Nixon Asks For Military Counsel

Viet Cong Battle For Town

SAIGON (UPI)—Viet Cong forces swept through the resort city of Dalat early Saturday, seized control of a downtown area and battled hundreds of South Vietnamese troops rushed in to save it. It was the worst attack on a South Vietnamese city since the 1968 Tet offensive.

By nightfall, more than 18 hours after the first shots were fired in Dalat, Viet reports said a small army of 2,500 South Vietnamese troops had driven all but about 100 of the invaders from the city the Central Highlands.

The remaining Viet Cong were holed up in sections of Dalat University, a Roman Catholic Church and a seminary.

At least 22 Viet Cong were reported killed in the Dalat fighting. South Vietnamese casualties were placed at eight killed and 24 wounded. U.S. troops were involved in actions outside the city but did not move into Dalat itself and no American losses were reported.

The attack on Dalat, a city of 74,000 residents which is considered one of South Vietnam's safest places, was seen as a move by the Communists to take headlines away from U.S. and South Vietnamese successes in Cambodia. It also demonstrated Communist ability to strike at will despite manpower and supply losses.

SMASHED WRECKAGE of a twin-engine Martin 404 airliner strung on an interstate highway near Atlanta, Ga. After failure of one engine, the pilot, with 36 aboard, tried to land on the highway but hit a car, killing all five occupants. One died among the plane passengers. (UPI telephoto)

Private Airliner Falter On Takeoff, Kills Five In Auto

By RABUN MATTHEWS
ATLANTA (UPI)—A private plane carrying 36 persons on an all expenses paid, land buying excursion to Florida crashed and landed atop a car on an interstate highway Saturday, killing at least six persons.

Five of the victims, a man and woman and three children, were in the white 1963 model car flattened by the crippled plane, a Martin 404 which was attempting an emergency landing in the rain on a grassy median strip dividing the interstate.

The plane was en route to Fort Myers, Fla., where Lehigh Acres Inc., a sales firm, is developing a large tract of land. The passengers were offered a free Memorial holiday trip to the Gulf Coast site to examine land they might buy.

Federal Aviation Administration official Jack Barker said the plane lost one of its engines about 9:21 a.m. PDT, five minutes after takeoff, and was attempting an instrument landing at the main Atlanta airport south of the city when the crash occurred.

The plane took off from Dekalb-Peachtree, a satellite airport northeast of Atlanta, and came down on the southeast side of town at the intersection of Interstate 285 and Moreland Avenue.

War Commanders In San Clemente Today

SAN CLEMENTE, Calif.—Washington-bureau of the Des Moines Register and Tribune (UPI)—President Nixon summoned his top military commanders from Washington and Saigon for a meeting Sunday to discuss U.S. military operations in Cambodia and the progress of winding down the war in Vietnam.

Defense Secretary Melvin R. Laird and Gen. Earle G. Wheeler and Adm. Thomas Moorer, the outgoing and incoming chairmen of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, were scheduled to fly in from Washington.

Gen. Creighton W. Abrams, commander of U.S. troops in Vietnam, was to come in from Saigon, along with Adm. John S. McCain, Jr., commander of U.S. forces in the Pacific.

The session, the first such high-level military briefing the President has received since his April 30 decision to send U.S. troops into Cambodia, was scheduled for 2 p.m. PDT.

The information from the combat field commanders was expected to figure heavily in how deeply involved the United States will remain in the conflict in Cambodia, President Nixon has promised that all U.S. troops will be out of Cambodia by the end of June but has left cloudy whether American support will be furnished to South Vietnamese and Cambodian troops after that time.

In other developments, the Western White House disclosed that Clark R. Mollenhoff, the controversial former newspaper man who served as a special investigator for the Nixon administration, had resigned to take over as chief of the

Former Argentine Head Kidnapped

BUENOS AIRES (UPI)—An Argentine search by every hired lieutenant general was a security agency in Argentina who failed Saturday to produce any significant clue to the whereabouts of kidnapped former President Pedro Eugenio Aramburu.

Col. Luis Premoli, the Argentine military regime's information secretary, said "We don't have any major clues and the kidnapers haven't been in contact with any authorities."

The lack of a ransom demand more than 24 hours after the kidnapping raised fears among government officials that Aramburu might be tried by a drumhead court-martial and summarily executed by the kidnapers.

A Peruvian guerrilla organization Saturday night claimed it had kidnapped Aramburu "with the aim of submitting him to revolutionary justice."

Cyclists On Outing At Springs

A band of about 50 hippy-type cyclists began gathering near Thousand Springs Saturday for what was reported to be their "spring get-together."

The bunch is reported to be part of the Brothers Speed motorcycle group and some have come from California, Salt Lake City, Pocatello, Boise, Twin Falls and other points.

More than those who were gathered Saturday evening at the Idaho Power Park on the north side of the Snake River have been reported heading into Idaho, but by about 6 p.m. an estimated 35 to 50 cyclists were all that were at the park. Many of the cycles, especially those from the Boise area, carried members of the Brothers Speed and their girl friends.

Two pickup trucks were reported to be accompanying the Utah bunch, probably carrying supplies and sleeping bags.

Law enforcement officers said no trouble had developed by early Saturday evening and if the cyclists continued with their conduct at that time, it was not anticipated there would be difficulty at the park.

Officers said all the cyclists who had been observed were complying with the state's helmet law, and no arrests had been made for violation of the law.

State and county officers from both Twin Falls and Gooding counties were keeping an eye on the gathering.

Some of the cyclists reportedly traveled into Wendell to purchase supplies and reported to have six packs of beer.

Nuclear Blast By France

PAPEETE, Tahiti (UPI)—France exploded a nuclear device "of great strength" Saturday above its Pacific testing grounds at Fangataua Lagoon, a communique announced.

The explosion, code named "Dragon" was the latest in a new series of nuclear tests being carried out by the French at the testing ground off Tahiti.

Shed Is Destroyed By Fire

A large shed near Heritage Manor, used to store equipment for the nursing home, was destroyed by a fire that sent a column of heavy smoke high over Twin Falls Saturday evening.

Dr. R. A. Drake, administrator of the Manor, said he had moved several tractors out of the shed only a few days ago, after children became a nuisance in playing with them. He had no estimate of the loss, but said there were no electrical connections in the building that could have started a fire.

There was no danger to residents of the nursing home, Dr. Drake said.

Fire

LEWISTON, Idaho (UPI)—The third major fire in the past eight months struck here Saturday.

The blaze in the downtown area resumed after it was reported three hours after it was controlled at noon.

Destroyed by the flames were the Smoke Shop Restaurant, Kings' Stationery Store and the Hughes' Dress Shop.

Sen. Mansfield Is Not Too Overjoyed

HELENA, Mont. (UPI)—Senate Majority Leader Mike Mansfield, D-Mont., said Saturday he saw no hopeful signs that economic problems could be lessened through congressional action.

Mansfield, interviewed while "visiting friends" here, said the sharp upturn in the stock market was not indicative of a healthier economy.

"The problems facing Congress—and the country," he said, "are the high unemployment rate — 4.9 per cent nationally — and the highest interest rates since the Civil War."

The Montana Democrat, facing a primary contest Tuesday, said he could not foresee any relief in the interest burden, but did fear a recession.

The economic problems, he said, would not necessarily hurt the administration party in congress in November, however, but would hurt both parties.

Boy Scout Survives Tumble

HOLLADAY, Utah (UPI)—A 15-year-old Explorer Scout, who tumbled for more than 100 feet, was airlifted off Mt. Olympus and flown to St. Marks Hospital in Salt Lake City where he was listed in good condition.

Davis F. Eaton, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Richard F. Eaton, was injured Friday afternoon while descending from the 9,000-foot summit. He was with five other members of Explorer Post 410, Christ United Methodist Church. The co-advisor for the post, Dr. Robert Elbel, was with the party.

Eaton suffered a fractured leg and head lacerations according to a hospital spokesman.

The fall occurred near the west end of the base of the north face.

Egyptian Troops In Suez Area

By United Press International
Egyptian army troops crossed the Suez Canal twice Saturday, attacking Israeli armored columns in the vicinity of Port Fuad in twin raids that killed at least 15 Israeli soldiers and destroyed three tanks and four other armored vehicles, an Egyptian military spokesman said.

One Israeli soldier was captured in one of the raids, he said, and the Egyptian forces returned safely each time without casualties.

The spokesman said the first raid was launched at midday against an Israeli column near Ras Elash, 10 miles south of Port Fuad in the canal's northern sector. That raid touched off a seven-hour battle in which two Israeli tanks and two armored personnel carriers were destroyed, an unspecified number of their occupants killed, and one Israeli captured.

Shortly afterward, the Egyptians attacked another Israeli column near El-Tina, 10 miles south of Port Fuad. In that battle, the Egyptian spokesman said, one Israeli tank and two other armored vehicles were destroyed and 10 of the column's 10 soldiers were killed. The other was captured, he said.

The raiders were supported, he said, by Egyptian artillery and anti-aircraft guns on the west bank of the canal that shelled the columns before the raiders struck.

Sawtooth Lumber For Sale

KETCHUM (UPI)—The Sawtooth National Forest is offering for sale more than five million board feet of timber in the Placer Creek tract 20 miles west of Ketchum.

Ketchum Forest Ranger John Combs said the estimated value of the logs, which will be harvested from 265 acres, will be about $400,000 delivered at a mill.

He said the Placer Creek sale will require construction of about 7 1/2 miles of management system roads and about 3 1/2 miles of logging work roads.

Flag

Memorial Day dawned at the Twin Falls County Courthouse in the shadow of a foreign flag flying over the grounds.

During the night a flag of Canada had been run up on the large silver pole. The flag was brought down, replaced by the United States Stars and Stripes. The Canadian banner is now in the hands of Sheriff Paul Corder.

Festival Attracts 30,000

HEYWORTH, Ill. (UPI)—An estimated 30,000 persons flocked to a muddy farm field Saturday for the court-banned Kikkapoo Creek Rock Music Festival.

There were no problems or arrests on the "scene," police said, but authorities in nearby Bloomington, Ill., arrested the owner of the farm and a promoter of the festival when he came into town to bank some of the proceeds.

Police said L. David Lewis was carrying a pistol under his belt when he left a bank which had opened on Memorial Day to receive Lewis' deposit.

Police said Lewis was charged with unlawful use of weapons and carrying a loaded and uncased weapon in a car. He was released after posting $50 bond on both charges.

The rock festival audience paid $10 each for advance tickets or $15 at the gate to get into the Lewis farm near Heyworth, nine miles south of Bloomington.

McLean County State's Attorney Paul Welch said Lewis also was served with a notice to appear in court on an injunction issued by a circuit court judge prohibiting the festival because it violated zoning laws.

Challenge Of Hour Expressed

"Ah, sobering though the thought may be Memorial Day presents us with the challenge of the hour—What will we do with America today?"

Bill Boyd, Member of the Twin Falls American Legion post, raised this question Saturday during ceremonies at Twin Falls Cemetery.

"It is no secret," he said, "that there are forces at large in the world today which advocate the overthrow of our government. It is a real threat made by an irresponsible nobody who has said, 'We will bury you!' It is a very real fact that in this nation this very month we have witnessed the closing of literally hundreds of our institutions of higher learning because of the violent dissent of a small minority of people."

"Dealing with these and other problems," he said, "is the challenge of this Memorial Day, 1970."

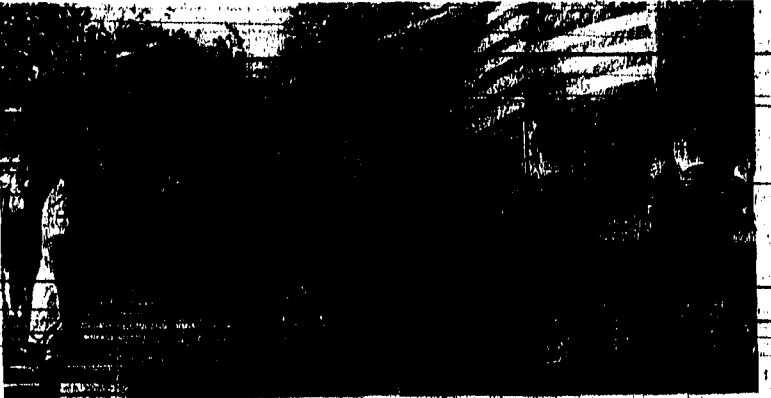

About 100 people, including participants from service organizations, viewed the memorial tributes at the ceremony. The raising of the flag and a salute by a firing squad were included in the program.

One Car Derailed At Ferry

GLENN'S FERRY—Union Pacific trucks were derailed about 2 p.m. Saturday after a westbound freight car slid across the tracks at 8 a.m., blocking both main lines near here for some six hours.

Only passenger train to be delayed by the mishap was the westbound Portland Road, No. 17, which is scheduled to leave here about 10 a.m. It proceeded after a four-hour delay while a wrecker was brought from Nampa to clear the track.

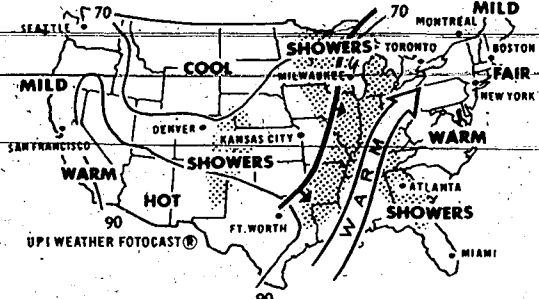

The derailment occurred about three miles west of Glenn's Ferry. A freight train was held at Hammett. Mechanical failure was blamed as responsible for the derailment.

THE CIVIL AIR PATROL posts the colors at a Memorial Day service Saturday in front of the Veterans of Foreign Wars memorial in the park. The flag was brought down, replaced by the United States Stars and Stripes. The Canadian banner is now in the hands of Sheriff Paul Corder.

Senior Citizens Discuss Problems

The varying needs of Idaho's senior citizens were forcefully brought out Friday in a two-hour discussion led by Rep. Orval Hansen at CSI, in the last of a series planned by the Idaho Congressmen.
Nearly 100 senior citizens of the Twin Falls area and others interested in their welfare packed the CSI lecture hall to hear a panel discussion between Rep. Hansen, Fred Garrett, director of the State Employment Department; Doris Harper, outreach worker with the Senior Citizens Office, a branch of the Community Action Agency; Howard Burkhardt of Twin Falls, Jac Carlsson, manager of the Twin Falls Social Security Office and Glenn Karn of the Idaho Office of Aging.
The panel members discussed the problems of the senior citizens from their various viewpoints, pointing out that the major needs of the elderly include adequate housing, transportation, food and health.
In a subsequent discussion open to all attending, a member of the audience asked for help with the mounting costs of prescription drugs.
There are approximately 75,000 people over the age of 65 in Idaho at the present time, Mrs. Harper pointed out.
Programs to meet some of their needs are growing, but in many cases are inadequate. She quoted a statement of Robert Finch, Secretary of Health, Education and Welfare, who asked that senior citizens do everything to stay healthy, to prevent any sickness from becoming a major illness, and to provide a full range of health services for those who are in need.
Mr. Burkhardt brought a hearty round of applause from the audience with the statement

Mail Heyday

The Cambodian campaign has already proved one thing - Americans, when aroused, can be the writingest people. A notable sidelight of the furor over the President's decision to move against the Communist sanctuaries has been the flood of pro and con mail into Washington.

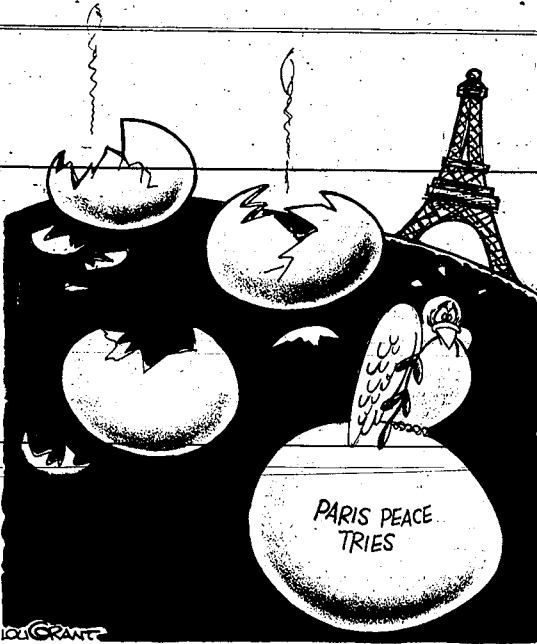

There is no contradiction here. It is not surprising that the President, who has appealed for support, should receive mostly positive expressions. Or that communications from the public - ladies named Mitchell prominently expected - to noted doves such as Fulbright and Mansfield should run strongly in their favor.

WASHINGTON (NEA) What we have been looking at in the past few weeks - probably more clearly than ever before in its long public career - is the purest Richard Nixon. I mean to say much more by that than simply to endorse the President's own televised speeches...

And commonly accept, that the big burden of judgment is theirs. What is possibly unique about Richard Nixon is not his heavily stressed reliance upon his own judgment but the magnitude of his distrust in others.

Surely this whole town - and by now the nation - knows that the President keeps not only his good friend, Secretary of State William Rogers, in the dark on impending decisions, but a wide range of lesser, yet important, foreign affairs specialists.

THE STERILE CUCKOO

ANDREW TULLY The Economy

WASHINGTON - Working stiff, even including an errant banker or two, will find teeth-grinding fodder in the private admission of President Nixon's same experts that the economy will still be in relatively lousy shape come Election Day.

All these experts can offer anxious Republicans running for office in November is that the rate of inflation and business growth will have diminished. But they are unable or unwilling to stick out their necks to the extent of predicting how great the improvement will be.

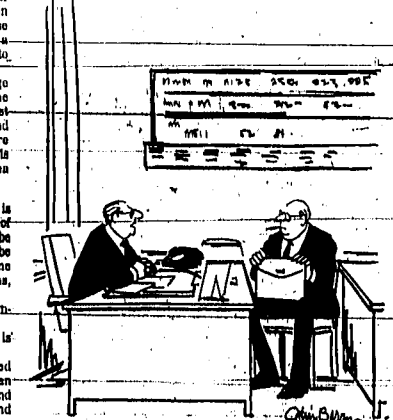

This caution perhaps was best expressed by Secretary of the Treasury David Kennedy at Utah State University banking seminar the other day.

Obviously choosing his words carefully, Kennedy said there was a suggestion in the available evidence that the economy is "neither falling off too sharply or giving signs of rebounding too inflationary a path."

Another administration expert put it more bleakly than Kennedy did. "Frankly," he said, "a lot of us have been reduced to hoping things will work out instead of being sure they will."

Even before the release of the latest government statistics revealed that the economy is still headed downward, the Democrats had put Republicans on notice that they will make what might be called the country's affluent hard times a campaign issue.

BERRY'S WORLD

"Stop beating around the bush! Do you want me to tell you what happened to the market today, or not?"

ROWLAND EVANS AND ROBERT NOVAK California's Syndrome

LOS ANGELES - Rep. George Brown, new prophet of the leftism threatening to dominate the California Democratic party, arrived on the UCLA campus and promptly showed why he now leads for the party's U. S. Senate nomination.

emphasized his liberal stands - particularly opposition to Vietnam. The Brown camp, which had feared Tunney gains among largely inarticulate moderate-conservative California Democrats, was delighted.

RAY CROMLEY Nixon Nerve

WASHINGTON (NEA) - Talk to men at the White House and it becomes pathfully clear President Nixon is going through a siege of self-doubts. He went into Cambodia with confidence (after considerable nervous soul-searching) believing that he would be in - and out - before a hiss and cry in the Senate and on the streets would mount to unmanageable levels.

would cause Hanoi to talk in Paris. Talk of destroying the Communist (COSVN) headquarters was aimed at giving the public something more tangible than food and ammunition as a target worth a gamble of these proportions. Critics, it was felt, being ignorant in the logic of guerrilla war, would underestimate and ridicule the rickling of so many lives to destroy food, arms and equipment.

'Pioneers' Seek Canadian Oil

TULSA, Okla. (UPI)—Skelly Oil Co. recently sent out a "wagon train" of pioneers into the Great Northwest Territories of Canada. Only the "wagon train" consisted of bulldozers and sleds and, instead of fighting off Indians, the explorers contended with constant, sub-zero temperatures.

The adventure was a search for new oil reserves 125 miles above the Arctic Circle in the Mackenzie Delta region. Industry experts have singled out the delta as one of the most promising of Canada's untested sedimentary basins.

The delta, Skelly says, is a thinly populated, permanently frozen land a little larger than Colorado. The Northwest Territories is about 1.5 million square miles, larger than the United States east of the Mississippi River. Its population, however, is less than Muskogee, Okla.

A Skelly seismic crew began its trek from Yellowknife, capital of the Northwest Territories. The town of 8,000 people is located on the north bank of the Great Slave Lake about 175 miles north of Alberta.

From there, the seismic crew covered the last leg of the 1,500-mile trip to the Arctic red area by "cat train."

The train included four strings of sleds, each pulled by a bulldozer. The longest string, about 60 yards long, consisted of seven sleds and weighed over 20 tons.

It took four days, traveling 16 hours a day, to reach its destination.

First Segment Completed The crew has completed the first segment of the survey and has shut down for the summer. In mid-October it plans to return to the bush and stay until the job is completed, sometime in May 1971.

The trek provided more than one surprise for the crew. Especially on arriving in the little town of Inuvik, the last community in the string of cities and towns stretching north from Southern Canada to the Arctic.

The crew expected the 41-degrees-below-zero cold, but brightly colored homes, a new hotel, and a large Hudson's Bay Department Store, were all pleasant surprises.

Weathermen Refute Tale Of Forecast

By JOSEPH L. MYER

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Wouldn't you know it! Fine weather all week long and then, on the weekend, when you have things planned, it rains or does something else disgusting.

You may believe this and think your own experience proves it. Actually, according to weather experts, it isn't so. It rains (or snows or whatever) more often and heavier Tuesday through Friday than at other times.

This fact, if you'll credit it, has been attributed to another fact—that man's air polluting activities are heaviest on weekdays. Recently reported studies have shown that precipitation is increased downwind of city industrial complexes in New York state, St. Louis, and Chicago.

On weekends this effect subsides. The inference is that man-made pollution, heaviest during the week, is responsible.

Ralph H. Fredrick of the Environmental Science Services Administration examined records kept from 1912 through 1961 at 22 weather bureau stations in the heavily populated and industrialized region bound by Chicago, Portland, Me.; Shreveport, La., and Jacksonville, Fla.

He discovered that the weekends were dryer in this area than the weekdays. He said his findings strongly suggest that man's activities are responsible for such "non-random distribution of precipitation."

Tough Democrats To Oppose Reagan

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (UPI) — Two tough Democrats, Los Angeles Mayor Sam Yorty and Assemblyman Jess Unruh, are battling for their political lives and a longshot chance to turn Gov. Ronald Reagan out of office Tuesday in the California primary.

Reagan, who observers believe still wants to be president, is opposed for the Republican nomination. The 59-year-old former actor will be seeking his second four-year term in November.

Also up for re-election in the nation's most populous state is U.S. Sen. George Murphy; Reagan's longtime filmland friend. Unlike the governor, the 67-year-old freshman senator faces opposition in the Republican primary.

Polls show Murphy way out in front for renomination, but indicate he faces trouble in November.

The chief contenders for the Democratic senatorial nomination are two congressmen: John V. Tunney, son of former heavyweight boxing champion Gene Tunney, and long-time Vietnam War critic George Brown, who proposed to impeach President Nixon after U.S. troops were sent into Cambodia.

Candidates Discuss War The Indochina War and its side effects — campus unrest and recession — have transcended all other political issues in California. Candidates are ignoring state issues and discussing the war because that's what the voters are talking about.

Unruh, who managed Sen. Robert F. Kennedy's presidential primary campaign in California, is a strong "dove." He has been speaking out against the war on college campuses and recruiting student volunteers for his campaign in the style of Sen. Eugene McCarthy, who he supported at the 1968 Democratic National Convention.

Yorty characterizes all this as just "a demagogue seeking votes" who "sounds like Moscow and Hanoi."

"We ought to say thank God we have a President willing to make decisions and take the bit in his teeth and save the lives of American troops and our Allies," says the 60-year-old, three-term mayor.

certificates and diplomas to students for completion of one or two years of work in the business field.

'Dovish Tycoon' Pictured Selling Stock As Protest

The Lighter Side By DICK WEST

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A leading financial writer noted the other day that the stock market drop this spring, although seemingly steep enough to strike terror in the ranks of investors, had produced little or none of the 1929-type panic.

This could mean that modern investors are men of true grit. Or it could mean that modern investors don't understand the situation. Or it could mean that economist Paul Samuelson is right.

According to Samuelson, "The weakness in the market is not explicit in terms of weakness in the economy."

Rather, he says, "The market's performance is a political and sociological reflection of what's going on in the nation."

Both Novel and Intriguing

The postulation that people buy and sell stocks because of political and sociological factors was, to me, both novel and intriguing. I had always assumed that the only motivating force behind the stock market was greed.

Samuelson's theory does, however, explain the absence of panic if people aren't in the market for the money, then they have no cause for swan-diving out the window as the Dow Jones average fades into the sunset.

For instance, one of the market's bigger daily drops came after President Nixon announced his decision to send U.S. troops into Cambodia.

The stock selling wave that accompanied that action probably was touched off by dovish tycoons, such as Samuel J. Tolo.

Mrs. Tolo: "Did you hear the news about Cambodia, dear?"

Tolo: "Yes, I did, and I intend to register a protest."

Mrs. Tolo: "Are you going to Washington and join the anti-war demonstration?"

Tolo: "No, I'm going to call my broker and sell 1,000 shares of International Waterdown."

"Not the Point" Mrs. Tolo: "Won't you make a lot of money on the transaction?"

Tolo: "Certainly I'll make a lot of money. But that's not the point. I brought this stock to sell my support for the Nov. 11 moratorium last year. By unloading it now I can demonstrate my opposition to my expansion of the war."

Mrs. Tolo: "But the President says American troops will make only a limited foray into Cambodia and will withdraw by July 1."

Tolo: "In that case, maybe I only sell 500 shares."

Mrs. Tolo: "The President also says the Cambodian intrusion will hasten eventual peace in Vietnam."

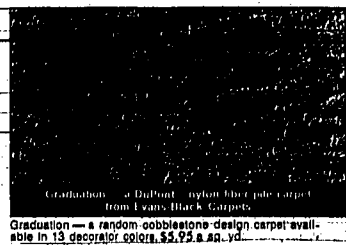

Tolo: "Okay—I'll sell 100 shares as an antiwar protest and 400 shares as a protest against environmental pollution."

Similar studies elsewhere seem to support the idea that industrial operations are making the weeks wetter than the weekends. The theory is that particles spewed into the air on weekdays provide condensation nuclei which in turn increase rainfall.

So go ahead and plan your weekend outings. If they are rained out, you can blame it on unusual weather. If you prefer that explanation, you may even take some comfort from a recent statement by J. Murray Mitchell Jr., a climatologist of the Environmental Science Services Administration in Washington.

"It should be realized," says Mitchell, "that if there is anything unusual about the weather, it is that somewhere and in some respect it is always unusual."

Money Box

By Frank Schell

From B. L., Twin Falls, Idaho: In a coin ad the other day I saw some "white cents" advertised. Can you tell me what this term means? Is this the 1943 steel cents we used during the war?

Answer: No — the term "white cents" is given to those Indian Head Cents struck from 1859 through 1864. Because these cents were made from copper nickel, instead of pure copper, they had a white, or silvery appearance, and were unlike anything struck before. The steel cents of 1943 gained their appearance from a coating of zinc which was put on them to retard rusting.

that the quarters did not have the denomination on them until about 1838.

Answer: You lose the argument, although your friend does not have his dates right. The first quarter, struck in 1796, had the value indicated on it. In 1807, the symbol "25 C." was placed on the coin. In 1838 the Liberty Seated quarter was stamped "Quar. Dol." and this designation was used until the striking of the Barber (named after the designer) quarter, which had "Quarter Dollar" spelled out on it. This designation has been used since that time.

From D. A., Burley, Idaho: Did the United States make a twenty-cent coin? If so, where can I find one?

From B. D. S., Twin Falls, Idaho: What is the value of the 1943 steel cents? I understand they are becoming very valuable and hard to get. Where can I sell them if I find any?

Answer: Since over a billion of these coins were struck, they are still quite common — especially since a lot of people have saved them since the government started melting them down. The Philadelphia and Denver mintages are the most common and you can get about $2.00 a roll of fifty coins, and about $3.00 for the San Francisco coins, if they are not rusty and corroded. Most dealers will buy them from you, if you have a quantity to sell.

Answer: I don't believe you can "find" one anywhere — although there is always a possibility. The United States made a twenty-cent piece from 1875 until 1878. The design and size were almost the same as a twenty-five cent piece, and the general public raised so much commotion about the coin that it was withdrawn. The largest mintage was in 1875, from the San Francisco mint and other years are very hard to obtain. In fact, all of these twenty-cent pieces command a high premium in the better grades. In 1877 and 1878 only Proof Coins were struck — and these are very expensive. Dealers have them for sale, but the price prohibits collecting them as a set unless you are prepared to invest several thousand dollars.

From V. P., Hailey, Idaho: I have been told that I should save all the pennies I find with the wheat stalk on the back. Are they valuable? What is their value?

Answer: All United States Cents had the wheat stalk reverse until 1959, when they were replaced with a picture of the Lincoln Memorial, so their value is negligible, except in the cases which are scarce.

What questions on coins and currency should be sent to The Money Box, c/o. The Times News, Twin Falls, Idaho 83301.

From L. R., Buhl, Idaho: Has the United States ever minted a quarter without pulling the value of twenty five cents on it? I have had an argument and I say if the value is not on the coin it is not a good coin, but my friend says he read somewhere

Study Shows Deer Need Food Variety

By JIM HUMBERT
Idaho Fish & Game Department

Farmers have known for generations that sometimes sick cows go off their feed. Because of the sickness, the rumen micro-organisms needed to carry on the digestive processes are lost. Relief sometimes is found by robbing another cow of her feed and putting it down the sick cow. The cud was, of course, rich in microbes of the kind needed to digest available feed and acted as a bacterial inoculation.

Because antelope, moose, bighorn sheep, mountain goat, deer and elk, like cattle and sheep, are ruminants, their digestive systems must be ready to handle whatever kinds of feed are available. Different kinds of micro-organisms are needed to break down various food plants. Most big game animals do not have enough of the right kinds of these microbes to digest plants. When offered hay or other artificial feeds during critical winter-time emergencies, many animals are in a weakened condition and die before they are able to build up a high enough population of microbes to digest alfalfa and other artificial feeds.

Rumen sampling on several different summer-winter ranges since about 1964 shows clear definite choices of preferences in what they eat, and it is now known deer cannot exist for long on one food alone.

The diet of these animals must contain a mixture of several different shrub species. Deer on winter ranges in Lemhi County live primarily on just two kinds of sagebrush, grass and forbs.

More sagebrush than bitterbrush was found in the stomachs of deer wintering on the Boise River, where good stands of bitterbrush are found. One shrub, whatever the species, will not completely satisfy all dietary needs of deer. On poor winter range, deer take what's available to them, becoming more selective as varieties increase. They might prefer a shrub that is not there, but must choose on the basis of what is available. The availability of multiple browse species on a winter range is most desirable so that the animals can choose — cafeteria style — from a number of different items. Experiments in Colorado demonstrated that deer consumed more volume where they could get adequate mixed diets than where they did where the selection was limited.

How this works out is illustrated by food habits studies made on several different ranges the past few years. Rumen sample examination of deer collected in the Cassia Unit (54) showed that deer use sagebrush to advantage when it is available on a winter range. Rumen sample analysis indicated that 44 percent of the mixed diet was sagebrush, 4 percent bitterbrush, 40 percent grass, 4 percent other shrubs, and 8 percent forbs.

Last winter, sampling on the Boise front found a mixture of 41 percent sagebrush, 6 percent bitterbrush, 14 percent forbs, 30 percent grass, and 9 percent other shrubs.

A few deer are collected each month of the year on several ranges. Samples from their digestive systems, as well as other body organs are examined closely to check the animal's health and eating habits. Samples were taken from the Cassia and Woysee herds as well as in

With the tendency of authors to make the title of their books so long they cover the front jacket of the book, it is a pleasure to find a book merely titled "Bats." The author is Charles Paul May and he explores fact and fancy about this little known and most interesting animal.

There are many myths and legends about bats from Asia, Africa, Australia, South America and among the various Indian tribes of our own country. One African legend says thousands of years ago two sisters were chosen by the gods to create beasts and birds. One produced gaily colored birds, such as parrots, and she gave them beautiful songs to sing. The other girl made birds too but they turned out to be plain sparrows with no songs to sing. So she had to make something to offset her sister's work. She made toads, ugly-faced apes and bats. People were always afraid of bats.

Witch doctors of Africa still employ superstition in treating patients. Such a doctor may conceal a bat in his clothes and as he cuts into the ailing person's body he releases the bat and pretends it flew from the incision. Gypsy doctors used bats' blood in "cures" and they were not the only ones who did.

In literature there is much about bats. Nearly everyone thinks of Dracula when speaking of the vampire bat.

other parts of the state. Fish and game officials say they find deer need a lot of both sagebrush with a higher fat content and more digestible nutrients, and of other browse shrubs during the cold winter months. As a result sagebrush is being introduced on some winter ranges as a forage supplement to native stands of bitterbrush.

Deer will often select sagebrush over bitterbrush and when given a selection of adequate food will reproduce better and make for better hunting and herd control.

Book Review

By LUCILE WOLFE
Twin Falls Public Library

Asop's fables, Alice's Adventures in Wonderland, Shakespeare, Adventures of Tom Sawyer and many others spoke of bats.

There are many different species — vampire bats, insect eating bats, nectar eating bats but the ones most familiar around here are insect eaters. They are a menace in the nectar, eating areas because they spoil the fruit before it can be harvested.

Because of their ability to fly in the dark, bats were useful in the perfection of sonar. It is hoped when more is known about them, better methods of aiding the blind will be discovered. They apparently make a squeaking noise that echoes against a hard surface and their powerful wings permit them to change course quickly. A brown bat with a body only four inches long may have a wing spread of a foot. The shape of their ears helps them detect danger.

The author lists some of the major bat-cave areas in the United States and gives a chart of the major bat families of which there are many.

'Sunset' Features Cave At Shoshone

SHOSHONE — Idaho's "mile-long tube of lava" north of Shoshone on Highway 93 is the subject of an article in the June issue of "Sunset" Magazine.

The lava cave, "one of the world's longest," is described as a "tube of lava, 40 feet high and 60 feet wide." Privately owned but open to visitors since 1967, Mammoth Cave is located seven miles northwest of Shoshone.

"Artificial lighting and self-guiding signs lead you down the first half-mile of the cave," the article says. "The remainder lies undeveloped and in darkness, but is safe to explore with lanterns provided at the entrance."

The cave, containing mineral formations and secondary lava flows visible to the visitor, was formed "when molten lava flowed from the earth's interior during the Miocene Age, about 17 million years ago. The outer layer of the flow hardened as it met the cool air, but the molten interior continued its course, leaving behind a shell of lava. Exposure over time toughened the wall of the cave and later geological activity gradually buried it."

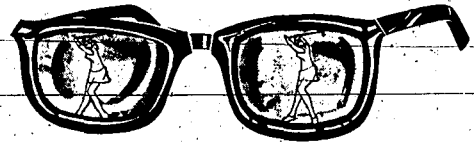

Archeologists believe primitive men occupied the cave as early as 10,000 years ago. Their evidence includes human fossils, primitive tools and clay pots, unearthed nearby. The cave's only permanent occupants at present are tiny bats, "each about the size of a walnut and weighing less than an ounce."

A free museum at the surface displays cave artifacts, items from the surrounding desert, and a collection from pioneer life, including an antique barber chair".

Men Escape As Car Runs Into Canal

RUPERT — Two men escaped serious injury and possible death early Friday when their car, driven by Larry E. Reynolds, 21, Rupert, went into a canal, landing upside down and pinning the driver under water. His passenger, Russell Schwarz, 21, also of Rupert, escaped from the car and swam to the canal bank. When he discovered that Mr. Reynolds was still in the car, he dove down and pulled him from behind the steering wheel. The driver's door was pinned against the side of the canal. Rupert police said that Mr. Reynolds was traveling south when he approached the canal, thinking that the canal was for vehicles. When he saw that he couldn't get across the canal, he swerved in an attempt to swing onto the canal bank. The soft dirt of the bank crumbled under the car's weight and the vehicle dove into the water, police said. Durringo was estimated at $1,100 to the car. Neither of the two young men was injured.

Market Rebounds In Stunning Drive

By HOWARD LUXENBERG UPI Business Writer NEW YORK (UPI)—Stocks staged a stunning recovery this week as the Dow Jones industrial average bounced off a 7½-point low to score its best single-day advance in the annals of Wall Street.

The closely watched barometer of 30 top blue chip companies, at its lowest level since Nov. 19, 1962, soared 32.04 points Wednesday, and continued its spectacular advance for another 37.24 points in the final two sessions.

All this came on the heels of the most precipitous decline since the depression of the market, to rack up its first weekly advance in about two months.

Analysts said the dramatic comeback stemmed from the market's technical or internal factors, although many investors apparently were buoyed by reassurances from top government officials that the battle against inflation was being won and the economy would show marked improvement in the last half of the year.

concern and gloom about the economy will look awfully silly 12 months from now, he said.

In a related development, a Commerce Department official said that although real output as measured by the gross national product declined in the first quarter, current indications are that the second quarter will show a modest gain.

Another analyst said the advance still "must be regarded as technical" because of the "background" which remains unchanged.

For the week, the Dow Jones industrial average was up 38.27 at 700.44, while the New York Stock Exchange index mirrored a rise of $2.34 to $41.78 in the average common share price.

The UPI market indicator, measuring all stocks traded, climbed 2.12 to 70.80. The 1,741 issues crossing the tape, advances outnumbered declines.

Audible Softball Allows Blind To Enjoy Competition In Sports

RON COGSWELL displays some of the more unusual accessories offered in his custom upholstery shop — tiny glass figures he creates as a hobby. Far from proving exasperating as many might think, the tedious work of glass-blowing serves as a valuable relaxation for Mr. Cogswell.

A softball you can hear has widened the world of sports for the blind, thanks to the ingenuity and doggedness of the Telephone Pioneers, a service group of active and retired telephone employees.

Blind children across the country are now playing softball, floor hockey and other games by using an "Audio Ball" that they hear instead of see, a ball that emits a constant "beep-beep" from a battery-operated sound chamber buried in the center of its protective stuffing, according to Twin Falls, Mountain Bell Manager, K. C. Mann.

"It looks like any other softball but it took six years to perfect. Pioneer chapters in most parts of the country are making Audio Balls for the blind children in their areas," he said.

The unusual ball had its beginnings in 1964 when Ina Guyer, a Mountain Bell employee, watched sympathetically as a child at the Colorado School for the Deaf and Blind in Colorado Springs stumbled and groped to find a ball in a field.

For days she mullied over the problem, finally hitting on the obvious answer: A ball that could be heard. She sold the Colorado-Wyoming Pioneer chapter on including the development of such a ball among its other projects.

Now, after some six years of experimenting, Audio Balls are being produced in quantity. The Colorado Pioneers have made them for the Colorado Springs school and offered the detailed production manual and their know-how to Idaho's Pioneer group.

So far, 17 councils or chapters have taken on the "Audio Ball" projects. One of these is in Bell of Canada in Montreal, giving Audio Ball an international flavor.

Teachers say the ball is a Godsend, not so much as a recreational item, but as a motivator. "Blind children," one expert at the school says, "become inhibited and reticent after repeated encounters with obstacles.... They learn movement — almost any movement — can hurt. Audio Ball gives them the incentive to move freely and self-confidently with less fear."

The newest models can be thrown by an adult male at full force at a concrete wall and still bounce back properly.

But the Idaho Pioneers aren't yet satisfied. "We're still thinking about improvements, looking for lighter-weight parts, greater durability and lower cost components," Mann said.

Then with obvious pride, he added, "But blind kids are learning to play ball and to be independent. And that makes it all worth it."

Bond Sales Reported For Valley

Sales of U. S. Savings Bonds during April in the Magic Valley totaled $85,332, according to James S. Kinney, volunteer district chairman, bringing the district's total to the year to $337,048, or 43 per cent of the goal for the entire year of $772,000.

Statewide, sales for April amounted to $632,629, bringing the total bond sales for the first four months of the year to $2,713,508 or 38.8 per cent of the full-year total of $7,000,000.

District Three, Magic Valley, of the state Savings Bonds sales effort includes Twin Falls; Minidoka, Lincoln, Jerome, Gooding, Cassia, Camas and Blaine Counties. The district has the highest percentage of the year's total to date of any of the state's seven districts.

In addition to a wide variety of upholstery items, Mr. Cogswell has an exclusive contract to sell Bill Reher's unique candles. Mr. Reher, formerly of Twin Falls, was a partner in the original voice concern, and was a founder of the Cablevision system of television by cable.

A line of accessories, including hand-painted china and Mr. Cogswell's own hobby of glass-blowing, will be offered to customers wishing to redecorate as well as reupholster.

Work Is Key To Titles, Champ Tells Crowd At Dean Oliver Banquet

BURLEY — Idaho's reigning champion, Dean Oliver, is citing hard work as the key to success in anything, accepted the dedication and congratulations of about 400 fellow Idahoans Friday night during a banquet that culminated "Dean Oliver day."

Serenaded by the Sons of the Pioneers, who made a special trip from Las Vegas to join in honoring him, Oliver heard praise from all parts of the state and the congressional delegation in Washington, D.C. In the end, the eight-time world calf-roping champion and three-time all-around cowboy champ credited his family for earning as much of the praise as he had.

"I'm often asked how an Idahoan gets to be a world champion," Oliver said at the conclusion of the two-hour program. "I tell them it's a lot of hard work. But my family worked just as hard as me to get there."

Earlier, Governor Don Samuelson read the proclamation that officially set aside the day in Oliver's honor. Master of Ceremonies Wayne Cornish, a Nampa, read congratulatory telegrams from Eddie Cole, state athletic commissioner; Rex Allen, western movie and singing star; Senators Len Jordan and Frank Church; Representative

Orvil Hansen, and the national cowboy hall of fame. Oliver, who has turned to golf for relaxation in the past few years, fired a 29 — going over par with an out-of-bounds shot during the day's golf tournament. He was presented with a new set of golf clubs and a bag by Larry Jackson, Boise, general chairman of the event. Assisting Jackson with the arrangements were George Forscher, Burley; Ray Giffin,

S. Englehorn Gains Tie In Women's Meet

Winchester, Va. (UPI) — Shirley Englehorn fired a 4-under-par 68 Saturday and swept into a tie with Mary Mills at 139 for the second round lead in the $15,000 O'Sullivan Ladies Open golf tournament.

Miss Englehorn, in a tie for fourth after the first round of play, got off to a rocky start with a bogey on the first hole Saturday. But then she settled down and put together an impressive round that included eight birdies, a bogey on 16 and a double bogey on number seven.

She and Miss Mills both are five under par for the first two rounds of the 54-hole tournament which ends Sunday.

Weber, Idaho Dominate All-Star Team

PULLMAN, Wash. (UPI) — Baseball champion Weber State placed five men and Idaho three on the Big Sky Athletic Conference All-Star Team coaches announced here Saturday.

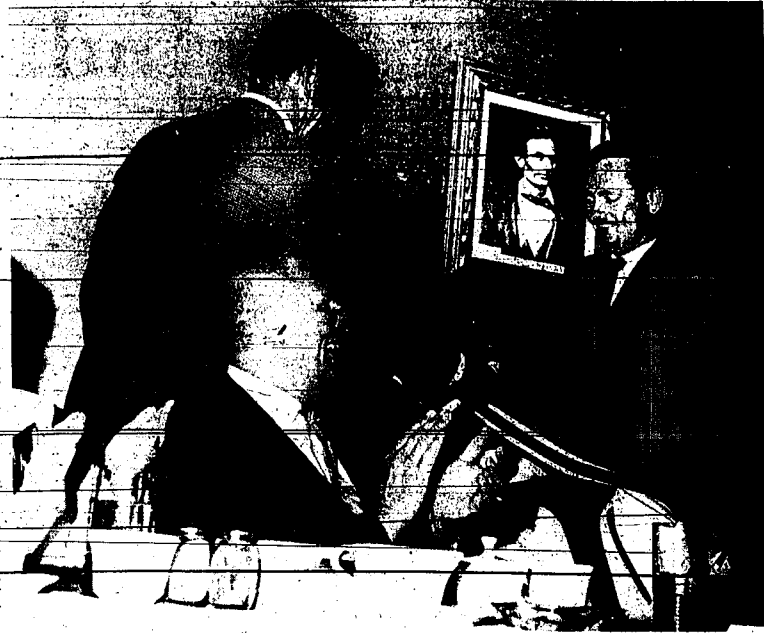

The last year team repeater from only was Idaho's first baseman, Paul Page.

Weber landed second baseman Frank Park, shortstop Larry Cole, outfielders Blake Zimmerman and Craig Hansens and pitcher Barry Bagley.

From Idaho, besides Page, Jim Smith was chosen at third base and Mark Switzer in the outfield.

Rounding out the first nine was catcher Terry Quinn of Montana and Gonzaga pitcher Skip Raschke.

Idaho State and Idaho dominate the second team, each placing three players. Gonzaga is represented by two in the second team with Montana and Weber each placing one.

CHAMPION COWBOY Dean Oliver, left, receives a hand-shake and a set of golf clubs from Larry Jackson during the Oliver appreciation day banquet at Burley's Ponderosa Inn.

Personality Has Jersey Derby Win

CHERRY HILL, N.J. (UPI) — Mrs. Ethel D. Jacobs' Personality wore down the speed horses at Garden State Park Saturday to capture the 11th running of the $128,400 Jersey Derby, closing-day feature of the track's Spring meeting.

The Preakness winner, ridden again by Eddie Belmonte, was 1 1/4 lengths in front of Frence Post-Farrin's Corn off the Cob at the end of the 1 1/8 mile run. Elberon Farm's Silent Screen, who held a narrow lead entering the stretch, tired in the drive to finish third, 2 3/4 lengths farther back.

High Echelon, coupled with the winner, finished fourth, followed by Son Excellence, More Princely, Hagley and Red Day.

Personality, a homebred son of Hall To Reason-Affectionately, took down first money of $63,460 to bring his earnings for the year to $338,967. The colt was winning his sixth race in 12 outings this season and third added money race. He had earlier won the Gotham in New York.

The even-money favorite with a Memorial Day crowd of 40,157, Personality returned $4.40, $2.60 and $2.20. Corn off the Cob paid $3.40 and $2.60, with Silent Screen $2.40 to show.

Fiddle Isle Equals Mark In Lakeside

INGLEWOOD, Calif. (UPI) — Stretch-running Fiddle Isle barely nosed out his stablemate, Pinjara, to capture the third running of the $56,250 Lakeside Handicap Saturday at Hollywood Park and his winning time equalled the American record for a mile on the turf.

The first two horses, owned and bred by oilman Howard B. Keock, tailed the field of 10 until the stretch. But in the final sixteenth, it was a two-horse race as Bargain Day was nearly three lengths back in third and Fignero finished fourth.

The winning time of 1:34 tied the American record set by Portsmouth at Laurel race course in 1965 and bettered the Hollywood track mark by a fifth of a second.

At the start of the race, the speed horses staged a front-running duel as Quilche, Society II and Neurolog attempted fighting for the lead.

Jockey Bill Shoemaker did not rush Fiddle Isle under his top impost of 126 pounds but the stretch-running son of Bagdad turned it on for the famed jockey in the final stages. Pinjara moved a little earlier and outgained Bargain Day for the lead midway down the stretch but then could not withstand the closing challenge of his stablemate.

The Keck entry returned

$5.60, $5.60 and $2.60 while Bargain Day paid $9.00 to show. Fiddle Isle earned a winner's purse of $34,750 while Pinjara garnered $9,500 for second.

It was Fiddle Isle's first start at the meeting and his first appearance on a track since he raced to a deadheat for first with Quicken Tree in the $125,000 San Juan Capistrano.

Finn Driver Killed In Race Tuneup

ADENAU, Germany (UPI) — Finnish driver Hans Laine was killed Saturday in practice runs for Sunday's 1,000 kilometer championship race for sports cars and prototypes on the rain soaked Nuerburgring speedway.

Laine, 24 was declared dead at the scene. Race officials said his car hit a small bump on a straightaway section of the 22-kilometer course, flew into the air and exploded when it hit the ground.

A spokesman for the ADAC Motor SPORTS Club said it took "quite some time" to identify the burned vehicle and driver.

Laine, a six-year racing veteran considered one of the better young drivers, was entered as part of a private Finnish team in Sunday's race.

Hallu Kahl, team leader, called the accident "terrible." "We have no idea how this could have happened," he said.

Upsets Rack Holiday Meet At Nampa

NAMPA (UPI) — Theuster of defending champion Mike Sweet by Mountain Home Air Force Base Staff Sergeant Jack Rice and a 60-foot putt by Boise's Rich Hutchins turned the annual Broadmore holiday golf tournament upside down Saturday afternoon.

Rice, 22, a native of Bend, Oregon, clipped Sweet, from Weiser, and 1969 and 1969 Idaho State amateur champion, two up.

Rice played out the 18th hole cautiously after Sweet sliced his second fairway shot out of bounds.

Hutchins, 20, who got off a tree-hindered 100 yard drive on the 19th hole against Kent Brown of College of Idaho, recovered from a stroke deficit by sinking a 50-foot putt. Brown three putted on his way to the loss.

Meanwhile Dean Oliver, 40, who came to fame in the rodeo, and 60-year-old Newt Carter joined the two younger golfers in Saturday's semi-final showdown.

Streams Provide Best Yields; Anglers Beat Wind For Good Opening

Despite high winds and redistribution of anglers, Magic Valley general fishing season opened successfully Saturday.

Cubs Gain Split With Padres On Beckert HR

CHICAGO (UPI)—Glenn Beckert's two-out eighth-inning home run, only the 16th of his six-year major league career, gave the Chicago Cubs an 1-0 victory over San Diego Saturday after the Padres took the first game of their doubleheader 11-4.

Beckert's blow was his second of the season and came off reliever Tom Dukes, who was charged with his second loss of the year.

As in the opener, the Cubs fell behind 4-0 in the first three innings of the nightcap, but the Cubs got to Padre starter Pat Dobson for three runs in the third.

Chicago's lead was extended to 5-0 in the fourth when Billingsley's single drove in two runs. The Cubs' lead was extended to 6-0 in the fifth when Billingsley's single drove in two runs.

San Diego's lead was extended to 7-0 in the sixth when Billingsley's single drove in two runs. The Cubs' lead was extended to 8-0 in the seventh when Billingsley's single drove in two runs.

Beckert's home run in the eighth inning gave the Cubs a 9-7 victory over the Padres. Beckert's home run was his second of the season.

With the streams clearing up sufficiently to provide the big bonanzas.

The hottest spot was Clear Lake, which is a fee fishing area, but a total of 440 anglers checked in, averaged five fish each and most of the big ones.

One of seven pounds was reported and several were in the four-five pound class. Billingsley Creek yielded some good size fish and some of the best averages and while Roseworth Reservoir fishing was slow, some of the trout taken were up to three pounds.

The Big Wood River, which received a lot of pressure from the well above Ketchum down to the Richfield Diversion, showed some fish up to two and two one-half pounds below Magic Creek.

Overall, the Idaho Fish and Game Department's aerial census picked up 1600 cars, which is the most counted in three years. However, the department did check on a few more spots which helped account for the increase. Magic Reservoir was at its lowest point since the trash fish eradication project 10 years ago.

The Hagerman Valley streams, above the fish trap, were down 355 cars to 428. Magic was down from 423 a year ago to 350 and boats, probably due to the wind, dropped to 61 against 156 last year.

Fishing Creek Reservoir, showing good success, was up from 81 cars to 119 while Little Wood was down from 76 to 55. The Big Wood River above Magic was the big hike, jumping from 57 in last year's field conditions to 151. The aerial count also showed a lot of snow remaining in the Big Wood River drainage, indicating a mildness may be in the river longer than usual this spring.

However, the river was in surprisingly good shape. The many streams, that comprise the Silver Creek area didn't come up to last year in numbers. A total of 328 cars were counted. Last year 328 cars were counted last year.

Accounting for a good part of the car count increase came in censusing Quigley reservoir, Penny Lake, Trail Creek Beaver ponds and trail creek. This added 73 cars to the count.

Creal census checks by field men and Idaho Fish and Game Department showed success by area that includes: Magic Reservoir — 369 fishermen, 978 rainbow and coho, 1400 hours and 0 fish per hour. Hot Springs landing — 101 anglers, 318 fish, 363 hours and 9 fish per hour; eastside boat anglers, 79 with 295 fish, 247 hours and 12 fish per hour and westside, 42 boat fishermen 152 fish, 78 hours, 2.0 per hour and westside bank fishermen, 42, with 28 fish, 170 hours and .2 fish per hour.

Hwy. 20 Lake; six anglers, two rainbow, nine bass and seven blue gill for 10 hours. Cassius Creek, 23 anglers, 31 fish, 144 hours and 9.2 per hour. Roseworth, 44 anglers, 13 trout, 113 hours, 1 fish per hour (some up to three pounds). Sublett Reservoir, 45 anglers, 104 trout, 106 hours and .5 fish per hour.

Cassius Creek, 15 anglers, 24 fish, 48 hours and .5 fish per hour. Hiley Creek, 24 anglers, 110 fish 50 hours and 2.0 per hour. Billingsley Creek, 24 anglers, 180 fish, 66 1/2 hours and 2.7 per hour.

Oster Lake, slow fishing, no reports. Big Wood below Magic, 15 anglers, 41 fish. Big Wood below Magic, 15 anglers, 41 fish, 44 hours, .9 fish per hour.

Little Wood Reservoir, 63 bank fishermen, 181 trout, 160 hours, 9 fish per hour and three boat fishermen, 45 trout, 10 1/2 hours and 4.2 per hour. Little Wood below reservoir, 21 anglers, 47 trout, 81 hours and .6 per hour, and above reservoir, 26 anglers, 99 trout, 106 hours and .9 fish per hour.

Fish Creek reservoir, 28 bank fishermen, 90 trout, 87 hours and 1.0 per hour, and six boat anglers, 33 trout, 10 hours and 3.2 per hour. Fish Creek below reservoir, three anglers, 29 trout, 25 hours. Quigley reservoir, Penny Lake, Trail Creek beaver ponds, 65 anglers, 106 trout, 64 hours and 3.4 per hour.

Silver Creek, 37 anglers, 315 fish, 218 hours and 1.4 per hour. Silver Creek below reservoir, 227 trout, 146 hours and 1.6; Loving Creek, 21 anglers, 40 trout, 21 hours and 2.3; Stocker Creek (Fly fishing only) 19 anglers, 11 trout 17 hours, .7 per hour; Grove Creek, 7 anglers, 20 trout, 20 hours.

STANDINGS Matson Puts Shot 71-4, Miss Cheng Wins In JFK Games

Berkeley, Calif. (UPI)—Randy Matson, greatest shot-putter in history, came within an inch and a quarter of tying his world record of 71 feet, 5 1/2 inches Saturday at the second annual Kennedy Invitational track and field meet.

The 25-year-old former Texas A&M student or a Houston stockbroker, threw the 16-pound ball 71-4 on his fourth try. It marked the eighth time, most by any one, he has thrown 70 feet.

Matson's performance, which also included throws of 69-6, 68-1, 69-3-4, 68-8-1-2 and 68-9-1-2, easily was the best of the day although Chi Cheng of Formosa and Los Angeles set an American record in the women's 100-yard hurdles, John Carlos scored a sprit double and George Frenn, Jack Beckeler, Bill Williams, Bill Elliott, Chuck LaBenz and Mohinder Gill set meet marks.

Fluke 4-Run, Homer Sinks Detroit 9-7. Milwaukee (UPI)—A fluke grand-slam homer in the first inning by Roberto Pennington in which outfielder Al Kaline was injured—got the Milwaukee Brewers started Saturday night and they went on to snap a seven-game losing streak with a 9-7 victory over the Detroit Tigers.

Kaline and center-fielder Jim Northrup collided while trying to field Pennington's hit and Kaline was carried from the field on a stretcher. He was hospitalized with a sore jaw and leg, but doctors said there was no fracture. Doctors said he would be kept overnight at Lutheran Hospital.

Pennington's homer capped a five-run first inning and came after starting pitcher Less Cain, loaded the bases on walks and gave up a run-scoring single to Ted Savage.

Despite the big first inning the Brewers had to battle from behind to win. The Tigers pecked away and took a 7-0 lead with a run in the seventh inning, but the Brewers came up with three runs in the eighth to pull the game out.

Montana Lands Kalispell Star. Kalispell, Mont. (UPI)—Flathead High School All-American basketball star Brent Wilson announced late Saturday night he would attend Montana State University to play on a basketball scholarship.

Crutcher Traded To N. Y. By Rams

Los Angeles Rams Saturday acquired linebacker Tommy Joe Crutcher, a six-year National Football League veteran in a trade with the New York Giants for two undisclosed draft choices.

Crutcher, 28, is expected to play behind Jack Pardee and Jim Purnell next season. The 6-foot-3, 235-pound Crutcher was a starter the past two seasons with the Giants. He suffered a knee injury in the final New York game last year and underwent surgery in January.

For the mile, LaBenz overhauled Dick Quax of New Zealand to win in a fast 3:56.9 as four runners bested four minutes. LaBenz, a senior at Arizona State University, stepped past Quax who had the year's best time of 3:57.8 in going away.

John Mason went under four minutes for the first time in finishing second in 3:58.4. John Lawson was third in 3:59.2 and Mason was almost matter-of-factly about it.

The 70-foot barrier really is not that psychological," he said. "It's simply a matter of adjusting to the time changes and the facilities. "Also I've worked harder this year. A year ago, I didn't have as much time with the market so busy."

Miss Cheng, running like the wind—after clearing the final hurdle, easily beat friendly rival Mamie Rollins in the women's 100 hurdles, clocking 1:33 seconds, one-tenth off the world record set by Miss Rollins a year ago in Warsaw, Poland.

Carlos, the world's leading sprinter, took the 100 in 9.4 and the 200 in 20.4, while Frenn made the third longest throw ever by an American in winning the hammer with a 232-7 effort.

Becher, a 1968 Olympian, won the three-mile run in 13:13. Williams took the 400 hurdles in 50.5. Elliott beat Reynaldo Brown on fewer misses at 7-1 in the high jump and Gill took the triple jump at 52-4 1/2.

The runner who figured in all three scores for his team. The runner was hit off veteran reliever Dick Hall who got the first two men he faced. It was only Hall's second loss in seven decisions this year.

Right-hander Tom Murphy threw the distance for the Angels to snap a three-game California losing streak. He scattered six hits while walking three and fanning three to hand the Orioles only their second loss in the last 10 games. His record is now 6-4.

Blancas Keeps Lead At Memphis; Weiskopf And Hills One Shot Behind

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (UPI)—Homero Blancas, bidding for his second tournament victory in three weeks, maintained his one-shot lead after three rounds in the $150,000 Danny Thomas Memphis Classic Saturday with a three-under-par 67, but Dave Hill and Tom Weiskopf dogged his trail.

Blancas, winner of the Colonial National two weeks ago was at 198, 17-under-par after 54 holes.

The slender Hill, paired with Blancas for the second day in a row, came within a hair of tying the leader on the 18th green when his birdie putt lipped the cup.

Hill, defending champion and only two-time winner here, started the day one stroke back of Blancas and watched him widen the margin as Blancas tore the front two under and Hill was even par. Hill was even par.

Blancas turned with a four-stroke lead, but Hill charged the backside with an eagle on the par five 13th hole and a birdie at the 18th to match Blancas' 67.

Weiskopf, who was in a seven-way tie for fifth place after two rounds, turned in a 64 Saturday, touring both the front and the back in three-under-par.

All along in third place was Steve Spray, who had a hole-in-one on the 182 yard par three 12th hole en route to a third round 65 to put him six strokes under for the tournament.

Bert Greene Has 69 For Lead In Brazilian Open

SAO PAULO (UPI)—American Bert Greene shot a two-under-par 69 Saturday to take a commanding five-stroke lead with a 204 after the third round of the Brazilian Open golf tournament. Argentines Roberto De Vicenzo and Florentino De Molina were tied for second place at 209 after shooting 68 and 69, respectively.

De Vicenzo, a 17-year-old South African amateur who held the second-round lead, skied to a 77 Saturday to fall back into a fourth-place tie with Australian Bobby Stanton at 211. Stanton had a 71.

Blancas said as he and Hill exchanged gibes while going over their score cards with sports writers. "We have been playing together for three days now and that must be some kind of a record."

"I played real well. On number eight I three putted, missing from one foot. I just got careless and went to sleep," Blancas said.

A stroke of luck saved Blancas from possible disaster on the par four 11th hole when his hooked drive hit a tree and bounced toward the green.

Hill said he did not putt nearly as well the last two days as he did Thursday when he fired a record tying first round 63.

"I'm gonna go with two putters in my bag tomorrow," Hill said.

There was a three way tie for third place at 201. Nine under

Pope Leads Muny Medal Play Meet

Ron Pope, carrying a 17-stroke handicap, fired the best round of his life Friday afternoon to take the lead in both net and gross divisions of the Twin Falls Men's Golf Association's Memorial Day medal play tournament.

Pope, missing a short birdie putt on the 18th, turned in a one-over-par 68 for the gross lead and with his full handicap allowed hammered the net pace to 52.

He carries a one-shot lead into the final 18 holes Sunday over

Jim Blandford and Bob Wildman, both shooting 70 Saturday. Larry Hatch and Weldon Haskins, who had his best round, too, were another shot back at 71.

In the net division, Pope had 52 while Haskins had 55. Dave Lawley posted a 58 while Hatch and Duane Scheberger were tied at 61.

Twilight Years Are Pleasurable

Senior citizens should not be forgotten. Their lives have been spent in service for others — raising families, working in the fields, offices or at home, and many continue using their abilities and hobbies for others into the seventh and eighth decades.

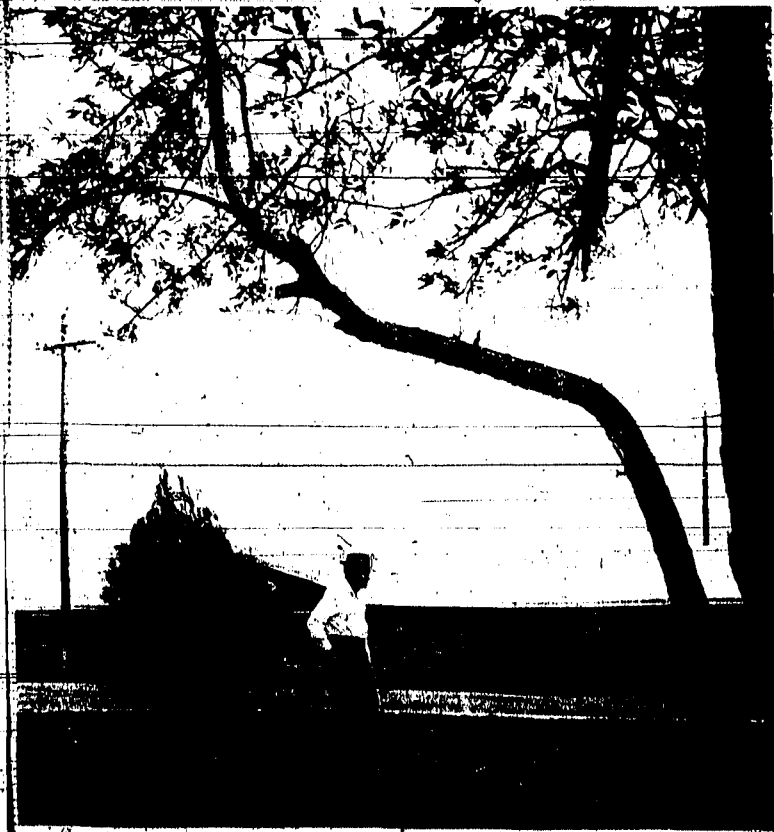

How many countless persons have their wardrobe augmented by gifts lovingly knitted or crocheted by hands not as brisk as they once were, but still busy? How many times have our menus been brightened with the addition of choice fruits or vegetables from "grandpa or grandma's" garden.

A special week was set aside nationally during May, urging people to visit confined individuals or those residing in nursing homes. An outstanding observance — to say the least — if one keeps in mind these visits are just as welcome 52 weeks a year. But many of us, the young, the middle aged, those who are so busy with their own affairs, forget to take time to visit in the nursing homes in our communities.

Experiment With Tasty Serendipity Potato Salad

Serendipity — the knack of making accidental, yet fortunate discoveries — goes into the making of many a good cook.

In fact, serendipity is what puts the "you" in cooking! It's your urge to experiment, your drive to be different, and your for adventure.

Take ordinary potato salad, for instance. This is nearly everyone's favorite summer dish, but if you have serendipity, you won't make ordinary potato salad. You'll try Serendipity Potato Salad instead, which starts a whole series of delightful surprises for you and your family.

Instant Mashed Potatoes (for 6 servings)
1-3 cup mayonnaise or salad dressing
1 tablespoon vinegar
1 can (4 1/2 oz.) deviled ham
1 tablespoon sliced green onion
1 cup chopped green pepper
3 tablespoons pickle relish
Lettuce
Tomatoes

Prepare instant potatoes as package directs (measure three cups). Cool. Combine with remaining ingredients except lettuce and tomatoes mixing well. Line pan 12 by 8 by 2 inches with waxed paper; turn mixture into pan. Chill overnight. Lift out of pan and cut into six rounds or squares.

To serve: Place each piece of salad on lettuce leaves, garnish with tomato slices or quarters, if desired. Makes six servings.

First Surprise: You can forget about peeling potatoes! This salad calls for tasty instant mashed potatoes. No messy mashing, no lumps. Instant are consistently reliable, take less than five minutes to prepare, and provide just the right amount you need. Since instant mashed potatoes come packaged, they are easy to store, too. They don't sink and grow sprouts while waiting to be used.

Ready for the second surprise? Serendipity Potato Salad "blushes" prettily thanks to its bit of deviled ham. Green onion, pickle relish, and green pepper are mingled in, too, for color and crunch. It's a savory, hearty potato salad which can serve as a light meal.

Third surprise: This potato salad is shapely. You can cut it in squares, wedges, or even in rounds by using a sharp biscuit cutter which is two inches or more in diameter. (This will leave salad trimmings which can be gobbled for lunch the next day.)

Fourth surprise: Serendipity Potato Salad is compatible with a great many other summer foods. Try this light-hearted arrangement: Line a large plate or platter with crinkly leaf lettuce; place thick tomato slices, topped with rounds of potato salad, around the edge.

Spring Ballet Concert Set

Beverly Hackney will present her ballet students in their spring dance concert June 6 at the College of Southern Idaho Fine Arts Auditorium.

The lower division students will dance to Robert Schumann's "Papillon" (Butterflies). Mrs. Hackney took this kaleidoscope of mood and action in a set of 12 tiny vignettes, and set a series of dances to help the children gain a feeling of movement to music.

The upper division students will dance The Polovitian Dances from Alexander Borodin's opera, "Prince Igor." "Prince Igor" is an epic dealing with the Tartar Khan Konechak's capture of Prince Igor and his son in the 11th century. The dances are a salute by the warriors and maidens to their leader, the Khan.

They will also dance Les Sylphides, music by Frederick Chopin and choreography by Michael Fokine.

Area Friendship Club Conducts Memorial Rites

WENDELL — A memorial service was held in honor of the late Barbara Kuriz and Maurice Wolf, former members of the Magic Valley Friendship Club for Handicapped adults at a recent social held in the Fellowship Hall of the United Presbyterian Church, Wendell.

The service was opened with Mrs. Lula White playing "Sweet Hour of Prayer." Roll call was answered by each person present telling a joke, a reading or reciting a poem. The Charlie Walters family and Charlene Carell presented a musical program featuring a variety of music.

Buel McGhee stated that 41 members and guests were welcomed. The members who are physically handicapped expressed thanks to their relatives and friends who so kindly assist them to take part in the club activities.

The women of the Presbyterian Church decorated the hall with arrangements of spring flowers and white tapers. The tables were covered with white embossed cloths. Nelda Schiffer and Joan Evelt assisted with the decorations.

The Gooding, Eden, Wendell, Jerome Twin Falls, Malad City and Kimberly areas were represented.

The next meeting is scheduled for June 11 at the Wendell American Legion Hall. The program will consist of slides. Business will include the time and place for the picnic. Everyone is invited to come and bring a guest.

TITLE CHANGE
HOLLY WOOD (LIP) — For some mystical reason Universal Pictures changed the title of George Peppard's new horse opera from "Hark" to "H. Fleet, Robber."

choreographed the ballet in 1908 for Diaghilev's "Ballet Russes." It was originally entitled "Chopinias." Later the name was changed to Les Sylphides. It is one of the few romantic "ballet blanc" dances by leading composers today, and provides a perfect unity of music, movement and costume.

Donations for the Marcia Hackney-Holly Smith Memorial scholarship, won this year by Don Graybill, are $1.25 for adults and 50 cents for children.

Arena Is Their Classroom

By BONNIE BAIRD JONES
Times-News Staff Writer

If rodeo and horse show queen contest judges in Idaho are finding their work a bit more difficult these days it could be due to a successful program of the Idaho Rodeo Queen's Association now in its fourth year.

For the past four years young women of Idaho, who have held titles ranging from queens of area rodeos to Miss Rodeo America, have pooled their talent and experience to assist novice queen contestants who may not have won any titles as yet but aspire to someday wear the Miss Rodeo America crown.

The association sponsors a two day queen clinic in which the young women are given assistance on all requirements of contests including how to dress, wear their hair, ride their horse and even tie a goat.

For the second time the event was held this year in Twin Falls with 18 girls entering the rigorous two days.

Activities began the girls registering in the Twin Falls Expo lounge bright and early on Saturday. In addition to their clinic identification badge each received a packet of gifts from local merchants.

Current Miss Rodeo Idaho, Carolyn Harvey, gave a report with photographs on events of the Miss Rodeo America contest in Las Vegas last winter where she represented Idaho. In her talk she emphasized some of the requirements and fine points of judging.

Former Miss Rodeo America, Karen Lavens James, Jerome, added to this report and then addressed the girls and worked individually with each on proper selection of clothing for their particular type of figure and how to select flattering styles, colors and how to combine suits, hats, boots, gloves and other accessories for the most appealing results.

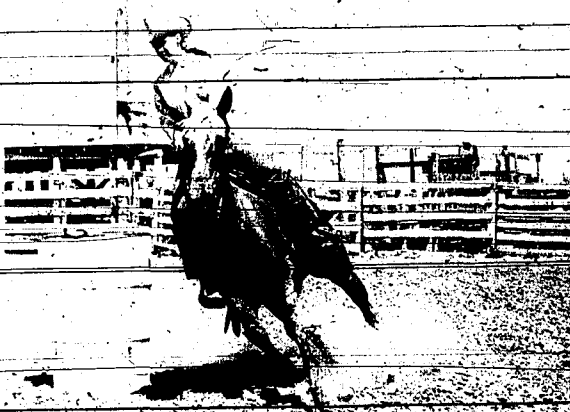

Following a lunch break each girl was asked questions such as those they might receive during the personal interview of a contest. Here they received suggestions as to how long the answers and comments should be.

Four area hair stylists met with the girls during the afternoon and each girl had an opportunity for individual help from at least one of the experts. How to wear natural hair during riding events and when appearing in dresses, use of fall, wiglets, full wigs and the addition of a curled wiglet as a "bum" to change a short haircut to a more elaborate style with a

ONE OF FOUR hair stylists who worked with queen clinic entries during the first day program is Jeanette Peterson who illustrates style becoming to the western hat, using Debbie Guthrie as a model. Awaiting their turns are Dawn Thompson, Jerome, left, and Shelly Breeding, Murtaugh. Stylists used the natural hair, wigs, wiglets and falls to demonstrate attractive styles. Use of wiglets of numerous curls at the rear of a short hair cut was popular with many of the girls.

BARREL RACING is one of the many horsemanship feats required in many rodeo queen contests. Here Debbie Guthrie, Shoshone, cuts in close to a barrel during horsemanship clinic. It's a far cry from days when many queen contestants had never ridden a horse until entering the contest and relied on their appearance and sometimes friendships to win the title.

LOOK FOR LARAE Gilster, Twin Falls, in some future rodeo queen contests, say clinic officials. By a vote of the clinic participants and instructors, she was judged the girl who made the most advancement during the two day clinic. Here she receives the traveling trophy and smaller permanent trophy from Carolyn Harvey, right.

Area Hunter Finds Germany Offers Sound Game Management Program

By LEE TREMAINE
Times-News Staff Writer

In Germany, hunting as a sport is taken seriously — so seriously that a hunter can wear camouflage clothing for invisibility and run no risk of getting shot.

— Lt. Col. Clyde Murphy of Twin Falls should know — he was president of the Rod and Gun Club of Dusseldorf, Germany, for three years, until he returned home for transfer to Vietnam. Col. Murphy served as provost marshal in Germany, in charge of the Military Police who in turn were in charge of keeping the peace among nearly 30,000 U.S. military men still stationed in his part of Germany, near the Luxembourg border.

To obtain a hunting license in Germany, a native German must complete a comprehensive and intensive course of lessons that requires a full year of classes several times each week for several hours each night. A hunter must be able to classify game on sight and refrain from shooting restricted animals.

All hunting in Germany is done on private ground, and only with the permission of the owner of hunting rights for the area, Col. Murphy explained. (By German law and custom, all land is privately owned; there are no large tracts of public land as in the United States. All game animals on the land are also privately owned.

The owner of the land may, and usually does, sell the rights to hunt on his land, often at an auction to the highest bidder.

The hunting-rights owner, in turn, has full control of the land and full ownership of the animals.

A hunter who bags an animal may purchase his trophy from the land baron; otherwise the animal belongs to the owner of the hunting rights.

Hunting is a pleasure in Germany; the citizens take the right to hunt most seriously, and a serious breach of the law, such as a fatal accident, will cancel the hunter's license promptly — and, most likely, permanently.

Thus, there are practically no "accidents" in Germany among hunters, Col. Murphy said.

American troops stationed in Germany may take a shorter "crash" course in the hunting laws and customs in order to obtain a local license, he added.

In addition to the complex hunting laws, all game animals are classified as to breeding possibilities, and the most desirable animals are hunted. Each hunter must be able to classify his target before shooting — and with the land baron to answer to, a mistake can be costly.

"There are just as many game animals in German forests today as there were 500 years ago; they've taken care of their game," Col. Murphy said.

In addition to the 30,000 U.S. troops stationed in his area of Germany, there are nearly 15,000 family members who comprise a community of their own. The children attend U.S.-operated dependents' schools, learning the German language early so they can communicate with their neighbors.

Relations between the American dependents and the native Germans are very cordial, Mrs. Murphy said; those who speak the German language can mix well with their neighbors, and those who have trouble will be taught by their new friends.

The Murphy's oldest daughter, who will be 12 shortly, enjoyed learning German in order to make friends among the local youngsters. She visited a German family for two weeks in a situation where none of the family spoke any English, so she was forced to use her German constantly. A girl in her host family of the same age, however, was trying to learn English, so the two girls enjoyed swapping lessons for the two weeks, Mrs. Murphy said.

In Vietnam, Col. Murphy will be stationed at Long Binh as provost marshal for the year-long tour of duty. This will be his third overseas post; he has served three tours of duty in Germany, and saw duty in Korea after the Korean War.

OFFICIALS OF CLINICS during the past four years, Carol Qualman, Nampa; Karen Jones, Twin Falls, and Yo Wilhite Marts, Nampa, are joined by Miss Rodeo Idaho, Carolyn Harvey, all from left in assisting the young girls in what will help them most in preparing for queen contests. Rules change frequently as do requirements but Rodeo Queen Association members keep posted and coach the girls in new regulations and ideas.

MRS. CLYDE MURPHY, on left, and her husband, Lt. Col. Murphy, pose beside a valued trophy of their recent stay in Germany — a boar skin. Col. Murphy shot the boar after a lengthy search, and was the only one he was able to bag in his three-year tour of duty.

HOW NOT TO BE CHOSEN queen is illustrated by Carol Qualman, clinic co-chairman, as she assumes suit before the other contestants wearing too much make up, brown hat, gold pants, green jacket and earrings, and, oh, yes, chewing gum. Pondering the combination are Karen James and Carolyn Harvey from left.

If The Old Ticker Or Those Lungs Or Legs Are Slipping, Better Forget The Moon Jaunt

BY O.A. (GUS) KELKER
Times-News Editor

If you want to walk on the Moon you will have to have (but not in any particular order) (1) a strong heart, (2) a good pair of lungs and (3) a good pair of legs.

Unless you have all three of them you had better forget the walk if you are blessed with the golden trio of attributes then the Moon is the place.

And to get there you will not need to be projected upwards. All you will have to do is drive north on Highway 83 Alternate, which branches out of Shoshone and goes through Richfield and Carey. And pretty soon, on the South side of the highway as you travel somewhat East, you will come to the place.

The Moon? Well, not really, but it is a reasonable facsimile and it is known as the Craters of The Moon.

Operated under the United States Department of the Interior as a National Monument directly with the National Park Service, it is unique, interesting and much better than the somewhat limited national publicity it gets.

If you like something different then it's worth all the sweat and strain you will probably encounter even though the walkways you follow are paved. On a somewhat cool day or early in the morning or relatively late in the evening—most anyone can enjoy the areas into which people from the outside are allowed to venture.

We've never been there in the heat of the summer but there is a wild rumor going the rounds that the lava then is just about as hot as when it first came out of the ground. And it's probably right.

But there are things to see in this most unique of all explosive areas where upheavals first took place thousands of years ago and yet the latest a mere 1,500 years back — within historic times, and only 400 years or so after the death of Christ and a thousand or so years before good old Christopher sailed over this way to discover us.

The established trails take you on a 20-minute walk or on a two-hour hike. There are no benches along the way but if you get tired, just sit on the walk. You will not be the first one to do so.

There's the Great Owl Cavern which is a lava tube about 500 feet long and 40 feet high; there are those interesting tree molds which are vertical or horizontal and which were formed when the hot and moving lava embraced the trees standing in the way; there is another cave area where so-called Indian Tunnel stretches underground for 800 or more feet; caves, large and small, with eternal snow floors; crescent-shaped rock piles used by the ancient Indians as firebreaks and wind protection.

It was not until about 1925, government officials say, that the wonders of the area attracted more than local curiosity. Now thousands come to look and wonder.

A special area is there for camper outfits, trailers or just tents; there is running water and restrooms. A fine visitor center contains exhibits explaining the volcanic formations, plants, animals and the monument's history.

There's a seven-mile loop road which skirts all the interesting places and leads to these and others by connecting trails.

There are camera possibilities galore, including gnarled and long dead trees whose features change with the swing of the sun or the rustle of the wind.

There are a few "don'ts" for the visitors. Don't pick up the rocks and carry them home. Don't disturb the vegetation. Don't molest the wildlife and don't carry firearms.

Otherwise you can move around — remaining on the paths, of course — about as you please.

And the season at the "Craters" is now in full swing. After a certain date — June 15, I think it is — there's a small charge but that's all there is to it.

If this were in Hawaii you'd struggle miles through crowds to get a glimpse of it. Here, just a ways from Twin Falls, Jerome or Burley, you can practically have it to yourself.

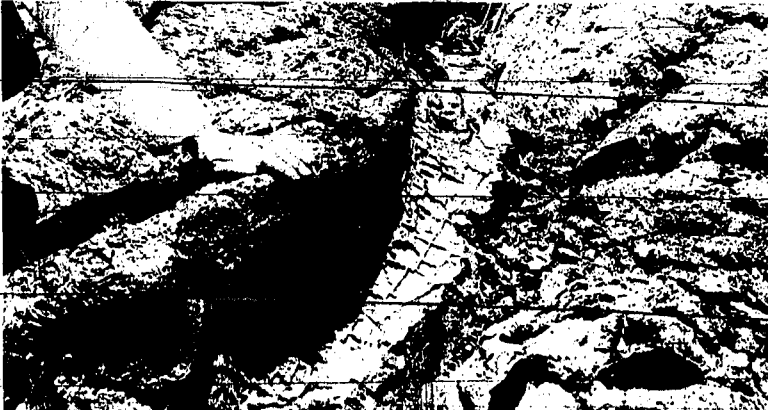

But like we said — take it easy if you have a bum ticker, weak legs or non-expanding lungs. Really, though, you'll enjoy every minute of it and at the time you will be realizing this old Magic Valley was a real, hot place in it's day — early day, that is!

He has held the post of lodge master in the Burley lodge, while living there a number of years ago, and served as commander for the Shriners.

Personality Important To Safety

Officials of the Idaho Department of Highways say safe driving isn't all in the knowledge of operating a vehicle — part of it may be the driver's personality.

In a survey relating personality variables to traffic records, 2,000 truck drivers, all with 20-year safe driving records, were checked.

These driving experts with top safety records were found to be average physically and in I.Q., and their knowledge of the road as measured by pencil and paper tests was also about average. Only their personality traits were unusual.

The outstanding factors in safe drivers personalities included loyal, dependable, sober and hard working employees who were good husbands and fathers, and saving and, above all, cautious. The safe drivers planned ahead in every day life. An example of this caution was the report of the driver who let everyone on the elevator ahead of him and let them do the shoving, then looked back to make certain no one else wanted to board before he stepped in.

but poor defense is not an impossibility.

Suppose that West opens his fourth best spade, South wins with the 10 and leads a low diamond. West discards a heart. East wins the trick and instead of returning a spade decides to play a club. Now all South has to do is to win that trick, cash four hearts and the other high club and play a third club. Assuming that West has hung on to his highest clubs, West will be played and forced to lead away from his king of spades at the end of the hand.

Or West might open the two of clubs. This allows dummy's 10 of clubs to win the first trick. South tests the diamonds unsuccessfully and East is in. Now if East does not shift to a spade South will be able to cash out clubs and hearts and eventually force West to give him a second spade trick.

Here is a hand that seems to have caused a lot of discussion in Decatur. Mrs. William Hays writes in part, "I think it would really be possible in a duplicate game. It sure would. Some North-South pairs might work their way up to six diamonds, a few would play four hearts, but most would land in three no-trump and go down one or two tricks. The suit bidders would go down even more. Thus, minus 100 North-South would be a very good score. Some might underbid and stop at a part score. The underbidding would be well rewarded this time. Somewhere, if the hand were played often enough a South player might well make three no-trump. It would require poor defense

CHECKING UP

IT IS A CUSTOM among the Sikhs of India to grow their hair long. But the rebellious sons of these sect members nowadays go to barbers in defiance. ... NATURALLY you know the early bird catches the worm, but can you identify said bird? It's the skylark, which generally arises raucously about 3 a.m. ... DID I SAY there were no elderly surfers? An Occidente, Cal., correspondent contends one Pop Procter, now 85, is still riding the waves. If he isn't the most popular surfer afloat, who is?

CONSIDER THIS - A Puerto Rican who is wealthy tends to be happier than a Puerto Rican who is poor. Further, a Puerto Rican who is healthy tends to be happier than a Puerto Rican who is sick. Such were the remarkable findings of researchers who recently examined 1,500 Puerto Ricans at a government-grant expense of approximately $250,000.

TRAFFIC - Among pedestrians, the fatality rate of those aged 60 is nine times greater than those aged 21. Incidentally, even though elderly ladies outnumber the elderly men, far more male than female pedestrians die on the streets. Finally, that month wherein the largest number of walkers get killed is December, and that time of day when it's most apt to happen is between 6 and 9 p.m.

SHORT STORY - It was the custom among the well-to-do in old Persia to send a boy to some famous tutor for an education. The good Sadi was such a tutor. A merchant sent his son to Sadi with a message, requesting the poet educate the lad and send the merchant the bill. Before long, however, the boy went back to his dad, bearing the following note from Sadi: "If the ass that brought Christ to Jerusalem had turned his head to Mecca, he would still remain an ass. Wash a dog in the Seven Seas and in 10 minutes he is dirty again. It is no use. I am returning your boy."

CUSTOMER SERVICE - Q. "Does the fish feel the pain when it gets hooked?" A. The men of science say the fish does not, or not much, anyhow, but I don't know how they found out. ... Q. "As far as children go, aren't bananas the most popular fruit?" A. They are No. 2. Apples rank No. 1, peaches No. 3 and pears No. 4. ... Q. "What proportion of mothers, bottle-feed their babies from birth?" A. About three out of four.

SWAMP ITEM - That a tadpole grows up to become a frog is common knowledge. Not always true, however. Some tadpoles grow down to become frogs. One South American tadpole, for instance, gets to be about 10 inches long before it shrinks to a 2 1/2 inch frog. More frog and tadpole data coming up. Watch for it.

AM SURPRISED to learn from the researchers that the young ladies who go to the women's colleges tend to drink more liquor than the coeds. "MAY EACH WOMAN look at her own legs," said the late Christian Dior, "and find a skirt length that suits her best." Excellent.

They're fishing in the Yonne River today, but not for fish. In the past several days, passersby have found an estimated $8,200 in gold coins on the river bed. The coins—including Mexican pesos, English sovereigns and Tunisian pieces—were spotted from the banks when the river level dropped to a new high dam upstream. The coins have been handed in to police, pending investigation.

G.F. Man Reports Float Down River

GLENN FERRY — Bill Mineau reports an interesting float trip down the Snake River from the bridge below Strike Dam to Grandview this week. He and his brother-in-law, Ray Mall, Clovis, Calif., used an inflatable raft to make the two and one-half hour trip, fishing as they floated, and viewing the banks of the river, fairly sluggish in that stretch, and the birds and wildlife. They reported one island where there were many cranes, or herons nesting in big, bulky nests among the trees, and the birds quite indifferent and unafraid of the men, literally covered the smallest island. They saw many ducks, including mallards, and one variety Bill failed to identify for sure. Floating streams in this area is a penchant of Mineau's. He Young Ahlm is among top graduates from Buhl High School this year and at Buhl was a member of the National Honor Society, student council, pep band and numerous other activities. He also was on the high honor roll and was an outstanding all-around athlete, playing football and basketball and being a member of the track and weightlifting teams. He plays the saxophone, draws and scripts and has "some background in handwriting analysis." He also is a computer programmer and a chess expert.

Polly pays a dollar for every idea used. Send them to her, care of this newspaper.

DEAR POLLY—Place a shoebox lid, edges up, in bottom of your shopping bag to provide extra strength. This also works for a fabric tote bag.—HAZEL

To paint a screen or cover it with insect repellent, fasten an old piece of carpet to a block of wood. Saves lots of time and avoids lots of brush-splattering.—SADIE

DEAR POLLY—I live alone and broil meat for quick meals. Instead of messing up the broiler, I stretch a piece of aluminum foil over the top of a disposable foil pie tin. I poke holes in the top with a fork so the grease can fall through. Usually such a pan can be used two or three times.—MISS R. E. M.

DEAR POLLY—Pipe cleaners make fine twists to close plastic bags. They are strong, longer and more pliable than most such closures, and can be used many times.—MRS. F. E. M.

DEAR POLLY—For less eye strain while mending stockings, I slip a lighted flashlight inside the stocking.—ALICE

DEAR POLLY—I buy groceries and canned goods in quantity when on sale, then mark the date of purchase on each can or package with a marking pen. This keeps the oldest foods moving off the shelves.—MRS. J. W. M.

- PUNCH A HOLE IN EACH END OF 8 WOODEN ICE CREAM SPOONS. (LAY THE SPOONS ON AN OLD MAGAZINE AND PUNCH HOLES WITH THE POINT OF A SCISSORS.)
- FASHION TWO SETS OF "LEGS" AS SHOWN AT RIGHT, USING A DROP OF GLUE ON TOOTHPICKS, WHERE SHOWN, TO FIX THEM IN PLACE.
- FASTEN 2 MORE SPOONS TO THE FIRST PAIR WITH ANOTHER TOOTHPICK.
- USE A LARGE NAIL TO MAKE A HOLE THROUGH THE CORK HEAD TO MAKE SPACE FOR A TOOTHPICK.
- PUT YOUR DOODLE DOG TOGETHER THIS WAY... THEN STICK ON CLOTH EARS AND PAINT ON EYES AND NOSE.

Ask Them Yourself

FOR PRESIDENT RICHARD NIXON

What is your reaction when you hear a comedian imitate you?—Mrs. Raymond Rohrbach, Eureka, S.D.

● Those imitations that are well done are enjoyed.

FOR ASCHER L. MESTEL, M.D.,

You once separated Siamese twins, Sharisse and Sherrie Jones. How are they doing now?

Did you have to remove the common leg?—Mrs. Florence Kaiser, Trenton, N.J.

● Sharisse and Sherrie Jones were born joined at the pelvis, having only three legs between them. They were separated at Brookdale Hospital Center in November of 1968. Both girls are thriving. The one common leg could not be utilized by either of the children. The bone of this limb was removed and the skin and muscle was utilized to aid in separating the children. They are being orthopedically prepared for fitting of prostheses, which may enable them to walk.

FOR DEBBIE BRYANT,

Miss America 1966
When you were in the Miss America Pageant, you said that you wanted to become a doctor. Are you still trying to pursue this goal?—Mrs. D. E. Hitt, Oshkosh, Wis.

● I am not presently pursuing my ambition of becoming a pediatrician. Following my reign as Miss America in 1966, I returned to school at the University of Kansas, where I graduated in June of 1969. My decision not to go on to medical school has been influenced by several factors, not the least of which was my marriage in September, 1967.

FOR JACK WEBB of "Dragnet"

There are always people working at desks on your program. Is this just a "set," or are the shows filmed in a real police department?—Sallie Bristow, Mattoon, Ill.

● The show is filmed on a set which is the reproduction of the actual Los Angeles Police Headquarters. People working at desks are actors portraying staff members there.

FOR DR. THOMAS O. PAINE,

Administrator of NASA
Does the moon dust brought back by the astronauts resemble the earth's dust?—Lee S. Ward, Bradley Beach, N.J.

● The lunar samples brought back by the Apollo 11 and 12 astronauts were composed of the same chemical elements found on earth, but the amounts of some elements were significantly different from those of either earth rocks or meteorites.

FOR GRAHAM KERR,

the Galloping Gourmet
Were you actually a chef before you started appearing on television?—Mrs. F. W., Niagara Falls, N.Y.

● I was never a chef, and I dislike anyone who calls himself a chef without having spent at least 25 years in the kitchen in charge of at least 20 cooks. I am an enthusiastic amateur who gets paid.

FOR EDDIE ALBERT

The "Prayer for the Seventies" is so beautiful, and you give it so much meaning. Did you write it? If not, who is the author? Was there any one particular thing that prompted him to write it?—Margaret Schreier, Delta, Colo.

● The "Prayer for the Seventies" was written by Norman Corwin. As far as I know, Mr. Corwin wrote the poem out of his honest concern for the affairs of men.

● The "Prayer for the Seventies" was written by Norman Corwin. As far as I know, Mr. Corwin wrote the poem out of his honest concern for the affairs of men.

FOR ELIZABETH POST, etiquette authority

Who should go down the aisle in a movie theater first, the man or the woman?—L. M., Gainesville, Fla.

● The order in which a couple goes down the aisle in a movie theater is unimportant. When there are no ushers, a man and woman go down the aisle together.

Want to ask a famous person a question? You can through this column, and we'll get the answer from the prominent person you designate. Send question, preferably on a post card, to Ask Them Yourself, Family Weekly, 641 Lexington Ave., New York, N.Y. 10022. We cannot acknowledge questions, but $5 will be paid for each one used.

What in the World!

A Dame Called Sioux Dame Judith Anderson, 72, is recognized as one of the most classical actresses in the English-speaking world. But in her new film, "A Man Called Horse," she doesn't speak a word of it. She, like everyone else in the filmed drama—except two—speaks real Sioux. Dame Judith plays a crusty Indian grandmother who is "given" a captured white man to be used as a "workhorse." To learn how to shout orders at her slave, played by Irishman Richard Harris, she in the family fish-and-chips shop. After he married, Salt came to America and opened a small fish-and-chips business in San Jose, Calif. In true rage-to-riches fashion, that one became 100 spreading up across the country, and he sold the business for $12 million. He still supervises the buying of one million pounds of fish a week, however. Authentic English F&C, Salt explains, "is filled cut and sliced fried potatoes (never 'French' fried) in but oil, served to customers wrapped up in the London Times."

Parley's Good for You—Among leaf and stem vegetables, parley has the highest vitamin C, potassium, and fat

The 16th-century England discovered parley for cooking and pharmaceuticals, especially for dysentery, scrofula (swollen lymph glands), and masking bad breath. "The North Carolina Medical Journal" recently decided to give it a mention because it noted that the good doctors attending medical conventions reportedly were leaving that wonderful carum petroselinum on their dinner plates.

Dog Days Never put your dog unprotected in the hot sun, says the Gaines Dog Research Center. Fresh water in clean bowls should always be available. Many dogs like licking ice. # How Will Your Marriage Turn Out?

Counselors offer some guidelines to help in assessing the chances for happy wedlock.

By THEODORE IRWIN

"I LOVE my husband, but I can't bear living with him any more," complains a suburban wife to a divorce lawyer, after only a year of wedded life.

And in the case of an engaged couple, a perplexed young man unburdened to a marriage counselor: "Sure, we're in love, but Betty and I really have little in common."

Such situations, of course, are familiar. In the prevailing American mythology, the man—and often the only—factor in choosing a mate is "falling-in-love." Love is here to play, and marriage counselors still vote it as a prime essential.

"But the glorification of romantic love is being de-emphasized," contends Dr. Aron Krich, a psychologist specializing in marriage counseling, and co-author of "Man and Wife."

Of late, social scientists have been stressing the basic importance of such practical considerations as personality traits and attitudes. Serious college youth, particularly, are reporting an increasing regard for these values before marriage.

For young people, as well as for those contemplating remarriage and the already married, a predictive guide could provide helpful insights to the chances for success.

What psychologists and sociologists, based on many surveys and studies, consider significant elements most likely to affect marital success have been neatly summed up by Dr. Gerald Albert, director of counseling services at C. W. Post College of Long Island University. There are favorable and unfavorable components to bear in mind in forecasting your marriage's chances:

1. Childhood experiences. If your parents were happily married (thereby setting a good example), and discipline was firm, and your early sex questions were answered openly and accurately, these are positive portents for your own marriage. Chances are negative if you had a too-strong preference for one parent, and mistrusted others in your family, and had major conflicts.

"When a young man or woman," comments Dr. Albert, "holds on to childhood relationships with parents too long, his mate will resent his not giving fully to their marriage. In my practice, I've seen it with men who are still called 'Sonny' or women called 'Baby' by their partners."

2. Duration of courtship. It's the best if the partners have known each other for at least a year and enjoyed spending leisure time together in such home-oriented activities as listening to music and church-going. The odds are against them when either can't confide completely in the other, can't express their affection, or feel disturbed by the other's attitudes or beliefs. Too short a courtship (or engagement) reduces the chances that discordant problems will be discovered in time.

3. Age and education. Generally, education works in favor of a high matrimonial score. When the wedding cake is cut too early—the man younger than 21 and the girl under 19—and they have less than a high-school education, immaturity makes them less capable of tolerating frustrations and shortcomings.

4. Premarital sex. A good marriage can be forecast when there is at least a moderately active premarital interest in sex and an absence of extreme modesty or inhibitions. According to surveys decades ago, having sexual relations before marriage was found to be unpropitious, though less so for men than for women. Apparently this was not deemed significant in cases where the couple married ultimately.

5. Motivation for marriage. Although one of the chief reasons for wedlock, sexual gratification, has been weakened by liberal use of the Pill, sex is still a primary influence. Other motivating forces for a good marriage are present when both partners' "friendship-love" is soundly based, they want children, and yearn for a home of their own. Storm warnings: getting married because of loneliness or an urge to escape from parental pressures at home.

6. Conventionality. Where boy meets girl seems to be significant. If you have met originally at the home of a friend or at school, that's an advantage. The pick-up route is presumed to be detrimental. By and large, a wedding performed by a clergyman offers a brighter future than a routine civil ceremony.

7. Personality. Results of a recent "temperament survey" of groups of married couples by Canadian psychologists produced consistent evidence that similarity of traits is related to marital adjustment. Generally, they found, serenely married couples are more or less alike in their drive, energy, and productivity.

legal marriage. And they look to other reasons, besides sex, in selecting a mate."

8. Backgrounds. Bride and groom can look forward to making the grade when they have a similar religion and schooling, come from comparable neighborhoods, and have been accustomed to about the same standards of living.

9. Money. Financial squabbles are notorious as causes of divorce. The couple should be able to agree on questions of spending and saving.

10. In-laws. When both partners like both sets of in-laws, that's a plus. It also helps considerably if parents approve the match.

11. Values and attitudes. The odds are with you when you can agree on how to rear children, have friends in common, and think alike about neatness (or lack of it) in the home.

Just how valid are these predictive factors? Some reservations are expressed by Dr. Paul Vahanian, a leading marriage counselor and coordinator of marriage and family counselor-training at Columbia University's Teachers College.

"To predict, with comfortable accuracy, how a marriage will develop," he points out, "tests based on homogenous characteristics should be refined. We have to know the psychological dynamics—how the two people react to each other."

Dr. Vahanian cites the case of Bill, 25, and Martha, 23, both college-educated, whose middle-class families are of the same religion. Looking at them, one would appraise the couple as nice, clean-cut, all-American. On paper, their matrimonial prospects appear rosy. But in premarital counseling Bill revealed a hang-up about going only to the most expensive restaurants. In contrast, Martha is a frugal person.

"In this case," says Dr. Vahanian, "much depends on how the couple can cope with each other's values. Money is symbolic of an underlying conflict over emotional security. If, after marriage, Bill reacts negatively to Martha's attitude, I can foresee trouble. The big question is, how deeply motivated will they be to stay together?"

In Dr. Krich's judgment, much can be learned from the indicative factors. All of them, he believes, should be checked off. But some, such as early-childhood experiences, are crucial, usually emerging in many aspects of the relationship. A young woman, for example, who had been treated by her parents as a "princess" may want her husband to treat her the same way, and he could rebel.

"Many people," says Dr. Krich, "try to find joy in marriage fulfillment of what was pleasant in early life or to undo an unhappy childhood. They hope the mate chosen will gratify these imprinted early needs. But the partner may not feel comfortable with such demands. A process of self-examination is imperative."

Obviously, we all can think of exceptions to the "rules" laid down. Marriages have triumphed over parental disapproval. Brief courtships have resulted in solid unions. So have a number of marriages which occurred in the teens.

"The key," Dr. Vahanian comments, "is how far they are committed, how deeply involved."

A glaring exception to the rules was the marriage of Joe and Phyllis, who came to Dr. Gerald Albert for counseling. She holds a master's degree, and her father is a successful lawyer. Joe, who had never gone beyond high school, managed a small retail store. Ordinarily, one would prophesy that their marriage would founder—and in fact it almost did. But after counseling, Joe decided to go into a more "respectable" business which would give his wife the social status she sought.

"Here, the compelling desire to make the marriage work," says Dr. Albert, "overcame what seemed to be a major handicap."

Social scientists agree that trends away from hitherto accepted norms are becoming more and more apparent. In recent years, the marital climate has been changing to the extent that young people are more tolerant toward differences in background and temperament. In the matter of crossing religious lines, parental fears that they will "lose" a son or daughter still remain. However, as Dr. Vahanian puts it, "the new generation is less uptight about it today."

Conceivably, women's liberation movements may affect reasons for wedlock and alter the nature of marriage. The role of each mate could become blurred, so that the male may no longer reign as head of the household.

From the caseloads of marriage counselors, a tendency emerges today for longer courtships. "Certain young people feel they don't have to get married to have sex relations," remarks one counselor. "Living together and waking up in the same room, they have a chance to experience life together as though the nuptial knot had been legally tied. They are more concerned about their relationship, and, by trying out this kind of 'marriage,' they get to learn about each other intimately."

Whether it is during this type of testing-out or the more conventional dating period—or after you have been married a while—encountering several unfavorable factors does not mean your marriage is doomed.

"There can be a lot of things wrong," says Dr. Vahanian, "but if you have enough positive input—enough feeling for each other, and motivation to get or stay married—it is possible to make a go of it. By input I mean such remarks as 'we have a lot of good times together' or 'I like him, he's such a nice guy.' There will be enough positives to outweigh the negatives."

The very fact that you recognize in yourself a discordant quality among those listed should help achieve harmony in your marriage. Specifically, awareness that you fly off the handle too easily should alert you to the need for control.

All marriage experts agree that free communication between mates or fiancés is essential in overcoming unfavorable factors.

"To avoid being strangers," advises Dr. Vahanian, "it is very important to be open with each other. This applies to finances, family planning, decision-making, and resolving of conflicts."

"Explore your similarities and dissimilarities. Frankly ask yourselves: To what extent are you in tune sexually? Do your life styles rub each other the wrong way—or can they be made compatible? Are you willing to have faith in each other,—to be emotionally dependent on your spouse, at times without feeling weak or vulnerable? Remember, for a meaningful relationship, every couple needs time to grow together. That means patience, fortitude, and enough maturity to withstand frustrations."

Suppose a couple finds several adverse elements that seem insurmountable? There is still a chance for marital success through premarital or after-marriage counseling. With professional help, you can both explore—and come to understand what you expect of your partner and marriage. You can discover not only what is wrong (the liabilities) but what is right—the assets of your marriage. Counseling gives you the opportunity to be forthright with yourself and your mate.

For guidance, you can go to your minister, doctor, or a case-worker in a social agency. More than half of the cases handled by member agencies of the Family Service Association of America are marital problems. Probably there's a marriage-counseling center in your community. For the name of an accredited professional counselor in your area, write to the American Association of Marriage Counselors, 3603 Lemmon Ave., Dallas, Texas, 75210. ♦

Be a Young Summer Beauty

BEAUTY

By ROSALYN ABREVAYA

TWEEN-AGERS can prove that youth needn't be wasted on the young. Why not make the budding teens the beauty years—dedicated to keeping hair and skin their beautiful best. Starting now before summer!

Can't handle the hair thing? To keep it glistening and healthy, do shampoo whenever it's dirty—every three to four days for oily hair, at least once a week for normal and dry hair. Treat sun-dried hair to a cream rinse after shampooing. Do massage and brush. Using a natural bristle brush, bend over from the waist and brush hair up from the nape of the neck. Massage scalp with fingertips.

What's your complexion quotient? Do you follow a daily beauty routine for your skin type? If not, start first with a tissue trick to learn what type you have: dry, oily, combination, or normal. Scrub face thoroughly. Wait a half hour. Mark three tissues A, B, C. Wipe A over forehead; B over nose, mouth, and chin; C over each cheek. If tissue is unstained, skin is dry in that area; some dampness means skin has normal moisture; traces of oil mean those glands are overactive.

If skin is dry, your daily routine should be short on water, long on creams (both cleansing and nourishing); include skin freshener as a tone-up. If you're troubled with blemish-prone oily skin, include three soap-and-water scrubs daily—one deep-cleansing with a lanolin-free lotion, followed by an astringent. For part-dry, part-oily skin, follow the dry and oily routines for the appropriate parts of the face. For normal skin, use a good complexion soap and rinse well; night cream (not overly rich) before retiring.

For all-over indulgence, make your daily bath fragrant and restorative. Lean on a waterproof pillow. Do include a scrub with nail or hand brush on elbows, followed after the bath by cream or lotion all over the body.

If you're tuned into improving your beauty routine, you'll welcome discovering a brand-new to-the-rins line created for the young girl—extensively tested to be free of irritating ingredients—and marvelously fragrant. In daisy-design packaging, the Young 'N Free line consists of shampoos for oily and normal hair, bubble bath, hand and body lotion, spray-on deodorant, a hand-milled soap, three colognes, bath powder, and a cream rinse for detangling hair, which can be sprayed directly on tresses.

Get in the beauty-grooming habit. It'll pay handsome dividends in a few years. ♦

Luau Flair for a Backyard Party

MELANIE DE PROFT Food Editor

■ For this simple party, let's capture some of the flamboyant color and flavor authentic to the Hawaiian Islands. Rice is a popular Island dish—use it for a salad bowl combination with crisp vegetables and greens. Tropical juices of various fruits used in Island cookery have been blended and canned or frozen for year-round availability and convenience. Use the fruit blend as a drink or recipe ingredient. Pineapple, bananas, and coconut suggest the exotic—use them abundantly for flavor and flair.

Nectar Glazed Canned Ham

1 canned ham, about 10 lbs.
Nectar Glaze

Follow directions for ham preparation and glazing as in recipe, Nectar Glaze for Ham. When canned ham has heated about 1 hr., turn back foil and glaze at 15-minute intervals during remaining 1 hr. of heating, or until thermometer registers 130°F.

Nectar Glaze for Ham

A 10-lb. fully cooked smoked ham
½ cup apricot or peach nectar
½ cup Hawaiian punch concentrate, partially thawed
¼ cup lemon juice
¼ teaspoon ground cloves

1. Arrange a large sheet of heavy-duty aluminum foil in a shallow roasting pan; place ham in center. Bring foil up, covering ham loosely.
2. Bake in a 350°F. oven 1½ hrs.
3. Meanwhile, for glaze, mix the apricot or peach nectar, Hawaiian punch concentrate, lemon juice, and cloves together. Set aside.
4. After 1½ hrs., open and turn back foil on ham. Spoon out fat. Score ham in a diamond pattern. Stud with cloves, if desired. Stir glaze and spoon some over ham. Insert meat thermometer and continue baking with foil open about 1½ hrs., or until meat thermometer registers 130°F. At 15-minute intervals, spoon additional glaze over ham.

5. Transfer ham to a carving board.
1½ cups glaze

Crunchy Fried Rice Salad

1. pkg. (10-oz. cooking pouch) frozen fried rice with meat, or frozen fried rice
- 1 pkg. (9 oz.) frozen cut green beans, cooked crisp-tender and drained
- 2 cups sliced celery (cut diagonally)
- 2 cups sliced green onion
- ¼ cup white wine vinegar
- 2 tablespoons all-purpose soy sauce
- ¼ teaspoon seasoned pepper
- ¼ cup salad or all-purpose oil

1. Thaw the fried rice of your choice in the pouch.
2. Turn thawed fried rice into a bowl, add the vegetables, and toss lightly until well-mixed.
3. Blend vinegar, soy sauce, pepper, and oil. Shake vigorously and immediately drizzle over rice mixture; toss lightly. Chill thoroughly.
4. Toss before spooning into a salad bowl lined with lettuce leaves.
8 servings

This menu includes a succulent fruit-glazed ham, a crunchy fried rice salad, a jelled dessert of punch, bananas, coconut, and pineapple—all served with Hawaiian punch.

Jellied Hawaiian Punch Dessert

- 5 cups Hawaiian punch
- 3 env. unflavored gelatin
- 1½ cups miniature marshmallows
- ¼ cup coarsely chopped salted pecans
- 1 large ripe banana, diced
- 1 cup drained pineapple tidbits
- 1 cup flaked coconut

1. Soften gelatin in 1½ cups of the Hawaiian punch in a large saucepan. Stir over low heat until gelatin is dissolved. Remove from heat and mix in remaining Hawaiian punch.

2. Chill until slightly thickened. Mix in marshmallows, nuts, banana, and pineapple. Turn into a 2-qt. shallow glass serving dish. Chill until firm.
3. Sprinkle coconut around edges of dessert or arrange half top and, if desired, arrange half-slices of pineapple along center.
About 10 servings

As the 1970
Can-Am races begin

Gritty Jim Hall Tries a Comeback

Jim Hall (inset) will drive next month in Can-Am race like one above.

ON A race track blurred by speed, dust, and oil smoke, a driver gains a strangely calm perspective when he suddenly knows he is about to wreck a $100,000 car—traveling at 150 mph.

Jim Hall, the 1964 U.S. Road-Racing champion, serious contender in countless other races, and developer of the unique Chaparral racing car, discovered this twice over the past 18 months. He had two serious accidents—that nearly-killed him.

—Jim is now racing again. He has committed himself to a grueling schedule. On June 14, he will run his 2J Chaparral at Mosport Park in Canada for the start of the Canadian-American Challenge Cup series. He is currently racing Chevrolet Camaros in the Trans-Am series.

Hall's first wreck took place in the last race of the 1968 Can-Am series, the Stardust Grand Prix in Las Vegas. Jim had 11 laps to run, and he was charging to make up time lost in an early pit stop. He was sliding through a turn at 150 mph, when the car in front, a McLaren-Chevy, snapped its front suspension and slowed. Hall's car plowed into it and began to disintegrate.

"I knew exactly what was happening, and my only thought was to hold tight to the wheel," Jim recalls.

Hall was out of luck from the totally demolished racing car. Just as it caught fire. At the hospital, the doctors found he had broken both legs.

Hall spent nine weeks in the hospital in his home town of Midland, Texas. The doctors wondered whether he would walk again without a cane or crutches. But Hall, like most top racers, has a stubborn streak.

He immediately launched himself into a strenuous program of physical therapy and exercise. By late spring of 1969, he was back in Midland and supervising the activities of the Chaparral racing team. By October, he was testing.

Then came accident number two. He was running the car through a fast turn at Rattlesnake Raceway, a two-mile test track, when a hose connection on the engine behind the cockpit broke. Scalding, 200° F. water spouted into the car. Jim found himself in a pool of boiling water.

Ignoring the pain, Jim braked and steered while arching his body off the seat. By the time he could drive out of the car, he had suffered second- and third-degree burns.

While all this was going on, the Chaparral was being benten in the 1969 Can-Am series by the superbly designed and prepared McLaren machines driven by Bruce McLaren and Denny Hulme from New Zealand.

By the end of 1969, Jim Hall had some serious thinking to do. His revolutionary automatic-transmission racing car, which had burned up the tracks of the U.S., Canada, and Europe in the mid 1960s, was now hopelessly outclassed by the McLaren machines. The Chaparrals in 1967 were mediocre and by 1969 a total fiasco. "But Jim made it clear, he wasn't about to give up racing. He talked over his plans with his wife Sandy and then announced to the press that he would definitely be back in the Can-Am series with a new car design, the 2J, for 1970.

Former racing champion Sterling Moss, who now is the racing director for Johnson Wax, a sponsor of Can-Am, says of Hall: "There is one thing that is absolutely essential [in racing]—the intense desire to win."

Jim Hall confirms that. He adds almost irritably. "I just know there has to be more fun in this racing business than sitting behind a desk. Fun is out on a track!"

WHY PLANT A GROUND COVER?

In many areas and situations, ground covers are more appropriate and more satisfactory than turf. They are able to grow and thrive in sun OR shade, and in poor soil.

On steep slopes where mowing is difficult, ground cover is much more effective and much less laborious to maintain than grass. Ground covers hold the soil as well as turf and the textures are far more interesting.

Small areas of grass are a continual chore to keep mown and trimmed but ground covers require almost no care. They are excellent protection and soil conditioners. They hold the fallen leaves from blowing away, thus helping to add annually to the humus content.

WHY CREEPING RED SEDUM?

One of Sedum's most valuable assets is its full time beauty. Lush foliage begins in early spring, and star-shaped, scarlet flowers delight the viewer from late June through September. The attractive semi-evergreen foliage lasts well into winter, maintaining its rich green and bronze color nearly all year round.

Besides being one of the loveliest of the ground covers, Sedum also rates high on the other requirements. It is hardy, grows well in sun or partial shade, in sandy soil, clay soil, or good soil.

Its thick foliage and root system hold the soil on slopes or banks. The neat 3-4" cover forms a dense perennial mat to bring green and scarlet beauty to slopes, borders, rocky areas, anywhere beauty and durability are needed.

Each plant will easily and quickly spread to fill one sq. ft. Sedum spreads evenly, maintains its uniform smooth beauty at all stages of growth. Unlike some other ground covers, Sedum, also called "Dragon's Blood", stays where you put it—does not straggle out into places where it doesn't belong. Sedum is almost indestructible, enduring and persisting against heavy climatic and nutritional odds.

Now is a Good Time to Plant
RED SEDUM!

Your young Sedum plants will establish themselves and begin to spread a few days after planting. In a month or so they will already be 3-4 inches in diameter. They may lose their foliage as the first winter progresses but will leaf out again in early spring. During a long growing season they may reach 12" in diameter, always maintaining their neat regulated shape.
