FORMER CONGRESSMAN ADDRESSES KIWANIANS

JOHN C. KETCHAM OF HASTINGS SPEAKS ON TAXATION.

Recommends State Income Tax And Urges Change In State Sales Tax.

John C. Ketcham of Hastings, for 10 years representative in congress from the fourth Michigan district and prior to that Master of the Michigan Grange, told members of the Mason Kiwanis club Monday night of developments in the fight to shift tax burdens. The subject of Mr. Ketcham, who is recognized as an authority on state and national taxation, was "Looking Ahead in Taxation."

The former congressman declared that by the end of the year the United States will be burdened with the greatest federal budget in its history and that the most popular game will be "Tax, Tax, Who's Got the Tax." He declared the winners will be those who succeed in having their tax burdens shifted to the shoulders of others.

Mr. Ketcham urged thorough investigations of all the unique tax proposis the time to give serious thought to company of Ingham county at the antax questions. Now is the time to mual meeting held Monday. He was seek hidden interests and to discover first elected to the office in 1932. The who are behind the scenes." Cites Liquor Tax

The tax shift in Delaware and New York by the return of beer was cited by Mr. Ketcham. He pointed out how the DuPonts and other wealthy Delaware industrial magnates profited by the beer tax. He said that the state of Delaware now pays nine times the federal tax under beer taxes that were paid under the income tax laws and that the DuPonts and others of great wealth have thereby shifted a part of their tax load to the shoulders of the common people.

If the proposed manufacturer's sales tax is adopted Delaware will pay eight times what the state now pays in income taxes, Mr. Ketcham said, the common people.

Sees Wayne Victory Wayne county profited at the expense of other Michigan counties when the state sales tax was adopted, Mr. Ketcham asserted. He said Wayne county paid 49.3 per cent of that Ingham paid 2.5 per cent of the state tax prior to 1934 but now under the shifting of tax burdens caused by the sales tax that Ingham will now pay 3 per cent of the state levy. State Taxes Higher

Mr. Ketcham derided the claim that state taxes have been reduced the past year. He quoted figures showing the increase in the state tax levy by the adoption of the sales tax.

"Ingham county's state tax levy in 1933 was $593,161. In 1934 the county will pay $959,310 in sales tax and $101,745 for the university and Michigan State college assessed against real and personal property. The to-tal state tax to be paid by Ingham county in 1934 will approximate $1,-061.055 against $593,161 last year.

"In fairness, $288,840 for welfare should be deducted to make a comparison. However, even with the deduction the increase in taxation is startling and especially so in view of claims that there has been a reduction (Continued on Page 6, Col. 4)

Unemployed Protest To Council Over Alleged Favoritism Shown On OWA Projects.

Criticism of the slipshod manner in which purchases for the city have allegedly been made in the past was voiced at the session of the Mason council Monday night. Ald. Charles A. EDEN ARSON TRIAL ENDS IN JURY DISAGREEMENT

MELVIN KELL TO BE RETRIED AT ANOTHER TERM.

Criminal Calendar Being Cleaned Up By Quick Trials, See Two More Weeks Of Court.

Melvin Kell, Vevay farmer, charged by William Niswonger with setting his house afire on the morning of October 22, will face another trial. The circuit court jury which heard the case before Judge Leland W. Carr in circuit court Tuesday failed to agree upon a verdict. The jury took the case about four-thirty Tuesday afternoon, deliberated for an hour and then was dismissed for the night. Jurors went into deliberation again Wednesday morning but the deadlock remained. Just before noon the jury returned to the court room and C. C. Hall of Leslie, the foreman, told the judge that no agreement could be reached. Judge Carr dismissed the jury and told Kell that he would be tried again at another term of court. His bonds were continued.

The case was hard-fought. The prosecution was handled by Dan D. Niswonger home according to an agreement that Mr. Niswonger alleged to have existed whereunder Kell would receive a cow for setting the fire. Kell was defended by George McArthur of Hood & McArthur of Mason, L. B. McArthur of Mason and William Via of Kentucky who came to Mason to represent Kell, a former Kentuckian.

Niswonger, who is awaiting sentence after pleading guilty to arson, testified that Kell offered to burn his home and that he gave him the cow the day before the fire. Kell testified that he purchased the cow for $30 with the understanding that he was to John Thomas Taylor, head of the pay $5 per month for the animal. Niswonger declared that he came to Mason to attend a party the night before the fire and that on the following mor-

Contributors to America

The Detroit Free Press in its Sunday issue gave frontpage publicity to Louis J. Colombo, the lawyer retained by Henry Ford, and Ferdinand Pecora, the investigator employed by the senate banking committee. The Detroit paper commented on the fact that both men are of Italian parentage and that both trod like paths to reach their present standings in the legal profession.

Mr. Colombo, who, by the way appeared in circuit court here some years ago, and Mr. Pecora are among a race that has contributed much to the world and it is not surprising that Americans of Italian descent are now beginning to come to the front in America. The race that has produced Caesars, Christopher Columbus, Mussolini, Marconi, DaVinci, Balbo and thousands of other men who have been world figures since the dawn of civilization should be expected to take its rightful place in America.

Italians are a virile race. They ruled the world for centuries. Roman galleys crossed the seas to what is now Great Britain when the isles were populated by barbarians. Romans penetrated and conquered Egypt, Greece, and what is now known as Spain, Austria and Germany. Even parts of Asia were ruled by Rome. The Roman star set but the glory that was Rome is still reflected in those sturdy, thrifty and hard-working descendants now known as Italians.

Real Italians have been unfairly charged with the acts of Sicilian gangsters of large American cities. Those gangsters are no more Italians than are fifth-generation

New York, Chicago and Detroit gangsters Americans. There is hardly a small town in Michigan that does not have in its midst several families of Italian descent and in most instances these families are a credit to the com-. munity. That is the case in Mason. We count our residents of Italian descent among our best citizens. Italians have contributed much to the world. We have the right to expect that they will increasingly contribute to America.

Responsibility of Parents

There is now a great hue and cry in the southwestern counties of Michigan regarding conditions surrounding lake resorts and dance halls. A grand jury is investigating charges brought by five school girls. Moralists are blaming flaming youth, dance halls, automobiles, good roads, the failure of the church, moonshine liquor and about every other thing except the real reason-the failure of parents. Youth, dance halls, automobiles, good roads and liquor are contributing factors, it's true but the real cause of the conditions is the neglect of parents.

Those few counties in the southwestern part of Michigan are no different than other counties in the state except that they are nearer to populous centers and possess hundreds of lake resorts. The girls and boys are no different there than they are in Ingham county or any other county of the state. They will go as far as their parents will allow them to go.

Parents have not been assertive enough in the face of the competition that movies and radio programs offer home influences. Most of us tolerate radio programs and movies that are suggestive, vicious and sinister. We would forbid our girls or boys to associate with boys and girls or men and women who talk and act like characters of radio programs or characters of movieland. But we allow these same boys and girls to come under the influence of gangsters, harlots and moral perverts of the air and screen.

The boys and girls are not to blame. Boys and girls of 20 years ago would have used no more judgment or discretion than do some present-day juveniles had their parents furnished them with high-powered cars and no admonitions as to behavior. Youth would have flamed 20 years ago had parents allowed juvenile minds to become polluted with the filth of the radio and the screen.

There are many good movies and many good radio programs just as there are many good books and many vicious ones. Most of us concern ourselves over what our children read. But we are too shiftless to stand up and fight for radio and screen decency. We have tolcrated radio and screen garbage because we have been told that it is smart to be sophisticated. But is isn't smart when that sophistication crops out in our own

A man's home is his castle. It should be a place where decency and manners prevail. It has always been the keystone of character. It still will possess those attributes if parents do their duty.

The grand jury will return some indictments against carcless parents if the evidence is properly studied.

Still a Republic

Three Michigan congressmen, Rep. John C. Lehr of Monroe, Rep. Carl M. Weideman of Detroit, and Rep. Michael J. Hart of Saginaw, should be commended for their stand that they are freeborn American citizens, elected to the national house of representatives and are not under the necessity of taking orders from men chosen to distribute political spoils. Horatio J. Abbott, national committeeman from Michigan, and W. Alfred Debo, chairman of the state democratic committee, demanded of Michigan democratic congressmen that they "unqualifiedly and without reservation support the policies and measures of President Roosevelt."

The founders of the nation divided government into three distinct classifications: legislative, administrative and judicial. Representatives and senators were to pass the laws. The president was to administer the laws as passed. The judiciary was charged with deciding the constitutionality of the laws passed and the safeguarding of the rights of the people. If the public is to elect men to congress who are willing to serve as rubber stamps then we are paying far too much money for representation. We might just as well send a few office boys. Neither Horatio J. Abbott nor W. Alfred Debo were elected to represent Michigan the findings of Dr. David Segal that the intellectual age at Washington. Rep. Lehr, Rep. Weideman and Rep. Hart were so elected and they appear to know it. They refuse to take orders from some one back home. Their replies to Mr. Abbott indicate their belief that they are in Washington to study the legislation proposed and to vote according to their best judgment. Their stand is commended by those who are not yet sold on the theory that America, the nation founded on freedom, equality

It's a lot of merit, but in the meantime these money. If divided among the voting population of the young men who are mostly of that United States it would mean $137 each.

That 10 billion dollars if issued in $50-dollar bills would allow one bill to the inch and would stretch from New York to Los Angeles. If issued in $10-bills and spread lengthwise a chain 94,130 miles in length could be formed. Such a chain could be used to girdle the world nearly four times at the equator.

Ten billion dollars is a lot of money. Our grandchildren will realize it when they are called upon to repay the

The crow is the wariest of birds. Flocks of crows have sentinels posted to warn of danger. It is difficult to shoot crows unless baits or lures are used. The bounty system on crows never made any great inroads on the huge flocks that swarm the woods of Michigan.

Sportsmen can double the population of game birds and song birds by waging war on crows. A thousand crows killed this winter will mean at least 10,000 more game birds and thousands more of song birds in the county this coming season. The raucous crow is one of trying to smooth over the conditions the greatest natural enemies of wild life. Sportsmen should band together and decimate the flocks that night and morning darken the skies about Mason.

Theory and Practice

If society is to be saved from itself some form of control of those who are mentally and physically unfit to be parents must be devised. All of us seem to agree on that score. Rightly used, sterilization would seem to be effective. As a theory, sterilization under safeguards of organized society is sound. But in practice-there's the ministration. Such men are the vicrub. Witness the hue and cry going up in Detroit the tims of blind partisanship. It is a past few days over sterilization of those committed to a healthy fact that people generally are not "that way." Mr. Ketcham's warning is timely. We should investigate every new tax theory to see just what interests are behind it. Someone usually has an axe to grind and the axe is usually applied to the neck of the bystander. Know what taxes you are paying. Keep your eye on the ball and don't lose sight of it in a political Minnesota shift.

The state police captured the Burr Oak bank robbers because the police were a step ahead of the robbers. They knew of a probable hideout and were there to nab the robbers. In other recent bank holdups the state police were a step behind and that shep made all the difference between capture and escape.

Added Safety

The first thing every depositor wants to knowis that his money in the bank is safe at all times and under all conditions.

The Banking Act of 1933 created the Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation to provide safety for bank depositors.

This law is operative under a temporary plan starting January 1, 1934, and under a permanent plan dating from July 1, 1934.

The temporary plan insures deposits fully to the amount of $2500.00 for each depositor and this is estimated to cover the total deposits of 96% of all depositors.

We are members of the Federal Deposit Insurance Fund and as a depositor or prospective depositor, you have a foundation for confidence and future security such as you have never enjoyed in the past.
