By order of the Board of Education.

W. J. SARTS, Secretary.

Honolulu, May 22, 1871.

THE Advertiser in its issue of Saturday, asks nine of its very hardest questions in regard to the loan asked for by the Government. We believe that we would be altogether upbiled by the public if we were to remark that the questions propounded approach as near to what are known as "foolish questions," as we are often permitted to see in the columns of a newspaper. If the writer of the article in question will refer to the notice of the Minister of Finance, calling for bids, he will see that the time fixed for receiving them extends to the first of July, up to which time any person can offer to take the loan or a portion of it, either at par or at a premium, and if he is endowed with common sense to see the point, he will also observe that it would be unjust to those who may desire, at the latest moment, to make bids, and also to the public, to snap-up the first tenders made, with or without premiums. Suppose the whole sum had been bid for at a premium at the date of our last issue, it does not follow that it will be the only bid made at a premium either for the whole or a part of the loan; nor does it follow that it is the highest premium that will be offered. Neither, we take it, does it follow that if one person offers to take a portion of the loan at ten per cent, premium, the remainder of the loan cannot be negotiated at a less rate. It is probable that the ten per cent offer would be very favorably considered, and the balance of the amount required would be taken on the bids most favorable to the Government. We are not aware that it is intended to "exclude all bidders for the whole" from consideration, but presume if any such offer more favorable terms than those who bid for portions of the loan, they will have the privilege of investing their money in this first-class security. It may be, that those having only a few hundred dollars surplus capital would wish to "turn over" that money, other than he who places, say $12,000." But if the man of a few hundreds or a few or a good many thousands, desires to "turn over" his capital frequently, he does not invest in government securities unless it be for speculation, and as he could not make it be a "corner" on a few hundreds or on even $12,000, he would probably not make a bid for the loan in question, which undoubtedly offers the very best opportunity for those desiring a long and perfectly secure investment for their money. As to the probability of obtaining money here at "less than ten per cent on good security," we unhesitatingly state that it can be secured at a much less rate. We have heard of instances where persons having a few thousand dollars to invest, were willing, if they could place it for a length of time on undebtible security, to loan it at six per cent, and we would suggest to such parties that now is the opportunity for which they seek. This, together with the fact that premiums are offered for this nine per cent loan, more clearly demonstrates that money can be obtained on first-class and undebtible securities, at less than ten per cent. We are aware that the Government is not authorized to issue a paper currency, and we are not aware that it intends or desires to issue any such currency, either with or without authority, although a person holding a government bond has a perfect right to sell it for whatever he may think it is worth. It would be very unwise for him to sell it for less than its value, which would be fully as much as he gave for it.

It would undoubtedly be as easy to issue bonds for $120,000, were such an amount required, and were such a loan authorized, as it would be to issue bonds for $12,000, and we have no hesitation in saying that such is the confidence of the public in the certainty of promptly receiving their interest and principal, that the larger loans would be taken in this community as quickly as the smaller.

SOME time since, we recommended in the columns of this paper, the planting of coconut trees in favorable localities, stating at the same time, that in the course of time, lands in close proximity to the sea, which otherwise would be nearly or quite unproductive, would become very profitable. The slow growth of the coconut tree and the consequent great length of time which must elapse between the planting of the trees and the time when they would become profitable or even ornamental in any degree, has been, and is, now, the reason why we do not see new groves springing up where old ones have existed, and why new trees are not planted to take the places of the old ones in groves that are fast passing away on account of the extreme age of the trees. Any one visiting the grove at Waikiki, will be painfully struck with the rapidity with which the trees are dying out. At the present rate of decay, one of the chief attractions of that favorite place of summer resort of our citizens, will be gone before many years; an occasional old and perhaps decaying tree will be all that is left of that once beautiful grove.

The following Proclamations have been received at the Foreign Office:

To My SUBJECTS AND FRIENDS RESPECTERS IN FERN: The daily increasing foreign population in my beloved Islands, the various habits, and commerce of highly civilized nations, has caused me serious consideration.

Many foreigners have acquired by purchase and large considerable areas of land, upon which they are spending much capital, and exercising great skill and labor.

It is therefore clearly evident that to preserve that perfect harmony which should exist between the two races, to facilitate the increasing European commerce, to establish Foreign relations, a properly constituted Government has become an absolute necessity.

I have therefore accepted the services of the gentlemen named in my proclamation, to form an Executive to administer the Government in accordance with the Constitution adopted in 1867, at the earliest date of the Foreign Bureaux, and appointed by my Chief, who have since been re-confirmed.

Ministers are fully aware of the enormous impression existing in the minds of many European residents respecting the right of the Vanu Vanu to assume the title of King of Fiji, and for general information publish in the Government Gazette a document from which it will be seen that every rating chief in those islands has acknowledged Caboak to be their sovereign ruler, and given all allegiance to him in the most solemn manner.

SIDNEY CHARLES BENT, Premier.

Government Officers, Levuka, June 26th, 1871.

desirable that a General Meeting of Delegates from the Districts in the Islands of our dominions should assemble at our town of Levuka, in the Island of Ovalau, for the purpose of amending the Constitution Act, assented to at Bar, in the year of our Lord 1867.

In pursuance of the provisions of this Act, and by virtue of our own authority, we do, by these presents, convene a meeting of Delegates from the districts in the schedule hereto annexed, requesting foreign residents to

MONUMENT JUNE 21.
The American Bank Building is at hand from Fugit Sound with lumber to H. Blackall & Co. The long frame from Tahiti, is at another end, on route for San Francisco, and will probably get away to-day.

The Australian steamer Wonga Wonga arrived yesterday, 25 days from Sydney via Tigris, bringing some 25 passengers and cargo to W. J. Green, Agent.

The Wonga Wonga will sail this afternoon, taking her through passengers and stores from this port, and all the cargo she has taken up—wholly sugar.

The Wonga Wonga measured seven months on her passage from Fiji, which caused her to be some time delay enroute; she has therefore caused us to take up our cargo of this port will great expense in order to cover her time. We notice by a report in the Sydney paper that this steamer has the largest mail or load vessel disposed of by any vessel from Australia.

The British Army Cruiser arrived at Sydney on the 21st May, 28 days from this port. We give the report of her cargo, so far as sold, from the Sydney Journal of June 1st.

STEAMERS.—Four sales have been made to give way.

A steamer from Honolulu, sold at auction yesterday, was only partially sold, at $25,000 to the vendor, and low freight rates.

Part of the American Mail's cargo of Macassar was placed at $35,000, to the two owners and fellow citizens.

The balance will be offered by Messrs. Stetson & Co., to-morrow (Tuesday), at $35,000 bags of Macassar and crystals were taken at $35,000.

The City of Honolulu will be the next steamer, sailing from Sydney July 1st.

Second vessels are on the way with mail for the steamer at this port, and from the following, taken from the Sydney Herald of June 1st, we perceive suitable arrangements are being made for sending at the 15th.

The Chile steamer has been purchased by Mr. H. M. Hall. She will be so soon dispatched to Laredo, Texas, where she will be used as a boat for the shipping of coal for the use of the California coal miners. She has salvoed for 2000 tons, but, having struck rocks, might also become available for a sealing warehouse for cotton, or other products,倘能得之。

Wants More Facts.

A correspondent writing from Hayward wishes to know where the field of barley is which the Bullock mentioned some days ago, as illustrating the difference in two kinds of culture. We are happy to give our correspondent all the information we possess, the more so, as our comments were made after a personal examination. The field is owned by Andrew J. Snyder, and is situated between the San Pablo and the Bay, about four miles from the City Hall at Oakland. There may be twenty acres in the field or more. It is easily reached, and ought to be seen by every farmer who has ever inquired a doubt concerning the value of deep plowing and thorough tillage for wheat. As our correspondent proposes to go and see this field of wheat and take his neighbors along, we hope, now that these particulars are furnished, he will not only go, but profit by what he sees. But the fact that this engineer proposes to go, suggests also the doubt in his mind whether such results were really obtained in the manner described. And this very doubt serves in some measure to illustrate the unsatisfactory methods of farming which prevail in this State. Here is a field of twenty or thirty acres of barley, on one-half of this ground plowed only once, and that we judge, to a moderate depth, the barley will only yield half a crop at that, provided no more rain falls. On the other half, plowed twice, the crop is assured without more rain, and the straw will be as heavy as can stand upright; the heads are long, and the promise is a very heavy yield. The owner himself estimates that the crop on this part of the field will be worth not less than $50 an acre.

Now suppose that a hundred demonstrations just like this one could be cited, what effect would they have upon the general system of farming in California? Except in the cases of the few intelligent farmers, who believe that if a thing is worth doing at all it ought to be done well, the same scratching, slovenly method will prevail. The majority will "get in" their wheat and take the chance. There are some soils which probably deep and frequent plowing would not serve to mature a crop. But there is very little of that soil in the coast country. Take the county of Santa Clara for instance, hitherto one of the best wheat-growing counties in the State. The bulk of the wheat crop is plowed off this year. Excluding the light sandy soils, what would have been the result if the land sown to wheat had been summer fallowed or plowed twice? There would have been in many places full crops, and the average yield for the county would probably have been a two-thirds crop. The difference would have been half a million of dollars in favor of the farmers of that county.

The wheat crop fails to mature for want of moisture. But the orchard creates moisture by plowing before its trees to a good depth, and repeating the operation. Six months after the spring rains have ceased, the ground in his orchard is still moist. Of course, such frequent plowings are out of the question for cereals. But plowing twice is within the ability of most farmers. The system of scratching wheat fields with a cultivator to the depth of three inches is admissible. All the surface elements of the soil, requisite for good wheat, are exhausted. Nothing is added, and finally there comes a time when nothing can be taken away.

If two plowings are requisite for wheat in dry seasons, especially on heavy soils, of course the cost of cultivation is greatly increased. But it should not be forgotten that in just such seasons wheat brings the highest prices. We hear of one farmer who has a field of 300 acres of wheat; the preparation of the field was equivalent to plowing the whole twice. He will have what would be judged a fair crop for a wet season. That crop sold at present price, makes him independent. There are three adverse influences to prosperous farming in California: 1—Extreme dry seasons. 2—Extreme wet seasons. 3—A prevailing bad-habited system of farming, involving little skill and loss of patient and intelligent industry. The extremes of wet and dry weather occurring during the last ten years will probably be repeated in the next decade. Will all the old errors be repeated, or will a class of thoughtful agriculturists make bad farming an exception to the general rule in this State?—S. P. Bullock.

The Noachian Story.—This number frequently occurs in the writings of the Bible: On the seventh day God ended his work. In the seventh month Noah's ark touched the ground; in seven days the dove was sent out. Arianism plied seven times for Sodom. Jacob served seven years for Rachel, and yet other seven more. Jacob was pursued on a seven days journey by Laban. Jacob mourned seven days for Joseph. A plenty of seven years and a famine of seven years were foretold in Pharaoh's dream by the seven fat and seven lean beasts, and the seven ears of fall and seven ears of blighted corn. On the seventh day of the seventh month the children of Israel fasted seven days and remained in their tents seven days. Every seventh year the land rested, every seventh year all the bondmen were set free, and every seventh year the law was read to the people. In the destruction of Jericho, seven hours were seven trumpets seven days; on the seventh day they surrounded the walls seven times, and at the end of the seventh round the walls fell. Solomon was seven years building the temple and feasted seven days at its dedication. In the tabernacle there were seven lamps; the golden candlestick had seven branches. Naaman washed seven times in Jordan. Job's friend sat with him seven days and seven nights, and offered seven bullocks and seven rams as an offering. Our Savior spoke seven times from the cross, on which he hung seven hours, and after his resurrection appeared seven times. In the Lord's prayer are seven petitions, containing seven times seven words. In the Revelations we read of seven churches, seven candlesticks, seven stars, seven trumpets, seven plagues, seven thunders, seven seals, seven angels, and a seven-headed monster.—Ecclesiastes.

In 1854, there lived at Sydney, New South Wales a gold broker named Kappa. When gold was discovered in that country he was a ticket-of-leave man, and like many others of his class, had made a fortune by the discovery. His fortune was reckoned at £200,000. An American said to him one day: "You ought to be eternally grateful to the British Government for sending you here free and putting you in the way of helping up riches." The ex-chief, with the frankness of a Grecian, replied: "The British Government is dead. In London my business was breaking open jeweller's safes, and if the British Government had not interfered with it, I would have been worth a million pounds to-day."

A grant of South Africa presents this thus: "An ounce of mother is worth a pound of clings."

The reason why a ship is by common consent designated in the feminine gender, is because so much attention paid to her rigging.

The Chattanooga Times asks: "Whether we are drifting?" To which the Knoxville Whig replies: "It would be profane if we say."
