Bonds Add Security To Future Life

Quad-Command complex event will mark the last of August as U. S. Savings Week in an effort to size the financial benefit through Government Savings Bonds.

You're like most Americans probably intend to use Savings Bonds as a down payment on a house, to help child to college or other upgrade your standard of living.

You don't need to feel one less patriotic because of this fact that you and tens of millions of other Americans hold U. S. Savings Bonds. Uncle Sam manages financial affairs better and in a position to be a stronger voice and a stronger in the free world.

As the fact that you and other millions of Americans have accumulated the Savings Bonds alone--46 billions in H Savings Bonds alone--is one of the reasons why we are financially strong and reliable. And their strength is the strength of the nation.

When the communists make their favorite statement--that they're going to "economically--your support of your country are mighty powerful. Keep building both U. S. Savings Bonds.

2d Div. CG Picked For Maj. Gen.

Iceland — 1941

Brig. Gen. R. McC. Tompkins

San Diego — 1940

Brig. Gen. R. McC. Tompkins, 2d Marine Division commanding general, has been named among those selected for promotion to major general. This is not the general's first promotion or first tour with the 2d Division, however. He began his first tour with the division as a captain and completed it as a lieutenant colonel two and a half years later.

Gen. Tompkins commenced his military career when he enlisted in the Marine Corps Reserve in June 1935, as a member of the Western Platoon Leaders' Course, Marine Corps Base, San Diego, Calif. He accepted an appointment as a 2d Lt., USMCR, in March 1936.

Assigned to active duty in October 1939, he was sent to the Reserve Officers' Class, Marine Corps Schools, Quantico, Va.

In 1941, as a 1st Lieutenant, he sailed for Iceland with the 1st Provisional Marine Brigade. He was there when the United States entered World War II.

Promoted to captain in January 1942, he returned to the U. S. in March, and was assigned to the 6th Marines. He was promoted to major in August 1942.

Gen. Tompkins was then ordered overseas in September 1942, and saw combat during the capture, and defense, of Guadalcanal; the consolidation of the Southern Solomons; the Gilbert Islands operation, and the Marianas operation.

For his heroic action on Guadalcanal, as Regimental Operations Officer, 6th Marines (Reinforced), from January to February 1943, Gen. Tompkins was awarded the Bronze Star Medal with combat "V".

During landing operations on Tarawa, November 20, 1943, he earned the Silver Star Medal for conspicuous gallantry by rescuing, under enemy fire, seven wounded Marines.

He was promoted to lieutenant colonel in December 1943.

During the following six months Gen. Tompkins served as Operations Officer, Infantry, Assistant Division Commander Section, 2d Marine Division.

On July 3, 1944, he was wounded by shrapnel on Saipan, and as a result of these wounds, was evacuated to the States.

It was during the fighting on Saipan, June 17, 1944, that Gen. Tompkins earned the Navy Cross for extraordinary heroism. He was commanding an infantry battalion, 29th Marines, 2d Marine Division.

Gen. Tompkins served at Headquarters, U. S. Marine Corps during 1945, and 1946.

In January 1947, he reported to Naval Forces, Eastern Atlantic and Mediterranean, London, England, for duty under instruction as a student in the Joint Services Staff College.

Upon his graduation he was designated a Naval Observer in the Office of the U. S. Naval Attache, London, and in 1947, was assigned duty as an instructor on the staff of the School of Combined Operations.

In April 1948, Gen. Tompkins returned to the U. S. and was assigned duties at Marine Corps Schools, Quantico, as Chief, Infantry Section, Amphibious Warfare School, Junior Course.

He was promoted to colonel in February 1951, and in August of that year began a two-year tour of duty as a member, War Plans Section, Joint Strategic Plans Group, Joint Staff, Office of the Joint Chiefs of Staff.

He was ordered to Korea in June 1953, where he served with the 1st Marine Division as Commander, 5th Marines (Reinforced), and later as Assistant Chief of Staff, G-2.

He was awarded a gold star in lieu of a second Bronze Star Medal with combat "V", for meritorious achievement during the period July 24, 1952 to April 18, 1954.

Gen. Tompkins returned to the United States in July 1954 and in August of that year he entered the Naval War College, Newport, Rhode Island.

Upon completion of the school in 1955, he was assigned to the Staff, Naval War College, and subsequently served as Assistant Head, and Head, Strategic and Tactics Department. He was then assigned as Senior Marine Staff, Naval War College.

In July 1957, he was transferred to Camp Pendleton, Calif., where he served with the 1st Marine Division until March 1958.

Transferred to Okinawa in April 1958, he served with the 3d Marine Division, and in the following April became Assistant Division Commander. He served in this capacity until his detachment in June 1959.

Ordered to Headquarters, U. S. Marine Corps, Washington, D. C., in August 1959, he served there until September 1962 when he assumed duties as Assistant Division Commander, 2d Marine Division.

"A3's" are at the battalion and are operational for training purposes. Several others are being readied by 2d Force Service Regiment for the tankers' use.

The M48A3 is a modified version of the M48A1, having the same hull as the "A1"; however, the old gasoline engine has been replaced by a diesel engine. Its fuel capacity has been increased, and the two combined, have given the tank a greater striking distance at a lesser cost.

A few other changes to the tanks power plant have given it increased "get up and go".

The 90mm gun still remains "proudly" on the turret; however, a new sight, the coincidence sight, has been installed, and it will make the old "90" even more effective than before. The new sight, similar to those used on cameras, presents two images of the target. When they are brought together, the gun is on target.

The coincidence sight is expected to not only improve gunnery greatly, but to cut the gunnery training time in half.

The major modifications on the tanks are being made by the Army at the Red River Arsenal in Texas and the Anniston Depot in Anniston, Alabama.

Lejeune Troops In Med Drop Training To Boost Morale Of Greek Orphans

WITH THE U. S. SIXTH FLEET IN THE MEDITER- RANEAN (Delayed)--Battalion Landing Team 1-6, under the command of Lt. Col. M. W. Schmidt, laid aside their rifles and packs on July 16 and opened their arms and hearts in entertaining 35 orphan boys from the Kingdom of Greece Orphanage near Pilos, Greece.

Arriving by bus from the Government supported institute, the youngsters, ranging in age from seven to 13, were ushered directly to a picnic area that Marine cooks estab- lished near the beach. Fed and raring to go, the boys, assem- bled into small groups and accompanied by Marine Infantry- men and interpreters, were given a special tour of BLT 1-6 activities on the beach.

Excitement ran high as the boys watched amphibious tractors plow into Mediterranean waters while interpreters busily explained how the heavy tracked vehicles managed to float.

Next on the program was the arrival of helicopters from HMM 262, Sub Unit 2, that set down near the group. After an inspection inside the aircraft, the youngsters were taken further along the beach where they saw BLT tanks and ontos.

Later, after cool refresh- ments, the youngsters partici- pated in a game of touch foot- ball which they learned quickly after watching the Marines demonstrate the game.

the Marine camp. They returned later and stood before the tent of Lt. Col. Schmidt. The young- sters then began singing the Greek National Anthem.

The colonel walked from his tent and knelt in front of each boy. He pinned a Marine em- blem or chevron upon each striped jersey and shook the boy's hand. Through use of his interpreter, Lt. Col. Schmidt told the youngsters they were then honorary Marines.

I NOW PRONOUNCE YOU—Knelling in front of each boy, Lt. Col. M. W. Schmidt pinned a chevron or Marine Corps emblem on every striped shirt. "You're all honorary Marines," he told them.

Reserves March

"America strong in arms, weak in physical health" — "Modern Science inadvertently makes Americans soft" — "President Kennedy stresses physical conditioning" — Surely you've noticed headlines like these lately. Makes you wonder a little, doesn't it. — How physically inadequate are we — should we worry about it; store our $4,000 automobiles and walk to work; trade our relaxasizer for an exercisor?

Late last Thursday night, this writer was privileged to witness about 2,000 Americans from many different walks of life, thread along Camp Lejeune roads at a steady pace in a twelve mile forced march.

They made it in only three hours. Some came in singing. Some came in complaining. Some came in silent. All had cause to come in proud of their units and themselves.

These Americans were not regular Marines, recognized through the years as always being physically fit. They were school teachers, laundrymen, restaurateurs, dairy workers, accountants, landscape gardeners, nuclear technicians, Internal Revenue Service Agents, YMCA leaders and the guy next door back home. Just John Q. Citizens, except for the fact that these citizens spend one weekend a month training in a military specialty at armories in their home cities of the eastern United States, and two weeks of the year at Camp Lejeune for annual field training as U. S. Marine Corps reservists.

The march was conducted to help condition the reservists for the gruelling three day "war" that was coming up this week as part of their annual summer field training designed to enhance their effectiveness in their vital role as a back-up for the nation's "Force in Readiness."

Three hours for a 12 mile march may not be a record, but is good enough time for any unit. For a regimental size unit of citizen Marines loaded down with full combat gear, 3.5 rocker launchers, BARs and with pockers full of rain water; it is quite impressive.

I saw a 32-year-old Navy Medical Corpsman wait with a heat exhaustion case until he could be loaded into an ambulance jeep and then run a quarter of a mile to catch up with his unit.

A 40-year-old priest, marching in the middle of the column, matched the pace of the little fat newspaper man in front of him and joked about the photographer taking his picture.

I saw the five foot four tourist ship photographer carrying a rifle and pack and finishing the march in better shape than many regular Marines might have done.

There were only three who finished the march in the back of field ambulances. There could have been that many casualties among 2,000 regular Marines who had been training daily.

If these civilian Marines are typical of the American citizens, the United States need not worry about its people being "physically soft."

Ornaments

Pens and pencils, small and common as they are, have proven to be useful to humanity in more ways than just in writing. These two tools may be found in every walk of life, for writing, drawing, marking or checking.

They have been used to clip two or more sheets of paper together, much in the same fashion as a paper clip. Frequently, as a field expedient, they've been er top, a bright red-brown eraser has been added for color variety

The reason for the added decor — convenience in transporting, when not in use. One reason for not adding to the uniform in this manner is that the pens and pencils are not classified as part of a Marine Corps uniform. Besides why carry around, something which is not being used?

Heed the hint and leave your tools on your desk when abroad in uniform.

Chaplain's Corner

When soldiers came into the Garden of Gethsemane to arrest Jesus in order to bring him to trial before the High Priest Caiaphas, Peter, one of Jesus' disciples, in futile protest against the might of imperial Rome, struck out with a sword against one of the arresting party, cutting off his ear.

This must forever remain as a symbol of the inadequacy of physical force in deciding issues of spiritual conflict. Following this incident Jesus was tried and condemned to death by the combined religious and civil powers of his day. Some battles are necessary won only by the sword, but in man's struggles the conflict is in man's spirit where victory is achieved only through spiritual strength.

Paul saw clearly the analogy between the soldier's role and equipment and that of the religious man. The conflict in which man is engaged, he said is not against the flesh and blood, imperial government or the institution of social control, but is a battle against the spiritual forces of superstition, ignorance, prejudice, hate, sin, greed, selfishness, lust, idolatry and falsehood. Against these enemies, God supplies men with the breastplate of righteousness, the shield of faith, the girdle of truth, the swift shoes of the gospel of peace, the helmet of salvation at the sword of the Holy Spirit, the Word of God. "Therefore, take the whole armor of God, that you may be able to withstand in the evil days and have done all, to stand."—Ephesians 6:13.

found useful in punching holes through paper or cardboard.

Paper and pencil, sometimes a pen, given to a child is like a mid-year Christmas for him. Laying the paper flat as he has often seen daddy and mommy do, all he has to do is hold this new toy in his fist and move his hand around and thin lines appear before his eyes on the paper. It is a wonderful toy to him, watching the lines appear, making designs resembling coil springs and circles.

Camp Lejeune Marines, both officer and enlisted, have found still another use for their pens and pencils. They have come up with the idea of decorating their uniform shirt fronts with the little silvery-looking clips. In the case of some pencils with even a broad-

Hunting-Fishing Permits Expire

If you have been fishing on a combination hunting-fishing license, you had better get to the post exchange and get another permit before you do any more fresh water fishing. The combination licenses expired yesterday.

Combination hunting-fishing licenses are valid from August 1 through July 31, while fishing licenses are valid from Jan. 1 through Dec. 31.

Three-Way Tie Featured In Force Troops Softball

Eighth Engineer Bn, punched and prayed its way into a three-way tie for the first place in the Force Troops Intramural Softball program last week by beating the two top contenders.

Dave Donegan allowed Recon-Topo only two runs while his teammates collected three to come out on top in a close battle. Bob Miller, the Engineer catcher, drove in two of the three runs with a single and a double.

Amtracs, long the league leader, suffered a 17-1 drubbing at the hands of the Engineers. The game lasted six innings, during which Donegan gave up only one hit. Donegan was also a big man at the plate, collecting a triple, a double and a single, to drive in four runs.

Bill Gross racked up a home run with the bases loaded, and also rapped out two singles for the winners.

In other action, Amtracs downed 8th Comm. 6-1, and 2d Comp. Radio slipped by ANGLICO 14-13. Recon-Topo was given 7-0 decision when 8th Motors failed to field a team.

A single round-robin play-off will determine the league winner. Engineers take on Recon-Topo in Monday night's action; Tuesday sees Engineers against Amtracs. The final game is set for Wednesday when Amtracs and Recon-Topo come together.

The force softball standings are as follows:

Marine Duo Wins Shoot

CWO George Young and Maj. Wilbourn "Lucky" Waller, who walked away with two open championships and five trophies in the North Carolina State Championship Skeet Shoot held here last June again proved their competence with the scattergun, when they took an armload of trophies in the South Carolina State Championship Matches this month.

Waller turned in the best showing as he won the class A 20 gauge event with a score of 97X100, and then won the 12 gauge shoot with 100X100.

In the 12 gauge match, Waller was tied with four other shooters after 100 birds. He finally won on a shoot-off.

George Young copped honors in the 20 gauge competition with 98X100, and class AA 12 gauge, shooting 98X100.

Division Play-Offs Begin In Two-League Softball

The 2d Division play-offs began last week with 2d Service Bn., 4th Bn., 10th Marines, and 3d Bn., 2d Marines racking up victories.

The Service Bn, nine, behind new coach Clyde Clements, topped Roland Cantara's 4/10 crew, 9-7, behind Grady Campbell's pitching and hitting. Campbell, although giving up all seven runs, allowed only four hits in going the distance. He aided his own cause offensively by blasting a two-run triple. Steve DePaul and Spike Schall both knocked across two runs apiece.

For the 4th Bn. Cannoneers, Bob Gosnick started, giving way to reliever Ken Pidgeon in the fourth inning. R. L. Long smashed a double for the only big 4/10 blow.

On the winning side of the ledger, Cantara's crew last week dumped Bob Stevenson's 2d Engineer Battalion, 13-1, behind Pidgeon's five-hitter. Bob Styveski's solo homer was the top blow for 4/10 in that game.

In the most exciting contest of the playoffs, Larry Munroe's tightly-knit 3d Battalion, 2d Marines, undefeated in regular season's play, eked out a hard-fighting seven-inning win over the Bernard Smith-coached Headquarters Battalion team. Larry Hartzler was on the mound for 3/2, striking out 14, and giving up two hits. Dave Hall for the Headquarters squad was even more stingy, allowing a single hit to the normally hard-hitting 3/2 crew.

Here are the final standings of the teams in the 2d Marine Division's program:

Water Sports

By C. C. THOMAS

Last Saturday's sailboat race ended rather wetly for five of the nine boats competing. A sudden storm with pre-winds up to 40 MPH caught and capsized them as they rounded Hospital Point. No one was injured and only slight damage was done to the boats.

The Sailing Committee has announced a dependents race for August 10, so come on out and get your license. Classes are still being held every Tuesday and Thursday at 5 p. m. at the Wallace Creek Boathouse. Private boat owners desiring ski areas have many to choose from at Camp Lejeune. One of the most popular, besides the regular ski beach at Marston Pavilion, is the Air Facility Marina.

The Air Facility Marina has a good beach and is marked with bouys to indicate the areas for the departing skier and the returning one. The beach is supervised to keep swimmers, docked boats, and other floating objects out of the drop off zone. The large and protected cove gives long straight runs to the skier.

The Marina's boat ramp is available to anyone. It can be reached by turning left at the dead end of Curtis Road and continuing about a mile farther.

The 19th Hole

By Bob Spencer

One of the problems that faces many golfers is the "topped" shot. The ball dribbles along the ground or starts out in the air and then takes a quick dive to the ground.

When you hit one of these, you probably hit up on the ball instead of meeting the ball at the lowest point of the arc on the downswing.

A player is less likely to do this on the drive when the ball is on a tee. More often it happens on shots from the fairway, particularly from poor lies.

In such instances, the smart thing to do is use an iron. Then, in hitting the shot, make sure you strike down through the ball, taking a divot.

When you use a wood on the fairway, especially on a tight lie, the club face should graze the grass as you hit through it.

The correction for the topper then, is to be sure to contact the ball first as you hit down through it, taking a divot with irons, and cutting through the grass on the follow-through with the woods.

Bowling Ace Begins As Boy 28 Years Ago

A sport of bowling is going at an amazing rate. Not only as a spectator sport, but in active participation. Men of both sexes and all ages are taking up bowling. Lewis Nicoletta, a corpsman from 8th Engineer Bn., would know. He has been bowling for 28 years. One of the top keepers in the area, Nicoletta got a job in the town of Rochester, when he was 13 years old. He began bowling as a sport of that job, and has been consistently since then. At that time he has amassed a stonishing number of awards. Fifty are displayed in a cabinet in his home, he has boxes of awards in his home and "gotten rid" of more.

Nicoletta's most treasured are three plaques won in the 1957 All-Navy Tournament. One is for first place in singles competition; another being a part of the winning team in the tourney, and the third is for first place all-around which is won by the aggregate scores of all the contestants in the tourney.

In April Nicoletta took a job with the American Bowling Congress (ABC) at Buffalo, N.Y. His team was 16th overall in the eighth game of the meet, in competition with roughly 5,000 teams. He has also bowled in the Masters Tournament the last three years.

Nicoletta has taught many beginning bowlers the fundamentals of the game. When asked the steps he uses to teach bowling to a beginner, "Nick" was very emphatic that the first lesson be on bowling etiquette. After proper bowling manners are clearly understood by the novice, he then goes into the basics of the game.

The new student starts by throwing a straight ball, aimed for the head pin, and learns the proper approach, delivery and follow-through. When the tyro has learned the fundamentals he might then work on a hook or curve ball, and other more exotic skills of the game.

When he retires Nicoletta hopes to work as a manager in a bowling alley in the local area. It's certain he won't be turned down for the job because of lack of experience.

Cook Signs 'Dotted' Line Of Contract; More Time With Corps, Local Scouts

Usually, when a Marine "signs on the dotted line," his mind is full of thoughts of new duty stations, picking up "stripes", going to school, or any of several hundred thoughts... a Marine can think of. There is a possibility, however, that a Marine who "ships" doesn't always think of his personal welfare, but, instead, thinks about how he can better today's youth for tomorrow's problems.

Cpl. Gerald L. Weldert, a cook in 2d SerBn., is one of those humanitarian people. He reenlisted for "six" last week and his only thoughts were to remain with the 2d Division and continue his work with the Boy Scouts in the area.

The BSA seems to be almost second nature with Cpl.

Weldert, and he is well qualified to deal with youth. Weldert, now 21, has been associated with Boy Scouts since he was eight-years-old. It was then that he became a "Cub Scout". His interest in scouting grew through the years, and has become a special part of his life.

Entering the Corps in July 1959, he stayed active in scouting, and while stationed at Marine Corps Air Station, El Toro, Calif., was an Assistant Scout Master for one year. Later, transferred to Subic Bay, Philippine Islands, he again became an Assistant Scout Master.

Reporting to Camp Lejeune in June 1962, he was almost immediately appointed as Scout Master, Troop 390, Camp Knox.

Weldert recently returned from the Boy Scouts' Camp Charles, Balley, N. C., with a letter of appreciation citing him for outstanding service during his stay there. Realizing it was almost time for his discharge, Weldert weighed the advantages of the Marine Corps and decided to re-enlist.

The officer administering the oath of enlistment was Maj. J. A. Horn, Bn, S-3, who is committee chairman, Boy Scouts of America, Troop 90.

EARNED THROUGH REENLISTMENTS—Brig. Gen. R. Tompkins, commanding general, 2d Marine Division, pres. Maj. E. H. Jones, commanding officer, 2d Engineer Battalion with the Commanding General's Quarterly Reenlistment Awards as Col. J. O. Bell (second from right), and Lt. Col. C. T. Lean, commanding and executive officer, respectively, Marines, look on.

8th Marines E Quarterly Awards For Reenlistment

The 2d Division Commanding General's Quarterly Reenlistment Awards were presented to the 8th Marines and Engineer Battalion by Gen. R. McC. Tompkins, 2d Marine Division commander, during a ceremony held in his office July 18. The awards are presented to the 8th Marines and Engineer Battalion for the highest percentage of reenlistment each quarter with division.

Points accrued by the 8th Marines, during the quarter, totaled 447.5, a first-term reenlistment rate of 28.1 percent.

The 2d Engr. Bn. earned points with a first-term reenlistment rate of 22.6 percent.

Cpl. Accepts Challenge In New Duties; Gets Mast

Cpl. Patrick J. Madden, 2d AmTracBn., was given a Meritorious Mast July 22 for his outstanding performance of duty in a field in which he had no training.

The Mast, awarded by acting Battalion Commander, Lt. Col. Shuford, read in part: "During the period February 1 to July 19, 1963, Cpl. Madden was assigned duties as Battalion Electronics Supply NCO in addition to his regular duties as a field radio operator. He was responsible for maintaining supply records, usage data and mount-out stock for hundreds of communications items. His dedication to duty, dependability, and mature acceptance of responsibility was invaluable in enabling the Battalion to attain a high state of readiness in communications. His willingness to devote his off-duty hours to improve his knowledge of supply matters and his competence in working in a field in which he had no training resulted in praise from both the Battalion Supply Officer, and the inspection team of the Commanding General."

Can You Be Critical

(Editor's Note: This is the final of six parts of an article concerning retraining of personnel for a critical MOS reprinted through the courtesy of LEATHERNECK magazine.)

Although present day Marines are concerned with job classification and the complexities of changing their occupational field or MOS, it is interesting to note that more than a century ago, the problem of job identification was relatively simple. A Marine and his specialty were identified by rank. In later years, as the need arose, other descriptive titles were added. These included Sergeant Major and Commissary Sergeant. Back in 1824, in one of the earliest recorded instances, that of Quartermaster Sergeant established.

Prior to World War I Marines were classified "general duty" and this title was entered in papers beside their rank. Timers will recall the Specification Serial Number (SN) system was adopted to identify the number of occupational specialties increased during World War I. The first SN Manual was published in 1944 and, when manual was revised it listed all jobs under we now call the MOS title.

But back in '43, the specialists was as unique as today. General Holcomb, Commandant, almost prophetically in of Instruction 520, dated August 1943, when he stated: "In order that the maximum effort may be attained for effort expended in specialists, and to as meeting the demand for personnel, it is requested every effort be made to tall and maintain specialties for which trained. The same school of still applies in the Corps. That's why the GUNNY's desk at HQ so carefully studied was shot down.

Chief Performance Nets Mast For Cpl.

Cpl. David M. Pederson, received congratulations and Meritorious Mast from Lt. Col. R. L. Shuford, acting AmTrac Battalion commanding officer. The Mast read in part:

"During the period Feb. 1 to June 15, 1963, you were assigned duties as battalion radio chief. This billet calls for an NCO of higher rank and with more experience than you have. Your performance of duty during this period has been exemplary, reflecting credit upon the communications section and this battalion."

Pederson is a member of H&S Co., 2d AmTrac Bn.

Special Services Readies New Craft; Lejeune Fishermen's 'Cape Hatteras'

Special Services now has in operation a new 63-foot deep-sea fishing boat, the "Cape Hatteras".

Scheduled for an initial "shake-down" cruise on August 4th, the sleek Chris-Craft will be inspected by Maj. Gen. Alpha

L. Bowser, commanding general, Marine Corps Base, on August 2d, will make a short cruise in New River, then return to her berth at Swansboro, N. C., after a public viewing on August 3.

Powered by two 225 horsepower engines, the 40-ton craft has a beam of 14-feet, draws four feet of water and accommodates 40 fishermen.

Captained by Joe A. Latham and maintained by Base Special Services, the "Cape Hatteras" has a maximum cruising range of 300 miles, and will operate mainly in the waters around and near Bogue Inlet.

The "Cape Hatteras" has as optional equipment, a special "fish finder" and a fully equipped ship-to shore radio rig. When new, the "Cape Hatteras" initially cost in the neighborhood of $100,000.

The "Hatteras" will be available for charter on August 7. Those desiring to make a fishing cruise in the near future may call Base Special Services, 7-3794.

Chaplains' Tasks Varied During Summer Training

Occasional dosages of religious training sometimes tend to confuse a young child. Religious education, like any other process of learning, cannot come in snatches to make an effective impression on a young mind.

With this theory under consideration, the Base Chaplains' Office, under the direction of Chaplain Guy Leonard, with the aid of Reserve Chaplains here on two weeks of active duty, conducted one-week Bible schools for military dependents at Lejeune during July.

The Stone Street School, one of five in the base-wide program, had a total of 264 enrolled, with 39 volunteer instructors, to provide an interesting and effectively flexible program for the youngsters. With reserve Chaplain LT (senior grade) Edward A. Holmes of Surface Division 6, Daytona Beach Florida, directing, the program was geared to simplify Bible and religious teachings on a level which was understood and enjoyed by a large group with an age range varying from pre-school to fourth grade.

Initially, there were problems confronting the school plans when inexperienced volunteers underwent their first briefing sessions. "Teaching a class of 25 or more youngsters for three hours a day for a full week is no picnic for inexperienced instructors" stated Chaplain Holmes. "Through several headache sessions and thorough discussions on materials and instruction methods, our volunteers lost their initial lack of confidence and turned out a wonderful job. Many of the children were upset when the school ended, and would have attended through the remainder of the summer if allowed."

Chaplain Holmes, a professor on the Board of Psychology at Stetson University, Deland, Florida, summed up the purpose of the school by stating: "You can't give a child one hour of religious instruction a week and expect that aspect of his education to have the total impact that it should. The work and texts we employed here lead to personal religious understanding instead of having the children parroting what they have memorized without fully understanding the material."

This year's total enrollment in the Bible school approached 900, utilizing more than 150 instructors.

Capt., French Legionnaire Friendship Formed During Mediterranean Exercise

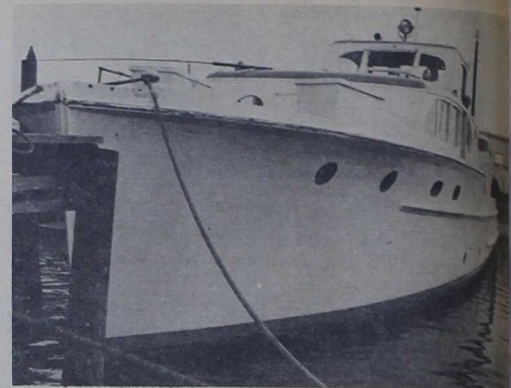

"Ne reconte pas ta vie!"—"forget your past" is a French Foreign Legion proverb, however, it is one that is only partially practiced.

It is true that Legionnaires are encouraged to forget their individual pasts, but organizational pasts are kept alive by thoughtfulfulness and pride.

This was recently experienced when Capt. Pat Carothers, commanding officer, H&S, 2d Bn., 8th Marines, received a bronze medallion from Commandant Guegot, French Foreign Legion, in remembrance of their unified comradeship while Battalion Landing Team 2/8 was in the Mediterranean.

Engaged in joint-exercise with the French Forces on the island of Corsica, Capt. Carothers had occasion to meet with members of the famed French Foreign Legion.

Legionnaires, of the 1st Parachute Regiment, acted as aggressors for the three-day maneuver on Corsica. During the course of events Capt. Car-prevalent among foreign military personnel.

This exchange of mementos has a strong meaning and symbolizes an expression of personal respect and professional comradeship between military units.

After the exercise on Corsica was secured, Commandant Guegot extended an invitation to the members of the 2d Bn., 8th Marines, to view the Legion's facilities and equipment. They were shown all of the Legion's weapons, which were detail stripped. In addition a number of training aids were displayed for inspection by the American visitors.

A short time after BLT returned to the United States, Commandant Guegot presented a bronze medallion to the members of the 2d Battalion Marines, out of regard for mutual respect and professionalism his unit, the 1st Parachute Regiment, has for Marines.

Asked what he thought the outstanding factor responsible for the high degree of esprit de corps among Legionnaires, Captain Carothers replied, "I think it contained in the motto which is inscribed above the portals of the entrance of their compound: 'Legio Patria Nostra'—'Legion is our Country.'"

According to Commandant Guegot, the Legion and Marine Corps are the only thoroughly professional military organizations in the world today. Hence, the basis of common bond steeped in respect, personally and professionally.
