still an issue, thanks to vulture (oh, sorry) venture capitalists. Single-family homes are being converted to short-term rentals for the already wealthy vacationers, while the service economy workers who serve them can't find a place to live

We're still relying way too much on fossil fuels, and the frequent storms are battering the coast around here, and everything everywhere else.

Women's rights stalled out, and under attack by the Supreme Court, but corporate "rights" are their primary concern. So there's work to be done yet. I would like to be hopeful, for the sake of my offspring.

Vote to ban 'assault rifles' is unnecessary

To the editor:

In response to last week's letter to the editor by John and Linda Dacey ("Rhode Island is rated 49th in democracy"), let's start from the beginning: The Bill of Rights.

U.S. Constitution, 2nd Amendment, ratified Dec. 15, 1791: "A well regulated Militia, being necessary to the security of a free State, the right of the people to keep and bear Arms, shall not be infringed."

Then move along to the Rhode Island Constitution, Section 22, Right to bear arms, effective in May 1843: "The right of the people to keep and bear arms shall not be infringed." (Yes, this is actually written into the Rhode Island Constitution.)

What about that? Considering that both the federal Constitution and the Rhode Island Constitution forbid the infringement of our right to keep and bear arms, I would think a vote to ban "assault rifles" would be totally unnecessary. Said vote would be unconstitutional. Maybe that's the reason it won't get brought to the floor.

Our forefathers put procedures in place to change our Constitution. Take a vote in Congress, then hand to the states, the repeal of the Second Amendment. When that's done, vote to change the state Constitution. Once both constitutions no longer protect the right to bear arms, then, and only then, can you vote to ban the "assault rifle."

And while we're on the subject, what exactly is an "assault rifle"? The definition seems to be very subjective, changing with every person I talk to. Similar to what Justice Potter Stewart said of obscenity in 1964: "I know it when I see it." But that can be a discussion for another day.

'Maggie' reminds of us an awful part of our history and not to repeat it

BY MIKE FINK

I have a friend and former student named "Karen" who lives in East Providence and who devoted her life to her Japanese mother, who had been "interned" during World War II. I heard about a book written and illustrated by two survivors of that dreadful chapter in our national history, but it was not an easy task to find that memoir. I tried several local and admirable bookstores to no avail. They claimed they could not locate the volume, but I persisted and finally, with my wife's help, eureka! I found it and hereby file this report.

"Hello, Maggie" is a collaboration between two survivors of this long-past ordeal, Shigeru Yabu, the words, and Willie Ito, the illustrator. Maggie, by the way, is a magpie, a bird related to the crow and the jay, the victim of a slingshot that brought it down from a tree! The children's book is a tragedy that ends with the death of the beloved pet and includes its funeral, but it struck me as a valuable and vivid

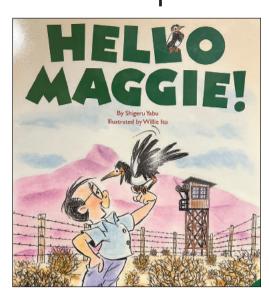

With poignant reminders of historical facts and no compromises with the ironies, Japanese-American G.I. troops fought in the European theatre heroically and earned the title "Purple Heart Battalion."

My wife sent for the splendid and superb work of art and heart somehow as a birthday gift, and every detail in text and design is perfect and admirable. Hope may well be the thing with feathers that perches in the human soul and if so, its name must indeed be "Maggie." Try your hardest, somehow, to get ahold of

"Hello, Maggie!" and you will thank me for recommending it. I can't tell you how to proceed, but the pathos, sadness, and cheerful boyish survival instinct will inspire you with courage, on every page, including the back page "About the Author" and "About the Illustrator.'

And I add my own debt of congratulatory gratitude to my pal "Karen" right here in our loyal town with its row of statues to the heroic victims of our national wars.

Important public meetings are scheduled on latest Metacomet developments

To the editor:

With the unveiling of the Metacomet/Marshall Properties development pre plan, which seems to be lacking crucial and obligatory studies, the public can now see why the Veterans Memorial Parkway is in danger of extinction. The Marshall/ Metacomet plan shows at least two rotaries/roundabouts on the Veterans Memorial Parkway. Heavy development is being planned for both sides of the VMP with traffic signals dotting the neighborhood streets.

The first rotary is planned for the intersection of South Broadway and the VMP, where flooding is rampant already and the intersection has had to be closed down several times. The second rotary, at the intersection of Lyons Ave and the VMP, will cross over and deliver traffic from the parkway down to the real waterfront and will connect to the new Waterfront Drive. A leisurely drive on the 'Vets' will be an impossibility with traffic from the proposed developments on both sides adding thousands of cars to the already stop and go traffic at rush hour. Current bridge fiasco excluded.

Although the VMP is more than eligible to be on the National Register of Historic Places, when KMG pursued this honor the 'leadership' of East Providence denied the survey needed for the application. KMG was astounded to hear that since the VMP was already considered as being on the NRHP, there was no need to have a survey recorded for the NRHP application. Of course KMG questioned who attended this so called meeting to decide the VMPs fate. No definitive answer was given although KMG was told the EP mayor made the decision.

The complete disregard for the historical lands of East Providence continues with the stalling of an archeological survey of the Metacomet gc land which is considered a highly sensitive area for an Indigenous village and perhaps burials. RI Historical Preservation and Heritage Commission has announced their recommendation for an archeological survey. East Providence higher ups have been silent on the subject although probable ancient shell heaps have been found on the Metacomet land . Marshall Properties had an archeological assent completed by Public Archeological Laboratories which is not a survey but it does include a walk through observing the lands. The elevated lands of the golf course were found to be highly sensitive as RIHPHC had said. Marshalls plan has the elevated land being destroyed to fill in the lower Slowly but surely East Providences historical areas are being destroyed by developers and our own city government, seemingly in search of money and power with little regard for the neighborhoods being decimated by overdevelopment. When one sits back and say 'What a shame but nothing we can do, you are giving your permission to let Marshall Properties and the EPWC destroy our close knit city and the beautiful lands that make East Providence home.

2 critical meetings to attend are the Design Review Committee on Feb 13 at 6:00PM and EP Waterfront Commission Public hearing on Feb 15 at 6:30 PM both at EP City Hall. Public comment is requested but not required. However if you don't speak up, who will?

Unbeaten Purple out-'class' Townies in boys' hoops

EPHS ends recent losing skid with road win over Woonsocket

BY MIKE REGO

It's been a proverbial rollercoaster of a season for the East Providence High School boys' basketball team so far in 2023-24.

The Townies have followed so-so start to their Division I slate with a five-game winning streak then a three-game losing skid, which culminated on January 23 with a gutwrenching home loss to Westerly. But the locals closed out last week by ending their slide with a solid road win over Woonsocket.

Turn the page to this week and East Providence welcomed the league's unbeaten pace-setter to the city as Classical visited the Townies on Tuesday night, Jan. 30.

And after a slow start, the Purple showed exactly why they have yet to be beaten. The guests ran roughshod over the locals in the third quarter, turning a one-point halftime deficit into a 12-point lead en route to a commanding 77-60 win.

The Townies closed out the month with a 7-6 record in league games while Classical improved to 14-0.

Asked for his overall impressions of the first-place Purple, EPHS head coach Joe Andrade said, "They've got five guys who can score, who can shoot, who are athletic. They're physical. One through five, they're the best team. Can another team give them problems? Yeah, but right now they're the best I've seen. Do I think a LaSalle (10-1 league record), a Barrington (10-1) or a Hendricken (9-3) could five them a problem? Yeah, but no one has given them a problem yet."

Westerly notes

EP's recent streak of losses reached three after the Townies suffered a last-second 65-62 loss to visiting Westerly Wednesday night, Jan. 24.

East Providence and the Bulldogs remained close throughout most of the night. Antonio Varela made a rare appearance off the Townie bench, draining a 3-pointer to put the locals up 15-12 late in the first quarter. He was actually fouled on the missed but missed the free throw. Westerly leveled the score with a 3 of its own before the end of the period

East Providence would eventually take a 30-25 lead to the intermission, helped in part by back-to-back dunks by Kenaz Ochgwu early in the second quarter. Westerly responded with a surge in the third quarter to take a slim 43-42 lead at the end of the third.

The game remained tight until the waning moments when the Townies tied the score on a Christian Torres drive to the hoop with just under 10 seconds to play. However, the Bulldogs hit a deep 3 from the right hash mark about 30 feet out at the buzzer to earn the victory.

Ochgwu, the Townies' center, continued his superb senior season with 20 points and eight rebounds. Tyler Gomez finished with 12 points and Torres 11.

"It's a game you think you should've had," Andrade said of the last-second loss to the Bulldogs. "Now we have to go try to find a game to get somewhere else like pick up a win against a North Kingstown or a Narragansett or Cranston East. But those games are always tough, especially on the road."

Woonsocket notes

The Townies, however, did snap their skid in their next outing, a gutsy 64-48 road win over Woonsocket Friday night, Jan. 26. East Providence opened up an early 13-point lead before the host Villa Novans answered to tie the score at 22 by intermission.

The locals, though, broke the game open with a 23-7 run in the third quarter to lead 45-29 heading into the final 18 minutes. Ochgwu seven in the spree. Franklin Lopez had five, including a 3, and Levi Jacobs four.

Jacobs led the Townies with a night-best 18 points. He had 10 alone in the first quarter. Ochgwu had 15, Torres eight, Gomez seven and Brandyn Van Wagner seven.

"We played well as a team in the second half. Kenaz and Levi played well the whole game," Andrade of the away win over the Novans.

Classical notes

The Townies opened up an 8-2 lead to begin the game with Classical as the visitors missed their first handful of attempts from the floor. EP would later lead 13-4 on a Torres triple, but the Purple finally found the range. The visitors closed the first on an 11-3 run to trail 18-15 at the end of the opening period.

Cracks in the Townies' performance started to show in the second quarter. The locals got a little loose with the ball and started missing some shots, while their guests continued to find their footing. The Purple scored six of the last eight points of the half to trail 31-30 heading to the locker room.

Classical put it all together in the third period. The Purple ran their offensive sets near perfectly, managed the ball well and put the clamps down defensively. Meanwhile, the mistakes piled up for East Providence and their offensive execution evaporated.

The teams traded hoops to begin the third before Classical gradually pulled away. EP's last lead proved to be 38-35 on a Jacobs' drive. The Purple made a 3 to tie it then took their first lead, 40-38, on a short jumper from the baseline with just under two minutes played.

Moving in front was part of a 14-0 spree for the visitors, which concluded with just over three minutes to go in the quarter at Classical built its first double figure edge, 49-38, on a putback of a miss. A Gomez jumper from the baseline made the score 54-42 going into the fourth.

After Torres made a layup for the locals to begin the final period, the Purple just methodically added to their lead. It reached a night high of 19 for the first of two times after Classical made a pair of free throws to make it 65-46 midway through the quarter. A Jacobs layup with a couple minutes left brought EP back to within 13, 70-57, but the locals could get no closer.

"I thought the difference was transition defense, they can make shots, we missed a lot of layups and free throws," Andrade said of Classical's rally.

JULIE FURTA

East Providence High School's Levi Jacobs drops in two of his team-best 14 points for the Townies in their Division I boys' basketball loss to visiting and first-place Classical Tuesday night, Jan. 30. View more photos from the contest in Sports at eastbayri.com.

He continued, "They made shots and we didn't. This is how they've been all year. They get down, they stay close then they break it open. You know they're going to have a run. They're too good not to go on a run, but we couldn't stop it. They're good and they have a lot of experience."

Gomez and Jacobs shared team-best scoring honors with 14 points each. Torres added 11 and Ochgwu had nine. Lopez had six. Derrell Liggins and Jaydason Barros each made a 3 off the EP bench.

Up next

The Townies are set to place twice more this week when they travel to North Kingstown Thursday night, Feb. 1, for a Division I contest at 7 p.m. then travel to play a league matinee Saturday afternoon at 1 on the road against Cranston East.

East Providence has an addition two D-I contests on the docket next week, remaining on the road Wednesday, Feb. 7, for a game in Narragansett at 7 p.m. before returning home to face East Greenwich Friday night, Feb. 9, at 6 o'clock.

Townies drop a pair of tight, Division I wrestling matches

Akdemir wins weight class at Connecticut Challenge tourney

The East Providence High School wrestling team suffered a pair of two-point, Division I dual meet losses over the last week including a 36-34 to visiting North Providence Thursday night, Jan. 25, at Ramos Gym.

The Townies, were coming off a similar twopoint defeat the night prior in Warwick against Bishop Hendricken, saw their record level to 2-2.

A win in the penultimate match of the evening by the guests at 215 pounds proved the decisive bout of the night. The Cougars broke out to an early 9-0 lead over their hosts, winning at 106 on points (three points toward team total) and at 113 via pin (six points). EP answered with consecutive pins to take a 12-9 edge as Aydin Schifino won 1 minute, 23 seconds into his contest at 120 and Jon Raposo won 50 seconds into his bout at 126.

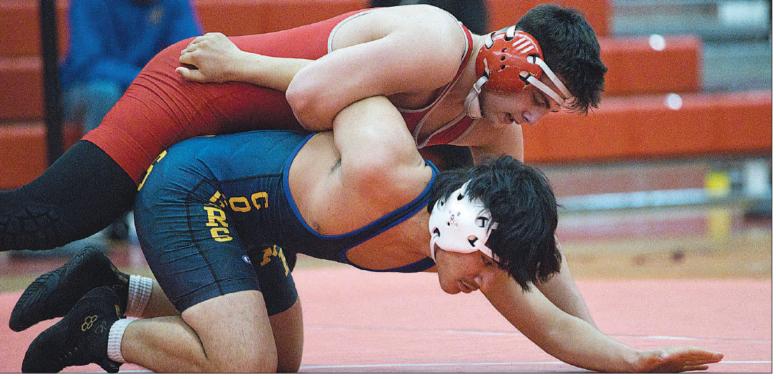

North Providence leveled with a decision at 132 before EP's Charles Phillips won by major decision at 138 (four points). The Cougars continued the back-and-forth nature of the night with pins at 144 and 150 to go back on top 24-16.

The Townies answered to go back in front 25-24 with a win by decision at 157 by Simon Palumbo and Ferhat Akdemir's pin at 1:12 of the third period at 165.

The teams then traded pinfall wins at 175 for the Cougars and Jordan Carl for the Townies (58 seconds into the second period) at 195.

The deciding contest was one of, if not the most competitive of the entire evening and was evident of how close the two sides were.

North's Eddie Vasquez, up 9-8 at the time, registered a pin over EP's Joe Vito mid-way through the second period of their match at 215 pounds to put the Cougars back in front 36-31.

The Townies' Machar Francis knew he needed to pin his Cougar counterpart Will Francis at heavyweight to give EP the overall victory.

There was little action for most of the match. Francis led 2-0 through two periods before attempting to score the pinfall win, but couldn't hold his foe's shoulders to the mat long enough, settling for a 9-3 decision and just three points.

Over the weekend, the EPHS wrestlers vied in the annual Connecticut Challenge at Southington High School where the Townies shared fifth place in the team ranks with their hosts while the aforementioned North Providence won the tournament.

The Cougars scored 136 points to edge two other Connecticut schools, Enfield and Turnbull, which finished in a share of second with 132. West Springfield, Mass. was fourth alone with 125. EP and Southington shared fifth with 116 ahead of rival LaSalle, which finished seventh with 94 points.

Akdemir continued his string of fine finishes, winning the 165-pound class with a pin of Alec Mertz, of Fairfield/ Ludlowe (Conn.) late in the third period at 5:31. All three of Akdemir's wins were via pin. He began with a quick stoppage at 54 seconds of the first period then took care of LaSalle's Adryan Urena in the semis 1:20 into the match.

Three other Townies fell in their respective finals. Brendan Bernard was pinned at 1:16 of the first period at 132 by Ethan Buonanducci of Enfield. At 157 Tyler Neiva of Trumbull (Conn.) scored a tech fall win over Palumbo up 16-0 early in the third. And Francis was pinned mid-way through the third period (5:16) by Enfield's Keonta Crawford.

All of Bernard's results, good and bad, were via pins. He trailed his opening round match 4-0 before recording a pin 41 seconds into the second period. He won his quarter by pin also in the third at 4:54. He then took his semi again by pin and once more from a losing position, down 8-4 before winning 20 seconds left in the second.

Palumbo opened his tournament with a pinfall win at 1:20 of the first then was a victor by decision 5-0 before recording another win by pin in the semis just nine seconds into the third period.

Francis won a pair of matches en route to the final after receiving an opening round bye. In the quarters, he earned a 3-2 decision then took care of semifinal by pin at with just three seconds left in the first period.

Phillips added the lone third-place result for the locals, defeating Hood Mohsin of West Springfield by a 12-7 score at 138 pounds. Phillips won twice to open the tournament by pin, 1:49 and 4:09, before falling to eventual tourney champ Jay Chase of Sheehan (Wallingford, Conn.), 5-4. He wrestled back to win his consolation semi by pin at 4:43. Chase took the title with a tech fall win over Noah Riley of North Providence, 16-0, at 2:26 of the second period.

EP's Olson stars with four goals in girls' hockey co-op win

Townies cap home swim slate, remain unbeaten in D-IV ranks

East Providence High School freshman Sydney Olson had a break-out performance last weekend as she potted four goals to lead the East Bay Eagles girls' high school co-op to a 7-6 victory over the Cranston co-op Saturday night, Jan. 27, at the Cranston Veterans Memorial Ice Rink.

Olson ended play last week as the team's leading goal scorer to date with seven and in a share of the team points lead at 10 apiece with Arden Wilkes, who had an assist Satur-

The rest of the East Bay scoring included: Ruby Turgeon 1 goal, 2 assists; Eleni Drosnios, 1 goal; Addyson Whittet 1 goal, 1 assist; Margaux Boneu 4 assists; and Reilly Porado

Of most importance, the Eagles snapped a three-game slide with the win. East Bay improved to 3-6-0 in the Interscholastic League girls' division standings. The Eagles entered the current week in sixth place. The unbeaten (7-0-2) South County co-op sits atop the league table.

Boys' hockey

The East Bay Huskies boys' hockey co-op dropped a pair of Division II outings last weekend. The locals lost to the Cranston coop 9-1 and Lincoln High 8-2 to see their record fall to 1-8-0 in the standings.

Nathan Carpenter scored his second goal of the season off an assist by Ben Browne in the Cranston setback. The same pair repeated their effort against Lincoln while Browne accounted for the other East Bay tally with a short-handed goal.

Girls' basketball

After picking up its second win of the Division I regular season early last week, the EPHS girls' basketball team took the next several days off before returning to action Monday night, Jan. 29, at home against neighboring Bay View.

The visiting Bengals, who have the thirdbest record overall in the league, scored the first 10 points of the contest and were never challenged en route to the 56-26 win. Bay View led 27-6 at halftime and 42-11 at the end of three. The Bengals improved to 11-2 in the league. Amelia Polichetti led all scorers with 18 points for the guests. Ava Wasylow added 15. Qiana Sumner chipped in seven, Victoria Vieira and Madison Gomes six each while East Providence resident Jamie Andrews had four.

The Townies dropped to 2-10 with the loss, following their win last week over Rogers on the road. Zarae Hall led the locals with 10 points. Trinity Provencher had a season-best eight off the bench. Leading scorer Harmonie McDowell was held to just two. Layla Bates, Madisyn Risco and Denelle Solano Guerrero each chipped in a bucket.

Gymnastics

The rebuilding Rogers/East Providence High School gymnastics co-op has been led to date in the 2023-24 season by Townie junior Carter Bessette, the top returning performer to the squad and team captain.

Bessette is seeking to cinch a return to the upcoming Midge Palmer State Individual Championship Meet in which last year she competed on floor.

So far, Bessette has earned one of two minimum qualifying scores needed to make it back to states in the event with her 8.3 tally during the co-op's outing against Portsmouth and West Warwick on January 14. She's also recorded a pair of 8.25s and an 8.0 in the locals' three other meets this season.

Bessette's best all-around performance came in the same Portsmouth-West Warwick outing. She scored a 7.9 on vault and 8.0 on beam with a 5.3 on bars for a 29.5

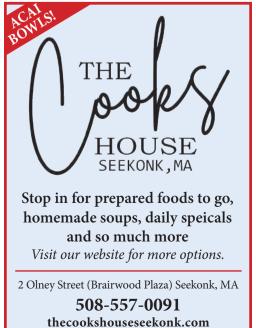

Another of the EPHS returnees to squad, sophomore Jade Taswell earned scores of 6.8 and 6.7, respectively, on beam and floor for the co-op during its meet January 21 against Westerly and Prout/Exeter-West Greenwich.

Libraries engage in '1,000 Books Before Kindergarten' campaign

Families are invited to join the "1,000 Books Before Kindergarten" program at East Providence Public Library! The 1,000 Books Before Kindergarten program is a nationwide challenge that encourages parents and caregivers to regularly read aloud to their children. By reading just one book a night, families can reach the 1,000-book goal in three years and provide their children essential early literacy skills. Research shows that the most reliable predictor of school success is being read to during early childhood. Reading to children from an early age can help close the vocabulary gap and prepare children to enter kindergarten with the skills they need to succeed. Most importantly, sharing books with children promotes a lifelong love of books and reading. The 1,000 Books Before Kindergarten program is available to all families with children between the ages of birth and six years. Registration is open! For every 100 books you read with your child, visit the library for a special prize. For more information, call the library at 401-434-2453 or visit our website at www.eastprovidencelibrary.org.

Newman plans 'Let Justice Roll' for early March

On Sunday, March 3, at 3 p.m., Newman Congregational Church, United Church of Christ is pleased to present a concert titled Let Justice Roll. This concert will feature Let Justice Roll, an original cantata celebrating Dr. Martin Luther King, Jr. by African American composer Mark Miller. Also on the program are several spirituals and works with a racial justice theme. This concert will be performed by the combined choirs of Newman Congregational Church, UCC, the First Baptist Church in America, and other singers to join the cause. Geoffrey Greene and Stephen Martorella are the music ministers, and featured soloists are Becky Bass, soprano, Neil Letendre, tenor, and Venson Jordan, narrator. The cantata Let Justice Roll is a powerful piece in which the narrator reads the words to Dr. King's Letter From Birmingham Jail while the choir sings supporting text, accompanied by piano and organ. Dr. King's Letter From Birmingham Jail was written April 16, 1963 and states that people have a moral responsibility to break unjust laws and to take direct action rather than waiting potentially forever for justice to come through the courts. Other works in this concert include choral works by local composer Lawrence E. Wilson, III, a member of the First Baptist choir, which feature jazz harmonies and catchy rhythms. Works arranged by Martorella and Greene are also included on the program. The concert opens with the brilliant organ solo setting of Lift Every Voice and Sing, also by Mark Miller, played by Stephen Martorella. All proceeds from this concert support Newman Church's Racial Equity Scholarship program. Please visit our website at https://newmanucc.org/ministries/ racial-justice to learn about this program and to apply for a scholarship. The public is cordially invited and there is a suggested donation of $10. A reception will follow the concert with an opportunity to meet the musicians. Asaro Dental: You deserve the best dental care!

Dr. Matt Asaro has been a trusted dentist in the East Bay for nearly 30 years, and he's seen a lot of change in the industry. Independent practices like his are standing out to families, as opposed to commercial franchises with a financial approach to patient care.

"We are patient-centric," Dr. Asaro says. "Everything here revolves around the patients' best interests."

Dr. Asaro and his team don't overbook their patients. They don't rush them and keep appointments easy and comfortable. They take time with each patient, explaining different treatment options and plans when necessary.

Many of today's corporate practices cannot uphold those same standards of care. He is fiercely proud of the way his practice is devoted to patient-centric care.

"We treat our patients like family, and we have entire families, for generations, who have been patients here. I have patients who were once kids, and now they're having their own kids come here," he said.

Dr. Asaro can provide a full suite of services, rather than referring patients out all the time. Besides routine checkups, x-rays, cavity fillings, and hygiene cleanings, Dr. Asaro is skilled with restorative care, crowns, implant surgeries, deep cleanings, gum surgery, and cosmetic or aesthetic treatments. He performs surgeries from simple extractions to surgical and wisdom teeth extractions, and periodontal treatments.

"We provide comprehensive dental services, so we don't have to routinely send patients out of this office. They can come here and get virtually everything done at our location. Patients appreciate the convenience and having one team responsible for their care" Dr. Asaro says. "I believe we do what a dental office should do."

Another source of pride at Asaro Dental is the consistency within the practice. Their team, from office manager to hygienists, have been there for many years. "Our staff is incredibly consistent," Dr. Asaro says. "You know who you're going to see when you come in here."

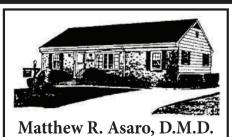

Having lived here his whole life, the dentist is also a proud member of the East Bay community. His practice is the longest-running sponsor of the Barrington Little League. He is a devoted sailor who will be competing in his 13th Bermuda Race this June. His daughter is a Barrington High School student, as he was, and his wife is a professor at URI.

He loves this region, loves his job, and is proud of the reputation he has built in this community.

"We pride ourselves on being patient-centric," Dr. Asaro says. It's what makes Asaro Dental different from most other offices.

"My emergency number is available to patients 24/7. They can call me anytime they need ... It's like having concierge service without having to pay concierge rates."

Check out Asaro Dental today. They offer free consults if someone has questions or needs quick advice. It's part of their philosophy — and it always has been.

RICHARD W. DIONNE JR.

A view of the Washington Bridge that once carried motorists over the Seekonk River along I-195 West. It has been shut down for seven weeks, its future uncertain.

Accountability is sorely lacking in the I-195 fiasco

he condition of the west bound lanes on I-195 and the subsequent snarl of traffic has unleashed a furious fusillade of accusations and excuses by those in charge. Tens ous fushfade of accusais by those in charge. Tens of thousands of daily commuters are stuck in traffic because – OOPS! – the structural integrity of that side of the bridge is undermined. Well, the chickens have come home to roost!

For almost 40 years I have either as Attorney General charged and convicted contractors for substandard but billed work that was never done or written in this column about the continuing saga in this state where politicians and the Rhode Island Department of Transportation (RIDOT) wink at the construction companies' noncompliance with engineering standards.

Before there was an I-195 westbound lane problem, there was the Route 403-Davisville access road fiasco. The Providence Journal revealed that its construction had key structural parts below specifications, which led the federal highway administration to refuse to pay its allocation. Eight times RIDOT overlooked the pounds per square inch (PSI) requirements at a substantive level.

The then-RIDOT supervisor shrugged off the unsafe work by saying that requiring adherence to the specifications would result in the project being delayed! Route 403 had 17 other key structural deficiencies that flunked AASHTO (American Association of State Highways and Transportation Officials). The contractor also put in defective abutment footings far below minimum standards on an off-ramp from Route 403. A concrete beam was 25 percenet below standards and was one of only four beams to hold up the off-ramp.

The IWAY itself had chunks of the concrete deck falling into the Providence River because the cement was sub-standard. The contractor also installed defective railings and then turned around and billed the state for at least two and a half years for jersey barriers to prevent drivers from hitting the railing and landing in the drink. WPRI reported that the steel reinforcement bars were apparently cut and that anchor bolts were installed AFTER the reinforcing steel was already in place.

So now we have this circus where no heads will roll except for the noggins of the commuters. The villain of the above IWAY mistakes blew the whistle on the fact that for three years Rhode Island has known of the problem with its repair strategy that would ultimately result in the "pins" to fail. The engineering report warning of the problem is part of the record, so political obfuscation isn't working.

Also, am I the only one who is chagrined about the fact that Massachusetts-based Barletta Construction Company, who has won many of the largest construction contracts, got this no-bid contract to "repair" the bridge after it was civilly charged by federal authorities with dumping contaminated soil in an inner-city neighborhood? Attorney General Peter Nehrona has also charged the company criminally for the dumping, which didn't prevent the favored treatment of this malefactor.

Such is the mentality in this state on transportation projects: "Cut corners, get paid anyway and come back for more goodies."

Instead of being accountable and acknowledging any mistake for this failure, the Governor embarked instead on a quasi-political campaign, using public funds, where he urged citizens to buy local. Of course, this could have been averted if people simply did their respective jobs.

Treat Trigger Finger and Dupuytren's contracture successfully with PiezoWave2 Shockwave Therapy!

Trigger finger and Dupuytren's Contracture are conditions in which one or more fingers become stuck in a bent position. It happens when the flexor tendon - which controls the movement of the finger - becomes inflamed, irritated or developed nodule scar tissue on them. As a result, the tendon cannot slide smoothly through the tendon sheath, leading to a clicking or popping sensation when trying to straightening or bending the finger and may be painful.

Dr. Mark Alano

National Institute of Health (NIH) level research regarding these conditions revealed:

"Conclusion: We can suggest that ESWT in the early term can be preferred over costly injections and surgical intervention options as it increases the quality of life and delays the recurrence of contractures."

I'm ready to sell my house, now what?

1. How should I prepare my house before selling it? First impressions matter, especially in real estate. Anyone walking through a house or touring it virtually will be looking for ways to pass or negotiate down on the price. Make sure that the HVAC, plumbing, and electrical system all work properly. Each room should look clean and decluttered with no overt damage insight.

2. How long will it take to sell my home? Once the house is on the market, it may take anywhere from four to six weeks to sell. However, the market is fairly hot, so it's not out of the question to have your property off the market within a week. On the flip side, if there is a lull in the market or issues arise such as negotiation, lack of exposure, or house conditions then the property can sit on the market

3. What is the selling price of my home? The selling price of a house fluctuates depending on multiple factors. The most common ones are the neighborhood and what similar-sized houses are currently selling for. Also, look at the age and condition. Do major repairs need to be done? If so, that might lower the property. And again, the market matters. Like everything else, home prices vary depending on supply and demand.

4. Is there a reason my home's assessed value differs compared to the market value? A public tax assessor gives the assessed value for a property. This assessment typically occurs yearly for taxation purposes. The fair market value is an agreed-upon price between a willing buyer and seller. There is usually a difference between the assessed value and market value. For homeowners, the assessed value is a double-edged sword. Because, if their annual assessed value increased then their yearly taxes will also be raised. On the flip side, when selling a house it can help boost its market value.

I think I might have a problem with alcohol. I would like to try an Alcoholics Anonymous meeting but I feel uncomfortable with the idea of just walking into one.

An A.A. meeting is probably one of the most welcoming places you will find. The people you meet there are friendly and non-judgmental, because THEY have had a problem with alcohol as well. They can totally relate to how you are feeling.

- There is no commitment of any kind when attending an A.A. meeting. A newcomer will never be asked to speak or to reveal anything about themselves.
- You will hear alcoholics talking about what alcohol did to their lives, what they did to help themselves, and how they are living their lives today.
- A.A. is not a religion. It is a spiritual program. You may encounter anyone from a person who attends religious services regularly to an agnostic or an atheist at an A.A. meeting.
- · Most of the people there have successfully created a satisfying way of life without alcohol through the Fellowship and the 12 Steps of A.A.
- They have been where you are and will do their best to help you with your drinking problem if you ask.

Killing sharks to reduce depredation is not the answer hark depredation, the full or partial consumption of a hooked fish by a shark before it is landed, is an increasing source of human and wildlife conflict in recreational fisheries. This summer and fall, and for the past three to four years, we have had enhanced reports of sharks being caught close to shore off Newport, Narragansett and the Sakonnet River area.

Along with this, we have had an increase in shark depredation, with anglers reeling in summer flounder (fluke) and striped bass to find the fish has been bitten by a shark.

Last week a study led by U. Mass Amherst was published in Marine and Coastal Fisheries, titled "Depredation rates and spatial overlap between Great Hammerheads and Tarpon in a recreational fishing hot spot."

Reports of shark depredation in the catchand-release Tarpon fishery in the Florida Keys are increasing, specifically in Bahia Honda, a recreational fishing hot spot and a known Tarpon pre-spawning aggregation site.

Highlights of the study abstract appear below; the entire study can be found at Depredation rates and spatial overlap between Great Hammerheads and Tarpon in a recreational fishing hot spot - Casselberry - 2024 -Marine and Coastal Fisheries - Wiley Online Library.

The study suggests that culling or killing sharks is not the answer, but rather reducing fight times and ending a fight prematurely when sharks are present should be explored. Here are the highlights.

Methods: Using visual surveys of fishing in Bahia Honda, scientists quantified depredation rates and drivers of depredation. With acoustic telemetry, scientists simultaneously tracked 51 Tarpon and 14 Great Hammerheads (also known as Great Hammerhead Sharks) Sphyrna mokarran, the most common shark to depredate Tarpon, to quantify residency and spatial overlap in Bahia Honda.

Result: During the visual survey, 394 Tarpon were hooked. The combined observed shark depredation and immediate post release predation rate was 15.3% for Tarpon that were fought longer than 5 minutes. Survival analysis and decision trees showed that depredation risk was highest in the first 5 to 12 minutes of the fight and on the outgoing current

During the spawning season, Great Hammerheads shifted their space use in Bahia Honda to overlap with Tarpon core use areas. Great Hammerheads restricted their space use on the outgoing current when compared to the incoming current, which could drive increased shark-angler interactions.

Conclusion: Bahia Honda has clear ecological importance for both Tarpon and Great Hammerheads as a pre-spawning aggregation and feeding ground. The observed depredation mortality and post release predation mortality raise conservation concerns for the fishery.

Researchers from U. Mass Amherst placed acoustic tags on Hammerhead Sharks and Tarpon as part of their shark depredation study.

Efforts to educate anglers to improve best practices, including reducing fight times and ending a fight prematurely when sharks are present, will be essential to increase Tarpon survival and reduce sharka-angler conflict.
