Wednesday of last week, at Smith & Gus ether. It seems to our friend that if it were not for the patrons, greenbackers and such food the demo-belt broke and before the fireman could shut off the steam the engine was made a perfect week. Parts of the large balance wheel were found eight rods from the mill. Damage $500 or more. A good supply of water enables grinding to be done as usual. Fortunately no one injured.

Splendid Christmas trees were displayed both at the Baptist and Methodist churches, loaded with useful and some costly presents. The Baptist minister acted as Santa Claus. To see him ride down hill on his hand sled greetly amused the children.

Prof. Cook, of the Agricultural College, lectured on Desert and Desert Life When he that e'er advances
Must leave the shelter of his joys,
His hopes and youthful funcies.
That shelter is the homestead roof
Where dearest word is mother,
And next to that is father's name,
Then sister's name or brother's.
The house-hold pets to youthful hearts
Are always much the dearer.
The friends we make in youthful days,
In added years grow nearer,
But the world will call—
She needs the work—
Her call is most alluring,
And jewels that the homestead deck
She always is securing.
And so she calleth from this home,
These gems of richest lustre.
And ne we to her keeping give as. Coming to the question of the hour in which the interest centered, President Wood read the resolutions Resolved, That it is the sense of this club that the interests of the agricultural classes demand that the coinage of silver should be free and unlimited. The president explained what he understood by the term "free coinage," The question with him was, how is the money going to be got into circulation. In 1837 and 1857 times were equally hard for the farmer, then as now many of his products were placed upon the market at less than cost of production. He could not see the relief needed to be coming through the channel outlined by the resolution.
