SWEENEY BEECH BEING RETURNED FOR TRIAL

IMPLICATED IN ROBBERY BY CONFESSION OF HILLIARD.

Further Details of Court House Robbery Bared by Youth Awaiting Arraignment in Court.

Sheriff Hugh W. Silsby and Deputy Milburn Miller are expected to arrive in Mason on Thursday night or Friday with Sweeney Beech of Denver. Colorado, implicated by Kenneth Hilliard in the theft of $1200 in auto license fees from the office of County Clerk C. Ross Hilliard on January 27, 1931. Beech did not fight extradi tion proceedings and left Denver in the custody of the Ingham county officers Tuesday morning.

The two officers left Mason for Denver last Friday. Failing to see the youth who confessed two weeks ago to a BOY SCOUT EXECUTIVE part in the robbery, the brother of Sweeney Beech called upon the county clerk and pleaded with him to drop the charges.

The county clerk declared that he had nothing to do with granting clemency and that his only concern was that the entire matter of the robbery be cleared up as soon as possible. Mr Hilliard said, "This court house robbery has remained a mystery long enough. I want to see justice done and I am not concerned over who becomes entangled in the meshes. The law must take its course. I will not ask for clemency for anyone connected Says Brother Sick

Sweeney Beech is a sick man, ailing with tuberculosis, the brother of the man wanted here claims. The brother said that when Sweeney Beech was released from Ionia reformatory after a sentence for breaking and entering, he was forced to go to Colorado for his health. Mr. and Mrs. Beech have no children as was reported earlier.

Should Beech carry out his determination to fight the charges it is probable that his case will not come up and others interested in the scout for trial until the September term of the circuit court. The May term jurors were dismissed two weeks ago. Adds to Confession

Vacation Days

School days for Mason boys and VISIT FRESH AIR CAMP girls are over until September. Grade children came romping home for their long vacation Tuesday. High school students found it necessary to continue another day.

The Child Study club plans to begin its supervised play program in the city park within a few weeks, Facilities for play have also been added to the county park. At the county park the south pool has been drained and cleaned. A water slide has been installed for the amusement of the children.

The Mason Golf club also notices an ncrease in play during vacation periods. High school boys especially put n long hours at the course. Many of the younger boys try their hand at caddying but this season the caddy business is not so good. Some adults who have found it necessary for a 10year-old boy to carry their tools around the course in previous years now seem to have gained strength enough to tote their own.

Probate Judge, Prosecuting Attorney And County Clerk To Hold Meeting Friday.

Three Ingham county officials will meet Saturday to name a successor to Albert N. Bateman as county surveyor. SUPREME COURT DECREE DISMISSES CULVER SUI

HIGHEST COURT UPHOLDS DE-CISION OF JUDGE CARR.

Sidney H. Culver Loses Long Court Fight Brought Against Member Of Mason School Board

In a decision handed down by the Michigan supreme court Monday afternoon the decree of Judge Leland W. Carr of the Ingham circuit court in dismissing the suit of Sidney H. Culver against V. J. Brown and Nelson D. Brown, was sustained. The opinion of the supreme court was written by Justice Howard Wiest and concurred in by the other seven justices of the supreme court. Sidney H. Culver brought suit a year ago against V. J. Brown and Nelson Brown, publishers of the Ingham County News, for the return of approximately $1900 paid the publishers by the school board for printing and supplies since 1924, during the time V. J. Brown has been a member of the Mason school board.

The supreme court holds that the case presents no question of fraud or collusion or concert of purpose beion program goes upon a volunteer tween the school board and the cobasis July 1, Mrs. Ketchum of Mason partnership of V. Francis Bateman, who has basis July 1, Mrs. Ketchum of Mason been assisting his father in the work, has not applied for the position as yet. sisted by members of the executive been such a question of fraud or collusion the supreme court holds that Brown to evade the law. Had there lusion the supreme court holds that an entirely different question would have been presented.

Supplies Needed

In the opinion of the supreme court, the governing rule, here applicable and barring recovery, is founded upon the fact that the school district has received services and supplies wholly legitimate for school purposes and the money paid therefor has neither been misappropriated or expended for unlawful purposes. The vice here disclosed was not in the expenditure but in the fact that defendant Vernon J. Brown, as an officer of the school district, was interested in furnising needed and lawful printing and supplies." Another paragraph of the supreme court decision states, "Public funds. misappropriated or paid without value or for services not within the law, may be recovered, but there cannot be recovery for services or supplies reyear is that of H. B. Longyear, trea- quired or authorized by law and furnished, paid for and retained by the school district.'

The supreme court holds that the right of recovery is restricted to mentioned instances of misappropriations or unlawful expenditures and that no such misappropriations or unlawful here have not been numerous in the expenditures were charged against V. J. Brown

Respect For Law

We hear much these days about lack of respect for laws. All of us are somewhat at fault in showing laxity to the multitudinous statutes enacted by congress, legislatures and city councils. The common citizen should not be blamed for the disrespect and evasions of laws. Many elected officials set bad examples.

For instance, a news release from the office of the secretary of state carries the information that "the governor and secretary of state are endeavoring to find some legal way in which automobile plates can be sold at half price after July 1".

The law fixes September 1 as the earliest day when license plates can be sold at the reduced price. The governor and the secretary of state are elected as executive and administrative officers to carry out the laws of duly elected representatives. The governor and the secretary of state are not elected to make or circumvent laws. Those functions are not within their province.

The governor and the secretary of state claim that the sale of license plates at half-price after July 1 would allow owners of approximately 100,000 cars to secure licenses. What of it? That isn't what the law says. By following the same line of reasoning the sale of license plates at fifty cents a set might add 150,000 more you." car owners. The remission of the gasoline tax might add even more car owners.

If a man can not afford to drive a car because of the fee for license plates then he can ill afford to drive one even were there no charge made for plates.

The cutting of the charge for license plates is hardly fair to those who have paid the full price.

The two state officials say an emergency exists. That is true. An emergency also exists in law observance. There has been too much evasion and side-stepping of the statutes. If laws are wrong they should be changed by the legislative bodies duly elected by the people for that purpose. Until such laws are repealed they should be honestly enforced.

Graduation

Thousands upon thousands of high school and college young men and young women will receive their diplomas during the next few days. To many the receipt of the diploma will prove that they have received their education. The truth is that their education has just nicely What they have learned in school has merely fitted them so that they will be better able to learn the lessons of life itself.

A high school or college diploma is a key to unlock the secrets of life. It is a transfer to a school of continuing education.

Except for the very few who intend to follow the teaching profession or are to enter specialized fields their knowledge of Latin, geometry, algebra and other subjects will have little practical advantage. What does count is the confidence brought about by the mastery of these subjects. The ability to think clearly, the training of the mind to follow through, the cultivation of a habit of learning-these are the important things.

True, two and two should always make four. But in real life the multiplication or addition of these two figures often equals something else. There are so many other considerations to creep in and spoil our well laid plans. Never has there been a time in the history of state and nation when sound thinking is in greater demand. Never has there been a time when the lack of sound thinking has been more evident.

If these thousands of graduates can contribute to our small fund of sound ideas the stupendous sums spent in education will prove well invested.

Voice of the People

"The voice of the people is the voice of God," is an old Latin proverb. It has been used to blanket a number of unwise acts. Perhaps the proverb is basically sound but in practical use the voice of the people is often misinterpreted. The principal reason why the voice of the people can not be depended upon is that only so small a percentage gives any expression to their True, and also sad, is the fact that minority groups talk loud and long. Politicians seeking office listen to these minorities. The greatest good for the greatest number is so often overlooked in the rush of politicians to please a selfish group of vocalists.

Right now congress is hearing from a minority on the bonus measure. Minorities are active in old-age pensions, in federal welfare relief, in countless other plans to force legislative action. Perhaps the minorities are right. But if the politicians actually want to obey the voice of the people either all the people must give voice to their convictions or else congressmen should make some effort to find out the opinions of those not represented by the minorities.

The voice of the people may be the voice of God.; We don't know. However, another old proverb seems just as logical. This other adage is, "The wheel that squeaks the loudest gets the grease". It seems to us that the second proverb usually prevails even over the voice of the people.

Nearly Right

A reporter of the NEWS took considerable "kidding" at the road commission offices this week. Last week he reported that crushed stone from the Simone pit was being used in the blacktop work on Barnes street. The stone is not from the Simone pit; it is from the Genco pit. The stone is not being used on Barnes street; it is being used on Rogers street. All bolled down, it appears that the only correct part of the article was that crushed stone was being used.

This instance bears resemblance to that newspaper classic of John Jones who after leaving his home town made $50,000. It developed that John actually did leave town but instead of making $50,000 he lost $50,000 so the newspaper was half right anyway.

Here it is June and the month of brides. With the employment situation as it is there seems to be reason to recall that old saying that the first sigh of love is the last sigh of wisdom.

Showers Are Again "Worth a Million Dollars"

History does repeat. Years ago, in the period preceding the World War, the crop prospects and the volume of precipitation formed the guage of prosperity about Hartford. A timely and copious shower was often declared to be "worth a million dollars." Hartford people ark township farmer, was struck by depended upon what they did and what they produced a bolt of lightning and killed in to make it a "good" year or a "bad" one.

Crop prospects are again being taken into the reckoning. Financial pages have been depressing of late. Riches are no longer written across the stock market tables. Rural residents are looking to the fields and orchards -not to the hum of urban industry-to provide their own profit and comfort. The farmers are busy. There are more freshly turned furrows, more crops in prospect, than in several years. Mayhap the country is slowly getting back to normal-the normalcy that preceded the World War and its subsequent industrial gout .-The Hartford Day Spring.

Worth the Price

Nothing is more interesting than coming in contact with a person who has real personality-a personality that is interesting, helpful and cultured. The way to become interesting is to be interested in something worth while. In these days there is so much that ought to command the interest of young people. Giving a little time each day to careful reading of good books, good magazines and to contacts with people of intelligence and culture will give any young person in a few years, such knowledge of worthwhile things and events as will make him or her an interesting personality. A little time each day, devoted to thinking about real things and how to discuss them with others, is an investment that will yield big dividends in culture and character. YANKEE TWIRLER

St. Patrick, Historian

Tara was a provincial capital during the pre-historic period of the Five-Fifths of Ireland, which ended about the beginning of the Christian era. Tara was occupied by Cormac between 275 and 300. In 780, an ecclesiastical synod was held "In the town." It gradually fell into disuse as a capital and fortress. Written Irish history, according to an authority on the subject, begins with the authentic writ ings of St. Patrick, who went to Ireland about 432. The historical age, however, is lengthened a few centuries by a mass of consistent tradition.

Savings Program Ends Worry

with a little initiative it is possible for practically all people to free themselves from the fear of want.

A savings program is the lifesaver. It is such a small thing but it has almost unlimited power. Instead of living in fear of not having enough money to get along on, the person with a savings program can do the things that make living worthwhile, and still have a comfortable reserve laid away for a rainy day. Begin today to build up a savings through a regular program. You will be surprised to see the total mount.

Free Music Lessons Offered For Summer

JOSEPH WYMAN OFFERS SER-VICES TO YOUNG PEOPLE.

Joseph Wyman, local instrumental instructor in the Mason school, has again offered his time and instruction to those students who desire to learn to play any wind or string instrument. Any child who will attend Mason high school next year can obtain free instructions on Monday and Tuesday of each week by communicating with Mr. Wyman by next Tuesday and stating their intention to take advantage of this fine opportunity.

Mr. Wyman offered this service last year and has decided to give the same opportunity to the pupils this year. He will be in Mason at the school on Mondays and Tuesdays for these lessons and also for band rehearsals and concerts during the entire summer. His work with the members of the band and the progress his pupils have structor, it is said.

School Band Given Award Certificate

RATING OF VERY GOOD MERITS AWARD FROM STATE.

Joseph Wyman, director and instructor of the local high school band, Degree From Olivet has received an engraved certificate from the state department of public instruction as an award to the band and a certificate of honor because of its rating of very good at the district contest in Ypsilanti this spring.

The local band competed in the annual state meeting of high school bands in Ypsilanti and made a very fine showing and was listed by Ada Bicking, state director of music in the department of public instruction, as very good, which was the highest rating given any band at that event.

pages of American history, but none were more prophetic in the making than the National Old Trails Road, long since the fulfillment of Washington's dream for a great route toward the West. It is now U. S. 40, and on either side as it crosses the mountains in Southwestern Pennsylvania lie scenes of Washington's first battle, and his only surrender. From the rock above he fired the first shot in the French and Indian War, and stones at the right mark the grave of Jumonville, the fallen French leader.

16 By James W. Brooks

URNING back to his hurriedly built Fort Necessity in Great Meadows, the youthful leader was forced to admit defeat after a sharp engagement with superior numbers. The surrender papers, drawn in faulty French and containing an error which was to cause embarrassment ater, were signed by candle light in a drizzling rain, where the group of trees stand on the roadway in the center foreground. Washington and his little band marched out of Fort Necessity at daybreak on July 4, 1774. Some years later, despite the crowding of greater responsibilities, he bought the place of his defeat and held it until his death.

His effort is to belittle the Vern Brown articles, ending in a grand, glorious and sum of money. peculiar contention that they are being circulated by persons whom he knows are opposed to Gov. Brucker and who would like to find a way to restore his kingdom and crown to the exiled Alex III. Kingdom, crown and Alex III should be quoted as terms used by Mr. Johnson.

It is unfortunate that Mr. Johnson has become so unduly excited. Believe it or not, there are any number of editors who presented the Brown articles to the public who have every consideration for Gov. Brucker. Then, too, hearty endorsement of the views as expressed by Mr. Brown has been made by any number of people who are loval friends of the governor. In other words, Mr. Johnson will find it extremely difficult to carry any weight when at attempts to mix politics with the Brown articles. We personally resent the accusation of being influenced by Groesbeck sympathies in presenting the Brown articles to our readers. According to the publishers of the The grandstand was erected 10 Ingham County News, the suit was an outgrowth of the animosity of Mr. Culver toward them because of their refusal to cover up the fact of the conviction of the former Mason doctor upon an abortion charge.

Alligned with Mr. Culver in his suit against the publishers was E. A Densmore, former Mason postmaster. Mr. Densmore, asserting that he was acting merely as the attorney of Mr. Culver, visited justices of the peace, the prosecuting attorney, the superintendent of public instruction and the state attorney general's office to seek criminal warrants for V. J. Brown. After investigating the charges war-rants were refused and civil action was begun.

At the time the warrants were ask ed the prosecuting attorney pointed Sweeney Beech Being out to Mr. Culver and Mr. Densmore that if action was begun against Mr Brown that similar action should be instituted against two other school board members and several members f the city council.
