Wastewater Lift Station Capacity Examinations

There are 12 lift stations that serve the Mountain Home wastewater system. These lift stations are operated and maintained by the City of Mountain Home. Each station collects wastewater from various areas inside the City, as noted in the Section Individual Lift Station Evaluations below. Note the following on the lift station available data:

- There are no flow meters on the lift station discharge lines.
- Each pump has an hour meter to determine daily run time.
- There are 2 pumps in every lift station that alternate operating when wet well levels require a pump to operate.
- It is possible for both pumps in each station to operate at the same time, however, based on conversations with the wastewater staff, it is a rare occurrence. When this occurs, it is a result of high flows during wet weather or a pump float control device failure.
- The lift station designs were accomplished by other engineering firms.
- The lift station data for this report is from October 2018 through January 2019.

Estimated total daily gallons pumped is based on the daily hour run times multiplied by the pump performance curves as shown for each lift station pump. Since there are no flow meters on the lift stations, the actual pump performance versus the design pump performance, as indicated on the pump performance curves of the pumps, are not verified.

For informational purposes, daily rainfall records are included in APPENDIX A – RAINFALL RECORDS, that were examined for any infrequent rainfall amounts that might have occurred that would possibly create higher pumping rates.

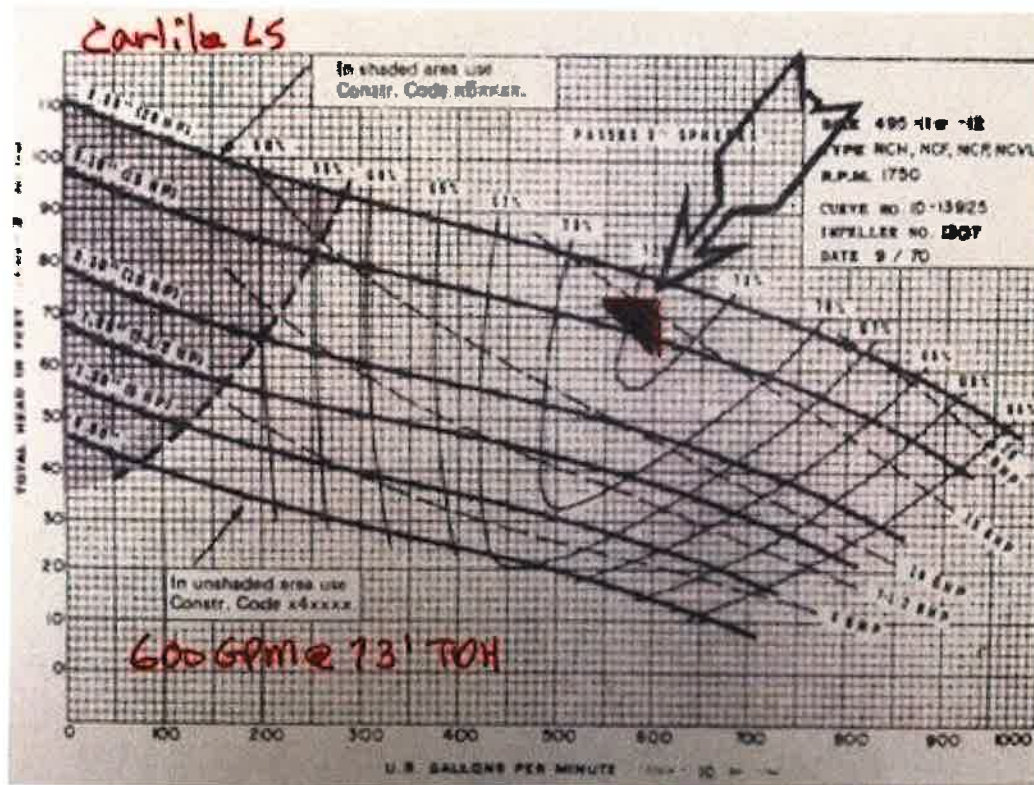

Based on this information, the resulting conclusions on the lift station sizing and operations are as follows:

- All the lift stations, except for Indian Creek, have low operating hours. They are considered adequately sized and operating properly.
- The pumps in the Indian Creek Lift Station are rated at only 100 gallons per minute (gpm). Indian Creek just recently began receiving flow from the Village Green subdivision, which previously had been served by its own lift station that was removed from service and its flow diverted by gravity to the Indian Creek subdivision. This additional flow has increased the pump run times at the Indian Creek lift station. There were several instances in which the Indian Creek lift station had evidence of 2 pumps operating at one time. The highest combined daily pump time was 30 hours. While there have been no overflows at the lift station since 2016, it is recommended that the pump run times be reduced by examining the possibility of installing larger capacity pumps to replace the existing 100 gpm pumps. The City is also planning to re-smoke test Indian Creek and Village Green subdivisions as well as do some flow testing at certain manholes to determine where the higher flows are originating.
